FOURNET LANDED $4,000 CONTR'CT

BID WAS LOWEST FOR FURNISHING STEPHENS HALL AT THE STATE SCHOOL

BID AGAINST OTHER LOCAL DEALERS AND BIG TWIN CITY FIRMS

From Saturday's Daily—

The bid of the Fournet Furniture Co., was the lowest for furnishing Stephens Hall at the state school of agriculture, and the big contract, amounting to over $4000 was awarded to that concern.

This is specially gratifying to Manager Arthur Fournet as the company had to bid against not only local dealers, but against St. Paul, Minneapolis, and other big outside houses as well.

This is the biggest contract ever landed by a furniture house outside of the Twin Cities or Duluth, and was in direct competition with them, which shows that the Fournet Furniture Co., can buy as cheap as any of them—and can figure just a little bit closer.

Manager Arthur Fournet left last evening for St. Paul and Minneapolis with Wm. Robertson of the state school who will make personal selections of certain articles desired.

The elegant new furniture will all be in place for the dedication of Stephens hall Sept. 17.

THE DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE MET

The meeting of the Democratic Co., committee last evening was well attended. Chairman Black outlined the campaign and active work will commence with the election of N. B. Moran secretary. F. E. LePage will be candidate for county commissioner from the first district, and W. W. Brown, the wheat buyer of McIntosh will be a candidate for the legislature. They will file soon together with other candidates to be announced later.

Weak Man Reciept Free

Any man who suffers with nervous debility, loss of natural power, weak back, failing memory or deficient man hood, brought on by excesses, dissipation, unnatural drains or the follies of youth, may cure himself at home with a simple prescription that I will gladly send free, in a plain sealed envelope, to any man who will write for it. MAGNIFICENT EXHIBIT HAS BEEN COMPLETED

Polk County Will Be Represented at the Minnesota State Fair in a Highly Gratifying Manner.

Most Excellent Work Has Been Done by the Committee Consisting of J. M. Stephens, Magnus Lundberg and J. H Stair.

From Saturday's Daily—

Polk County's great exhibit to the Minnesota State Fair which will also be shown by the Crookston land men at the Springfield, Ill., State Fair, has been completed and will be shipped tonight. It will also be exhibited in Crookston at the conclusion of the Minnesota State fair especially for the benefit of the big crowds that will be here for the Stephens Hall dedication ceremonies on Sept. 17, when James J. Hill will speak, with Governor Johnson, three congressmen, President Northrup of the U. of M., and a few score of notable figures in the political and educational circles of the state present.

Magnificent Grains

To attempt to give an adequate descrition of the exhibit would be utterly useless. To appreciate it it would be necessary to see it and study it. It is the most complete exhibit of the resources of Polk County that was ever assembled. The grains, including wheat, oats, rye, barley, macaroni wheat, flax in all their varieties, including black bearded macaroni show the grain in sheaf as well as threshed.

Great Variety of Grasses

The exhibit of tame grasses includes every variety known to the average man, such as clover, timothy, blue grass, red top, millet, etc., in great profusion and a score or more of other grasses that most people never heard of but which thrive in Polk Co.

Wonderful Corn Showing

One of the exhibits that will make the farmers from Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and other central states sit up and take notice is the corn exhibit.

Many farmers contributed liberally to this exhibit, but the finest was secured from Henry O'Neill who has 20 acres of Illinois Dent corn, and he sent in a splendid sample of corn that is ready to be picked for seed, standing over 12 feet high with ears large enough for two men to make a meal from. Scores of other corn exhibits in other varieties are shown, which demonstrates conclusively that Polk County can raise as fine corn as was ever grown anywhere with proper selection of seed and adequate cultivation.

Splendid Vegetables.

Then comes the vegetable exhibits, and everything in that line is represented, the specimens being magnificent and fully covering the entire field. The committee went to a great deal of trouble in getting this exhibit together, and securing enough to take along to renew the exhibit at the fair from day to day. Potatoes in all varieties, beets, rutabagas, carrots, and in fact vegetables too numerous to mention.

Artistic Work

Several of the artistic pieces are worthy of special mention. One is the words "Polk County" in letters nearly two feet high, made by hundreds of thousands of heads of ripe macaroni wheat with their silky beards. This will be placed at the entrance to the Polk county booth in the exhibition hall. It took days and days of labor on the part of many young ladies to complete this piece alone and it is a real work of art. In addition there is an immense anchor about four feet high made of ordinary wheat heads that tells of wonderful riches from Polk county land.

In addition there are crescents, stars, etc., in great abundance which will make it possible to give the entire exhibit a most artistic touch. In addition the grains and grasses are all tied into neat bundles with handsome ribbons, and each exhibit is labelled with the red, white or blue tags containing the variety and the name of the farmer who raised it with his address.

Fruits

The fruit exhibit will be another eye opener which will surprise the people who reside here almost as much as strangers. Apples, plums, and all small fruits are shown in great variety and have a flavor that is unequaled by any but northern grown fruits. Frank Haseltine, Oscar Wick and many farmers who have small orchards contributed to this collection

General Resources

Space and time are too limited to recount the exhibits of other resources and industries of the county. The pressed and common brick made from Polk county clay, pottery from clay from the beds of the Northern Pressed Brick Co. exhibits from the Fosston Woolen Mills, prize butter exhibits products of pop and soft drink plants, stone sidewalk exhibits and scores of others along that line are shown which shows the unlimited fields for industrial activity.

White Seal Showing

The Kiewel Brewing Co., has an exhibit of "White Seal" beer that is simply magnificent. It was evolved and worked out by C. C. Bowen and the display of White Seal goods, artistically arranged, is surrounded by a beautiful border of barley heads and hops, both from Polk County, for "its the malt, it's the hops."

Record Breaking Work

And all this and much more, has been done by the fair exhibit committee consisting of Messrs. J. M. Stephens, Magnus Lundberg and J. H., Stair, chairman, secretary, and treasurer respectively since the 24th day of July when the committee was named, It took several days to get the work organized, and since that time every member of the committee has been working hard all day and part of the night, the arrangement of the exhibit being under the supervision of Messrs. Lundberg, and Stephens, Mr. Stair doing the canvassing for funds and part of the outside work.

The Expense Light

While the cost of the exhibit is not known exactly, it will be inside of $1400 which will include bringing the exhibit back to Crookston and setting it up again, and taking care of it at the state fair, which will be attended to by the three members of the committee who will all go down.

Valuable Assistants

For many days past the committee has had 21 young ladies working on the designs, selecting the grain, and tying the bundles up artistically. Those who assisted are Misses Maude Allard, Lucia Stone, Clara Bangen, Josephine Bangen, Cora Millette, Esther Peterson, Jennie Paulsberg, Lillian Stenshoel, Grace Walton, Mary Benoit, Florence Greenhalgh, Luciana Toutant, Agnes Bakken, Laura Holder, Belle Balfour, Delia Connor, Nellie Winfield, Esther Bloomgren, Dora Viau, Mabel Roy, Reka McLaren and Cordelia Koelmel.

Committee Merits Praise

The work of Messrs. Stephens, Lundberg and Stair merits the highest praise. The work they have done will be the pride of every visitor to the Minnesota state fair from not only Polk County but from the entire northern portion of the state. It is an advertisement that will be far reaching and reach people we want to interest in Polk County. For the work done the committee will have the hearty thanks of the people of the entire county. They have done their work well and should be proud of the showing made.

RETIRED FARMER IS DEAD — This morning after an extended illness of consumption, Frank L. Daniels died at his home in Sampsons addition. The remains are being prepared for burial at Chesterman's Parlors and will be shipped Sunday night to his old home at Ft. Dodge Ia. Deceased leaves a wife and four children to whom general sympathy is extended. Deceased was highly respected by all who knew him. He leaves his family in comfortable circumstances.

CUT HIS FOOT—Raymond Smith don't believe that a boy should handle an ax — all because while splitting wood the other day he split the side of his foot and has been nicknamed "Limpy Ray" as a result.

THRESHING REPAIRS — Wm. Byswinger has the threshers and a break down yesterday necessitatated a hurry up trip to the city yesterday for needed repairs. He said the grain is yielding up to his expectation and that he is well satisfied with the crop

YOUNG BOY LOST IN WOODS NEAR PLUMMER

Harry Colby went for a walk Monday Morning and no Trace of Him Has Been Found by the Searching Parties.

Plummer is greatly wrought up over the mysterious disappearance of Harry Colby a young printer in the employ of Chas. Latta of the Plummer Pioneer, no trace of whom has been seen since Monday morning at 9:30, when after complaining of feeling sick, Mr. Latta advised him to take a walk, and securing a book and taking a revolver along with him he started for the woods.

When he did not appear at the Latta home for dinner, no uneasiness was felt, as it was supposed he had been reading in some sequestered spot and fell asleep. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon when he had not appeared Mr. Latta began to feel worried, and made inquiries about Plummer but no one had seen the missing lad.

That evening searching parties were organized and beat the woods in all directions, but no trace of Colby could be found.

The search was kept up all day yesterday and today, but a telephone message from Mr. Latta this afternoon is to the effect that the search has been fruitless.

There was no reason for his leaving. His relations with Mr. Latta were the most pleasant and he lived at the Latta home where he was highly thought of by Mrs. Latta. He took none of his clothing except what he had on, leaving all his good clothes behind him, and only had a small amount of money.

Colby resided at Fertile till two weeks ago, where he had been employed by Editor George of the Fertile Journal. Not long ago he mashed a finger in the press, and another man had to be secured, so as soon as the finger was well he accepted a position with Mr. Latta. His mother resides at Fertile, but at the present time is at Fertile, Illinois, visiting. He also has a brother at Beltrami.

The young man was not despondent and was not worrying about anything so far as known. A farmer boy thinks he saw Colby Monday morning about a mile from Plummer headed towards Red Lake Falls but Mr. Latta visited Red Lake Falls and telehoned to Thief River Falls, Fertile and every town that could be reached by phone but could get no trace of the young man.

It is generally thought that he became lost in the dense woods. To bear out this theory and show how easy it is to become lost, Mr. Latta, while searching Monday became lost himself and had difficulty in finding his way back to a road.

There is a possibility that he accidentally shot himself but with a revolver this is improbable.

Colby is 5 feet 8 inches tall, dark brown hair and eyes, and large for a boy of 15. He wore a greenish brown checked coat, and a pair of blue stripped and dotted overalls and no vest. His hat was white, and he wore patent leather shoes.

Anyone hearing of his whereabouts will kindly telephone or telegraph Mr. Latta at Plummer and all charges will be paid.

PRESIDENT MISNER NAMES COMMITTEES

President Misner of the Twenty Five Thousand Commercial Club pursuant to the action of the club members at the meeting held last Friday evening today announced the personnel of the various committees which are to act in connection with the dedication of Stephens hall at the State School of Agriculture on the Experimental farm, which will be held on September 17, with additional social features on the day before.

Every effort will be made to make the affair the biggest kind of a success and as soon as the finance committee is ready to report the committees will meet with the executive committee and the final arrangements made for the various features.

The Committees

Editors' Committee, Mr. J. P. Dotson, Mr. N. S. Davies, Mr. Thos. R. Brown Jr.

As soon as the Finance Committee is ready to report the Executive Committee will meet with all of the listed Committees, at which time the amount of cash available for the different committees will probably be adjusted.

At this meeting all Chairmen of the different Committees are requested to furnish an estimate of the necessary expenses that their Committee will be called upon to meet.

A GREAT WORK WILL BE ACCOMPLISHED

HON. P. M. RINGDAL INTERESTED IN COMPLETION OF STEPHENS HALL

In answer to a communication from the Journal regarding the approaching dedication of Stephens Hall, the new dormitory for the School of Agriculture at the State Experimental Farm, Hon. P. M. Ringdal of this city member of the State Board of Control concludes as follows:

> "I can assure you that I am in hearty sympathy with the work about to be taken up at the State Farm at Crookston and look forward to its accomplishing a great deal of good for that section of the state.."

Thus it is everywhere, the influential and thinking men of the state take a deep interest in the future of the Crookston school of agriculture and the interest will be evidenced by a monster crowd here September 17 when Stephens Hall will be dedicated which will include addresses by James J. Hill and others.

FLOATER HAS BEEN IDENTIFIED

NAKED BODY FOUND NEAR MANVEL IDENTIFIED BY FINDING CLOTHES

Thru the discovery of a pile of clothes lying on the bank of the Red river on the Gus Barlow farm a few miles north of Grand Forks, the identity of the floater picked up in the river three miles east of Manvel about a week since has been established. George E. McEllis of Peoria, Ill., a farm hand, is the man who was drowned in the waters of the Red and whose body now lies in potter's field at Grand Forks. The clothes were discovered Sunday morning.

CAN'T GUARD CLIFFGAARD

CITY CHARGE HAS COUNCIL AND COUNTY COMMISSIONERS UP IN THE AIR

PUTS ON DAILY STUNTS OF SITTING ON BABIES AND SWIPING SNUFF AND BANANAS

From Wednesday's Daily—

The city officials of Crookston and the board of commissioners of Polk Co., are up against a proposition that singly or combined they have been unable to solve thus far. What to do with Siver Cliffgaard a victim of St. Vitus dance with kleptomaniac attachments.

Siver was formerly a sawyer for the Crookston Lumber Co., but about 5 years ago he became afflicted with St. Vitus dance and since that time has caused all local officials more worry and trouble than all other criminals and unfortunates combined. The city has been paying his board at a local hotel, but Siver proposes to stay where he wants to. He walks the streets all night, and sleeps on the curbing in the day time, or in the doorway of some business house.

He staggers around like a drunken man, and during the past week has succeeded in falling over a baby carriage, nearly killing the child and frightening the mother into hysterics was ill tempered one morning and hit a stranger across the face, knocking him to the sidewalk curb and cutting his head so that Dr. Kjelland had to take several stitches to close the wound. The stranger wondered what manner of lunatics Crookston allowed running loose on the streets. On top of this Siver yesterday fell down in front of a Great Northern passenger train at the depot and was just snatched away before the train made sausage of him.

And that was rather a quiet and monotonous week for Siver.

He is arrested as a rule about twice a week and thrown in jail. To cool him off Judge McLean sent him to the county jail for 60 days for begging on the streets. As soon as he was out he started begging again and was kept in the city lockup for 20 days more. He was just let out and is worse than ever. Every time he goes into a confectionery store he steals a box of snuff if he can, or fills his pockets with bananas. He doesn't seem to care whether it is snuff or bananas as he says they both taste alike to him.

The authorities have tried to get him into the home for the feeble minded, but the officials of the home claim he is not feeble minded and will not accept him. He is not insane and so cannot be sent to Fergus Falls. He only commits petty crimes and so cannot be sent to the county jail for but short terms.

An effort is now being made to make the provision for a place for Siver an issue in the coming legislative campaign. The candidate who is to get the support of Crookston must promise to get the legislature to provide a place to unload Siver.

In the meantime Siver for diversion tells every policeman he meets to go to h—l, slugs strangers, falls over baby carriages, steals snuff or bananas and causes sleepless nights for city aldermen and county commissioners.

In fact Siver is the biggest municipal problem the city has to wrestle with.

SOD BURNING IN HAMMOND

SIMILAR CONDITION OF AFFAIRS OCCURRED ABOUT TEN YEARS AGO

H. A. Tofsley, a prominent farmer of Hammond township 8 miles south of this city reports a peculiar condition of affairs in that township, portions of ten square miles of sod being ablaze It seems that a prairie fire started last Thursday when a north wind was prevailing, and the fire swept to the big state ditch.

The next day the wind switched to the south and the fire burned back north again a distance of five miles to a county ditch, and on Saturday the wind again turned and the fire burned back to the state ditch again, thus covering a distance two miles east and west and five miles north and south.

But the peculiar part of the situation is that practically this whole territory is still smouldering and will continue to smoulder till a heavy rain fall comes, or till after the ground is covered with snow.

The ground is so dry from the hot weather and lack of rain that the roots of the grass are afire, and as the land is low, and heavy growths of grass have covered it for years, there is a perfect mass of dry roots for the fire to feed on.

Mr. Tofsley states that in the early days the same thing happened, and that the fire burned steadily for several months till a heavy snow came and smothered it, and that great holes were left which can be seen to this day. In the meantime there is smoke enough in that section to keep all damage from frost off till the fire is extinguished.

RAILWAYS EMPLOYES TO ORGANIZE FOR BUSINESS

To oppose adverse legislation which has thrown thousands out of work in past. Meet here Sunday.

On Sunday next a meeting of railway employes of Northern Minnesota will be held in Crookston for the purpose of effecting a railway employes' organization for the advancement of the best interests of all concerned and to specially oppose adverse legislation which during the past year or two in particular they believe has resulted in thousands of them being legislated out of good jobs.

700 Employes Interested

There are about 700 railway employes in this section of the state, and Crookston will be the headquarters of the organization they will effect for their mutual benefit and protection. They believe that anti-railroad legislation has been carried too far, and have secured some figures to substantiate their claims.

In connection with the notification of the meeting to be held here, Conductor S. H. Withey has sent out the following letter of information to all the railroad men employed in this part of the state.

Some Interesting Statistics

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 17, 1908.

Dear Sir:—

While visiting railroad employes' clubs at St. Paul recently, I was furnished with some valuable information in the way of a comparative statement of business handled by the Great Northern railway month of May, 1908, as compared with October, 1907.

I will be glad to have you study these facts and figures carefully, as they were taken from records of the Accounting Department, General Office, St. Paul.

Locomotives Idle

I find that in October, 1907, there was in service on the Great Northern Railway, 974 locomotives, which made for the month an average mileage of 2557 miles. In May, 1908 the number of locomotives had increased to 1076, but the average mileage had decreased to 1724 miles per locomotive for the month.

The number of locomotives necessary to handle the May, 1908, business on the average mileage of October, 1907, would be 725 or as compared with total number of locomotives available, there were idle in May, 1908, 351 locomotives.

Engine Crews Lost $87,128.73

In October 1907, the average wage per engine crew for the month was $248.23. Applying this average rate of earnings to the number of idle locomotives gives $87,128.73 as the amount of wages lost to these employes per month by reason of the decrease in business.

The decrease in number of engines in service makes a corresponding decrease in roundhouse forces, composed mostly of skilled mechanics. In May, 1908, there were 285 roundhouse employes less than in October 1907, whose monthly wages would amount to $18,687.73.

All Employes are Effected

In the company's shops there has been a reduction of 2449 men, who would have earned if working on the October 1907, basis $185,305.60 per month.

The number of trainmen has also correspondingly decreased. Taking the mileage of conductors on the basis of 100 miles per day's work, there were 640 conductors employed in the freight service in October, 1907, and only 372 in May, 1908, or a decrease of 268 conductors. Allowing two brakemen for each conductor, there is a decrease of 536 brakemen or a total of 804 trainmen out of employment. The average rate of wages per train crew per month is $288.00 and for 268 crews the loss would be $77,184.00.

Switching Crews Hit

The smaller number of trains also results in a reduction in the number of switching crews required. In October, 1907, using 10 hours per man per day, there were 602 men employed, earning $63,866.90 while in May, 1908, the number employed had been reduced to 290 men, earnings $31,169.80, making a decrease of 312 men and $32,697.10 in wages.

To Recapitulate:

Out of work		Wages lost
Enginemen	702	$ 87,128.73
Roundhousemen ...	285	18,687.75
Shopmen	2449	77,184.00
Switchmen	312	32,697.10
Total	4552	$401,003.16

The total decrease in the pay rolls in May, 1908, over October 1907, is nearly $375,000.00 more than above, made up largely of employes of station and track departments.

An Enormous Total

At an average monthly rate of $60 this would represent work for about 6250 men, making a total in round numbers of about 10800 men out of employment, and losing monthly $775,000.00 in wages.

You may use this information as you see fit, as it is taken from the pay rolls and is absolutely correct.

SEPTEMBER IS A PLEASANT MONTH

WEATHER RECORDS SHOW FEW CLOUDY DAYS IN FIRST FALL MONTH

The month of September if it lives up to admirable precedents set by Duluth Septembers for the past thirty-seven years should be a pleasant one. The weather bureau has just issued its monthly statement of average weather bureau was established in 1871

During that time there have been, on the average but nine cloudy days in September.

The average temperature has been the comfortable point of 57 degrees. The highest point the mercury ever reached in September was 94 degrees on Sept. 1 1894. On Sept. 29, 1899, the mercury dropped to its lowest point 29 degrees. A "killing" frost is on record for September 15, but that was back in 1874, and the average time for "killing" frosts is not until Oct. 4. The average rainfall for the month is 3.75 inches.

DEDICATED CHURCH LAST SUNDAY

NEW NORWEGIAN CHURCH AT THIEF RIVER FALLS DEDICATED

The church of the Norwegian Lutheran Synod at Thief River Falls was dedicated last Sunday. The dedication sermon was delivered by the Rt. Rev. K. Bjorgo, president of the Minnesota District of the Norwegian Synod. The introductory sermon was preached by Rev. H. Bjornson. The pastors who assisted were Rev. S. T. Palm, of St. Hilaire; Rev. Emil Hansen, of Warren; Rev. Ordal, of Sandridge; Rev. S. H. Aarnes, of Grygla; Rev. Sarbo, of Warren and the local pastor. The services commenced at the usual hour, 10:30. Mrs. Dodsley from Fargo played the organ, Miss Saethr, from Willmar sang, and the choir of the church assisted by singing several prepared songs.

SPECIAL ELECTION SEPTEMBER 29TH

Shall a county agricultural school be established at St. Hilaire? This is the question the voters of Red Lake county will be called upon to decide at a special election called by the board of county commissioners for Tuesday, September 29th, 1908. The people of St. Hilaire are to bear all election expenses.

The establishment of this school has been agitated by St. Hilaire citizens for some time.

HUNTER SHOT BY ACCIDENT

[illegible] HELLERUD IS INSTANTLY [illegible] BY ACCIDENTAL [illegible] OF GUN

WAS OUT HUNTING PRAIRIE CHICKENS—HAD LOADED GUN IN WAGON

From Monday's Daily—

Norman Hellerud was accidentally shot and instantly killed late yesterday afternoon on his father's farm midway between Ada and Halstad in Norman county. He with Wm. Shields, Peter Meiberg and a driver left Ada yesterday morning to hunt in the vicinity of Hellerud's old home and had a very successful day and were about ready to drive home when the dog came to a point, Hellerud reached down and grabbed the barrel of his gun when there was a flash and the top of his head was nearly blown off by the discharge it entering under his chin and coming out at his temple causing instant death. His father Andrew J. Hellerud and brother who were working in the field near by took charge of the remains and had them moved to the house where the boy was born.

Norman Hellerud was 22 years old and son of one of the prominent families of Norman county, his father has recently retired from the farm and is residing at Halstad, but together with an other son happened to be at the farm that day and was talking with Norman only a few moments before the horrible accident happened. The young man has lately been staying in Ada where he is connected with one of the dray lines. He was very popular with all his acquaintances, and his sudden taking off has saddened the entire community. The interment will take place at Halstad, funeral arrangements had not been completed at the time of going to press.

WM. WELCH HAS PASSED BEYOND

A PROMINENT RESIDENT OF THIS CITY EXPIRED LAST NIGHT

After having suffered for the past three months with an acute attack of dropsy William H. Welch breathed his last at nine o'clock last evening at his home 321 Gorgas Avenue.

Mr. Welch was 52 years of age, he was born at Dayton, O., and came to Minnesota with his parents who settled at Greendale, Dakota county, in 1880 Mr. Welch came to Crookston and has resided here ever since. Mr. Welch was united in marriage in 1884 to Miss Mary Hilgrove, who with two sons Martin and William survive him. Mrs. Welch has been an invalid for 17 years and is prostrated by the death of her husband. The boys are at Northwood, N. D., with their teams threshing. They are expected to arrive home tonight.

Mr. Welch has always been a public spirited man, he made no enemies, was kind to his family and a faithful and patient husband to an invalid wife. His occupation for the most part has been contracting and working a lot of horses. In the early days he was town marshal and for a term when R. J. Montague was mayor he acted as chief of police. He bore his last illness with patience and fortitude it has been nearly two months since he could lie down, but he was around town nearly every day driving a buggy.

No definite funeral arrangements have been made but it is expected the interment to take place from St. Marys church Friday morning. Definite announcement will appear in the Journal tomorrow.

DEAD MAN FOUND BESIDE R.R. TRACK

As the Duluth train No. 33 was coming west yesterday it picked up a body of a man found beside the track, about one mile east of Grand Rapids, by the section men. The man had not been run over as he was not mangled in any way but showed some bruises as if he had fallen off the cars. The remains were taken to Grand Rapids and the Itasca county coroner is holding an inquest today.

DEMOCRACY'S IDOL IS CHEERED BY "FAITHFUL"

Hon. Wm. Jennings Bryan Addressed A Big Crowd On Streets of Crookston From Band Stand Last Evening.

From Wednesday's Daily—

Hon. Wm. J. Bryan the Democratic candidate for president of the U. S. stopped off in Crookston last evening for a short time between trains and addressed a crowd of some 3000 people briefly, many of the leading Democrats of all surrounding towns being present. He paid a high compliment to Gov. Johnson and Ex Gov. Lind and made a characteristic Democratic address which aroused a great deal of enthusiasm. He was introduced by State Committeeman Martin O'Brien and spoke from the band stand near the Great Northern depot. The streets were packed with people and the speakers reference to certain Democratic success if the rank and file showed a solid and united front created considerable applause.

The Trusts

Mr. Bryan touched briefly upon but three subjects. The first was relative to what the Republican party had done or failed to do for the farmer. and made special reference to the Harvester Trust, which he said had had its hands in the pockets of every farmer of the country without molestation on the part of the Republican party. He claimed that nothing was done in the trust busting line by Roosevelt with all his strenuosity, what would be expected of Taft who was less aggressive and who argued not in favor of destroying the trusts, but in regulating them.

No Hope From Republicans.

The speaker claimed that the Republicans had been in control of the United States Senate and House of Representatives with a Republican president in the chair for the past 11 years and wanted to know what had been done to benefit or ameliorate the condition of the farmer by the party in power.

Then The Tariff

..He said the Republicans now promised tariff reform, but that there was no assurance whether they would regulate it "up or down". He wanted to know why the Republicans kept promising what they would do when they had been in power eleven years and had done nothing along that line but had controlled all the necessary legislative machinery of regulation.

Guaranteed Bank Deposits

He referred to that quick action of the Republican administration and congress last winter in coming to the aid of the Wall Street bankers when they were in distress, but the failure of the Republicans to give the people guaranteed bank deposits, so that the savings of the laborer would be fully protected. He challenged the Republicans to point out one single trust magnate who had been given a berth behind the bars even when convicted of flagrant violation of the law.

Just Reward of Labor

Mr. Bryan said the policy of the Democratic party was solely and simply to see that the farmer and all other laborers received a just and equitable return for his labor and what he produced, and to protect the people against the encroachments of the trusts by crushing the power of wealth when by evil combinations in restrain of trade the people were oppressed and forced to bend their necks to the yoke of predatory wealth

O'Brien Called "Time"

Committeeman O'Brien who held the watch on the speaker called time and Mr. Bryan was forced to bring his remarks to an abrupt close, and was given a hearty cheer as he was escorted back to the depot and boarded No. 8 for the return trip to St. Paul He arrived on the train from Grand Forks at 10:15 and left at 10:35.

Bryan The Statesman

Those who have heard Mr. Bryan before noticed marked change. It was "Bryan the Statesman" last evening rather than "Bryan the Orator." He spoke dispassionately and in an argumentative vein rather than making a passionate appeal to the emotional side of his hearers. Instead of adopting spell-binding tactics he was rather disposed to sow a few seeds for thought upon which his hearers might ruminate to the advantage of Democracy between now and election time.

Mr. Bryan showed plainly that he had been taxing his voice recently and was slightly hoarse, but could be plainly heard by those attending on the extreme outskirts of the crowd

ARRIVES IN CROOKSTON

"COLONIAL JACK" LONG DISTANCE PEDESTRIAN REACHED HERE. YESTERDAY

From Wednesday's Daily—

"Colonial Jack" who left Portland Me., June 1 to walk around the border of the United States on a $1000 wager sauntered into Crookston yesterday afternoon at four o'clock, exactly 300 miles ahead of his schedule.

His real name is J. A. Krohn and he was born and raised in St. Peter right alongside of Governor John A. Johnson.

Yesterday he walked in from Erskine, having made the trip to that place from Bagley the day before. Krohn will follow the Great Northern West. He will only go to Fisher today and expects to make Michigan City, N. D., for Sunday and thence thru Dakota, Montana and Washington, to Seattle. He has lost but three days since he started, on account of injuries to his feet and in spite of this he is 250 miles ahead of his schedule He has 400 days in which to complete the long journey of 9,000 miles and win the $1,000. The journey began at Portland, Maine, and will end there he hopes, within the time limit set.

Krohn has passed thru 324 cities on his way to Crookston. On the three sides of his triangular "baggage car" are pasted hundreds of souvenirs of the country thru which he has passed Business cards, posters, election cards —thousands of them make up the collection which he has saved. When the cards get to numerous he cleans the slate and begins over again.

SHOOTS SELF WHILE INSANE

L. B. GIBBS IS DEAD AS RESULT OF WOUND INFLICTED WHILE DERANGED

From Wednesday's Daily—

Worry over his extensive business interests caused L. B. Gibbs, president of the Gibbs Grain & Fuel company, to become deranged and yesterday morning, shortly after 6 o'clock he took his life by shooting himself with a revolver. He died instantly.

Mr. Gibbs took his life in the bath room of the T. B. Holmes residence, South Sixth street, where his daughter, Mrs. George Keenan, resides. Shortly before his death he came to the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Keenan and rapped on the door. Mrs. Keenan asked what was wanted but could not make out what he replied. A few minutes later the report of a revolver was heard and Mr. Keenan rushed to Mr. Gibb's room. He was not in his room but in the bathroom. Mr. Keenan found his lifeless body.

The deceased was 56 years old. He was born in Perry, Ohio, and from there moved to Painsville, Ohio. He came to Fargo in 1879 and was engaged in business there until 1894 when he removed to Grand Forks.

He was president of the North Dakota Milling association, which ceased to exist a number of years ago. In 1893 he organized the Gibbs Grain & Fuel company and was chosen president. The company did a large wholesale and retail grain and fuel business.

The deceased was a director of the Y. M. C. A. and took an active part in its affairs. He was fond of outdoor life and spent some time at the Town and Country club in the summer months.

DEAD CAST IN RED RIVER

BODY OF UNKNOWN MAN FOUND ON BANKS OF RED RIVER AT E. G F.

EVIDENCE INDICATES THAT A FOUL MURDER HAS BEEN COMMITTED

From Monday's Daily—

What is believed to be a case of murder was discovered yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock when the body of an unknown man was found floating in the Red river by Captain Hayes of the government boat Ogama.

Evidence that the man had been murdered was found in his face which bore evidences of a severe beating. Some instrument had been used to club out the life of the deceased There was no water on the lungs as is the case when a person is drowned.

One peculiar circumstance is not explained. The man's shoes are missing. Some are inclined to believe that the man was killed by heartless thugs who took his shoes before throwing the body into the river. He wore a rather shabby suit of clothes.

Last night there were scores of people who visited the undertaking rooms at E. G. Forks and viewed the body. but none could say that they had ever seen the man before.

Coroner Chesterman was called over and held an inquest last evening and is awaiting the report this afternoon after which he will order the body buried.

The man was a laborer, five feet six inches in height, is dark wears no moustache and was about 32 years old. He wore a black shirt and over alls.

A woman named Mrs. A. Olsoner of Fargo had inquired of Coroner Chesterman for her husband who was missing and as the dead man found answered the description. Mr. Olsoner was later located working in the harvest fields near Buxton, N. D.

"SHORT" SANDERS HAS NO TROUBLE

ANOTHER SANDERS OF MINNEAPOLIS, FORMERLY OF GRAND FORKS SUED FOR DIVORCE

Dr. Orr Sanders and wife returned Sunday evening from Kirksville, Mo., where they have been taking a special course in osteopathy. In Minneapolis they were guests for two weeks of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Sanders. Mr. Sanders is a brother of the doctor and is a former resident of G. Forks. He is better known in G. Forks and North Dakota as "Short" Sanders.

Dr. Sanders says there is absolutely no truth in the story of divorce proceedings having been instituted by Mrs. G. S. Sanders. The parties named in the suit were former residents of Grand Forks but are not related to "Short" Sanders. "Short" has a fine boy and is very happily married. He engaged in the real estate business and is prospering.

MISFORTUNE OF MAN SEEKING TO EARN MONEY

Helge Dahl a resident of the Grygla country was brought to the West Hotel at Thief River Falls last Thursday in a badly battered condition due to falling from a wagon in which he and another man were enroute to Dakota. FINE SHOWING OF POLK CO.

S. W. WHEELER SAYS EXHIBIT FROM THIS COUNTY IS THE BEST

TO BE SEEN FROM ANY COUNTY, IN STATE AND SHOULD TAKE FIRST PRIZE

C. A. Anderson this morning received a letter from S. W. Wheeler who is attending the state fair in which the writer states that the Polk county exhibit under the management of Messrs J. M. Stephens, Magnus Lundberg and J. H. Stair is magnificent, the finest from any county in the state and should be awarded first prize. He says it is worth ten times what it cost and is viewed with amazement by the people from further south, and that every one who has seen it is attracted and makes most favorable comments.

Mr. Wheeler thinks those in charge deserve the highest praise for the showing they have made and wants to see the exhibit go to the Illinois State fair at Springfield as the people of Illinois never saw such an exhibit and without seeing it would never believe that Polk or any other one county in Minnesota could make any such magnificent showing of wealth.

DEATH OF MISS SARAH ROBERTS

MISS SARAH ROBERTS PASSED AWAY THURSDAY AFTER SEVERAL YEARS' ILLNESS

Brainerd Dispatch: Miss Sarah Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Roberts died Thursday afternoon after noon after an illness of several years of tuberculosis of the lungs. She spent some months at the state sanitorium at Walker without avail and declined steadily until the end came. The funeral was held at the house Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The deceased was 29 years of age and was born in Polk county, Minn. but had resided most of her life either in Brainerd or in the country west of here. She leaves besides her parents three brothers, Oscar Charles and Henry Roberts, all of whom reside in Brainerd.

ADVANTAGE OF GOOD ROADS

GRYGLA AND CREAMERY TAKING ADVANTAGE OF ROAD MADE BY MIDDLE RIVER

This week for the first time, the Grygla creamery hauled its shipment of butter to Middle River. There were 80 tubs of it and four teams brought it in, taking back loads of freight for the Grygla stores The men admitted the road here is better than to Thief River and as it is a trifle nearer too there is no reason why Middle River should not be the market place for Grygla.—Pioneer.

MAGNIFICENT MACARONI WHEAT

Remi Fortier has finished threshing his macaroni wheat and a sample sent in today is as fine as was ever grown on top of ground. He had a large field of it and it averaged 34 bushels per acre. A fine sample of this can be seen at the Journal office. The kernels are large and clear and with such a yield the profit per acre would be large.

HARRY COLBY SHOWS UP AFTER CAUSING SENSAT'N

YOUNG MAN WHO LEFT PLUMMER MYSTERIOUSLY AND FOR WHOM POSSES HUNTED FOR FOUR DAYS FEARING COLBY HAD BEEN LOST OR ACCIDENTALLY SHOT, LOCATED AT FERTILE THINKS IT SMART TRICK

From Friday's Daily—

Thursday afternoon, Harry Colby, who it was thot had perished in the woods near Plummer, or had been accidently wounded or killed, turned up in Fertile as unconcerned as tho nothing had happened, and refusing to take the trouble to make any explanation for his unusual and highly censurable conduct, and evinced no interest in the fact that since last Monday afternoon posse after posse composed of residents of Greenbush and farmers in that vicinity had been searching the woods in all directions for him.

He was shown the Crookston and Twin City and Duluth papers containing accounts of his disappearance and the worry he had caused and looked upon the entire affair as a good joke, of which the searchers were the victims.

He was asked why he left in the manner he did, and his only reply was "I took a notion that I would head for Fertile after I started out on my walk, and as I am my own boss I simply came. The reason I took no more of my clothing is that the weather is sufficiently warm that I did not need more than one suit. I can't see what the Plummer people wanted to make such a fuss over."

Colby was working for Chas. Latta, editor of the Plummer Pioneer and last Monday morning complained of being ill. Mr. Latta suggested that he take a walk into the woods and get some fresh air. Colby thot that a good idea, and taking a novel and a revolver strolled out of the office. Noon came and it was supposed he had fallen asleep. About 4 o'clock however, Mr. Latta became alarmed and started a search. He could find no one who had seen Colby and after supper several posses were organized and the dense woods surrounding Plummer searched in all directions till Midnight.

Tuesday the search was kept up all day and late into the night and on Wednesday farmers and everyone in that section of the country searched in vain and it was decided that Colby had strayed off into the reservation and became completely bewildered or had accidently shot himself, being but 15 years of age and not used to handling fire arms.

Mr. Latta telephoned the villages in all directions, but no trace of Colby could be found and it was believed that after four days he must have perished.

No one thot for a minute that he had deliberately walked off as he had had no trouble of any kind, and went away with the overalls he wore in the ad alley, a coat but no vest, leaving all his good clothes behind in the Latta residence, and took but a little change which he happened to have in his pocket.

It develops, however, that Colby has taken strolling streaks before. A little over a year ago he left suddenly without advising his mother and all Fertile was agog, thinking he had met with foul play. He turned up smiling in Minneapolis about a week later, when he wrote home for funds.

Last winter he also disappeared suddenly, and was located in Grand Forks, and refused to make any explanations.

His game of "now I'm here and now I'm not here" has failed to make a hit at Plummer, and the searchers would gladly contribute funds for a boy tannery and farmers would donate the necessary hickory for several applications on the gable end of Colby's trousers.

SPEC. TRAINS FOR DEDICATION OF STEPHENS HALL

SENATOR STEPHENS HAS SECURED THE DESIRED TRAIN SERVICE FROM ST. VINCENT AND GREENBUSH—TIME SCHEDULE WILL BE ANNOUNCED LATER—SPECIAL WILL ALSO BE SECURED OVER THE NORTHERN PACIFIC

From Friday's Daily—

James J. Hill has promised Crookston all the special trains desired for the dedication of Stephens Hall at the school of agriculture at the State Experimental farm, and there will be at least two trains run to Crookston on the morning of Thursday Sept. 17 one coming from St. Vincent, and one from Greenbush, returning home late the same evening. From all other directions regular trains arrive in the morning and depart in the evening thus taking care of the crowds from the Duluth line, the Halstad line, the St. Paul line and the Grand Forks branch. A special train will also be run on the Northern Pacific from Winnipeg Junction to this city and people from the north and west getting a good service on the regular N. P. flyer.

Preparations for the big event are progressing rapidly. Practically all those to whom invitations were extended from a distance have accepted and the event will mark the largest gathering of prominent educators and politicians ever seen in northwestern Minnesota. Fully 10,000 visitors are expected, and to handle the crowds all the automobiles that can be secured from Grand Forks, Fargo and other smaller towns where auto liveries are operated will be secured for both September 16th and 17th.

On the afternoon of the 17th a monster picnic lunch will be served and it will be a monster "feed."

Supt. Robertson has issued the following invitation to the general public:

"The State School of Agriculture at Crookston was established by the Legislature of 1905, for the people of Northwestern Minnesota. The school has been in operation for two winters and will begin its third year's work on October 13th 1908. The school offers a three year course to both young men and women from the farms.

"The new buildings were provided for the school by the last Legislature. Both will be completed and ready for use at the opening of the fall term in October.

"In order that the people may have a chance to become acquainted with the school and at the same time have a day off, which will be a pleasant and profitable one, it is planned to dedicate Stephens hall on the 17th day of September.

"On that day you will have a chance to hear James J. Hill and Congressman C. R. Davis, to inspect the Farm and School and to meet many of the most prominent citizens of the state. Don't miss a good thing when it will cost you so little and you can get so much out of it. Bring your basket lunch and do not leave the family behind. You can come in on the morning train and go home in the evening.

"Special trains will be run on the Greenbush and St. Vincent lines on the day of the dedication, Sept. 17th. Don't forget the date and especially bring along the boy or girl you wish to send to school this fall.

"Sincerely

"—Wm. Robertson, Supt."

CLAY CO. FARMER PROVES THERE IS MONEY IN SHEEP

Frank Clemans who owns and operates the old John Marth farm in the town of Humboldt, Clay County, shipped a load of wool from Barnesville recently that weighed nearly half a ton. Altho he now has upward of 300 head of sheep, including lambs, this cut represented the result of shearing only 140 head. Mr. Clemens is a firm believer in the advantages of this section for sheep raising and is proving it to his satisfaction at least, that there is money in the industry. He started in seven years ago with six head of sheep, and his first season's cut of wool was only 20 pounds. In these few years his flock has incr ed to nearly 300 and the cut of wool as stated above.

SUCCUMBED TO CANCER

WELL KNOWN AND PIONEER G. N. CONDUCTOR DIED AT GRAND FORKS

M. H. LONG, WELL KNOWN THRUOUT THIS SECTION TO BE BURIED SATURDAY

From Friday's Daily—

This morning at his home in the Dinnie flats at Grand Forks occurred the death of M. H. Long for ten years a conductor on the Great Northern railway. Death was due to cancer of the stomach from which he has been a sufferer for the past six months. The funeral services will take place on Saturday under the auspices of the Order of Railway Conductors of which organization he was a member, interment to be made in the O. R. C. lot at Memorial Park. Rev. W. W. Moore will officiate.

Mr. Long during his residence of 15 years in Grand Forks as a G. N. conductor had made for himself a large number of friends. Not only was he very well acquainted in Grand Forks but thruout the Red river valley. His genial disposition, quiet temperament and care in the discharge of his duties has won for him the respect and confidence of his fellow men.

The deceased was born on July 30, 1850, in the city of Toronto, Ont. He removed to Chicago moving from that city to Grand Forks having made his residence there and at Larimore ever since. About a year ago he began to suffer with cancer of the stomach, six months of the time being confined to his bed. Last March he was taken to Rochester, Minn., for an operation, but after an examination it was decided by the doctors that nothing could be done.

A wife and three children, Mrs. Charles Pettibone of Milwaukee and Lillian and Walter Long of Grand Forks survive him. Three sisters reside in Toronto while a brother resides at Sault Ste. Marie. His mother and father are both dead. Mr. Long was a member of the O. R. C. of that city being active in both societies.

SKID-A-WA-BOO AND WHITE MEN TOO

An Indian and his squaw selected the G. N 7th street high bridge for a camping place last night, and coming into possession of some fire water, started in with two white men also full of tiger soup, to make a time of it.

The nuisance was reported to the police who canned the whole bunch, and as they were pretty well pickled they appeared still fresh in police court this morning.

The Indian and his squaw will be held a few days to try and find out where they got the liquor. The white men, Matt Burns got 30 days in the county jail Pete O'Brien will have to do five days street labor before he can again get a drop.

DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL COM.

SENATOR WORKS NAMES MEN WHO WILL BE IN ACTIVE

CHARGE OF CAMPAIGN IN THE STATE OF MINNESOTA

Senator Works, of Mankato, left for his farm at Euclid this morning after naming the ten democratic committee men-at-large authorized at the state delegate convention held in St. Paul last June. In the selection the Bryanites get little consideration, but the omission is explained on the ground that all Minnesota democrats are for Mr. Bryan now. The selection, including the members from the congressional district, are as follows:

Committee-at-Large—Edward Lees, Winona; H. A. Paterson, Blue Earth; Frank A. Day, Martin; Alfred Jacque St. Louis; W. E. McEwen, St. Louis; James Dwyer, Hennepin; Daniel Aberle, Ramsey; E. H. Hobe, Ramsey; C. A. Nye, Clay.

Congressional Members —First district, William Gauzewitz, Steele; Second district, S. B. Nelson, Rock; Third district C. C. Kolers, Le Seur; Fourth district, Paul J. Arndt, Washington Fifth district, F. G. Winston, Hennepin; Sixth district, Charles E. Vassaly Morrison; Seventh, B. B. Gislason, Lyon; Eighth, Martin Hughes, St. Louis; Ninth, Martin O'Brien, Polk.

The other members of the democratic state central committee were named at the county conventions held previous to the delegate convention and number about 110 which includes A. C. Schmidt, of Crookston.

UP-TO-DATE METHOD OF ADVERTISING

McMURTY'S AD. SERVICE PLEASES BEMIDJITES—TOWN PLEASES McMURTY

J. B. McMurty of the McMurty Ad. Service left yesterday afternoon for Crookston after spending a week in this city.

Mr. McMurty is working a unique advertisement entitled "Home Builders and Home Furnishers Firms" which appeared in the Pioneer Monday evening.

Mr. McMurty is an enterprising young business man and represents a valuable idea. He certainly deserves success with his unique and up-to-date method of advertising.

Mr. McMurty was very well pleased with Bemidji and stated that this is one of the most up-to-the-minute little cities in the country. "Nature certainly has been lavish with her beauties to Bemidji and the surrounding country," said Mr. McMurty as he stepped aboard the train for Crookston.—Bemidji Pioneer

WM. HAWES HAS PASSED BEYOND

FORMER WELL KNOWN RESIDENT DIES AT STELLACOM, WASHINGTON

Up to ten years ago nearly every houshold in Crookston was visited daily by Wm. Hawes who for many years drove the milk wagon for the E. D. Childs dairy. Mr. Hawes left this state about ten years ago for Washington, finally settling at Stellacom, from whence comes the news of his death which occurred on the 13th inst., the immediate cause being asthma and heart failure. Mr. Hawes is survived by his wife who is a sister of Mrs. Robert Lieck of this city and two daughters, Mrs. Wm. Scharfe and Miss Grace. They are operating a fruit and truck farm at Stellacom.

GRAND FORKS TAILORS HAVE FORMED UNION

The Journeymen Tailors of America have organized a union in Grand Forks, N. D. D. G. Biggs was the organizer. The following officers were elected:

President, Jacob Vikoren; vice president, Gustave Malstrom; treasurer, P. Anderson; secretary, M. Thorson.

A rapid growth of the union is anticipated. The officers and members propose to make the union a success, and it undoubtedly will be.

BEMIDJI IN "LEMON BELT" SAYS THE PIONEER

M. Flint of this city came into the Pioneer office this morning and showed us a lemon of unusual size which Mrs. Flint had raised on a small tree in the house. The lemon weighed 19 ounces and was twelve inches in circumberence. The lemon is the largest we ever saw and we are glad that Mr. Flint didn't "hand it to us."—Bemidji Pioneer.

READY FOR YEARS WORK

MANUAL TRAINING AND MUSIC TO BE FEATURES OF HIGH SCHOOL

PUPILS OF THE NEW FRANKLIN SCHOOL ARE PROVIDED FOR BY THE BOARD

From Friday's Daily—

On next Monday the school bell will ring the students back to begin another year's work, and Supt. McIntyre has returned from the summer home at Pokegama where the family will remain for another month

The High School faculty this year will be composed of Misses Sadley, Goodhue and Stone, and Miss Kate Kranz who were here before, Miss Dodge of Ridgeport, Vt., Miss Fallensby of Oberlin, Ohio, Miss Vesta Cornish of Minneapolis, Prof. S. N. Coher, who takes N. A. Thorson's place as science teacher, and Prof. JJ. H. Powers who will have charge of the manual training and music departments.

The manual training and music are new departments and both much needed. The manual training department will be on the 3rd floor which has been equipped with 24 benches and supplied with vices, guages, etc., with plenty of floorspace, good ventilation, plenty of light and fire escapes.

Pending the completion of the new Franklin school house in the woods district, the pupils of that district will be taken care of in the Methodist church Sunday school rooms and the Library building.

FORMER EUCLID BOY MAKES GOOD

CHASE BALLOU TO BE GEN. SEC'Y OF ROCHESTER Y. M. C. A.

H. Chase Ballou a former well known Euclid boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ballou who for years resided at Euclid and Angus where Mr. Ballou farmed, and was later agent for the Great Northern at Angus and Euclid for several years, is making a mark for himself. Mr. Ballou is a very young man still, having been born at Euclid, and was named after H. C. Misner of this city, and his many friends in this section will be glad to learn that he is climbing up the ladder of success rapidly. The following article regarding his work is taken from the Duluth News Tribune:

"H. Chase Ballou who has been the secretary in charge of the building fund of the Y. M. C. A. for the past two years has handed in his resignation to General Secretary Bevis, to take effect Sept. 15. Mr. Ballou will then go to Rochester, Minn., to fill the office of general secretary in the new building there. The building at Rochester is one of the best of the small buildings of the association, and is modern in every detail. Mr. Ballou will be the first one to work in the new building and he will have the privilege of planning the winter's work the way he wants it.

"He has been active in social and athletic work here for nearly three years and it is with regret that many of the members and officers hear of his going. He entered the association's employ in Brooklyn, N. Y., as social director, and later he acted as general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Charlottesville, Va."

His successor has not yet been named.

SHIPS CARLOAD OF FAT HOGS

T. H. Bjoin this afternoon shipped a carload of fine fat hogs to St. Paul where they will be slaughtered and shipped back to Crookston probably—and the consumers here will pay the freight both ways. This early shipment shows the necessity of a packing house in Crookston, as farmers are getting more and more into the hog raising business.

OWNS AND OCCUPIES A FINE FARM

Silas Hand of Rossville, Ill., arrived in the city today in an emmigrant car loaded with stock, farm implements and household goods. Mr. Hand owns the old Barb farm in the town of Lowell and will farm it himself bringing from Illinois all the necessary implements. He is an experienced farmer and will make the farm he has purchased again bloom with a wealth of vegetation as when the Barbs were working it. The Hand family will follow in a few days.

BABY'S EYESIGHT WAS THREATENED

By Terrible Eczema—Head Became a Mass of Itching Rash and Sores —Would Scratch Till Blood Came —Much Money Wasted in Fruitless Treatments—Disease Was Soon

CURED AT SLIGHT COST BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Our little girl was two months old when she got a rash on her face and within five days her face and head were all one sore. We used different remedies but it got worse instead of better and we thought she would turn blind and that her ears would fall off. She suffered terribly, and would scratch until the blood came. At night we had to pin her hands down. This went on until she was five months old, then I had her under our family doctor's care, but she continued to grow worse. He said it was eczema. When she was seven months old I started to use Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent, and in three weeks — what a change! I kept using the Cuticura Remedies for two months and our baby was a different girl. You could not see a sign of a sore and she was as fair as a new-born baby, and all for the small cost of a dollar and seventy-five cents where we had spent ten times the money for doctoring. She is now two years old and has not had a sign of the eczema since. Mrs. H. F. Budke, R. F. D. 4, LeSueur, Minn., Apr. 15 and May 2, 1907."

SLEEP KILLED

By an Itching Humor. Another Cure by Cuticura Remedies.

"I broke out with a humor which spread almost all over my body. The itching would get worse on retiring, so I could not sleep. I tried several remedies but it grew worse until I got some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Pills which began to relieve me at once. By the time I had used one vial of the Pills, the humor was entirely gone. I wish every sufferer could secure the Cuticura Remedies. Travis Bates, Hamburg, Ark., April 26, 1907."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass.

5 DEMOCRATS ENTER RACE

COUNTY COMMITTEE WORKED OVER TIME YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

TWO CANDIDATES FILED FOR CO. TREASURER ON DEMOCRATIC TICKET

From Thursday's Daily—

Yesterday was a busy day for the Democrats, specially the county central committee and as a result five candidates filed for nomination on the Democratic ticket as follows:

F. E. LePage, Mentor for county commissioner from the First district.

W. W. Brown, McIntosh for Representative.

Frank Kohler, Sullivan, for representative.

Nels Peterson, Crookston, for Co. Treasurer.

H. L. Hanson, Hill River, for Co. Treasurer.

Mr. Brown is the McIntosh miller and Mr. Peterson is an employe of the Bank of Crookston.

POSSE CORNERS FUGITIVE.

Charles Hayes, Wanted for Spearfish Crime, Believed to Be Surrounded.

Sturgis, S. D., Aug. 28. — Charles Hayes, alias William Dunn, wanted for a murder near Spearfish, is still at large. He is said to be in hiding near Belle Fourche, in the underbrush, and the place is surrounded.

Authorities who were on the trail yesterday came in last night, leaving the place strongly guarded. The officers are strongly armed and confident of capture. It is thought that Hayes will not be taken alive.

Will Encourage Good Roads

The suggestion given by the Postoffice Department that it cannot maintain rural free delivery routes over roads which are not in a passable condition, cannot help but give a stimulus to road construction, and increase the interest in road building thruout the country.

Prof. W. M. Hayes, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, who is an enthusiastic advocate of good roads, and an authority on agricultural subjests, sees in the notice issued by the Postoffice Department a step toward a comprehensive system of road building by county and state authorities co-related to the work now going on under the direction of the Department of Agriculture, and its division of good roads.

It has come to be well accepted that a larger treatment of the waterways of the country, on a more comprehensive scale for which the National Rivers and Harbors Congress stands, means better roads, and therefore a blessing to the farmers, increased value for his farms and easier movement for his wagons.

With a comprehensive plan of dealing with the water highways of the Nation on the part of the general government the building of roads would be made much easier than now, for it would be possible to transport metalling material for roads far distances by water, which under existing conditions is impossible.

If the Lakes-to-theGulf project of increasing the depth of the Mississippi is accomplished it would be possible to transport the refuse from the ore mines of the Duluth Superior region to the lower Mississippi and use this extremely hard material for road building in half a dozen states bordering on the Father of Waters.

Trap rock, which is the toughest kind of hard rock, used loosely to designate various dark-colored ingneous rocks, wears well as road material, and with improved waterways to insure transportation its use would be an accomplished fact.

Rock from the pallisades has also been used for road building, especially in New York and portions of New England, but with an inland waterway from New York to Florida its use upon the roads of the South would insure results at present but little appreciated, and make possible the desire of the Postmaster General to have, in the United States, a system of roads the equal of those in France, Brittany and rural England.

It is remarkable how closely the Nation's waterways are related to the material wellfare of the whole people, affecting in a minor degree both steam and electric railway transportation, solving the bulkier freight problems by making the rivers and streams respond to the uses of navigation.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the traffic moved by railroads of the United States exceeds four and one-half millions tons every 24 hours, and that the railroad traffic of the country has doubled in the last seven years while the facilities for transporting it have increased less than 25 per cent. Should the next seven years, prove as productivve and as fruitful of large returns as the last seven years that traffic, in the very nature of things, ought tto double again and then arises the question, how is it to be carried.

Uniess it can be carried there will be little or no inducement to increase its volume, and wthout the physical ability to transport the output of the farm, mine and factory production will necessarily suffer. With the railroads unable to meet the demands of the great producing forces of the country, for the carriage of their products, the waterways of the Nation, thru its rivers, streams and canals, will be called upon to bear its proportion of the transportation and a comprehensive system of waterway development, as urged by the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, becomes imperative.

Proots Good Times

The recent statement that there are 5,000 unemployed men in Philadelphia, who could be shipped west or in any other direction, on short notice, and the further report that 100 homeless poor persons had to seek shelter in a morgue in New York city, because all the ordinary charitable places of refuge were crowded to the limit are hard for people in St. Paul to understand or appreciate. No such hard times exist here. Says the St. Paul Dispatch.

As good a criterion, as any, of the actual condition of the poor and the relative condition of the times, is the experience of the Ramsey county board of control, which has charge of the city hospital, almshouse and outdoor relief. It is common knowledge that those duties are well discharged and that there is no abuse of public charitable funds, such as is too often found elsewhere. The money all goes to the purposes for which it is raised.

That board reports that the almshouse has exactly the same number of inmates now as a year ago, that is 88. There is practically no difference in the requests for aid by poor persons who are able to support themselves in part and are not in the poor house. There has been a slight increase in such donations, but it is due to particular causes in individual cases and cannot be attributed to any considerable lack of employment.

Another indication, which is within the scope of everybody's observation, is the scarcity of house-to-house beggars. Such mendicants, if they are numerous, are an unfailing sign of business depression. The harder the times, the more tramps there are, yet we know that there are few in St. Paul, and no more than usual in the Northwest. There is no Coxey's army, organized or disorganized, in existence today.

With wheat around $1 a bushel and other grains proportionately high, so that the farmers, the mainstay of the country, are prosperous and happy, why should not such agreeable conditions continue?

No, Alonzo, earthquakes were not invented by the quakers.

A man seldom has a scolding wife unless he needs that kind.

STATE PRESS

Public Crib Feeders Wail Heard

The nomination of Johnson for a third term for governor was brought about by the feeders at the public crib under his administration. It is said that the bleatings of the hungry calves were heartrending when they were begging him to accept another nomination. Too bad boys but you won't only lose the republican vote this year but thousands of Democratic votes that are opposed to building up a kingdom in Minnesota by electing one man for governor three times.—Highlanding Sunbeam.

Cow Threshing Income

There was not a very large number of our farmers went to Dakota this year for the threshing season as the larger portion of them are putting up hay for the cows who are threshing them out an income.—Highlanding Sunbeam.

A Cabbage Shortage

A shortage of cabbage has been announced by the National Kraut Manufacturers' association and a raise in the price of sauerkraut will in consequence be the result. The campaign is perhaps largely responsible for this shortage—cigar manufacturers having probably contracted for a large percentage of the cabbage crop in advance. Thus the public gets the worst of it at both ends—high priced sauerkraut and low grade (malodorous) cigars.—Princeton Union.

HENRY LAVAYEA IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

News was received on Sunday of the death of Henry E. Lavayea who resided in Grand Forks county for many years leaving there in 1903. Heart failure caused his demise. The funeral will be held today in Los Angeles. where the family has resided since leaving Grand Forks.

Mr. Lavayea first came to Grand Forks county in 1870 when he came here from Cleveland, and he located permanently here in 1880. He resided in Grace township and from there moved to Larimore. He was elected to the North Dakota senate in 1900 and served during the sessions of 1901 and 1903. He left the state in the fall of 1903.

FARGO'S FIRST MAYOR DIES AT PORTLAND, ORE.

News of the death of Capt. George Egbert at Portland last Saturday was received in the city yesterday and to the pioneers of Fargo who were personal friends of the deceased, it was received with genuine regret. Capt. Egbert was the first mayor of the city. Since then he moved to Oregon and for some time was deputy United States marshal in that state. He was the first Master Mason in the territory

SURVEY BY GOVERNMENT IS NEARLY FINISHED

Reports from Bemidji are to the effect that the government surveyors who operated in this vicinity last year are now in Beltrami county, one camp north of Solway the other 50 miles west of International Falls. Work is progressing satisfactorily, Mr. Mead estimating that the 500 square miles left to be surveyed will require about six weeks time to complete. This fall after reaching Washington, Mr. Mead will give his final estimates on drainage conditions in the territory surveyed.

HELD UP ON EAST GRAND FORKS STREET

John Olson was held up on South Third street at a lonely point near the Great Northern tracks, East Grand Forks last night about 10 o'clock and robbed of $25 in cash. Two men sprang at him from the side of the street and one held a revolver in his face while the other went thru his clothing and took his money. Olson who is also known as "Toothless John" is a porter in a local saloon. No arrests have been made.

COURT CONVENES IN RED LAKE FALLS OCT. 26

The October term of district court will convene in Red Lake Falls on the 26th of that month, but owing to so many of the jurors having other work which will occupy their time until the last of October the same are not called to report for duty until November 9th.

The Smell of New Paint

To get rid of a bad smell in a room newly painted, place a vessel full of lighted charcoal in the middle of the room and thrown in it two or three handfuls of juniper berries. To promote good health try a reliable malt tonic such as golden grain belt beer. Taken at mealtime it will aid the digestion, steady the nerves and make rich red blood. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

BUNCH OF HEATHER FOR BURNS CLUB

A bunch of heather arrived yesterday from Scotland at the Grand Forks postoffice addressed to the secretary of the Burns Club. Judge P. McLoughlin learned of it and also found that there had been a Burns club and it was defunct. He got some Scotchmen together in his office and they organized by electing Senator Turner president. Chief Overby voted aye, but his vote was thrown out on account of his being unable to prove his ancestors could dance the Highland fling, that he had a portrait of Burns or a copy of his poems in his possession.

HEINZELMAN AND DAVIDS IN CHARGE OF EXHIBIT

O. T. Davids and Martin Heinzelman left yesterday afternoon for the twin cities in charge of Clearwater county's exhibit at the state fair. The car containing the production of the county will go to its destination on the Great Northern as far as Erskine where it will be transferred to the Soo line and if it arrived on schedule time was in Minneapolis Thursday morning at 7 o'clock.—Bagley Independent.

AVERAGE WHEAT CROP ALONG RED RIVER

The wheat crop on the old McCully farm owned by A. M. Eckmann and operated by Lawrence Taravestad, averaged 14 bushels per acre. That is about a fair average crop in this neighborhood this year. The fields look to be good for more than that, and while the crop is very satisfactory, it is disappointing to many who had figured on it being larger.—Hendrum Review.

SOME FINE APPLES FROM THE EAST GRAND FORKS ORCHARD

Oscar Wicks, the East Grand Forks nursery man's contribution to the Polk county exhibit at the state fair includes ten varieties of apples and crabs and several varieties of plums. The collection includes as fine specimens of apples as could be found anywhere, and will add much to the display from this county.

AN OPERATION— Fred Reitmeier was operated on yesterday afternoon for appendicitis at St. Vincents hospital. He is getting on nicely today.

BABY BOY — News was received from Panama yesterday of the birth of a baby boy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Yount formerly residents of this city. The new arrival is a grandson of Captain and Mrs. Bruce Griggs of Grand Forks.

ANOTHER YOUNG FARMER — Gus Benson one of the prosperous farmers on rural route No. 6 was presented by his better half this morning at 1 o'clock with a 12 pound son. Mother and child are doing well and the proud papa is stepping high.

HAS A TOUCH — Wm. Luchau whom everybody in these parts knows is one of the genial traveling men who is working this territory this week. He is slightly off his feet on account of a touch of hay fever.

RIVER DRIVING MADE EASY — Pat Sullivan returned from Grand Forks this morning where he Sundayed with his family. His smile could be felt from the Grand Central to the cutoff. This rain has ut the stage of water in the river up so that there wwill be no more trouble getting that 16,000,000 feet of logs to the Forks.

MAKING NORTHWEST — Rev. Hagerup-Nisson, travelling editor of the St. Paul Tidende a Norwegian-Danish paper spent Saturday in Crookston calling on the Polk County politicians. That paper has been issuing recent editions devoted to first one and then another legislative district, but thus far has not been able to interest many of the politician's here. He is an interesting man to meet, and has the political situation in the state sized up pretty well.

OLD TIMER HERE—Fred J. Pape one of the old residents of the city, who was formerly employed at the Kiewel Brewery arrived last evening from St. Vincent where with his family he is residing at the present time. Mr. Pape is in the carpenter contracting business, and has spent most of his time in Canada during the past year and has prospered. He returns to St. Vincent Tuesday morning — barring accidents.

ALDERMAN HUSSEY'S LAKE — People will no longer wonder why Lakeview hotel was so named on N. Broadway. The cloudburst of yesterday resulted in giving Alderman Hussey a lake comprising a full block and the Commissioners of Polk county should purchase that whole blooming block keep it full of water and place a lot of free gasoline launches on it for the free use of the farmers who come to the city. A ride in a launch would make them all good humored before walking up to the rack to pay their taxes.

Game Warden Munch, accompanied by Mrs. Munch drove to Goose Lake Saturday to look after hunters, but none were found. On the way home shooting was heard wwhen near Dorothy and after a hot chase arrested Zyprien Cassavan just before he reached his home. Cassavan had no chickens, but there were feathers and fresh blood in his buggy. Warden Munch took his gun away from him, and his case will come up in court later.

From Dorothy in, Warden and Mrs. Munch faced the cloudburst—and had a really delightful time (?)

A HOUSE WARMING— Wm Byswinger of Fisher was in the city yesterday purchasing the furnishings for a new house that he has just completed on his farm. The many Crookston friends of Mr. and Mrs. Byswinger are anticipating a jolly time at the house warming.

WEST COUNTY NOT SO WET — Representative John Saugstad and Commissioner Thoreson drove into the city yesterday from the west end and attended to some business matters. Mr. Saugstad expects to visit his constituents thruout the country soon, and also line up his fences for re-election. The rain at his place on Red River was very light and threshing was delayed only a day.

MORE STORM NEWS—E. B. Durdahl was in from Russia yesterday and had a few additional stories to tell about pranks of Sunday night's storm. Mr. Durdahl had all his grain stacks blown down, and two machine sheds for his neighbor Mr. Hinton were blown down injuring some machinery.

FALL PASTURES SAVE HIGH PRICED FEED—Julius Zacho of Fisher was a county seat visitor yesterday He thinks that the farmers should thank Providence for the blessed rain that fell and revived the pastures and all late vegetation. The threshing that the cow does the year around is what has paid off the mortgages and she should recieve some consideration.

POLK COUNTY TO FRONT—Hans Urtes of Warren and wife returned this morning from a visit to the twin cities. They have had a very enjoyable trip. The fair this year is grand. and the Polk county exhibit, says Mr. Urtes, is attracting a great deal of attention and receiving complimentary remarks.

There is hardly anything a man is more ashamed of than to like to spend all his evenings at home.

BYRNES IS CHAMPION

HAD 17 FINE CHICKENS BAGGED THIS MORNING BEFORE 7 O'CLOCK

REPORTS FROM OTHER HUNTERS ARE MEAGRE—"SNAP" STILL IN RING

From Tuesday's Daily—

Conductor Jim Byrnes of the Great Northern is without doubt the "champeen" chicken hunter or was for a while early this morning—as long as he hunted—for shortly after 7 o'clock this morning he returned to the city with 14 fine ones which he shot at the junction south of town.

Jim rolled out at 4 o'clock this morning and with a rig drove out south with the old reliable "Snap". Snap is 15 years old but still in the ring and after being let out of the buggy it took but about three bounds and a sniff to locate a fine covey of birds which his master had spotted over a month ago. He wiped out the covey in short order and returned to the city as 15 birds in one day is the limit and game wardens are too thick around here just at the present time to exceed the limit. It is dollars to doughnuts that not one hunter in ten will bag as good a bunch during the entire day, tho they may travel ten times as far. Old Snap was so tickled over the affair that he brushed varnish off every morning train with the vigorous wagging of his tail.

Hunting Notes

Messrs. G. O. Riggs and G. H. Pietsch are hunting towards Beltrami.

Messrs. Gus Schmidt, Dutch Barrette and party started last evening nearly froze to death camping out last night, and phoned from Beltrami at noon today that they hadn't killed a chicken. They phoned something else too, but it wouldn't look well in print.

Dr. Smith and Dr. Robertson went out for an afternoon's hunt with the former's automobile.

Oliver Johnson with that new $50 Steven's Hammerless gun of his, E. Engstrom and Gilbert K. Timonson left last evening for a few days' hunt between Dugdale and Fertile.

Congressman Halvor Steenerson left yesterday afternoon for Gary where he will hunt for a day or two with the postmaster at that place.

ENJOYED TRIP IN FOREIGN LANDS

CARL V. BERGQUIST AND PARTY RETURN FROM TRIP TO SWEDEN

Carl V. Bergquist, wife and two sons Earl and Lawrence and Mrs. John Nyquist and daughter May returned this morning from their extended trip to Sweden. The party left here on April 23 and visited several places in the U. S. before sailing. In Sweden they visited the homes of their forefathers and the scenes of their childhood. They had a pleasant trip both ways but are glad to get back to good old Minnesota. Mr. Bergquist has promised to give the Journal a more extended account of their trip.

THRESHERS BUSY ON NORTH LINE

Reports from the north are to the effect that the rain was not heavy on Sunday from Angus to Hallock, and threshing machines were running yesterday. 20 miles north of here threshing will be resumed today but in this immediate vicinity shock threshing will not be resumed till Thursday.

DUGDALE FELT IT—At Dugdale when the storm came Sunday evening the whole male population was out fighting a prairie fire. In a few moments enough water came down to drown out hades and to save the town from blowing and floating away. Many buildings were moved from their foundations wheat stacks were wet through, and shocks were scattered broadcast by the storm. The Woodmen hall was moved five feet up against Herman Camp's store smashing in the front.

DAKOTA LOOKS GOOD — W. E. Black returned Monday evening from a business and pleasure trip thru N. Dakota and was as far west as Williston and north to Bottineau. He reports the conditions in Dakota good and they ought to have a prosperous year, and two more years of Burke the democratic governor.

L. H. Buche creamery manager and buttermaker at Warren was one of the out-of-town visitors here last night attracted by the presence of our distinguished visitor.

MINNESOTA'S BIG FAIR A CORKER

From Tuesday's Daily—

St. Paul, Sept. 1 — Minnesota's great annual exposition, the forty-ninth in a series of annual agricultural shows that have been the admiration and envy of all other states, was opened yesterday by President B. F. Nelson. There was an entire lack of ceremony or formal exercises. Minnesota has become accustomed to record-breaking fairs, but it is no exaggeration to say that the exhibition of this year surpasses all its predecessors. In all departments the ex-
8:1* yesterday morning. He was met at the depot by a committee headed by F. B. Lynch, national committeeman for Minnesota, and was escorted to the Minnesota club, where breakfast was served. Later he joined Gov. Johnson in a reception in the governor's room at the state capitol. At noon Mr. Bryan was the guest at a banquet at the Merchants hotel, at which were gathered about 150 prominent Democrats of the state. At 4 o'clock Mr. Lynch, Gov. Johnson and Mayor Lawler escorted Mr. Bryan to the fair grounds.

Address by Bryan.

A short tour of inspection of Minnesota's great industrial exposition was made, after which Mr. Bryan held a reception in the offices of Secretary Cosgrove until 6 o'clock, when he made his address at the Snelling avenue entrance to the fair grounds.

In his speech Mr. Bryan scored the Republican party, and especially the last congress, for its alleged extravagance. He called it a "billion dollar congress," and argued that the farming communities of the country are especally called upon to carry the burden, because they pay the most of the taxes. He took up the various items of expenditure and bitterly denounced the Republican party for making an increase in the country's expenses.

Mrs. Swan A. Ponthan of St. Paul read an original poem dedicated to the semi-centennial jubilee of Minnesota and home-coming week.

Bryan the Attraction.

William Jennings Bryan was the big attraction of the state fair as soon as it was noised about that he was on the grounds. Wherever he went he was followed by crowds, and whenever he stopped anywhere a crush formed immediately.

Mr. Bryan arrived in St. Paul at hibits are larger and more varied. while in the matter of attractions and amusement features this year breaks all previous records.

Threatening weather yesterday morning kept down the attendance. It is estimated that about 45,000 people passed the turnstiles yesterday, as against 94,000 on Labor day, which was the opening day last year.

Home-Coming Week.

Home-coming week was inaugurated at the fair yesterday by Gov. Johnson and the officials of the Minnesota Territorial Pioneers' association and several hundred of the old settlers. Gov. Johnson spoke briefly but enthusiastically of the early settlers and their work. He recounted briefly the growth and progress of Minnesota and the development of the state fair.

"In the wilderness where the pioneers of the state, many of whom, fortunately, are still with us, where the Indians and the wild beasts roamed at will, we now see smiling fields and fruitful orchards. At this, our annual agricultural show, we have an exposition of all that is good and great in Minnesota, and as this agricultural show is the greatest of its kind, Minnesota is the richest and most attractive of the Northwestern states."

Addresses were made by B. F. Nelson, J. J. Furlong, vice president of the association and

The Advantages Of A Check Account

The actual protection afforded your money is the first consideration but there are many other reasons for a check account at a reliable, conservative bank; the incentive for conserving your income; the building up of your credit; the handling of your financial affairs in a systematic manner; the safety of paying all your bills by check instead of cash; the exact change and a receipt for each aud every payment made; a complete record of your income and expenses without the labor and bother of keeping books and many others—all well worthy your consideration.

Come in and see us, we will be glad to talk the matter over with you and explain any point you do not fully understand.

PENNED AND PILFERED

How often do we hear people say "Where in the world do all the flies come from?" It is simple enough. The toper makes the blue-bottle fly, the stern farther makes the gad fly, the cyclone makes the house fly, the blacksmith makes the fire fly, the driver makes the horse fly, the grocer makes the sand fly, and the boarder makes the butterfly.

According to the Windom Reporter a young man who likes to jolly telephone girls was called up by one of them recently and asked if he wouldn't like to go fishing with her. After expressing his pleasure he was told "hold the line." After keeping the receiver up to his ear for a few minutes it dawned on him that she had landed a sucker. The young man has ceased to jolly the telephone girls.

When the sun shines and the streets become dusty, you wish it would rain; when it rains and the streets become muddy, you wish the sun would shine. After you are married you wish you was single, and if you get a new dress you wish you had a new hat to match it; if it is a boy you wish it was a girl, and if it is a girl you wish it was a boy —was human nature ever satisfied? Guess not, and glad of it, for then there would be nothing to "kick" about.

Not original: Maude Muller on a summer's day with her fellow ran away in a benzine touring car scooted to a preacher far. Her father saw the fleeing pair—smelled the benzine scented air; caught a mule whose name was Jane, and galloped down the dusty lane; the mobile very swiftly ran but burned the oil all out the can. The motor stopped upon the hill but Jane ran on just fit to kill. Alas for maid, alas for man alas for the empty benzine can. Maud's daddy on the old grey mule came and took her off to school. The moral of this tale so said: 'Don't steal the girl, go ask her dad."

A DEUCEDLY CLOSE CALL "DON'T CHER KNOW"

Henry Plume, an Englishman not long from London, met with a severe fall Tuesday in the barn at S. C. Bagley's farm near Fosston, where he has been working lately, tumbling from the hay loft to the floor. Stunned by the fall, he was found unconscious a short time after. Dr. Turnbull was called and while no bones were broken nor apparent injury of a permanent nature sustained, Mr. Plume had received some bruises and a severe shaking up.

GATHERING INFORMATION FOR RAISING POTATOES

A. F. Cronquist has planned a fine trip for himself and his manager, G. G. Gunstenson, of the Wildwood farm and leave this evening for Moorhead where they go to interview some large potato raisers and learn how to proceed for next year when they expect to plant a large acerage of the tubers and from there will proceed to the state fair to spend a few days and get in touch with the latest makes of machinery for the purpose. There is no doubt but what the gentlemen will enjoy their trip and return with many valuable lessons. —Erskine Echo.

SAW MILL BUSINESS AT GULLY INCREASING

Urcis LaBlanc, of Gully, was in to Fosston last Tuesday, leaving the same afternoon for Minneapolis, where he expects to purchase a new boiler for use with the engine that runs his saw mill. The boiler now in use was found to be too small for the work required of it and Mr. LaBlanc is anxious to have his mill in the best of shape possible for handling the extensive volume of work demanded by local trade.

CHARGE MADE BY 15 YR OLD GIRL

James Wood, a hanger-on from lower Front street Fargo was arrested by Deputy Sheriff James K. Bingham of Cass Co., N. D. and Officer McLean on a warrent charging rape in the first degree. The man is held responsible for the down fall of 15-year-old Lizzie Hoyum, of Parke, Clay county, Minn., who was recently located in this city by the Fargo police who turned her over to the Clay county officials, resulting in the present action. Wood was arraigned before Judge Miller and his case was set for today at ten o'clock. In default of $2,000 bonds he was committed to the Cass county jail to await a hearing.

A TURKEY STEP-MOTHER CARES FOR PRAIRIE CHICKEN

While at Otter Tail village last week a local traveling man witnessed a very unusual sight. In the yard of the Otter Tail hotel strutted a turkey mother with her bevy of young turkeys and among these was a prairie chicken which in its infancy last spring had got detached from its mother's covey and had mysteriously joined the turkey flock. It is now almost full grown and can fly, but still sticks to its big friends, seemingly content to march with them about the hotel yard instead of fanning the clear Park Region air with her vigorous wings.

MAN AND WOMAN ARRESTED FOR HORSE STEALING

Parties giving the name of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Smith were arrested at Grandin, N. D., on a charge of horse stealing. It is alleged by the officials that they stole a team at Absaraka, Cass county, last Sunday morning. They will have a hearing at Casselton this afternoon.

As long as we have been an inhabitant of the village we have not seen so many men and teams pass thru for the Dakota harvest fields in any one season as we have this. A string of teams a block long is not an uncommon sight.—Twin Valley Times.

A CHAT WITH THE FARMERS

By F. S. Whirry, Manager of Crookston Creamery.

Are you going to sell all of your grain to the elevator and let the bossy live on hay and straw.

How many of the farmers in the Red River Valley have a few loads of hogs to sell that will bring them in a few hundred dollars. All these things help on the farm.

It does not pay to sell the grain if you have stock to feed it to.

A couple of hundred hens bring in a nice litle profit to the farmer.

This is the time of year when a farmer ought to figure on having fresh cows for the price of butter is now going up and the fly time is soon past. From now on till the first of next July is the time to milk cows and you can raise better color and you can devote your time more along this line and reap a benefit of wealth and success.

How many farmers have given the matter of feed any thought for the coming winter for the cow.

Are you going to let her rustle and see what she can get if nothing else let her eat snowballs. But there is not much butter fat in that kind of feed.

Now is the time for the farmer to begin to make his plans to get all his plowing done in the fall as our springs are so uncertain and the fall plowing has proven to raise the best crops as you can get your seed in at an early date and early seeding has always proved the most satisfactory and best results have been obtained.

Right now the farmer is struggling to save his whole year's work and if the weather permits he will save it but if not he won't. Right here is where the old cow comes out and says "protect me and I will save you and don't depend on raising wheat."

There is only one way to farm in the Red River Valley and that is to diversify and not depend on raising small grains entirely. Get into stock raise more feed such as corn fodder, millet, clover, and other grasses, that will fertilize your ground and get it back to where it used to be and then there will come a time soon when you can raise wheat again on the worn out and weedy land.

But as you look back over the easte states you will see that where the money is made is in the sections where diversified farming is done and the old cow has taken the lead and made many a man proud and independent.

Put in twelve months in the year and don't work so hard and farm what you can farm right, and pay more attention to the old dairy cow for she was never known to be rusted or hailed out, and it is far easier to raise feed than it is to raise wheat. You don't have to pay out so much for the threshing bill, you don't need so much help. One man can take a dozen good cows and 160 acres and make more money with less work, less worry less machinery, need less horses and hired help.

The independent farmer is the small farmer and the one that raises stock.

Why not live for the pride of your county and raise more clover and less weeds? It will pay you better for your ground and will make the stock on your farm fat and happy; Just sow the seed and let it grow. Don't get disgusted if it don't grow thich enough the first seeding but just scatter a little more seed over the same ground. It will surprise you the next year.

BARN AND STOCK BURNED

BARN, CONTAINING 45 LOADS OF HAY, SIX COWS AND CHICKENS BURNED

LOSS AMOUNTS TO $1400 WITH NO INSURANCE —STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

From Saturday's Daily—

Gulbrand H. Myhre, living two miles east of Fosston met with a severe loss early Wednesday morning during the storm, his fine new barn being struck by lighting at about 7:30 and entirely consumed, together with forty-five loads of hay, six cows and his flock of chickens.

Four cows were saved from the flames with difficulty, the fire having spread with great rapidity, everything else in the building being destroyed. The barn was nearly new, having been built only last year and Mr. Myhre has much sympathy in his loss which was total as he carried no insurance and will reach nearly $1,400.

EDWARD MC'VAN PASSED AWAY

AT CALUSA, CALIFORNIA THURSDAY MORNING, AFTER EXTENDED ILLNESS

Edward McVean, after little over a year of suffering from Brights disease, passed away at Calusa, California where he had gone for his health, Thursday morning, Aug. 27 at an age of fifty-one years and six months.

He first located in Kittson county on a farm east of Hallock in 1881 In 1892 he sold out his farm and moved to town and went into the employment of J. Kelso & Son, Bankers of which institution he was later cashier until he was taken ill last July.

Mrs. McVean will bring the remains back to Hallock. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made, but most likely will take place Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

WORK PROGRESSING NICELY ON NIELSVILLE DITCH WITH DREDGE

BIG STEAM DIGGER WILL CONCLUDE WORK IN AMPLE TIME

From Thursday's Daily—

James Muir who has been looking after the big steam dredge on the Nielsville ditch, which is being completed by A. K. Austin after the contract had been abandoned by Tom Smith, the past few years having been exceedingly wet will have the new waterway completed long before the freeze-up.

The dredge has been doing fine work, and heaving up an immense amount of dirt every day since it started. The ditch drains a large area and its completion will be hailed with much satisfaction by the farmers affected.

DRYDEN PRAISES RED RIVER VALLEY

CHICAGO PHYSICIAN LOCATED AT EUCLID PLEASED WITH THE COUNTRY

Dr. F. M. Dryden who located at Euclid about two months ago and is practicing with Dr. J. S. Chapin doing practically all the work as Dr. Chapin is devoting his time to his other business interests, returned to Euclid this morning after spending a day in Crookston on business. Dr. Dryden succeeded to Dr. Mitchell's practice at Euclid, coming from Chicago, and is a graduate of the same medical college from which Dr. Mitchell secured his diploma. He is very much pleased with this section of the country, and likes it a great deal better than Illinois and Michigan where he practiced after graduating. He likes the people and their progressive methods, likes the climate, and thinks this entire section has a great future. Dr. Dryden is making many friends thruout this section. He is a hard worker, and a gentleman of most pleasant address, and is all wrapped up in his work, which is one of the most certain roads to success. It was thought it would be a pretty hard matter to secure a successor to Dr. Mitchell who was very popular, but Dr. Dryden fits into the place as tho it had been moulded for him.

WOULD WORRY THEM —George Swift of Mentor is spending the day in the city. If Mr. Swift had been one day earlier some of the politicians would have been nervous as many of the old veteran's friends were going to insist on him entering the political arena for one of the offices.

HAS GOOD IMPRESSION—Guy E. Davis of Waltham, Mass. is visiting with his uncle Christ Houston and family. Mr. Davis as is usual with all easterners is greatly surprised at the stage of development of the northwest and the hustle and progressiveness of the people is a new sensation for the easy going easterner.

VISITING RELATIVES— Ed Moeckle arrived in the city this morning and will visit a week with his parents and sisters the Mrs. Moorhead and Strawbridge who are here from Seattle. Ed may also try a shot at a few coveys of chickens next Tuesday morning just to see if his aim is as true as when he was a barefoot kid with the rest of us.

BOUND OVER— James Kelly was arraigned in the municipal court yesterday at East Grand Forks, on the charge of highway robbery. He waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury, bonds being fixed at $500 which he was unable to furnish and he will take up his temporary residence at the county jail. Kelly is the man who held up and robbed Chris Christianson at East Grand Forks Sunday morning. He was brought over last evening by Deputy Sheriff Louis Gonyea.

BROTHER ILL—Joe Markham formerly employed at the Hotel Crookston Buffet but now with the Markham at Bemidji, is in the city today enroute to Kalispel Mont. Mr. Markham's brother George formerly proprietor of the Markham hotel has been serious ill at Kalispel and a turn for the worse has taken place and Joe is hurrying to his bedside.

John Balfour foreman of the G. N. section between Crookston and Fanny was the victim of a most painful accident Tuesday afternoon at Euclid, where he was working with his crew for a day. In some manner a rail that was being handled fell and struck his foot, crushing it most painfully and tearing off two of the toe nails. The pain was excruciating, but Dr. F. M. Dryden was luckily at hand and dressed the wound, making the patient very comfortable. Mr. Balfour came to Crookston Tuesday evening and is at his home on Front street where he will be laid up for some time.

During the heavy storm yesterday morning a bolt of lightning struck the new barn of Phillip Wieland, eight miles east of Euclid, burning it to the ground. The barn was a fine large building only erected this summer. The horses were gotten out and harness saved, but the loft full of hay went with the barn. The loss is a heavy one to Mr. Wieland.

Mr. Wentzel was in the city this morning for block and tackle and will pick up the wreck today. He hopes to get the separator in shape to be albe to thresh Monday.

A THIRD BANK FOR FOSSTON

FARMERS STATE BANK STARTED —CROOKSTON CAPITALISTS HEAVILY INTERESTED

The remodeling of the Farmers State bank building at Fosston has begun and it is expected that the third banking institution for that town will be ready to open its doors about the 15th of next month.

L. D. Foskett, cashier of the Bank of Crookston and one of the principal stockholders in this important enterprise, was at Fosston this week looking after the progress of the work and gave some information regarding the new bank, to be known as the Farmers State Bank of Fosston. To commence with it will be capitalized at $10,000, and the stockholders and directors will be named in the published articles of incorporation.

The bank will have a corner entrance of attractive appearance and plate glass will light the interior from both south and west sides. Rich interior fixtures will be used and no expense spared to make the new bank attractive and a credit to Fosston.

NORTH YAKIMAITE AMOKG FRIENDS

MIND IS UNBALANCED BY POLITICAL WORRIES

Nels Hande, A Prosperous Eden Township Farmer Taken to Fergus. Too Many Candidates for sheriff for him to Digest.

Nels Hande one of the well-to-do farmers of the Town of Eden in eastern Polk was brought to Crookston last evening and after an examination committed to Fergus Falls a raving manaic and was taken down by Marshal Gus Holt of Fosston.

Hande has a wife and eight children and his case is a very sad one. He has been a conscious and hard working farmer, but this summer evinced such an interest in politics that his brain gave way. He shouted over and over again last night that all eleven candidates for sheriff of Polk county had been to see him and demanded his support and that for some time past they had been laying for him behind the fences and trees and threatened to blow his head off if he did not vote for them. He liked them all pretty well, he said, but wanted to know how in h—l he could vote for all of them.

He said the marshal of Fosston was a Swede, the chief of police of Crookston was a Swede the governor of Minnesota was a Swede, he himself was a Swede and the president of the United States should be one, and because special agent Tom Britt laughed thinking Hande had not given the Irish much of a show, the insane man leaped under a table, grabbed a hammer and would have brained the big jolly Irishman had not Chief Eck seized the hammer in the nick of time.

MADE $18,000 IN ONE DAY

SENATOR A. D. STEPHENS DOING A REGULAR ROCKEFELLER STUNT

HAS TO SIGN HIS NAME 1440 TIMES AT $12.57 PER SIGNATURE

From Saturday's Daily—

Senator A. D. Stephens is making money faster today than any man in this section, and will have turned out $18,000 before he finally wipes his pen tonight.

He is signing up that amount of bills for the First National Bank of Bagley as president, the bills having already received the signature of Al. Kaiser as cashier, and he used green ink and oil the space alloted.

SWINDLES G. N. OUT OF $9 EASY

ACTOR CLAIMED TO HAVE LOST CHECKS AFTER HE HAD PUT THEM UP AS SECURITY

A crook, who claimed to be an actor, beat the Great Northern railway out of $9 recently. More truly it may be stated that he beat the Grand Forks baggageman employed by the Great Northern out of the money, for the Great Northern does not stand for any losses. The party gave the Emerado hotel man his checks for baggage, promising to send the money to redeem the checks on his arrival in Grand Forks. When he arrived in Grand Forks he told the baggage man that he had lost the checks. He identified the trunks and persuaded the baggage man to let him have the trunks. He rechecked them to another point and his present whereabouts are unknown. The hotel man will make the G. N. make good.

ERSKINE

Mrs. C. E. Dillon left Wednesday evening for the twin cities to purchase her fall stock of millinery and to spend a few days at the fair.

K. J. Ike and family came out from Crookston last Saturday and spent the following day at the home of his brother O. Ike south of the village.

Mrs. V. Wedekamper and Mrs. Thos Vollom and children drove over from Mentor Sunday and spent a few hours with the former's daughter, Mrs. C P. Hole.

The picnic given by the young people of the village at the Dargan place north of the lake last Sunday was largely attended and enjoyed. The Erskine Cornet band rendered a few choice selections of music and everybody was jolly.

HEAVIEST RAINFALL IN HISTORY OF VALLEY

Regular cloudburst prevailed in Crookston Total of 5.85 inches of water fell The basement were all flooded.

RECORD BREAKING RAINFALL

Rainfall from 4 p. m. to 8 p. m. Sunday 5.07 inches.
Rainfall from 11 p. m. Sunday till 4 a. m. Monday .78 inches.
Rainfall Saturday .42 inches.
Total rainfall Sunday 5:85 inches.
Total rainfall Saturday and Sunday 6.27 inches.
Previous high record rainfall for one day 3.50 inches.

From Monday's Daily—

The most terrific rainstorm that ever visited the Red River Valley, amounting to a four hour cloudburst prevailed from 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon till 8 in evening the total rain fall amounting to 5.07 inches, flooding every basement in the business district and over 200 residences and resulting in damage to stock and basements estimated all the way from $10,000 to $20,000 tho accurate figures cannot be secured till the drygoods merchants and the clothiers and some of the grocers have checked over their basement stocks.

Beat all Records

Some estimate of the havoc wrought can be formed from the fact that the heaviest rainfall on record at A. G. Andersen's where the government guage is located, is three and a half inches, and at that time every basement was flooded badly. During yesterday's storm the water ranged from 6 inches to 5 feet deep in the basements.

Paper Saved

S. A. Wallace & Co., however succeeded in saving a $500 stock of wall paper, Ed Netzer fearing trouble from the start and removed all the paper before water enough to damage the stock had seeped in.

Hotels Flooded

The Grand Central Hotel basement was flooded, the water shooting three feet in the air from the closets and wash bowls, and several travelling men who had their trunks there will lose heavily on their samples.

The Hotel Crookston basement was flooded, but the sample trunks were elevated or taken to the first floor preventing any damage.

The damage at the Palace Hotel will be quite heavy as the tremendous fall of water forced its way thru the roof, soaking many carpetts and damaging the floors.

Elevator Went Bump

At the Palace the deep water in the basement threw the cable which runs the elevator, off as a party was coming down from the 3rd floor, and the cage came down with a crash to the bottom but no one was injured. Had the cage been loaded some lives might have been lost.

Many Were Damaged

It is impossible to secure accurate losses from the business houses which lost the heaviest, but those who will suffer most are Sylvester, Mercil & Co., general merchants, J. E. O'Brien & Co., hardware, Crookston Pure Food Co., C. E. Lindberg, grocer, W. E. Slocum & Co., S. A. Wallace, drugs, Golden Rule, drygoods, Fred Brosseau wholesale liquors, A. J. Sauvé, hardware, L. Roy, furniture, A. G. Andersen, drugs, The New Store, G. S. Chesterman, undertaker, Dufault & Co., grocers, Hughes & Scully, grocers and a score or more others such as confectioners and small dealers.

Dining Room Afloat

The Germania Hotel, located at the outlet of the 3rd street sewer which carries practically all the water from the business district, had about four feet of water in the basement where the dining room is located, and chairs and tables were swimming around all over the room.

Had to Move Out

On west 6th street a veritable torrent flowed over the flats and Henry Francis and Mike Sullivan had to move their families out. The basement of the M. E. Parsonage was filled close to the first floor, and Rev. Thomas Green moved most of his furniture to the second floor for safety.

Sewer Inadequate

The greater portion of the damage in the business district was caused by the totally inadequate 12 inch sewer on Broadway, and a score or more damage suits against the city are liable to result from the storm. Suits were threatened in the flood of five years ago, but nothing was done at that time upon the tacit agreement that the trouble would be remedied by the installation of overflow sewers on Robert Street leading off Broadway, and on Fletcher leading from Broadway, where 24 inch sewers are needed.

River Up 6 Feet

The water was three feet below the city park in Crookston when the rain started, and at 6:30 the entire park was under 2 feet of water and Monday morning the total rise in the river was over 6 feet, the greatest ever experienced since records were started 25 years ago. Over 4 feet of water flooded South Ash street in places.

Every drainage ditch is full to the brim rushing water into the river, and should any further heavy rains fall, flood conditions are apprehended.

Considerable damage was done to buildings in process of construction, it being feared the walls have been weakened. The city hall, upon which repairs were being made had 5 feet of water in the basement and scores of others were in the same boat where no particular damage was done.

Sidewalks Afloat

The sidewalks on west 6th street at the foot of the hill were all washed away, and the boys were using them for boats. On south Ash street and other streets in the Woods district block after block of wooden sidewalks and cross walks were floated off last evening and are stranded from a half to two blocks from where they belong this morning.

Bank Caved in

In front of the Great Northern depot this morning, the river bank in one place is washed away for about 30 feet a regular gorge which comes within 20 feet of one of the side tracks

In Carman some of the yard tracks were also damaged more or less by the washouts.

Preserves Afloat

The basement of the St. Vincents Hospital was floated, and the storeroom containing preserves was all afloat fruit cans floating about in great profusion. The sealed fruit however will probably not be damaged.

Wind Blew a Gale

In Hammond Township south of the city the wind blew a perfect gale just before the heavy rains started. The coal shed and outbuildings at the school house near the John Ralston farm were blown down and John Fournet and a party of friends who were exercising their dogs did some lively dodging to get out of the way of the flying debris.

Windmill Blown Down

The big mildmill on John Ralston's farm was blown down and crashed thru the roof of his barn tearing a great hole about ten feet square. None of the stock was injured as the windmill struck the barn in the center and the stock was at either end. The mill is a total wreck.

All Threshing Stopped

But the damage done in the city is but a side issue compared with vexatious delay to threshing. It started raining at St. Vincent at 4 o'clock on Sunday morning and poured all day long covering Kittson, Marshal, Polk and Norman counties, part of Red Lake, Roseau and Mahnomen, and all threshing is out of the question until next Wednesday or Thursday in that area.

The air was humid all Sunday and Sunday night, but it turned cool during the night. If the weather remains cool, the damage will not be very heavy to crops.

Many stories of the damage and other freak actions of the storm of last Sunday evening are coming in, in some places wind was the worst, in others it was the hail and again in most places it was the water.

Nick Welter's machine shed was demolished by the high wind and a mile east of his place on the Thompson place a granary was moved ten rods but not very badly damaged.

The fine large trees on John Amundson's farm were in some places shorn of their branches.

During the storm of last Sunday John Wagner a well known farmer on Rural Route No. 5 out of this city, which rung northwest towards Fisher, had four grain stacks destroyed by fire. The stacks were ignited by lightning.

BELIEVES IN FARM SCHOOLS

Senator Sunberg of Kittson county returned this morning from the twin cities where he had been on business at Kennedy. The senator is one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the agricultural school and predicts that the school will have a good attendance from his county, and that the whole county excursion side will be down on the special train to the dedication of Stephens Hall.

FLATEN HAS CLEAR SAILING

H. R. ROBERTSON WITHDRAWS AS CANDIDATE FOR REPUBLICAN NOMINATION

FOR TREASURER OF POLK CO., IS SECRETARY OF BIG INVESTMENT COMPANY

Hugh Robertson has formally withdrawn as a candidate for the nomination for treasurer of Polk Co., on the republican ticket, leaving Geo. J. Flaten very easy sailing. Following is the formal notice received from Mr. Robertson this morning by the Journal:

"Minneapolis, Minn., August, 31, 1908.
Editor of the Journal,
Crookston, Minn.

Dear Sir: Since filing notice of my intention to become a candidate for the office of County Treasurer of Polk County, business opportunities presented themselves in this city and I now feel in justice to myself that I must withdraw from the candidacy. Should I receive the nomination and be elected, I would be unable to accept. I shall be pleased if you publish this letter and I desire to take this opportunity of thanking my friends for the support they have already given me.

Respectfully,
—H. R. Robertson."

Mr. Robertson is secretary of the Minnesota-Dakota Investment Co., with headquarters in Minneapolis, and has been devoting his entire attention to his duties in that capacity for some months past. The position presents opportunities which his best friends believe he would be very foolish to pass up, and Mr. Robertson was of the same opinion. Mr. Robertson has had splendid training in that line of work and the opportunities are almost unlimited.

Mr. Flaten now has what might be termed a "puddin" as far as the nomination goes and can make up for any sleep he has lost by snoozing from now till the primaries are over.

NIKE YEARS WEDDED TOOK BRIDAL TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Thornton started on their bridal trip Sunday evening after nine years of happily wedded life. They will "do" the Minnesota State Fair and are naturally anticipating a very pleasant trip. Their two sons remained here. Tho they have been married nine years, this is the first railroad trip Mr. and Mrs. Thornton ever took together Mr. Thornton's duties as a knight of the grip keeping him on the road practically all the time, any vacations he has taken before were spent at home. However they decided that a bridal trip now was the proper maneuver and Sunday evening they were "riced" off by a party of friends headed by R. R. Ashley and Mr. Thornton couldn't refrain from blushing just a little bit.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Crookston Citizen Shows How to Cure Them

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Crookston people testify to permanent cures.

N. L. Nelson, sheet metal worker, of 303 Jackson Avenue, Crookston, Minn., says: "Backache and kidney complaint were constant annoyances to me for years. The aching in my back was not continued, but the cause was always there, and it required only a little exertion or a cold to bring on a severe attack. I was suffering more than usual when I was induced to go to Wallace's drug store and get Doan's Kidney Pills. Their use promptly took the pains out of my back and helped me generally. I want to give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit for working this wonderful cure."

RAILROAD EMPLOYES EFFECT ORGANIZATION

Railroad Employes Club launched here yesterday with a charter Membership of 325 with 50 applications on file.

From Monday's Daily—

The railroad employees of the surrounding territory met in the Crookston depot waiting room Sunday afternoon for the purpose of organizing a Railroad Employees' club, with headquarters at Crookston. This club has for an object the advancement of its members in a social and educational way, and it seems but meet and proper that such an organization should be effected.

No such move has heretofore been agitated in this vicinity, and it is met with enthusiasm in all branches of the service.

The meeting was called to order at 4 p. m. by Attorney J. H. Maybury, there being about one hundred people present. After a short preliminary address by Attorney Maybury as to the purpose and intent of the organization the election of officers took place with the following result.

Thomas McTaggart, President
E. D. Kittoe Vice Chairman.
H. E. Kjorsvik, sec. and treas.

A board of Directors composed of 17 members representing all the departments of the service was elected as follows:

E. Regan, sectionmen
Emil Braff, carpenters.
E. R. Salter, agents.
W. B. McElroy, conductors.
W. J. Saver, freight brakemen.
L. Anderson, roadmasters.
Geo. Pietsch, dispatchers
Mat Milligan, engineers.
Chas Wood, firemen.
W. A. Buckner, operators.
J. W. Smith, Yardmen.
Al. Newland, boilermakers.
J. J. Burke, warehousemen.
E. J. Loken, car repairers.
Julian B. Baker, machinists.
Thomas Morris time.
James H. Maybury, legal departments.

After the regular business, which is necessary at the initial meeting of an organization of this kind had been disposed of, some very interesting papers appurtaining to the railroad business and the relations of the employee to the employer, were read by W. J. Saver, J. H. Maybury and E. D. Kittoe after which a general discussion followed and some very choice remarks were made by E. A. Mills, Laughlin, E. D. Kittoe, F. D. Bell, Julian B. Baker, George Johnson, R. C. Brass, W. J. Saver, Barney Hart, George Pietsch, Tom Morris and E. R. Salter.

The Club has a charter membership of 325 with 50 applicants which have not yet been enrolled.

The organization is nonpartisan as to politics but will see that they themselves will receive justice as a laboring class, and that their employers will receive justice as investors. The meeting was a very enthusiastic one and the railroadmen as a body considers the move one in the right direction.

Another meeting will be held in a short time when matters will be discussed more thoroly and plans drawn up as to the policy and future actions of the Club.

TWO DROWN IN CASS LAKE

BOAT CAPSIZED IN SQUALL YESTERDAY AND OCCUPANTS WENT DOWN

WERE EMPLOYES OF NEW ENGLAND FURNITIURE CO., OF MINNEAPOLIS

From Monday's Daily—

Yesterday afternoon a young man named Bass an dhis companion, employes of the New England Furniture and Carpet Co., of Minneapolis who had been camping at the mouth of Turtle river at Cass Lake since August 1st, were rowing when over taken by a squall, capsizing the boat and drowning both of the occupants.

GEORGE MARKHAM DIES IN MONTANA

Joe Markham passed thru the city this morning on the Duluth train number 34 with the remains of his brother George who died Friday morning at Kallspel after a severe siege of pneumonia.

Mr. Markham was well known and extremely popular thruout this part of the state having at one time conducted the Markham at Bemidji and later went with C. H. Miles to Hibbing where they built a large hotel which soon burned entailing a heavy loss.

He recently became connected with a hotel at Culbertson, Mont. and while traveling about in that state was taken down with pneumonia and removed to a hospital in Kalispel, the county seat of Flathead county, where he died. His mother resides at Hibbing and the funeral will be held at that place under the auspices of the Elks lodge.

8000 TIES UP IN SMOKE

GREAT NORTHERN SUFFERED $5000 LOSS AT BARNESVILLE YESTERDAY

TIES WERE BEING PEELED AND FLAMES SPREAD VERY RAPIDLY

From Monday's Daily—

Yesterday morning 8000 railroad ties were being stripped at Barnesville by the Great Northern caught fire from a match dropped in the strippings and in a few minutes nothing was left but a heap of ashes, the flames being fanned by a stiff wind.

The loss to the company is over $5000.

FOR ASSAULTING MINNESOTA GIRL

GEORGE BURGESS EX-CONVICT IS BOUND OVER IN NORTH DAKOTA

For an assault upon Catherine McKinnon, the 10-year old daughter of Mrs. Elenora Hawkes, George P. Burgess has been arrested at Cando, N. D., on the charge of rape. The defendant was held to the district court in $3000 bonds. He has already served five years in the North Dakota penitentiary for the same crime.

Mrs. Hawkes the mother of the girl, is practically a stranger in Cando, going there from Bemidji, Minn., about a month ago and has since been boarding at the Hotel Leland. It is stated that she has allowed the girl to run at will about town and mingle with boys and for this she has been repeatedly cautioned but has allowed her daughter to continue without restraint. McKinnon the child's father, is a resident of Bemidji.

Marshal Holt of Fosston is spending the day in the city, hobnobbing with the local preservers of the peace.

NEW VARIETY YIELDING RYE

INCREASED YIELDS SECURED FROM MINNESOTA NO. 2.

DISTRIBUTED IN SMALL LOTS TO THE FARMERS OF STATE.

From Monday's Daily—

A new variety of winter rye called Minnesota No. 2 has been originated by the Minnesota Experiment Station, and is now ready for distribution. This rye was obtained by selection from the Swedish rye, and is an exceptionally high yielder. The average yield upon the station grounds for the past eight years is 40.4 bushels per acre, while the average yield of other varieties for the state in the same time was 19.2 bushels per acre. One field of 1.9 acres yielded 48 bushels per acre this fall.

Th grain of this new veriety is plump, and much larger than the varieties commonly grown. The straw is stiff, tall and stands up well.

A few bushels were distributed for trial throughout the state last year in order that yields might be compared under farm conditions with the common varieties. The returns from the entire acreage show that Minnesota No. 2 averaged 27.2 bushels per acre while other rye grown under similar conditions, averaged 17.7 bushels per acre.

Method of Distribution.

Minnesota No. 2 rye is offered to the farmers of the state in two to five bushel lots at the price of $1.25 per bushel, including sacks. Seed will be supplied either by the station or by farmers who have cooperated with the station as seed growers. Commuications in regard to the rye should be addressed to Anderw Boss, Agriculturist, Minnesota Experment Staton, St. Paul, Minn.

GOV. DAVIDSON IS HERO.

Wisconsin Executive Saves Two Men From Drowning.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 8.—While out fishing on Lake Mendota late yesterday afternoon Gov. Davidson rescued two men from drowning. They were in a canoe which was capsized by a heavy wind, and were clinging to the sides of the canoe when rescued. A sudden squall upset several canoes on Lake Mendota. The names of the men rescued by Gov. Davidson were not learned.

GOOD THUNDER MILL BURNED.

Flour Plant and Elevator Are Consumed by Flames.

Good Thundred, Minn., Sept. 8.—An early morning fire starting in the flour mill and grain elevator of the R. L. Houk company completely destroyed the plant, and for a while threatened the destruction of the town.

The loss on the mill and elevator will reach $30,000, and on the stock about $10,000.

A FORTUNE OF $20,000,000

MRS. W. L. DAVIES OF THIS CITY IS ONE OF THE HEIRS OF AN IMMENSE FORTUNE WHICH IS HELD IN TRUST BY GERMAN GOVERNMENT.

From Wednesday's Daily—

Mrs. Wm. Davies, of Crookston, Mrs. Anthony Cannon and White Rupp, the two latter being dead.

Able attorneys have been retained and the matter will be at once taken up with the German government and the complete chain of evidence establishing the direct decendancy of John Rupp from Heinrich Rupp submitted.

John Rupp died in 1828. His wife's maiden name was Susanna Meyers, the most of their children remaining in Pennsylvania until the time of their death. The heirs have been working on the case for a number of years, but not until recently was any organized effort made, which culminated in the opening of the grave of John Rupp, in Numodia cemetedy, Shamokin, Pa., in the presence of nearly a score of relatives, Sept. 1st.

Much local interest is attached to the recent exhuming of the body of John Rupp at Shamokin, Pa., to recover his birth certificate, which was the important link lacking in tracing his being a direct descendant of Heinrich Rupp, who died intestate the fore part of the present century, leaving an immense fortune which the German Government assumed charge of, and which now amounts to over $20,000,000, and which will be paid over as soon as the legal heirs can prove their claims, owing to the fact that one of the few heirs is Mrs. Wm. L. Davies of this city. John Rupp left six children when he died, Jesse, John, William Ponit, Samuel, Jacob and Sarah, all of whom were married excepting the last named, but a Hare now dead.

William Penn Rupp, who made his home at Monmouth for half a century, died in 1897 in his 90th year. He was the father of 5 children, Mrs. Edward Cannon of Oakland, Cal., Mrs. Helen Colo, of Los Angeles, Cal.,

STRIKE ENDS THIS WEEK

CANADIAN PACIFIC DECIDES TO TAKE BACK STRIKING MECHANICS.

CONCESSION BY COMPANY INDICATES THAT STRIKE WAS A SUCCESS.

Winnipeg, Sept. 9. — The Canadian Pacific has decided to take the mechanics on strike back to work this week in their old positions on the wage scale agreed upon by the majority report of the board of conciliation held in Winnipeg, pending further investigation by a second board on some points now in dispute. From appearances it is an unexpected concession by the company, as hundreds of British mechanics will arrive this week for distribution through the West.

RANGE TOWNS FIRE SWEPT

Chisholm Is Destroyed And Other Cities Have A Narrow Escapes.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 6—The forest fires which have been burning the past week closed on several towns and small settlements near Duluth Saturday afternoon, wiping out, renderng several thousands of people homeless, destroying property valued at several million dollars and sweeping out over la nds in many counties in northern Wisconsin and northern Minnesota.

Chisholm, Minn., a town of 4,000 people on the Mesaba iron range, 90 miles north of Duluth, was completely wiped out as a slate is sponged.

The immense heat produced by so much fire, seemed to create drafts of air that caused fires come in onto the town from all quarters Saturday Chisholm in its fiery grip and completely destroyed it. For three days the dry wood has been on fire west and north of the town and small bush fires wer e reported to the eastward. Gradually these closed in upon the doomed town, but no danger was felt by the citizens, as the town is protected on the east by Longyear Lake, a small body of water.

Destruction at Chisholm.

The most destructive of the many forest fires was that which embraced afternoon, and it was seen that the town was doomed, the citizens fleeing to save their lives, nothing could be removed and the town was totally destroyed with all the personal effects of the occupants. The Great Northern used box cars to convey the people to safety, and the governor sent the militia to the scene to protect abandoned property from looters and robbers.

The little settlements of Dewey and Dedham on the Great Northern, ten miles southwest of Superor, were destroyed and most of the settlers in that neighborhood brought to Superior in a special which gathered up farmers at every crossing and hamlet on the road. Boyleston, six miles southwest of Superior, is also threatened and the inhabitants came to Superior. The flames made the running of trains difficult and the heat scorched the pant from the cars and breaks windows. The railroads are keepnig men on guard at the bridges and others to help farmers escape.

Loss About $2,000,000.

The damage to property is estimated at $1,000,000 and the personal property at $750,000, including the stocks of the merchants. A Hibbing insurance man who had many policies on the property in the destroyed town estimated the insurance carried by Chisholm merchants at $500,000. Several insurance men went to the Mesaba range yesterday, and the insurance will be adjusted as rapidly as possible to provide immediate funds for those who wish to rebuild.

Hibbing, five miles west of Chisholm, afforded accommodations to about 1,000 refugees from Chisholm Saturday night, and it was expected that 3,000 would be given places to sleep last night.

WIND GOING DOWN SAVES RANGE TOWNS

ARMY OF MEN FIGHT FLAMES WITH FURIOUS ZEAL YESTERDAY AND LAST NIGHT—NO PROMISE OF RAIN YET AND HARD WIND FROM ANY DIRECTION WILL FAN THE GREEDY FLAMES INTO RENEWED ENERGY—FIGHT AT HIBBING OF THOUSAND MEN AGAINST FLAMES ENDED BY DYING OF WIND IN EVENING.

Duluth, Sept. 9.—Fighting desperately against the wind, forest fires that threatened momentarily to add six more range towns to the blackened ruins of Chisholm and Snowball, practically the entire male population of the Messaba region composed a self-constituted fire brigade that struggled fiercely all day yesterday and late into the night to save their homes and property. After raging fiercely all afternoon, the flames died down with the wind in the evening and gave the army of fighters a chance to rest after their strenuous work.

Hibbing, Nashwauk, Buhl, Bovey, Coleraine and Mountain Iron, which were considered doomed during the greater part of the afternoon, are safe again until the wind revives. There is still little promise of rain and a strong wind from any direction will fan the quieted flames into renewed menace.

Fight Fire Demon.

Brooklyn, a small suburb of Hibbing, is threatened by fire, and if this portion of the town catches the rest is doomed. Buhl and Nashwauk, which were threatened with destruction Saturday are again in danger, and the flames are creeping slowly toward them. The citizens are fighting the onrushing flames desperately.

Aurora is entirely surrounded by forest fires and the citizens are fighting the flames. The town is believed to be safe unless a strong wind should rise from the north or south.

An Appalling Sight.

Mitchell, a small town about one mile southeast of Hibbing, was threatened with destruction all day yesterday and was saved only by heroic efforts of the inhabitants. Several hundred men are still guarding the place. The pine timber which surrounds Mitchell has been almost entirely consumed.

Between Nashwauk and Hibbing, a region twenty-two miles long, the forests are one continuous battle front of flames. From Hibbing it is an appalling sight, and big clouds of smoke have been pouring over the threatened city all day, hiding the sun as though the sky was overcast with rainclouds.

Hibbing in Danger.

Northwest of Hibbing the flames have spread over a wide area of cutover timber, and the burning district is increasing rapidly. Between Chisholm and Buhl, a distance of eight miles, there are many small fires which threaten hourly to be fanned into conflagrations.

Small fires are blazing north of Virginia, but that town is not endangered. Hibbing people are watching the progress of the fire to the south with anxious eyes. They are conscious of the fact that if the little suburb of Brooklyn burns their own city, the metropolis of the range, will also go up in smoke.

Nothing but Rain Can Save It.

Brooklyn is about a half a mile south of the residence section of the city. A Great Northern railway spur from Brooklyn to Kelly's Lake is the only barrier to the flames that are raging on the outskirts of the suburb. If the fiery wall jumps this track and is fanned into the houses of Brooklyn nothing but a deluge of rain can save the big town of Hibbing just beyond. No promises of rain could be made yesterday by the local forecaster. Without rain the forest fires, which are increasing throughout the northern part of the state, will continue to spread and will continue to menace millions of dollars' worth of standing timber and scores of small towns, settlements and farms scattered throughout the timber district.

Towns Completely Surrounded.

Reports from the range district state that the fire menace is almost as great as Saturday, when the flames destroyed Chisholm. The fire area is larger and most of the towns are completely surrounded. Should a strong wind from any direction spring up before rain comes, untold damage will be caused.

MERITORIOUS CANDIDATE

THEODORE A THOMPSON'S CANDIDACY FOR REGISTER OF DEEDS NOMINATION

IS MEETING WITH GENERAL APPROVAL THROUGHOUT POL KCOUNTY.

As the primary election, which will be held Sept. 15, is near at hand, the people of Polk county are naturally evincing a greater degree of interest in the personnel of the candidates. It is naturally their desire to select the men who will serve them the best. The office of Register of Deeds is an important one, and a man should be selected who is fitted for the work, and several years of experience certainly puts Mr. Theodore A. Thompson in a position to give the people the desired good service. He has been deputy under Register of Deeds Stair, and has made a splendid record. In this connection a brief outline of Mr. Thompson's past history is not out of place.

Mr. Thompson was born September 20th, 1871, in the city of Waseca, Minnesota, where he received his education, graduating from the High School June 8, 1888. The same year he moved with his parents to this county and located on a homestead in the township of Hill River, where the parental home still is.

For eight years he was engaged in teaching school and in farming and for two years was in business in McIntosh, part of this time being the Assistant Post Master.

For a period of six years, he was Asst. Cashier of the Citizens' Bank of McIntosh, and for three years of this time he also held the office of Village Treasurer.

During the past three years, he has been the efficient Deputy Register of Deeds of this county and is well qualified by education and experience and thoroughly competent to fulfill the duties of the office to which he aspires.

He is a kind and courteous gentleman, always ready and willing to attend promptly to the wants of anyone having business with the office and, without doubt, the voters of the county would make no mistake in nominating him and electing him to the office.

CHOLERA EPIDEMIC

LOSS OF STOCK FOLLOWS DESTRUCTION OF GRAIN BY HAIL.

HOG CHOLERA HAS BROKEN OUT INCREASING REDWOOD CO. FARMERS' TROUBLES.

Redwood Falls, Minn., Sept. 9.—The hog cholera situation in Sheridan township, this county, does not improve. Mr. Logna is the heaviest loser yet reported, having lost about ninety head, while Messrs. Glumm and Wolford have lost about sixty each; Mr. Muertzel reports fifty lost and Mr. Gano forty. Others in the same neighborhood lost a number.

This district was in the path of the heavy hail storm in June, and, coming after the loss of their grain, the cholera epidemic is doubly bad for the farmers.

Woman Killed; Husband Hurt.

Aberdeen, S. D., Sept. 9.—Mrs. John Breidenbach was instantly killed and her husband sustained severe injuries to his spine in a runaway accident here.

GAME WARDEN IS DEFENDED

EXECUTIVE AGENT AVERY WRITES EDITOR WHO CRITICIZED ARRESTS.

INDIANS WERE HUNTING OFF RESERVATION AND SOLD THE MOOSE KILLED.

From Monday's Daily—

Executive Agent Carlos Avery, of the State Game and Fish Commission has written a letter to the publisher of the White Earth Tomahawk in which he upholds Game Warden Munch and the sheriff of Red Lake county in their action in arresting three Indians for violating the game laws of the state. The letter is self explanatory and follows in full:

Publisher White Earth Tomahawk,
White Earth Minn.

Dear Sir:

I have been forwarded a clipping from your valued publication containing an article pertaining to a recent prosecution against certain Red Lake Indians instituted by Mr. William F. Munch and the sheriff of Red Lake Co.

You have evidently been misinformed as to the facts in the case, and would advise you that the offenses for which these Indians were prosecuted were committed in the township of Hickory, Red Lake Co., and not on the reservation and the officers in making the arrests were acting under instructions from this office and from the attorney general of the state, and are not deserving of any censure.

I would say further that it has not been the policy of this department to interfere with the Indians in any manner who confine their hunting to the reservation for their own needs, but it is our intention to repress, so far as possible the illegal sale of game by the Indians as well as by all other persons. The three Indians prosecuted killed moose off the reservation and sold it in Red Lake Co. Will say further that the person buying the meat was also prosecuted. I am satisfied that you would not intentionally misrepresent the facts in this case and trust that you will set the matter right before your readers, as it should not be made to appear that the game wardens are making arrests which are not warranted.

As you have the best interests of the Indians at heart, I would respectfully suggest that you warn them against hunting or trapping off the reservation out of season and selling game, so that it may not be necessary to make any further arrests.

Yours truly,

—Carlos Avery,
Executive Agent.

PENNED AND PILFERED

Kermit Roosevelt will have to hurry if he wants to find bear shooting in northern Minnesota. The news that he is coming west to hunt reached the bears' headquarter den yesterday and the bears are packing up and taking no time about it.

A large bear sent in the news yesterday that there would not be a bear in northern Minnesota by the end of next week. "We are taking no chances," writes the bear. "We are tickled to death when we heard that Teddy was bound for South Africa and was going to take Kermit along. We never thought that Kermit would want to practice on the residents of his own country."

The bear refused to inform us what direction they are going to take but it is believed that they are fleeing to the protection of the Canadian mounted police. Some it is thought will seek the safety of the animal shows and zoological gardens until the South African hunt is safely under way.

In the women's building at State fair is a young man at a booth selling shells and other odd trinkets. He stutters somewhat, enough to make his speech a trifle picturesque and he is a prime favorite with the young women employed in the building

He was showing an old lady some of the trinkets today and at the same time holding his own with the young women, calling them "dear" "sweetheart" and the like. The old lady stood it for a while but a severe cast of countenance became more and more severe as the raillery progressed. Finally she cast a final look of reproof upon the young man saying:

"Young man, I think you are a cog in the wheel of hell."

The retort started quickly and progressed slowly.

"M-m-m-adam, I think you are the m-m-m-m-main shaft."

Are the travelling men going to be a factor in the state campaign again? Sam Langum raises this question in the Preston Times, on information from one of the "boys" who told him that the "herring peddlers" were again going to elect John A. Johnson governor. The Times declares this an indication that the corporations are against Jacobson, and calls upon the farmers to stand by the republican candidate. The traveling men have always resented this line of argument. They declare that they are politically independent and do not get their views from the companies they represent, or echo their employers' sentiments.—Minneapolis Journal.

There must be some life in the boy or he will not rise under any circumstances until the day appointed for the resurrection of the dead. If he starts out in life as a failure he will end as one unless he gets thoroughly wakened in some way. Give every boy and girl a fair chance and reasonable encouragement, and do not condemn them even because of a large degree of downright stupidity; for many so-called good-for-nothing boys blockheads, numskulls, dullards or dunces, were only boys out of thir places round boys forced into square holes.

Faribault, Minn., Sept. 3. — Fred Peterson, aged eleven years, and Henry Arner, aged twelve years, were drowned at Cedar lake while playing in a boat.

BABY CAB ATTACHMENT

CROOKSTON MAN'S INVENTION IS RECEIVING FAVORABLE ATTENTION

BABY CARRIAGE ATTACHMENTS ARE BEING MANUFACTURED AT MAPLE BAY PLANT

From Friday's Daily—

Ole Fylling of this city has perfected the sleigh runner attachment to an ordinary baby carriage and the invention he has been working on for some time is now beyond the experimental stage. The sleigh runner is for attachment to any baby cab for winter use, and can be brought into use by a simple tap of the toe without even losing a step in walking. The advantage of this is that in winter many places are bare of snow, while others it is piled high, with this contrivance a quick change can be made from wheels to runners or vice versa.

Mr. Fylling is spending this week at the state fair exhibiting the invention, and it is receiving a great deal of attention by manufacturers, as nothing like it is on the market and it is bound to become a staple article and good seller as soon as it becomes more widely known.

The Maplebay Mfg. Co., has already made one thousand and have the material for 4,000 more on the ground, and are in position to turn out as many as can be sold. Without any effort on Mr. Fylling's part, 700 have already been disposed of. S. W. Wheeler and C. M. Anderson have purchased an interest in the invention of Mr. Fylling and will assist in getting the article manufactured, and advertised before the public.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

ST. BERNARD'S ACADEMY OF GRAND FORKS CELEBRATES 25th YEAR OF EXISTENCE

The twenty-fifth anniversary of St. Bernard's Academy at Grand Forks is being celebrated today. Extensive preparations have been made for the occasion and there will undoubtedly be a large attendance at the reception and program to be given this evening beginning at 7:30. An invitation has been extended to the general public to attend.

After the program refreshments will be served.

Those who have not visited the buildings and campus will be given an opportunity tonight and will find a pleasant welcome.

The sisters want it understood that the invitation is general and that each and every one will find a welcome in the evening.

GRAVES OF VETERANS

ARE MARKED BY GOVERNMENT STONES BEARING NAME AND RANK OF HEROES

SEVERAL HAVE BEEN PLACED IN OAKDALE CEMETERY THE PAST MONTH

Colonel Cobham Post No. 90 of this city through its officers has been instrumental in having seven new government head stones placed over the graves of the dead heroes who lie in the G. A. R. lot in Oakdale cemetary. There had been several recieved before so that now all in the cemetery here are provided for and about all of the soldiers graves of Polk county are already marked but if any of our readers know of any that are neglected, they are earnestly urged to report them. All of the expenses of the headstones are paid the government pays for the stones and the freight on same and the state allows $7.50 each for the setting of same. The law passed covering the above follows:

"Upon application to the quartermaster general of the United States headstones will be furnished for unmarked graves of soldiers, sailors and marines who served in the state militia or the army or the navy of the United States during any war or insurrection (including the Revolution) whether regular or volunteer and whether they died in the service or since their muster out or discharge therefrom. Headstones will be furnished also for unmarked graves of army nurses who had regular or volunteer commissions as such.

"The headstones are of the best American marble, 39 inches long, 12 inches wide and four inches thick, the top slightly rounded and the portion of the stone which will be above the ground when set is handrubbed; each headstone is inscribed with the name, rank (if above private) company and state regiment or other organization to which the deceased belonged, cut in relief with a sunken shield. No deviation can be made from these specifications which are prescribed by the Secretay of War and the law does not provide for any other purposes except for the headstones as above described; neither is it lawful to make any money allowance in place of furnishing a head stone."

"Headstones will be shipped by freight, prepaid by the government, to the nearest station or steamboat landing, they will be delivered to the street address or to the cemetery."

The graves of the following were those who were supplied with this mark of honor during the past month:

WASHBURN HAS CLOSE CALL.

Wisconsin Town Is Threatened by Fire but Is Saved.

Washburn, Wis., Sept. 5. — The entire west end of the city had a close call from being completely wiped out by fire yesterday when four dwellings were completely destroyed and a dozen or more places were slightly damaged.

A heavy wind was blowing at the time and sparks from the fires kept a bucket brigade of citizens working hard to keep down the fires which were starting.

WIFE SAYS HE IS MURDERER.

Indian at Appleton, Wis., Charged With Killing Own Child.

Appleton, Wis., Sept. 5.—Elissa Anton, an Oneida Indian, was brought to Appleton yesterday, having been arrested on complaint of his wife and charged with the murder of his eighteen-months-old daughter. Anton is in jail here and will have his hearing to-day. He pleads innocence. Mrs. Anton alleges that on Aug. 31 her husband came home drunk and fell over his daughter on the floor, inflicting fatal injuries.

OPIUM JOINT LOCATED.

Police Raid Tough Negro Joints in Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 5. — An opium joint has been raided in Fargo. For some weeks the officials have been convinced that one was in operation in the negro section, but had been unable to locate the place till last night, when a raid was made. The discovery of the joint has increased the feeling against the tough element of the negroes. There are more tough blacks in the city than ever before.

Poisoned by Ham.

Sterling, Ill., Sept. 5. — Following the death a few days ago of her husband and oldest daughter of ptomaine poisoning, Mrs. Adam Lefever died of the same malady. The victims are believed to have been poisoned by eating tainted ham.

NO VERDICT IN MURDER CASE

CORONER'S JURY DECIDES TO WITHOLD IT UNTIL FURTHER INVESTIGATION

CORONER CHESTERMAN HAS CONFERENCE WITH JURORS AND OFFICIALS

From Friday's Daily—

Coroner Chesterman was over to E. Grand Forks last night to further investigate the case of the man who is believed to have been murdered and his body thrown in the Red River. He decided to accede to the wish of the jurors, East Grand Forks men to withhold a verdict until the case was further probed and the identity of the man established, if such a thing is possible.

Nothing has been heard from Eveleth but the officials are confident that the man is Kali Jokiaho, of that city. It is expected that something will be heard from Eveleth by today.

It is understood that the East Grand Forks police have secured a clue in regard to the mystery that may lead to its being cleared up, but they are carefully guarding their information. One reason that a verdict has been delayed is a desire to find out if possible who committed the crime before rendering it.

RETURNED AFTER STAY IN NORWAY

HENRY GRANUM WAS NOT CONTENT IN THE OLD COUNTRY

Two years ago Henry Granum who had prospered in business at Fosston and Plummer sold all his interests in this country and went to Norway with his family expecting to remain there and make his future home.

He purchased two farms on which he made many improvements and began the life of a well to do farmer. But he had lived in this bustling north west too long to be content with such an existence, and after two years of it he sold out again at a good profit and is back in Polk county looking for a business opening.

Mr. and Mrs. Granum were blessed with the birth of a daughter while in Norway, and Mr. Granum says he has now three American boys and one Norwegian girl.

DEEP CRACKS FROM ECZEMA

Could Lay Slate-Pencil in One—Hands in Dreadful State—Disease Defied Remedies and Prescriptions—Suffered Seven Years.

FOUND A PERMANENT CURE IN CUTICURA

"I had eczema on my hands for about seven years and during that time I had used several so-called remedies, together with physicians' and druggists' prescriptions. The disease was so bad on my hands that I could lay a slate-pencil in one of the cracks and a rule placed across the hand would not touch the pencil. I used ——, ——, —— Skin Lotion, —— Remedy and others externally but I did not use any internal remedy, and while some gave partial relief, none relieved as much as did the first box of Cuticura Ointment. I made a purchase of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and my hands were perfectly cured after two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of soap were used. I now keep them on hand for sunburn, etc., and use Cuticura Soap for shaving. I could write a great deal more in reference to my cure but do not want to take more of your time. William H. Dean, Newark, Del., Mar. 28, 1907."

CHILD SUFFERED
With Sores on Legs. Cured in Two Weeks by Cuticura.

"My little daughter suffered with sores on her legs all last summer. Her feet were sore, too, and she couldn't wear her shoes. I think she was poisoned by running through weeds but the doctor said it was eczema. I tried several remedies but failed to find a cure. Then I sent for Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her in two weeks. I find Cuticura the best I ever tried for any kind of sore and I hope I shall never be without it. Mrs. Gertie Laughlin. Ivydale, W. Va., Apr. 25, 1907."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass.

POLK CO. HOGS TOP NOTCHERS

TOM BJOIN SELLS CARLOAD OF HOGS AND SHEEP IN ST. PAUL

Tom Bjoin returned this morning from St. Paul where Tuesday he sold a carload of fine hogs and sheep at top prices, getting $6.60 per hundred for the hogs and $5.25 per hundred for the sheep. Mr. Bjoin got $125 more for his 34 hogs than he was offered here.

He complains of very poor shipping facilities. He shipped Saturday night expecting to get to St. Paul for the Monday morning market. However he was side tracked at Melrose for 35 hours and arrived at South St. Paul Tuesday afternoon after most of the buyers had left. He says the stock yards at Melrose are in such bad shape that he found his hogs and sheep running over the prairie Monday, and another shipper lost some of his stock which swam across the river.

LAND OWNERS WELL PLEASED

NON-RESIDENT OWNERS OF VALLEY LANDS WILL HOLD THEIR VALLEY PROPERTY

HAVE BEEN WILLING TO SELL BUT TAKE THEIR LAND FROM THE MARKET

Since the beginning of harvest hundreds of thousands of acres of Red River Valley lands which have been on the market for the past few years have been withdrawn and are not for sale. This land was owned mostly by parties in Iowa, Illinois and Indiana and the returns owing to adverse conditions had not been up to expectations. Many of them however have been getting their farms in better shape and this year when they arrived on their annual tour of inspection the crops were so much better than they had anticipated in the face of abnormally dry weather during June and July that they have lost all desire to sell.

One of the men, John R. Mascall of Cambridge, Ill., who is heavily interested near this city, has withdrawn all of his land located within 10 miles of this city, or practically done so, as nothing less than $60 will buy an acre of it. He says that land that will produce a big crop when properly farmed with practically no rainfall, will be selling for $75 and $100 per acre in the course of a few years.

Another party, J. H. Helm a big land dealer of Colfax, Ia., is also here and has withdrawn his Polk Co., land from the market for the same reasons He has been selling Texas lands mostly for the past two years, but on his present trip noted such a splendid improvement which has come with better farming methods, more diversified farming etc., that instead of selling any lands he has, will purchase more.

This is a fair indication of the general improvement of the feeling that exists generally among outside investors. Instead of wanting to unload badly, as has been the case for the past few years, they are taking their land off the market and looking for more.

MINERS TO RESIST CUT.

Employes and Operators Meeting in a Joint Conference.

Helena, Mont., Sept. 5. — The Montana coal miners and operators met here in joint conference yesterday to arrange a wage scale for the ensuing year. Little was accomplished save organization and the appointment of a conference committee. It is understood the miners will resist the cut in wages which the operators are said to desire.

EXPRESS HORSES TO SEATTLE

FANCY DRAFT HORSES TRAVEL ON REGULAR PASSENGER TRAIN TO SEATTLE

6TH CAR THAT BIG SEATTLE CO., HAS SHIPPED—EXPRESS $650

From Thursday's Daily—

No. 5 failed to arrive this morning till noon, having been delayed by an accident to the engine at Evansville. The train was heavily loaded with passengers returning from the state fair and also had a shipment of 12 fine draft horses which were billed to Seattle by express from Chicago and were in charge of J. H. Powell and the horses were for the Sound Transfer Co., which also sells high grade draft horses.

The horses cost in Chicago about $500 per team, and are shipped by express to avoid delay and the greater danger encountered in shipments by freight. It costs about $55 per head to ship them by express, but they bring from $750 to $1000 per team in Seattle for heavy dray work. This is the 6th car that has been expressed west by the same company this summer.

21 ARE MADE LEGAL VOTERS

CITIZENSHIP PAPERS GRANTED TO LARGE NUMBER OF APPLICANTS

The Polk county district court was in special session the past two days grinding out citizens. The formula for becoming a legal voter in this country, is under the new law a very complicated and difficult proceeding compared with former laws. The present law is not yet at a stage of perfection, therefore many reconstructions thereof have been recommended by different authorities.

There were 21 out of the list of 23 who had served notice of application three months ago and appeared with their witnesses and received their final papers without any trouble.

They will not however be able to vote this fall as the law requires every voter to be a citizen 90 days.

This court for citizen making, convenes, in this city four times a year namely The first Tuesday in March, June, Sept., and December.

Following is the list of those granted papers:

Trygve Randers, Donald McDonald, Ira B. Fisher, Eric Johnson, Sibert Hauge and Wm. Grieves of Crookston.

Ole J. Brunstad, Olaf E. Wengaard, Eric O. Lunbhagen, Halvor O. Berstad Embret E. Jordet, Ole W. Olson, Cornelius Carlson, Halsten G. Johnson, Jorgen K. Haugen and Anton A. Aamot of Fosston.

David Todd and Joseph Balak, Homolka.

Emil Peterson East Grand Forks; Carl T. Lund, Lindsay; Nels E. Peterson, Fisher; Ommund J. Ramse, McIntosh.

ITALIAN DIES OF WOUNDS.

Man Stabbed in Chicago Brawl Succumbs to Injuries.

Chicago, Sept. 55. — Joseph Carlo, husband of Anna Carlo, known as the "Queen of Little Italy," died yesterday of three stab wounds inflicted, the police say, in a quarrel with Antonio Pottozo, a fellow Italian, Sunday night.

Carlo had taken part in ward politics and for a long time had been an enemy of Pottozo, who is now in custody.

MAY CONVENE SOLONS.

Shortage of Funds Makes Special Session of Legislature Necessary.

Idianapolis, Sept. 5. — Gov. Hanly held a conference yesterday with several state officials regarding the advisability of calling a special session of the legislature.

It is understood the reason for the call is that the state is short of funds.

BRUSH FIRE FATAL TO TOT.

Brother Puts Burning Child Under the Pump to Quench Flames.

Rhinelander, Wis., Sept. 5. — The four-year-old son of Chris Warner, an employe of the Rhinelander Paper company, was burned to death last night while playing about a burning brush pile near his home. His clothing caught fire, even the cap on his head blazing. An older brother dragged him to a pump and quenched the flames. The child died shortly after reaching his home.

Cokato Has Threatening Fire.

Cokato, Minn., Sept. 5.—The large barn belonging to A. P. Peterson caught fire from some unknown cause last night and burned to the ground before the work of the fire department became effective. The barn is a total loss, with no insurance. The entire town was threatened by a strong wind.

From Over The Valley

VETERAN CHARGED WITH MURDER IS PHYSICAL WRECK

With the charge of murder, on which he has once been convicted, but which conviction was set aside by the supreme court, J. B. Hazlett, a veteran of the Civil war and for many years of Sargent county, is in a pitiful condition. As a result of brooding over his troubles, he has become mentally unbalanced, while physically he is a complete wreck. It is hardly probable that he will ever again have to face a jury on the charge of murder. The murder of which Hazlett was convicted occured several years since, Van Buskirk, a carpenter, being the victim. The prisoner was sentenced to the state penitentiary for life, but asked for a new trial, which was granted.

FERGUS FALLS CREAMERY SCORES FIRST PRIZE

The Fergus Falls Co-operative creamery has secured first prize, a handsome medal, in the Gathered Cream butter scoring contest at the state fair. This is an honor worth securing, and shows that this section is capable of producing the best butter in Minnesota, while Minnesota produces the best butter of any state in the union. The exhibits are judged the week before the fair and are then placed on exhibition.

WHISKEY FATAL TO FIVE YEAR OLD GIRL

Wahpeton, N. D., Sept., 3—Sophia Schmidt, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schmidt, died from the effects of drinking about 6 ounces of whiskey. The child's mother had given her several drops of the whiskey in water as the child was ill, and left the bottle on the table while she went into the next room. The little girl picked up the bottle and drank about six ounces and died a few hours later.

HISTORY CONNECTED WITH THE PEMBINA TRAIL

Volume II of the Historical society collections will be published very soon. It will contain H. G. Gunn's account of the Selkirk settlement. Mc Leod's Journal, Captain C. J. Aitkin's log book and many other papers interesting to the students of North Dakota history. The book will be delivered to the members of the State Historical society about October 1.

THIEF RIVER FALLS MAY PURCHASE FAIR GROUNDS

H. N. Hager is offering 64 acres of land to be used for fair grounds adjoining the city of Thief River Falls for $2500, which is bounded on the west by the section line road running to Excel, Middle River and Greenbush on the east by the Great Northern railroad on the south by the quarter line. This is the highest, dryest and nicest piece of land near the city and the city is without a fair ground.

EIGHT HEAD OF CATTLE KILLED BY LIGHTNING

During one of the worst electric storms that has visited these parts this summer eight head of cattle belonging to Ole Breckenstrand of West Valley were struck by lightning and killed last Sunday night. The cattle were standing along the fence in the pasture and they were all killed at the same time.—Argyle Banner.

SCORING OF FERTILE AND RINDAL CREAMERIES

In the butter contest at the state fair for the gathered cream class, Henry Swenson, of the Fertile creamery, scored 93 and was eighth in the list, the first prize going to Adin Nelson, of Fergus Falls. W. Larson of the Rindal creamery was fifth with 93½.

Grand Larceny Charged.

New York, Sept. 5.—Edgar A. Whitney, a former agent for the Parkhurst society, who was identified with many crusades against police corruption here, was arrested on two charges of grand larceny.

EARLY MISSIONARY HOUSE THE LAST LANDMARK

The old Catholic church building which has done duty since 1878 at Walhalla, N. D. was bought on Saturday by Joseph Boodenstiner near that place who will move it out on his farm. The building is composed mostly of the native poplar cut on the river banks and sawed into boards and dimension stuff at the Mager sawmill. The sills are of native oak and are as sound as ever. Its removal will take away about the last of the old land marks from the townsite.

IRON RANGE CATTLE BUYERS IN EASTERN POLK

B. Bessette loaded two cars of cattle at McIntosh Wednesday for shipment to Hibbing for which he paid the following prices: milch cows $25 to $30 per head. Beef catttle, steers 800 to 1,000 pounds, $2.50 per hundred cows $2 to $2.25; bulls $2; running calves $2; sucking calves $3 per hundred. Mr. Bessette will be back there bettween the 20th and the 25th of next month for another bunch of stock.

MISCHIEVOUS LADS HOOKED WATER MELONS

A car loaded with water melons consigned to the wholesale house of Finch-Winslow-Carlisle company, of Thief River Falls proved quite tempting to a number of young boys of that city Saturday evening. The car stood upon the Soo right-of-way and about 100 melons were stolen by some fifteen boys. It is quite a serious offense to steal water melons up in this section, but a hew hundred miles south of here where they are raised it is different. The boys' fathers were called upon to settle and no arrests were made.

WEATHERHEAD RESIGNS NEW MEMBER APPOINTED

Jason Weatherhead of Ada, who has been a member of the state board of equalization for this district, last week resigned and Julius J. Olson of Warren has been appointed in his place. Mr. Weatherhead has made an excellent member of the state board but was a little too independent to please Gov. Johnson. The newly appointed member is a good man and we hope that he will follow in the footsteps of his predecessor.

Response Should Be Generous

Chisholm and the surrounding country has been visited by a terrible calamity. Chisholm is wiped off the map, only one business house, the new high school building and less than a dozen dwellings remaining. The settlers in the surrounding country have lost their all. The owners of homes in Chisholm carried but small insurance as the rates were prohibitive. The total loss in Chisholm is $1,500,000 and the estimated loss in Chisholm and the surrounding country $3,500,000.

This means that thousands of people need some aid until they get straightened around and get to work again. Gov. Johnson at once named a relief committee, and in a few hours over $10,000 was raised over the telephone.

In calamities of this kind the centers of population of the state should not wait till they are called upon. Every city should take the matter up voluntarily. Crookston should send in a contribution at once. Big amounts are not necessary if every community does its share. It should not be left to Duluth a nd other cities in the immediate vicinity to provide all the relief.

When humanity is suffering, the American people are generous. They are willing to give, but some person or organization must take the initiative.

Crookston should forward her share at once. $1 now will do more good than $10 a week from now. It is immediate aid that is imperative.

Representative Men For Legislators

The approaching Primary Election is close at hand, and every voter in Polk County, Minn., is vitally interested in who the successful nominees shall be. While this is true as regards all offices, because o fthe present critical stage of the development of this section of the state, far more than usual interest is centered in the manner of men who shall be selected by the Republican party for the State Legislature from the 62nd District.

It is a plain business proposition that is before the voters. As is well known under the present apportionment, Polk County has not as large a representation in the legislature as some other portions of the state, and as has been said, the only way to remedy this is to make up for the loss in numbers by sending men of recognized ability, men who take a broad view of public affairs, and forget their more important duties by adding some hobby, which they imagine will make votes, and who,, after election are not in a position to give Polk County proper representation when weighty legislation comes up for consideration.

J. H. Stair, the present Register of Deeds of Polk County, we believe to be one of the men best fitted for the place, and his past record as a public official, and the manner in which he conducts his private business bears us out in this statement.

A careful investigation of the manner in which the affairs of the Register of Deeds has been conducted shows, First,—That the office is costing the tax payers of Polk county no more than it did under former administrations. Second,—That the work of the office is kept strictly up to date now, while under former administrations it was almost always from two to six weeks behind. Third,—The people who have business in the Register of Deeds' office are unanimous in their commendation of the manner in which the work of the office has been conducted. Does not this very condition of affairs demonstrate that Mr. Stair has more than ordinary executive ability?

The man with experience, ability and integrity should get the support of every loyal citizen. t is results we want, and the man should be sent to the legislature who can get them.

The Journal approached Mr. Stair for a stateemnt in answer to the vicious attacks made upon him by the Vesterheimen, an unreliable and prejudiced sheet, issued and circulated solely in the interest of certain politicians. Mr. Stair stated that the attacks were worthy of no notice on his part, as the statements made therein were bare falsehoods, as are the methods used by the editor of that paper when he tries to accomplish anything, and that if he could not be elected as the result of clean politics he did not want to be elected at all. He was of the opinion that the voters of Polk county would pay very little attention to attacks from such a source.

HUNTERS FOR MARKET ARRESTED AT ORLEANS

Deputy Game Warden Munch has just completed the most clever coupe of the season, succeeding in breaking up a gang which had organized a system for the killing and shipment of game to St. Paul and Minneapolis for the market ,and the fining of one member of the outfit $70 and costs, and also landed a hotel man at Hallock, having him fined $20 and costs for serving game birds for dinner last Sunday.

Last Saturday Warden Munch received a tip that things were not as as they should be at Orleans, Kittson county, on the Soo, and within 48 hours he had the guilty men in court and their fines were paid.

It seems that T. W. Hugill, a young man of Orleans, was doing the shooting, and after some clever detective work in which Game Warden Munch posed as a hunter negotiating for the purchase of Hugill's bird dog. Hugill when cornered, confessed that he, on Sept. 3rd, had shot 7 prairie chickens and sold them to G. W. Lewis, the Soo agent at Orleans for 20 cents apiece. Lewis in turn sold them to Express Messenger McDonald who runs on the Soo to St. Paul, and could dispose of them for fancy prices to restaurants. Thus a complete system had been organized for a profitable fall's business, but it proved so costly that no one else will probably care to take the risk.

Game Warden Munch had but the one man, Hugill, arrested, on the agreement that Lewis and McDonald put up a portion of the fine, which they very readily did, and the matter will now be dropped and the total cost to the three is nearly $100, or $14.29 per bird, a rather expensive pastime. Hugill was arraigned before Justice Douglas Gardner Monday morning and entered a plea of guilty to the charge. Other shipments had been made, but the one was sufficient for a lasting lesson.

On his way to Orleans, Warden Munch took dinner Sunday at the Pacific Hotel at Hallock, operated by W. J. Newton, who located there from Canada but six weeks ago. Mr. Munch was given his choice between roast beef and chicken for dinner and chose chicken, thinking of course it was tame chicken. He nearly collapsed when he was served with the best portion of a prairie chicken. He paid for his dinner, and then asked if he could not have a half dozen chicken sandwiches put up. His request was complied with, and he lugged off the evidence. Monday on his return from Orleans he paid Host Newton a friendly call, hailed him before Judge N. B. Swanson of Hallock, where he entered a plea of guilty to serving game birds for charge, and was fined $20 and costs.

The sportsmen of the state will particularly rejoice that the scheme for the wholesale shipment of chickens to the cities was nipped in the bud, as an awful slaughter results when hunters make a business of killing game birds for the market.

The work of Game Warden Munch was very clever, and serves to create a most wholesome respect for the game laws by all hunters.

The Advantages Of A Check Account

The actual protection afforded your money is the first consideration but there are many other reasons for a check account at a reliable, conservative bank; the incentive for conserving your income; the building up of your credit; the handling of your financial affairs in a systematic manner; the safety of paying all your bills by check instead of cash; the exact change and a receipt for each aud every payment made; a complete record of your income and expenses without the labor and bother of keeping books and many others—all well worthy your consideration.

Come in and see us, we will be glad to talk the matter over with you and explain any point you do not fully understand.

He will cover the territory in this section and will continue to make Crookston his headquarters. Mr. Brink is well and favorably known throughout this section of the country and Lamm & Co. could not have made a more popular selection. Mr. Brink is popular with the trade and the goods he sells are popular—making a very strong combination.

Yesterday afternoon the chairmen of the various committees appointed in connection with the celebration incident to the dedication of Stephens Hall at the State School of Agriculture on Thursday,, Sept. 17, met with the executive committee in the office of President Misner. The finance committee reported the amount of funds available and the various committees were apportioned the amounts necessary. From this time forward all the committees will be hard at work preparing for the big event.

A special committee was named, consisting of C. A. Hitchcock, and Thomas R. Johnstone to have charge of the conveyances and see that all visitors are driven to and from the farm.

The feature of the meeting of the city council last evening was the election of Frank Stainbrook as alderman from the Fifth Ward to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Alderman E. D. Leahy. After the reading of a petition signed by W. L. Sullivan and 50 other residents of the 5th ward, asking for the appointment of Mr. Stainbrook, the matter was at once taken up. Aldermen Harris, Hussey and Zarracher favored getting an opinion from the attorney general of the state, before taking any action, but they were outvoted and Stainbrook's election followed, he getting 5 votes, Isadore Bougie 2 votes, while one blank ballot was cast.

DELEGATES ELECTED

BIENNIAL DISTRICT CONVENTION OF MODERN BROTHERHOOD OF AMERICA

HELD HERE TODAY. WM. MILLETTE AND L. H. MINOR ELECTED DELEGATES.

From Wednesday's Daily—

The 9th Biennial district convention for the 9th congressional district was held here today by the Modern Brotherhood of America, in their hall in the Fournet Block, with 54 delegates in attendance.. The visiting delegates were welcomed by W. H. Norrie, who extended to them the freedom of the city and trusted that their visit would be both pleasant and profitable.

The convention met at 11 o'clock and got right down to business by the election of L. H. Minor, of New York Mills, and Wm. Millette, of Crookston ,as delegates to the supreme lodge, which meets at Davenport, Iowa, on Oct. 14.

The convention also decided to hold the next district convention at Bemidji in 1910.

State Manager W. E. Kinman, of Minneapolis, made a very fine address on fraternalism and was followed by the principal state deputy, L. E. Creighton, both of whom depart this evening for Cloquet to attend another district convention there tomorrow.

At three o'clock this afternoon the local lodge provided teams and the visiting delegates were all driven to the state Experiment Farm and the School of Agriculture, both of which were greatly admired. A splendid lunch was served there by Supt. and Mrs. Robertson.

This evening there will be a band concert at the corner of Fletcher and Main streets for the special benefit of the visitors.

The convention was a success in every respect. The order is growing with wonderful rapidity and is in a most healthy and flourishing condition.

The meeting today was presided over by Sam Gebeau as president, and A. A. Glenn acted as secretary, both being appointed by the state president.

Following is a list of the delegates who were present:

Moorhead, 394—Agnes F. Loudon, Nellie Stalley.

Warren, 638—Aug. A. Johnson, Joe V. Johnson.

New York Mills, 989—L. H. Minor.

Red Lake Falls, 601—Samuel Gibeau, Alexine Gibeau, Frank Brouillet.

Frazee, 2196—Margaret E. Borland.

Barnesville, 564—George Lamphere.

Detroit, 1226—G. A. Jones, A. E. Traver.

MAYOR MC'PHEE ACTS PROMPTLY

ISSUES PROCLAMATION CALLING FOR DONATIONS FOR FIRE SUFFERERS.

CHURCHES, FRATERNAL SOCIETIES, ANR GENERAL PUBLIC CALLED UPON.

From Wednesday's Daily—

Mayor J. D. McPhee thoroughly endorses the attitude of the Journal in yesterday's issue, that immediate and generous response should be made to relieve the sufferings of the unfortunate people of Chisholm and surrounding territory which has been devastated by horrible forest fires which have been raging for the past few days and are still smouldering at the very edge of Hibbing and other range towns. Mayor McPhee last evening issued a proclamation asking for aid for the stricken people, and to which without doubt, there will be prompt and generous response. The proclamation in full follows:

Proclamation.

Whereas the city of Chisholm has been visited by a devastating fire which has wiped out the entire city, and in addition a vast territory has suffered terribly as the result of the most destructive forest fire which ever visited the state, it is incumbent upon us as citizens of Crookston to extend assistance to the extent of our ability at once to alleviate the suffering of our stricken brethren to as great a degree as possible, thousands of whom are homeless and penniless. I therefore call upon the people of Crookston to contribute to a relief fund as liberally as their means will permit, and mail or hand their subscriptions to President H. C. Misner, of the Crookston Commercial Club, who will at once forward the amounts to the relief committee which has been named by Governor Johnson to supervise the raising and expenditure of all relief funds.

I would suggest that special collections be taken up in every church in Crookston next Sunday, and where such a plan is agreeable a committee of two will be named for each church to take up such a collection. I would further suggest that all fraternal organizations take immediate cognizance of the calamity which has been visited upon members of their organizations, all of which are represented in the stricken region.

It is immediate relief that is necessary, and I urge upon all the necessity of contributing for the relief of these destitute people at the earliest possible moment.

J. D. McPHEE,

CHARGED WITH EXTORTION

OLIVER GRANUM OF THIS CITY IS ARRESTED AT MNOT, N. D.

DENIES HIS GUILT AND CLAIMS THE WOMAN WAS THE ONE MAKING OVERTURES.

From Wednesday's Daily—

O. B. Granum, representative of the Minot Daily Reporter, was arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of extortion, preferred by Mrs. Nellie Markham, mother of Aelaine Markham, with whom G. L. Knapp was charged with running away from Northfield, Minn.

Granum is charged with attempting to get $10 out of Mrs. Markham in return for not publishing her name in the Minot Reporter and in the city papers that he corresponded for. Mr. Clark, publisher of the Reporter, heard on the streets that one of his men had tried to extort money, and he promptly began an investigation.

Mrs. Markham says that Granum approached her and said that unless she gave him $10 he would publish her name in connection with the story and Mr. Granum made the following statement:

"Mrs. Markham told me that she was willing to give anything if her name was kept out of the papers. I told her that as far as I was concerned I did not want anything, but I said that I might make arrangements with the other local papers, and did not know whether they wanted any money or not."—Minot Optic.

Thus according to Granum's story, the charge is false, and it may be that the woman is seeking a little cheap notoriety.

BOOSTS BEMIDJI IS A LIVE WIRE

Chas. E. Bangs, manager of the Bemidji Telephone Co., returned to his home Monday evening after having spent a few days visiting relatives and friends, and enjoying a successful hunt with dog and gun.

Mr. Bangs says the telephone business in the east country is growing and that a large force are constantly busy stringing new wires; that Bemidji is a "live wire" on the system; that if the telephone business is any criterion, Bemidji is growing to beat the band.

A CHAT WITH THE FARMERS

By F. S. Whirry, Manager of Crookston Creamery.

Does it pay to raise stock in the Red River Valley, or does it pay to keep on raising one crop and stay in the old rut all the time?

It all depends on whether or not you want to go ahead or back. You have found out if you raise only wheat where you go—you can't go any place. If you raise stock you will have to stay home and take care of it, and here is where the beauty comes in, the stock will produce the cash at all times, while on the other hand you will have to wait a year before you realize anything from wheat, and then it is a chance game, and you get tired of taking chances. Many a good man starved to death on takin gchances. While at the same time you might change your luck if you will give the old dairy cow a chance.

How many farmers have a few apple trees and a strawberry patch? You can just as well have them as go without. It don't take very much work to have these little luxuries. We don't need to go south to raise many different kinds of fruit. Raise them in the Red River Valley. We have got the soil. All we need is a little work, and we all know that we would enjoy picking apples of our own trees, or strawberries in our own patch. Ha-ha, Just think of it. How many have got them?

Did a farmer ever stop to think when he was eating fresh eggs what the ol dhen was worth on the farm and how little it took to keep hee? She hustles for herself from spring to fall and will hustle for you in winter if you give her good care. Many a grocery bill he hen has paid. You can raise her in the Red River Valley and many a chick she will raise for you, and nice young chickens don't make bad eating.

You generally find that a farmer who is making a success is stocked up along these lines. The cow, the chicken, the pig, is fed by his grain, and he sells his meat. A man that always has somethin gto sell is the man that always has money and can pay his bills as they accumulate. Wheat will pay your bills if it don't rust, get hailed out, drowned or frozen, and you have a streak of luck and save it.

Does it pay to leave the manure lying around your barnyard, instead of spending a month in the fall or spring spreading it over your fields? One thing sure, your place will look far better with everything cleaned up and everythin gin place and the field will produce more grain the next year, and your ground will naturally be more fertile, handle the wet weather better, and still stand more dry weather. But the cry is that there are so many foul seeds in the manure it don't pay to spread it over the ground. You shouldn't raise or feed foul seeds; that don't pay, either.

Here is the point; if you put the manure on your ground and plant corn, if you only raise fodder, it is good feed. But don't stop here. Put it into corn next year and you will still get fodder and maybe some good corn, and the next year you sow it to barley and seed it down. You will raise some clover the next year, and if the clover is a little light cut the first crop early and let the second crop go to seed, and the second year you will get a good stand of clover. It makes good hay and then you will have some good fall feed for your stock. Then turn this field over in the fall and the next year you can sow anything you like and you will get a good crop. Don't forget the corn. If there is any foul seeds plant it on the same ground, and yiu will get the same results—good fodder, if no corn.

In this way you will clean your ground from foul seed and live just the same, and at the same time you want to be getting in the dairy business and be milking fifteen good cows. They will make you the money you have long been looking for. Diversified farming is the only kind of farming for the Red River Valley or any other agricultural section. It is up to the farmer to figure to the best advantage in order to make a success.

$5,000 VERDICT IS SET ASIDE BY JUDGE WATTS

BIG VERDICT AGAINST THE GREAT NORTHERN GIVEN FRED MAGEAU WILL NOT STAND—JUDGE WATTS ALSO DENIES A NEW TRIAL IN VERY IMPORTANT FLOWAGE CASE AGAINST THE GREAT NORTHERN

From Friday's Daily—

Judge Watts has handed down two important decisions, one denying a new trial in the case of Block and Johnson vs. the Great Northern, a suit to collect damages for crops which they claimed had been ruined as a result of floods which they alleged were caused by the Great Northern grade daming up the water, and the other in the damage suit of Fred Mageau as administrator of the estate of his wife, Clara Mageau, deceased, in which the court set aside the verdict of $5,000 given the plaintiff by the jury and entered judgment in favor of the defendant.

The flowage case had been in court some time. At the first trial the plaintiffs secured a verdict giving them substantial damages and the case was of great interest as there were scores of similar damage suits which were to have been started if the plaintiff won. The Great Northern appealed and the judgment was reversed and a new trial ordered. On the second trial the defendant won, and the plaintiff argued a motion for a new trial which has just been denied. This will settle the entire batch of cases unless the plaintiffs take an appeal to the supreme court which is improbable.

The Mageau case has also been in court for a long time. Mrs. Mageau died in a hospital here of bloodpoisoning following childbirth. She had been in a wreck on the Great Northern at Barnesville enroute to Crookston a few months before and the suit was based on the claim that at that time she had received the injuries which superinduced bloodpoisoning The jury gave the plaintiff a verdict for $4,000 and the supreme court reversed the decision and a new trial was ordered.

The jury in the second trial gave the plaintiff $5000 damages, and it was a motion by the Great Northern to set this verdict aside and find judgment for the defendant despite the verdict of the jury, and Judge Watts granted the motion on the grounds that no stronger evidence had been introduced in the second trial than in the first, which the supreme court had held was not strong enough to justify the verdict which was smaller than the verdict on the second trial.

The attorneys in both cases were Messrs. Steenerson and Loring for the plaintiffs and Messrs. J. W. Mason and James H. Maybury for the defendant.

ANNUAL REPORT OF SUPT. CASEY

Supt. Thomas Casey of the Polk Co., schools has completed his annual report which is to be transmitted to State Supt. Olson and the figures will be read with much interest by those who are keeping close watch of the progress being make by Polk Co., in educational advantages. There are materially less low grade teachers employed than in years past, and the wages are correspondingly increased, which means that the pupils are getting better training.

The total indebtedness of the rural districts is remarkably low, amounting to but $20,000 while the bonded indebtedness of the independent districts is very low. The following report contains all the essential features:

MIDSHIPMAN HAGEN HAS MONTH'S LEAVE

NINTH DISTRICT REPRESENTATIVE IN NAVAL ACADEMY GETS VACATION

Midshipman O. O. Hagen arrived home yesterday morning to spend a month's vacation with his brothers and sisters in the city. Immediately on his arrival he joined a party and went out hunting prairie chickens.

Mr. Hagen is in his second year at Annapolis U. S. naval academy. During the summer the students are assigned to some battle ship for a cruise He has just concluded his on the Nevada and is given a month's leave. Mr. Hagen was appointed from this district after undergoing a rigid competitive examination. The term at the academy is four years, the graduates are then commissioned on a regular warship. Mr. Hagen enjoys his work very much and is making a creditable record.

FRIENDLY CONTEST FOR TREASURER

TWO DEMOCRATS WERE NOT AWARE OF OTHER MAN'S INTENTION TO FILE

There is a friendly contest on for the democratic nomination for county treasurer of Polk county. Nels Peterson of the Bank of Crookston filed just before 6 o'clock on the last day upon which candidates could file and H. L. Hanson of Hill River, who did not know of Mr. Peterson's filing sent his filing in by mail so that two men are in the race. The two are in the race but the contest is entirely a friendly one.

Hospitality often looks suspiciously like a mild form of insanity.

People always think they can afford to do a thing that's of no use to them.

SECRETARY OF INTERIOR HANDS DOWN IMPORTANT DECISION IN LAND CASE

AFFIRMS GENERAL LAND OFFICE AS TO THREE MONTHS' LEAVE OF ABSENCE

From Thursday's Daily—

In a suit involving a quarter section of land in the Devils Lake land district the secretary of the interior has declared that the three months leave of absence granted to settlers during the winter of 1907 applied as much to those who were not on their claims when the order was issued as to others. Notice of the decision came yesterday to State's Attorney J. B. Wineman, attorney for the defendant in the suit of Lauro B. Mapes vs. E. T. Leake. The contest was instituted a year ago last March. The defense set up that the three months' resolution passed by congress gave the settler the right to absent himself for the three winter months and the contest should not lie. The Devils Lake land office decided in favor of Laura B. Bates.

Decision Is Final

An appeal was taken to the general land office and there the decision was in favor of Leake. The contestant appealed to the secretary of the interior and the decision of the general land office was affirmed.

The decision is very important, as it affects a lot of cases that are pending in the land offices of the state.

TALES FROM CHICKEN FIELDS

MAJORITY OF THE HUNTERS HAD GOOD AVERAGE SPORT THE FIRST TWO DAYS

ONLY ONE OR TWO PARTIES RETURNED WITH TALES OF WOE

The hunters of this city as a rule returned to the city after the first two days with good average bags of game While very few made any great killings practically all of them had good fair shooting. The confirmed game hogs, of course, are never exactly satisfied but those who are content with a good mess of birds and who want to see enough of every covey get away to preserve good shooting for future years, are satisfied.

C. L. Skaug, J. F. Anaker and A. O. Anderson hunter northeast of the city and returned with 25 chickens and two ducks. They raised five coveys one of which had not been shot into before and got ten out of the 14 birds. They could have cleaned the balance but wanted to leave a few for seed.

30 Birds in Two Days

J. J. Kelly and Fred Harris returned last evening from a hunt between the Soo and Great Northern east of Hallock, and had a fine bag of 30 chickens. Kelly's dog worked fine and Fred had a retriever which came in mighty handy in locating birds shot in the brush. They have managed to get considerable advertising for their goods out of the trip by claiming that they used Conrad's coffee and LaZinda cigars in place of shot the second day.

Blankety-Blank

Tom Morris hunted all day and returned with a fine face full of disgusted wrinkles and two tired dogs. Out of respect to the feelings of his companion we will not mention his name.

Landed 9

Messrs. W. E. Rowe and Oscar Halvorson hunted a portion of yesterday and got 9 birds.

Claimed 70 in two Days

Messrs. C. O. Longley and O. E. Erickson hunted two days and are boasting of a bag of 70 birds. They were in such a hurry on their return that they failed to state what the current rate of discount was. 75 per cent will probably do in their case.

59 Birds in two Days

The hunting party consisting of Harry Chesterman, John Cowley, Marcus and Merriam Stephens returned last evening after a two days' hunt near Beltrami with 59 birds. They got 47 the first day and 12 the second. Their five dogs worked fine and they are all well pleased.

Had 21 Birds

Leon Filiatrault and George Brunner returned to the city yesterday noon from a short hunting trip, with 21 fine plump chickens as a demonstration of their prowess. The boys not only know where to find the birds but are able to stop them when found.

Brought Home 38

Walter Stone and Albert Barrette returned last evening from south and southwest of the city where they hunted two days, with 38 birds. Their dogs worked splendidly and both are proud of them.

CLIMAX FLOUR MILL SOLD

BRASETH BROS., SELL FLOUR MILL AT CLIMAX — WILL RETIRE

From Friday's Daily—

Ole and John Braseth who built and have been for several years operating the flour mill at Climax have disposed of the same to Marcus and August Gilbertson of that place.

The Braseth brothers have been continually improving their plant since it was built and as they are both practical millers, the new owners have secured a good piece of property.

A week ago Aug. 27 the dam was partially destroyed by the floods that suddenly came down the Sand Hill River, but the damage is being repaired and the mill will be in operation again in a week.

The new owners are enterprising young men and will keep up the reputation the institution has enjoyed in the past. Ole and John Braseth have not fully decided what they will do, but for the present will take a well earned vacation and rest.

PRIMARY ELECTION BALLOTS SENT OUT

TOWN CLERKS NOTIFIED THAT BALLOTS FOR PRIMARY ELECTION ARE READY

County Auditor Hoffard is today sending notices to the various town and village clerks that the primary ballots and supplies are about ready for distribution. The clerks living within ten miles of the county seat are notified to call at the court house in person on Thursday Sept. 10th. To those living beyond this will have the supplies sent to them by express or registered mail leaving the office on Tuesday Sept. 8th.

COLBY PUNISHED FOR HIS TRICK

YOUNG MAN WHO DID DISAPPEARING TRICK IS PLACED IN JAIL

Sheriff Nelson of Red Lake county was at Fertile Saturday and took Harry Colby back with him. Harry has got himself into trouble at Plummer where he was working in the printing office by walking away in a mysterious manner creating a sensation and taking some property belonging to Editor Chas. Latta. Harry cuts up some queer capers at times and it is believed by many that he is not just right in the upper story.

PIONEER'S REMAINS LAID TO REST

FUNERAL SERVICES OVER LATE WM. WELCH WERE HELD THIS MORNING

The funeral services over the remains of Wm. Welch were held this morning at 9:30 from St. Mary's church, Rev. Fr. Smiers officiating. The church was taxed to its capacity by friends of the deceased who was a pioneer of Crookston, and whose charity and big-heartedness had endeared to all who knew him. Beautiful floral offerings were sent to the residence. Short services were held at the grave in the Catholic cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. Dan and P. S. Hughes, Duke Jewell, N. B. Moran, Allan McKinnon and John Gorman.

POLK EXHIBIT IS STUNNING

The Polk Co., Exhibit at the state fair is attracting much attention and the city papers have referred to it many times. The Minneapolis Journal of yesterday says:

"One of the most stunning is the Polk county booth, with its rich, red hangings. Everything the state fair management has asked for relative to grain in the sheaf and threshed grain is shown. In spite of its far northern situation, Polk county sends some fine looking apples and other fruit of excellent quality."

Both Unfair

Wheelock's Weekly: The prohibitionist who lives in the country and wishes to decide whether liquor shall be sold in each village and city or not, is as unfair as the saloon men who live in towns and wish to decide whether liquor shall be sold in the country districts or not.

MONEY SHIPMENT FROM EUCLID WAS STOLEN

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE OF CASH WHICH GREAT NORTHERN EXPRESS CO., SHIPPED FROM EUCLID ON WEDNESDAY EVENING—ENVELOPE HAD BEEN SLIT OPEN AND THE CASH EXTRACTED—AUDITOR JOHNSON IS INVESTIGATING THE AFFAIR—NO TRACE OF MONEY AND NO SUSPECTS ARRESTED

Great Northern Express Co., officials are greatly mystified over the disappearance of a shipment of cash from Euclid last Wednesday evening. The express messenger signed for the package which contained bills, but later discovered that there were no bills in the envelope for tho the seal was unbroken, the envelope had been slit open with a knife, and the bills extracted.

There is no evidence as to when the money was extracted, but it is generally supposed that some crook did the job either while the train was standing at Euclid or just before it arrived while the agent at Euclid was busy getting ready for the arrival of the train.

Traveling Auditor Johnson spent yesterday afternoon at Euclid trying to untangle the case, but has been unable to discover when the money disappeared.

The employes at the local express office were silent as mummies regarding the affair, and Express Messenger Norrie is out on his run today. The amount is a considerable sum.

THRESHERS ALL HUMMING

GRAIN FINE AND DRY AND NO DAMAGE WAS DONE BY RECENT RAIN

SOIL MOIST AND IN FINE SHAPE FOR THE FALL PLOWING

From Thursday's Daily—

Every threshing machine in the Valley is humming today. The rain of last Sunday was not nearly as heavy north of here as in this vicinity and many of the threshing machines were at work Tuesday afternoon. Yesterday the majority of the balance started and today every machine is running full blast. The weather coming off cool after the rain, with good breezes prevailing, soon dried out the grain, and no damage was done worth mentioning.

On the other hand the rain benefitted the farmers immensely by putting the soil in fine shape for plowing and many farmers have their plows running now. There will be more early stubble plowing this fall than has been seen in the past ten years and conditions will be ideal for seeding next year.

PLEASED OVER FRIENDS SUCCESS

THE WISCONSIN PRIMARY ELECTION INTERESTED MANY CROOKSTON PEOPLE

The nomination of Burt Williams editor of the Ashland Daily News as candidate for Lieutenant Governor on the democratic ticket at the recent primaries in Wisconsin, is pleasant news to Mr. E. Moeckel of this city. Mr. Williams and Mr. Moeckel were close friends during the latter's residence in Ashland. They served four years together on the city council until Mr. Williams was elected mayor which office he has held for ten years. Mr. Moeckel states that Mr. Williams will add great strength to the ticket in northern Wisconsin.

FIND BODY OF S. THAYER BASS

REMAINS OF ST. PAUL MAN WHO DROWNED MONDAY HAVE BEEN RECOVERED

Word has been received that the body of S. Thayer Bass drowned in Cass Lake on Sunday afternoon was recovered today by Dixwell Thompson and E. S. Oakley who were in a row boat. Their dragging hook brought the body to the surface.

The body was removed to the local morgue and will be taken to St. Paul this evening. The body of the other man has not yet been found.

BUSINESS ON LAKES GOOD

COAL AND ORE COMING AND GOING AT DULUTH AND SUPERIOR

NORTHWESTERN COAL DEALERS ARE SLOW IN RELIEVING DOCK CONGESTION

From Thursday's Daily—

Everything is moving nicely at present on the Great Lakes.

Coal is coming into port in great quantities, and the coal docks have begun to creak and groan under their heavy load. Coal shipping out from Duluth, however, has been slow up to this time, and if the companies in Dakota and other Western points do not get busy and do their ordering soon, the coal carrying industry will have to stop and the vessels confine themselves to one way cargoes.

Ore has been going down the lakes at a great rate. Shipments to both the Great Northern docks at Allouez, and the Missabe docks have been increased. Things are so rushed that captains will not wait for loads, but pull out and take no cargoes at Two Harbors and Ashland, rather than hang around waiting for a dock. A great many wild boats are engaged in the ore and coal trade, and since they started, about a week ago, every one has been successful in landing cargoes.

PAYMENT WAS VOLUNTARY.

F. W. CLIFFORD OF MINNEAPOLIS CREATES DIVIDEND FOR DEPOSITORS

The comptroller of the currency yesterday notified Grand Forks creditors that he had declared a supplementary dividend of one and thirty-five hundredths per cent in favor of the creditors of the defunct Grand Forks National bank of that city. The comptroller states that he has been enabled to pay this dividend by the voluntary payment to his office by F. W. Clifford of Minneapolis, of the sum of $4,371.27 being the amount of principal and interest to June 1, 1908, on his note for $2,500 to the bank.

The Grand Forks National Bank failed in 1904. A total dividend of five and eight-tenths had been paid before the voluntary contribution from Mr. Clifford. He is a former resident of Grand Forks, but now has extensive interests in Minneapolis.

OLD MAN UNFORTUNATE—Wm. Simpson of Sciway was on his way to the North Dakota threshing fields when near the city one of his horses died of the colic. A neighbor hitched his team to the Simpson wagon and helped him along. Mr. Simpson is over seventy years old but still strong and robust.

BOUGHT FINE FARM—Messrs Martin Moe, a cousin of O. K. Berget of this city and G. M. Williams, both of Osage, Ia., have been spending the past few days in the city and left last evening for their home intending to spend today at the Minnesota fair. Mr. Williams' brothers have just bought the Farron farm near Fisher and they are much pleased with it and conditions generally in this section.

MEETING THE VOTERS — Atty. George Finlayson, candidate for the Republican nomination for county attorney is spending the day in the city calling on his friends and boosting his candidacy along among the voters of this city and vicinity. He reports that he is meeting with much encouragement from all parts of the county as he is the only candidate for office from Western Polk county which he, with his friends think is entitled to at least a little consideration.

EXCELLENT WEEKS SPORT

PRACTICALLY ALL THE CHICKEN FIENDS ARE WELL SATISFIED

MANY PARTIES WILL TAKE TO THE FIELDS TOMORROW FOR DAY'S SHOOT

From Saturday's Daily—

The sportsmen of the Red River Valley and many from the cities who came here to hunt have enjoyed a very good week's sport. As predicted prairie chickens are more plentiful than for many years and practically every hunter has had from fair to good shooting. Nearly all have been out for a day or two but some few will hunt tomorrow for the first time, and parties have been formed for scouring the country in all directions.

Quite a number of ducks have been bagged, but many more will be shot now that the chicken fever has to some extent had its run.

A Regular Menagerie

Theodore Neiers the Euclid merchant returned home this morning after spending a night in the city on business. He says his partner, Peter Stuhr, accompanied by Dr. J. S. Chapin and Chas. Habbick spent Tuesday hunting with about five dogs and returned in the evening all petered out with two crows, a mudhen, one skunk a jackrabbit and two ducks too young to fly which showed evidences of having been caught by the dogs. They were also accompanied by ravenous appetites and a superabundance of bad humor.

The New Gun O. K.

Oliver Johnson, the feed man, was hunting with his brothers-in-law the Tedmanson brothers north of Fertile had fine luck and brought home a good bag. The new gun he says, worked to perfection and he would not sell it for twice the purchase price.

Telephone Magnates Afield

Managers Bracelin of Crookston and Bangs of Bemidji with collector Will Nelson were afield yesterday, trying to "ring up" a few prairie hens who have been roosting on the wires They brought in a fine bunch of chickens.

Mac Got a Few

Angus McDonald and Ray Foote were at Beltrami and got a bag that made all their former Crookston friends envious. They stayed right on No. 5 and took them home to East Grand Forks.

Argyle Sportsmen

Dr. H. C. Stuhr and party brought in the most chickens for the first day's hunt 47 birds in all. Vick Tiedt and party scored second with 41 birds and W. S. Robertson and party third with 31 birds, but we haven't heard from Dad Daniels and John Ryan yet. If they ever get back we expect to hear of an awful slaughter.—Banner.

Steve at Middle River

Big chief "With-the-Eye" decamped off the north-bound train here Tuesday equipped with all the accoutrements of war against the feathered tribe and in company with Knute Nelson has since been shooting holes in the air to the discomfiture and occasional death of the prairie hens.—Pioneer.

Got a Goose

Dr. R. B. Foster, Albert Bergh and Sigurd Lade were among the Fosston hunters who went into the country north of that town for chickens, or any old game. Bergh and Lade came in Wednesday night with good stories —and the game to prove them, Sigurd being happy in the possession of a large wild goose as part of his share of the spoils of the hunt.

Hunted at Mud Lake

Ralph Lycan and Charles Gould two of the local high school boys, returned this noon from Thief River Falls where they spent a day hunting ducks while visiting Gould's uncle. They returned with twenty fine ducks after securing the full limit and leaving the remainder with friends at the "Falls" and in Crookston.—Bemidji Pioneer.

Ashland Sees Smoke.

Ashland, Wis., Sept. 5.—Dry weather and high winds have started forest fires here and there. There is considerable smoke observable from Ashland at several places, and it is possible that there will be trouble.

Frost in Indiana.

Indianapolis, Sept. 5. — Frost last night is reported from many points in Central and Northern Indiana.

Farmer Takes "Rough on Rats."

St. Paul, Sept. 5.—Gus Friburg, a farmer from Boyceville, Wis., died at the city hospital this morning from the effects of swallowing some "rough on rats," which he took in a saloon near the union depot in the afternoon. Friburg said he was despondent over the loss of forty acres at Boyceville and he did not want to live.

Meet Next at Tacoma.

Boston, Sept. 5. — Tacoma, Wash., was selected as the encampment city of 1909 by the United Spanish War Veterans in session here.

TOLD HARD LUCK STORY

T. J. KELLY WORKED CROOKSTONITES WITH A VERY SAD TALE IN WHICH

HIS WIFE, HIRED MAN AND THE WOODSHED PLAYED PROMINENT PART

From Saturday's Daily—

Many people of Crookston were worked for all the way from a quarter to $1 yesterday by an individual who said his name was T. J. Kelly and claimed to be a farmer owning from 3 to 5 quarter sections of land near Climax.

His mthod was to approach some business or professional man whom he claimed to know and to have done business with and feigning great distress asked to be directed to a good attorney, one in whom he could place perfect confidence. Then he would grow confidential and confide his troubles. He said he was nearly distracted over his wife's conduct and told a story in which his wife, the hired man and the woodshed played the leading roles.

He appeared just about overcome as he reached the climax of his story and would ask his hearer for a dollar either to get his dinner with, get his team or some other necessity, and he would pay it back as soon as he got his checks cashed, when he sold his wheat or some old time, but really he was too broken heated to know just what to do till he made that small loan.

In most cases he got the dollar, half dollar or a quarter, and left with protestations of deep gratitude. He called on many business and professional men and nearly all stood quietly and were milked. He called at the home of a preacher. The preacher was not in. He was attending a missionary tea but his wife telephoned him to come home and give counsel to one in deep distress. The minister came home on the double quick. Grafter Kelly told his tale and the minister was deeply moved. When Kelly reached the dollar chapter of his story however, the minister grew suspicious. He told Kelly that ministers were long on advice,, but short on cash, but offered to go to the livery stable and go good for the team. Kelly hedged. He said he did not like to ask for the team unless he had the money. When questioned closely he did not know exactly which livery stable his team was in and finally shambled off.

Kelly is above medium height, wears black coat and no vest, wide light colored hat and brassy looking watch fob. His hair is slightly gray and hands show signs of toil.

He has not been seen today and it is probable that he made tracks after his harvest yesterday. No such man resides near Climax according to several men from Climax who were here last evening.

POLK CO. MADE FINE SHOWING

FOR BEAUTY EXHIBIT RANKED WITH THE VERY BEST OF THEM

The committee of awards on county exhibits at the Minnesota State Fair yesterday announced their decision, and while Morrison County landed first prize for the northern counties, Polk made such a magnificent showing attracted so much attention and received such unstinted praise from all who visited the fair that Polk county residents have been paid a hundred fold for the trouble and expense they went to, and the committee in charge, consisting of J. M. Stephens, J. H. Stair and Magnus Lundberg have earned the most hearty thanks from the people of the entire northern part of the state for the splendid advertisement they have given this section. Polk County got started late and competed with counties which have sent exhibits for years, and in the face of all this received unstinted praise from the twin city press and those who attended the fair, scores of whom thought the exhibit from Polk the finest there.

COMES PREPARED TO MAKE HOME

J. L. Thompson arrived in the city last night with a car of stock and farm implements from Rossville, Ill. and is busy today moving the same to th eold Reyer place three miles west of the city. Mr. Thompson together with Silas Hand have purchased this fine farm and will move with their families onto it at once. Both gentlemen are well to do and have been successful farmers in their native state and will no doubt make a success of the fine farm they have purchased.

BIG BUGS ARE CAUGHT

DEPUTY GAME WARDEN MUNCH AND STAR BAD BOY MAKE KILLING AT MAHNOMEN

THREE WERE ARRESTED AND FINED—TWO LOSING GUNS—HUNTED TOO SOON

From Saturday's Daily—

Deputy Game Warden Wm. Munch of this city and his assistant, Star Bad Boy of Mahnomen made a good haul yesterday. Warden Munch arrested F. K. Gregg, superintendent of schools of Mahnomen for hunting last Sunday and he was brought before Judge A. G. Shulind of that place and fined $10 and costs.

Star Bad Boy arrested K. M. Richardson and E. C. Mitchell both employes of the General Electric Co., of Minneapolis for hunting ducks at Twin Lakes last Sunday. They were brought before the same judge and fined $12.50 each and lost their guns. They were at Twin Lakes for their annual outing but could not keep their guns in their tent till the season opened.

The wardens are not letting up because the season is open but intend to keep tab on all the hunters and see that no more than the legal amount of game is bagged. Many special deputies have been sworn in and a hunter never knows when he is going to run into one when he is afield.

NO SHORTAGE ON GREAT NORTHERN

PLENTY CARS TO HANDLE THE CROP.—DULUTH STORY IS A FAKE.

There is no shortage of cars on the Great Northern lines in North Dakota, according to Great Northern officials For weeks the Great Northern has been getting cars up on its sidetracks on the main and branch lines in anticipation of the heavy grain movement. Now that the grain is going out in good shape there is no shortage of cars.

According to a Duluth newspaper there has been somewhat of a shortage of cars there the last few days. In local railway circles it is believed that this shortage is only temporary, if any really exists, and it will be relieved when the wheat shipments pour into the Zenith City.

N.A. BRAY, POPULAR AND AGGRESSIVE CANDIDATE

Thirty Years Residence Here Makes Him Strong With The Business Men,

Farmers, And Young Voters Of The County. Has Made Splendid Campaign.

The campaign before the primaries is rapidly drawing to a close. On Tuesday next the members of the various parties will select their candidates at the primaries. The campaign has been the most remarkable in the history of Polk county, and in some instances the voters are apt to be confused by the over abundance of candidates. In deciding whom he shall support, however, the voter has really an easy task if he will but stop and consider who by his general fitness, past record, and success in private business will probably give the people of Polk county the best service.

Interest in Sheriff's Office.

General interest centers in the contest for the republican nomination for sheriff. One of the number, Napoleon A. Bray, has made a most spectacular campaign. Polk is a pretty big county, but he has covered practically every corner of it. He considers one man's vote as good as another ,and has catered to no particular element. He wants the support of all classes of people, as if he is nominated and elected he intends to serve all classes of people alike, and no special faction, ring or clique.

An Old Timer.

Mr. Bray has been a resident of Polk county for the past 30 years. He is a self made man in every sense of the word, having worked himself up in the clothing business from the bottom of the ladder by close application to business, extending uniform courtesy to all and special favors to none. It is along exactly the same lines that Mr. Bray is conducting his candidacy for the nomination of sheriff.

As a Business Man.

When Mr. Bray engaged in business for himself his success was phenomimal. He gave everybody a square deal, and the working man was given the same treatment as the customer of affluence and wealth. All people looked alike to Mr. Bray, and he soon had an enviable reputation for absolutely fair dealing. He is a man of the people.

Public Spirited Citizen.

Polk county does not contain a more public spirited citizen than N. A. Bray. He has always been a "booster" and was never called upon to contribute for any public enterprise but what he responded liberally, and what is more, cheerfully. He was always ready and willing to do his full share in any movement to build up Crookston and Polk Co., and no man in the county has given more according to his means, and very few as much.

Aided the Deserving.

Mr. Bray was also invariably liberal in aiding the unfortunate. No hungry man ever applied to Nap Bray for a meal but what he got it. No man who had suffered a misfortune of any kind asked him for help that he did not get it. No movement was ever started to assist a worthy cause that he did not contribute his full share. And over and above all he was ever charitable to the faults and errors of others , preferring to believe it the result of carelessness or accident rather than intentional wrong doing. He is charitable in every sense of the word.

Would be Competent.

Mr. Bray's business experience would make him exceptionally competent to discharge the duties of the office in a satisfactory manner. He knows human nature, and under his guidance the affairs of the office would move along without the least friction.

Absolute justice to all would be assured, and no one would have any special "pull."

In Sympathy With Working Class.

Because, Mr. Bray has always worked himself, he is in hearty sympathy with the people who have to work for a living. He has always mingled with them, and very naturally has a very strong following among them in his candidacy for sheriff. Mr. Bray will draw support from all classes for the reason that he appeals to all classes.

A Clean Campaign.

Mr. Bray has conducted a clean campaign. He has engaged in no mudslinging, and believes that those who have done so, hurt themselves more than anyone else.

Mr. Bray has never been a candidate for office himself before, though he has taken an active interest in every campaign, and when called upon was ever willing to take off his coat and work for the deserving candidate. This fact will also add to his strength, as the common people do not like to see a man exhibit his first interest in politics just when he happens to want a political job himself.

A Strong Candidate

Thus it is, that Mr. Bray, drawing his strength from all portions of the county, is a very strong candidate, and it is generally predicted that he will not be found wanting when the votes are counted.

A BIG FIRE NEAR HOLMES

PRAIRIE FIRE SWEEPS OVER IMMENSE TERRITORY YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

PASSENGERS ON N. P. TRAIN SEE 20 HAYSTACKS BURNING AT ONCE.

From Tuesday's Daily—

The passengers north bound on the Northern Pacific train from Holmes Station yesterday afternoon were treated to a rare sight in recent years, a section of prairie ten miles long and about five miles wide a mass of flames. The fire was fanned by a high wind, travelled at the speed of a race horse, and the loss will be heavy, as at one time over 20 haystacks could be seen burning.

Despite the heavy rain of a week ago, the winds have dried the grass to reasonable tinder, and it burned fiercely. Detailed information as to losses is not obtainable, but from the train women and children could be seen fighting to save their homes and property.

Two hours before a freight train was standing at Holmes, and at that time there was no sign of fire. It is supposed the fire was started by sparks from the engine of the northbound freight train, and in two hours had devastated a territory of about 50 or 60 square miles. Late last night the fire could be seen from here, still raging, with the entire heavens to the east and southeast lit up by the conflagration.

IN A CLASS BY ITSELF

SPECIAL GOLD MEDAL TO BE AWARDED TO THE POLK COUNTY EXHIBIT.

CONSIDERED THE MOST ARTISTIC SHOWN AT THE STATE FAIR.

From Monday's Daily—

The committee of awards at the State Fair was so impressed with the artistic exhibit of Polk county that a special gold medal has been awarded this county and will be made as soon as possible. This will be a magnificent advertisement for Polk county and J. H. Stair who returned this morning is highly pleased. The full details of the awards will be given upon the return of Messrs. J. M. Stephens and Magnus Lundberg, who are expected tomorrow, having remained to pack up the exhibit which will be returned for exhibition on Steph ens Hall dedication day, Sept. 17.

TRI-STATE GETS TELEPHONE PLANT

TOOK POSSESION ON SEPT. 1ST. SAY THE SYSTEM IS TO BE IMPROVED

The Tri-State Telephone company has purchased from J. M. Bishop, thelocal telephone system and toll lines secured by Mr. Bishop from H. Fant last winter. The new owners took possession on Tuesday, Sept. 1st. Geo. L. Sterns is to be resident manager of the system and is already in charge.

PORTO RICO IS SHAKEN.

Earthquake Causes Alarm Among Residents.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Sept. 8.—An earthquake shock was felt yesterday afternoon. The people of the city were very much alarmed, and many of them rushed from their houses into the street. There was no repetition of the quake and calm was soon restored. No material damage was done here.

Makes Record Flight.

Paris, Sept. 8. — Leon Delagrange, president of the Aviation club of France, established a new world's record with his aeroplane at Issy yesterday, both for length and duration of flight. M. Delagrange remained in the air for 29 minutes 54 4-5 seconds and circled the field fifteen and one-half times, covering a distance of 24,727 meters, or about fifteen miles and a quarter.

Sargent's Body Cremated.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Following a brief service here yesterday afternoon, the body of Frank P. Sargent, late commissioner general of the bureau of immigration, who died Friday, was cremated. The ashes were placed in a silver casket and will be sent to Philadelphia to-day, where the funeral services will be held.

BREAK LAW AT MAPLE LAKE

HUNTNG DUCKS ON THE LAKE AFTER DARK WILL DRIVE FOWL FROM WATER.

SHOOTING WILL BE RUINED AS IT HAS AT DEVILS LAKE AND OTHER PLACES.

Reports have been received to the effect that several parties of late have been hunting ducks after dark on the waters of Maple Lake, and as this is strictly against the law some one will be nabbed if the practice is not stopped at once.

No true sportsman will hunt ducks after dark on any lake. If they persist in it, the duck shooting will be completely ruined in a very short time. The duck hunting at Devils Lake used to be fine, but hunters persisted in hunting after dark from launches, floating blinds, sunken barrels, etc., till now you could not drag a duck to Devils Lake with a yoke of oxen.

The law is very strict on this score, and the penalties very severe, and the following extract from the game laws are given as a warning to those who are not conversant with the law:

"Sec. 27.—Shooting after dark—sink boats, etc. No person at any time shall hunt with or shoot from any boat canoe or contrivance or device whatever on any of the waters in this state between dark and daylight ,and no person shall at any time make use of, hunt with, or shoot from any floating battery, sink boat, sunken barrels, boxes, tubs, floating blinds or any similar device whatever, on any of the waters of this state."

The penalty prescribed for any violation of this section is from $10 to $50 fine and costs or from 10 to 60 days in the county jail.

THREE BICYCLES WERE STOLEN

OWNERS SHOULD NOT LEAVE THEM ON STREET IN THE EVENING.

Last evening three bicycles owners reported the loss of their wheels to Chief Eck. They were all taken from the street last evening ,and no trace of any of them has yet been found.

Chief Eck warns all bicycle owners against leaving their wheels standing outside buildings at this season of the year, as a stranger might take a wheel in front of their eyes without danger of suspicion as an officer has no means of telling who the bike belongs to.

EXCELLENT YIELD OF DURUM WHEAT

Nelson Brothers, near Harold Station, just south of Crookston on the N. P. in the Town of Fairfax, have just completed threshing 1485 bushels of Durum wheat from 45 acres, an average of 33 bushels per acre, and the quality of the wheat is excellent.

TIME IS THE TEST

The Testimony of Crookston People Stands the Test

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and the merit alone will stand the test of time

Crookston people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills they do still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. Benj. Champagne, of 322 Spendley St., Crookston, Minn., says: "I can just as enthusiastically endorse Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did six years ago. At that time they proved of great benefit to me in banishing a dull, annoying backache which clung to me despite my earnest endeavors to get rid of it. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention I procured a box at the Wallace drug store. I found relief from the first dose or two and soon the pains in my back were entirely removed. The difficulty with the kidneys was also ended and I was improved in every way. Up to date the relief has remained permanent."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

HORSE THIEF IS LANDED

TEAM STOLEN FROM THIEF RIVER FALLS WAS SOLD IN CROOKSTON YESTERDAY.

THIEF LEFT CITY BUT WAS ARRESTED ON SOO AND JAILED TODAY.

From Tuesday's Daily—

This afternoon about 2:30 Robert Kolseth was arrested a few miles north of Thief River Falls along the Soo tracks, and at once landed in the Thief River jail charged with horse stealing.

The details have not yet been received here. This morning Chief Eck received a letter from Thief River Falls describing a team that had been stolen there last Friday. Chief Eck got busy, and found that the missing team had been brought to Bjoin & Carlson's livery stable last Saturday afternoon by a stranger, who sold them Monday morning with the wagon and harness for $100 to Contractor H. McKinney and got the cash and then disappeared.

Chief Eck telephoned back that he had the team located ,and the Chief at Thief River Falls told him Kolseth had just been arrested and lodged in jail. The owner will be down this evening to recover the stolen team.

Had the Thief River authorities notified Chief Eck last Saturday or Sunday, he would have landed his man easily ,and had a cool $200 coming from the state for the capture. Tough luck.

DRAINAGE ON THF STATE FARM

PROF. JOHN T. STEWART WILL INVESTIGATE EFFICACY OF THE WORK DONE.

Prof. John T. Stewart, who occupies the Chair of Engineering at the Minnesota School of Agriculture at St. Anthony Park, and who was in charge of the tile and open ditch dranage work at the Experimental Farm, arrived yesterday and will remain at the Experimental Farm till after the dedication of Stephens Hall. He will thoroughly inspect the drainage work done, and its efficacy, and also make further plans for additional work to be done. The system at the State Farm here is ideal, and the splendid work it does was splenddly illustrated following the torrential rainfall of a week ago last Sunday, the land all being nice and dry but a few hours after the rain ceased, even in the low places.

ALL ARE PLEASED WITH STATE FAIR

Many from this city and vicinity returned home yesterday, and this morning from the Minnesota State Fair, and without exception all are greatly pleased with the great fair, the biggest in either the United States or Canada, and all were specially proud of the magnificent Polk county exhibit which was, without question, the most artistic there, and was so designated by the committee on awards as well as by all the thousands who inspected it. Among those who have returned are Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leick and son, Byron, Mrs. G. S. Chesterman and niece, Miss Florence Secord, of Grand Forks, S. D. Felsing, L. W. Larson and son, Mrs. W. E. Handy, Miss Alice Handy, Gilbert Hage, J. H. Peterson, J. R. Rasmusson, Elmer Ellington, Milburn Griffiths, Harry Hitchcock and Guy Munroe.

KEY STONE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eiselman, Mr and Mrs. Charles Bauer of Cissna Park, Ill., Mr. Valentine Wick, of Morton, Ill., and Mrs. John Landes, of Stephen, were visiting at the homes of Simon and Samuel Aeschliman and John Gerber last Friday.

Mr. Henry Horn drove to Grand Forks last Tuesday.

Mrs. Charles Switzer and Mildred Gerber ar eon the sick list.

Mr. Joseph Aeschliman is suffering from another attack of appendicitis. Dr. Dryden of Euclid was called severa ltimes and Joseph is doing nicely. He thinks there is nothing so terrible as to be kept in the house during threshing.

Mr. B. C. Kook, of Freemont, Ill., is in this vicinity again.

Mr. Sullivan of East Grand Forks was out in an auto last Monday.

RAILROAD EMPLOYES

THE RAILWAY EMPLOYEE'S PROTECTIVE ASSO. MOVEMENT IS ADVANCNG.

THROUGH THE ENTIRE NORTHWEST—BIG MEETING IN ST. PAUL.

From Tuesday's Daily—

Considerably more than four hundred employees of the Omaha and Great Northern railroad companies met in Odd Fellow's Hall, Fifth and Wabasha streets, St. Paul, last Tuesday night to consider and take action looking to furthering the organization of a Minnesota branch of the Railway Employee's Protective Association, which was started some months ago in Nebraska, and is now extending its usefulness through nineteen other states. The meeting Tuesday night was an outcome of the one held at Bowlby hall on Sunday afternoon, August 16th, and was a decided success in the number present, the nature of the proceedings and the action taken.

Opposed Reduced Wages.

The meeting was called to order soon after 8 o'clock by J. W. Collins, of the Great Northern force, who acted as chairman and stated the purpose of the gathering. Mr. Collins stated that representatives of all the roads leading into St. Paul and also the committee appointed at the Bowlby meeting had been invited, the purpose being to take action in accordance with the conclusions reached at that meeting.

Cause of Depression.

He pointed out that on account of the depression resulting from the reduction of freight rates the railroads were suffering and facing the necessity of reducing the wages of their employees. He stated further that freight rates had been reduced some 18 per cent, and living expenses of the men who worked for them had gone up more than 15 per cent; that their service for the railroads had enabled the men to get good living wages, become possessed of homes and find some considerable enjoyment in life, and that now the men ought to stand by the roads in the emergency of the latter, because the roads were asking only for a fair deal, and that was all the men wanted.

More Branches in Sight.

This movement is not confined to the southern part of the state alone, as we find that Conductor Steve Withey of Crookston has for the last two or three weeks been working on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific in Northern Minnesota and North Dakota with a view of organizing local branches of the Railway Employes' Protective Association, and one club was organized at Crookston a week ago last Sunday.

Mr. Withey returned from Grand Forks Saturday afternoon, and reports that he met with great enthusiasm there. A meeting has been called for Sunday afternoon, September 13th, at Grand Forks, for the purpose of organizing another branch of the Railway Employes' Protective Association, and between four and five hundred employees of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railways are expected to attend.

All Employes Interested.

This is not a movement that is confined to the employees of the Great Northern Railway alone, but the employees of all the lines in the Northwest join hands in the project, as they see the necessity of concert in action.

Several speakers from St. Paul will address the meeting at Grand Forks Sunday afternoon, and the same parties are due to talk at a meeting of the employees here the same evening. The local club is progressing very nicely, there being a steady increase of membership, and the work is progressing along lines outlined at its organization.

STEPHENS HALL DEDICATION

Prof. and Mrs. John T. Stewart, of St. Anthony Park, and their niece, Miss Lena Wilson, of Paxton, Ill., arrived yesterday and are the guests of Supt. and Mrs. Wm. Robertson at the State Farm to remain till after the dedication of Stephens Hall, Sept. 17. The ladies will assist Mrs. Robertson in the preparation for the big event, and Prof. Stewart who occupies the Chair of Engineering at the Minnesota Agricultural College at St. Anthony Park, will attend to official duties at the Experimental Farm in connection with tile and ditch drainage.

MOVEMENT AMONG THE RAILWAY EMPLOYES CONTINUES VERY SUCESSFUL.

CLUB AT GRAND FORKS ORGANIZED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

From Monday's Daily—

Another branch of the Railway Employees Protective Association was organized at Grand Forks yesterday afternoon, there being about 600 employes present. Mr. Withey, who returned from Grand Forks this morning, states that the meeting held at that place was one of the most enthusiastic at which he has ever been present, and with the showing the employes made Sunday afternoon, they may have cause to feel that, with concert in action, they may be able to better the condition under which they are laboring at the present time.

The meeting at Grand Forks was called to order at 3 p. m. by Mr. S. Withey, who had been instrumental in getting the organization under way, and after a preliminary address the election of officers took place, resulting as follows:

Martin Mayer, a passenger conductor, for President.

B. S. Skibness, engineer, Vice President.

W. S. Weber, ticket agent, Grand Forks, Secretary and Treasurer.

An executive committee composed of 16 members selected from the several branches of the service was also appointed.

Mr. Thomas Grace, of Grafton, addressed the meeting, touching upon the leading questions before the rail way employes at the present day and something like 20 local members expressed themselves as to their views in the premises.

Representatives from Fargo, Larimore, Devils Lake, Minot, and different points in North Dakota also addressed the gathering, giving their views of the situation and made suggestions for remedying same. As a whole, the meeting at Grand Forks is considered a great success among the railway employes. The movement is not only confined to the Great Northern, but the employes of all the lines in North Dakota were represented.

Mr. Kjorsvik, the secretary of the Railway Employes Club of this city, has a communication from Barnesville stating that another club was organized at that point last Sunday, but the details of its organization has not been received. However, a full report is expected by tomorrow, when it will be published.

An executive meeting of the Crookston Railway Employes Club was held in the waiting rooms of the Great Northern depot here, yesterday afternoon, when definite plans as to its policy were outlined, and same will be carried into effect immediately. The meeting was addressed by several out of town speakers and the club is highly elated with its success up to the present date.

Mr. Withey, who has been instrumental in getting the Railway Employes Clubs under way, will leave for the Range Country, and the Great Lake District Wednesday, and he expects that all the Railway Employes in Northern Minnesota will be organized before the coming election.

BELTRAMI COUNTY COURT BEGINS

The September term of court began at Bemidji yesterday with Judge C. W. Stanton presiding.

Judging from the calendar the term will be a comparatively long one, as there are seventeen criminal cases and seventy-seven civil cases.

The cases occasioning considerable interest are those against F. A. Mayo of Bemidji known as the Akerberg cases, and that of Mrs. C. W. Scrutchin against the city of Bemidji, a damage suit in the sum of $5,000 for personal injuries claimed to have been sustained thru a defective sidewalk.

ENSHROUDED IN PALL OF SMOKE

PRACTICALLY ALL THE NORTHWESTERN STATES ARE IN SMOKE TERRITORY.

PEOPLE THIS MORNING THOUGHT ENTIRE PRAIRIE MUST BE ABLAZE.

From Tuesday's Daily—

The east wind that has been blowing since yesterday afternoon, has wafted the heavy smoke laden air from the Mesaba range burnt district so that practically the whole northwest is over hung by the most remark able pall of smoke ever experienced in this part of the country.

Many of the citizens as they arose from their beds this morning were sure that the immediate prairie was all afire. During the day the wind has somewhat shifted and the air has cleared to a certain extent.

At the time of the Hinkley fire, smoke laden air was experienced but not as bad as this morning.

The tendency of the smoke is float east ward, and it is experienced over a very large territory.

In Chicago the pall reached its greatest density today after thickening perceptibly for nearly a week. Similar reports come from Milwaukee, Detroit, Cleveland and other cities located from 500 to 800 miles from the center of the ravishing flames. Lake navigation has been made dangerous and the same caution is exercised by navigators as in times of a heavy fog.

COUPLE OF 65 ARE MARRIED

S. N. LANDE AND MRS. T. SWIGGUM ARE VERY HAPPILY MARRIED

Judge L. K. Hassell of the probate court at Grand Forks yesterday united in marriage S. N. Lande and Mrs. T. Swiggum of Bygland, Minn. Both of them are 65 years old.

L. James Edwards, formerly porter at the hotel Frederick at Grand Forks and Miss Tillie Hegland of Bygland, Minn., were married last evening by Rev. F. E. R. Miller of the First Baptist church of Grand Forks.

LIKES CROOKSTON MAY MOVE HERE

A. J. Rush a resident of Mankato but who has business interests in various parts of the state is in this vicinity looking after some city property in Crookston and farm lands near here. Mr. Rush is just recovering from a severe siege of typhoid fever that had him on his back for six weeks. He is very favorably impressed with conditions as he finds them here, and every succeeding visit creates in him a desire to live in a good live healthy town like Crookston.

CHRISTS CHURCH FIRST MINISTER

The pulpit in Christ's Episcopal church wos occupied yesterday by Rev. Samuel Currie the first resident minister in Crookston. Rev. Currie came to Crookston to take charge of the little Episcopalian flock in 1879 and in 1880 he moved his family to the city and for many years administered to the spiritual wants of many of Crookston's most prominent citizens of those days.

Later Mr. Currie moved his family onto a farm adjoining Euclid and went extensively into the dairy business being one of the pioneers in that branch of farming. He had the finest herd of pure bred Jersey cows in the valley. Mr. Currie and son William now have a fine farm near Park River, N. D., which they are farming in a profitable manner. Rev. Currie has never let farming interfere with his church work and has a fine congregation at Park River. Rev. Cox preached there yesterday.

Mr. Currie went to Euclid this morning to visit old friends and look after the farm which has been leased to Aker brothers.

The world has more respect for gray hairs than for baldness.

BUSY BUSINESS FALL PREDICTED

TRAVELING MAN SAYS MERCHANTS AND OTHERS WILL PROFIT THIS YEAR.

FARMERS WILL GET GOOD PROFITS OUT OF SALE OF GRAIN

From Tuesday's Daily—

This will be Red River Valley's most prosperous year for a decade, according to a traveling man who arrived in Crookston yesterday. The business outlook was never better. Farmers will have more profit left after the sale of their grain than they have had for years. This means that there will be lots of business and Crookston will get a large share of the trade.

Threshing was general yesterday the grain having become dry after the rainfall. There will be a heavy wheat movement beginning next week.

Farmers Hold Wheat

A prominent farmer living near Ada says that 56 farmers living in that vicinity have pledged to hold their wheat for $1 a bushel and that they will not sell for less than that price. In the neighborhood of Ada there are only two farmers who have not made this pledge and it is likely that they will join the movement which was instituted by the American Society of Equity.

Over the state there are thousands of farmers who have made like pledges and the Equity society will undoubtedly have a greater influence this year than ever before in the history of the state and they expect to bring the price of wheat to $1 before the winter is over.

PLACING POLK COUNTY EXHIBIT

MAGNUS LUNDBERG IS RUSHING THE WORK AS RAPIDLY AS POSSIBLE.

Magnus Lundberg has a force of men at work today decorating the room in the McKinnon Block formerly occupied by the Grill restaurant, in which the Polk Co. Exhibit to the Minnesota State Fair will be placed for the crowds which will be present on Stephens Hall Dedication Day, Sept. 17, Thursday of this week. The work is being done under the direction of the committee consisting of Magnus Lundberg, J. M. Stephens and J. H. Stair, Mr. Lundberg being in active charge of the work. The decorations will be placed today, and the exhibits will all be put in position this evening and tomorrow. It involves a vast amount of work and considerable expense, but the magnificent exhibit will repay the trouble and expense a hundred fold.

The exhibit room is just two doors west of the Journal office.

ST. HILAIRE R. F. D. CARRIER SEVERELY INJURED

Martin Hoff of St. Hilaire met with an unfortunate and rather serious accident Monday which resulted in the breaking of his right arm. He had loaded his wagon with some furniture, boxes and barrels and had taken a seat on a box which lay on top a barrel. While crossing the lower river bridge at that place one of the front wheels of the wagon broke and Mr. Hoff fell from his seat against the railing on the bridge in such a manner as to break one of the bones in his arm next to the wrist. Dr. Swanson set the bone and is of the opinion that the arm will be a little stiff hereafter.

Medicinal Value of Vegetables

By simplest preparation of certain vegetables, nerves may be soothed, bilious attacks warded off, the blood purified and colds averted. The general system may also be toned up by the daily use of a good malt tonic such as golden grain belt beer. A glass at mealtime and before retiring induces peaceful and refreshing sleep strengthens the brain and gives new life to the tired muscles. HEAVY GRAIN SHIPMENTS

FIVE HUNDRED CARS OF GRAIN IN YARDS HERE YESTERDAY

SEVEN EXTRA CREWS PUT ON TO HANDLE INCREASING BUSINES

From Monday's Daily—

There are things doing on the Northern division of the G. N. these days and railroad men are busy as the proverbial bee.

The rush began the forepart of last week and since that time 7 crews have been put to work steady on the Northern division and 11 crews on the Dakota division of the G. N. which has called into service every available railroad man in this locality besides necessitating the importing of some men from Eastern points.

On Sunday 500 cars came in from the Dakota division all loaded with grain and the Fifth ward yards were a rather busy place during the day but trains were dispatched in short order bearing long strings of cars loaded with the golden grain towards Duluth.

The Northern Pacific is likewise busy and long trains are rolling into and thru the city on both roads with great frequency during every hour of the day and night.

Even with all the available equipment and men at work the company is having its hands full in getting the grain out of the way. On some of the branch lines the elevators are filled and farmers are rushing their grain in so fast that cars cannot be secured to get the grain away.

The traffic is much heavier this year than last at this time. The weather has something to do with the condition of affairs. There has been no delay from rain.

IN BUSINESS AT ALEXANDRIA

W. B. KRAUSE BUYS OUT PICTURE SHOW BUSINESS—A HUSTLER

W. B. Krause has purchased the moving picture show which has been operated some time past by L. Johnson of this city and will move his family to that city and make it his permanent residence. Mr. Krause is there now, taking active charge of the business, and Mrs. Krause returned from Alexandria yesterday, and is delighted with the place which she says is one of the most beautiful she has ever visted.

Mr. Krause who is an energetic hustler for business will without doubt make a success of the venture, and the people of Alexandria are certain of high class entertainment. He is a well known vocalist, being the promoter of the famous Elks Quartet of Crookston, noted thruout the north half of Minnesota and Mrs. Krause also has a splendid voice. Mr. and Mrs. Krause are both well known as musicians and singers and are certain to be given a hearty welcome at Alexandria.

Mrs. Krause is superintending the packing up of their household goods for shipment to Alexandria, and will relet the flat over Brandow's upon which she has a year's lease.

GOOD REMEDY TO RID THE HEAD OF LICE

It being reported that many children in a nearby town are afflicted with lice, a local physician has furnished a prescription warranted to prove effective. The remedy is as follows:

Wash the head at bed time with kerosene and sweet oil using half as much sweet oil as kerosene. Place a towel around the head and leave the head soaked in oil until morning. Wash it well with soap and water and dry; then wash with vinegar, after which application comb thoroly with a fine comb. One such application is enough.

ERWIN IS NO MORE

FAMOUS MINNESOTA CRIMINAL LAWYER PASSES AWAY IN FLORIDA

CAREER OF PICTURESQUE POLITICAL FIGURE COMES TO AN END

From Tuesday's Daily—

"W. W. Erwin died Sunday night." Thus read a dispatch from Miami, Fla., signed by the widow. The date is Sept. 13. It signalizes the end of the career of one of the most picturesque professional and political figures that ever moved in the limelight in St. Paul and Minnesota.

"Bill" Erwin—nobody ever thought of calling him anything else—was, primarily the greatest criminal lawyer the Northwest ever knew. Secondly, he was an orator equaled in Minnesota by none, perhaps except Ignatius Donnelly. Thirdly, he was a politician whose coat was as variegated of hue as the garment of Joseph.

With all these he was in some respects the greatest intellect that ever shed its luster upon a Minnesota community.

The West had few more remarkable characters than Mr. Erwin. He left Minnesota in 1894, after twenty-eight years' residence in the Northwest, as full of enthusiasm and energy as when, in 1866 he left Steuben county, N. Y., a tall and angular young man of 24. He was a thorobred American.

A FINE HORSE IS MISSING

GEO. A. BANGS' BLACK BEAUTY HAS BEEN LOST SINCE SATURDAY

Geo. A. Bangs' horse, of Grand Forks, Black Beauty, is missing. The animal was missed on Saturday after noon at 5 o'clock and tho efforts have been made to locate it, as yet they have been without avail. The animal which is a thorobred, is pure black, and the officials have notified surrounding towns of the fact that it is missing. The horse may have been stolen, tho there is no evidence which leads to this belief.

BIG AUCTION SALE NEXT SATURDAY

On Saturday Sept. 19, C. A. Hitchcock will sell at public auction all of the stock and farm machinery and household goods belonging to Jos. Gauche, 2 miles east and one half mile north of the city of Crookston. This property will be sold without reserve as Mr. Gauche is leaving the country.

DEMS EXPECT SMALL VOTE

W. E. Black, chairman of Democratic County Committee says there will be some surprises this evening when the votes are counted altho he says he has worked in his office all day and kept away from the polls.

The Democrats have no contest on for the different county offices except a friendly contest for Treasurer there fore there will only be between 150 and 200 Democratic votes cast in the whole county as one vote would nominate their officers.

Miss Mae McCarty, a graduate of the McIntosh High School and of the St. Cloud Normal is of the new teachers, the other two being Misses McCollough and Baglo of Fergus Falls.—McIntosh Times.

SUPT O'NEALE OPTIMISTIC

VETERAN EMPLOYE OF MINNEAPOLIS AND NORTHERN ELEVATOR CO.

SAYS CONDITIONS WERE NEVER BETTER IN THE NORTHWEST THAN NOW

From Tuesday's Daily—

Supt. J. M. O'Neale of the Minneapolis and Northern Elevator Co., who has been with the company for 28 years, spent last night in the city says he has never seen a crop taken off in as short a time or with as little damage from rain since 1885 when similar fall weather prevailed. He is very enthusiastic over the conditions thruout the Red River Valley and last evening in an interview said:

"This is but the beginning of a new era of prosperity for this section The farmers are getting into winter rye rapidly, and they never made a better move. It cleans the land of wild oats, Canada and sow thistles, and the crop is harvested and threshed before the wheat crop is ready for harvest, so that the farmer is not so rushed with his work. There are thousands of acres of winter rye now seeded and up from 1 to 6 inches above the ground.

"I have not seen a failure of winter rye this year, and have seen yields as high as 37 bushels per acre. More land is year by year also being renewed by seeding it down to timothy and clover, and larger acreages are being sown to potatoes and corn which puts the land in great shhape for wheat later on.

"The farmers are holding more of their grain this year than for several years past. Some are holding for better prices, and others are holding it till they get their plowing done, and because, having got into stock they do not have to sell for ready cash. More early plowing will be done this year than for 10 years past."

MC'MANUS TAKING THE NELSON CURE

OLD TIME CROOKSTON MAN FINANCIALLY STRANDED AT HOUSTON, TEXAS

Several business men in Crookston have received notices from Henry L. Borden referee in bankruptcy at Houston, Texas, to the effect that George J. McManus of that place, formerly of Crookston, had been duly adjudicated bankrupt and that the firrst meeting of creditors would be held at Houston on the 28th day of September.

This will come as a great surprise to many people in Crookston. Mr. McManus paid Crookston a visit 6 or 8 months ago and at that time gave a glowing report of the prosperity of that country in which the people were revelling, and was very enthusiastic regarding his personal prosperity.

GOOD NEWS

Many Crookston Readers Have Heard It and Profited Thereby.

'Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Crookston are glad to learn that prompt relief is witin their reach. Many a lame, weak and aching back is bad no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with the Old Quaker Remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

Joseph Gundlach, cigar maker, living at 319 Broadway, N. Crookston, Minn., says: "I endorse Doan's Kidney Pills as a sure cure for kidney trouble. For a considerable time I suffered from pains in my back and through the loins. To this was added a weakness of the kidneys. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and resolved to try them, getting a box at Wallace's drug store. They proved to be just what my case needed and soon the backache was eradicated and the kidney secretions were regular and normal. I advise any sufferer from these troubles to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

BUILDING GOOD ROADS

Highway Expert Tells Why the Government Should Help.

HAS THE RIGHT AND ABILITY.

Secretary of Farmers' Good Roads League Points Out How States Can Be Helped by Bond Issue—Definite Conclusions on Construction Methods.

H. H. Gross, secretary of the Farmers' Good Roads league, has written as follows from Chicago to the editor of the New York Tribune on the subject of building improved highways:

Should the federal government by a bond issue assist the states to build public roads? If so, to what extent? The answers to the above questions involve the consideration of several things—first, the right of the government to do so, the need of it, its ability and, last, whether it is a wise policy to adopt. In the brief space available we must assume the necessity for good roads; that their condition affects market conditions and thus concerns all the people; that bad roads are productive of a great and preventable waste that amounts to several dollars a person a year; that one of the greatest needs for the social and economic development and welfare of all the people is good roads.

As to the right or power of the federal government to build or assist to build highways, section 8 of article 1 of the constitution says among other things:

> Congress shall have power "to establish postoffices and post roads."

More than 40 per cent of all the highways and most of the main roads are used for rural mail delivery and so are postroads in the meaning of the constitution. President Monroe in a message to congress May 4, 1802, says:

> In whatever sense the term "establish" is applied to postoffices it must be applied in the same sense to post roads.

Cooley in his book on constitutional law says:

> Every road within a state, including railroads, canals, turnpikes and navigable streams, existing or created within a state, became a post road whenever by action of the postoffice department provision is made for the transportation of the mails upon or over it.

The above is deemed sufficient to show the government has the unquestionable right to improve highways used for rural mail delivery.

> Article 1, section 8, clause 1, provides in part: "The congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imports and excises to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States."

Is not highway improvement for the general welfare?

On March 14, 1818, the house of representatives passed the following resolution:

> Resolved, That congress has power under the constitution to appropriate money for the construction of post roads, military and other roads and of canals and for the improvement of waterways.

Among the early statesmen who held that the federal government had ample power to build roads were Jefferson, Madison, Clay, Webster, Calhoun and others.

The government has expended millions on the old Cumberland road and a number of military roads, establishing a precedent. The public roads of nearly every civilized country in the world have been built in whole or in part by its general government. It is the only plan that has ever succeeded. It is the world precedent.

As to the need for better highways no argument is necessary. The general government is expending $35,000,000 a year on rural delivery. According to Senator Bankhead of Alabama, the postoffice department estimates that uniformly good roads would mean longer routes, more regular service and a saving of 20 per cent in the cost. Thus the loss to the postoffice department due to bad roads is now $7,000,000 a year and is increasing as the service is extended. It will soon reach $10,000,000 a year. While bad roads entail a loss to the mail service of $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 a year, the loss to the farmers and consumers of farm produce cannot be less than twenty times as much.

As to the ability of the federal government to assist in building good roads, how better can we judge this than by comparing the debt per capita of our country with the leading nations of the world that have built good roads and found it paid to do so?

The per capita debt of Germany, according to the Chicago Daily News Almanac and Year Book for 1908, is $49; England, $88.83; Italy, $82; Spain, $98; France, $144, and the United States, $11.11. The amount of annual interest charge to be met by a citizen of Germany is $2; France, $6.05; England, $8.47; United States, 29 cents.

The panic of 1907 was occasioned largely by the enormous demand for currency "to move the crops." Why need the crops be moved with such haste and at such great inconvenience to the railways and so completely drain the cities of money as to cause a panic and the loss of many millions? The farmer knew the winter and bad road season was approaching and that if he didn't get his crops off before the roads broke up he didn't know how long the embargo of bad roads would prevent him from doing so.

Another factor was the insufficient amount of government bonds to serve as the basis of national bank circulation. As no bonds were available the banks could not increase their circulation, as they would have been glad to do and which would have immediately relieved the financial strain. The country needs good roads, and it needs a larger debt (strange as that may- Out of this dilemma the way

If the federal government was to issue as needed $400,000,000 of 2 per cent thirty to fifty year bonds to aid in road building it would carry the national debt up from $11.11 to $15.55 and the interest charge from 29 to 39 cents per capita. The debt per capita then would be almost exactly where it was ten years ago.

It would require $8,000,000 a year to pay the interest on the bonds, but every dollar of it would be saved upon the one item of rural delivery.

Of the 2,100,000 miles of highways about 900,000 miles are post roads, and about 800,000 of these are unimproved. The $400,000,000 for national aid would give about $500 a mile, or about 25 per cent of the average cost of building hard roads upon these highways.

After ten years of study of road building at home and abroad the writer has reached the following definite conclusions:

First.—That if we are to have good roads within a generation the federal government must assist in building them.

Second.—That the government contribution be pro rated among the states as the work is done on the basis of one-half the gross sum upon the full road mileage of the state and one-half upon the basis of population. The plan works out fairly to all the states. This plan would make available out of $400,000,000 approximately $25,000,000 for New York, $26,000,000 for Pennsylvania, $22,000,000 for Illinois, $18,000,000 for Ohio, $13,000,000 for Michigan, etc.

Third.—That the actual construction of the roads should be done under state supervision upon specifications approved by the United States government engineers.

Fourth.—That the initiative should be left with the respective townships, road districts or parishes, these to furnish at least one-third of the total cost, with the state clothed with power to veto any improvement if of insufficient importance. This power would probably be seldom if ever used. It may be assumed if the road was not a main highway and needed the people of a township would not vote to build it when they had to raise at least one-third of the money required to do so.

Fifth.—That if this country is to fulfill its high destiny and meet the requirements placed upon it by its wealth, position and its opportunity good roads are a paramount necessity, and to get them speedily requires both federal and state aid to hearten the people to undertake this great work. Good roads will do more for the educational, social and economic development of the whole country than any other single agency.

GOOD ROADS IN ENGLAND.

W. H. Moore Says the United States Should Follow British Example.

W. H. Moore, president of the National Good Roads association, writing to the editor of the Kansas City Star, says:

The finest examples of perfect, easy and durable roads I have found in the British isles are the Warwick road from Leamington to Warwick castle, about two and a half miles; the Kenilworth road from Leamington to Kenilworth castle, five miles, and the Stratford road from Leamington to Stratford-on-Avon, ten and a half miles. These roads are about four rods wide between fences. The traveled or improved portion is twenty-two feet wide between grass edges.

All these roads have horse paths on one side. Some of these are carefully prepared with stone averaging from two to three feet deep, the top surfacing being earth. The paths on the side, which are two or three feet from the main road, average about five feet in width. No material has ever been nor ever will be found more suitable to horses' feet and to the horsemen than the common earth surfaced roads. The roads referred to receive careful and constant attention.

In the early season, May or June, they receive an application of coal tar product. This is impervious to rain and allays the dust. The very best interests of the people of the British isles socially and commercially are conserved by the splendid system of public roads. If the great army of politicians in the United States who are making pyrotechnic speeches and all candidates for municipal, state and federal offices should confine their campaign to the subject of good roads and when elected go after the question in earnest, they would soon accomplish the greatest good in their generation. Every county can afford good roads.

With a little common sense financiering by bonding or making a special levy with an interest and a sinking fund consideration any community can possess good roads, with all their attendant blessings. The curse of mud roads in the United States is a national, monumental fraud. It is a hideous evidence of misgovernment, a reproach against the advancement of equal rights and liberty to all.

Combine For Good Roads.

Minneapolis (Minn.) teamsters and motorists have joined forces in an effort to secure better roads, the Minneapolis Teamsters' union and the Minneapolis Automobile club having decided to go into politics to secure good highways. The plan is to work and vote only for aldermanic candidates who will pledge their aid to the good roads cause. Theodore Wirth, superintendent of the Minneapolis parks, has been elected the first honorary member of the Automobile club, and he is expected to help the movement.

Roads and the R. F. D.

Notice is being sent out from the postoffice department to many rural communities that unless roads are repaired and placed in condition for uninterrupted service during the year the rural service will be discontinued. This is work for good roads that will doubtless have a wide and wholesome effect, says the Atchison Globe. The rural mail service has become so much a part of the farmer's life as to be regarded as a necessity, and he isn't likely to let it lapse for the sake of a little time and energy needed in road building.

DOCTOR ADVISED USE OF CUTICURA

After Other Treatment Failed—Eczema in Raw Spot on Baby Boy's Face Lasted for Months—Cried with Pain when Washed.

ECZEMA WAS CURED AND HAS NEVER REAPPEARED

"Our baby boy broke out with eczema on his face when one month old. One place on the side of his face the size of a nickel was raw like beefsteak for three months, and he would cry out when I bathed the parts that were sore and broken out. I gave him three months' treatment from a good doctor, but at the end of that time the child was no better. Then my doctor recommended Cuticura. After using a cake of Cuticura Soap, a third of a box of Cuticura Ointment, and half a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent he was well and his face was as smooth as any baby's. He is now two years and a half old and no eczema has reappeared. I am still using the Cuticura Soap; I think it is the finest toilet soap I ever used. I keep my little girl's hair and face cleansed with it too. I am so thankful for what Cuticura has done for us. Mrs. M. L. Harris, R. F. D. 1, Alton, Kan., May 14 and June 12, '07."

To the King's Taste.

We learn in "Leaves From the Journal of Sir George Smart" that when Sir George, who was chorister at the Chapel Royal, arranged the musical programme at the opening of the new London bridge in 1831 his chief attraction was a glee party.

Immediately after the glee party had sung "God Save the King" in the tent in which the king and queen were seated two unknown persons in costume, a man and his wife, stepped forward, and to Sir George's infinite disgust the man played "God Save the King" with his knuckles on his chin, accompanied by his wife's voice.

The king called Sir George to him and asked who they were. Sir George by that time knew the name of the performers and gave it, adding that he was sorry they had intruded without permission.

"Oh, no intrusion!" said the king. "It was charming. Tell them to perform again."

So Sir George had to tell the performers that their number was encored by royal command, and to their great delight and to the chagrin of Sir George they repeated it.

Not Abashed.

"When I was young," said a lawyer, "my best client was a wealthy old lady noted for saying caustic things about her acquaintances. One morning, when I was staying at her house, she vilified one of her neighbors, named Stamford, without stint.

"By way of changing the subject I proposed to read to her from a volume of lectures I had happened to bring with me. She assented. I started at random and when too late discovered that I was in the middle of a lecture on the government of the tongue.

"I was afraid she would think I had selected it to admonish her, yet I dared not stop for fear of seeming to make the offense more pointed. So on I read to the end, pretty sure that my reading would cost me a client worth two hundred a year to me. But when I ended she said:

"'Thank you, Mr. ——. It is an excellent lecture and would fit my neighbor Stamford to a T.'"

The Conference.

"This is a grave matter," began the undertaker.

"Consequently we want more light thrown upon it," remarked the lamp manufacturer.

"I hope our views will all be in harmony with the occasion," put in the piano maker.

"No pipe dreams," admonished the plumber.

"I hope whatever is said none will take it ill," said the doctor.

"Then we'll all be good natured and not ask cross questions," supplemented the lawyer.

But it was the remark of the baker which broke up the meeting.

"What I want to know, first of all," he declared, "is who is expected to supply the dough?"—Baltimore American.

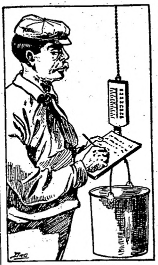
Posted Him.

He (vainly)—See that sweet little girl in pink? I was engaged to her the whole of last summer. Stranger (eagerly)—Very glad to hear it. I am the lawyer she's commissioned to sue you for breach of promise.

POINTS FOR THE DAIRYMAN.

A spring scale with a pointer for the tare of the pail now makes the weighing of the milk easy and quick. This scale can be had from almost any hardware store at a small price, and the milk pails can be made of uniform weight by putting a little lead on the bottom of the lighter ones. The producer can buy milk record sheets, good for a month, with spaces for keeping the weights of milk from over thirty cows, morning and night, at a cost of 15 cents a year. These sheets, tacked on a board near the scale, with a pencil hanging by a string, make it easy to weigh and set down the result, which shows at a glance what every cow is doing in quantity of milk. This, carried out through the year, will be a great surprise to the producer, disclosing unsuspected good and bad qualities in his cows.

The yield of milk, however, is only a part of the value of the cow. To really know her value one must apply the Babcock test. If he is not able to do this himself his state department station will test samples without cost to him, except the express charges. The average of two tests made from a two day composite sample of milk from each cow will give a very close approximation to the test of the whole year. By multiplying the number of pounds of milk for the year by the per cent of fat obtained from the two tests made on each cow at about six weeks after calving and again at about six months after calving he can know about the value of each of the cows in his herd. The advantage is that he can understandingly weed out the boarders from his herd, thereby increasing the net profit, and can tell which are his best cows to save calves from to add to the herd.—C. M. Winslow, Secretary Ayrshire Breeders' Association.



WEIGHING THE MILK

Feeding Young Cows.

My practice in feeding heifers from calfhood has been to give rations which would induce growth of bone and muscle, notwithholding a generous supply of fat forming material, so that the little creatures were symmetrical beauties, says a prosperous dairyman.

When they began to milk I still gave them enough of such food to keep them from becoming thin, believing, for the manufacture of the greatest supply of milk they were capable of producing, they should be furnished the materials in their food and not be required to take it from their own bodies, and I believe if this method of feeding were more generally practiced there would be less tuberculosis among the dairy herds of the country.

Flaxseed Meal For Calves.

Ground flax is an excellent substitute for butter fat to be fed to calves. Use a heaping teaspoonful to every feed of milk while the calf is from two to six weeks old, provided you are feeding skimmilk. As the calf grows older gradually increase the flaxseed meal until the calf is getting about a heaping tablespoonful with each feed. This flaxseed may be mixed with the milk, but never mix cornmeal or any other ground feed that contains a good deal of starch with the milk, as that is very apt to produce scours.

The reason for that is that starchy foods must be mixed with saliva before digestion can take place, and anything that is drunk with the milk does not become mixed with saliva, and consequently it fails to become digested and acts as an irritant to the alimentary tract.

Salting the Butter.

It is needless to say that nothing but the best grade of salt should be used in salting butter. I would prefer the flake salt, as it dissolves more readily and is not so liable to make mottles, says a dairyman. Salt adds flavor to the butter and materially increases its keeping quality. Buttermakers differ as to the amount of salt which should be used in butter. Very high salting, however, has a tendency to detract from the fine, delicate aroma of butter, while at the same time it tends to cover up slight defects in flavor. Salt very readily absorbs odors and must therefore be kept in a clean, dry place, where the air is pure. It should be of the same temperature as the butter when used.

Fly Cover For Cows.

To keep flies off the animal while milking is in progress a coarse woven fly cover can be thrown over her, and in a bad season such covers can be left on during the day to good advantage.

CANNING CORN.

(Furnished by the Minnesota Farmers' Institutes, St. Anthony Park, St. Paul, Minn.

Corn has always been considered the most difficult of vegetables to can successfully. By the methods commonly used at least some cans almost always spoil. The bacteria sometimes found upon the green corn are more resistant than those found in any other vegetable.

When ready to can corn, select ears in perfecting roasting ear stage, and with a sharp knife score each row of grains, cut a very thin slice from the ends of all the grains, and with a kitchen knife (or the back of a sharp knife) scrape the rest from the cob. For each quart of corn, put into the kettle a pint of water and half a tablespoonful of salt; put corn to cook and add boiling water as it evaporates. It should be as watery as commercial canned corn usually is. Let it cook for fifteen or twenty minutes after it actually boils all through. Watch and stir with a wooden spoon to prevent burning, but do not allow it to stop boiling.

When it has boiled for twenty minutes fill sterilized jars and seal. Then place the cans in a pan of hot water and let it boil for one-half hour, being sure that it does boil that length of time. The center of the can must reach the highest degree of heat possible, and they cannot reach that temperature unless the surrounding water is boiling all of the given time. Let the cans stand until the next day, then put them in a cold water bath and cook for half an hour after the water begins to boil; repeat the treatment on the third day. Tighten the covers if possible, while contents of jars are still boiling hot; wipe and set away where there is no draft and allow to cool.

The first boiling, if properly done, will kill the living germs, but the spores will remain unaffected. By the second and third days all of the spores will have reached the vegetative stage, in which they reproduce, and may then be exterminated by continued boiling heat. It a single germ is left alive in the food after the third boiling, the canning will be a failure, because these invisible enemies of the housewife grow and multiply so rapidly that one left alive will speedily cause a large amount of food to spoil. This is the only sure process of canning this vegetable without the use of chemicals. Success may sometimes attend the other methods, but a great deal of uncertainy must always exist. If no germs of this kind happen to be present, all will be well; but if they are present, all is lost. Another favorable feature of this method is that, as the cans are sealed all the time, there is no danger of contamination from the air or other sources after the canning process begins.

STEPHENS-MUDGETT WEDDING THURSDAY

PROMINENT YOUNG PEOPLE WED IN PRETTY HOME AFFAIR.

This afternoon at two o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. B. L. Mudgett, 1510 22nd street east, Minneapolis, her daughter, Miss Ethel Madeline Mudgett, was united in marriage to Mr. Marcus Cameron Stephens, of this city. Rev. Geo. E. Satterlee, former pastor of the Methodist church in this city, officiated, and the ceremony was performed in the presence of relatives and intimate friends only. The bride and groom were unattended. The bride is well known in Crookston, having taught in the Crookston schools for the past several years, and took a very prominent part in the social life of the city. She is a highly accomplished young lady, with an exceptionally gracious manner, and will be accorded a very warm welcome as one of the young matrons of Crookston. The groom is the oldest son of Senator and Mrs. A. D. Stephens, and one of the popular and rising young business men of Crookston, being the local manager for the Crookston Milling Co. at the present time, and has a splendid future before him. He grew to manhood in Crookston and was very prominent in athletic circles, and is an enthusiastic sportsman. The bride and groom will arrive tomorrow or Saturday and at once go to housekeeping in a very cosy flat in the Fournet block, adjoining the flat occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Fournet, facing Broadway, which the groom has furnished luxuriously. Senator and Mrs. Stephens left with their son last evening to be present at the wedding.

PENNED AND PILFERED

Of the many hunting stories appearing in the exchanges, the following from the Middle River Pioneer, sent in by their Rollis correspondent, strikes the writer as containing more truth than humor. This particular party was chaperoned by Chas. Tedford, who must have let Collier and Ferguson out of the corral, and wandered away alone. The account reads:

"Our boy and the pup were out and shot a few chickens for some hunters from Duluth yesterday. It kept the pup busy pulling the hunters' dogs off butterflies; but they managed to keep the birds all scared up so the wagon didn't hit any. It is calculated that there was 30,000 pounds of lead shot away in Rollis yesterday and farmers are making $5 a day screening the top soil. Most of the shot fell back to the earth."

The next paragraph reads:

"Mr. Ferguson let his gun off yesterday and accidentally wounded a poor little prairie chicken. Men are so careless with firearms. They all succeeded in missing a great many other chickens and the whole party were feeling jubilant last night. They had so much ammunition aboard that it sprung the wagon ax, but Mr. Kelley and Barney got it fixed up during the night."

Pat Fearon of the U. S. land office has a promising setter pup he is very proud of, and from which he is expecting wonderful performances next year. He had him out one day recently. He was heard yesterday telling Montague that the pup got in the midst of a devided flock, and pointed in two directions at once, forward with his nose and in the rear with his tail. "Be George," says Pat, "th' kid stud in th' midde an' killed both chickens at wan shot."

PRE-ELECTION PREDICTIONS

RESULT OF VICTORY INDICATES UNDIMINISHED MAJORITIES FOR REPUBLICANS

IN NOVEMBER, IS THE OPINION OF RELIABLE POLITICAL EXPERTS.

Raymond, the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, who is regarded as one of the most reliable political writers in the country, regards the result of the Vermont election as presaging absolute victory for Mr. Taft. In a recent special dispatch to the Tribune Raymond said:

"Practically speaking, the result of Tuesday's election is more favorable to the Republicans than they had any right to expect, because there has been no determined campaign for the purpose of making a good showing in Vermont and few of the big guns of the party have been put on the stump there this year.

"There is, of course, a slight falling off in the vote of both Republicans and Democrats, as compared with four years ago, but this was entirely to be expected, because at that time Roosevelt was the nominee of his party for president, and the result in Vermont in that year was merely a forerunner of the tremendous landslide which took place all over the country.

"As it is, the plurality of over 29,000 at yesterday's election is taken to be an indication that, while the campaign this year is not to be a sensational one, the election of Mr. Taft is foreshadowed by a safe majority.

"If Vermont can be taken as an index of the condition of public opinion throughout the country, it means that in the November election, whatever strength the Independence League develops in the other States will come almost exclusively from Bryan and not from Taft.

"The Vermont Democrats, while few in number, are extremely rockribbed in their sentiments. They make a point of going to the polls year after year and carry on a hopeless fight merely because they want to set a good example to the Democrats in other States. In 1896 they repudiated Bryan and the free silver heresy, and they did it largely by staying at home on election day. The result was a plurality of a little over 40,000 for McKinley, which has been a record in Vermont elections. In the State elections of 1900 and 1904 the Democratic vote was practically stationary."

JACOBSON IS STRONG.

From the North Branch Review: In J. F. Jacobson the people of Minnesota will elect a governor who will pay strict attention to his duties as chief executive, one who will know all the details of the state government and do his best to serve the people rather than himself. And a little hard work and attention to details in the governor's office would be a good thing at the Minnesota state-house next year.

From the Anoka Union: If the people of Minnesota who want a man for governor who will attend to the business of the office, they will elect Jacobson. He may be homely, he may be lacking smoothness of manners, but he is a man who will perform his duties honestly and fearlessly.

From the Brown's Valley Interlake Tribune: Let us have a governor that will be a governor and earn his salary by doing something of value to the state. Jacobson as a member of the legislature was of great service to the state at large. The laws he advanced and supported were every one beneficial to the people. Governor Johnson was also a member of the legislature, yet he has no record of things achieved like that of Jacobson. and in fact the Democratic party leaders find it useless to refer to the governor's legislative career, simply because there was nothing in it.

From the Stillwater Gazette: Thus far the Jacobson prospects look fine and it looks more and more as if he would be the next governor of Minnesota.

From the Kanabec Times: The state ticket placed in nomination by the republicans at St. Paul will meet with the hearty approval of republicans generall throughout the state. The nomination of Jacobson for governor will bring back into the republican fold those republicans who have been in the habit of scratching the head of the ticket in recent years.

WM. H. TAFT'S RELIGION

A CONSISTENT CHRISTIAN WITH NO SPOT UPON HIS RECORD OF PRIVATE CONDUCT

AND PUBLIC SERVICE—MEMBER OF THE UNITARIAN CHURCH.

To dispose of questions which should not be asked as speedily as possible let us say that Mr. Taft is a member of the Unitarian church. That was the church of his parents, and he has never separated himself from it. His wife, however, is an Episcopalian, and he worships more often beside her in her church.

These are the facts, which are utterly and absolutely unimportant. The matter of a man's religion has no rightful place in consideration of his fitness for the presidency. The constitution of the nation, ordained and established "to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity," expressly places the very suggestion of such thought outside the pale of patriotism.

No words can be clearer than these from our country's fundamental law, "No religious test ever shall be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States."

The numerous queries about Mr. Taft's religious belief shows simply the extent to which his enemies have gone to rouse some prejudice against him. Since there was no spot upon his whole clean record of private conduct and public service to which they could point to Taft's detriment they displayed their willingness to descend to any depth of petty, cowardly, contemptible attack that might do him harm.—Philadelphia North American.

Union Labor Vote.

Hon. William H. Buchanan is one of the leading union men of western New York and in 1907 was the Democratic candidate for assemblyman in Chautauqua county. This is what he has to say of the effort of Mr. Gompers to turn the labor vote over to Mr. Bryan:

"I am a union labor man, and I want to say further that no man can carry the labor vote into the Democratic camp. I know how union labor men feel in this city, and three-fourths of them will stand by the Republican party because only in that way have they the assurance of freedom from the business disturbance that Mr. Bryan promises for at least four years if he can be elected. We workingmen can't earn wages if statesmen are put in office to disturb business and make trouble."

IOWA SOLONS IN DEADLOCK.

Opponents of Gov. Cummins Prevent Election of Successor to Allison.

Des Moines, Sept. 10.—True to their pledge to each other, forty-two standpat Republicans in the state legislature yesterday prevented the electio of Gov. A. B. Cummins to the United States senate to fill out the unexpired term of the late W. B. Allison.

These forty-two senators and representatives refused to cast their votes for Gov. Cummins, and with the forty-five Democrats who voted for Porter they outnumbered the sixty-five Republicans who voted for Cummins. Not only did these forty-two standpatters prevent an election yesterday, but they declared that it is their intention to continue in their course, deadlocking the legislature if it is necessary to keep Gov. Cummins out of the United States senate.

DOGS CANT WORK IN DRY WEATHER

LACK OF MOISTURE SAVES LIVES OF MANY OF THE PRAIRIE CHICKENS.

ALTHOUGH CROP IS VERY GOOD, HUNTERS ARE UNABLE TO GET THEM.

From Thursday's Daily—

The inability of dogs to scent the festive prairie hen this fall on account of the exceptionally dry season, will result in an abnormal crop next year, according to the opinion of prominent Crookston hunters. Not a hunter has returned to the city this fall, but who reports there is a great abundance of birds. The fields have been as dry as parchment and work as hard as they would the ordinary dog has been unable to scent the birds. This will mean that a large number will survive the fall bombardment and iff the winter is at all favorable there will be all kinds of birds to breed and the sport, a stop to which was almost put by the extermination of the birds, will receive new impetus.

An Intellectual Uplift

Thruout the country agriculture is now experiencing a wonderful intellectual uplift. It is such a forward movement as no other calling ever received and no other age ever witnessed.

Only the educated farmer will have a chance in the sharp competition of the future. He will live so much better and make so much more than the farmer of today that it will make most farming of the present look primitive.

The farmer should be a specialist. This requires preparation. Education counts for as much as experience in the preparation for profitable farming. Two years of special school work is more valuable than many years of the ordinary farm experience.

The farmer's wife and daughters ought to be something besides mere working machines. Too many of them grind out their daily tasks calling them drudgery and hating them with all their strength year in and year out. A couple years of practical training at an Agricultural School, where they study many things their brothers study, and other things their brothers do not study, broadens their views and simplifies their methods of housework and farm life. The possibilities of their lives are opened to them, and the way to a better and happier life is shown them.

Is it to be wondered at then, that the dedication of Stephens Hall at the School of Agriculture tomorrow has caused an interest that permeates every portion of the 9th congressional district?

After weeks of preparation, the program is complete and tomorrow will witness one of the largest, and by all odds the most significant gathering ever held in Crookston. Many interested people arrived this morning, and thousands more will arrive this evening and on the special and regular trains tomorrow morning.

The dedication of Stephens Hall marks a new epoch in the history of the progress of the Red River Valley. It means a new, better and greater prosperity for the farmer as well as the business man in the city. It means the beginning of an entirely new order of things.

Roosevelt's Letter For Taft

The president gets into the game of president-making with a safe- and sane letter which puts the argument for the election of Taft on better basis than it has yet been stated, says the Minneapolis Journal.

In describing a true friend of reform the president undoubtedly had Taft in mind but yet the description can be viewed purely impersonally as the standard to which a candidate for presdent ought to measure up this year. It would not be the president's fault if Mr. Taft proved to be the only candidate who met all the conditions.

"The true friend of reform, the true foe of abuses," says the president "is the man who steadily perseveres in righting wrongs but whose character and training are such that he never promises what he cannot perform"

This is a complete picture of Taft the administrator, lawyer, judge and advccate. He has steadily warred against abuses, but never gone to wild extremes in promising what could not be done, nor has he accepted compromises where there was a fair chance to get what he was after He has moved steadily forward, constantly growing in his ideas, and strengthened in his determination to get what was right for the people. The calm, steady determination of the man is seen in his fight for the Filipinos, in his work upon the Panama canal and in his early stand for tariff revision.

The president, recognizing that the campaign turns to a large extent upon the question of confidence in parties, took occasion to bring forward Mr. Taft's relation to the railroad question. Back of the campaign the president knows, and everybody knows, there is this question, "Shall the railroads be regulated or absorbed?" The democratic candidate has made at least one threat of government ownership. Mr. Taft has steadied the ship of state on that particular fad. He has punctured some of the claims of the promoters of hatred between the railroads and the community. The president follows in the same line, when he says the railroads, no less than the public, have rights. If the roads are to remain in private ownership, but subject to public regulation, they must be accorded the full use of their rights, and held to a strict accountability for any wrongs they may commit. In order to move freight, pay their employes and distribute dividends among their stockholders, the railroads must be allowed the use and enjoyment of their lawgiven rights. They, on their side, are to cease discrimination and the committal of recognized abuses. On the other hand when the railroads withdraw from politics, politics must drop them. Their regulation becomes administrative duty rather than political capital. The election of a strong, wellpoised president like Taft, is as necessary to the inauguration of the new policy as was the election of a virile agitator like Roosevelt to the uncovering of the causes for popular discontent.

STATE PRESS

Opinions

Stillwater Gazette: We understand that the winners in Wisconsin are highly delighted with the primary law, while the losers are expressing their opinions in the most vigorous language.

A Proof

Walker Pilot: The fact that Lincoln wore homespun clothing goes to show that he had very little time for the catalogue houses.

"Love is the wine of life," exclaimed the poet.

"And marriage is the morning after," added the cynic.

Journal want ads bring results.

Rapacious Lumber Trust

Monticello Times: The Philadelphia Public Ledger says that the reasons why Speaker Cannon and his committee on rules held up the important measure of saving the forest region was "the influence of the Lumber trust and its no less rapacious congener, the Paper trust, were at the bottom of it." Go to the bottom of all matters arising before congress and the trusts dominate directly or indirectly. The trusts exploit whatever is to be exploited.

STEEL CANOE GOES DOWN—THREE KILLED

International Falls, Sept 15—Three prominent men from Fort Blanchard Man., lost their lives today when the steel canoe, guaranteed not to sink in case of capsizing, went down like lead. The dead are:

H. J. Sissons.
John Lockheart.
Atkinson, initials not known.

The accident occurred in the Rainy river at the rapids, the men being on their way to Rainy Lake. The boat caught in a whirlpool and capsized, its occupants being unable to save themselves. The boat was one which the men purchased under the strict guarantee that it would not sink if capsized. Sissons is a very prominent lawyer of Manitoba and leaves a wife and two children. Lockheart is the owner of the steamer Majestic He too, leaves a wife and family. Atkinson was a single man.

BAGLEY CORPS OF TEACHERS FOR 1908.

All the teachers who are to make up the staff of instructors in the Bagley schools for the present school year, and who reside out of town, arrived the first of the week — Miss Clara Iddings, principal, of Minneapolis, Miss Madeline Collins, of Barnsville, Miss Aleda Hershberger, of Fosston and Miss Ingeborg Espeseth, of Erskine. Miss Laura Peake, the only member of the staff who is to teach her first term in Bagley, is a resident of Brainerd.

FRANK RILEY FEARS HIS BROTHER WAS KILLED

Another letter was received Sunday by the police department relative to the disappearance of T. A. Riley of whom injury was made last week by his mother, Mrs. J. C. Riley of Spokane. This time Frank Riley of St. Paul makes inquiry relative to the missing man and in his letter he states that he fears his brother has met with foul play.

The missing man was in Grand Forks early in August and has not been heard from since.

INDIANS' THUMB MARKS TO BE ON ALL CHECKS

There has been an order issued by the Indian department to the effect that hereafter all Indians' checks and other papers which they have to sign will have to be signed by his thumb mark instead of an "X" as has formerly been the custom.

CRUDE OIL BURNER FOR THRESHING RIG

The inventor of a threshing engine which burns crude oil for fuel has been trying out the engine for the last two weeks up in the Cando, N. D. country, with satisfactory results.

UNIVERSITY OF N. D. WILL HAVE BIG ATTENDANCE

The prospects of a large attendance at the N. D. university this year are excellent. The office force has been busier than ever before in replying to the many inquiries that have poured in from all sides and the indications are that when the registration takes place on next Tuesday the number of students who will appear will be much larger than ever before.

The university will open next Tuesday and President Merrifield who has been in Europe this summer will arrive home very shortly for the last year, his resignation to take effect at the end of the season.

MORE DAIRIES SHOW DECREASE IN WHEAT YIELD

The total amount of grain marketed in Grand Forks county this year is not nearly as large as it has been in other years, according to those who are in a position to know the facts. However with the good price prevailing, the farmers have made good and are more prosperous than in many other years when the yield was a great deal larger.

Threshing will be completed in Grand Forks county this week. Already a number of threshing machines have laid up for the year and the next few days will see the others closed down.

DON'T TAKE BAD MONEY IN CIRCULATION

Flaxton N. D., is flooded with counterfeit 25 and 50 cent pieces. The bad ones are recognized by a fullness around the rim and a coarser, heavier appearance in general, while the color of the twenty-five cent pieces is slightly darker, and give evidence of being molded instead of stamped. The imitation is a clever one.

WOMEN'S FEDERATED CLUBS MEET OCT. 7, 8, 9.

The annual state convention of the Women's Federated clubs of North Dakota, will be held at Minot, Oct. 7, 8 and 9. Mrs. Frank White, resident president of the federation, has received word that the date has been definitely fixed. While it was known that the convention would be held in October, the exact dates have just recently been fixed. The principal speaker will be Enos Mills, the forestry expert from the U. S. forestry bureau.

GOVERNMENT SCALER VISITS RED LAKE

Nathan J. Head who has for several years been scaler of government timber, arrived in the city Saturday, from White Earth where he has been visiting with old friends. Mr. Head returned to Red Lake yesterday on the M. R. L. & M. special and will remain in that vicinity for some time to come.—Bemidji Pioneer.

"Making Good"

may be slang but it is a vigorous phrase of tonic qualities and holds a world of solid meaning, hard work, honorable success, accomplishment.

There are many young men, 60 years and under, hard-workers, who have failed to justify the hopes and ambitions of their families and friends; failed to reap the harvest due them; failed to "Make Good", simply because they did not realize the many actual advantages offered them by a check account; the protection afforded their money; the chance to save the extra dollar or two; to build up their credit; the certainty of having to pay bills but once; and other advantages appreciated by the man who has a bank account.

DO YOU KEEP FLOCK OF SHEEP?

(Furnished by the Minnesota Farmers' Institutes, St. Anthony Park, St. Paul, Minnesota

The problems of securing reliable farm labor for dairying and general farming is confronting many farmers in these times. Poor seasons for yield and quality of small grains have reduced the profits on many grain farms in Minnesota. Do you realize as a farmer that Minnesota is one of the best located and best adapted states in the Union for growing and feeding of sheep? Do you realize how a good flock of sheep will help to solve your labor problem and return you a profit in unfavorable grain years? Read the following account of 39 ewes owned and cared for by a farmer in southwestern Minnesota. These figures were accurately gathered and the amounts of feed weighed and recorded by an employe of the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment station.

On Jan. 1st, 1906, the flock consisted of 39 ewes ranging from one to five years of age. They were fed hay and fodder corn with a light grain ration during winter months. In the spring the flock was turned into the grain fields and allowed to graze until the grain was 6 inches high. During the summer they were allowed the run of the pasture and farmstead, and after the grain was stacked in the fall they were turned into the grain fields where they picked their living until October 26th, when ewes and lambs were all sold. Following is the financial account with the flock Jan 1:

To inventory	$240.00
Barley	.60
Salt	.97
Oats	7.71
Wheat screenings	5.92
Flax	5.00
Bran	1.50
Fodder corn	10.00
Pasture	9.75
Hay	9.85
Wool twine	.40
Cash cost shearing	3.25
Man and horse labor	5.17
By wool		90.00
By 39 ewes and 38 lambs		587.50
Gain	377.38
	$677.50	$677.50

WYLIE

The oldest inhabitants claim they have not seen so many grasshoppers and crickets as they have this year which may account for the prairie chicken not being found on the wheat fields the same as in former years, mornings and evenings.

Mike Drager will ship out two more loads of stock Friday for the St. Paul market. This shipmet should have been shipped last Friday but there was slight misunderstanding between Mike and Jim Hill as the stock cars did not arrive on that day.

Theo. Fournier, the Wylie cheesemaker received second prize at the state fair the score being 98 lacking just half a point of coming under the wire and taking firrst prize. Mr. Fournier has entered four contests this summer and is a prize winner in all of them. The supply of cheese the past two months is not equal to the demand.

The natives along this line were awestricken Tuesday on seeing a passenger coach but after a few explanations that it was nothing more or less than the assistant superintendent with his special and a negro cook they were soon brought back to their senses and proceeded on with farming the same as tho nothing occurred In a few weeks from now we will have telephone conections with St. Hilaire and it's up to Station Agent Borneman to give us warning should the likes occur again.

ELEGANT FRUIT—O. N. J. Hagen Saturday received a crate of elegant peaches from Harvey Warninger, who is in the restaurant business at North Yakima. The peaches were beauties large in size and fine flavored. Mr. Warninger was employed in the Oyster Bay Restaurant for years, and has a host of friends in Crookston.

TEACHING IN 82— W. J. Doran who has for a number of years taught near Euclid has accepted the school in district No. 82 several miles west of this city. Mr. Doran is one of Polk county's best instructors and the parents can congratulate themselves on the fact that their children are in good hands.

SUCCESSFUL SEASON— Lars E. Hellner of the firm of Hellner and Strandell, who was in the city a few days attending to business matters returned to Rolla, N. D., this morning. He says that their contracts for the cities of Rolla and Milton are coming along well and they will net the firm a good profit.

A POPULAR HOD— One of the most popular traveling men who has made this territory is Hod Taylor whose line has been hardware. He is now out for the Cable Horse Nail Co., of St. Louis, Mo., and has all the western states as his territory. He will be in this vicinity about a week and Crookston will be his headquarters.

DUCKS WERE SCARCE:— W. S. Lycan, Dr. H. W. Smith and Will Munch left Sunday afternoon for Goose Lake and made a tour of several noted duck ponds, returning home this morning. They report seeing very few ducks and are of the opinion that there will be little duck shooting at Goose Lake till after the first of November. However they brought ducks enough for a mess or two.

PIONEER CROOKSTONITE — S. Langevin who has been spending the past six weeks here the guest of his son Dr. H. Langevin and other relatives and many friends left this after noon for Linwood, Mich., where he will visit with another son. Mr. Langevin is one of the pioneers of this locality and was one of the first of the many Crookstonites to locate in North Yakima, Wash., leaving here in 1896. His old farm, now known as the Wheeler farm on the north road to Gentilly is considered one of the best in the valley.

HAD GOOD LUCK—L. J. Lake and wife spent a few days of last week at Goose lake and returned to the city with the first wild goose brought in, a fine mess of ducks and 15 prairie chickens. The chickens were all shot within a stones throw of John Goodwin's house in Angus township. Mr. Lake and Mr. Goodwin thought they would go out for a few hours one afternoon and had not got 15 rods from the horse before the dog made a point. A chicken got up but was winged. Inside of 15 minutes 15 birds got up, one by one, and every one was killed. This makes Mr. Lake about the luckiest hunter from Crookston.

BANGS HAD HIS TROUBLES:— Tracy R. Bangs, one of the leading attorneys of Grand Forks, with Mrs. Bangs and his son Philip and Mrs. Whithead started from Grand Forks last Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock for Crookston. After puncturing an inner tube four times on the way over they arrived here at 6 o'clock. A new tube was put in and Mr Bangs was just gathering up his load of passengers for the return trip when the tube exploded again before he had circled the first block. He had another tube inserted and the party finally left for home about 8 o'clock. No message has as yet been received as to whether they have reached home yet. And through it all Mr. Bang wore the smile that would not come off. What he was thinking about may be another story.

A POPULAR NORTHWEST—Barny Thompson of Euclid is in the city today telling of the many bushels of golden grain he is daily threshing with his "Northwest" outfit. He says that the Northwest is the best machine he has had any thing to do with, during the many years he has been in the business. There is some satisfaction to do a good job and receive no kicks.

RURAL ROUTES AID GOOD ROADS

THOROFARES ARE REPAIRED TO FACILITATE DELIVERY OF MAIL

TO FARMERS IN NORTHWEST — MINNESOTA NOW HAS 1549 ROUTES

From Wednesday's Daily—

According to a communication received from P. V. DeGraw fourth assistant postmaster general, the local postal authorities have been informed that the establishment of the rural free delivery routes has accelerated road construction and given the good road movement in the northwest a big boost.

Last spring Mr. DeGraw sent a letter to each postmaster asking for information regarding the roads covered by the rural routes; also asking particular information about sections needing repairs where bridges and culverts were needed and the amount of money expnded in the districts since the routes were established.

Reports from Minnesota, the Dakotas, Wisconsin and Michigan show that the roads covered by the routes are in fairly good condition and that the majority of the roads in poor condition are due to the lack of ditching and grading. They also show that since the rural delivery routes were established in these states the condition of roads has been greatly improved and that considerable sums of money have been expended in building new roadways and repairing old ones.

Exact information as to the amount expended on certain roads covered by rural delivery is lacking but the reports show that in Minnesota the aggregate expenditure on these roads is $1,573,422; in North Dakota, $194,667; S. Dakota $271,420; Wisconsin $2,431,965 and Michigan $1,704,436.

Road Officials Warned

Minnesota now has $1,549 routes, covering about 52,048 miles; North Dakota 331 routes covering about 9,268 miles; South Dakota 453 routes covering about 12,684 miles, Wisconsin 1,581 routes, covering about 38,734 miles, and Michigan 1,967 routes covering about 48,191 miles.

Some postmasters have given information regarding roads that were not in good repair and the department has sent letters to road officials of these districts informing them that unless the roads are put in good condition the rural free delivery routes will be discontinued.

FINE APPLES IN POLK CO.

PRODUCTS OF OSCAR WICK'S ORCHARD ATTRACTING MUCH ATTENTION

That as fine apples can be raised in this vicinity as in any section has again been demonstrated this season in the orchard of Oscar Wick one mile south of East Grand Forks. The orchard produced again this year some magnificent Wealthy, Duchess, Minnesota and other varieties of large apples as well as a number of varieties of crab apples. The fruit is not only of large size exquisite coloring, but of the finest flavor as has been duly attested by the writer here of. Mr. Wick sent samples of his apples to the state fair at Hamline and the exhibit attracted wide attention there, as it is not generally understood that such fruit can be successfully grown so far north. Mr. Wick also raises very successully, strawberries, gooseberries, currants, plums and other small fruit in addition to all kinds of hardy ornamental trees and shrubs and flowers. His place is a veritable park in beauty and is well worth a drive out to the place to see.

is given to the removing of fruit and other stains. Other things are taught special treatment of flanels, silks, prints and laces; fixation of colors; composition and action of various soaps, soda, bluing, borax and washing powders; making and using cold and boiled starch; care and use of irons; polishing devices. Each lesson is made practical by laundering material selected for the occasion.

The above outlined things are a few of the many practical things the young women have an opportunity to learn in schools of this kind. A great many other things might be mentioned but time and space does not permit.

FEAR COAL FAMINE IN WEST

RAILROAD OFFICIALS CLAIM CONSUMERS ARE BUYING SLOWLY

DANGER OF FUEL FAMINE IF THERE IS A HARD WINTER

From Wednesday's Daily—

St. Paul, Aug. 31—Railroad officials say that unless the people of Minnesota and North Dakota make an effort to put in their coal supply immediately there is danger of a repetition of "coal famine" conditions which prevailed during the winter of 1906-07. Up to the present not nearly enough coal necessary to meet the fall demand has moved from the Head of the Lakes it is claimed.

The Great Northern reports that the supply moved to points in Minnesota and N. Dakota is from 25 to 50 per cent less than at this time last year. The trouble seems to be with individual dealers. The people apparently do not realize the necessity for putting their supply in early.

Storage Capacity Taxed

There are approximately 3,000,000 tons of soft coal and 800,000 tons of hard coal on the docks at the head of the lakes now. Storage capacity is taxed to the limit and serious shortage is bound to occur it is said, unless the roads are given on opportunity to get the coal out before the grain movement sets in.

By placing orders now for immediate delivery it is pointed out that the consumer not only gets a better price but relieves the storage bins of the retailer thereby enabling him to restock at once.

MATSON SENT TO GREEN BAY.

Horse Thief Came From St. Paul Is Sentiment.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 16.—George E. Matson alias Sam White, self-confessed horse thief, was yesterday sentenced to Green Bay reformatory for three years and six months. Although his name is Matson he insisted on being sent to the reformatory under the name of Sam White. He came here from St. Paul.

DEATH SHIES AT FARMER.

Shoots Himself Six Times and Cuts His Wrists, but Still Lives.

Osage, Iowa, Sept. 16. — Charles Govier, living on a farm about three miles west, shot himself six times, then after cutting his wrists and arms walked a short distance to his house and fell prostrated on the porch. He was found by his mother, who summoned Dr. J. W. Barrett, who extracted five of the bullets from his head. Mr. Govier is in a critical condition and his recovery is very doubtful. The cause of the tragedy is not known.

LAKEVIEW HAS AGE RECORD

INTERESTING ELECTION HELD IN POLK COUNTY 30 YEARS AGO THIS FALL

McLEAN BEAT JUDGE WATTS FOR CO. ATTY., M. R. BROWN RECALLS OLD TIMES

From Tuesday's Daily—

The present primary election recalled the election held 30 years ago to the mind of Capt. M. R. Brown because of the fact that in the third ward the polling place is the Lakeview Hotel, the same building in which the election was held in 1878. In speaking of the matter to the Journal this morning Capt. Brown said:

"The third ward is today holding the election in the oldest polling place in the city that is now sanding. The election of the village of Crookston was held in the same building, the old Lakeview Hotel in 1878, thirty years ago. At that time the republicans elected W. D. Washburn to crongress, Andrew McRea state senator, S. G. Comstock, M. Anderson, representatives, John McLean, County Attorney, B. F. Zerracher, sheriff. C. Steenerson, school superintendent, and E. C. Davis county commissioner. The democrats had a full ticket and gave us quite a scrap. The total vote cast was about 850.

According to the Journal files of 30 years ago Crookston cast about 250 votes at that time. Judge McLean got 416 votes and Judge Watts 402 for county attorney. B. F. Zerracher the present Alderman from the 2nd ward was elected sheriff by 163 majority over A. Lachapelle, a brother of P. J. Lachapelle who still resides in this city. C. S. Spendley was elected register of deeds, getting all the votes excepting 80 which were cast for F. S. Fjoser, John Christianson was elected auditor and A. Yvernault was elected treasurer unanimously.

R. R. LAW DECLARED INVALID

OWNING OF MINING PROPERTIES BY PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD IS UPHELD.

ATTORNEY GENERAL BONAPARTE AND PRESIDENT DECIDE ON APPEAL.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11. — Declaring it to be harsh and unreasonable and an invasion of the rights of states, and therefore repugnant to the constitution, the United States circuit court for the eastern district of Pennsylvania today dismissed the suit of the federal government to enforce the commodities clause of the Hepburn railroad act against the anthracite coal carrying railroads of this state.

Judge George Gray and George M. Dallas filed opinions dismissing the suits and Judge Joseph Buffington dissented but did not file an opinion.

The commodities clause prohibits railroad companies to transport in interstate commerce any article or commodity manufactured, mined or produced by them or under their authority.

The decision of the court did not come as a great surprise. It is almost certain that the case would be appealed directly to the United States supreme court.

DIED VERY SUDDENLY

CARL SUNDSTROM FELL DEAD AS RESULT OF TOO MUCH WHISKEY.

From Friday's Daily—

This morning Carl Sundstrom, of Niagara, N. D., staggered into Tom Murray's saloon at East Grand Forks, and leaned up against the bar. Murray and his bartender saw he was ill and took him to a side room. They called officer Clinch, who summoned a physician, but Sundstrom died before the physician arrived. Dr. Kirk gave cause of death as heart failure due to too much liquor. Coroner Chesterman, who was on the ground, telegraphed Gus Sundstrom at Moorhead, who will take charge of the body. $3.50 in cash, a watch, and other things were found on the body. Sundstrom was well dressed. Nothing was known of him at East Grand Forks.

SUICIDE

From Friday's Daily—

A tremendous sensation was caused at Lengby when O. K. Ringstad, the postmaster at that place, committed suicide by shooting himself. It is understoo dthat he was despondent over his business affairs, which, it is intimated, are badly mixed. He is well known throughout this section and his rash act comes as a great surprise. Deputy Coroner Harry Chesterman went out this morning to take charge of the remains.

KIDNAPER AND VICTIM ARE FOUND

TAYLOR IS PLACED UNDER ARREST AT EAST GR. FORKS ROOMING HOUSE.

GIRL IS FOUND, HALF CRAZED, IN RESORT, AND WILL BE WITNESS TODAY.

The Grand Forks police department has one of the most baffling cases of kidnaping to solve that has ever been known in this section. Inga Vraa is missing and it is suspected that Will Taylor is the man who kidnaped her. The girl is onlyn 17 years old. According to information furnished to the police, the girl has been so terrorized by his threats that she has complied with his demands for her meager earnings as a servant girl.

Alarmed by the disappearance of the girl, John Fishman, of Grand Forks, notified the police and a general alarm was sent out to the police of both Grand Forks and East Grand Forks. The girl has been employed recently at the Fishman home, and they became aware that she was being influenced by Taylor, who is said to be married, and to have a wife in East Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, Sept. 11.—William Taylor, wanted by the Grand Forks police on a charge of kidnaping Inga Vraa, aged 17 years, was arrested last evening in a residence on Second St., East Grand Forks, by Officers Quigley and Nelson. Half crazed with terror, Miss Vraa was found in an East Grand Forks resort, where she had been placed by Taylor. She was taken away from the place and is held as a witness against Taylor. Taylor will be given a hearing in the municipal court in East Grand Forks today on a charge of procuring girls for immoral purposes.

Net Was Spread.

The girl was located some time before Taylor was arrested. It was expected that he would seek to visit her or telephone and a net was spread for him. He telephoned the girl from a number of saloons yesterday evening and was traced by the police. Over the telephone he made desperate threats, and the last time he called the girl fell in a faint. He promised to murder her if the girl did not remain in the resort where she had been placed.

It is charged that Taylor took the girl to Crookston before and placed her in a resort. She escaped from it and went to Grand Forks, where she secured employment. He followed her there again and terrorized her.

The girl is sincere in her desire to lead an honorable life, but she has been dogged by Taylor until she is on the verge of insanity. She is anxious to have him sent to prison where he will trouble her no further.

May Be Tried in Forks.

Kidnaping is a serious offense in North Dakota and conviction means a long term in prison. Taylor's threats to kill are also likely to secure for him a long sentence behind the bars. In case he escapes conviction in East Grand Forks, the charges on the west side will be brought against him.

Employed on East Side.

Miss Vraa has been employed for a time by Mrs. Joe Jarvis of East Grand Forks. Taylor paid some little attention while she was there, and it is believed that the girl sought employment on the other side of the river to escape from him.

BEHIND BARS

William W. Taylor was arraigned in the municipal court at East Grand Forks yesterday on the charge of inveigling Inga Vraa into a house of ill repute. Taylor wanted time to get an attorney and some witnesses needed in his defense and his case was set for hearing on Monday next. His bonds were fixed at $1,000 which he was unable to furnish and he was committed to the Polk county jail.

CRITICIZES CITY COUNCIL

FOR GOING OUTSIDE OF CITY, COUNTY, AND STATE FOR BOILER INSPECTOR.

G. E. OGARD BELIEVES THE EXAMPLE WAS A VERY BAD ONE FOR OFFICIALS.

From Thursday's Daily—

The Journal this morning received the following severe criticism of the Crookston council for importing A. J. Roddy of Grand Forks, to inspect the boiler at the city hall, when local men are fully competent:

To The Journal:—

It seems that the members of the city council of this city have forgotten all about the recent writeups in the local papers about "Patronize your own town," and this is proven by the report of A. J. Roddy, of Grand Forks, who was hired by the council to inspect the boiler in the city hall. The city council went out of town, out of the county and out of the state and into North Dakota to get an expert to examine the boiler which has recently been installed in the city hall of Crookston.

The writer wishes to remind the members of the city council that the city of Crookston has two first class machine and boiler shops which emplo yexpert boiler makers, and either of these shops are located within six blocks of the city hall. We also have an ex-Republican boiler inspector and the present Democratic boiler inspector, both of the above boiler men are located in this city, and are in the boiler business, and can do the business to perfection were they given the chance. But this boiler in the city hall must have had some suspicious looking bags and warts on it, being that the city council decided to employ an expert from Grand Forks to look it over, and give them advice as to how to cure them.

If the people of Crookston and vicinity should follow the example set by the city council, they would send away to T. M. Roberts, Sears, Roebuck & Co., or some other catalog house for all their goods, whether much or little, and import whatever help the yneed from other towns, and let the business places of Crookston take care of themselves, but "Crookston Offers Opportunity" to outsiders.

It is too bad that the office seekers of this city are not allowed to import voters to help elect them to office, but have to be contented with the support theey will get in the city and county.

Yours truly,
G. E. OGARD.

ANTON PAULSBERG PASSES AWAY

WELL KNOWN RESIDENT BREATHES HIS LAST AFTER A LONG ILLNESS.

Last evening at 7:30 Anthony Paulsberg passed away at his home, 802 Stearns street, after a lingering illness, having suffered with cancer of the lungs for many months. Deceased has been a resident of Crookston for many years, and until recently, when incapacitated for business through illness, was bookkeeper for the Maple Bay Manufacturing Co. He was one of the charter members of the Viking Chorus, and a prominent member of that organization for the past six years. Deceased made friends of all with whom he came in contact, and there is deep regret over his death. He was 53 years of age and leaves a wife and three children, a daughter and a son at home, and another daughter, Mrs. O. J. Hanson, of Grand Forks. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the United Lutheran church and will be in charge of the Viking Chorus.

A DISTURBER WAS ARRESTED

A drunken lumberjack returning from the harvest fields, got gay on the Duluth train last night coming over from Grand Forks and thought he could use the first class car to swear and carouse in. Conductor Remshardt removed him to the smoker, among his comrades, who urged him to clean up the whole Great Northern system. In this drunken condition the fellow thought he had been terribly insulted and started in to do up the brakeman, who made short work of the effort, and held the fellow down, while Deputy Sheriff Daniels, who happened to be on the train, put handcuffs on him. The fellow is now doing time at the hotel de Gonyea.

W. S. LYCAN HOLDS PALM

WITH A. C. SCHMIDT HE RETURNED LAST EVENING WITH 73 BIRDS.

HE SHOT 70 ON THE FIRST WITH F. S. LYCAN AND 43 ON ANOTHER TRIP.

From Friday's Daily—

W. S. Lycan is without doubt the premier chicken hunter for the season of 1908, as on three hunts he has returned with 70, 43, and 73 chickens respectively, having but one other hunter along with him on each trip. Last evening he returned with A. C. Schmidt from a two days' hunt and had a bag of 73, and they had them, too, and exhibited them to any who wished to inspect them, and many of the less fortunate are enjoying tender chicken as a result of their generosity, today.

Mr. Lycan has a spleendid string of dogs, and when he goes after the birds he has a faculty of getting them. This is in addition to a number of runs he has taken for a few hours' hunt near the city, and has always returned with at least a few birds.

Without question this will be the record for the season, as no such bags have been approached by any other hunters for three successive trips.

BIG CLASS TOOK EXAMS

STATE EXAMINING BOARD OF BARBERS HELD MEETING HERE TODAY.

WILL TOUR NORTHERN PART OF STATE AND PROSECUTE UNLICENSED BARBERS.

From Thursday's Daily—

The Minnesota State Examining Board of Barbers, consisting of Walter Dunlop, Duluth, president; Gustav H. Baker, St. Paul, secretary, and Wm. Hamblin, Minneapolis, treasurer, held an examination in the barber shop of P. Snyder today and examined 15 applicants for licenses from northern Minnesota.

This is the first examination held in Crookston for eight years, and the board was pleased over the large attendance. The applicants are examined on all points of the business ver ythoroughly.

Following the examinations which will be held in Minneapolis next week, the board will make a tour of the entire state and prosecute all those practicing without a license. Those who took the examinations today follow:

ANDERSON AND LUND HELD

TO THE GRAND JURY ON THE CHARGE OF HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

PAIR BROUGHT OVER FROM EAST GRAND FORKS LAST NIGHT.

From Friday's Daily—

Sam Anderson, Gust Lund and Albert Johnson were given a hearing yesterday in the municipal court at E. G. Forks, on the charge of highway robbery in holding up Andrew Hill near the residence of W. C. Nash in East Grand Forks, Wednesday afternoon. The evidence showed that Lund threw a piece of belting around their victim's neck and grasping both ends dexterously proceeded to choke Hill, while Anderson went through his pockets and took all of his money, amounting to 85 cents. There was no evidence against Johnson, and the case against him was dismissed, but Anderson and Lund were held to the grand jury. Their bonds were fixed at $500 each, which they were unable to furnish and they were brought to the county jail at Crookston last night by Deputy Sheriff Daniels.

TRAIN CREW GETS $200

CLIFF McLENNAN, OLD RESIDENT OF CROOKSTON AND ANGUS GETS IN GAME.

CAPTURES YOUNG HORSE THIEF AND WILL DIVIDE REWARD WITH CONDUCTOR.

From Friday's Daily—

Robert Kolseth, the 19 year old boy of the town of Wyandotte, Red Lake Co., who stole a team belonging to his uncle, Hans Kolseth, last week, drove the team to Crookston and sold them for $100, is safely landed in the State Reformatory.

Young Kolseth was traced to Thief River Falls and the trainmen were given a description of the boy. Tuesday he was discovered getting aboard a Soo freight train at Aneta by Brakesman Cliff McLennan, formerly a well known resident of Angus and Crookston. Mr. McLennan and Conductor G. H. Frissel took him up to Lancaster, where he was turned over to the village marshall for safe keeping until they made the return trip to Thief River Falls that evening.

Wednesday before Judge Bishop, he entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to the Minnesota State Reformatory at St. Cloud. Messers McLennan and Frissel will divide the $200 reward which the state pays for the capture of a horse thief.

An Old Offender

This is not the first time young Kolseth has been in trouble. About a year ago he came to Thief River Falls and asked for a loan, giving personal property for security. The local banker did not know Robert, but did know of the high standing of the Kolseths of the town of Wyandotte, advanced the money and later it was discovered the boy did not own the property he mortgaged. In order to save him from being arrested, his uncle advanced the money to pay the loan.

Trouble Getting Horses.

Young Kolseth sold the team to Contractor McKinney, who has his camp near Euclid, and last evening Hans Kolseth, his uncle, drove out after the stolen team with Sheriff Gonyea. The team was hid somewhere and they could not locate them. McKinney had a bill of sale for the team, to which the young thief had signed the name of Hans Kolseth. McKinney wanted Hans to put up the $100 he had paid for the team. They returned without the team last evening but today returned and expect to bring the horses with them. McKinney is out this $100 and McLennan and Frissell are ahead just $200.

INSTALATION COUNCIL HERE

Letters missive were issued today by the Congregational church of Crookston arranging for an Installation Council here on Wednesday, Sept. 23rd. Ten or a dozen ministers of the denomination will be present for the purpose of inducting Rev. C. C. Warner into the office to which the Crookston church has elected him. The occasion will be of special interest to the church-going public, and it is hoped that the local churches will arrange to be present.

We shall publish the detailed program at a later date.

SIVER AGAIN TAKES FIELD

DONS WAR PAINT AND TAKES A POKE AT CAPTAIN VONDERBECK.

GODBOUT TURNED HIS FLANK AND CHIEF ECK CHARGED FROM REAR.

Siver Cliffgaard, known as "Shakespeare IV," who furnishes one nightmare a week to the city council and county commissioners, and who requires the entire time of about one policeman, last evening engaged the entire police force for a few minutes at the Great Northern depot.

Hostilities broke out when Capt. Vonderbeck discovered Siver begging, one of his old and favorite pastimes. The captain remonstrated and Siver took a wallop at the captain. Vonderbeck seized the slipper Siver by the scruff of the neck, but Siver rebelled. He balked. He swore.

Patrolman Godbout hurried up and made a flank attack on Siver and the the lanky disciple of St. Vitus retreated to the rear of the depot. Here Chief Eck joined in the fray and assailed Siver from the rear, and, at a signal from the chief the forces closed in, Siver was overpowered and with Vonderbeck at his head, Chief Eck at his heels and Godbout about halfway between with a good hold on the slack of Siver's pants, he was heaved into a hack and hustled to the city jail.

In the meantime Jim Hill's covered cars attracted no attention and the crowd at the depot followed the fortunes of the agile Siver, who wanted to lick the whole police force.

It has been suggested that as the state provides no place for such unfortunates, Governor Johnson should be appealed to and call out Co. I to keep him subdued. Capt. Westerberg could appoint a detail of 15 picked men each night to watch him, Siver seldom goes to bed at night. He gets his sleep in doorways during the day time, so that each evening he is fresh to start in on his deviltry to annoy the police. He selects some comfortable location each morning where he has good cover behind a pile of snuff boxes or in the lea of a nice fresh bunch of bananas, and remains passive the greater portion of the day coming out for fresh conquests with the owls in the evening.

Siver, Oh thou busy Siver, thou wilt drive the police force dippy yet!

GERMANTOWN R. R. MEETING

REPRESENTATIVE GATHERING AT MARSHALL CO. TOWN START A BOOM.

They had a big railroad meeting at Germantown last Saturday which was attended by a large number from Liner, Grygla, Fram, Rollis, Roosevelt, Malcolm, Carmel and other towns on the route, as well as capitalists from Thief River, St. Paul, and New York. It is said that International Falls, recently bought up by the Steel Trust, is promoting this road, and some think it will be turned in that direction. There is plenty of room for two roads.

ASSUMES NEW NAME—By act of District Judge Watts, the name of Sever Olson of this city has been changed to Sivert O. Lund. The new name is the old family name, but as Sivert has always gone under the name of Olson it required judicial action to change it to Lund.

TUMOR REMOVED—Mrs. Sigrid Sagmoen has come all the way from Alberta, Can., to receive treatment for a tumor, which she will have removed at the Bethesda hospital today. Mr. Sagmoen formerly resided near Fosston, and has relatives at that place.

PURCHASED HOME—Roland Tisdal has purchased of Frank Montague his residence property, 306 south Ash street, and will move into it. Mr. Montague has leased the flat in the Chase block occupied by Tom Morris and will take possession as soon as Mr. Morris has moved into his own building.

VISITED BROTHER—Andrew E. Fritz, representing the Journal-Press bindery and legal blank establishment at St. Cloud, spent last evening in the city visiting with his brother, Al Fritz. Mr. Fritz visits Crookston every two months and has an immense business in northern Minnesota, his house being one of the best in the Northwest.

ANOTHER JOB FOREMAN:— Mr. ents of a healthy son born this morning and mother and baby are getting along nicely. The proud "Dad" thought the infant mumbled something at noon today, that sounded like "Want a chase", but the nurse declared that it sounded more like "water for a chaser". It is said that "Dad" Moorhead wanted to discharge the nurse at once.

LITTLE BABE DIED—This morning at 1:45, J. A. S. Bourbonniere, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Bourbonniere, 349 South Broadway, passed away, at the age of 3 months and 23 days, of cholera infantum, having been ill since birth. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning from St. Anne's church, Father Tapin officiating. This is the second bereavement of the parents recently, and they have the sincere sympathy of many friends in their hour of sorrow.

MARRIAGE LICENSES— Arthur Dumond of Grand Forks, to Mary Violet Peltier, of East Grand Forks.

A GOOD CUSTOMER—John Stroot, one of the substantial farmers from Belgium, was in the city yesterday on a purchasing trip.

FINE WEATHER—Carsten Stuhr is in the city from Euclid today attending to his week end marketing. Mr. Stuhr says that this has been about the most favorable fall for farmers, during his experience of 30 years in the county.

BACK TO WALCOTT—M. A. Hendrickson, cashier of the bank at Walcott, N. D., has returned home, after having spent a few days in the city attending to some business matters. While here he was the guest of his friends, M. A. Kjersvick.

CARRIES A RABBIT'S FOOT—M. H. Shankey, one of the soil ticklers from Fanny town, was a county seat visitor yesterday. Mr. Shankey tickles with a magic wand, as everything on his place always produces in abundance.

FRACTURED ANKLE—Frank Martin, while catching a game of ball at Beaudette, collided with one of the other players, fracturing his ankle so that it will lay him up for some time. He is about town today, on a pair of crutches.

A GOOD YIELD—George Fink was up to Red Lake Falls the fore part of the week looking after the threshing on his farm northwest of that town, and reports the yield far better than expected. His wheat went better than fifteen bushels to the acre, and for the year this is considered a good yield.

BACK FROM N. D.—Nick Engle of Euclid is spending the day in the city. He is returning from Park River, N. D., where he had been to do a good job of carpentering. He will return to his home this evening with one of the numerous Euclidites who are stabling their teams at Collins' barn.

LOAD OF POTATOES—H. A. Cowan of Belgium town, is in the city today with a fine load of potatoes, for which he gets a good price. Mr. Cowan never comes to town without he has something for sale. His potato crop was very good this year, considering the dry spell.

NORTH COUNTRY FOLKS WILL BE HERE—Henry Nelson of Euclid drove down this morning, and is busy today attending to various business matters. He states that himself and all his neighbors will take a day off and be here the 17th to attend the dedication.

SUCCESSFUL RUN—The Engle Brothers, of Euclid, who have a threshing rig at Park River, N. D., are having a very successful season it, is reported. The three brothers, Gust, Mike, and John, are with the rig. Gust is managing and running the engine. Geo. Nelson, also of Euclid, is in charge of the separator, his wife conducts the boarding car. Very near the whole crew have been recruited from around Euclid, therefore it is no wonder they are the champion outfit o fthose parts.

OFF FOR ATTALIA—On the first and third Tuesday of each month, the Attalia Development Company is conducting popular excursions to the choice fruit and farm lands of Southern Washington, starting from Minneapolis. Fare will be refunded to all purchasers of these lands. Write at once for full details to R. C. Dahlbjelm Manager, 225 Railway Building, Minneapolis.

NEW PASTOR FOR MENDENHALL

The Mendenhall Memorial Presbyterian church held a congregational meeting last evening, of which Res. W. S. Ward of this city acted as moderator, and extended a hearty and unanimous call to Rev. Charles P. Bates, of Hibbing to become their pastor. Rev. Bates will be duly installed in a short time.

MONEY FOR SUFFERERS

CASH SUBSCRIPTIONS ARE BEING HANDED TO PRESIDENT MISNER.

SECRET SOCIETIES WILL ALSO VOTE SUBSTANTIAL AMONTS.

From Saturday's Daily—

The people of Crookston are doing something for the fire sufferers in and near Chisholm. The reports published on the first page of today's Journal bring the sad intelligence that the fires have broken out afresh and the suffering and loss will reach still more appaling proportions unless a heavy rain falls at once in the stricken district.

Many have handed their subscriptions to President Misner of the Commercial Club, who is treasurer of the relief fund, and many more will at once. Some of the secret societies will donate substantial sums and they will be forthcoming at once. The sooner the subscriptions come in the sooner will the relief reach the destitute sufferers.

The W. R. C. this afternoon received clothing and supplies to fill an immense box, which will be forwarded to the relief committee at Chisholm at once.

Following is a list of those who have sent in their contributions to Treasurer Misner.

START OF AN ARTIST.

John Opie's First Portrait and What It Cost Him.

John Opie, the English painter, is described in "Coke of Norfolk and His Friends," by Mrs. A. M. W. Stirling, as a man of humble origin who achieved success wholly by his own genius and perseverance. The story of his first effort in that line of art which afterward brought him fame he related to Coke, first Earl of Leicester of Holkham, as follows:

When a small boy of ten or twelve he was left at home one Sunday afternoon with his father, while his mother went to church. The father established himself in the parlor with his Bible and told the boy to be quiet and amuse himself.

Young Opie, who had procured some paints, took up his position unobserved in the kitchen directly opposite the parlor door. Very quietly he drew a portrait of the old man bending over his Bible until he had finished everything except the head, when he began running backward and forward to study his father's face.

The old gentleman grew very angry at these apparently senseless interruptions and threatened to punish his son if they continued.

This was exactly what the boy wanted, as he wished to paint his father's eyes lit up and sparkling with anger. So he continued his irritating behavior until it met with the desired result, and his father, justly wrathful, administered a sound thrashing.

This achieved, the boy resumed his task eagerly and transferred to his picture the expression which he had just seen upon the face of his indignant parent.

When his mother returned from church he placed the picture triumphantly before her; but, although astonished and delighted with it, she thought it her duty to scold her son severely for painting on a Sunday.

Young Opie, however, cared no more for the scolding that for the beating he had received in accomplishing his work and only hugged his mother delightedly in his excitement at its success.

His father, coming into the room at that juncture and spying the portrait of himself, was so surprised and pleased at it that he told the mother not to scold the boy any more.

Subsequently, whenever the picture was shown, he used to tell with great relish the story of young Opie's plucky acceptance of a beating in order to insure its success.

DECREASE NOT LARGE

RAILROAD STATISTICS SHOW BUSINESS WAS BETTER THAN EXPECTED.

COAL SHIPMENTS FALL OFF—CROOKSTON RECEIVES 8 CARS AGAINST 42 IN 1907.

From Thursday's Daily—

Figures approximately representing the business, both passenger and freight, done by the roads at the Head of the Lakes, during the month of August, show that the aggregate business fell off over 20 per cent from August of last year.

That both passenger and freight business did not suffer a greater decrease, taking into consideration the general business conditions, is considered a good record by railroad men.

The passenger business, which has been uniformly good all summer, showed a falling off only a trifle over 5 per cent from August of last year. The falling off in the freight business was more pronounced, however. This was largely due to the falling off in coal shipments.

Here is a typical example: Last August Crookston received forty-two carloads of commercial coal. This yea rthat town has received but 8 carloads. The decrease in the shipment of coal may be emphasized by the statement that 28,000 tons less coal have been shipped from the Head of the Lakes during the month just passed than were shipped in August a year ago.

Duluth alone has shipped over 14,000 less tons than the roads there shipped west a year ago.

The lumber movement at the present time is steady, with fairly heavy shipments to Chicago and the West. The shipment of lumber has shown improvement during August.

Prospects point to a falling off of the passenger business during the present month. The colonist rates are not liable to attract many settlers for the simple reason that the crops in this part of the country have been good and farmers are not seeking new homes.

HORSE STOLEN AT KRAGNES

CLEVELAND BAY MARE BELONGING TO ED. STUDLEIN IS MISSING.

ANIMAL WAS HITCHED TO A SINGLE SEAT BUGGY—NO CLUE.

A telephone message was received from Kragness stating that a horse belonging to Ed. O. Studlein had been stolen. The description given of the horse and rig is as follows: Cleveland bay mare with yellow blanket, hitched to old single seat buggy painted black.

Chief Malvey and the officers of the police force are on the look out for the rig, though no clue has yet been obtained.

CROOKSTON CHICKS TOOK FIRST PRIZE

Mrs. F. C. Mitchell has returned from Ada Where she went with an exhibit of poultry from the poultry farm of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell at the Norman Co. Fair. Others from this city also had entries, and all took first prizes on trios of chicks, as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Mitchell: Barred Plymouth Rocks, Silver Laced Wyandottes, Buff Leghorns, Brown Leghorns, White Orpingtons, Houdans, Silver Spangled Hamburgs.

Mrs. E. M. Walsh: Buff Cochins.

Sam Meng: Bearded Silver Polish.

Frank Hanan: Pit Games.

Goldie Hanan: Golden Wyandottes.

This is certainly a splendid record for Crookston chicks.

WINTER RYE IS ABOVE GROUND

N. C. Hanson, the progressive farmer west of the city, has seeded 50 acres of winter rye for himself and 100 acres for Mrs. Le Fevre, and it is up and growing rapidly, the rain bringing it forward nicely. It will furnish great feed for stock this fall, and Mr. Hanson anticipates another crop that will net him $22 per acre next year.

NORMAN CO. FAIR CLOSED

WAS THE BEST IN EVERY PARTICULAR THAT HAS BEEN HELD IN MANY YEARS.

FINE RACING PROGRAM IN WHICH MIXER GOT PLACE FOR EVERY ENTRY.

From Saturday's Daily—

The Norman County Fair came to a close Friday afternoon at Ada and was one of the best fairs held for the last number of years in Norman county. The exhibits were better than they have been the last number of years and the attendance was good specially the second day. Quite a lot of nice cattle and horses were on exhibit together with farm products.

Thursday's Races.

The races on Thursday were very good and very close between the contestants, with the following results:

In the free-for-all classes—Better Promise, 1st, from Mercer, N. D.; Mixer, 2nd, Crookston, Minn. Time 2:24.

In the 2:40 class, Roy Panic 1st, Langdon, N. D.; Lady Sprague, 2nd, Edgely, N. D. Time 2:25. Ball game between White Earth and Ada, 11 to 2 in favor of Ada.

Friday's Races.

In the free-forall classes, Better Promise, 1st, Lady Sprague 2nd, Mixer 3rd and Roy Panic 4th. Time 2:21. Running Race, Little Pat, Halstad, 1st, Billie, Ada, 2nd, and Jim, Borup, 3rd. Time 62 seconds.

One of the features was an automobile race between Smith of Fargo and Richards of Perley which was to have been a five-mile race, but the machine of Mr. Smith balked in the third mile so he had to pull out of the race. They were going at about fifty miles an hour when the machine gave out.

WILL BUILD DITTH

From Saturday's Daily—

At the meeting of the Marshall Co. commissioners a board of viewers was appointed for the big Germantown ditch. O. L. Hamre, of Crookston, was appointed engineer, and Axel Lindquist, of Vega, John Simonson, of Excel, and Thor Johnson, of Stephen, were appointed viewers. The engineer will make his report before November 1st, and the viewers will then commence work. It is expected that the contract will be let this winter and work commenced early next spring.

The proposed ditch will be 24 miles in length and there will be 16 miles of laterals, making a total of 40 miles. It will empty into Thief River near Thorwick and will drain the Germantown and Grygla country. It is estimated that the ditch will cost about $50,000 or $60,000 and will be of great value to that section.

350 ACRES GRAIN IN THE STACK

C. H. Elssner, foreman on S. W. Vance's farm, is in the city today and reports the completion of stacking the entire this year's crop off 350 acres of grain. Three teams have been kept at this work while other horses were on the plow. The grain was all hauled in to the farm yard and stacked near the barns in long stacks similar to hay stacks, making 22 in all.

All the straw from this large amount it not used for barn purposes but is converted into manure and in time spread onto the fields. 600 loads of manure were thus derived and hauled onto the fields the past year.

The grain will be left in the stacks about six weeks before threshing and a much better grade will be secured from the sweating process.

PEACHES RAISED BY HIMMELSBACH

Yesterday W. E. Slocum received a shipment of peaches through the wholesale house with which he deals and it was later discovered that every peach was wrapped with tissue paper stamped "Yakima Valley Fruit, North Yakima, Wash., Grown by A. Himmelsbach." August Himmelsbach was a former well known farmer residing near Crookston, and is now a success-

The primaries are over and the dust is slowly settling. There were many surprises, and may be more, as but little over half of the precincts have been heard from. However the winners can be all picked with a fair degree of certainty.

Some Close Races

Stair is certain of nomination and George has a big lead over both Saugstad and Holten and looks a sure winner. Hagen and Finlayson are giving a great exhibition of sprinting and Welte and Sandberg ad Chesterman and Stenshoel are in the same class with some doubt as yet over the final outcome.

Journal Made a Big Hit

Intense interest was manifested over the results and last evening a crowd of 500 men gathered in front of the Journal office and remained there till 2:30 this morning reading the bulletins from the various voting precincts of the city and county, and the results in all but a few instances were practically known before the Journal stopped all specials that were pouring in from every part of the county that could be reached by telephone or telegraph. All day today the crowd has surged into the Journal office and stood in front reading the township returns as they came in.

P. O's. and Democrats

As there were no contests on for nominations on the Public Ownership or Democratic tickets no effort was made to get a big vote out as one vote was sufficient to nominate, and as a result there were but a very few scattering votes cast in each precinct and in some none at all. The Democrats voted with the Republicans also, almost solidly in some precincts, and this accounts for the small vote in some democratic strongholds.

The Journal will publish the detailed vote later, and any one interested can get the complete returns from the Journal bulletin board at any time, but figures today will be published only where there were hot contests on:

NAP BRAY IS WELL PLEASED

N. A. Bray called at the Journal office this afternoon and made the following statement for publication: "I never felt prouder in my life than I do today over the magnificent vote I received yesterday in Crookston and other places where I am known. I fully appreciate the splendid support I received from my friends. I made the fight single handed, and have no complaints to make. I would indeed, be ungrateful if I did not value highly the loyal friends who flocked to the polls to support me. I wanted to win of course, but there are some combinations that proved too much for me to overcome. However, the splendid compliment paid me by a big majority in Crookston, my home and other places where I am well known is ample recompense for the efforts I expended. I tried to make a good clean fight, have no regrets, and would have won if—I had got enough votes."

HON. J. J. HILL SURPRISED BY VETERAN EMPLOYES

Men Who had Been In Service of Great Northern for 30 Years or over Participate in Unique Function.

The Affair was in Honor of 70th Anniversary of Mr. Hill's birthday. Two Attended from the Northern Division.

From Wednesday's Daily—

James J. Hill is today the guest of honor at one of the most unique functions in railroad history. The occasion is Mr. Hill's seventieth birthday anniversary and in honor of the event the railroad magnate will be banquetted by the employes of the Great Northern who have been in the service 30 years or over. A banquet was held at the lafayette club house Lake Minnetonka. There about 80 eligibles present at the banquet.

An interesting feature of the occasion was a trip to Lake Minnetonka, which was taken from the union depot at St. Paul, a distance of twenty miles, behind the first locomotive engine brought to the state of Minnesota. The engine was brought here 42 years ago and was operated on the old St. Paul and Pacific road.

The function is of special in Crookston owing to the fact that Mr. Hill will be the orator of the day at the Stephens Hall Dedication to be held here tomorrow.

From the Northern Division there were two employes eligible and both are in attendance. The oldest employe on this division is Section Foreman C. Keeley, of Euclid, who has been inthe service 32 years, having been stationed at Euclid for the past 31 years and prior to that he was in charge of the section between Crookston and Fisher when the Great Northern line extended only to the latter point. Mr. Keeley is still in the service and he left Monday evening for Minneapolis where he was the guest of relatives and friends yesterday. He is the father of Conductor Keeley of this city, and a large family of boys practically all of whom are well known railroad men.

The other eligible from the Northern Division is Conductor Thomas Stahl who runs on the Winnipeg Flyer from Barnesville to Emerson and has served the Great Northern just a trifle over 30 years.

Louis Hill's Idea

The affair was gotten up at the instance of President Louis Hill, and every one of the veteran employes were personally delivered transportation, sleeping car births etc., and the trip was made in state.

A Complete Surprise

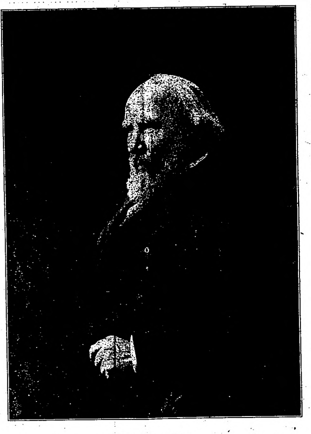
The affair was a complete surprise on James J. Hill. He returned from New York last evening, and was kept in complete ignorance of the preparations untill he was induced to go to Lake Minnetonka on some pretext, and suspected nothing till he was ushered into the presence of the veteran employes who had witnessed the growth of the Great Northern from a struggling unimportant line to the present powerful system.

Greatly Pleased

When Mr. Hill grasped the meaning of the gathering he was nearly overcome, and plainly showed his deep appreciation of the honor his old employes were doing him. The afternoon was one of the greatest pleasure imaginable, and railroad lore was repeated which was never published.

The hearty greeting of the great magnate, and the close personal acquaintance and friendship manifested, made the gathering the most unique in the United States.

It was a magnificent tribute to Hill the Captain of Industry, to Hill the Man.



HON JAMES J. HILL

Who was today surprised by a gathering of the employes from all over the system who had been in his employ for 30 years or over. President Hill is the orator of the day at the Stephens Hall dedication at the State Experiment Farm here tomorrow.

Boy of Thirteen Sent to Prison.

Maysville, Ky., Sept. 15.—Chester Savage, thirteen years old, was sentenced to six years in the penitentiary for the assassination of his uncle, William Savage, two years ago. The boy hid by the roadside and shot his uncle. He is the youngest murderer ever known in Kentucky.

Fears Hydrophobia; Kills Self.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 15.—Fred Peterson, who was bitten by a mad squirrel last week, died yesterday of carbolic acid poisoning. Fearing hydrophobia, he is supposed to have swallowed the acid with suicidal intent.

Train Kills Deaf Man.

Montrose, Minn., Sept. 16. — Jesse Streeter of this village, about twenty-seven years old and single, deaf and dumb, while walking on the railroad track about a mile west of Waverly was struck by a Great Northern freight train and instantly killed.

Bush Fire Smoke at Waterloo.

Waterloo, Iowa, Sept. 16. — Smoke from the bush fires of the Northwest has enveloped Waterloo. Yesterday morning the city was covered by a hazy mist, which grew in intensity until this afternoon it is difficult to see objects two blocks distant.

A RESUME OF WHAT EFFECT THE CROOKSTON SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE WILL HAVE UPON THE FUTURE DEVELOPMENT OF NORTHERN MINNESOTA, AND THE INFLUENCE IT WILL HAVE TOWARD RAISING THE SPHERE OF LIVING OF THE RISING GENERATION AND INCREASING THE USEFULNESS OF THOSE WHO WILL BE AT THE HELM IN THE FUTURE

From Wednesday's Daily—

The crowds to attend the dedication of Stephens Hall dedication tomorrow began arriving this morning and this evening's trains will bring hudreds more, the balance arriving on the regular and special trains tomorrow morning.

In this connection it is not amis at this time to call attention to a few things which the School of Agriculture at the State Experiment Station means to the Red River Valley.

James Fitzsimmons of South Euclid is here today.

In the first place let us see what the young men are expected to learn in schools of this kind.

Care of Dairy Utensils

To the young men thoro instruction in the care of milk, cream and utensils is given. They receive full instruction in regard to running a farm separator and the manufacture of butter. Students receive practical training in the ripening of cream, churning, working and packing of butter, testing the value of milk and cream, etc. The purpose is to give to the young men very thoro training in such lines of the business as will serve to make them better creamery patrons and teach them to furnish the products of the highest quality and conduct the dairy herd with the greatest profit.

Animal Husbandry

A course is given in animal husbandry. In this course the work is very practicable. Trips are made to the best farm barns in the county to study methods of housing, feeding, and handling animals. Considerable stock judging is carried on by classes in connection with this subject. Thorough instruction is given in feeds and feeding.

Bookkeeping and Commercial Law

Every thoro course in the subject of farm accounts is taught. A brief study of commercial law of importance to farmers is taken up. Business farms, contracts, deeds and mortgages are studied. A very practical course in business arithmetic is taken up. The students are taught how to measure wood, walls, land, tanks, etc. Special computations suited to farm practice are taught such as income from dairy cows, feed rations, cost of feedings, cost of buildings, cost of fencing, cost and contents of silo, etc.

Carpentry

A course is given in farm carpentry. The students are taught how to care for sharpen and use in a practical way such tools as should be used on a farm. Work on models that will teach how to make the different kinds of joints, splices, etc., necessary in the construction of buildings, machines, cupboards, and a variety of useful and ornametal articles for the home and farm.

Blacksmithing

Another very practical course is given in farm blacksmithing. The students are taught how to fashion from stock iron various articles useful on the farm, such as tongs, cold chisels, punces, rings chain links, clevises, brackets, harrow teeth, etc. They are shown how to construct a serviceable forge and to otherwise equip a shop for farm blacksmithing. Original exercises are conducted in repairing broken parts of farm machinery. Something of the nature and structure of different kinds of iron and steel, as well as some knowledge of the processes by which each is produced is taught. Especial attention is given to the process of welding iron and steel and of tempering tools of steel.

Instruction for Girls

What we have said so far pertains only to the instruction given to the young men attending institutions of this kind. But it is not the young men alone that are to be benefited by an institution of this kind. The young women of the farming communities as well as of the villages of the county are here offered opportunities of untold benefit. It is a self-evident fact that there can be no home without a woman who understands the art of homemaking. No farmer and no business man can be successful without that valuable adjunct a successful housekeeper. There is perhaps no part of the practical side of life that has been so sadly neglected in the past as the art of homemaking and home management. It do not think that you shall differ with me if I say that over ninety per cent of the young women growing up today know practically nothing about the art of housekeeping. The reason for this is that they have not had the opportunities to learn. What little they do know is simply what they have learned from their parents, for the most part impracticable and unscientific. Now in an institution of this kind opportunities are offered which will enable every young woman to become an intelligent and practical housekeeper. In order that you may see and judge for yourselves let me present to you a few of the things that the young women are taught in the schools of this kind.

Cooking

The cooking department is equipped as nearly like a home kitchen as is consistent with the number of students to be accommodated. Wood and gasoline ranges are used instead of individual gas plates. Convenient cupboards and kitchen cabinets such as should be in every well equipped kitchens are used here. Even the work tables used by the pupils are models of convenience in every respect.

The course in cooking includes a study of starchy foods; quick breads and other flour mixtures; a study of the yeast plant and its action; breadmaking; vegetables; cream soups, meats, their food value and methods of cooking; soups; desserts; planning cooking and serving simple meals.

During the second year dietetic values of foods are taken up, ad each student plans a meal correctly balanced as to food nutrients and serves it to the class. Numerous special foods are prepared by the class covering subjects of the first year in a more advanced way.

Invalid cooking is taken up as a special branch of the work in cooking. The value of absolute cleanliness and daintiness in serving an invalid's tray with its effect upon the patient is taught; special diet for fevers and other individual cases; the making of gruels, broths and other dainty and nutritious dishes; special diets for convalescents.

Sewing

The sewing department is equipped with sewing machines, draughting tables, and everything necessary to teach the girls the best methods of making their own garments. They furnish their own material and use the finished products. The students become skilled both in hand and machine work.

Millinery

The millinery, like the other practical work of the course is not intended for professional use. The aim is to cultivate simplicity of taste and teach making the best use of materials and means at hand.

The course includes the making and trimming of hats and bonnets, the study of the harmony of colors discussion of taste in selection of bonnets, hats, plumes, frames, tips, flowers and trimmings.

Home Economy

The course in home economy is designed to cover the broad field of the home left untouched by the special branches like cooking, sewing and laundry work. An outline of the work is as follows: The house plan, drainage, sanitation, ventilation, heating and lighting, household furnishings and their care; house cleaning and sanitation; cleaning and preservation of clothing, carpets, rugs and floors; household accounts, etc.

Home Nursing

The lessons in home nursing are to meet the need in so many homes where the care of a sick one devolves on the family. The course includes care of sick room and bed; duties of nurse; care of patient; precautions in contagious diseases; disinfection of patient and room; special diets for the sick; nursing of special diseases diet for children.

Emergencies

The aim of this course is to give students the knowledge that every man and woman ought to have of what to do in cases of accidents while waiting for a physician. The course includes circulation of the blood; hemorrhages and how to stop them; treatment and dressing of wounds; bandaging; artificial respiration; unconsciousness; poisons and their antidotes; fractures and sprains.

Laundering

A well equipped modern home laundry is used to teach the principles of laundering. Special attention

WINNIPEG CONFIRMS STORY

Through Train Schedule Is Being Arranged, Says Report From Canadian City.

St. Paul, Sept. 23.—Recevier A. B. Stickney last evening denied that there was any truth in the report that the Canadian Pacific had secured control of the Chicago Great Western railroad.

This denial comes from Receiver Stickney in the face of a report received from a Canadian Pacific official and the report being confirmed in part by the Canadian Pacific railroad officials in Winnipeg, where arrangements are being made, it is said, to change schedules of trains running out of that city, in order to connect with Chicago Great Western trains running out of the Twin Cities for Chicago, Kansas City and Omaha.

Unlimited Option.

The report which has been current for some time past was to the effect that the Canadian Pacific had secured an unlimited option on the purchase of the Chicago Great Western road, this option being taken in lieu of purchase, which could not at this time be very well effected, owing to the labor troubles existing on the northern transcontinental line.

A dispatch from Winnipeg states that a practical confirmation of the reported sale has been made by the Canadian Pacific officials at that point, when arrangements were completed to change the schedules and make connections with Chicago and Kansas City trains of the Chicago Great Western out of St. Paul.

New folders, according to the report, are being issued to show these connections by way of the Soo line and St. Paul.

The report further states that through train service between these places will be established.

When shown this report, Receiver Stickney exclaimed:

"Why, there is not a word of truth in the statement. There is not the least foundation for the report, and the Chicago Great Western will be operated indpendently, as in years heretofore."

Shaughnessy Not "Wise."

Montreal, Sept. 23.—"I have heard nothing whatever about it," was the reply of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific railway yesterday when asked concerning the report that the Canadian Pacific had secured the Chicago Great Western railroad as a subsidiary line.

Only the man who has courage knows how thin it is.

MAY RETIRE COL. STEWART.

Cantankerous Officer Ordered Before Retiring Board.

Washington, Sept. 23.—William F. Stewart of the coast artillery, whose case, because of his detail to the ungarrisoned post at Fort Grant, Ariz., has been before the public for some time, has been ordered to appear before a retiring board at Washington, D. C., where he will be examined as to his disability, its nature and whether it was incurred in the line of duty.

THROWN OFF TRAIN

Brakeman Nearly Dead as Result of Fight With Tramps.

Marshalltown, Iowa, Sept. 23. — While trying to eject tramps from a train, Ray Lewis, an Iowa Central brakeman living at Oskaloosa, was himself thrown from the top of a box car early yesterday as the train was pulling out of Grinnell. He was found an hour later, almost dead from loss of blood. One arm had been taken off and one ear was gone. Officers are working one the case, but there is no clue.

EXAMINERS GET HIT

Controller Murray Tells Them Their Work Must Be Improved.

Washington, Sept. 23.—"I say to you emphatically that your work must be improved.

"Embezzlements have failed of discovery, defalcations and dishonesty have been concealed from you and in many case you have failed to correctly or even approximately estimate the value of the paper and the securities held by the bank."

This was the declaration made yesterday by Controller of the Currency Lawrence O. Murray, in addressing the conference of national bank examiners, representing practically all of the territory east of Ohio.

The conference, which is being held behind closed doors, is expected to continue for several days and is the first under the controller's call of Sept. 9, designed to discuss the bank examiner's work with a view to radical improvement. Later Mr. Murray will hold a conference with the Western examiners, probably at Chicago.

TIMELY RAIN CHECKED FIRE

Bemidji Militia Had just [Started to Flames which Threatened Destruction of City when.

Welcomed Downpour Came. All Immediate Danger past near Cass Lake and Bemidji.

A soaking rain that began at 4:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon probably saved Bemidji from a severe scorching and possibly the wiping out of the city. The forest fires, which have been burning to the south and east of Bemidji in Hubbard county advanced toward Bemidji, fanned by a heavy wind from the south, until clouds of smoke rolled over the lake. About noon the smoke was so heavy south of the city that much apprehension was felt lest the fire would reach the city from the south or west and would result in much damage. Telephone messages from farmers south of there told of mountains of flames rushing thru the forest south of Bemidji nine miles, near Lake Plantaganet, and Mayor Pogue and several citizens drove to the Hubbard county line to note what danger there was to the city.

New Fires Sprung up

About 3 o'clock in the afternoon a fire was discovered west of Bemidji which gained much headway. A crowd of men were secured and rushed to fight the fire south of town. A. G. Rutledge telephoned Gov. Johnson for permission to call out Co. K of Bemidji to assist in patrolling the fire. The company was ordered out and gotten ready to await orders from Captain Otto who also drove out in the timber to look over the fire line.

At 4:10 o'clock when smoke was rolling heavenward both to the west ward and south of the city, a heavy rain began to fall which lasted half an hour, thoroly wetting the ground for five miles around. The rain has undoubtedly checked the advance of the fire at least for the present. It is more than likely that the men sent out to the south and west will be able to extinguish the fires.

Large Area Burned

It is impossible to estimate the territory burned over as fires have been burning at Cass Lake and south of there and in the territory in northern Hubbard county.

Should warm dry weather set in there will still be some danger of the fire spreading, as it is not believed that the rain extinguished the fire enough to the south or west to materially aid in checking it, altho the advance in the direction of Bemidji at present has been checked by the copious rain. Telephone lines are down to Cass Lake.

Shevlin in Danger

A telephone message received from Shevlin says a forest fire is approaching that place from the north threatening to reach the town any time unless the efforts of a large crowd of citizens who are now fighting the fire succeed in checking the flames. Nearly every able bodied man in Shevlin is out on the fire line fighting the fire and it is hoped to check the flames and prevent the fire burning the village.

The fire has burned over an area five miles square and as the wind is from the northwest there is grave danger for the village.

Were Badly Scared

Ed Henry spent yesterday at Bemidji and passed thru the city this morning enroute to Angus. He states that gathered on the street corners yesterday afternoon, practically the entire population of Bemidji stood panic stricken, fearing that the city was doomed. White faced women and crying children were to be seen on every hand, and the terribl experiences at Chisholm rsulted in the danger to Bemidji being exaggerated However had it not been for the welcome rain there would without doubt have been great destruction wrought.

CONFLAGRAT'NS CONTINUE

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 23.—Forest fires are raging in Northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan which threaten to wipe out several towns if rain does not come to quench the flames. In several places residents are reported as having had to flee for their lives, and at others trains are loaded with goods and people, ready to flee to larger centers if the flames reach the critical stage.

Already one Wisconsin village — North Forks, on the Soo line — has been devastated by the flames, while two other towns and a wide area of farming interests are in constant peril.

Two Towns in Danger.

Woodboro and Gagen, which were reported wiped out Sunday night, are still untouched by the flames, although in imminent danger of destruction.

North Forks, with its cluster of a dozen houses, is gone, licked up by the hungry flames Sunday afternoon. Its handful of settlers are homeless, penniless and dependent on the charity of the surrounding towns for their existence. And even if the still glowing embers of the hamlet are dying and gray, the fire god is sweeping onward, eastward, to where the village of Woodboro awaits in helpless terror.

Rhinelander Still Safe.

Rhinelander is for the time being safe, and there appears very little danger of it becoming flanked on the west, where the flames are raging fiercely. With the network of small lakes and streams and with a wide belt of farming country lying between its outskirts and the forest, there is little chance of the flames reaching the town.

Sunday night a fire engine and 2,500 feet of hose from the Milwaukee fire department reached the city and will be kept here until the danger is over.

Gagen Apparently Doomed.

Twelve miles to the east a broad circle of flames surrounds the village of Gagan, a milling town, with perhaps 500 inhabitants. All hope of saving the town has been practically abandoned, although a desperate fight is being waged against the constantly encroaching flames.

Men have sent their wives and children to Rhinelander, and all day long the dusty smoke-veiled road has been choked with fleeing settlers, household goods packed on wagons, cattle and other live stock, wild-eyed and panic-stricken, all hurrying to a place of safety. Conditions here are much the same as they were at Hibbing and other towns of the stricken range.

Twenty-five miles below Rhinelander the fires are eagerly eating through the timber, jumping back and forth over the railroad tracks, absolutely beyond control.

Six Lives May Be Lost.

Conflicting reports come from Foster City, a lumber town across the Wisconsin line of Marinette county, one report stating that six persons lost their lives and that a large number of dwellings were destroyed, and that the Morgan Lumber company's plant is understood to have been burned. Mr. Morgan of Oshkosh, however, when seen last night denied the report and says he has authoritative information that the town is all right.

The fires are in close proximity to several towns in Marinette and Menominee counties, Niagara, Ingalls and Faithorn seeming to be in the greatest danger.

$500,000 ROAD PROJECT.

Rapid City Corporation Probably to Take Over Another.

Pierre, S. D., Sept. 23.—Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday for the Rapid City & Wyoming Railway company, with headquarters at Rapid City and a capital of $500,000.

The company is evidently incorporated for the purpose of getting the "Crouch" line from Rapid to Mystic into the hands of local parties, as it proposes to purchase or construct a line from Rapid City to Mystic, a distance of thirty-five miles.

ATTACKS MOTHER

Aged Chicago Woman Is Stricken Unconscious by Brute Son.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Angered because his aged mother refused him the price of a can of beer, Morris Johnson attacked her with an ax in the kitchen of her home last evening, leaving her unconscious on the floor.

Detectives Barry and Fowler of the Des Plaines street station arrested him later, after a fight, as he was attempting to escape. Mrs. Johnson was taken to the county hospital and is said to be dangerously injured.

FEARS AN EPIDEMIC

Drouth Causes Authorities to Issue Warnings.

Pittszurg, Sept. 23. — The drouth, which has brought hardship to all sections of Western Pennsylvania during the past few weeks, is now menacig Pittsburg in a serious form. There is imminent danger of an epidemic of typhoid fever and other deadly scourges, directly due to the low stages of the rivers and the concentration of germs and poisonous substances. Both municipal and federal authorities have issued warnings against the use of water for domestic purposes.

Government Will Make Every Effort to Check Disease in Philippines.

Washington, Sept. 23.—With cholera increasing, both in the Philippines and in Russia, the government authorities here are watching the situation abroad with great interest. Extraordinary measures have been taken with a view to suppressing the outbreak in the Philippines as far as possible.

Marvelously Impressive Aeroplane Flight of Over an Hour and a Half.

FRENCH PEOPLE GO CRAZY

Charging Cavalry Prevent Mob of Enthusiasts From Carrying Wright on Shoulders.

Lemans, Sept. 23.—In the presence of the officials of the French Aero club of Sarthe, the American ambassador, Henry White; Gen. Bazaine-Hayter, commander of the Fourth army corps; a large number of French and foreign officers and aeroplane experts and a wildly cheering crowd, numbering 10,000, Wilbur Wright, the American aeroplanist, yesterday afternoon accomplished a signal triumph, capturing the world's record from his brother, Orville Wright, with a marvelously impressive flight in his powerful machine of one hour, thirty-one minutes and fifty-one seconds, covering in that time an actual distance of ninety-eight kilometers, or nearly sixty-one miles.

Crowd Is Amazed.

Owing to the recent accident at Fort Myer, yesterday's trial for the Michelin cup for the greatest distance covered by an aeroplane in 1908, and the Aero club prize of $1,000 for the longest flight over an inclosed ground, attracted intense interest.

The great crowd was at once delighted and amazed at the remarkable stability shown by the aeroplane. Wright at first manifested extraordinary prudence, flying so low that he seemed almost to swim the earth, but on the thirteenth round he rose to sixty feet. Spontaneous cheers greeted the picture and these were redoubled as he successively surpassed his own record and then his brother's.

Keeps on After Dark.

In the gathering darkness the spectacle became thrilling. Matches were lighted to keep watch on the fleeting minutes, and night had fallen when, at the end of the thirty-third round Wright shut off his motor and came lightly to the ground.

With a mad cheer the crowd broke through the lines and rushed forward, only being prevented from hoisting the American in triumph on their shoulders by charging cavalry.

Among the first to reach Mr. Wright's side was Henry White, the American ambassador, who told the smiling aeronaut of the keen pleasure he felt in witnessing his victory. The ambassador said that he knew he was expressing the sentiments of President Roosevelt and the entire American people in congratulating him.

STOLYPIN WILL FIGHT CHOLERA

Russian Premier Takes Charge of Situation and Fires Incompetent Officials.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 23. — Premier Stolypin personally assumed charge of the cholera situation in the Russian capital yesterday. His first act was to remove a number of incompetent authorities who are charged with responsibility for the spread of the disease and to create new sanitary regulations.

To meet the crying needs of the Obuchoff hospital, which Stolypin found was insufficiently supplied with medicines and bath rooms available for the patients, the city has voted 500,000 rubles.

Another appropriation will have to be made to clean up the city, which reeks with filth, unless martial law is declared and the soldiers put to work.

Cholera has broken out in many jails and prisons in St. Petersburg and old affected cities, and will probably result in the liberation of many prisoners, as the only means of saving them from the disease.

Attempts to minimize the extent of the disease have been abandoned. New cases are developing at the rate of 400 a day, and the percentage of deaths is steadily increasing. Nearly 48 per cent of the cases end fatally.

Many Hurt in Collision.

Weeping Water, Neb., Sept. 23.—In a collision last evening in the yards at this place between a Missouri Pacific passenger train and a freight, eighteen passengers and three trainmen received severe injuries. In two cases the injuries are serious. The trains met head-on.

Safe Cracked at Sioux City.

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 23.—The safe in the office of Barish Bros., coal dealers, was cracked by safeblowers, who got away with the contents, amounting to $100. The firm only the day before removed $1,500 to a depository. The door was blown off by the use of nitroglycerin.

Dies Almost Centenarian.

Fort Dodge, Iowa, Sept. 23.—James Kearney, aged ninety-six, a resident of Webster county for forty-five years, died here Sunday. He was a prosperous farmer, residing west of this city.

JEROME DELAYS THE THAW CASE

Justice Mills Is Displeased With the Prosecuting Attorney and Says So in Court.

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Arguments of Harry K. Thaw's application for a jury trial as to his sanity in habeas corpus proceedings before Supreme Court Justice Isaac N. Mills were adjourned yesterday until next Saturday, at the request of District Attorney Jerome, who had been unable to prepare his return to the writ in time for yesterday's hearing. Charles Morschauser, attorney for Thaw, agreed to the adjournment. In the meantime Thaw will remain in the White Plains jail.

Justice Mills was impatient at the delay.

"I have been giving considerable investigation to the law on the question whether the relator is entitled to a jury trial, and am anxious to dispose of the matter," he said. "I have understood that at this time the question of a jury trial would be taken up and had supposed that the pleadings would set forth all the facts that needed to be considered in connection with this question."

Mr. Morschauser said that he had prepared himself to make an argument yesterday on the question and that he was as anxious as the court to press the matter to a conclusion, but he had agreed with Mr. Jerome at the latter's request to an adjournment.

Thaw walked from the jail to the court room, a distance of two blocks, in the custody of two deputy sheriffs. There was little of the old twitching of the muscles of his face and eyes. He sat almost motionless throughout the proceedings, which lasted about twenty minutes. It was remarked that never before in public since his arrest had Thaw shown such self-control.

Wright In Better Spirits.

Washington, Sept. 23. — Although suffering from restlessness yesterday, Orville Wright's condition is satisfactory. He succeeded in getting several hours' sleep yesterday afternoon, and after the news of his brother Wilbur's record-breaking flight in France was shown him he was in better spirits.

THE WINNERS IN THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

The primaries are over and the successful candidates are squaring away for the November election. In some of the counties of this section the vote is very close between the Republicans and Democrats. In Marshall county, for instance the county offices are almost equally divided and the candidate who won out at the primaries has the biggest fight still on his hands, as a nomination does not mean an election.

Following is a list of the successful candidates for nomination in some of the adjacent counties.

McINTOSH
(Times)

Rev Harris came in from Biwabik Wednesday morning with his awo litte boys whom he will leave in Mrs. Bakke's care for a time. He expects to return to Biwabik tomorrow evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Conger entertained for Master William a number of his friends Saturday afternoon. The happy boys enjoyed a picnic, a nutting expedition and a hay rack ride all in one.

Mrs. J. A. Wegner was called to Appleton, Wis., Monday last on account of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Werice, at that place. Mrs. Werice died on Friday. She was eighty two years old and great grandmother to a number of children.

Mrs. W. H. Nevitt and her mother Mrs. Nels P. Peterson of Hill River, who left last week Monday for a visit with the latters sister in Chicago, returned home yesterday morning. Mr. Nevett who accompanied them as far as Minneapolis will remain there for a few weeks on business.

Twenty eight nonresident pupils have so far been enrolled in the village school here, 15 of whom are enrolled in the eighth grade.

PENNED AND PILFERED

The editor of today has to get his nose down to the grindstone and keep it there sixteen hours per day and 365 days in the year ,or he falls by the wayside. There are men who quit work Saturday night and rest until Monday morning. They lay aside business cares at five or six o'clock every evening and do not resume them until seven or eight the next morning Not so your editor. He has no elegant leisure. He knows no hours, no Sunday, no night. When he goes to a party or to church, or an alleged pleasure trip, it is all in the line of a duty. Withal, your editor man is a cheerful, longsuffering soul, going about doing good in his humble way. He returns good for evil. He writes long puffs of church sociables, and in return therefor, accepts a chunk of cake that would sink an ironclad. He notes the arrival of all the babies in his neighborhood and eternally perjures his soul in telling how pretty they are. He rejoices with the gay and mourns with those who are sad. He booms every enterprise which makes his community rich and goes about himself clothed in gunny sack coats and one suspender. He glories over the fortune of his neighbor, and meekly eats his own repast of boiled corn cobs and colored labels off tomato cans. He can write a sermon, account of a prize fight, a political speech, an obituary notice, poetry, split wood, pitch hay, wash dishes, preside at a camp meeting, curry horses, quote law or gospel, or any thing else at a moment's notice.

The youngsters who spent their vacation working for the farmers in this vicinity have returned to take up their school work. Their time was spent at work that was both renumerative and instructive and besides what they earned they have learned much that will tend to better fit them to take up the battle of life. To acquire habits of industry while young is worth more to a boy than inherited wealth. The fresh air, moderate exercise, the wholesome food and other phases of farm-life combine to make healthy and vigorous men of these boys and it is a privilege rather than a disadvantage to be offered a chance to do such work. Boys who accept this chance and stick to the work will never become members of the army of the unemployed and may some day own a farm of their own. The boy who does things is bound to take his station among the men who are not dependent on others in this world of ours and that is something to strive for. Good luck, to the boy who is not afraid of work.

COAL SHORTAGE THREATENED

THE CONSUMERS HAVE DELAYED IN PLACING THEIR COAL ORDERS

DOCKS AT DULUTH ARE TAXED WITH STORED COAL TO CAPACITY

From Thursday's Daily—

Unless people put in their coal supply immediately, there is liable to be a repetition of "coal shortage conditions," which prevailed during the winter of 1906-7. Only a quarter to a half of the amount necessary for this winter's consumption has thus far moved. The responsibility for the light movement rests largely with the consumers, who have delayed ordering much later than usual.

The docks at the head of the lakes are taxed with stored coal to the limit of their capacity. The cars necessary to move the coal are now available, but with the heavy grain movement, which wil be fully under way within the next few weeks, most of these cars will be required for the grain service. There is just one way of insuring a sufficient coal supply, and that is to order it now for immediate delivery. With the vivid recollection of the conditions of two years ago still fresh in our memory, we earnestly and urgently advise our readers to take immediate action, and do their part in preventing a shortage and suffering by ordering coal today.

PIERCE SELLS GRAFTON RECORD

WELL KNOWN WRITER DISPOSES OF NEWSPAPER TO GRANT S. HAGER.

E. H. Pierce, famous as a writer of "Hits andMrs." and the man who has made Poison Carrots and his hired man known throughout a large share of the civilized world, announced in the Grafton Record of yesterday that he had disposed of the newspaper to Grant S. Hager, owner of the St. Thomas Times. He has not decided on his future work, but may remain in Grafton. The following is the announcement made of the change of ownership:

"After this issue the Record passes into the possession of Grant S. Hager, of St. Thomaas, well known to many of our readers and a newspaper man of experience. We wish to thank our many friends who have stood by us like brothers during the years we have published the Record. We do not intend to say goodbye, for we may not leave Grafton and if we do latter on make a move, we intend to always call this place our home, where we have spent the best part of our life. Grafton is a good city to live in, always was and always will be, and Grafton citizens are the best people on earth. We bespeak for Mr. Hager the same liberal patronage given us. He will give value received.

APPROPRIATION FOR THE PARKS

The Grand Forks park board held a meeting late yesterday and passed some important ordinances. The appropriation ordinance was given its final reading and passed. In addition to the appropriation for the bond sinking fund this appropriation includes the following amounts: Maintenance and improvements, $1,500; miscellaneous, 500; outstanding, $150.

Another ordinance passed provides for the appointment of a park policeman and defines his duties.

Rules and regulations governing use of the parks by the public are set forth in the other ordinance passed at the session.

The ordinances will take effect after approval and publication.—Grand Forks Herald.

TWICE CURED OF SKIN TROUBLES

First Case a Rash Which Itched and Stung—Threatened Ten Years Later With Blood-Poison in Leg—But Both Times the Sufferer's

RELIANCE IN CUTICURA PROVED WELL-FOUNDED

"About twelve or fifteen years ago, while living in West Virginia, I had a breaking-out, and it itched and stung so badly that I could not have any peace because of it. I saw three doctors and they did not agree on what it was, so one of them gave me something that he called medicine, but I called it soda water. I might just as well have washed in rain-water. Then I got some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent and began to get better right away. They cured me and I have not been bothered with the itching since, to amount to anything. About two years ago I had la grippe and pneumonia which left me with a pain in my side. Treatment ran it into my leg, which then swelled and began to break out. It got in pretty bad shape, so I went to a doctor. He was afraid it would turn to blood-poison. I used his medicine but it did no good. So I sent for another set of the Cuticura Remedies. I used them three times and cured the breaking-out on my leg. Now I won't be without Cuticura. J. F. Hennen, R. F. D. 3, Milan, Mo., May 13, 1907."

PRESBYTERY MEET HELD AT BEMIDJI

PRESBYTERY IS IN EXCELLENT CONDITION.— NEXT MEETING AT WARROAD.

The fall meeting of the Adams Presbytery, which includes the Presbyterian churches in this district, convened in Bemidji wednesday after noon and continued in session untill Thursday evening.

There was an excellent attendance of the pastors of the different Presbyterian churches in this district and much interest was shown in the work.

D. K. Laurie, of Minneapolis acted as temporary moderator and called the meeting to order, after which Rev. John Ferry of Warroad was chosen moderator for the session and Rev. Niel A. Gilchrist of Thief River Falls was named temporary clerk.

The reports received from the various churches indicated that the Presbytery is in a flourishing condition financially and that the work of the churches is being conducted in a very able manner and is bringing about excellent results.

An invitation was extended by the church at Warroad to hold thir next meeting there, which by a unanimous vote, the Presbytery accepted.

The following ministers were present:— W. S. Ward, Crookston; P. A. Schwarz, Red Lake Falls; N. A. Gilchrist, Thief River Falls; S. B. Pinney, Stephen; John Ferry, Warroad; G. E. Moorehouse, Hallock; L. C. Eames, Orleans; F. J. Barackman, Blackduck; and D. K. Laurie, Minneapolis.

BABE FOUND ON DOORSTEP

GRAND FORKS HAS A SENSATION —BABE LEFT ON THE DOORSTEP

NOTHING TO INDICATE IDENTITY OF CHILD—ABOUT THREE MONTHS OLD

From Saturday's Daily—

Hearing the wails of an infant child on her doorstep at 10:30 Thursday night, Mrs. Frank J. Wilkins, Vernon avenue, Grand Forks, investigated and found a blue eyed baby girl of about three months crying lustily. She took the baby into the house comforted her and soon she was sleeping contentedly.

The baby was wrapped in a quilt and was scantily clad when found. There was nothing on her person to indicate who her parents might be She is a pretty little one and Mrs. Wilkins would like to keep her if she did not have a child of her own. She has determined to find the baby a good home.

No Clue to Identity

It is considered improbable that the parents will be located. Neighbors of Mrs. Wilkins feel certain that the child does not belong in that section of the city.

Mr. Wilkins was absent from home when the baby was found. He is the man who found the skeleton near Bolack a few weeks ago This mystery has not yet been solved by the police.

Mrs. Wilkins did not tell anyone of her discovery until yesterday morning. Quite a number of the neighbors called during the day to see the little waif.

HAS LOST ITS GRIP ON THE MASSES

Pastor Says Church Is Not Doing Its Full Duty At The Present Time.

"The church in our day, in spite of her outward prosperity, has lost much of her grip upon the masses," said Rev. George R. Gebauer of the First Unitarian church of Duluth recently. "There is bold and open criticism heard from various quarters Common sense rationalism considers the church merely a relic of superstition, which really has no place in the modern world. It says, 'As long as the world could believe in hell beyond the grave, the church did good service as a universal insurance company against damage by fire in the next world; but now, when the notion of hell has been proven to be poor philosophy and a personal God and a personal devil have been relegated into the museum of folwlore and popular myths, there is no further use for this ecclesiastical insurance company.'

"Others say, 'Never mind if there be hell to come, we know there is hell all about us now. Let the church but establish paradise on earth and we shall believe in her again. Let the church show that she has a heart for the oppressed masses; let her remove all social and political injustice; let her prove her doctrine of human brotherhood by true brotherliness.'

"Such criticism and such demand may be somewhat crude, but it contains a good deal of truth and the complaint of the masses is echoed by the church. She feels that she is not doing her work well. Preaching about hell to come seems trifling to many an orthodox minister even, when he observes peridition all about him.. He becomes dissatisfied with his congregation sitting placidly before him on Sunday morning, while the world without is clamoring for help. He would turn his deacons and trustees and ladies' societies and young people's societies with flying colors and clanging cymbals upon the battalions of evil. His ideal is not so much the Christ preaching on the mount, as Jesus driving the money changers and traders out of the temple precinct. This dissatisfaction has finally called forth endeavors to meet the demands of the masses and finds its best expression in the work of the so-called "institutional church". Such a church stands pre-eminently for the practical service of man, and one in Chicago, which has taken the name of "Civic church" uses as its motto "The union of all who love in the service of all who suffer' certainly a beautiful maxim. In such churches the doors are open for seven days in the week for all sorts of enterprises. The basement of the church is turned into a carpenter shop, where the little street arab may learn to make his own tent; there is the cooking school for boys and also for girls; there is the boys' brigade. In the upper rooms there are literary classes and classes in philosophy and ethics and Browning and Tennyson. There is a mothers' class. There are many more helpful things there. In our day, where spiritual and mental healing is coming so much into prominence there is the tendency of some churches to add a spiritual clinic to the institution. We may also be certain that in time some churches will add a spiritualistic seance room where psychic phenomena may be honestly investigated All this may be very good and much of it has been proven good by experience, and yet the question arises, 'Is the church in this way really fulfilling her highest mission?" I for one cannot believe it. The church can even at her best, never do so well as the community might do in matters of instruction and to make the clinic an adjunct of the church to say nothing of the seance room, may establish anew the power of priestcraft and lead the world out of scientific light into occuit superstitition.

"If the church has failed in our day it has done so because she has neglected her supreme authority. Her great mission always has been and ever will be to sow the seed of deep and abiding spiritual truths, of spiritual truth."

The hour will be specially convenient for the farmers and a special market day should be arranged for on that date to get the people here.

BIG TIME AT THE "VETS" MEETING

From Thursday's Daily— ...

The followig account of the surprise given to James J. Hill by veterand employes at Minneapolis yesterday is taken from the Minneapolis Journal and will be read with special interest by all railroad men as two of those present, Conductor Stahl of Barnesville and Foreman C. Keeley of Euclid were among those present and many others are well known here:

In an old-fashioned train drawn by the "William Crooks" first locomotive operated in Minesota, James J. Hill chairman of the Great Northern road and a party of veteran railroad men to whom he charges his early success in railroading, passed thru Minneapolis at 4:30 p. m. today to celebrate Mr. Hill's 70th birthday at the Lafayette club, Minnetonka Beach. The train travelled over part of the old St. Paul & Pacific road which was the beginning of the present extensive Great Northern transcontinental system.

The little teakettle, wood-burning engine, which could easily be stowed in the boiler of a present day Great Northern mogul puffing laboriously over 90-pound rails with a following of dinky coaches which could be shipped intact in a modern Great Northern freight car, typified progress in the northwest in the span of life of a man who is today only 70 years old.

Mr. Hill modestly affirms that much of this progress in railroading is due to the men who gathered around him in pioneer days, and it was fitting that the train should be operated by the oldest operating men on the system and that the party which accompanied him to the Lafayette cub for a reunion dinner at 6:30 o'clock were the very men who helped lay the foundations for his commanding position today in the transportation world.

Surprise for Mr. Hill

The affair was designed as a surprise for Mr. Hill who returned today from the east expecting to celebrate his birthday in a quiet way with his family. It was arranged under the auspices of the old-timers many of whom are still in service near the twin cities but the local officials in St Paul and Minneapolis took up the details and added a few touches that made it unique including the resurrection of the "Wm. Crooks" and its rejuvenation with repair and paint.

The oldest man in Great Northern engine service, Al Smith now running on trains 13 and 14 betwee St. Paul and Breckenridge took the "high ball" signal promptly at 4 p. m. in the St. Paul union station shed from S W. Eastman, the oldest conductor. When Smith said "let her go" Flynn, his gray-haired fireman yanked the bell cord and the old bell tinkled to clear the way ahead. A. J. Marly, also one of the veteran conductors "took" the rear step to see whether his signals, lights and torpedoes were in order. Mr. Manly was important in his position of brakeman.

Some of the "Vets"

The passengers were veteran Great Northern employes from stations as far west as Seattle. Some of these names are still familiar to the traveling public, and others will be remembered only by Mr. Hill himself and some of the oldest of the "vets." They included men of the class of J. H. Woolnough still running a train on the old St. Paul & Pacific; C. W. Kyte, who is now in charge of the union station news stand; Archie Guthrie, Barstow, Bailey, Wakefield, George Copeland, John Copeland, Stahl, Sands, Bomey, Cunningham, Dyson, Ward, Newlan, Alexander, E. B. Wakeman, W. S. Kemp, C. Keeley, Arnes, Gebhart, Manly, Jud Rice, Evans, Thomas, Maloy, Lewis Kellogg, Bryant, Pennock, Trudean, McMillan, Gorran.

The old engine, which is labeled on the tank "1st Division, St. P. & Pac. R R." and underneath the cab window, "Wm Crooks" was taken to St. Paul forty-two years ago a marvel of mechanism. It was taken from Patterson, N. J., to St. Louis and there loaded aboard a steamboat. At St. Paul it had to be "set up" The engine was named after William Crooks, civil engineer of the road in early days. The Crooks was relegated to a branch when the larger locomotives were for the main line. It finally started for the scrap heap, but was latter resurrected and sent to the Pacific coast to operate hydraulic pumps used to make heavy cuts in the hills. Finally it worked back to St. Paul, and when the Hill birthday celebration was evolved, it was sent to the shops and "fixed up."

The dinner at the lafayette will not be a stereotyped affair, but will be informal, and after the meal the old-timers will swap stories, and for once again "the old man" will be one of the gang.

FISH CAR FOR MAPLE LAKE

EXECUTIVE AGENT AVERY AND SAM FULERTON SPEND DAY IN CITY

BROUGHT 40 CANS OF FINE FISH FOR THE LOCAL SUMMER RESORT

From Thursday's Daily— ...

Executive Agent Carlos Avery and Sam Fullerton of the State Game and Fish Commission arrived in the city yesterday afternoon in their special fish car over the Northern Pacific with 43 cans of the finest bass and croppies every sent out of the state hatcheries, some of the bass being 5 inches long.

They started from St. Paul with 133 cans, 20 of which were left at Lincoln and 70 at Detroit lake, the balance being brought to Crookston.

Their special fish car is a model of convenience and cost the commission $10,000 which they paid out of their current fund as the legislature made no special appropriations either for the car or the equipment. In the car the present shipment cost but $70 while under the old method it would have cost $104. This way it was done in two days, and under the old way it would have taken two weeks.

The Milwaukee and Northwestern roads haul the car free of charge, but the N. P. and G. N. charge for the work.

Messrs. Avery and Fullerton leave Saturday night for Washington to attend the National Game Warden Assn., meeting at which the latter will deliver an address.

Both gentlemen were highly pleased with the conditions in this section and praised the work of Game Warden Munch highly. Warden and Mrs. Munch entertained Messrs. Avery, Fullerton and Wessell at a prairie chicken dinner today. They leave the city this evening for St. Paul.

LIGHTS MAY NOT SHINE AT FERTILE

The electric light company of Fertile served notice on their patrons that after Oct. 15th next the plant will be shut down unless satisfactory arrangemenas for rates can be made with the village council before that date. We sincerely hope that the light company and the village authorities can come to some satisfactory under standing as we cannot afford to have the plant shut down.—Fertile Journal.

Guarding Against Fires

The disasterous fires which have been raging for the past month or more in Northern Minnesota Forests and in fact in all the northern states from Maine to the Pacific coast, brings home the advisability of taking every possible precaution in order to guard against prairie fires.

Local rains smothered the flames near Bemidji yesterday, but unless there is more rainfall in a few days, the forests will again be as dry as tinder with present stiff breezes, and the grass on the prairies will be in the same condition to burn readily.

Every farmer should at once take measures to protect all farm buildings, school houses and hay stacks. It takes but a few minutes to plow a couple of furrows eight or ten rods apart, and burn the grass between them, which makes a splendid fire break.

State Fire Warden Peterson has warning, and calling upon the people of the state to exercise special vigilance in order to prevent further loss by fires, and the warning is one which should be heeded.

Negligence to exercise care not only endangers the property of the careless person, but also endangers the property of his neighbors. Carelessness along this line is nothing short of criminal, and the party starting a fire which proves disastrous can be held for damages.

Minnesota In Agriculture

After all the wealth of Minnesota is in the land, and it is the agricultural resources—using that term broadly—which will make the permanent riches of this state, and fix its place among states in the future. We may be for a moment, "The Pennsylvania of the West" but the deposits of the Range, while still immense and still unmeasured, cannot last forever, And we may have produced lumber barons, but the very fire of September has shown that such baronage will be offset by a barrenage which will end all that and the state will be compelled to undertake the slow, generations-long task of reforesting waste places. In the land is enduring wealth, and in spite of the statistics which place Minnesota eleven in manufacturers and eleven in agriculture the one remains the other goes.

In his speech at Fulda, a week ago Archbishop Ireland declared for the farmer. In his speech at Crookston a day or so ago Chairman Hill delared that the farmer with 160 acres would in forty years be the king among men. Minnesota cannot afford to desert her past which forty years ago made her the great prospective granary among states. She must reclaim that prophecy and, forty years hence, be that great granary among states; she must maintain her bread-and-butter standard.

And that she is preparing to do this the dedication of the new hall at the Crookston sub-experimental farm demonstrated. At that dedication Congressman Davis almost Minnesotan—we believe he came here at the age of four some fifty-four years ago—reviewed the necessities of the nation agriculturally, outlining the bill which he has entered for the consideration of congress, providing an agricultural high school for each congressional district. The bill has the approval of President Roosevelt; it certainly has the approval of Minnesota farmers.

Only the surface of Minnesota agricultural riches has been scratched. It is impossible to know what will result when Minnesota is dotted with at least nine agricultural high schools leading up to the experimental farm. For, as Congressman Davis pointed out when the state farm was first opened, there was not a text book to be had for guidance in the work. The text books have had to grow, and they not only have grown, but actigurshrdlue shrdle shre. shrdluuu agriculture has invaded other text books, and the very arithmetic used in St. Paul schools deals with the parts of the soil as it once dealt with the parts of the dollar—the two have a close relation. We are accustomed to place the primitive plough, as it is still used in Russia, say, in contrast with the highly developed "sulky" which furrows the Minnesota prairies. But if machinery has developed mightily the sail itself has not received such close attention. Soil and climate will be made to work together in wise ways in the Minnesota future. Agriculture will be a fine art one of these days.—St. Paul Dispatch.

FARMERS NATIONAL CONGRESS

HON WILLIAM J. BRYAN TO BE ONE OF THE SPEAKERS AT GREAT GATHERING AT MADISON, WIS., BEGINNING SEPT. 24

Arrangements for the 28th annual session of the Farmers' National Congress, which opens Sept. 24 at Madison, Wis., are now practically completed. The program is exceptionally strong and attractive, Some of the leading agricultural specialists of the nation will take a prominent part One of the country's strongest agricultural colleges is located at Madison, and the delegates will have an opportunity to inspect thoroly its workings, as well as to meet and hear many men who have been important factors in the position which American agriculture holds today.

The seeing and hearing such men is an inspiration, and a great influence in raising enthusiasm for and loyalty to agriculture. In addition valuable addresses will be deliverel by the governors of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and North Carolina. Other distinguished gentlemen on the program who will have important messages to the farmers of the Congress are Hon. Harvie Jordan, of Georgia, president of the Cotton Growers' association, Col. Robert E. Lee, Jr., of Virginia, Hon. J. J. Hill of Minnesota, Hon. W. W. Kitchen of North Carolina, Dr. George T. Winston, president of the North Carolina agricultural college, Dr. Randolph consulting engineer of the Panama canal, Dr. Sclichter of the government reclamation service.

Women's interests will be looked after by three speakers who are expert authority on matters of domestic science. The president, Col. Cameron, of North Carolina, has spent the summer studying conditions in England and will have an extremely interesting address.

The lake scenery about Madison is of the most delightful nature, while the city itself is extremely beautiful Its enterprising people will spare no pains to show the most liberal hospitality and great exertions will be made for the comfort and pleasure of the delegates. But the greatest attraction of all and the big feature of the congress will be an address by Hon. William J. Bryan on the farmer and his relations to public affairs.

Mr. Bryan's prominence before the country and his ability will give especial interest to this address. A large attendance from many states is anticipated, as long lists of delegates have already been received by the secretary. It is hoped that every state in the Union will be liberally represented. George M. Whitaker, secretary, 1404 Harvard Street Washington, D. C.

SENTENCE BLACK HAND MEN.

Fernie Authorities Jail Italians From Chicago.

Winnipeg, Sept. 23. — Eight Black Hand Italians who came from Chicago to Fernie and there plied their nefarious calling for a few days until arrested by the police, were yesterday sentenced to from six months to seven years in jail.

FIVE KILLED; TWENTY HURT.

Twenty-two Animals Escape Arena Just Before Fight.

Lisbon, Sept. 23—Twenty-two bulls escaped from the arena at Loita yesterday and ran amuck through a crowd that was assembling to witness a bull fight. Five persons were killed and some twenty were injured. Troops shot the animals to death.

STATE PRESS

Cannonaded

There is a great deal in writing an attractive advertisement. Do you give your advertisement your best attention? If you expect to do a large business on the fact that you know so many people you will get left. The ones you don't know are in the great majority. How are you to reach them in the most favorable manner at the least expense? By placing an attractive advertisement in the newspaper.—Erskine Echo.

Cannonian

Too much Cannon and too much ventilation of Cannonian ideas has been the cause of the defeat of Congressman Bede. Miller's majority will will run into the thousands and Bede might have prevented it if he had given more attention to duty and kept in touch with the forces that gave him support.—Cass Lake Times.

Cannonized

The shaking up that is being given the men who stand closest to Speaker Cannon in the house is considered likely to result in important modifications of the house rules. If the agitation results in making the house more of a deliberative body and the speaker less of an autocrat it will have an excellent effect.—Grand Forks Herald.

A FINE AUTOMOBILE TRIP FOR GRAND FORKERS

One of the prettiest drives of the season was enjoyed yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Robertson and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kelsey when they autoed to Climax, Minn., and returned, a trip of about sixty miles. They went down on the Minnesota side of the river and returned on the Dakota side, the road, nearly all the way, being shaded with the beautiful trees Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jackson and little Louise and Dana Robertson were guests in the Robertson car and Miss Vera Kelsey, Temple Irwin and Ruth Eckman were in the Kelsey party.—Grand Forks Times.

GRAND FORKS BOYS HAD LONG HUNTING TRIP

Clarence Sheppard and E. M. Stimson arrived home in Grand Forks Saturday evening after a hunting trip which has extended over about three weeks they leaving Grand Forks on the opening day of the season and have been hunting ever since. During the three weeks they have covered a large amount of territory, driving from Grand Forks up to the Turtle mountains and thence to Berwick in McHenry county, N. D. In all they covered about 600 miles by the team route. They had a complete camping outfit with them, pitching their camp every night. The horses were shipped back home from Berwick.

Flowers

Flowers are among the luxuries of life for which a steady demand has been created as civilization has advanced. Our forefathers were content to cultivate them for a brief season of the year to enjoy them while the summer lasted; but the present generation demands them the year around. There is also a growing demand for golden grain belt beer which is the greatest home beverage ever known. It is brewed from the best materials in a better way than other beers and should have a place on your home table. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

BOYS' TASTES HINDERS RAISING OF APPLES

Col. Robertson raised about forty of as fine apples as one could wish for on a tree in his yard. Col. says the only drawback in raising apples in Argyle is the fine taste cultivated by mischievous boys for other people's apples. There's a good joke going the rounds tho and we would advise the boys to be careful lest they fall victims to it.

A. JOHNSON EXCAVATES FOR CONTRACTOR BRADY

James Brady went to Crookston on Tuesday evening to consult with A. Johnson who is going to do the excavating and brick work on the new Finch-Smith-Carlisle warehouses at Thief River. As soon as Mr. Johnson has his work completed Mr. Brady will go to Thief River and commence operations. He was awarded the contract at Crookston last week.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

MANY CATHOLIC EVENTS TAKE PLACE IN N. DAKOTA

Bishop Shanley of the Fargo diocese has been spending the past two or three days in the vicinity of Langdon making a number of visits with the Catholic congregations and attending a number of important events. On Thursday the new Catholic church at Nekoma was dedicated Friday at Olga a large class was confirmed. Tomorrow there will be a big class confirmed in Langdon. The dedication of the new church at Osnabrock was to have taken place during Bishop Shanley's visit but it was not yet completed.

LEARNING TRADE AT STATE INSTITUTION

Leonard Zaiser son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Zaiser of Red Lake Falls left Monday evening for Faribault to attend the deaf and dumb school. Leonard will remain at Faribault two more years. He is learning the shoe maker trade and upon his return will go to work for Mr. Harren of that town in his shoe repairing department.

SAMPSON'S ADDITION CERTAIN OF NEW BRIDGE

Bridge And City Hall Bonds Carry By Overwhelming Majority In Special Election.

No Saloon For Carman.

From Tuesday's Daily—

The special election held in Crookston yesterday for the purpose of voting on $7500 Sampson addition bridge bonds, $6000 City Hall bonds and on the charter Amendment to determine whether or not the patrol limits should be extended to Carman in order that saloons might operate there caused one of the liveliest scraps that has been witnessed for some time.

The bridge bonds carried by 229, the city hall bonds by 292, and the Carman saloon proposition had a majority of 103, but lacked 17 of the necessary 3-5ths of the total vote cast.

This means that Sampsons addition is assured of a fine new bridge on the new location, from the rear of the Morrisey foundry to the rear of the Munch property.

The people of Sampsons addition were practically unanimous on the proposition and are highly elated that the proposition carried by such a handsome majority. The bonds will be sold and the work on the bridge started just as soon as the contract can be let. Following is the detailed vote of the city on the three propositions submitted:

A lot of Indians belonging to the Red Lake agency were in town yesterday and today enroute home from the northwestern part of the county, where they had been working as harvest hands.

"Making Good"

may be slang but it is a vigorous phrase of tonic qualities and holds a world of solid meaning, hard work, honorable success, accomplishment.

There are many young men, 60 years and under, hard-workers, who have failed to justify the hopes and ambitions of their families and friends; failed to reap the harvest due them; failed to "Make Good", simply because they did not realize the many actual advantages offered them by a check account; the protection afforded their money; the chance to save the extra dollar or two; to build up their credit; the certainty of having to pay bills but once; and other advantages appreciated by the man who has a bank account.

FINE APPLES—It would be difficult to find a better lot of apples and plums than were grown this year on trees owned by H. E. Mussey. The fruit all ripened in good season and every apple and plum was sound and richly flavored. This should effectively dispose of the contention that good fruit cannot be grown in North western Minnesota. — Thief River Falls Press.

FUNERAL OF JOHN KETTER — The funeral of John J. Ketter took place yesterday morning from Sacred Heart Catholic church in the presence of a concourse of people that filled the large church. Rev. Fr. Green officiatel and spoke words of comfort to the bereaved families. He paid a high tribute to the worth of the deceased. Mother Schelastica of Duluth and Sister Paul of Duluth a daughter of Mr. Ketter and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Brusius of Acton were there for the funeral.

INITIALS THE SAME—The invited guests who attend and the out-of-town visitors to the dedication of the new hall at the school of agriculture at Crookston today will each receive a red satin badge with the letters "C. S. A." printed on them. Back in the early sixties such a badge would have had a tendency to provoke a riot almost anywhere in the north, as nine out of ten persons would have assumed that it stood for "Confederate States of America."—Warren Sheaf.

HARRY IVE'S VIEW—The editor of the Spectator has just completed an unsuccessful campaign for the Republican nomination for representative. The people of this district very evidently concluded that the county option question overshadowed all other questions. The winner, Jens J. Opsahl, was assisted financially and otherwise by the county option forces, and Mr. Funkley was backed to the extent of $5000 or more by the liquor and brewery interests Of the result we have no apologies to offer, no one rendered any financial assistance we did not bribe the voters or slander our opponents.—St. Hilaire Spectator.

The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Samuel Fulton were held this afternoon at Ada, and was one of the largest ever held in Northern Minnesota. The floral tributes were magnificent. Among those who went down from Crookston last evening were Mesdames S. W. Vance S. Rosenthal, A. D. Stephens and H. C. Misner. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fulton and family of Humbolt also passed through last evening to attend the funeral.

SPECIAL TRAIN ON TAFT DAY

The Grand Forks commercial club is making an effort to have the N. P. run an excursion train from Winnipeg Jct. to that city on the 28th inst. to give the people down that line an opportunity to hear Taft speak. As Taft speaks here the same afternoon, it might be well for Crookston to join in the effort, and no doubt could get the major part of the crowd to stop here, giving them the same opportunity to hear the republican nominee as if they went farther.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

Sept. 23 In History.

1745—John Sevier, pioneer and soldier, hero of King's Mountain, etc., born; died 1815.
1791—Birth of Karl Theodor Korner, German poet of liberty; killed in fighting the French, 1813.
1820—Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry died in Port Spain, Isle of Trinidad; born 1785.
1869—Black Friday.
1907—French terms of peace accepted by the Moors at Casablanca.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 5:52, rises 5:45; moon rises 4:32 a. m.; 6:13 a. m., moon in conjunction with Mars, passing from west to east, 4 degrees north of the planet; A. D. 1846, planet Neptune discovered by Galle.

INDIAN AGENT HERE— Indian Agent Michelet of the White Earth Reservation spent yesterday in the city. He says that the affairs of the department are running along very smoothly at the present time.

LOOKED AFTER FARM —Capt. Vonderbeck of the local police force spent yesterday and today at Euclid where he looked after the threshing operations on his farm. He has not decided on the size of the diamond he will purchase when he has pocketed the proceeds.

WILL ATTEND S. S. CONFERENCE—Rev. Samuel Hedegaard, the missionary representing the American Sunday School Union with headquarters in Crookston will leave this evening for Lakeland to attend the Sunday school conference at that place which closes Sept. 28. He will make a complete report of the work he has done in this section this summer at that time.

FORMER FERTILITES— Thomas Keefe came over from Bagley yesterday noon and spent several hours in the city. He visited St. Anthony's hospital where Mrs. Keefe has been confined for the past ten days. Mr. Keefe stated that he thought Mrs. Keefe would be out of the hospital with the next ten days and would then be able to return to her home at Bagly.

TRAMPLAND MADE A HIT — "Trampland" at the Auditorium last evening made a big hit with the large audience present. The specialty work was very fine, specially the acrobatic stunts, and the entire performance was far above the average The Auditorium has secured two very acceptable companies in the last two which have shown here, and the audiences will increase materially if the same class of shows are secured for the future.

KIDNAPING CASE—Deputy Sheriff Daniels went to East Grand Forks this morning having in custody Wm. Wallace Taylor who had his preliminary hearing on the charge of kidnaping and was held to the grand jury for the December term. Failing to secure bonds he will be brought back tonight and held in the county jail. As he is a married man his offense is all the more repugnant.

WORK WELL ADVANCED—Ed Henry of Angus says the threshing operations are practically all wound up near Angus, only a little stack threshing remaining. He has leased the old Andrews farm for another year and will have the entire farm plowed in a short time. He states that all the farmers are busy plowing, and that they have more done at the present time than they did last year when the freeze-up came. This is in addition to the large amount of summer fallowing that was done.

LABORERS RETURNING — The east and southbound trains for the past week have been packed with laborers returning from the harvest and threshing fields to the larger cities, scores heading for Duluth from where they will hire to the log contractors for the winter. The train for Duluth last evening had to be stopped west of the city to give the conductor time to collect all the fares The two smoking cars were jammed so he could hardly make his way thru. To add to the situation about 97 1-2 per cent of the men were three fourths pickled and the task of the conductor is anything but a pleasant one.

Returns from the State Bar examination which was held in St. Paul Sept. 1-4 '08, among those duly admitted to practice were Fred Dennis private secretary to Congressman Steenerson, and Geo. Judson of Crookston, and John Vig of Fosston.

Mr. Dennis has been reading law for some time past but will remain with Congressman Steenerson in his present capacity. Geo. Judson will remain in the law office of County Attorney Maybury for the present at least. John Vig will practice law at Fosston.

HILL HELD FOR THEFT OF HORSE

FINLANDER ARRESTED AFTER BEING CHASED FOR MILES IN AN AUTOMOBILE

TAKES HORSE BELONGING TO J. E. SULLIVAN—IS HELD TO GRAND JURY

From Wednesday's Daily—

After a sensational chase in an automobile Carl Hill, a Finlander who says his home is in Duluth, was arrested yesterday afternoon 11 miles northwest of Crookston where he had driven with a horse and buggy stolen from DeMers avenue, Grand Forks yesterday forenoon. Chief of Police Ellingson, G. R. Jacobi, Rand Smith and J. E. Sullivan being the owner of the stolen horse and buggy.

The theft was one of the boldest in the history of this section. The horse was tied on DeMers avenue one of the principal streets, and in the buggy were eight milk cans that bad been left there after the morning delivery of milk. The Sullivan horse was well known and the automobile party soon struck the trail. It is believed that Hill intended to reach Fisher. As he went along he threw the milk cans out. Some of them were recovered.

Hill was taken to Grand Forks yesterday afternoon. He told Chief Overby about his ride in the automobile but claimed to know nothing about the theft of the horse and buggy.

Last evening Hill was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Mr. Sullivan, who placed the value of his property at $200. Hill asked for an examination and it was granted. Mr. Sullivan was the only witness examined. He testified as to the recovery of the property in the possession of Hill after being stolen.

Hill asked the judge to be as easy as he could. Judge Church explained that he could only bind him over to the district court. His bond was fixed at $500. He was unable to furnish the bond and went to jail.

The accused says he came from Duluth not long ago and threshed for four days.

BADLY SCALDED IN AN ACCIDENT

ALBERT JOHNSON MAY DIE AS RESULT OF TERRIBLE INJURIES RECEIVED

ENGINE BRACKET BREAKS — IS THROWN DOWN WHERE THE STEAM STRIKES HIM

From Tuesday's Daily—

Albert Johnson residing about 14 miles from Grand Forks was seriously if not fatally scalded yesterday when a bracket on the threshing machine he was riding upon broke. Johnson was thrown down in the hot steam and was terribly scalded. He was hurried to the Deaconess hospital at Grand Forks where he is suffering great pain from his injuries.

The accident happened while the engine was being taken across a coulie. The jolt as the wheels struck a depression caused the break on the engine.

Johnson was brought to Grand Forks in Geo. E. Duis' auto a quick trip being made. The injured man is a farmer and has long been a resident of Grand Forks county.

JAIL POPULATION LARGE INCREASE

AUTHORITIES ARE GATHERING REGULAR FALL CROP OF HOBOS

A very material increase of the jail population was received at that institution yesterday, when deputies Daniels and Gonyea returned from the west end with six prisoners. Many of them are old offenders and their faces are familiar to Polk county police officials.

Jack Ward, James O'Harra and Patrick O'Brien are in for forty days Ward spends half his time in jail. John Ryan and Wm. Linn were sent up for thirty days. Frank Murphy is bound over to the grand jury for robbing a room mate. The above is a healthy increase for one day.

There are at the present time 24 prisoners in the jail. 10 are awaiting the action of the grand jury, the rest are serving time.

Marcus Johnson the leading miller of the northwest is spending the day in the city congerring with business associates.

PAUL MONROE IS ARRESTED FOR ROBBING A STORE AT LENGBY, MINN.

SPENDS PART OF MONEY — RETURNS BALANCE — SAYS HE HAD GOOD TIME

From Monday's Daily—

Deputty U. S. Marshal Rider was in the city Thursday with a man named Paul Monroe who is accused of robbing a store at Lengby. O. K. Ringstad, the Lengby postmaster died a short time ago and a postoffice inspector was sent to the place to check over the business of the office.

He found $225 in cash on hand and left in the custody of Saterstrom & Rindh general merchants ' there. Monroe entered their store thru a rear window and got away with the money. He began spending it, and was arrested for the theft. He had already "blown in" $80 and returned the balance.

He admits the theft and says he at least had a good time while the money lasted. He was bound over to the United States court in Fergus Falls bail being fixed at $2,500, and in default, was sent to the Otter Tail county jail to await the action of the grand jury at the November term.

SUICIDE AT GRAND FORKS

DISCOURAGED OVER ILL-HEALTH FOR 10 YEARS JULIUS SCHAFER BLOWS BRAINS OUT

LEFT LETTERS ADMITTING SUICIDE—BODY DECOMPOSED—MISSING SINCE SEPT 11

From Wednesday's Daily—

The body of Juliusc Schafer, aged 47 years was found yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in a woodshed back of his father's house in Riverside Park at Grand Forks. He had committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver it is believed. Beside the body was a 38-calibre revolver with one chamber discharged in the hatband of the deceased an envelope and on it was written: "Suicide. No inquest is necessary."

In an envelope on the floor was an envelope addressed to Undertaker M. Norman. The note in the envelop read:

"Take charge of my body and bury me immediately, just as I am found and in the family lot. About $35 will be found on me for the purpose. Any balance draw on my property —J. Schafer."

Father Finds Body

The odor from the woodshed caused Eliza Schafer father of the deceased to investigate.

It developed that Schafer has been ill for the past 10 years. He has been taking treatment with Dr. Witherstine for nervous troubles. He complained he could not sleep or work. He did not come as often for treatment the last few weeks as the doctor desired.

Sept. 11 was the last day he was seen alive. It is believed that it was on that date that he committed suicide. The body was badly decomposed when discovered.

MUNICIPAL COURT SURE

From Wednesday's Daily—

Last evening the city council passed the necessary resolution establishing a municipal court in Crookston, and provided that the municipal court laws of the laws of 1905 be adopted to govern such court. The salary of the judge was fixed at $75 per month and his clerk $25 per month, payable monthly, and all fees of the court are turned over to the city.

Some time ago the attorneys of Crookston passed resolutions unanimously endorsing Atty. L. E. Gossman for the appointment, which will be made by Gov. Johnson and Mr. Gossman will without doubt be named for the position. The court will probably be formally established in the course of a very few weeks.

The Municipal court will have exclusive jurisdiction of all cases which involve the fracture of any of the city ordinances or the city charter, and will have jurisdiction in all civil cases where the amount involved does not exceed $500. The court is strictly non-partisan, and subject to no political control, barring the first appointment by the governor till an election is held.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS FROM MASTER MINDS

Addresses At The Dedication Of Stephens Hall Yesterday Afternoon Best Ever Delivered In The Northwest.

From Friday's Daily—

Never before in the history of Northern Minnesota have the farmers and business men been given the privilege of listening to such a galaxy of masterfully practical and helpful addresses as those delivered yesterday at the dedication of Stephens Hall by Hon. James J. Hill, Congressman C. R. Davis of St. Peter, Congressman Halvor Steenerson of this city, Senator A. D. Stephens, the father of the school and the man after whom it was named, Supt. of Public Instruction J. W. Olson, Dean E. W. Randall, Dr. E. P. Robertson of Wesley College, Grand Forks, enlivened by the witticisms which were sandwiched in by Supt. Wm. Robertson in charge of the Crookston Experiment Station and School of Agriculture.

Hill's Last Message Perhaps

Special interest is attached to the address of Mr. Hill as it was intimated that with the exception of the Albert Lea speech it may be the last oral message of the great railroad magnate and practical agriculturalist to the people of Minnesota. The program began at 11 o'clock in the morning at Stephens Hall, following a short address of Mr. Hill to the school children in the city, and notwithstanding the intense heat there was not a sign of restlessness manifest on the part of the crowd from the time the gathering was called to order in the dining room at Stephens Hall till the audience was dismissed at nearly 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Farmers, bankers and business men with their wives, sons and daughters were present from Kittson, Marshall, Roseau, Red Lake, Norman and Cleanwater counties and the liveliest enthusiasm prevailed, the ovation given Mr. Hill being the most remarkable ever received by any man in Crookston.

Message of Encouragement

Happily all carried a message of encouragement, a prediction of better and greater things for the future and a panorama of possibilities which was an inspiration to every farmer and farmer's wife present as it elevated their importance and emphasized the dependence of modern civilization upon ahe industry of the farmer and the intelligent cultivation of the soil. Each speaker seemed impregnated with and voiced sentiments tending to elevate the dignity and importance of the farmer. The addresses all rang with practical and not theoretical, and the speakers without exception, and for the first time in this city, displayed a knowledge of the minutest details of the problems that confront the farmer, and the remedies that will be the most efficacious.

Building Turned Over

Hon. P. M. Ringdal on behalf of the state board of regents formally turned Stephens Hall over to the State Board of Control in a concise address in which he expressed the hope that within the walls of the handsome structure the future farmers and farmers' wives would receive such training that agriculture in this section would be revolutionized. State Supt. Olson received the building on behalf of the State Board of Control and emphasized the great addition this would be to the practical educational facilities of the state.

Dean Randall

Dean E. W. Randall then spoke briefly stating that the state now had three Experiment Stations, at St. Anthony Park, Grand Rapids and at Crookston, and two schools of Agriculture, at St. Anthony Park and at Crookston and that it was his earnest hope and belief that the splendid and effective work done by these schools would soon be so apparent that eventually there would be one established in each congressional district in the state. He said that conditions were such that the farmers of the future would be educated men with a thoro knowledge of natures laws, botanists and thoro animal students.

Dr. E. P. Robertson, president of Wesley College of Grand Forks, and brother of Supt. Wm. Robertson made a most scholarly address and dwelt on the spiritual upbuilding that came from such schools, and the general moral influence of education.

Senator Stephens

Senator Stephens' address was to the point and right to the hearers. Agricultural education has no past. Only a few years ago there were no text books. We want more owners and less tenants. Big farms have proven losing propositions. We have yet to discover by experiment what is best adapted to this soil and climate. Schools will find it. He touched on public ownership, and the condition of the clerk and bookkeeper compared with the farmer. "There is a difference when you have to get up at a certain hour, and when you want to get up to do a certain thing. If the farmer did not sell us anything in 60 days every one would be starved to death" he said. All those who assisted the city in getting the school were thanked. Mr. Stephens went into many details that showed a wide knowledge of the subject of agricultural education.

Loving Cup Presented

Following his speech Senator Stephens was recalled and Supt. Robertson in a short adlress presented Senator Stephens with a beautiful Stephen's Hall Memorial Loving Cup in appreciation of his splendid and successful efforts in its behalf. Senator Stephens was moved beyond speech for a moment and then gracefully accepted it, only, he said as its custodian, and paid tribute to those who had assisted him in his efforts.

Steenerson Enthusiastic

Congressman Steenerson was not on the program but was introduced and made one of the best addresses he had ever delivered in Crookston. He spoke of the attention that agriculture was suddenly receiving from the general government and that at the congress of governors called by the president had been devoted more to an injury as to what could be done to aid and elevate the farmer and producer than to any other subject. He said that it was being rapidly recognized that the functions of national government had more to do with the people within than, the foreign enemy without. He said that when the constitution was framed 97 per cent of the people who framed it were farmers while now only 40 per cent of the people are agriculturalists. Now there are billions in capital and millions of workers. He said the government of the people was safe in the hands of the people, and that no professional politicians were needed to prescribe for the people as to what they needed. The people knew more about that than the politician.

Congressman C. R. Davis of St. Peter delivered a carefully prepared and very interesting and scholarly address in which he showed most hearty sympathy with the agricultural school idea, and outlined what his efforts had been in congress along that line.

Mr. Hill was the last speaker and tho he spoke for an hour every word he spoke was devoured greedily. He began by stating that the public domain was practically all gone. That to his knowledge there was not a township in the United States fit for agriculture but what contained tillers of the soil. This of itself was most significant, and meant that cheap land was a thing of the past and would be harder and harder to secure In the face of no further lands to exploit, the American farmer was facing the problem of supplying breadstuff for a rapidly increasing population with no further new lands to settle to speak of. He said the problem to be solved was how to raise 2 bushels of grain where one was being raised now. It took England 100 years to raise the average of wheat per acre from 14 to 32 bushels.

Mr. Hill stated that the day of cheap wheat was past. The farmer could look forward confidently to better prices for his grain because the demand was increasing more rapidly than the supply could possibly increase, specially in our own country.

He told every farmer present that, whatever else they did not to part with their land. They could never get it back for what they might sell it for now. He said he had already passed the allotted age of man, and might not live to see Red River soil sold for what it was really worth, but that his hearers would live to see it sell readily for from $100 to $150 per acre.

He spoke of the wonderful development that had taken place in this section during the past decade, but believed it to be but as nothing compared with what the future had in possibility were boundless.

Hill Favored Plan

He said that some 14 years ago the thought had come to him that a school of agriculture located at Crookston might be the means of accomplishing much for the farmers of this section and he had then taken steps toward securing such an institution and reserved the land which now comprises the experiment farm. He remarked that others had thought the land might be more valuable for real estate purposes in time, adjoining the city of Crookston as it does, but the outlook was different to him and he was pleased to see such an institution as has grown up here.

Value of Education

How much will education do for the farmers? We have arrived at a time when they must have it. A great change has come over this country during the past five or ten years. It has come silently like a thief in the night and we do not realize the change. Since the settlement of this country Uncle Sam has stood ready to give a farm to each of his children who would occupy and cultivate it to some extent. You have got to learn to cultivate the soil whether you want to or not. I commenced 25 years ago scattering cattle and hogs thru the Red River Valley. They said I was trying to cast a cloud on the fair name of Minnesota, the 'home of No. 1 hard,' and that I had no business to try to get the farmers to raising cattle and hogs in a wheat state. I am not advocating the raising of cattle and hogs by other people at my expense.

Tried an Experiment

I tried the experiment of giving some prizes for good farming. I stipulated that contestants should have at least twenty head of stock for breeding purposes on their farms. It might be cows or hogs or any kind, so that they had the required number. Out of 600 applicants, however, but 93 farmers in three states could qualify. They didn't have 20 head for breeding purposes. If I'm ever caught again you will all know about it. There are some good farmers, a few of them in Minnesota. There's one young fellow over near Erskine who could have won a prize every time I offered it, by the way he farmed and he is a university graduate too. He admitted it and suggested that I rule him out the next time I offered prizes of this kind. I concluded it would be better, for me at least to stop giving prizes. It will be better for you to help yourselves.

This school is your institution. It's nobody elses and it will be just what you make it. If you send your boys and girls to the school it will be your monument. If you neglect the opportunity it will be your shame.

STEPHENS HALL IS FORMALLY DEDICATED

Dedication Exercises at State Experiment Farm Participated in by Thousands from City and Surrounding Country.

From Thursday's Daily—

The dedication of Stephens Hall is now an accomplished fact and will be remembered as one of the great events in the history of Crookston as the educational center of the North west. The regular trains arriving this morning brought big delegations to the city and the specials from St. Vincent from Greenbush were well loaded, the latter bringing a large delegation from Roseau county who wore badges and showed most commendable enthusiasm.

Hill's Party Arrived

At 10 o'clock this morning the special train bearing Mr. and Mrs. Hill and party arrived and were driven to the Hotel Crookston by W. S. Lycaan and J. W. Wheeler in their cars Mr. Hill was greeted at the depot and hotel by many old timers, and called every one of them by name without any apparent effort, showing a wonderful memory. Among those whom he spoke with were Capt. E. C. Davis and P. J. Lachapelle whom he had not seen in 20 years, but knew them readily.

Reviewed School Children

President and Mrs. Hill, A. Guthrie Mayor McPhee and R. J. Montague, John Cromb, Ed Peterson and F. R. Hamel of the school board, President H. C. Misner of the Twenty Five Thousand Club and representatives of the press at once repaired to the balcony of the Hotel Crookston where the parade of about 2,000 school children was reviewed and the children addressed by Mr. Hill.

A Splendid Spectacle

The school children made a splendid showing. Preceeded by the band they marched down Third street to main, down Main to Robert, down Robert to Broadway and halted between Robert and Second on Broadway in front of the Crookston Hotel. They were preceeded by the Crookston band, and each school had its flag born at the front of that division. They occupied the street from curb to curb as they marched each class being accompanied by the teachers, and a mighty cheer went up from the reviewing party and the assembled crowd as the halt was made.

Mr. Hill Introduced

Mayor McPhee then addressed the children and audience in general stating that it was a great pleasure to present to them one of the greatest men of the age, a man who was a striking illustration of the fact that no matter what station in life one is born the door of opportunity will always open to the one who knocks, and that there is no limit to the possibilities before those who with honesty, energy and perseverance knows no such word as failure—the Hon. James J. Hill.

Education an Asset

After the audience had died down so he could be heard, Mr. Hill addressed the school children and said that an opportunity to greet them would add greatly to the pleasure he would experience during the day. He said in part:

"I had no idea there were so many school children in Crookston. It is hard to realize what a city Crookston is. The first time I was here there was not a hotel in the city, and I slept in a tent. This illustrates what magic changes take place in a few short years. This entire section at that time was practically uninhabited. Look at the change.

"I wish to impress upon you the value of an education to each and every one of you. You all have an opportunity to secure one and it rests with each individual whether you secure one or not.

Cannot be Bought

"Remember that money will not buy an education. You must gain it by earnest effort. We are all on an equal footing in that connection. Our public schools are open to all. The opportunity is there if you will but accept it. Make the best possible use of your time by securing an education to add to your usefulness in the years to come.

Education an Asset

An education is an asset which you have to your credit thru life. No matter what your chosen work, it is ever useful to you. I would be especially emphatic regarding the value of a thoro mastering of the common branches. A good foundation to build upon in future years.

An Important Age

"We think that the past century has been a most important one. It has, and wonderful changes have come to pass. But the next 50 years will be more important than any past century in the history of the world and there will be more and greater changes.

"You will be the men and women of the coming half century and you should work hard to secure an education that will equip you to assist in maintaining your country and its institutions, law and order. I trust you will all grow up to be good and useful men and women."

The Real Boss

Following the enthusiastic applause which followed the conclusion of Mr. Hill's remarks, he again called for attention a minute and stated that he was regarded by many as a man of considerable authority because of the number of men who worked under his direction, but that he amounted to little when compared with the women in whose shadow he stood at that minute and a great cheer went up for Mrs. Hill who waved her handkerchief at the little children who clapped vigorously. The High School then gave three cheers for Mr. and Mrs. Hill in connection with the High School cheer and the children reformed, marched back to the High school and were dismissed for the day.

Driven to the State Farm

Mr. and Mrs. Hill, H. C. Misner and Mr. A. Guthrie were then driven to the State Experiment Farm by W. S. Lycan in his Buick Car, and J. W. Wheeler took the balance of the party out. The party went direct to Stephens Hall where the formal dedicatory ceremonies were held.

The Building Turned Over

Supt. Wm. Robertson presided at the gathering which was held in Stephens Hall dinning room, and beside him sat Hon. James J. J. Hill, Congressman C. R. Davis, Senator A. D. Stephens and the speakers. Hon. P. M. Ringdal formerly of this city, as a member of the state Board of Control formally turned over the building to the Board of Regents of the state. He expressed his great pleasure at the completion of such a splendid building in which the youth of Northern Minnesota would be trained for lives of usefulness.

Dean Randall Accepted

On behalf of the Board of Regents, Dean E. W. Randall accepted the building, and made a few brief but very happy remarks about the possibilities of the work which would be done within the walls of the handsome new structure, and the influence it would have toward a better and more useful citizenship. He referred to the magnificent work done by the St. Anthony Park school and what splendid results could be expected from a school working along the same lines, in fact a part of the same institution, but located right at the door of the farmers who wanted their sons and daughters trained for their work.

Olson Gratified

The last address before the adjournment for lunch was by State Supt. of Public Instruction John W. Olson. Mr. Olson made a splendid address in which he dwelt on the splendid possibilities of the school of Agriculture, and expressed his great pleasure that such a splendid building as Stephens Hall had been provided for the education of the youth of the northern part of the state.

The Dinner Hour

Adjournment was then taken for dinner. The speakers and guests from a distance dined at Stephens Hall, the guests of Supt. and Mrs. Robertson, together with several from this city, others partook of basket lunches and still a greater number were served by the W. R. C. of this city who served a very fine dinner to all who did not want to bother with carrying their lunches.

Afternoon Addresses

The addresses of the afternoon were delivered from a platform erected on the campus. Congressman C. R. Davis of St. Peter was the first speaker and he made a very enthusiastic address in which he emphasized the necessity of better agricultural methods.

He said that the education of the farmer for his special line of work was now recognized as just as essential as the special training needed for the successful man in any other line of business. It was necessary he said, for farmers to apply scientific principles to their work and conduct it along strictly modern business lines if success was to be attained. To this end Northern Minnesota was to be congratulated for the location here of a school of agriculture, where the very best training was available for the boys and girls who would be the fuature farmers and farmers' wives of the great Red River Valley He complimented Senator Stephens for his splendid work in securing the school for this section, and predicted for it a great work toward the uplifting of the farmer.

Hill's Address an Inspiration

The address of Hon. J. J. Hill followed. It was one of the finest ever delivered in the northwest. From the wealth of knowledge and practical experience which comes from a long and successful life the speaker drew some splendid thoughts. He gave a brief sketch of the history of the northwest and its lightning like development and then dwell on the wonderful possibilities of one of the richest spots in the world if the land was properly tilled.

Interesting Anecdotes

Interspersed in his address were many interesting anecdotes regarding the settlement of this section, and the pioneer recalled the early struggles before the railroad reached this city and in later years when a mixed train every few days was all that was expected, and which ran on any old schedule.

Changed Methods Necessary

The speaker then lead up to the conditions which confronted the farmers a few years ago making a change in farming methods an absolute necessity. He had championed diversified farming and better farming methods years ago, and many had called his views theoretical and impracticable at that time. He had done much to get the farmers interested in stock raising, and it was with extreme gratification that he viewed the splendid changes for the better than had come to pass within the past few years.

reds of millions of people if the population continued to increase at the present ratio. This meant that the day of cheap wheat is past, and big prices were certain in the future.

Land Worth $100 to $150 Per Acre

Mr. Hill stated that the land must and would raise 2 bushels where it now raises one and that as he had passed his 70th mile post yesterday he might not live to see it, but that many present would live to see the general price of land in this section from $100 to $150 per acre, and he urged all who owned land to hold on to it. Every year it would be harder to get and higher in price.

He was greeted with tremendous applause at the conclusion of his address after which the farm buildings were inspected for the balance of the afternoon.

Mr. Hill congratulated the people on the acquisition of Stephens Hall and referred to the progress in agriculture that we are approaching.

Day of Cheap Wheat Past

Mr. Hill saated that the day of cheap wheat was past. With not a township in the United States but whic hhas settlers, he said the public domain was practically gone. It meant better cultivation and fewer acres. He said the farmers in 1950 woul dhave to supply food for hund-

ROSEAU GETS ROAD BEFORE JANUARY 1ST

James J. Hill Gave Delegation Definite Promise Which Settles Question Of Extension From Greenbush To Warroad.

There could be found no aggregation of more tickled men in the State of Minnesota than a delegation from Roseau in this city yesterday headed by Editor R. J. Bell, Israel Sjoberg, T. D. Thorson, A. O. Hagen, Olaf Hildahl, and O. Woog, when from the platform on the campus at the state Experiment Farm Senator A. D. Stephens was authorized by Mr. Hill to state to them that before January 1st next, Mr. Hill would shake hands with the people of Roseau from the rear of his private car.

This promise coming directly from Mr. Hill means that active work of laying the rails on the extension from Greenbush to Warroad via Roseau, will begin in the very near future. The roadbed has been completed for some time past, and the ties scattered along, but they have never been put in place.

For years the people of Roseau have been struggling for a railroad. They had been promised a great deal but their hopes were never realized because of conditions which made it impossible for the work to be done.

Now the extension is an absolute certainty, and the general public as well as the traveling men will rejoice that Roseau, Warroad and other points can be reached by a direct rail route.

The extension will be 40 miles and connect this section with the northeast boundary by a direct line.

TAKING RECREATION—Ed Havel and wife of Angus are spending a few days in the city, with friends. They have their fall work so far along that a few days' recreation will be enjoyed. The exercises yesterday very much pleased them.

VERY OPTIMISTIC—Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Vonderbeck of Euclid were in to attend the doings yesterday and are visiting relatives today. Mr. Vonderbeck is very optimistic as to the future of the valley and the remarks of the different speakers in that line pleased him very much.

SUCCESSFUL AT MOORHEAD — Attorney Clyde Chapin of Moorhead arrived in the city this morning for a short visit with cousin Harry Chapin of the G. N. offices. Atty. Chapin carries his handsome face behind a very heavy but becoming black beard that somewhat disguises him among his friends.

VISITING OLD FRIEND—Thomas Sullivan of New York has been spending the past few days in the city the guest of his old college chum Jim V. Thompson combining business with pleasure. He represents the University society of New York, and has placed his line with every music teacher in Crookston and sold to many private families as well.

OBSERVED ADVANTAGES:— D. McKenzie of Northcote was one of the prominent visitors to the exercises here yesterday. He was very much surprised at the fine school and the opportunities that are offered those who wish a liberal education, and felt assured that his part of Kittson would be well represented at the school.

BUSINESS BOOMING— Geo. F. Fuller, representing the Geo. E. Perley Real Estate Co. of Moorhead, spent yesterday in the city on business. The firm has branch offices at McIntosh and Erskine and is doing a big business. Mr. Fuller stated yesterday that there was a very notable increase in the demand for land and that prices were stiffening materially.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOLS ARE GREAT— Co. Commissioner Clow of Kittson county was an interested visitor at the dedication exercises yesterday. Mr. Clow is an old pioneer of the valley and had quite an interesting interview with Mr. Hill. He is an enthusiastic believer in manual training in schools and the development of agricultural teaching. Kittson county will have its full quota of students in the school, and his prediction is that in a few years the facilities will have to be increased considerably.

ONE NAME OMITTED— Thru an error yesterday the name of C. Reidesel was omitted in the list of those who composed the party who reviewed the parade of the school children yesterday from the balcony of the Hotel Crookston, the name of Carl Reidesel as a member of the school board was omitted. Mr. Reidesel is never found absent on such occasions and is one of the most active members of the board, and he was in thoro sympathy with the splendid scheme carried out yesterday.

LIST GROWING—The relief fund that has been raised by Fairfax township is growing. Mr. James Hedley's name has been added today for one dollar. Mr. Houston has the list and as soon as his duties on the canvassing board are completed he will pass the list again.

MELGAARD'S FRUIT—H. L. Melgaard shipped a box of sample apples plums and cherries to th eexperiment farm at Crookston on Tuesday. The fruit was grown in his orchard at Argyle and we are sure will compare favorably with the best that can be produced in the state.—Argyle Banner.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL —Rarely in the history of East Grand Forks has there been such a universal expression of sorrow and high esteem for the departed as were shown yesterday on the occasion of the obsequies of Mrs. J. C. Sherlock. Flags were at half mast, business was generally suspended, the schools were closed and the Church of the Sacred Heart where funeral services were held, was thronged to its capacity with friends, neighbors and citizens generally, who by their presence testified of the high regard in which the departed was held. The funeral cortege left the house at 9:45 and the service at the church was held at 10 o'clock. The chorus choir rendered a number of appropriate selections and Father Green, who preached the funeral discourse, and spoke words of comfort to the sorrowing friends, spoke very impressively of the worth of Mrs. Sherlock and of her devotion to her family and the church. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful. The cortege which followed the remains to their last resting place in Memorial Park was one of the longest ever seen here. The pall bearers were Messrs. T. A. Sullivan G. R. Jacobi, M. McGuire, H. Dunlevy J. R. Johnson and J. H. McNicol. The remains were laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery at Memorial Park. — Grand Forks Herald.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 5:59, rises 5:41; moon rises 12:39 a. m.; moon's age 24 days.

RAIN IN FANNY— Reports come in that a shower of rain fell last evening about seven miles north of the city. It was confined to a very small area.

A FINAL PLUNGE— Bert Levins left this morning for Maple Lake for a final plunge for the season. The weather the past few days has warmed the water of the lake in fine shape

WILL SEE TAFT— I. W. Kinder left this morning for a trip on the east line and will make a special hustle during the week in order to be in Crookston on Monday, Sept. 28, to see W. H. Taft.

RETURNS FROM N. D. — Henry Daubenberg returned last evening with his team from North Dakota where he has spent the fall threshing The exceptionally dry fall has made this a short season but profitable one.

SEWER SYSTEM—Mahnomen the enterprising seat of government of the county bearing the same name will shortly vote upon the proposition of bonding for $7,500 with which to construct a sewerage system.

LITTLE GIRL DIED — The two-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Westhover of East Grand Forks died yesterday after an illness of several weeks The funeral will take place from the residence this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

CHESTER OMLIE DEAD— Many friends in this city will learn with regret of the death in a Grand Forks Hospital recently of Chester Omlie of Grafton. He was a graduate of a local business college and while in the city made his home with Dr. and Mrs. O. L. Bertelson. He died of consumption with which he has been afflicted for some time.

A THREE DAYS' HUNT— Harry Chapin left this morning for Euclid accompanied by his cousin, Atty. Clyde Chapin of Moorhead, where the two will spend the next three days hunting the festive prarie chicken. E. D. Kittoe will leave on No. 405 this evening to join them for a hunt tomorrow.

PLEASED WITH CROP — E. M. Walsh returned yesterday from Kertsonville Township where threshig has just been completed on one of his farms. He says the farm was not in good shape, as he has had it but one year but the yield of oats and barley was good, the oats going 38 bushels to the acre on a 100 acre field.

MET WITH PAINFUL INJURY — Olaf Vingaard of northeastern Brandscold sustained a broken right arm and a cracked rib in falling from a load of hay that he was hauling to the barn last Saturday afternoon. A jolt to the wagon caused him to slide from the top to the ground upon which he struck, with his left side. The arm was broken above the wrist but his other injury was not serious.

NARROW ESCAPE—Mrs. George Tiedeman and little child who reside on the Prigge farm south of Ada came very near meeting with a serious accident Thursday evening while returning home. They were driving a single horse, which became frightened when a mile out of town. Mrs. Tiedeman was unable to control the horse and threw the child to the ground and then jumped. The child received injuries from which it remained unconscious for several hours.

Judge Morris and Ed Wilcox did some excellent shooting while here. The Judge killed a crow, 78 paces the first crack, with No. 6 shot. They got some chickens, also. They had a borrowed dog along, which had been trained evidently to run chickens down and catch them. He didn't catch them. He didn't catch any; they flew too blooming high.—Middle River Pioneer.

APPRECIATES HIS SUPPORT

"I desire to express my deep appreciation of the splendid support I received as a candidate for the Republican nomination for coroner of Polk Co., both in the city and in the rural districts The big vote I received exceeded my expectations and I thank the voters for their consideration of my candidacy. If elected in November I promise them a conscientious administration of the duties of the office.—N. P. Stenshoel."

CONSPIRACY OF MEN CHARGED

LAWRENCE ERICKSON BRINGS SUIT AGAINST G. N. FOR $12,000

SEEKS TO RECOVER FOR AN ALLEGED ASSULT AT WILLISTON

From Friday's Daily—

Lawrence Erickson yesterday filed suit in Minneapolis against the Great Northern railroad company for $12,000 damages for an alleged assault by one of its employes. He charges conspiracy to rob him against employes of the defendant's station at Williston, N. D.

In the complaint filed in the district ccurt Erickson said he went to the station and paid some freight on goods to be shipped out of Williston and in the freight house he was set upon and beaten by an employe of the road.

He called lustily for help he said, but neither the station agent or any of the other station men or trainmen came to his assistance. He says he had $200 in his pockets and was assaulted for the purpose of robbery.

BANTAM ROOSTER SPURS BOYS EYE'S

BABY McFARNSWARTH AT FARGO, VICTIM OF BANTY ROOSTER

To have both his eyes thrust thru with the sharp spurs of a fighting, game bantam rooster was the horrible accident that befell baby James McFarnsworth, the 2-year old son of A. C. Farnsworth last week at Fargo.

The scrappy bird belonged to a neighbor of McFarnsworth, A. Goldstein and it is said that the children of the neighborhood had been teasing it until it flew into a rage every time it saw a child.

The little McFarnsworth baby toddled into the Goldstein yard one afternoon and the rooster flew at his head and with two powerful strokes sent his long fighting spurs into both the baby's eyes. The litle one screamed with pain which drew Mrs. Goldstein's attention, and before the bird could make a second attack the baby was rescued from his frightful position.

The baby was taken to the Nordale hospital and placed under the care of Eye Specialist Rindlaub and since that time has been receiving his constant care and it is now believed that the sight of both eyes will be saved, altho both were terribly injured.

Mr. McFarnsworth the father of the child is known as "Big Mack" He has for the past two years been employed as head engineer by Contractor Jas. Kennedy.

NAP BRAY'S WATCH BALKED

Nap Bray has the most intelligent watch in the northwest and is in hearty sympathy with its owner. It was running fine when the city primary returns came in and when the Gentilly vote was announced it gained 5 minutes. But when the vote came in from East Grand Forks the main spring broke with a snap that made Nap think his suspenders had busted. The watch is now in the main spring hospital for repairs and Nap thinks more of it than ever. He is going to send the bill for repairs to Judge Sullivan and Ed Lodgord of E. G. Forks.

DULUTH MAN HIGHLY PLEASED

F. A. Patrick head of the big whole sale firm of F. A. Patrick Co., of Duluth, which is represented in this section by O. A. Halvorson of Crookston, arrived here Wednesday evening and remained in the city all day yesterday, returning to Duluth last evening. This was Mr. Patrick's first visit in Crookston, tho he has passed thru the city several times. He expressed the most lively satisfaction over the thriving appearance of Crookston and was specially impressed with the asphalt paving. He said there was not a city in the Northwest that presented a better appearance or showed a greater degree of prosperity than Crookston.

HENRY WELTE'S FATHER DEAD

Deputy Auditor Welte was called to Lengby last night by a telegram announcing the sudden death of his father, who had not even been reported as ill. Mr. Welte went out with Mr. Chesterman last night.

CHECK ARTIST GOT IN WORK

SEVERAL BUSINESS MEN CASHED CHECKS WHICH TURNED OUT FORGERIES

SOME OF THOSE BIT ARE KEEPING THEIR TROUBLES TO THEMSELVES

From Saturday's Daily—

A very busy check artist got his work i nlast Wednesday evening and Thursday morning cashing several checks among the business men of the city to which the names of John Hughes of Benoit was forged, and the forger got away with the money.

One of the forged checks cashed by Stanley Bond, the employment agent and confectioner was for $12 and another cashed by A. Sein, the dry goods merchant on North Main St., was for $20

About ten days ago a man giving the name of Geo. Hunting and his partner applied to Bond for a job and were sent to John Hughes' form enar Benoit. They worked there 6 days and returned to town. Wednesday evening Hunting came to Bond wth a check signed "John Hughes" and told a hard luck story about his mother being ill and his inablity to get the check cashed.

Bond knowing Hughes' check was good, cashed it, giving $10 in cash, $2 in tobacco.

Sein cashed the check for payment of a small purchase which Hunting made. Bond's check was number 19 and Sein's number 21 so at least two other parties cashed checks but are keeping it to themselves

Late Wednesday night Hughes telephoned to the police that his check book had been stolen but the police did not suppose that Hunting was going to get in his work so quickly, and did not notify the business men as most of them had closed up for the night. Hughes drove to the city Thursday morning early and stopped payment on all the checks. As Hunting has a full check book, he will without doubt get a few more cashed They are drawn on the Merchants National Bank of this city.

Hunting's partner is working on the Experiment farm. Hunting's former home was in Wisconsin, and while on the Hughes' farm told how much more money a convict could make in the Wisconsin penitentiary at Waupon than in the Minnesota Pen, and it is believed that he probably served time in the former and knows all about it.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE

WILL BE NAMED NEXT WEEK BY CHAIRMAN SULLIVAN OF CO. CONVENTION

WILL CONFER WITH CANDIDATES AT HOTEL CROOKSTON MONDAY AT 3 P. M.

Judge T. A. Sullivan of East Grand Forks, Chairman of the recent Republican County Convention has notified all the successful candidates for republican nomination for offices in Polk county that he will confer with them at the Hotel Crookston next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock relative to he naming of the Republican county Central Committee

He delayed the naming of the committee till after the primaries were over in order to give the candidates a voice in the personnel of the committee and he will receive suggestions from them at the gatherng he has called in this city next Monday, as it is his purpose to name a committee that will be in full accord with the majority of the candidates of the republican party.

FIELD PEA CROP YIELDED WELL

THRESHING OPERATIONS ARE IN FULL BLAST ON STATE FARM TODAY.

Threshing operations are in full blast on the State Experiment Farm today. The field peas, about ten acres were threshed yesterday afternoon and yielded well, and will make splendid feed for the hogs, pea feed pork being superior to even the corn feed porkers. As soon as the other grain is thereshed, the hogs at the State Farm will be turned into the pea field and will have good feeding untill snow flies. The flax crop is being threshed today and all grain will be finished on Monday.

Success never comes to the man who is satisfied with anything else.

THRILLING EXPERIENCE

TOM LOGAN WITH WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN NARROWLY ESCAPE DROWNING

TRIED TO CROSS FERRY THAT WAS NOT ANCHORED—BOTH HORSES DROWNED

From Monday's Daily—

A few days ago Tom Logan, with his wife and two children barely escaped a tragic death by drowning in the Red River on the ferry crossing from Tynsid to North Dakota, but came out of th eadventure with the loss of the team he was driving, both horses drowning. Mr. Logan with his family in the wagon, started to drive on the ferry but as the horses stepped on the boat, it was found to be unanchored and was pushed out into the river. Mr. Lagon could not stop the team as the hill was steep, and team wagon and entire family were hurled into the swirling water. The children managed to reach the bank but Mr. Logan had great difficulty in saving Mrs. Logan She went down twice and was going under for the third time when he managed to reach her, and after a desperate struggle landed her on the bank, both being completely exhausted, as Mr. Logan was not an expert swimmer and marvels now that both did not drown. The horses got tangled up in the harness, and with the wagon dragging them both were forced under the water before they could be released.

THREE RIBS WERE BROKEN

R. ERDMAN THE VICTIM OF A MOST PAINFUL ACCIDENT RECENTLY

TRIED TO STOP RUNAWAY AND WAS TRAMPLED AND RUN OVER BY WAGON

From Monday's Daily—

Last Friday while helping a neighbor thresh R. Erdman north of the city left his team standing untied near the machine. Three children climbed into the wagon and chirruped to the horses. They started up the lines fell to the ground and they went across the field at a mad gallop. Mr. Erdman seeing the imminent danger of the children dashed in front of the team and managed to catch them by the bits. He was knocked to the ground and trampled under their feet, and both wheels ran over his prostrate body breaking three ribs and otherwise bruising him up badly, but he will recover. The team ran a short distance and stopped of their own accord, none of the children being injured at all.

JOE CARROL IS ARRESTED

CHARGED WITH THE CRIME OF ABDUCTION—BROUGHT LUCILE PIERCE TO G. FORKS

Joe Carrol was arrested in Fargo Sunday evening on a charge of abduction and was held to the district court for trial under bonds of $1,000 which he has been unable to furnish being held in the Cass county jail for trial. Carrol is charged with abducting little Miss Lucile Pierce and it will be remembered that the two were in Grand Forks about three weeks since.

The Grand Forks police became suspicious of the two while they were there and started an investigation which resulted in the Pierce girl being sent back to Fargo. On her arrival there she told her story to Sheriff Hunt of Cass county which resulted in a warrant on a charge of abduction.

The Renewal a Strain

Vacation is over. Again the school bell rings at morning and at noon, again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the renewal of which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged. The little girl that a few days ago had roses in her cheeks, and the little boy whose lips were then so red you would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries" have already cost something of the appearance of health. Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic which may avert much serious trouble, and we know of no other so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestion and assimilation and aids mental deveopment by building up the whole system.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE

CHAIRMAN SULLIVAN APPOINTS THE REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

ACTIVE WORK WILL AT ONCE BEGIN FOR A STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN

From Tuesday's Daily—

Judge T. A. Sullivan, chairman of the Republican county convention yesterday afternoon held a conference with the successful republican candidates for nomination, every one of them participating in the meeting but Representatives Saugstad and Holten, and immediately following the conference announced the following Polk County Central Committee.

Republican County Committee

O. O. Christianson,
Crookston—
J. E. Montague.
H. C. Mismer.
Carl Riedesel.
J. C. Sathre.
Napoleon Bray.
N. S. Davies.
East Grand Forks—
B. J. Hagen.
J. R. Johnson.
N. J. Nelson.
Fosston—
S. S. Stadsvold.
L. G. Hancock.
McIntosh—
K. K. Hoffard.
M. Bergsven.
G. Espeseth, Erskine.
L. S. Kolden, Nielsville.
Don Hamilton, Fisher.
Fertile—
P. R. Lavik.
A. Opheim.
H. B. Budd, Beltrami.
Dr. J. S. Chapin, Euclid.
Helmer Estenson, Climax
H. T. Gendron, Gentilly.
Albert Lillo, Lengby.

Active Work

Chairman Christianson will call a meeting of the committee before the end of the week and active preparations for conducting a vigorous campaign will be made.

The committee will make elaborate preparations for a monster demonstration on Monday afternoon, Sept. 28, when Hon. Wm. H. Taft will be in Crookston for an address. This will be the opening gun of the campaign and from that time forward the county will be stumped by good speakers with the expectation of lining up the republicans for the best front they have presented in many years past.

Jacobson will Come

J. F. Jacobson has promised to make at least two speeches in Polk county and an effort will be made to get him for three addresses, at East Grand Forks, Crookston and Fosston, with short stops at other towns enroute if possible.

The committee is regarded as a particularly strong one, the aim of Judge Sullivan being to select active and enthusiastic republicans with a good following and hard workers, rather than passing around honors. The county will be organized as it has not been for many years and a determined effort made to get Polk County back into a straight republican county instead of on the doubtful list.

ACTUAL SETTLERS COMING DAILY

LAND MEN REPORT GREATER INTEREST IN NORTHWEST THAN EVER BEFORE

Jos Ball the land man returned this morning from a trip thru Illinois and reports a renewed interest all thru that section in Red River Valley lands. He had a bunch of prospective buyers with him.

Better still he was accompanied by Lester Safford and his family of wife and five children from Rockford, Ill., who will move onto section 21 in Crookston township, the farm recently purchased by Mr. Safford. They have with them two carloads of stock and implements that will be taken out at once. Mr. Safford is the stamp of a man who will make a success of his farming in the valley.

Under the new law it is the duty of the county auditor to call the first meeting of a newly organized school district. District No. 2778 in the towns of Fairfax and Russia was organized at the last commissioners' meeting and the auditor has designated Saturday evening October 3rd as the date of holding the first meeting at which the officers are to be elected and levies made for moneys to finance the coming year.

Beware of the little fellows. Mosquitoes are more bloodthirsty than lions.

BIG BOOST FOR ROSEAU

OLE HAGEN SAYS POLITICS HAVE BEEN FORGOTTEN IN ROSEAU

SINCE J. J. HILL PROMISED EXTENSION OF ROAD BEFORE JANUARY 1ST

Ole E. Hagen, formerly of this city and republican nominee for County Auditor of Roseau county was one of the many Roseau visitors here at the dedication of Stephens hall and during his stay in the city the Journal scribe undertook to make him the subject for his inquisitive skill. How are politics in Roseau county?' the scribe queried. "Forgotten," came the laconic answer.

"Forgotten"? the scribe repeated with some amazement, "how can that be?"

"Plain as daylight, my dear scribe. The positive announcement that we finally will have a railroad through the county made us all forget politics. The successful candidates forgot their victory, and the unsuccessful ones forgot their defeat.

"Since the very organization of the county we have been struggling along in our isolated condition deprived of railroad communication with the outside world. It has been a trying period of time, and now, when we see the smiling face of the future fast approaching with well merited reward for patience why should we not be jubilant? Roseau county will in time be one of the greatest counties in the state of Minnesota. Please do not smile at such a statement. Its possibilities are at present neither known nor understood.

"Why every day during my travel canvassing the county I met with surprises. As early as the latter part of August, stopping with farmers I was served with nice mature corn at the dinner table. Not only can corn and wheat be raised in Roseau County but I would like to have strangers come up there and look at our clover fields.

"Knut Lee of Wanaska made a trial with clover a few years ago and he has cut two big crops off the same piece of ground ever since. And if any one doubts this let him go there and look at his clover field and behold the second crop still growing on it. It will surprise anybody.

"A creamery was built at Wanaska last year, and it pays out to its patronizers from 9 to 12 hundred dollars a month—pretty good for a small backwoods place is it not? The creamery at Badger pays out as high as $100 a month to some of its patrons. And I am informed that the creameries at Greenbush and Ross are doing equally as well.

"Yes, Roseau county is a splendid dairy country and with railroad facilities its possibilities will soon develope. With new hope will follow more activity and energy, more roads and ditches will be built and the Roseau prairies, dotted with groves and thickets, will reward its tillers with abundant crops and comfortable homes. During the trying years a few have despaired and left so at present the price of land is low but I look for a rapid advance in land values. This is the time for outsiders with moderate means to secure future homes in Roseau county."

HAD HEARING ON A STATE DITCH

State Drainage Engineer Geo. A. Ralph and Messrs. Falconer and Armsted of Aitkin were in Brainerd today attending a hearing in what is known as the Gun Lake ditch in northwestern Aitkin county. The ditch is to be 23 miles long and will be eight feet deep in places with a width of ten feet on the bottom. It will drain a large tract of meadow.

Mr. Ralph accompanied the state drainage commission and Gov. Johnson north on the Minnesota & International railroad to view ditch work in the north part of the state.

The auditor and secretary of state were with the party which numbered eight. General Manager Gemmell kindly placed the M. & I. engine at the disposal of the party to take their car to the various places along the line of that road which intersects all three of the state ditches in Koochiching county.

SUSPECTED OF KILLING WIFE

JACOB UNGERMAN QUARRELED WITH HIS WIFE AND ATTACKED HER WITH HATCHET

HIRED MAN INTERFERED—WOMAN DISAPPEARED UNDER SUSPICIOUS CONDITIONS

From Tuesday's Daily—

Jacob Ungerman a homesteader living near Margie was lodged in the county jail at International Falls and will be kept there pending developments as to the disappearance of his wife, who has been missing since September 10, when Ungerman quarreled with Mrs. Ungerman and the latter left her home, declaring she would go away.

It appears that Ungerman is a man whose reputation as an undesirable character is of common knowledge in the vicinity of his home; and it is asserted that he has on several occasions previous, beat his wife and mistreated her in a brutal manner.

On Sept. 10th Ungerman had a bitter quarrel with his wife and made a vicious attack on her with a hatchet, a tragedy being averted by the timely interference of a man who was working for Ungerman.

Mrs. Ungerman left the house declaring that she was going to Margie and would leave the country.

Ungerman also left the premises going in an opposite direction from that which his wife went.

When Ungerman returned he told the hired man that Mrs. Ungerman had not gone to Margie as he had been there and had not seen her.

Ungerman's subsequent actions aroused the suspicions of his neighbors, who believe that he has made away with his wife and has taken steps to conceal his crime.

It is said by the hired man that Ungerman has taken a lantern every evening since the 21st inst., and has gone out over the maple ridge near home and has remained an hour or more saying nothing of his visit or its object.

There is a suspicion that Ungerman knows of the whereabouts of his wife, and some are not backward in asserting their belief that he took her life, as he had been previously fined for assaulting her.

A searching party found some bloody clothes but up to the present writing no word has been received here indicating that the body of Mrs. Ungerman had yet been found.

Ungerman is about 35 years of age and has three children the oldest being 7 years.

OLD RESIDENT DIED SUDDENLY

MOTHER OF MRS. W. B. SHEFFIELD DIED AT ADA LAST EVENING

From Tuesday's Daily—

Last evening at 8 o'clock while sitting at a table eating a lunch Mrs. Elizabeth Fulton, wife of Mr. Samuel Fulton dropped over dead as a result of heart failure.

Deceased was 71 years of age and her husband 82. They had been married 56 years and settled at Ada in 1877 coming from Red Wing and have resided there ever since. The family is one of the best known in Norman county and northern Minnesota, Mr. and Mrs. Fulton having operated a summer hotel at Maple Lake for several years. Deceased was a woman of splendid character whose watchword was charity, and she was beloved by all who knew her In addition to her husband she leaves several children to mourn her death including Mrs. W. B. Sheffield of this city who left for Ada this morning in an automobile with Mr. Sheffield, Mrs. Patterson of the Ada hotel, Miss Minnie Fulton who resided with her parents, Dave Fulton, county auditor of Norman county and Jack Fulton of Humboldt.

LAND OPENING TAME AFFAIR

The land opening last Tuesday was the tamest affair that has ever been pulled off in this office since its establishment. Everything was in readiness for the applicant and almost every aplicant was an actual settler and had been for weeks before the opening day. Fifty-five entries were made on Tuesday, and yet there are several to file who are taking the time allowed by law. So far but one contest is in sight, and that may never be brought to the office. Some 8,000 acres of land were located and entered and while there are yet some vacant tracts they do not seem to be desirable and may remain open for years.—Cass Lake Times.

LEFT PURSE WITH $500 IN BILLS DRAFT FOR $500 AND TICKET TO SEATTLE.

From Tuesday's Daily—

Yesterday morning William Wilson of Skagway, Alaska, arrived in East Grand Forks and spent the day there enroute to the land of the Aurora Borealis, gold and icebergs, continuing his journey last evening. Just before dinner he strolled into Hagastad's news depot and purchased a souvenir postal card or two to send out to friends. He had occasion to place his pocketbook on the counter and when he left the store was absent-minded enough to go off without it.

About three o'clock while over on the west side he put his hand over the place where he usually carried the book, in his inside pocket, and at once noted its absence. The discovery brought him up standing and possibly he gasped a few times as he considered his predicament, left with only a little change in his pocket, and far from home. After speculating a moment as to the manner in which he had been robbed, the visit to Hagastad's place occured to him, and he quickly made tracks for the place, with more or less misgiving.

He found the pocketbook just where he had left it, although scores of people had been doing business over the same counter in the interim and the pocketbook was in full sight. He asked Mr. Hagastad why he didn't open it and the newsvendor replied that he thought if the owner wanted it he would return for the pocketbook. Then the stranger opened the pocketbook and disclosed the contents, which included $500 in bills, a draft on a Seattle bank for $500 and t railway ticket to Seattle. He took his departure after expressing his thanks for recovering the pocketbook and continued his journey last evening.

CONFERING ON DITCH NO. 73

COUNTY BOARD IN SPECIAL SESSION TODAY—DITCH HEARING

Commissioners Ecklund, Clements, Thoreson and Driscoll met this morning at the court house, and are holding a hearing to give all parties interested for or against establishing ditch number 73 east of Beltrami an opportunity to be heard. F. W. Renz, Senator Works and Knute Aker were heard on the proposition. There does not seem to be much opposition and no difficulties will be encountered in establishing it.

Tomorrow the board will go to the town of Godfrey to inspect a ditch recently completed there.

TIME IS THE TEST

The Testimony of Crookston People Stands the Test

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Crookston people appreciate merit and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just a srepresented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. Benj. Champagne of 322 Spendley St. Crookston, Minn., says: "I can just as enthusiastically endorse Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did six years ago. At that time they proved of great benefit to me in banishing a dull, annoying backache which clung to me despite my earnest endeavors to get rid of it. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention I procured a box at the Wallace drug store. I found relief from the first dose or two and soon the pains in my back were entirely removed. The difficulty with the kidneys was also ended and I was improved in every way. Up to date the relief has remained permanent."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents fo rthe United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

EARLY HUNTERS IN THE TOILS

THAYER BROTHERS NEAR FOSSTON PAY PENALTY OF "SOONERS"

PROVED MORE EXPENSIVE THAN ANOTHER PARTY WHO ADMITTED GUILT

From Monday's Daily—

Two more hunters in this section discovered that the game laws of the state were enacted for a purpose Saturday when Matt and John Thayer residing 5 miles south of Fosston were fined $18.15 by Judge Shulind of Fosston for hunting on August 19, and in addition their guns were confiscated. They were arrested some time ago with Ben Thayer. The latter admitted his guilt and got off with an $11.75 fine. The other two decided to fight the case and were held in $100 bonds. Saturday when they were to have their hearing they discovered Game Warden Munch on the ground with the evidence ready to prosecute, and both entered a plea of guilty and were fined enough more to defray the expense that had been gone to by the state to prepare a case against them.

It is such vigorous prosecutions during the past few years that resulted in the hunters from St. Paul and Minneapolis being able to ship in more birds the first week of September this year than they shipped in all last year put together. This statement was made by Executive Agent Carlos Avery and Sam Fullerton of the State Game and Fish Commission when they were here last Thursday with the fish car and 43 cans of bass and croppies for Maple Lake. And by the way the shipment of bass was the finest that ever left the hatcheries, some of them being from 5 to 7 inches n length.

RELIEF FUND NEAR $130,000

RESPONSE OF PEOPLE TO CHISHOLM'S CRY FOR HELP IS GENEROUS.

MONEY WILL BE USED TO FURNISH MATERIAL FOR THE REBUILDING.

From Tuesday's Daily—

The relief fund for the fire victims of Chisholm will reach a total of nearly 130,000 in money subscribed in the cities and towns of the state. Over $100,000 of that amount is already at the disposal of the committee, which will use the money for the relief of the suffers and other contributions are still coming in.

Minneapolis has closed her accounts at approximately the $50,000 mark. St. Paul's contributions amount to $24,939.75, not counting the $5,000 subscribed by James J. Hill. This money was sent by the railroad magnate directly to Duluth and was incorporated in the fund that is being collected there.

Nearly $40,000 has been turned in to H. M. Peyton, treasurer of the relief committee in Duluth. The figures last night were $38,234.29, and constantly growing. There are still several outstanding subscriptions that have not been paid in.

This money will not be distributed directly to the fire victims. It will be used to supply building material and furniture necessary to provide comfortable dwellings for the homeless during the coming winter. The apportionment will be in charge of the relief committee appointed by Governor Johnson, working in conjunction with the local relief committee at Chisholm, and the representatives of Minneapolis and St. Paul. R. T. Lies, manager of the Associated Charities at Minneapolis and Manager Guthridge of the St. Paul Associated Charities, are the Twin Cities representatives.

Mayor McPhee announced this morning that on Friday next the money raised in Crookston for the relief of the Chisholm fire suffers would be forwarded by Treasurer Misner to the General relief committee so that all those who intended to donate should send in their subscriptions at once. It is very desireous that Crookstons contribution should be at least $200, but it is somewhat short of that sum now.

GOSSMAN IS NAMED

GOVERNOR JOHNSON HAS APPOINTED HIM AS MUNICIPAL JUDGE

TO PRESIDE OVER COURT RECENTLY PROVIDED FOR IN CROKSTON

From Tuesday's Daily—

Governor John A. Johnson yesterday appointed Louis A. Gossman special municipal judge at Crookston. The office was created by council ordinance and the appointment was made at the recommendation of the Crookston bar.

As Judge Gossman is at Bagley with his brother enjoying a duck hunt and will not return till Thursday evening or Friday morning he could not be communicated with and cannot receive his commission until he returns. In the meantime the ducks should fall out of respect to his official toga, whether he fills them with shot or not.

TWO NEW POST OFFICES

PETITION FOR TWO NEW POST OFFICES GOOD INDICATION OF DEVELOPMENT

FORMER CROOKSTON LADY WILL BE POSTMISTRESS OF AGNES POST OFFICE

From Tuesday's Daily—

The settlement of the towns along the upper Red Lake in adjoining towns in Koochiching county has been so rapid that petitions are out for two new postoffices in that territory. One will be located in the town of Eland, with O. L. Lindquist as postmaster, while the other will be located in town 153-29, Koochiching county and will be known as Agnes and Mrs. T. M. Sorlie will be postmistress.

It is purposed to supply the new offices from Kelliher the carrier making three trips weekly, going one day and returning the next.

Should the office and star route be established, an effort will be made to supply Otto, Shotly and Domaas with mail from this route making connections at Eland instead of at Foy as now.

The two new offices will supply the mail to approximately 75 families.

A NEW LAKE LEVEL FAVORED

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS APPOINT COMMITTEE TO LOOK OVER SITUATION

ORVIS HINDS WAS NAMED AS ENGINEER ON DITCH NO. SEVENTY-NINE

The Board of County Commissioners will probably complete an important three days' session this afternoon a large amount of routine business having been disposed of today in addition to much important business.

A committee of three, consisting of Commissioners Ecklund, Clements and Ringdahl were appointed to go to Maple Lake and look over the proposed dyke and road at the outlet the dyke to raise the lake level somewhat. County Surveyor Orvis Hinds was named as engineer for Ditch No. 79 which is an outlet to another ditch running thru Andover and adjoining townships.

REV. O. JACOBSON DIES SUDDENLY

FORMER WELL KNOWN CROOKSTON PASTOR EXPIRES IN ST. PAUL

A telegram was received in the city this morning by friends announcing the death in St. Paul this morning of Rev. O. Jacobson after a very short illness. Rev. Jacobson preached in his church last Sunday morning, but in the afternoon was taken suddenly ill and a diagnosis by several doctors showed acute appendicitis and gall stones. An operation was performed by Dr. Buckman Sunday afternoon and the patient sank steadily from that time till the end came this morning.

The shock is severely felt by many friends and former parishioners in Crookston, Rev. Jacobson having been pastor of the Norwegian M. E. church in this city for two years. He was a very robust and healthy man, never having experienced a sick day in his life up to the time he concluded his pastorate in Crookston. He was very popular with his parishioners and with the public at large.

The deceased pastor leaves a daughter, Alice, from whom the telegram bearing the sad news was received this morning.

FOSSTON WON FOOTBALL GAME

At Fosston Saturday the Fosston High School Football team defeated the Bemidji High School aggregation by the score of 12 to 0. It was a hard fought battle all the way through but the Fosston boys showed more training and also had a little the best of the deal on weight.

WILL TEST IN COURTS

STORY TO EFFECT THAT NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

WILL TEST THE ALLEGED "INELIGIBLE" LEGISLATORS WHO WERE REELECTED.

From Wednesday's Daily—

Before the recent primaries, the Journal gave space to the question which has been raised as to the eligibility of members of the last legislature to serve if they were re-elected, prior to one year after their present terms expired. For doing this, we were accused with being nearly everything short of a murderer.

Apparently, the Journal is not the only newspaper published in the state which has a misgiving as to the ruling placed on this question by Attorney General Young, who decided that the members in question would be eligible.

It now appears that there is a grave doubt as to the eligibility, and that the democrats think the chance so good that they intend to contest in the courts, where, if successful in maintaining in the supreme court that re-elected members are ineligible to serve, they will attempt to seat democratic members of the legislature who are candidates at the general election for legislative honors, but who will be defeated by the republicans, members of the last legislature.

The Minneapolis Journal, in a recent issue, contained the following:

"A story that the national democratic committee intends to unseat every re-elected republican legislator in Minnesota this year, threw a scare into the camp of the republicans.

"The state democratic committee, according to the story, has ascertained through nationally famous attorneys, hired by the national democratic committee, that legislators who voted to increase their own salaries last year cannot serve this year.

"In spite of the attorney general's ruling that these men can serve," said a prominent republican, laying bare the plot, "the national committee intends to take the fight into the courts."

"This will not be done untill after election, however. When the re-elected republican legislators take their seats the court action will begin.

"If the courts hold that the Minnesota law regarding the re-election of officials who raise their own salaries is valid, the republicans will be unseated. Under the law the next highest candidate, who of course will be a democrat, will be seated.

"If the democrats play the trick it will certainly be a bad one. It might make Minnesota entirely democratic. That's why the national committee is interested."

WHERE IS J. T. TAFT?

MAN WHO DISAPPEARED FROM GRAND RAPIDS HAS BEEN LOST TWO MONTHS.

WAS SUPPOSED TO HAVE COME TO CROOKSTON. WHERE IS HE?

From Wednesday's Daily—

A sensation has been sprung from Grand Rapids, Minn., through the complete disappearance of J. T. Taft of that place who has not been seen or heard of for the past two months. It appears that Mr. Taft, who is a well known logger of Grand Rapids left just two months ago for Crookston, saying that he intended going to the old Buffington farm northwest of this city to see E. H. Barnes the present lessee of the place in an endeavor to secure work for his horses untill it froze up.

Mr. Barnes had sent his horses to work in the woods for Mr. Taft for many years past and nothing was thought of the non-appearance of Mr. Taft for some time. Finally Mr. Barnes was communicated with and it was learned that Mr. Taft had never put in an appearance at the Buffington farm at all.

A relative who worked for a farmer named Armstrong, near Buffington was written and he also had seen nothng of Taft.

C. A. Tullar, a prominent resident of Grand Rapids took the matter up and he has been unable to find anything of Taft though he has searched high and low.

Charles Forest, of Grand Rapids, a brother of the missing man has instituted a search for Taft and has received absolutely no word of him.

The missing man has a wife and one child who want to hear of his whereabouts. Taft is described as a short, thick-set man, 50 years of age and smooth faced.

About 13 years ago Taft disappeared and was absent for 6 years when he suddenly reappeared, gave no explanation, took up his business where he had left it and has been attending to it ever since till his disappearance two months ago.

There was nothing in connection with his finances that would have caused his disappearance, and opinion s divided as to whether he has made away with himself, has been the victim of foul play, or has strayed off in a state of mental abberation.

PROPOSITION DEFEATED

RED LAKE COUNTY VOTED HEAVILY AGAINST SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

CLOSE PROXIMITY OF CROOKSTON SCHOOL PROBABLE CAUSE

From Wednesday's Daily—

Yesterday in Red Lake County there was a special election on the question as to whether the board of county commissioners of that county should be authorized to have spread upon the tax rolls a special levy amounting to no less than $15,000 nor more than $20,000 to establish a county school of Agriculture at St Hilaire. The proposition was defeated by an overwhelming majority. The official returns have not yet been received but unofficial returns are to the effect that Thief River Falls gave only 52 votes for the proposition and 232 against, Red Lake Falls 43 for and 98 against, Plummer none for and 32 against, and the townships about Plummer as far as received went from 25 to 40 all against.

This enough to show that the levy has been defeated by an overwhelming majority, probably about 5 or 7 to 1.

Every paper in Red Lake County favored the scheme excepting the Plummer Pioneer, which opposed it, and Editor Latta naturally feels gratified over the result.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

PLANNED BY THE REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE YESTERDAY

LARGE ATTENDANCE PRESENT FROM ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTY

From Tuesday's Daily—

The Polk county republican central committee met yesterday afternoon for the first time and outlined a plan of action. The necessary money was arranged for, and Chairman O. O. Christianson will attend the meeting in St. Paul, October 2nd when the state committee will lay plans for the county committees, after which a vigorous campaign will be carried out in Polk Co., such as has not been attempted in the past ten years.

The committee met in Chairman O. O. Christianson's office and the following were:

BIG CREW IN POTATO PATCH

J. W. LEE FARM HAS TWO POTATO DIGGERS AND 14 MEN AT WORK

The J. W. Lee farm is one of the busiest places in Polk county at the present writing. Two modern potato diggers are at work and in addition 14 men are employed in the same work. Nearly 150 acres of potatoes were planted on this farm this year and a big return is promised, tho the work of digging has not progressed far enough as yet to accurately estimate the yield.

JOHN NELSON FOUND DEAD

AT FRONT OF THE MARKET STREET RESTAURANT LAST EVENING

DISCOVERED BY JOE. FARLEY—SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN ON LONG SPREE

From Tuesday's Daily—

Last evening Joe Farley, a farmer west of the city, while passing near the City scales, noticed a man lying half on the platform and half in the street at the front of the City Market Restaurant. He asked Peter Peterson, proprietor of the restaurant why he did not pick the man up and Peterson said that he had just put him out of the restaurant as the fellow appeared sick at the stomach and he did not want his place mussed up.

Farley than ran for a policeman and Captain Vonderbeck responded and when they returned the sick man was expiring. Dr. Just was called but life had fled before his arrival.

Corner Chesterman was called and he discovered that the man's name was John Nelson who has been in and about this city for about ten years though nothing is known about his relatives.

Peterson, the restaurant proprietor was placed in custody, as was also John Straeter, a partner of the deceased.

Inquest in Progress

This afternoon at 3 o'clock Coroner Chesterman summoned a coroners jury composed of the following men: E. M. Lancaster, Arthur Johnson, Jos Winfield, John Munroe, Louis Cottet and A. Laliberti and the inquest is now in progress.

A. Cornelius was the first witness called but his testimony was devoid of anything sensational. He testified that deceased acted as tho he was ill and Peterson took him by the shoulders and lead him outside. Jos Farley and other witnesses were subpoenaed and the inquest will not be finished till late this afternoon.

Dr. Randolph county and city physician, held a post mortem over the remains this morning and decided that death was due to acute alcoholism.

HELD BUSY SESSION

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS HAVE LARGE AMOUNT OF IMPORTANT BUSINESS

DITCH MATTERS REVIEWED AND COUNTY BRIDGE REPORTS RECEIVED

From Tuesday's Daily—

The County Commissioners continued their session today, the political rally having interfered with their business. They are considering the appointment of an engineer for Ditch 79 which is an enlargement of the outlet of No. 72 in Onstad, Russia and Andover.

A resolution was passed dividing the funds for a new school district No. 276 in the town of Brandsvold and Helgeland, taken from Districts 229 and 240.

A petition numerously signed for construction of a dyke to govern the level of Maple Lake, which is to be made level for road purposes was received. The dyke is to be constructed across the lower outlet of the lake on the Bergeson farm and the commissioners will name a time for hearing and to look over the ground.

The Climax and Fertile bridges were accepted, the latter being entirely of cement, but the one at Valley Postoffice over Sand Hill river was rejected and will have to be rebuilt.

TRI-STATE TEL. WANT FRANCHISE

CITY BEING CANVASSED WITH VIEW TO PUTTING IN LONG DISTANCE BOOTHS

NEW LINE IN COURSE OF ERECTION BETWEEN THIS CITY AND MOORHEAD

From Saturday's Daily—

H. M. Rounce, manager of the Tri-State Telephone and Telegraph Co., is spending the day in the city and is out interviewing the business men of the city with a view to putting in long distance booths in various parts of the city and if he meets with any encouragement will ask that the city council grant the company a franchise for that purpose.

At present the company has a line which skirts the city limits on the north and continues on to Thief River Falls and the connection with this city could easily be made.

Mr. Rounce has a number of convincing arguments to lay before the business men and will no doubt meet with success in his canvass.

At present the Tri-State people have two crews of 30 men each working in both directions from Halstad on a new line being built from this city to Moorhead and which will connect with their line north of the city.

Some time is expected to be used in thoroly canvassing the business men of the city. No effort will be made to put in an exchange.

TYPHOID FEVER AFFECTED MIND

Deputy Sheriff Johnson of Bemidji passed thru the city last evening enroute to Fergus Falls having in custody Miss Hulda Bloomquist of Beaudette who was committed to the asylum, her mind having been affected after a severe run of typhoid fever. Her friends expect that she will recover very soon, as her case is not a severe one.

RUNAWAY TEAM DOES MIRACULOUS STUNT

One of the narrowest escapes from injury in a runaway occurred in Thief River Falls last Saturday afternoon when a team of farm horses attached to a heavy wagon traversed the whole length of Soo railway bridge that crosses the Red Lake River at that place. The bridge is at least two blocks long and approached by high fills at both ends. It is very narrow and the ties that constitute its sole covering are square and about 6 inches apart. The team took fright near the south end of the bridge and rushed at full speed across, and were stopped near the Soo station. The horses were not injured and the wagon was intact. The bridge is not much wider than a wagon track, and without rail or guard of any kind, and at least 20 feet above the water.

BORRSON AN OLD TIMER

OLE BORRSON RETURNS AFTER AN ABSENCE OF 25 YEARS

SEES A BIG CHANGE IN COUNTRY AND OLD LAND MARKS GONE

Ole Borrson arrived in the city last week from Illinois on his way to visit his half brother Mr. Anderson, of the town of Reiner, Marshall Co., Mr. Borrson was one of the old timers of this section but it has been 25 years since he has resided here. In those days there were few railroads and John LaBree was the only resident of Thief River Falls his homestead now being a part of the city of Thief River Falls.

In those days Mr. Borrson was employed in Stanley Collins livery barn and made frequent drives thruout this section, taking out many of the new settlers who had located upon homesteads. He sees a wonderful change and improvement in the country, and but few of the old land marks and roads are now recognized by him. Speaking of Thief River Falls, Mr. Borrson says that he always predicted that there would be a good sized city at the junction of the Thief and Red Lake rivers, but did not expect to find as large a city

STODDARD GOT 20 YEARS

BRUTE ATTEMPTED ASSAULT ON NINE YEAR OLD GIRL IN BELTRAMI CO.

DISTRICT COURT AT BEMIDJI ADJOURNED—HELD ONLY SHORT TERM.

From Saturday's Daily—

Justin Stoddard, would-be detective engineer and jack-of-all-trades, who was convicted at the Beltrami Co., term of court at Bemidji of having attempted to carnally know a female child under the age of 16 years, will srve a term of twenty years at hard labor in the state's prison at Stillwater, Judge McClenahan having imposed the sentence upon Stoddard yesterday afternoon, when Stoddard was arranged for sentence.

The sentence imposed on Stoddard meets with the general approval of the public, as the evidence at the trial had convinced those attending court that Stoddard was guilty.

The little girl upon whom Stoddard attempted his brutal crime positively identified him as her assailant, and the prisoner himself, while on the stand appeared used to court notoriety and was not one whit abashed by the fact that he was charged with one of the most brutal crimes on the calendar.

A few more minor cases were tried and then Judge Stanton adjourned the term of court according to the agreement reached between himself and Judge McClenahan to the effect that the jurors would not be compelled to serve as long as the county warrants are not marketable.

ANOTHER BUNCH OF LAND BUYERS

R. H. Purvis arrived this morning from Mankato with three land seekers who will be shown some choice farms in this section. Mr. Purvis says the demand for Red River Valley land is more pronounced this fall than it has been for the past five years. The satisfactory crop, and the splendid appearance of the country generally makes a most favorable impression and even at advanced prices, sales are easy comparatively.

The charge against them was grand larceny, preferred by a former client of the firm.

GIRLS LOST THEIR TRUNKS

THREE YOUNG LADIES FROM DRAKE ARE ROBBED OF TRUNKS AND GRIPS

WERE STARTING FOR SCHOOL—TRUNKS ARE FOUND BUT CONTENTS RIFLED

From Saturday's Daily—

A mysterious occurrence is reported as having occurred at Drake, N. D., last night. Three young ladies living in that town were starting away from home for an eastern school. The trunks were taken to the depot and they stepped in to buy their tickets When they came out the trunks had disappeared. No wagon had been heard but over half a mile from town the trunks were found their contents strewn about the prairie and many valuables missing. The authorities are making every effort to locate the guilty parties but so far they have secured no clue.

THREE INDIANS COMPLETE SENTENCE

BACK TO THE FREE AND EASY LIFE OF THE RESERVATION

The big buck Indian, May-qua-me-way, whose name translated is "Sitting on the ice" (Isn't that a comfortable name to carry around such weather as this?) returned to his home on the reservation Tuesday. He and two friends, No-te-ne-be-ness and Charley Mek-ee-nock, or "Windry prairie chicken" and "Snapping turtle" had been in our midst for the past sixty days as guests of Sheriff Nelson. The Indians were arrested for killing and selling big game out of season. The sale was made to John Lundblad was also arrested at the time. Wm. Munch deputy game warden, went to the reservation and apprehended them there. Mr. Lundblad was also arrested. All plead guilty to charges preferred against them. Mr. Lundblad paid a fine of fifty dollars and costs. The Indians decided that they would rather spend sixty days in the county jail than to spend any of their money. As the Indians boarded the northbound train Tuesday they almost smiled. — Red Lake Falls Gazette.

ALL FIRES DYING DOWN

THE TRAIN MEN ARRIVING ON THE DULUTH TRAIN THIS MORNING

BELIEVE ALL DANGER IS PAST NEAR CASS LAKE AND BEMIDJI

From Friday's Daily—

The train crew arriving this morning from Cass Lake and Bemidji stated that practically all the forest fires in that direction had died out with the exception of a very few small fires which do not threaten any of the Duluth line cities at the present time. There is no immediate danger felt anywhere along the Duluth line. The rain of day before yesterday, and showers since that time have practically extinguished every blaze, and unless heavy winds prevail, and the weather is extremely dry there is no further apprehension felt for the safety of any of the towns

Reports have been received during the last few days, however, of several settlers who have been completely burned out, losing everything they had.

WOODSMEN START FOR TALL TIMBER

ONE HUNDRED OF THEM FORM THE ADVANCE GUARD OF THE PINERIES' ARMY

One hundred lumberjacks the first big consignment of woodsmen since the forest fires began were sent out to the north woods yesterday afternoon. The movement however, is not by any means general, as most of the companies are waiting for rain to come in sufficient quantity to stifle the smouldering fires that still threat en the entire north country.

Logging operations were just starting up when the fires began. Orders had been coming in to the local employment agencies with great rapidity, and fears that there would not be enough men to supply the demand as fast as it appeared were at first entertained. The fires however, caused most of the companies to cancel their orders, and all of them were stopped temporarily.

During this interval hundreds of men have begun to come in from the west, where railroad operations have been shutting down, and the wheat fields no longer call for men. When the logging camps do open up in full blast, there will be no difficulty in getting laborers, and the jobs will be filled with a scramble. The consignment of men yesterday was picked up in short order, and many woodsmen who came too late were forced to go away disappointed. — Duluth News Tribune.

THIEF RIVER FALLS SKATING RINK IS SOLD

Messrs. Roberts & Kalstad have sold their skating rink property at Thief River Falls to W. E. Baker and Leon Bourque who have already taken charge of the place. The deal also included the purchase from the owners, Henry Hermanson and Carl Angell of the building in which the rink is located.

WILL GO TO STATE SUPREME COURT.

City Attorney Collins of E. Grand Forks is preparing a brief to go before the Supreme Court in the case of M. E. Thornton against the city of East Grand Forks. The complaint filed by Thornton against the paving estimate of the city for $4,800 was demurred to by City Attorney Collins and the matter will come before the supreme body in October. D. W. Lawler, mayor of St. Paul, D. F. Lyon and N. J. Ryan are attorneys for Thornton.

Peary's Ship Hits Iceberg.

St. John's, N. F., Sept. 27.—With her hull damaged by collision with an iceberg, the steamer Erik, which accompanied the Peary expedition to the north, is reported on her way to this port. The damage to the vessel is said to be all above the water line and she is not leaking.

W. A. MARIN INTERESTED

DISCUSSES THE PLAN FOR STREET RAILWAY IN GRAND FORKS

WILL INVEST HIS OWN FUNDS AND TAKE HOLD OF PRELIMINARY WORK

From Thursday's Daily—

The gentlemen most closely identified with the Grand Forks street railway project have for some time been aware that they were materially handicapped by a lack of some one man himself substantially interested in the enterprise who could devote practically his entire time to it. Many Grand Forks men are interested to the extent of subscribing liberally for stock, and others are developing interest and, many of those interested have already devoted considerable time to it. But the time which can thus be spent is fragmentary, and there has been very evident need for some reliable man who could take hold of the movement and keep hold of it until the street railroad is an accomplished fact.

"Such a man the committee believes it has found in W. A. Marin, of Crookston," says the Grand Forks Herald, "who is now in the city looking over the situation at the invitation of the committee. Engineer Burch who has already made a very favorable report on the enterprise will be here this morning and will go over the situation with Mr. Marin and the members of the committee and if a favorable decision is reached and there appears sufficient local interest to warrant it, Mr. Marin will take hold of the preliminary work in person under the direction of the committee, and will demonstrate his interest by a substantial investment of his own funds."

Not Professional Promoter

Continuing the Herald says, "Mr. Marin is not a professional promoter For many years he has been a resident of Crookston, where he is now and has been carrying on a prosperous business and he has large interests thruout the valley. He has served as a member of the Crookston city council and he is well known to many Grand Forks people. Of late years he has devoted considerable attention to electric traction, and he has become profoundly impressed with the possibilities of the Red River Valley in this direction. He now holds a franchise for a street railway in Crookston, and he hopes to be instrumental in the development of a system which when the time is ripe will serve not only the two cities but the intervening and surrounding country districts." In a very interesting conversation with the Herald yesterday, Mr. Marin said:

Get City Lines First

"I am a firm believer in the possibilities of interurban lines. My belief is not a matter of theory but of observation for I have already seen this sort of improvement and what it does in many districts where the towns are not larger than ours and where the soil is not half so productive. I do not believe that the building of suburban or interurban lines here is practicable or desirable at present. I believe that we must do as other communities have done — get our city lines first and get them into reasonably paying condition before we attempt anything further, I do not believe that a Grand Forks line will be a great revenue producer immediately, but I am convinced and expert opinion agrees with mine— that it will pay reasonably well in a very short time. And when we have a local line which we can demonstrate to be a good business proposition, we will have no difficulty in borrowing on fair terms, all the money we need for any legitimate extensions whether within or without the city.

Proposition is a Safe One

"I do not come here with any promise or expectation of building this line myself. I am not in a position to do anything of this sort. I have other interests which require funds, and your local people are in the same condition. But I look on the Grand Forks proposition as a safe one and a good one for the investment of my time and such funds as I can spare, provided enough money can be raised to float it. And that money must be raised right here at home. The local people are the men who have the greatest interests at stake, and they must make the start if the thing is to be handled. There is now no outside capital seeking investment of this character, at least not until the feasibility of the enterprise has been demonstrated and the active participation of local people is the best demonstration that can be given."

Killed by Burglars.

Winnipeg, Sept. 24.—Burglars shot and killed M. Sagar, a merchant, when surprised cracking a safe in Lambert & Earle's hardware store at Elkhorn, Manitoba.

Does Your Heart Beat

Yes. 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

One frequent cause of bad blood is a sluggish liver. This produces constipation. Poisonous substances are then absorbed into the blood, instead of being removed from the body daily as nature intended. Keep the bowels open with Ayer's Pills, liver pills. All vegetable.

SAFE BLOWN AT COHASSET

GANG OF FOUR OR FIVE ROBBERS GET AWAY WITH $300 IN CASH

NO DETAILS RECEIVED BUT CHIEF ECK APPRISED OF ROBBERY

From Friday's Daily—

Chief Eck this morning received the following telegram:

+ + + + + + + + + + + + + + + + + +

Cohasset is the first station this side of Grand Rapids. No further details were given, and it is not known what place was robbed and absolutely no description is given of the men suspected. Thus the local police are given nothing to work on, unless one of the robbers should foolishly start in to blow a large amount of money to arouse suspicion, which is not very apt to take place.

However Chief Eck and his men are keeping a close look out for any and all suspicious characters.

OLD RESIDENT VISITING HERE

Louis Fontaine of the old firm of Fontaine & Anglim arrived in the city this morning from Morris, Minn and will remain here for about a week attending to some business matters and visiting with friends. When asked regarding the legacy he was left by a sister he smiled characteristically—and said nothing.

Mr. Fontaine is enjoying the best of health and says that he enjoys every visit to Crookston. He notes with pleasure that the city is growing steadily, and is glad to see the forward tendency along all lines here.

ENORMOUS WHEAT MOVEMENT.

8,000,000 Bushels of Canadian Crop so Far Inspected.

Winnipeg, Sept. 26.—To date 8,000,000 bushels of this season's wheat crop of Western Canada has been inspected, 80 per cent being high-grade milling wheat. Last year at this date only 1,000,000 bushels had been inspected; largely low grade. Competition for wheat continues strong and prices to farmers high.

RUTABAGO'S CIRCUMFERENCE BIG AS 150 LB. MAN

John W. Johnson showed us yesterday a couple mammoth rutabagoes that he had raised on his lots on the west side of the river, one measuring 28 inches in circumference, 9 inches in diameter and weighing 8 3-4 lbs., the other 24 inches in circumference, 7 inches in diameter and weighing 6 3-4 lbs., another evidence of the wonderful productiveness of Red River Valley soil. — Warren Sheaf.

VALLEY LANDS ALWAYS IMPRESS FAVORABLY

C. A. Nelson of Chicago, arrived last week to look after his farming interest. He owns the old Krueger farm southwest of that town. Mrs. Nelson and little daughter arrived later to join the husband and gather. Mrs. Nelson wanted to see the farm and this city before finally deciding to move up here and that her impressions were favorable goes without saying. The family will probably move here next spring.

TRUSTEES HOLD MEETING TO DECIDE ON PASTOR

The trustees of the Mendenhall Memorial church at E. G. Forks met again Saturday evening to decide on a pastor for the church, due to the failure of Rev. Charles Bates to accept the call issued several weeks ago. Nothing definite was settled on, altho it was decided to invite Rev. McMurray of Mitchell of S. D., to the city and he will occupy the pulpit at the Mendenhall Memorial church October 11 and 18 and may later be selected as a pastor.

SOO TOWN SUFFERS THE LOSS OF HASHERY

The Kreller hotel at Radium, Marshall Co., burned down last week. Building was owned by Thorson & Gillund of Warren and was occupied by E. B. Moller, who lost some of his household goods. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss on building was about $2,000 partly covered by insurance.

LIVE STOCK AND DAIRY

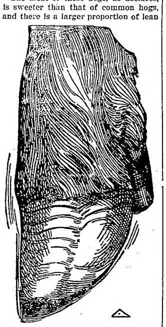
MULEFOOT HOGS.

What a Kansas Breeder Has to Say About Them.

Breeders of swine in many sections of the country are greatly interested in mulefoot hogs, and these animals have attracted considerable attention in recent years when exhibited at the state fairs. These hogs are now being improved and bred under the name of Ozark hogs.

A Kansas breeder, Dr. W. J. Connor, who is raising them, says that, while in a measure they are a new thing, yet he has been breeding them long enough to have ascertained that they are actually the best range hogs in existence today. He has found, he says, that they will live and prosper where a common hog would starve to death.

The meat of these hogs, he declares, is sweeter than that of common hogs, and there is a larger proportion of lean to fat. They may be finished at any age, and it is possible to bring them to a weight of from 500 to 800 pounds. It seems that these hogs have been tried out in practically every state in the Union, and Dr. Connor says that they have never had cholera.



FOOT OF MULEFOOT HOG.

Care of the Horse.

For kidney trouble give two ounces night and morning of tea made by steeping buchu leaves in soft water.

This will correct irritation of the kidneys or urinary tract much better and more safely than strong drugs, says the Farm Journal.

It is no economy to feed poor, musty hay or grain to horses, and be sure also that horses do not eat dirty and musty bedding.

Do not stuff the road horses with hay. A horse cannot travel easily with a stomach full of hay crowding his lungs.

Give a small forkful at night, when the horse has time to digest it.

A good handful of cut hay should be mixed with the grain to compel perfect mastication.

Irregular feeding tends to make horses bolt their grain. Guard against it. Bolting food causes indigestion and consequently loss of health.

It is not always wise to feed the same amount of grain to both horses in one team. One may need more than the other to keep it in good health and working condition.

The art or exercise of dancing can be traced back to the early Egyptians, who ascribe that invention to their god Thoth. Beyond a doubt dancing is much older than history. It began in connection with religious rites and was performed in honor of the deities that were worshiped.

BACTERIA IN MILK.

Some Good Suggestions That Every Dairyman Should Heed.

It is impossible in practical dairy work entirely to prevent bacteria from falling into the milk, but if the following suggestions are heeded the number gaining entrance and their rate of development will be greatly lessened:

Do not feed dry hay or fodder at feeding time, and to prevent dust from rising from the floor use the sprinkling can, for dust meant bacteria.

Do not brush the cow just before or at the time of milking, for the dead skin and hairs, carrying thousands of bacteria, will be loosened ready to drop into the pail.

Do not permit the cow to switch her tail over the milk pail, for she is certain to throw hundreds of bacteria into the milk at every flip.

Do not soak the teats or udder with milk or water so that drops fall into the pail, but moisten with a cloth, for a moist surface does not readily permit bacteria to leave it.

Do not regard milking as a dirty task and wear old and filthy clothes, for the handling of food for human beings should be made a cleanly task.

Do not wash pails and cans with cold water, but scald with boiling water and steam, and by all means avoid rinsing with cold water just before milking, for a few drops of water usually contain several thousand bacteria.

Do not wait to finish milking before beginning the cooling of the milk, but set the can in a tub of cold water so that each cow's milk will be cooled immediately after milking, for a high temperature causes bacteria to multiply very rapidly.

Do not fail to thoroughly clean and scald the parts of the separator each time it is used, for bacteria thrive in the separator slime.

Notes For the Shepherd.

If the pastures are short and dry look out for the breeding ewes, says the Farm Journal.

Give them extra feed—grain in a feed box, fodder corn or freshly cut clover.

After the roots are gathered for winter the flock should feed over the field to clean up the small roots, etc.

It is well to reserve a patch of turnips for the sheep to feed on. It may be in one corner of a pasture. A patch of one acre will furnish feed for twenty-five or thirty sheep for three months.

Do not attempt to winter old ewes. Fatten them quickly on turnips, oilmeal, ground corn and oats.

Sweet corn in the milk, fed stalks and all, is also a quick fattener for old ewes.

Do not breed young ewes under fourteen months old unless very growthy.

Keep the sheep dry. Never leave them out in a cold rain, especially in the fall.

If you have no good shelter in the pastures it will pay to make one.

Make it deep, but provide for ventilation without drafts.

Success In Breeding Hogs.

A farmer who has been breeding hogs for twenty-five years and has been unusually successful was asked how he did it. His reply, in substance, was that he provided good, decent quarters, plenty of shade, good pasture, a variety of good food, good water, always fed for vigor and gave the hogs regularly ashes and charcoal. This is all simple, but all good.

FIRE CAUSED BY LIGHTNING

DISASTROUS BLAZE PREVENTED LAST EVENING BY BARNEY HART.

HAD FIRE EXTINGUISHED BEFORE DEPARTMENT ARRIVED. CHEMICAL USED.

From Saturday's Daily—

About five o'clock this morning a disasterous fire in the New Store was prevented by Barney Hart. Mr. Hart was eating lunch in the Union Restaurant when he noticed a blaze coming from a rear window in the New Store. He first turned in an alarm and then rushed to the window where the fire was to be seen, and smashing the glass threw a few pails of water on the flames which quenched them until the members of the fire department arrived and applied the chemical.

There was no damage to the stock at all as Mr. Wright arrived on the scene and opened all the doors so that the smoke did no damage.

The fire was without doubt started by lightning which evidently came down on the A. D. T. wire. The box was fastened on the window sill where the fire was discovered and no electricity from the office could have caused the blaze from the fact that every evening the current is turned off when the office is closed and therefore there is no current that could possibly have caused the trouble.

Just prior to the fire this morning there were three or four heavy bolts of thunder, and without doubt it was one of these that caused the fire.

Messrs. Wright and Carpenter are both very glad that the fire was extinguished, as a bad fire at this season of the year would have been very serious.

Mr. Hart was properly rewarded for the prompt action that he took and is today wearing a pair of $5 shoes which were presented to him.

FAVORABLE FOR DITCH NO. 77

VIEWERS REPORT ON SMALL DITCH TO BE BUILT IN HUBBARD

JJohn Saugstad, T. Torkelson and I. I. Berg viewers on the proposed ditch number 77 in Hubbard township have made their report and filed the same with the auditor. POSTMASTERS TO HELP TEACHERS

Postmaster Elias Steenerson has received an order from Postmaster General Myer directing all postmasters to unite with their local school authorities with a view of adopting the most effective method of instructing school children as to the organization and operation of the postal service particularly the proper addressing of letters and the importance of placing return cards on envelopes. Postmasters are also directed to arrange if possible to deliver personal talks to pupils and give teachers access to the postal guide and postal laws and render them every assistance in securing the necessary information.

Postmaster Steenerson will later give talks to the local school children in the various schools.

JEWISH NEW YEAR TODAY

WORLD WILL BE 5669 YEARS OLD ACCORDING TO HEBREW RECKONING.

Today at sunset the world will be 5669 years old, according to the Hebrew reckoning of the bible. Today begins the great holiday period of the Jewish year with the festival of Rosh Hoshonoh. This festival is observed by Orthodox Jews throughout the world for two days. In all synagogues on Friday evening and Saturday morning, services will be held. On Saturday, October 10, occurs the beginning of the festival of Surroth or Tabernacles, which continues for eight days. This festival commemorates the dwelling of the children of Israel in tabernacles during the forty days in the wilderness.

SEES WONDERFUL DEVELOPMENT

J. S. McCAFFREY PREDICTS A GREAT FUTURE FOR RED RIVER VALLEY

J. S. McCaffrey of Stanley, Wis., who has been here for the past few weeks visiting his son, J. A. McCaffrey, and who will remain here to hear Hon. Wm. H. Taft next Monday is one of the best boosters this section of the country ever had. Mr. McCaffrey was a former land owner in this section, and was a regular visitor every year. He sold his holdings a few years ago, but is better pleased with this section now than ever before.

He says that all that is necessary is to till the soil properly and the results will come. He states that he never saw this section of the country looking more prosperous. He notes that within the past few years there has been a wonderful change in the farming methods in this section. More stock is raised, there is a greater diversity of grains, more pasture fences have been built and more teams are hauling cream to the creameries and railroad stations for shipment. In fact he sees progress all along the line.

30 PER CENT CROP HAULED

DIVISION FREIGHT AGENT GRIFFIN OF GREAT NORTHERN MAKES STATEMENT

THE AVERAGE DAILY SHIPMENT REACHES 800 CARS 10,000,000 BUSHELS

From Monday's Daily—

J. H. Griffin division freight agent of the Great Northern after a trip over North Dakota says that 30 per cent of the crop raised in that state this year has been shipped to the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth markets; Duluth getting the biggest portion. Very little of the grain has been stored according to Mr. Griffin.

All the farmers have just saved enough for seed and have sent the balance to the markets, the line elevators getting very little, and a majority of the line elevators are empty in comparison with former years.

Cars have been plentiful and there has been no crying need where the cars have not been supplied. Very few suffered as a result of shortage of cars and even whole train loads of wheat has been shipped from a number of smaller towns. The average daily shipment for the past week has reached the 800 carload mark per day, making the shipment during the past week something over 10,000,000 bushels from that state.

THREE LIVE DAYS AT BAGLEY

THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, OCT 1, 2 AND 3 THE DAYS SET

Bagley has decided upon three live days on Oct. 1, 2, and 3 at which time there will something special doing. The merchants will give special bargains, there will be special entertainment features and on Friday there will be a lecture by Congressman Steenerson on the Panama Canal, which will be delivered at Erickson's Hall in the evening. This lecture will prove of especial interest, as Mr. Steenerson visited and inspected that portion of the canal which has been completed, as well as all of the territory thru which the canal will pass He has specially prepared charts and maps of the terrtory thru which the canal is passing and having been over the ground personally, is in a position to give reliable information as to the work that has been done. as well as the future of the territory thru which it passes.

HEAVY SUBJECTS TO BE DISCUSSED

Women Will Deal With Cital Topics at Coming Meeting of State Clubs.

Discussions as to whether Bacon wrote Shakespeare and whether Browning meant something or nothing by certain lines are no longer the paramount issues at the state meetings of women's clubs. The leading problems of the day, the real live difficulties which confront every day life, are the subjects which are appearing on their program and which will hold the attention of the club women of Minnesota when they assemble in convention at St. Cloud, on Oct. 6-8.

The following list of lectures will show what subjects the thinking women of Minnesota are interesting themselves in:

"Forestry Interests," Mrs. C. J. Backus, St. Paul; Methods of Forestry in the Old World, Prof. S. B. Green St. Paul; Conservation of Forests, Enos Mills, Washington, D. C.; Household Economics, Mrs. M. J. Blair, St. Paul; The Gambling Mania in Children, Mrs. R. R. Dorr, St. Paul Degeneracy; How to Prevent It, Dr. Rogers, Faribault; The Child, Mrs. Alice J. Mott, Faribault; Attitude of Clubs to Temperance Movement; Social Conditions of the Canal Zone, Miss Helen Varick-Boswell, New York.

Mrs. G. G. Higbee of St. Paul is to preside over the convention and there are to be three evening meetings. Tuesday evening, Mrs. C. J. Backus, chairman of the forestry committee, will supervise the program given under the auspices of her committee; Wednesday evening Dr. W. A. Schumacher of St. Cloud normal school, Miss Alice J. Mott of Faribault and Miss Emerson of Carleton college of Northfield will be the speakers. On Thursday evening Miss Boswell's story of the conditions of Panama is to be told and Mrs. Jessica DeWolf of St. Paul is to sing a program of songs.

Thursday morning Mrs. Higbee will make her annual address. Tuesday afternoon a reception is to be given.

WAS DELIRIOUS WITH ECZEMA

On Chest, Back, and Head—Pain, Heat, and Tingling Were Excruciating—Nerves in Exhausted Condition—Sleep Badly Broken.

CURE BY CUTICURA SEEMED LIKE MAGIC

"Words cannot express the gratitude I feel for what Cuticura Remedies have done for my daughter, Adelaide. She is fifteen years of age, and had never had anything the matter with her skin until four months ago, when an eruption broke out on her chest. The first symptom was a redness, and then followed thickening and blisters, which would break and run matter. I took her to a doctor, and he pronounced it to be eczema of a very bad form. He treated her, but instead of being checked, the disease spread. It showed itself on her back, and then quickly spread upwards until the whole of her head was affected, and all her hair had to be cut off. The pain she suffered was excruciating, and what with that and the heat and tingling her life was almost unbearable. She became run down in health, and at times was very feverish, languid, and drowsy, and occasionally she was delirious. Her nerves were in such a low state that she could not bear to be left alone. In spite of the cold weather she would insist on having her bedroom window open, and would lean out on the window-sill. She did not have a proper hour's sleep for many nights. The second doctor we tried afforded her just as little relief as the first, and I really do not know what we should have done if we had not read how Cuticura cured a similar case. I purchased Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills, and before the Ointment was three-quarters finished every trace of the disease was gone. It really seemed like magic. Her hair is coming on nicely, and I still apply the Cuticura Ointment as I find it increases the growth wonderfully. Mrs. T. W. Hyde, 1, Ongar Place, Brentwood, Essex, England, Mar. 8, 1907."

DELAWARE MAN QUITS AS HEAD OF REPUBLICAN SPEAKERS' BUREAU

FEARED EXPOSURE OF TRUST CONNECTION WOULD ULTIMATELY COME

New York, Sept. 27. — Following many rumors on the subject which were afloat yesterday here and in Washington, Chairman Hitchcock of the Republican national committee, yesterday announced that Gen. T. Coleman du Pont of Delaware, head of the bureau of campaign speakers of the national committee, had resigned as head of that bureau and also as a member of the executive committee of the national committee, and that his resignation had been accepted.

BONE IMBEDDED IN BRAIN.

Iowa Boy Still Lives, Despite Dangerous Wound.

West Union, Iowa, Sept. 27.—Cecil Gifford is still living, after having a bone imbedded in his brain. He had come home from school and was cleaning out the stable when the horse kicked him over the right eye. It was some time before he was found. Dr. Darrell removed from the brain a piece of bone that was one inch long by three-quarterrs of an inch thick. For fifteen hours he has been unconscious, but his mind seems to be returning, and the doctors hold out hopes of permanent recovery.

William Howard Taft.

Crookston is honored today by a visit from the standard bearer of the dominent political party of the United States and one of her foremost citizens, William Howard Taft.

Mr. Taft has been in the public eye for many years, having held some of the most important cabinet positions and also as Governor of some of our foreign possessions made a splendid record.

He is emphatically a man of the people. His extremely pleasant address and cordiality when meeting people on extended trips is judged by many to have as much to do with his popularity as his ability as a statesman and what he has accomplished as a public official. As such he is given a hearty welcome in this city. The people of this city are glad to show their patriotism at any time when honor can be paid to one of the foremost citizens of the country. The honor done is participated by members of all political parties because of the public service which Mr. Taft has rendered.

From a weather standpoint Mr. Taft received a very chilly reception in the Red River Valley, but the warmth with which he was received and welcomed by the people generally made him forget the antics of Old Boreas, who from his actions must be a very narrow-minded member of some other political party.

Regardless of all other conditions however, Mr. Taft's visit to Crookston was thoroly appreciated by the general public.

Despotism of Majority

No despotism has ever ended until the power of taxation was taken from it. None can ever be restored so long as this power is retained in the hands of the people. It is the one power that should be hedged about most jealously and guarded most carefully says the Duluth News Tribune.

The despot held his power by the right to tax when he pleased and favor whom he pleased. The taxes he wrung from some he distributed among others and surrounded himself by favorites bound to him by the loyalty of pelf.

No despot has long survived revolt who has not been generous in the division of the spoils; who has not allowed his faithful followers to prey upon his enemies; who has not given to those who upheld his power what he took from those who defied it.

The czar of Russia is the best of the despots surrounded by western civilization. The struggle of his peope for freedom and self-government centers in the effort to take from his hands the right of taxation That gone his power is gone and self-government is assured. It is the same struggle that has been followed by the same result everywhere.

But a despotism in these modern days need not be of an individual. It may be of a bureaucracy and in representative governments this may be a voting majority That ths has always been feared by the framers of constitutions is shown by the protection always given to minorities.

Such power in the hands of narrow biased prejudiced and unscrupulous men aways threatens to become despotism. It is aways linked wth the same favoritism and the same division of the spoils. It is this that has won for Mr. Cannon as speaker the title of "czar". It is this danger that has muce the rules adopted in the house a menace to good government.

It is for this reason that the federal constitution has preserved the right of free speech, of a free press and of petition. These are the safeguards of the minority. They are the weapons left in its hands of appeal to the better natures the sense of justice and the love of liberty of a free people.

But imagine congress with unlimited powers in taxation. Then place either party in power with a Cannon or a Crisp as speaker and an Andrew Jackson or an Andrew Johnson a Haskell or a Foraker as president. It would be to establish a despotism under the majority rule where the minority would have no more chance of survival than the historic snowball in hades.

Yet, that is exactly the condition the people of Minnesota are asked to vote to bring about in this state when they are asked to adopt the wideopen tax amendment. Our legislature has no greater honesty, wisdom or patriotism than has congress. The men of Minnesota, who guide its political destinies are no more unselfish, no less greedy of power nor less scrupulous of means for getting and retaining it, than are the men in our congress.

With unlimited authority in tax matters, they could and they would build up a political machine in this state which would be as a gasoline automobile to a banquet of American beauties compared to the Pennsylvania political machine or Tammany hall. Is this what the people of Minnesota want? If it is they know how to get it. They have but to adopt the wide-open graft amendment.

From Over The Valley

NORTHOME LANDLORD IS ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

While hunting ducks at Moose lake, Donald J. Praught, Landlord of the Brannon hotel at Northome was accidentally shot in the wrist and breast, and probably owes his life to the fact that he was heavily clothed at the time of the accident, which prevented the shot from having fatal effect.

Mr. Praught was holding the gun by the muzzle and in the act of urging the dog to bring out several duck that he had shot when in some manner the gun went off. His right wrist was fearfully torn and from the appearance of the wound the main force of the change took effect in his breast. Only for the heavy clothing he had on Mr. Praught would undoubtedly have been instantly killed. where the wounds were dressed and although in a precarious condition Mr. Praught is in no immediate danger unless unlooked for complications should arise.

NELSON PARK FARMER IS VOLUNTARILY COMMITTED

Erick Nelson, of Nelson Park, went voluntarily before Judge Holm of the Probate Court, on Monday last, and asked to be committed to the asylum at Fergus Falls. The unfortunate man is 39 years of age and single. Altho appeared to be very rational, yet he said he has felt mental trouble coming on for years and that he has spells when his mind gives way. At such times he was afraid he might do himself or others some harm, and he thought it safest and best for all concerned that he be placed in a position where he can injure no one. He was committed to the asylum according to his request.—Warren Sheaf.

BAPTISTS WILL AFFILIATE THEIR MEN'S CLUB

At the first meeting of the fall season of the Baptist Men's Club held at Grand Forks Sunday at noon, it was decided that the club, should identify itself with the new Baptist brotherhood movement and with this end in view a committee was appointed to take up the work incident to the new departure The club has been in existence about a year and has been very successful and it is believed that with the change the club will be further benefited.

Sunday was rally day in the Baptist church the various services being largely attended.

KOOCHICHING COUNTY FAIR IS A SUCCESS.

The first annual fair of the Koochiching County Agricultural Society held at Northome proved to be the most successful affairs of the kind ever held in this north country. With ideal weather both days, the fair was attended by large crowds of people from all over the county. The exhibits were numerous and the finest ever seen in this county, especially so in the agricultural department, which clearly demonstrated the productiveness of the soil in that secton.

PROMINENT ARGYLE MAN BREAKS A LEG.

H. W. Platt of Argyle was the victim of a very serious accident last week which resulted in a broken leg. While he and Pete Goulet were standing on the edge of the curb in front of the drug store talking, the latter lost his balance and Mr. Platt having a hold on his shoulder, the two men went to the ground in some unaccountable manner and Mr. Platt's leg was fractured just above the ankle, both bones being broken. Mr. Platt is now resting easy but t will be some time before he will be able to be around again.

ROCKEFELLER CAUSES RESPIRATORY PARALYSIS

Edgeley N. D., had quite a ripple of excitement the other day when the news came over the wire that John D. Rockefeller and a party of Standard Oil people were at Aberdeen, S. D. They didn't know but they had come to carry off the gas and oil wells in that vicinity. They were able to breathe once more after hearing that the party had gone on west without molesting them.

HORSES JUMPED OFF THE WATER WAGON

While Freeman Smith and Will Van Horson of White Earth, N. D., were crossing the Missouri at the Brevig ferry the Smith team became frightened, and the owner was knocked down and trampled. The horses jumped into the river where it was thirty feet deep and sank from sight. The next morning the horses and wagon were found on a sandbar.

BUSY WINTER IN TIMBER

LOGGING OPERATIONS WILL BE HEAVY OWING TO THE FOREST FIRES.

NO PARTICULAR IMPROVEMENT IN THE LUMBER MARKET NOR EXTRA DEMAND.

From Wednesday's Daily—

Logging operations in northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota will be very extensive this winter. This is not on account of any particular improvement in the lumber and timber market, which continues in an unsatisfactory condition generally, but because of the extensive forest fires.

Large tracts have been burned over and to prevent heavy losses in many cases it will be necessary to cut the damaged forest growth. This, many operators are preparing to do. The season will open about the first of October.

The Gogebic Lumber company of Marenisco, Mich., intends to cut about 9,000,000 feet the coming winter. In Cook county, this state, many millions of timber will be logged in the burned over tracts, around Beaver Bay, Pidgeon River, Luxon, Tofte, Chicago Bay and Big Bay.

ELKS INSTITUTE A NEW LODGE

DICKINSON ELKS HAVE BEEN GRANTED CHARTER AND WILL ORGANIZE LODGE

Active preparations for the reception and entertainment of the hundreds of Elks and their families who will attend the institution of the Dickinson N. D., lodge of the order were taken at a meeting held by the local "Bills" in th erooms of the commercial club. That Dickinson Elks will have their hands full in taking care of the visitors and will need the assistance of the whole city is evidenced by the fact that fully 1,000 visitors will be the guests of Dickinson for two days. Among this number will be many of the most prominent and influential men of the state. The new lodge will be instituted about October 10.

RANGE COUNTRY PROSPEROUS

R. W. HITCHCOCK WELL KNOWN EDITOR OF THE HIBBING TRIBUNE

GIVES HOME SECTION A GREAT BOOST—OUTLOOK VERY BRIGHT

From Wednesday's Daily—

Editor R. W. Hitchcock of the Hibbing Tribune, former editor of the Bemidji Pioneer and later editorial writer for the Crookston Times, and recognized as one of the most vigorous editorial writers in Northern Minnesota spent yesterday in the city having arrived from Angyle, accompanied by his young daughter Jean, returned to Hibbing last evening.

"Prospects look very bright at Hibbing and thruout the Range country generally" said Mr. Hitchcock to the Journal yesterday. "here is an immense amount of preparatory work now going on, and an army of workmen are employed in that work, making the payroll larger even now than the payroll of a year ago of the men actually at work in the mines.

"There is every indication that the coming year will be a very prosperous one for the Northeastern portion part of the state, and I should judge for the entire state. The general tone of all lines of business is healthy."

Mr. Hitchcock told some thrilling stories of the recent fire scares in that section. He states that there is a misunderstanding generally as to the cause. There were no real forest fires, but rather brush, stump and swamp fires. The long dry spell made the heavy swamp grass like tinder, and when it once caught fire it burned deep into the ground.

He states that ten minutes after the fire approached Chisholm, the sparks had ignited 20 dwellings, and with fires started simultaneously in every part of the city there was practically a reign of terror, as no ordinary fire equipment could combat any such great odds successfully.

The fact that Hibbing was so close to Chisholm had more to do with the scare there than any real danger to Hibbing. Mr. Hitchcock packed his trunks three different times, and he stated that the Crookston young ladies teaching there packed up once, but that there was never any real danger to the city, but a surplus of imagined peril.

"GEORGE WASHINGTON FARM" HAS PECULIAR HISTORY

Some 28 years ago George Washington Baker proved up on a piece of land near Lisbon, N. D., and Uncle Sam gave him a deed for the same, snce which time the property has changed hands at various times, but strange as it may seem it has always been in the hands of George Washington. Baker sold it to George Washington Dennie and while it was in his possession he leased the land a few years to George Washington Blanchard, and later sold it to George Washington Longworthy, and just recently Langworthy sold it to George Washington Blanchard who is now the proud owner thereof. The fact that the property has been transferred five times in the past twenty-eight years and that George Washington has been a prominent figure in every transaction, the place is duly entitled to and the present owner should label it "George Washington Farm."

It doesn't necessarily follow that man would rather fight than eat because he marries a cooking school graduate.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY

Sept. 28 In History.

490 B. C.—Decisive battle of Marathon; victory of 10,000 Greeks over more than ten times as many Persian invaders.
1898—Hon. Thomas Francis Bayard, secretary of state and ambassador to Great Britain under Cleveland's administration, died; born 1828.
1904—Lafcadio Hearn, American journalist and author, died at Yokohama, Japan; born 1850.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 5:44, rises 5:50; moon sets 7:34 p. m.; moon's age 4 days; planet Mercury visible after sunset.

AN INSANE PATIENT — Sheriff Walsh of Koochiching county passed through the city last Saturday night with an insane homesteader he was taking to Fergus Falls.

FOR THE TALL TIMBER — Bob Ashley dug up his overcoat this morning and boarded the train for Wilton where he thought the weather in the tall timber might be a little milder.

GOES TO OMAHA —George McMullan, the well known salesman for the Blake hats, who formerly made Crookston his headquarters most of the time and is well known here, left with wife and baby, yesterday for Omaha, Neb., where they will make their future home.

WELL REPRESENTED — Euclid is well represented here today among the old timers who are present to combine business matters with hearing Taft, being C. Stuhr and John Goosen two of the old timers driving in with several others.

BUSINESS GOOD—Theodore Neirs of the firm of Stuhr and Neiers, merchants at Euclid was a visitor in the city Saturday night and reports the fall business good, altho collections are somewhat slow on account of farmers holding grain for the dollar mark.

KEYSTONEITES — Henry Horn and George Rutherford drove down together from Keystone today to participate in the festivities of the republican jollification over the presence in our city of the next president of the greatest nation on earth.

LITTLE GIRL DIED—Tressie the nine year old daughter of John J. Brathold died yesterday morning of pneumonia at the Bethesda hospital in this city. The little one was quite ill when received at the hospital three weeks ago. The remains will be shipped to Fertile this afternoon.

FROM ST. PETER AND ST. PAUL —H. L. Larson returned from St. Peter this morning having been called there by the death of his aunt, an old lady who has been in feeble health for a number of years. On his return he stopped over at St. Paul and attended to some business matters and conferred with the socialist leaders regarding the campaign in northern Minnesota.

VISITING FRIENDS—Wayne Richardson is in the city from Thief River Falls for a few days' visit with friends. Wayne has but recently returned from Montana where he spent the summer and will now take up the study of law in his father's office at Thief River Falls.

HAD GOOD FALL— Ed Peterson who has been running a threshing engine at Lakota, N. D., this fall, spent yesterday in the city with his brother-in-law S. R. Moorhead. While the threshing season was short in North Dakota this year the weather was fine. Mr. Peterson left last ev-

SHERIFF CANDIDATE — H. M. Holmvik a prominent farmer near Beltrami and the socialist candidate for sheriff is in the city today. Mr. Holmvik was a candidate for the same position two years ago and received a flattering vote without any effort on his part, and if he is to make an active canvass will have to be reckoned with at the election.

DISAPPOINTED — Elmer Ellington arrived in the city Saturday evening to visit with his parents and stayed over today to take in the republican doings. He is very well pleased with Donaldson and expects to have a big success in his business there. The failure to run the special trains is a great disappointment to him as he expected at least a score of his Donaldson friends on the special.

TRUE BLUE AMERICAN — The ballot is one of the most sacred institutions of this republic and to properly use it the voters must enlighten themselves on political subjects, and the best way to do so is to hear the different speakers,' is the doctrine of George Ellinger of Harold, therefore he has brought in his entire threshing crew to hear Taft this afternoon.

RETURNING WITH FAIR STAKES —During the past ten days there has been almost a continuous caravan of threshers passing thru Crookston with the teams and covered wagons enroute to eastern Polk and points still farther east with their annual "stake" made in the threshing fields The season this year was much shorter than usual, owing to the fact that the weather was fine all the time and there was but one interruption to work. They all made fair stakes and returned with practically every cent made as they had not chanced to spend any of the money except on the way home.

BACK FROM SAD TRIP —Dr. J. F. Boles has returned from a two weeks' trip to the old home in Ontario. A very sad feature of the trip was the death and burial of a sister which robbed the trip east of other pleasant features. Dr. Boles is back at his offices in the Fournet block attending to his practice as usual.

FROM RED RIVER—A. O. Spokely and C. T. Thompson were among the west county delegation that were some mixers, among the republican hosts here yesterday. They register from Climax and put up at a good hotel, the Grand Central.

REMAINS SHIPPED — The remains of Geo. Brunelle, for a quarter of a century chief of police of Red Lake Falls, who died here Monday morning, were shipped home this morning for burial. The funeral will be held there Wednesday morning from St. Josephs Church, Rev. Father Fayolle officating and many friends from this city will attend. T. Brunelle of this city was a cousin of the deceased, and with his family will also attend the funeral.

County Auditor Hoffard is today sending out notices of the regular November election thruout the county, in which special notice is included regarding the county division proposition and the change from the township to the county system in taking care of the poor. Both are important propositions and should receive the careful attention of the tax payers.

The first snowfall in the city this year began this morning at 9 o'clock, it just being cold enough to make big flakes, which of course melted as soon as they struck the ground. It was not as cold as yesterday by considerable, as there was no wind, but the rain was crystallized as it fell and for some time there was quite a heavy fall.

The snow is somewhat earlier this year than last, but it is expected that the present fall will result in clearing ing the weather and some fine plowing weather will follow for the next month.

A SON ARRIVED—Mr. and Mrs. Len Tatro are the proud parents of a baby boy which arrived this morning at their home.

WILL FARM IT—Jimmie Dale, one of the old timers of this section yesterday made a deal with Clarence Swift and last evening left for the Swift farm where he will spend the coming winter.

THE FARMERS' RULE—Nick Welter, a Fairfax farmer of diversified farming methods, is in the city today disposing of the surplus farm products that are bringing the fancy republican prosperity prices.

RETIRED FARMER— Tom Nesbit, one of the farmers of western Polk County who has made a fortune and retired from active work, went to Bemidji this morning to spend a week and close up his business there for the year.

MAYOR DUNLEVY HERE— Mayor Dunlevy of East Grand Forks spent the afternoon here yesterday and stated that everything was fine in the west end metropolis. They have advertised for bids and want the plant installed at the earliest possible date.

GONE TO COAST—Ed Havel and wife departed last evening for Jefferson, Ore., where he will locate if it suits him. Mr. Havel was for a number of years R. F. D. Carrier on route No. 5 but resigned that position three months ago, and has been living at Angus since.

SECURED GOOD POSITION — Blaine Howard one of the graduates of a local business college left last evening for Towner, N. D., where he has accepted a position as stenographer for Attorney D. J. O'Connell of that place. Mr. Howard's home is at Detroit, Minn., but he is well known and has a host of friends in Crookston.

AFTER THE DUCKS— J. H. Stair and W. M. Ferguson left this morning for Maple Lake where they will spend a few days hunting ducks. Stair was accompanied by that prize Chesapeake retriever of his, "King" who will get his first taste of work —if the ducks will only be kind enough to do a little flying.

LOOKING AFTER FARMS— C. M. Twedten, who looks after the farms in which the First National Bank is interested to a great extent left this morning for Angus from where he will drive to Sherack and spend a few days looking after the interests of the bank in that part of the country. The country about Angus, Sherack and that section is in better shape this year than it has been in the past ten years.

State of Minnesota, Executive Department—Proclamation.

Whereas, pursuant to Chapter seven (7), Revised Laws of Minnesota, 1905, a petition was filed with the Secretary of State on the 7th day of December A. D. 1906, praying for the creation of a new county out of territory now lying in Polk county, Minnesota, the same to be known as Nelson county, and described as follows to-wit:

Beginning at the south-east corner of township numbered one hundred and forty-seven, north of range thirty-nine west of the 5th principal meridian in Minnesota; thence running west along the south boundary line of townships one hundred and forty-seven of ranges thirty-nine, forty, forty-one, forty-two and forty-three, the same being the boundary line between Polk and Norman counties, to the southwest corner of township one hundred and forty-seven, range forty three; thence running north along the range line between ranges forty-three and forty-four to the northwest corner of township one hundred and forty-eight, range forty-three; thence west along the north boundary line of township one hundred and forty-eight to the southwest corner of township one hundred and forty-nine, range forty-three; thence north along the range line between ranges forty-three and forty-four to the northwest corner of township one hundred and forty-nine range forty-three; thence east along the north boundary line of said township last named and townships one hundred and forty-nine, ranges forty-two and forty-one to the northeast corner of said township last named; thence north along the west boundary line and east along the north boundary line of township one hundred and fifty, range forty, to the northeast corner of said township last named; thence north along the west boundary line, and east along the north boundary line of township one hundred and fifty-one, range thirty-nine, to the northeast corner of the said township last named; thence south along the range line between ranges thirty-eight and thirty-nine to the southeast corner of township one hundred and forty-nine, range thirty-nine; thence east along the north boundary line of township one hundred and forty-eight, range thirty-nine to the northeast corner of same; thence south along the range line between ranges thirty-eight and thirty-nine to the place of beginning, all of said territory being within the county of Polk and including and embracing the whole of townships numbered one hundred and forty-seven, one hundred and forty-eight and one hundred and forty-nine, ranges thirty-nine, forty, forty-one, forty-two and forty-three, townships one hundred and fifty, ranges thirty-nine and forty and township one hundred and fifty-one, range thirty-nine; and that the village of Fosston be the county seat thereof; and that Fred S. Syverson of Hill River, T. Hanson of Queen, Dreng Grundysen, of Sletten, Jens O. Rindal of Garden and Oscar Melsness of Badger, all legal voters and residents within said proposed new county, be and constitute the first board of County Commissioners of said proposed county, and the same to be known as Nelson county; and in which said petition it is represented and averred that the said hereinbefore described territory comprises more than four hundred square miles and contains more than two thousand inhabitants, and that the remaining area of Polk county, after deducting the territory hereinbefore described will comprise more than four hundred square miles and contain more than two thousand inhabitants.

And, whereas, the said petition has been duly considered and found and certified to as conforming in all respects to the provisions of law;

Now, therefore, I, John A. Johnson, governor of the State of Minnesota, pursuant to the authority vested in me by law, do hereby direct and proclaim that the question of the creation of the proposed new county of Nelson be submitted to the voters of said Polk county at the next general election to be held in this state on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1908.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Minnesota to be hereunto affixed this 19th day of August 1908.

(Seal) —John A. Johnson,
Governor.

Attest:
Julius A. Schmahl,
Secretary of State.

United States of America, State of Minnesota, Department of State.

I, Julius A. Schmahl, Secretary of State of the State of Minnesota do hereby certify that I have compared the annexed copy with the original instrument in my office of Proclamation by the Governor of the State of Minnesota, in the matter of county division of Polk County and that said copy is a true and correct transcript of said original Proclamation and of the whole thereof.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Great Seal of the State, at the Capitol, in Saint Paul, this twenty-fourth day of September, A. D. nineteen hundred and eight.

Secretary of State.

RED LAKE FALLS PIONEER DEAD

CHIEF OF POLICE BRUNELLE PASSES AWAY AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Yesterday afternoon Geo. Brunelle, one of the prominent residents of Red Lake Falls breathed his last in St. Vincents Hospital here, after an illness of two months, death being caused by a carbuncle on the back of his neck of a particularly malignant type, gangrene setting in with fatal results. Mr. Brunells was 50 years of age, had been a resident of Red Lake Falls for 30 years and had been chief of police of that city for 25 years. He had a very wide acquaintance and was of a genial charitable disposition, making him popular with all who knew him.

Deceased leaves a wife and five children, a daughter, Mrs. Joe. Bray and four sons, Cash, Clem, Paul and Morris.

The funeral will be held Wednesday from St. Josephs Church, Red Lake Falls, Father Fayolle officiating and a large number from this city will attend. The remains will be shipped up Tuesday morning.

Deceased was a cousin of T. Brunelle of this city.

DEATH ENDED SUFFERINGS

MRS. S. J. CABLE PASSED AWAY AFTER SECOND SUDDEN ATTACK

Mrs. S. J. Cable passed away this morning at 6:30 as the result of a sudden attack of convulsions resulting from euremia from which she has been a sufferer since the early summer. After the first attack she recovered and her health improved during the summer months materially, permitting her spending some time at Maple Lake. Yesterday at noon she was in apparently good health, but she was suddenly stricken after dinner and died after great suffering

Deceased was 43 years of age and leaves a husband, who is on a claim at Beaudette and will be here tonight one son in the United States Army, a daughter Orpha, who is teaching near Beaudette, and another daughter, Mrs. M. L. Griffiths, of this city, at whose home she died, and with whom she has been making her home for some time past.

MENTOR FARMERS MAKE TRADE FOR NEW STYLE MACHINE IN DAKOTA.

Messers Ole and John Torkelson arrived in the city Saturday evening enroute to their home at Mentor from Plaza, N. D. ,where their claims are located, a distance of 300 miles. They drove in and on a hayrack had loaded an Oriental Buckboard gasoline Automobile which interested a large crowd of spectators at Bjoin and Carlsons where they put up for the night.

The buckboard has a 4 horsepower gasoline engine just over the hind axle and the machine is said to run fine when the roads are at all good. Torkelson Brothers traded a team of ponies for the machine and figure on having lots of sport with it.

WATER WORKS FOR E.G. FORKS

6,500 FEET WATER MAINS WILL BE LAID—PUMP PIT AND TOWER BUILT

The East Grand Forks council has called for bids to put in a complete waterworks system i nthat city, work to begin this fall. The bids call for 6500 feet of pipe for the waterworks mains, laying the same, for gate valves and hydrants, for a tower holding 100,000 gallons of waterf and for the pump pit. It is considered possible by some that the pipe for the mains can be obtained without having it made to order and in this case it might be possible to get the mains in this fall, altho the power plant, etc., will not be put in until next spring, as the pump will be built to orded and this will require several months' time.

CATS FOR COUNTY JAIL

THE CHRONIC KICKER HAS AN INNING AT THE COURT HOUSE

BUT LATER COMES TO GRIEF WHEN HIS COMPLAINT IS INVESTIGATED.

"Cats for Jail ... ...$54"

There are always to be found in every county and in every city the chronic kicker and Crookston and Polk County are no exception to the rule. And thereby hangs a tale.

A few days ago the chief of the Polk County Kickers Club ambled into the court house and, as usual, began smelling about to see what there was to kick about.

It just hapened that in the auditors office the cash book lay open showing all the expenditures of Polk County. This was duck soup for Old Chronic and he began pouring over the items. He saw nothing to especially attract his attention until he reached an item which he read as follows:

"Cats for County Jail .. .. $54."

The bill had been paid to A. J. and A. McKinnon of this city and forthwith Chronic started down town and spread the glad tidings of Great Joy, that Polk County had been bumfoozled out of a large sum of money for cats for the county jail.

He all but got upon the housetops and yelled about his great find. He told the business men about it; he told the man on the street corner all about it; he told the lumber jack who was sojourning in the city for a day about it. In fact he told everybody he could find in the city about it, who would listen.

Finally one of the clerks in the Auditors office heard it and he promptly said that it was a fib.

In a short time he was confronted by Chronic.

"I'll bet you a hat" sad Chronic, "that it is there, charged to the tax payers of Polk County."

"I'll take you" responded the clerk.

They repaired to the court house, dug up the book and here is what was read.

"Cots for County Jail .. .. .. $54."

And Chronic Kicker has not been found yet, but the clerk is wearing a brand new winter hat.

HEARST AND HISGEN IN FARGO OCT. 17

SUFFICIENT NUMBER OF NAMES TO GET TICKET ON OFFICIAL BALLOT

National Committeeman A. C. Reinecke of the independence party announced yesterday the necessary names have been secured to a petition for placing the electors of the independence party on the official ballot of North Dakota. They have been forwarded to Bismarck to the secretary of state.

The advertising campaign for the independence party will begin next week. Hearst, Hisgen, Graves and others of the organization will be in Fargo Oct. 17.

CALGARIANS ARE PROSPERING

W. O. and Henry Bray are spending the day in the city visiting relatives. They are on their way home to Calgary, Alta. from Red Lake Falls where they had been called last week by the death of their father Dumas Bray an old pioneer after whom the town of Bray was named. The gentlemen went to Calgary three years ago and have prospered with the town, W. O. is conducting a hotel and reports business good. They say that crops have been good and have all been marketed, money is flush and everything booming. The Minnesota and Dakota colony is doing well and satisfied with the change.

MAIN FLIGHT NOT YET STARTED

Marcus Stephens and John Cowley drove to Goose Lake yesterday after ducks and returned with 15 and a few prairie chickens. They found nothing but local ducks, the flight from the north not yet having started, and consequently the shooting was off as soon as the few ducks which happened to be inthe lake had been scared out.

The present cold weather however is expected to start them down from Canada in a very short time, and good bags of ducks as well as geese are confidently expected.

FIRE MARHALL SOUNDS WARNING

People Should Use Great Care In Setting Bonfires On Their Premises.

State Fire Marshall Edward Peterson is out with a timely warning against carelessness in the handling of grass and brush fires in the communities of the state.

The time is close at hand when the householder, if he is a good citizen, begins to rake his lawn in preparation for the winter. He will gather the dried grass and twigs and paper and other debris into a heap and set fire to it. In too many cases he will leave this task to careless children, and neglect it himself. After a season so dry as this, such practices involve grave danger to the security of property, and it will be well if everybody, this fall, keeps in mind the unusual danger from fires when every wooden building is as dry as tinder after weeks of drouth.

Says Mr. Peterson: "A large number of fires are reported at this time of the year as being caused by carelessness in burning grass and brush. Besides the great danger to the forest regions from this source every city and village is seriously threatened by such fires within its limits. This class of fires are as a rule set by children who play recklessly with this element of destruction. If warnings are not heeded they should be dealt with to the full extent of the law. Every violation of the law should be followed by arrests and punished. Police officers, constables wardens and fire chiefs should show no leniency to this class of offenders.

PENNED AND PILFERED

When the people can be made to understand that it actually costs a great deal more in time and money to travel over a poor road than it does to travel over a good one, they will be less inclined to begrudge the expense of good roads, and what is more important still, will be willing and anxious to put the business of road making into the hands of intelligent men who understand the business. Poor roads are the expensive things that curse a country.

The Hallock News gives this bit of timely advice to the politicians, which no doubt many will realize is quite true: If you want to succeed in politics and survive the inevitable rude shocks that must be encountered by the way just take this advice. Box up your temper; forget your sensitivness; develope a rhinocerous hide over your more tender sensibilities; realize that you are not the only pebble on the beach even if some kind hearted imbicile told you so, make due allowance for people's reluctance to say no when urged to say yes; be prepared for defeat and then if you succeed you will feel all the better and will wonder how it really all happened.

Rev. J. H. Moore of Hannibal, Ohio pastor of the Christian church, stepped right out into deep water the other Sunday when he said in his sermon:

"I have my opinion of any woman who will use a powder puff."

This remark almost caused a riot Several ladies arose and protested.

"You ought to be made to resign," shouted one of the choir girls.

"I will resign, sister, just as soon as this congregation can raise the two months' back salary due me," said the minister.

"We'll raise the money tomorrow," said a fat member, who had looked on the powder puff in its whiteness.

And the ladies have started out to do it.

VOTE FOR THIS LAW

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO STATE CONSTITUTION REQUIRING QUALIFICATION

WOULD REQUIRE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS TO BE WELL QUALIFIED

From Saturday's Daily—

At the forthcoming general election in November the voters will be called upon to pass upon an important amendment to the state constitution—an amendment which should carry. This proposed amendment is to section 7 article 7, of the constitution of Minnesota, and provides for an educational qualification for county superintendents of schools. It reads as follows:

"Every person who by the provisions of this article shall be entitled to vote at any election shall be eligible to any office which now is, or hereafter shall be, elective by the people in the district wherein he shall have resided thirty days previous to such election, except county superintendents of schools, who shall be required to have educational qualifications to be determined by the legislature, and except as otherwise provided in this constitution or the constitution and laws of the United States."

Section 7, article 7, as it now appears on the statute books, requires no educational qualifications for county superintendent of schools, hence an uneducated or even an illiterate person, if elected, may hold office thereunder.

At their mid-year convention June 9 of this year the county superintendents of Minnesota passed a resolution heartily approving the proposition requiring educational qualifications from all candidates for that office, and supporting the constitutional amendment printed above.

ARE BUSY DAYS FOR RAILROADS

These are busy days for the railroad men. There is no longer talk about increase of rates to pay dividends, but all their energies are devoted to taking care of the tremendous volume of business that has been forced upon the roads. The shipping of wheat started in about a month earlier than usual from the Dakotas and the Red River Valley. The mills need the wheat and the dollar a bushel is attractive to the farmers.

Agent Niede of the G. N. says there are more train crews operating from St. Cloud than ever before in the history of the road. The reason is this is the eight hour law and another is the avalanche of business. Mr. Niede was at Willmar yesterday and says the entire side track capacity was filled with cars loaded with wheat, awaiting a chance to reach the terminal points.

The force at the car shops has been increased and are turning out a large number of cars daily to help meet the demand.

This is going to be a great fall for the railroads, and the early start will probably ensure a record breaking total.—St. Cloud Journal Press.

P. MEEHAN IS NO MORE

FORMER RESIDENT OF THIEF RIVER FALLS DIES AT HIS HOME IN MILWAUKEE

WAS A MAN OF STRONG CHARACTER AND ALWAYS ACTIVELY ENGAGED IN BUSINESS

From Friday's Daily—

Word was received from Milwaukee last week of the death of Patrick Meehan, formerly a well known Northern Minnesota lumberman. His death was caused by diabetes of which he suffered for years.

The deceased was a man of great energy and ability. He was born in eastern Canada of Irish stock and when but a young man removed to Wisconsin and engaged in the lumber business with his brother, James Starting without any capital he made by work a fortune estimated at a half million. When the lumber business in Wisconsin was at an end he came to this section and purchased much pine land in the Red Lake country. The first saw mill at Thief River Falls was erected by Mr. Meehan and for a number of years he was engaged in business there, selling out to the Thief River Falls lumber company eight years ago. Since then he has resided in Milwaukee and engaged in the stock and mining business in the west, both ventures being successful ones and he greatly increased his large fortune.

RAILROAD MEN ARE ACTIVE

CONDUCTOR WITHEY IS NOW VERY BUSY IN AND ABOUT DULUTH

ANOTHER ORGANIZATION TO BE EFFECTED THERE TO PROTECT INTERESTS

From Friday's Daily—

To prevent unfavorable legislation against the railroads is the purpose of an organization to be formed by railway employes at the head of the lakes. It will be a branch of the Railroad Employes' Protective association of Minnesota, working cooperatively under its supervision with headquarters at Duluth.

The movement was started in Minnesota some time ago by railroad employes who have come to a realization of the fact that what is good for a railroad is good for its employes. The working principle of the organization is that unfavorable legislation against the railroads will indirectly work hardship for the men in the railroad's employ.

A committee has been appointed to arrange for a meeting of all railroad men at the head of the lakes Oct. 4, when a permanent organization is to be formed. The committee consists of J. H. O'Brien, Frank Fulton and S. G. Withey.

Anyone who draws a salary from a railroad is eligible to membership in the organization. Five or six branches of the state organization have been started and their influence is expected to be a big factor in railroad legislation in the future.

The men who are boosting the organization say that recent agitation against the railroads has affected the payrolls appreciatively, because it has seriously cut into the business of the roads. The organization will in the future fight all legislation that tends to menace the earning power of the railroads.

It is possible that the new state orbanization will join with the railroads in fighting the 2-cent rate law.

S. H. Withey a Great Northern conductor of Crookston who has taken a prominent part in the organization of the railway employes of the state says the laboring men have been working on the wrong side of the fence and that their best interest lies not in fighting against their employers, but in fighting with them for a common cause.

Officers will be elected at the meeting Oct. 4 and the organization completed. Meetings of the committee on arrangements will be held at intervals of a few days until then in order to keep the thing moving. Members who have already signed the membership list are as follows: J. T. Hughes, general chairman of the Order of Railway Conductors; T. E. Blanche, general agent of the Northern Pacific, Duluth; W. D. Campbell Peter J. Nelson, P. L. McLaughlin, Great Northern conductors; D. H. Williams, industrial agent of the Soo line, Duluth; J. B. Mason, L. L. Blair, Duluth; South Shore & Atlantic conductors, Marquette, Mich.

Mr. Withey says he expects the membership of the local branch of the association to reach the 700 mark. He is making his headquarters at the St. Louis hotel.

"The movement is absolutely nonpartisan," said Mr. Withey last night "Any employe from a section hand to a superintendent will be welcomed into the organization. Candidates seeking office will not receive our support without a pledge that they will oppose legislation unfavorable to the railroads. When we are fully organized over the country as we expect to be before long, it will be impossible for any candidate to be elected to office unless he pledges us his support."

There are about 19 states now under the organization. St. Paul has about 4,000 active members.—Duluth News Tribune.

MODEL FARM GIVEN TO EXPERIMENT STATION

The model farm constructed with infinite labor by an employe of the Duluth Commercial club for St. Louis county's agricultural exhibit at the state fair, has been donated to the state experiment station at St. Anthony park, St. Paul, to be used for purposes of instruction. VALLEY LOOKS PROSPEROUS

W. E. McKENZIE SAYS RED RIVER VALLEY FARMS LOOK BETTER THAN ANY HE SAW BETWEEN THIS SECTION AND PACIFIC COAST

From Thursday's Daily—

"One thing is certain, no where enroute from the Pacific Coast did I see as thriving farms as I have seen right here near Crookston. As an agricultural section the Red River Valley is unsurpassed. I thought that when I lived here for over a quarter of a century, and I think the same since I located in Seattle."

The above statement was made by W. E. McKenzie, for many years a leading business man of Crookston and former publisher of the Crookston Times. Mr. McKenzie has been here for about a week attending to some business matters, and left last evening for the paper mills in Massachusetts where he buys most of his paper for the wholesale paper house of which he is the head at Seattle, with a branch in Tacoma, and will stop for a day or two in Minneapolis.

Practically all the paper is shipped via Panama being transferred across the isthmus by rail, and a material reduction in rates is expected as soon as the Panama canal is completed.

Mr. McKenzie is a staunch friend of the Valley, and is as firm a believer in its future as any one could be. He says he notes a wonderful improvement in the farming methods since he left and was glad to note the increased attention being paid to dairying, which means added wealth to this section.

WELL KNOWN HERE—Harry A. Outcalt, who is at present on the road for a Duluth crockery firm in which he is interested, is spending a few days in this territory. Mr. Outcalt was formerly with the Bradford Land Co., in this city and has many frends here who are pleased to meet him.

HAD A BAD ACCIDENT — Mrs. May Straus of Russia was in the city yesterday and bought a big load of groceries. Enroute home one wheel of her buggy broke off at the State Ditch south of town and G. W. Stocker had to come to the rescue and kept the unfortunate woman over night and took care of her goods.

THE BOYS PROSPERING — J. Johnson of Rochelle, Ill., is here visiting with his sons, Louis, Andrew and Charles, who have a fine farm in Lowell township. Mr. Johnson is greatly interested in the Red River Valley and is one of the best boosters in his native state. He finds that the boys have had a prosperous year at the same time increasing the fertility of the farm.

SUDDEN DEATH— The angel of Death has entered the home and carried away Willard Adolph the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bucklen, Andover town. The little fellow who was only four years of age, has always enjoyed good health up to a few hours before death. The sudden bereavement is a great shock to the stricken family. The funeral will take place at 2:00 p. m. Sunday Services at the house.

HOW TO GET RID OF RATS — A farmer says that he rids his farm of rats in the following manner. "On a number of pieces of shingle I put out a teaspoonful of molasses and on that a quantity of concentrated lye and then put the shingles around under the cribs. The next morning I found some forty dead rats and the rest left for parts unknown. I've cleaned several farms of these pests this way and never knew it to fail."

IS VERY WELL—Mrs. Geo. Brunelle and the boys went to Crookston yesterday being summoned there because of the serious condition of Mr. Brunelle who is receiving treatment at St. Vincent hospital. For the past three weeks Mr. Brunelle has been troubled by a carbuncle on his neck. Of late t has been causing him so much trouble that on last Friday he went to the hospital for treatment. Mr. Brunelle's condition is so serious that it is feared that he cannot recover.—Red Lake Falls Gazette. Inquiry at St. Vincent hospital today does not give any encouraging news regarding Mr. Brunelle.

HAS A POLITICAL SECRET — J. F. Montgomery spent the night in the city from Angus, returning home this morning. He refused to talk politics but appeared to have something under his bonnet in that line and may be induced to talk later on.

PLOWING WELL ALONG— Fall plowing is well along according to the reports that have been received from the farmers during the past few days. The plowing this fall is at least a month ahead of what it was last fall and in most instances is much more than that.

IMPORTANT WATER WAY

O. L. HAMERY SAYS BELTRAMI SWAMP WILL BE ENTIRELY DRAINED.

SAYS AN IMMENSE AMOUNT OF WORK IS BEING DONE IN POLK AND MARSHALL

From Thursday's Daily—

Ditch No. 73 which has just been established by the Board of Commissioners of Polk County, and which taps the Beltrami Swamp, is one of the most important waterways ever constructed in this part of the valley The ditch is 17 miles long including the laterals, and the cost will be $40,000. It runs parallel to the State ditch in the same vicinity, and follows the old bed of the Sand Hill River, into which the ditch later empties, the Sand Hill now being a live stream from the fact that so many ditches now empty into it. The ditch will effectually drain the Beltrami swamp, and in addition will handle the overflow from the State ditch.

This is the most important drainage ditch projected in Polk Co., this year though there are many other smaller ditches being constructed.

Engineer O. L. Hamery of this city states that Marshall Co. is doing an immense amount of work this year, and preparing for much more to be done next year. Six new ditches are being constructed in that county this year, in addition to the large amount of work on old ditches including extensions.

The biggest new ditch projected, upon which Mr. Hamery will report some time before the first of the year, is ditch No. 20, northeast of Thief River Falls which will be 38 miles long and which empties into Thief River and will drain an immense area. Engineer Hamery alone has kept 14 ditch contractors busy all season and says more work will be done next year in the ditch construction line than for many years past.

KILN EXPLODED; TWO ROASTED

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT OCCURED YESTERDAY AT KENMARE N. D.

ACCIDENT SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN DUE AS RESULT OF EXPLOSION.

From Thursday's Daily—

Buried under tons of red hot brick and slowly roasting to death before the eyes of their comrades, E. W. Drake, Sr., and Clarence Bailey met a tragic death in an explosion of one of the massive kilns of the Kenmare Brick and Coal company yesterday. The men were working in the kiln at Kenmare early, when, with a thunderous report, the massive structure brick on all sides. So sudden was the catastrophe that Mr. Drake's hunting dog which had been lying at his feet was caught before it could move. Two of the workmen who had been employed in an adjacent kiln escaped to give the alarm.

DEMOCRATIC CONFERENCE

CANDIDATES MET HERE LAST EVENING WITH COUNTY COMMITTEE

OUTLINED PLANS TO CONDUCT A VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN THIS FALL

From Saturday's Daily—

Last evening there were things doing among the Democrats. W. W. Brown of McIntosh and F. W. Kolars of Huntsville, candidates for the legislature from this district, H. O. Hanson of Lindsey, candidate for county treasurer, Hans Samuelson, candidate for sheriff and Geo. J. Cannon of this city, candidate for county attorney met with the Democratic county committee in the offices of W. E. Black where the campaign was outlined and plans laid for conducting a vigorous campaign from this time forward till the general election in November.

The Democratic leaders of the county who were present are of the opinion that the outlook is good, and W. E. Black says that from all parts of the county favorable reports are coming in.

"I WILL LISTEN FOR YOU ON NEXT NOVEMBER"

The above Were Wm. H. Tafts Parting Words to the Farmers and Business Men of Northern Minnesota.

The Republican Standard Bearer Devoted Crookston Address to Answering Charges Made by W. J. Bryan Here Recently.

From Monday's Daily—

Hon. Wm. H. Taft, the Republican candidate for the highest office within the gift of the people of the United States, that of president, has come and gone and the big crowd assembled appeared to be very favorably impressed.

He spoke from a platform facing east at the corner of Second and Main streets, where seats had been arranged for the members of Taft's party, including United States Senators Knute Nelson and Moses E. Clapp, Congressman J. Adam Bede and other state leaders the county central committee of Polk county, and other prominent republicans from other counties in Northern Minnesota, and the committee of 25 from Grand Forks and North Dakota who came to escort Judge Taft to that state where he spoke at Grand Forks and at Fargo this evening.

Republican Party and Farmers

Judge Taft was introduced by Congressman Steenerson and got right down to business, eliminating all flourishes.

He stated that he would devote his brief remarks to the charge made by Wm. J. Bryan here recently that the Republican party had not treated the farmers fairly. Judge Taft said in part.

"Does this charge come with very good grace from Mr. Bryan who was a member of Congress during several years of the Cleveland administration and was one of the enthusiastic supporters of the Gorman-Wilson tariff which was followed by a decline of wheat to 50 cents per bushel, with similar declines in barley, oats, flax corn, potatoes and other farm products.

Armies of Unemployed

"Under the operations of this tariff bill there were armies of unemployed in the industrial centers. Mr. Bryan told you in those days ago that Free Silver was the remedy, and nothing else could bring back prosperity.

"Mr. Bryan was unfortunate in his prophesies when we consider what happened under the operation of his remedies.

What Republicans Claim

"The Republican party is not responsible for the bountiful crops of the Red River Valley, but we claim that the party puts laws upon the statute books which bring good reprices for your good crops. Industrial conditions must be such as to create a demand for your products or you cannot get good prices for them.

Capitalists Suspicious

"Following the revelations of rail road rebates and similar sensations in connection with some other big corporations, foreign capitalists grew suspicious and the wage earners and business men felt the inevitable result. Liquid capital did not flow in for use and there was an industrial depression. Industries began to stagger. For this country to prosper we must have the confidence of the financial centers.

"Mr. Bryan says the Republican party does not care for the farmers but just mistreats them and to illustrate this said but $10,000,000 were appropriated for the maintenance of the Agricultural department of the government while $120,000,000 were appropriated for the navy.

"Is it just fair for Mr. Bryan to make charges against the Republican Party for outrageous extravagance without saying where he would curtail expenses. The Democratic platform adopted at the Denver convention has a plank favoring an adequate navy. What does he mean by an adequate navy? He promised the Pacific coast an adequate navy, but tells the farmers here a different story.

$27,000,000 For Farmers

"Under the Republican party $27,000,000 is expended annually for rural free delivery for the farmers. Outside of the rural free delivery the post office department would be self sustaining. Would Mr. Bryan cut down this expense. He should specify where he would cut.

Would Foster Farmers

"We know that the farmers need every encouragement. With increasing population we want as much of rural life and healthful rural influences both physical and moral as we can get. The more concentrated the population the harder vice is to control.

Respects to Governor Haskell

In conclusion Mr. Taft said that Gov. Haskell had helped shape the resolution at the Democratic National convention, and that he would have to leave Mr. Haskell's case to the good judgment of the people under recent developments. This sally was followed by an outburst of laughter.

Taft is Willing

After being warned that his time had expired several times Mr. Taft concluded with this statement. "Not all Republicans are office seekers. I am one willing to accept."

Off For Forks

Judge Taft was then hurried thru the Crookston Band which stood open rank, playing Hail to the Chief, the special train was boarded and Mr. Taft shook hands with as many as could crowd to the rear of the train. As the train pulled out Mr. Taft raised his hat and said:

"I will listen for you next November" which created a mighty shout.

Spoke at Auditorium.

The crowd was then directed to the Auditorium where United States Senators Nelson and Clapp spoke later, and of which mention will be made tomorrow.

Weather Unfavorable

Owing to the very unfavorable weather the attending crowds were much smaller than they would have otherwise been. The wind last evening was bitterly cold, and this morning with several degrees worse, and seemed to strike to the very marrow of the early wayfarer. On No. 5 from St. Paul there was but a handful of people for Crookston, and while the train for Moorhead was well patronized with very fair crowds on the other trains, the inclement weather kept practically all the ladies of the city at home, and this also tended to make the crowd smaller.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM WAS STIRRED UP

More Republican enthusiasm was stirred up in Crookston yesterday as a result of the three addresses by Wm. H. Taft and Senators Nelson and Clapp than had been witnessed here in many years. While Mr. Clapp spoke only about 20 minutes, he made good use of his time and went after Wm. J. Bryan hammer and tongs.

Mr. Taft spoke from a platform erected on Second Ctreet in front of the G. N. Depot, and Congressman Steenerson who introduced the speaker announced that Senators Nelson and Clapp would at ance speak in the Auditorium, which was promptly packed with an enthusiastic crowd.

Senators Spoke.

Senator Clapp opened his address with a few preliminary remarks and came right down to business, his text was evidently Bryans attack on the Republican party and its accomplishments, the past 11 years of power. Especially Bryan's implication that the trusts and not the people have ruled during that time.

The People Do Rule

"There is no land under the sun where people have ruled as in this land of ours the past 11 years" spoke the Senator. 12 years ago Coxey's army was on the march, soup houses flourished, and bats built their nests in the factory chimneys.

Republican Achievements

The scene was changed when McKinley was elected, and the republicans lifted this country out of the paralysis of 1896. Senator Clapp paid glowing tribute to the boys of the Spanish war, the successful outcome and the luster it had added to our nation and diplomacy of the republican administration.

Chapter IV.—The part the American nation took in the great international peace conference.

Chapter V.—The great task accomplished in converting the barren waste of the western arid lands into blossoming gardens.

Chapter VI.—Drainage, in which Congressman Steenerson has played a conspicious part. More has been done in the past few years than in decades, measures have already been introduced, that Bryan is advocating in his platform.

Chapter VII.—The rebate liability bill of which all are familiar.

Chapter VIII.—The rebate law passed in 1893, thru which many law defying trusts were brought to the bar of justice and again in 1905 the republican congress passed the rate bill altho it wasn't a cure-all for all kinds of evils. It showed the pessimists that the government was stronger as a result and was ruled by the people.

Thruout this review the senator paid his respects to Mr. Bryan and his declarations that the people did not rule.

The Big Stick

Senator Clapp, declared the so-called big stick was nothing more than the will and purpose of the American people reflected thru their representative President Roosevelt." "Never did a people rule like the American people." It's been four years since the Senator has been before a Crookston audience, and what a moral uplift and transformation has taken place in that time. Public officials, Senators and representatives brought to the bar of justice. The four years have demonstrated the moral sentiment which is a vital issue in government to keep up the industrial and commercial life. The great question is: Will we go on with this moral energy?

The Banks

The Senator touched on the guarantee of banks and the postal deposit banks in the platforms and showed by illustration how injurious the democratic plank would be and the beneficial points of the postal deposit plank in the republican platform. Money is like blood in the human system, it must circulate. Money in its activity must flow and flow freely.

Do Nothing Congress

The charge of a do nothing congress has been made, Senator Clapp denied this. Congress has been busy, as results of the past twelve years will show. It was no small task to take a paralyzed country like this was in 1896, and revive it into prosperity. Congress has assed much wise legislation, and numerous laws were enumerated by the speaker. The senator illustrated his remarks by a few stories. "The first horse he harnessed, he figured out what he thought the necessary parts to pull the cart. He put on the breast plate and tugs to draw. Back had to hold up the shafts, and he thought he was all O. K. But soon found when coming to the rough road and going down the first hill, he had left out one of the most essential parts, the breeching and the result was a smashup. It's the same in the government, on a rough road the breeching is as necessary as the breast plate, and it takes more courage to call a halt than to order a charge.

Bryan Wanted a Panic

Bryan wanted a panic last fall, it would have been a political asset that would have been valuable to the democrats. Bryan had no thought or considerations for the terrible consequences to the masses. Like a story of two Irishmen who had made a bet: Pat says "Mike you can't carry me to the fourth floor in your hod." Mike wagered he could, and carried Pat to the fourth floor up a ladder and won the bet. On his way Mike wobbled some on the third ladder and Pat said then and there he had hopes of winning the bet. So it was with Bryan, he wished for the catastrophy so he might have a hope of winning the presidency.

Heir to Roosevelt

Bryan makes the claim that he is the natural and logical heir to the Roosevelt policies. William H. Taft with his training, calm judicial mind, and close relationship to the Roosevelt administration is not only peculiarly fitted but has the abilities of carrying out the great policies inaugurated by Roosevelt.

The speaker also dwelt at some length on the injunction plank in the platform.

Taft is the Choice

Summing up his address he said that the American people have already expressed their choice, and the verdict is all but recorded and Wm. H. Taft's trip thru Crookston was a ride on the way to the White House.

At the close of Senator Nelson's address Senator Clapp explained the connections and influence that Jacobson's "Y" bill in Minnesota had in passing a rate bill in congress.

Senator Nelson's speech in part was: After a few opening remarks paying his respects to the preceding speaker, and explaining that he had not come to deliver a political speech but to have a neighborly talk with his old friends, of whom were many in the audience before him, who came into this region in the early days and built up this fertile country to what it is today. Senator Nelson still lives on the homestead near Alexandria, that he filed on Oct. 10th 1871. He paid a tribute to the economy, thrift and prudence of the pioneer, a tribute to the success of good government, built up by the republican party.

Political Parties

Political parties are as necessary as religious organizations, therefore on the eve of election each true American citizen should consider the importance of his right to franchise and use it to the best good of his country

"Let us take our bearings and look back, and note the developments since 1894 when Cleveland relinquished the government control to McKinley. The congress of 1893-4 passed a tariff bill, what was the result—industrial stagnation, thousands out of employment, the farmers' home market ruined, consequently prices went down to nothing. In 1894 Mcinley's party repealed the democratic tariff bill by passing the Dingley bill, and the country immediately resumed its normal condition and has prospered beyond all expectations the past eleven years.

Tariff Revision

Mr. Nelson is in favor of tariff revision, as is Mr. Taft but it should be on a basis of the difference of production here and abroad.

Speaking of Mr. Taft he says that he is the ablest and greatest statesman of the age, his work in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, fully justifies this remark. "He has regenerated a people who have been for 300 years under the most despotic rule and brought about law and order, free and stable government. The Dutch, French and English have for 250 years had trouble with their colonies, and none could show a government as Taft had established in the Philippines." Wm. H. Taft is the greatest missionary of the age and his work will be the light, guide and inspiration of the millions of Orientals to aspire to."

Eulogize Jacobson

The Senator then gave J. F. Jacobson, the candidate for governor a grand tribute, stating that he was one of his kind of men, a man like the men who were his hearers, straightforward and honest, always for the people's welfare.

He first became acquainted with him while governor in 1892, Nobody laughed at him because he didn't wear a swallow tailed coat. "His mother didn't part his hair in the middle or put a bib on him." Jacobson was a self made man, a leader among men, during his twelve years legislative record, he was a leader among the lawmakers. "A leader of 121 legislaturers is no fool". Mr. Jacobson's well known legislative record, regarding the remedial railroad legislation, fathered by him was explained.

Mr. Nelson reviewed the public life of Jacobson and could not find sufficient praise for him, who was a man of the people and should be selected by the people to enforce the laws he had been instrumental in having placed on the statute books. The Senator appealed to the republicans to be true to their faith and vote straight.

Reminiscent

Mr. Nelson told of when he was in congress, he labored to have the 13 Towns opened, and when it was accomplished, a town was named Knute after him, but in the Kindred-Nelson fight it only gave him four votes, but he understands it has come right since. He concluded his remarks by telling his hearers that they were fortunate in the legislators representing them in the law making bodies. Congressman Steenerson is a worker when in Washington and has gained an enviable standing among his associates in the house. Senator Stephens' work and achievements were too evident for him to enlarge on.

The Senator applauded the good sense of his countrymen in joining the republican party when they became citizens and he also made an appeal to the young voters who cast their first ballot to vote for Taft and Jacobson.

BENJ. BRENN SUICIDES IN TABOR TOWNSHIP

WENT TO FIELD AT 8 O'CLOCK THIS MORNNG AND ENDED HIS LIFE WITH A RIFLE BULLET—NO CAUSE KNOWN — CAUSED BIG SENSATION—WAS ONE OF THE OLD PROSPEROUS AND PROMINENT RESIDENTS OF NORTHWESTERN POLK COUNTY —LEAVES WIFE AND FIVE CHILDREN WELL PROVIDED FOR

From Monday's Daily—

Benj Brenn, prominent and wealthy farmer of Tabor township walked to a strawstack in a field near his home at 8 o'clock this morning and shot himself thru the head with a rifle, death resulting instantly. The remains were found by some of his hired men shortly afterwards.

Deceased was 38 years old and leaves a widow and 5 children. No known cause for the rash deed as his finances were in good shape and no trouble with the family had taken place.

Deceased is a brother of Joe and John Brenn, the three having been pioneer residents of Tabor township and had all been successful and were highly thought of by everyone.

The suicide has caused a great sensation at Tabor, Angus, Euclid and Keystone where deceased was well and favorably known. A telephone message from Tabor late this afternoon is to the effect that Brenn had never given any cause for the belief that he would ever end his life, and had not been acting queerly at all. Even this morning he gave no evidence of insanity, and acted as he usually did.

Coroner Chesterman will investigate the case at once.

EQUIPMENT WAS LACKING

GREAT NORTHERN FAILED TO GET CARS HERE FOR SPECIALS FOR TAFT

EQUIPMENT TO HAVE BEEN USED HERE USED AT ST. CLOUD YESTERDAY

From Monday's Daily—

Much disappointment was felt today over the failure of the arrval of equipment for the two special trains that were to have been run to Crookston from Hallock and Thief River Falls.

The cash guarantee of $485 was turned over to the Great Northern, and the Northern Division officials had made preparations to run the two trains. The equipment to have been used here, was used yesterday to run several special trains into St. Cloud to attend some big Catholic function, and after the crowds there had been returned to their homes, the special cars were rushed to Barnesville, but it was 8 o'clock this morning before the cars were turned over to the northern division.

They could not reach Crookston before 11 o'clock and they would have to make up the two trains which could not have left Crookston for Hallock and Thief River Falls much before noon, and could not have got back to Crookston with the crowds in time to meet Taft who arrived at 2:25.

The Great Northern took all the blame for not running the specials, but gave the above explanation. There was simply insufficient equipment to handle the business.

Wealthy Farmer Suicide.

Crookston, Minn., Sept. 30.—Word was received in this city late yesterday afternoon that Benjamin Brenn, a prominent and wealthy farmer of Taber township, shot himself. No reason can be assigned for the deed unless that of temporary insanity.

Burglars Blow Safe; Get $1,000.

Duluth, Sept. 30.—The safe in the general store of the Erskine-Stackhouse company, at Cohasset, Itasca county, was blown up and $360 in cash and $600 in checks taken.

TRACK LAYERS ARE SOON DUE

WILL START WORK ON GREENBUSH EXTENSION WITH BIG FORCE

AS SOON AS WORK IS COMPLETED ON CEMENT MINE BRANCH

From Monday's Daily—

The Great Northern will have a big track laying crow at work on the Greenbush extension just as soon as the crew at present at work on the cement mine branch from Park River, N. D., is completed which will be but a few days hence.

Chief Engineer Eddy of the Great Northern was in Roseau county last week and went over the right of way and men are at work fixing the grade in several places. Not only that, but the train crew has been selected by the superintendent of the Northern division and work will begin at once. The steel for the road was ordered several months ago. Several loads of ties have been sent up in the last few days.

The opening of this line means a great deal to Crookston, Thief River Falls and the county of Roseau. At present nearly all transportation is by the way of Winnipeg or around by Emerson to reach the twin cities and the farmers are forced to haul their produce in some cases over 40 miles.

The whole territory that the extension will traverse is well settled and includes many prosperous villages and settlements.

"Making Good"

may be slang but it is a vigorous phrase of tonic qualities and holds a world of solid meaning, hard work, honorable success, accomplishment.

There are many young men, 60 years and under, hard-workers, who have failed to justify the hopes and ambitions of their families and friends; failed to reap the harvest due them; failed to "Make Good", simply because they did not realize the many actual advantages offered them by a check account; the protection afforded their money; the chance to save the extra dollar or two; to build up their credit; the certainty of having to pay bills but once; and other advantages appreciated by the man who has a bank account.

Surveyors Begin Work For On Railroad From Emerson To Winnipeg.

Indications Are That Some Work Is Planned For The Near Future.

Winnipeg, Oct. 7—Twelve surveyors are at Emerson, Man., just north of the boundary with equipment to locate a new line of the Great Northern from Emerson to Winnipeg. They started in at Noyes, which is a union depot for the Great Northern and Soo lines, to stake out the proposed route From Noyes the stakes head along the street west of the C. P. R. tracks and will probably parallel the C. P. R. line here. The work of laying out the new line is being rushed to completion and it is expected that construction will be started at the earliest possible date. The new line will give the Great Northern entry into Winnipeg over its own road and so sever its connection with the Canadian Northern.

The extension means a great deal to northern Minnesota as well as to Manitoba, and will mean a vastly better handling of the traffic that at times has been congested.

The work which will probably be done next year will also give employment to a vast number of men in this section, and will also result in a betterment of the mail service. The people on both sides of the line are naturally highly elated over the prospects of the new line.

HAS SURVIVED ALL ATTACKS

Bryan Declares Republicans Are Now Explaning Why He Is Alive.

Ridicules Republicans Says They Claim Credit For Sun And Rain.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oct. 7—"I present myself as an example of one who has outlived the venomous attacks of his opponents. You heard me called a demagogue 12 years ago. You saw them bury me and you heard them chant their songs over my grave, and now they have to explain why it happened that I was not dead."

With all the fervor that he could muster up, William J. Bryan facing a vast assemblage in the Chautauqua Auditorium between Tama and Toledo, in this state, today delivered himself of this utterance. At no time during the present campaign has he spoken so earnestly or with such vigor. This remark followed a bitter denunciation of Mr. Taft for refusing to agree to a publication of campaign contributions before election.

At Woodward he heaped ridicule on the republicans by charging them with taking credit for the growth of the crops, the shining of the sun and the bringing of the rain. In fact he said: "They sieze upon anything that they think gives a plausible excuse for voting the republican ticket."

At Maxwell he denounced the granting of special privileges. Drawing large cheering crowds all day in the course of his travels thru the state, the democratic candidate, never in better form, hurled defiance at his opponents and challenged them to meet his arguments. Fifteen speeches and handshaking with thousands constituted his day's work, the concluding speech being made here last night in the Auditorium which was filled to overflowing long before he was scheduled to arrive. The keynote of his principal remarks here tonight was that the republican policies meant disaster while the democratic policies meant prosperity.

PROGRESS TOWARDS UNITING TWIN CITIES

Three Great Factories to Be Erected Soon Between St. Paul and Mpls. Movement Will Tend to Unite Two Cities.

If the predictions of many Saint Paul and Minneapolis business men come true the Twin Cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis will soon be united in one great city, one of the largest in the country.

Between the two cities has been an open space of ground. This has always been considered as the dividing line between them. Now this is filling up, and as soon as there is no open space left, the movement to join the two cities will be started.

Within the last week, three large factories in Saint Paul have decided to move out into the Midway district They are The Sharood Shoe Company manufacturers of fine shoes; Guiterman Brothers, Wholesale clothing; Griggs, Cooper & Co., Wholesale grocers. These firms will build factories within a year in this district and will there manufacture their own goods.

Cass Lake Man Loses His Hand

Carl Allen Shot While Hunting. Carried Home By His Companion.

Cass Lake, Oct. 7—While hunting with a companion some seven miles from Cass Lake, yesterday, Carl Allen accidentally shot himself, the bullet from the gun which he was handling entering one of his hands and severing that member entirely from the wrist. Allen is now in this village in a precarious condition it being feared that blood poison may ensue from the accident.

Allen was accompanied by Joe Marow, and they were hunting seven miles north of Cass Lake.

Allen was standing on a log with his hand resting on the gun, when he lost his balance and stepped backward. The barrel of the gun opened as Allen stepped off the log, and when he gained his equilibrium the weapon closed and the gun was cocked by the action. The gun was discharged almost as soon as it was closed, and the bullet entered the palm of Allen's hand, blowing the hand almost into fragments.

The injured man immediately became unconscious, and Marow carried Allen on his back the entire seven miles to this place.

Allen's injured arm and wrist were attended by a local physician and if complications do not ensue, he will doubtless recover.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

DE WOLFE HOPPER IS INJURED BY A VERY SERIOUS FALL

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 7—De Wolf Hopper the comedian, sustained a fall while appearing on the stage of a local theatre last night, which rendered him unconscious and necessitated the dismissal of the audience.

The accident was due to the slipping of the buckle of a belt about his waist, attached to a wire by which he was suspended in the air.

He Who Laughs Last.

Celebrate

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 7—A German celebration at the academy of music brought to close the day's program in connection with founder's day. Addresses were made by Count Hatzfeldt, representative of the German emperor; Gov. Stuart, Prof. Adolph Spaeth, Dr. C. J. Hexamer, president of the National German-American alliance and Herman Ridder of New York Staatz Zeitung, whose English oration was one of the features.

"What would you do," the bridegroom whispered hoarsely, "if by some terrible accident I should be drowned?" In the mild moonlight he saw his young wife pale and shudder. "Oh, don't, Tom," she cried. "How can you? You know I don't look well in black!"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

GIRL WILL RECOVER

GRAND FORKS GIRL WHO TOOK POISON SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

"Margaret Earl, who took poison in a resort Saturday night, is reported to be improved. Hospital physicians state she will recover."

The above dispatch from the Associated Press, St. Paul, to The Herald was received yesterday. The news of the attempt of the girl to end her life which appeared in the Herald yesterday morning caused a good deal of interest here, as she is well known.

Rearing Dairy Stock.

It should ever be considered that heifers are being reared for the dairy and not for beef. For this purpose they should be fed and cared for. There should be a good, healthy growth of muscle and bone, but not of fat. Begin with the calf and follow up until the heifers become cows. There should be a steady growth of body and development of dairy form qualities all of the time, summer and winter. The young animals should be kindly treated, so that they may become quiet and docile. This is the more necessary as the heifers usually take their place in the dairy at the early age of two years. There should be plenty of succulent, nourishing foods, but no overfeeding, as this is an injury to them rather than a benefit.

PENNANT GOES TO DETROIT TEAM

Chicago, Oct. 7—What is said to have been the closest pennant contest ever waged by American league baseball clubs came to an end in this city yesterday when Detroit, champions of 1907 captured the emblem for another year by defeating Chicago 7 to 0. Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago struggled all season for first place not being far from each other in the percentage table and not until today could the winner be picked. St. Louis put Cleveland out of the running yesterday leaving the field to Detroit and Chicago.

Chicago's fight has been an up hill one, but Captain Jones never despaired until the last Chicago player had been retired today. Had Chicago triumphed the pennant would have come to this city, but the defeat of the local team in the final test left no subject of debate for the "If club."

By winning yesterday's game, Detroit finished with a persentage of .588 and Chicago with .579.

Detroit's runs resulted not only from the 13 hits the team accumulated but from the five errors made by Chicago. The score:

State of Minnesota, Executive Department—Proclamation.

Whereas, pursuant to Chapter seven (7), Revised Laws of Minnesota, 1905, a petition was filed with the Secretary of State on the 7th day of December A. D. 1906, praying for the creation of a new county out of territory now lying in Polk county, Minnesota, the same to be known as Nelson county, and described as follows to-wit:

Beginning at the south-east corner of township numbered one hundred and forty-seven, north of range thirty-nine west of the 5th principal meridian in Minnesota; thence running west along the south boundary line of townships one hundred and forty-seven of ranges thirty-nine, forty, forty-one, forty-two and forty-three, the same being the boundary line between Polk and Norman counties, to the southwest corner of township one hundred and forty-seven, range forty three; thence running north along the range line between ranges forty-three and forty-four to the northwest corner of township one hundred and forty-eight, range forty-three; thence west along the north boundary line of township one hundred and forty-eight to the southwest corner of township one hundred and forty-nine, range forty-three; thence north along the range line between ranges forty-three and forty-four to the northwest corner of township one hundred and forty-nine range forty-three; thence east along the north boundary line of said township last named and townships one hundred and forty-nine, ranges forty-two and forty-one to the northeast corner of said township last named; thence north along the west boundary line and east along the north boundary line of township one hundred and fifty, range forty, to the northeast corner of said township last named; thence north along the west boundary line, and east along the north boundary line of township one hundred and fifty-one, range thirty-nine, to the northeast corner of the said township last named; thence south along the range line between ranges thirty-eight and thirty-nine to the southeast corner of township one hundred and forty-nine, range thirty-nine; thence east along the north boundary line of township one hundred and forty-eight, range thirty-nine to the northeast corner of same; thence south along the range line between ranges thirty-eight and thirty-nine to the place of beginning, all of said territory being within the county of Polk and including and embracing the whole of townships numbered one hundred and forty-seven, one hundred and forty-eight and one hundred and forty-nine, ranges thirty-nine, forty, forty-one, forty-two and forty-three, townships one hundred and fifty, ranges thirty-nine and forty and township one hundred and fifty-one, range thirty-nine; and that the village of Fosston be the county seat thereof; and that Fred S. Syverson of Hill River, T. Hanson of Queen, Dreng Grundysen, of Sletten, Jens O. Rindal of Garden and Oscar Melsness of Badger, all legal voters and residents within said proposed new county, be and constitute the first board of County Commissioners of said proposed county, and the same to be known as Nelson county; and in which said petition it is represented and avered that the said hereinbefore described territory comprises more than four hundred square miles and contains more than two thousand inhabitants, and that the remaining area of Polk county, after deducting the territory hereinbefore described will comprise more than four hundred square miles and contain more than two thousand inhabitants.

And, whereas, the said petition has been duly considered and found and certified to as conforming in all respects to the provisions of law;

Now, therefore, I, John A. Johnson, governor of the State of Minnesota, pursuant to the authority vested in me by law, do hereby direct and proclaim that the question of the creation of the proposed new county of Nelson be submitted to the voters of said Polk county at the next general election to be held in this state on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1908.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Minnesota to be hereunto affixed this 19th day of August 1908.

(Seal) —John A. Johnson,
Governor.

Attest:
Julius A. Schmahl,
Secretary of State.

United States of America, State of Minnesota, Department of State.

I, Julius A. Schmahl, Secretary of State of the State of Minnesota do hereby certify that I have compared the annexed copy with the original instrument in my office of Proclamation by the Governor of the State of Minnesota, in the matter of county division of Polk County and that said copy is a true and correct transcript of said original Proclamation and of the whole thereof.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Great Seal of the State, at the Capitol, in Saint Paul, this twenty-fourth day of September, A. D. nineteen hundred and eight.

Secretary of State.

AN EXCELLENT ADVERTISEMENT

CAR LOAD OF CREAM CANS EXCITE WONDER OF ILLINOIS PEOPLE

THREE TRUCK LOADS STOOD ON GREAT NORTHERN PLATFORM THIS MORNING

From Friday's Daily—

The Great Northern depot this morning furnished one of the best advertisements for the Red River Valley that has been seen for some time in three great truck loads of cream cans which were to be shipped to branch line towns.

"Great Scott" remarked a man from Illinois who was enroute to Warren, "I never heard before that Northern Minnesota paid so much attention to dairying."

And the conversation that followed caused the gathering of a knot of passengers from all parts of the country who apparently marvelled at the sight of practically a carload of cream cans in a country which was supposed by many to be an exclusive grain country, with no attention paid to either stock or dairy interests.

Such a showing is worth more as an advertisement to this section than any one would figure.

IMPORTANT CHANGES

REGARDING FOREIGN POSTAGE GO INTO EFFECT TODAY BY NEW RULING

RATE TO GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND IS REDUCED OVER ONE HALF

An order was received at the Crookston Post Office today relative to a material reduction in postage to Great Britain and Ireland. The former rate to all foreign countries was 5 cents for half an ounce. A few months ago the rate was reduced to 5 cents for the first ounce and 3 cents for each additional ounce.

Beginning today the following order No. 1667 went into effect:

Postage rate applicable to letters mailed in the United States addressed for delivery at any place in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, shall be two (2) cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce. Letters short paid or unpaid shall be dispatched to destination, but double the deficient postage calculated at said rate, shall be collected of the addressee upon delivery of letters.

WATER WORKS BONDS SOLD

The city council of East Grand Forks held a meeting Wednesday evening and went over the engineer's plans for the municipal waterworks pipe system, and finally accepted them, with the slight changes suggested at a prevlous meeting. The gested at a previous meeting. The tise for bids for construction. The sale of the bonds has finally been consummated, the entire issue being taken by the Commercial Investment Company, of Duluth, and the cash therefor has been received. The season has advanced so far that it is not expected that actual work on the system will be commenced here this fall, as the freezing up of the ground would make the work more expensive, but the council will, it is believed, be able to get a lower bid now for the work to be done next spring and in the meantime the pipe can be ordered, manufactured and delivered on the ground ready for construction.

The Cow and Her Care

To do well cows must be made comfortable.

To be a profitable milker the cow must be a hearty eater with good digestive powers.

In milking get all the milk each time, but do not keep on stripping after you have got it.

Never use wooden milk pails.

According to statistics, the average cow produces only 130 pounds of butter in a year.

Never choose a dairy cow because she is fat, sleek and a beauty. The profitable animal is generally scraggy and bony.

Sunlight should be utilized as much as possible in a dairy. It is a germ destroyer.

No matter how smart a man's wife thinks he is he knows he is a great deal more.

COUNTY BOARD THROUGH WORK

SOME IMPORTANT BUSINESS TRANSACTED BEFORE ADJOURNMENT

COUNTY DITCHES MUST BE COMPLETED ON SCHEDULE THIS YEAR

From Thursday's Daily—

The board of county commissioners completed a very important session yesterday afternoon. County Auditor Hoffard was instructed to advertise for bids for a 90 foot bridge over the Clearwater river in the township of Johnson. The county auditor reported that there was much inquiry for the sale of bonds for ditch No. 73.

The commissioners went after the ditch contractors who were behind in their work on county ditches. A resolution was passed instructing the county auditor to notify them that the board would expect them to have all the ditches completed this fall or run the danger of having their contracts declared void. He was also ordered to notify the bondsmen of the different contractors to the effect that if the work was not completed they would be liable to damages. The county commissioners are going after the contractors in earnest and it is stated that they will carry out the intent of the resolution to the letter. The action affects about seven of the county ditches now being constructed.

Upon the recommendation of a committee appointed to look over the petition for the establishment of a county road in the towns of Hill River and Chester, the board established the road and it will be constructed at once. The petition for a road in the towns of Woodside and Grove Park was referred to Commissioners Rindal, Clements and Eklund who are to view it October 26. A public hearing will be given on the petition November 6.

PRAISED POLICE REGULATIONS

TAFT WAS PLEASED WITH CONDITIONS IN CITY OF CROOKSTON

Congressman Steenerson today received word from the Taft Party to the effect that the police regulations which were in force in Crookston pleased him very highly. In all his travels the, arrangements had not been more to his satisfaction and he was highly pleased as to the special arrangements that were made in Crookston. No special detectives had a thing to do in this city.

The Great Unknown.

It was many years before the "Great Unknown" was identified. At the publication of the "Lay of the Last Minstrel," "Marmion," "Lady of the Lake" and finally of a novel called "Waverley," popular curiosity was excited, and the whole of England rang with the fame of the "Great Unknown," as Scott was called. The secret was well kept. Sir Walter Scott, who all his life had been storing material and training his mind to such concentration that he could work in the midst of interruptions and was able to turn out volume after volume with a rapidity, two a year, that made his readers doubt their very senses. His incognito was all the more perfectly preserved in that he kept open house at Abbotsford, devoting much of his time to entertaining his guests and visiting. It was not until the embarrassment of his publishers occurred that the identity of the author of the "Waverley Novels" was discovered. The case of Scott furnishes one of the many illustrations of the power of deceiving the public in literary matters.

A Bit of Deceit.

Bismarck vowed that after passing a competitive examination a man was never any good—that the strain wrecked him. Still it was cramming, the cramming of the ingenious mind of Lord Chesterfield which brought about the reform of the calendar. Cramming and flattery did it. "I have been of late a sort of an astronomer despite myself," he wrote. "I was obliged to talk some astronomical jargon, of which I did not understand one word, but got it by heart and spoke it by rote as a master." He had to make the peers believe that he knew something of the matter "and also to make them believe that they knew something of it themselves, which they did not." For his own part, he said he could as well have talked Celtic or Slavonian as astronomy and they would have understood him fully as well. They became parties to the deceit. They would not betray ignorance upon a subject as to which he credited them with abounding knowledge. Thus they reformed the calendar.

HILL GIVES GOOD ADVICE

SAYS THAT THE NATION SHOULD BUILD FEWER WARSHIPS AND MORE SCHOOLS

THE TIME OF CHEAP WHEAT HAS PASSED ACCORDING TO MR. HILL

From Friday's Daily—

It is not very often that the News agrees with James J. Hill but we do wish to heartily endorse his remarks at the dedication of Stephen's Hall at Crookston. Mr. Hill said: "If I had my way I would build a couple of warships less, yes, one would be enough, and I would take the $5,000,000 which it would cost and with it construct 1,000 schools of agriculture within the United States."

Mr. Hill stated that with the present birth rate, the country would not be able to take care of its own people, let alone the prospect of exporting grain to Europe, unless the farmers studied the science of agriculture and learned how to raise more bushels to the acre than they are able to do at present. "I believe we have seen the last day in the history of this country," he said, "when wheat will be cheap. Hereafter No. 1 hard will bring 90 cents which it is worth at the present time and even more if the soil is properly cultivated."

Mr. Hill declared further that the crops the past few years have been steadily decreasing in the yield per acre and with the many thousands of people who have come into this country to settle, most of the land has been taken up so the chance of accumulating greater acreage upon which to increase the size of the crops would soon be an impossibility even in western Canada. The only solution of the problem, according to Mr. Hill, is to study the question and find out in what way the output per acre can be increased.—Thief River Falls News.

SPARK GONE FROM CASE

SMOOTH CUSTOMER IS BELIEVED TO HAVE TAKEN $75 DIAMOND RING

CUSTOMER DOES SOME SLEIGHT OF HAND WORK AT JEWELRY STORE

From Friday's Daily—

Frank V. Kent, the Grand Forks jeweler has asked the police to assist him in locating a $75 diamond ring, which has disappeared. According to a clerk in the store a customer came in to look at the rings and declined to buy the $75 one, saying it was too expensive. He bought a $25 ring instead. A little lated it was discovered that the $75 ring was gone and the supposition was that the man had made off with it. The suspect was searched a little later but the ring was not found. There was no evidence considered strong enough to warrant his arrest.

The Making of Bran Mash.

One of the most common of all feeds is the bran mash, yet not every one knows how one should be made. It is only in racing stables and large studs as a rule that one sees it done properly. To make a bran mash first wash out a bucket with boiling water, then pour in the quantity of water required, say three pints, and stir in three pounds of bran. Cover up and leave it for a couple of hours or more if not required for immediate use. A mash takes hours to get cold and is often given to a sick horse too hot and refused when it would have been taken if properly prepared and given warm instead of scalding hot.

The addition of a tablespoonful of salt in the ordinary mash of a Saturday night can be recommended to keep down parasites and promote digestion, but should not be part of a sick horse's diet unless specially ordered.

A mixture of linseed and bran is often prescribed both, as food and a poultice. To one part of linseed two of bran is a desirable proportion for both purposes. To get all the feeding value out of linseed several hours should be allowed for cooking, not merely infusing, as with a bran mash, but gently simmering on the side of the stove. The vessels should be filled, and toward the end the lid may be taken off and evaporation permitted while cooking.

Well Fitting Horse Collars.

The pad will make a big collar fit a little better, but the best plan is to have a collar that fits without a pad. The latter is apt to irritate and chafe a horse much more than a leather collar. If the hames are properly adjusted on the collar many horses may be saved sore necks and sore shoulders.

MARKET DAY IS FIXED

COMMITTEE MET THIS MORNING AND ARRANGEMENTS ARE COMPLETE

FARMERS WILL HAVE FULL CHARGE OF THE CITY ON OCT. 17

From Friday's Daily—

The Market Day committee of the 25,000 Commercial club which has charge of making plans for Crookston's market days met this morning and decided that the third Market Day should be held on Saturday, October 17. It is believed that this will be a more successful event than either of the two former days, as at the present time the farmers have more leisure to come to the city and participate.

This is the great object of the day namely to have the farmers come to the city and learn that it is their best market. The central thought in the arrangements is to give the farmers an opportunity to dispose of whatever they have to sell and also to combine pleasure with business. Every plan will be made to have the day one of real pleasure.

Amusements and entertainment will be arranged and there is no reason why a great day should not take place. The big free auction will be the principal feature of the day. The farmer can bring anything he has to sell and it will be disposed of without costing him a cent.

These auctions are proving extremely popular and are of great benefit to the farmer. The committee will also offer prizes for different kinds of vegetables, butter, etc., and there is no doubt but that many will contest for the prizes. The complete program will be announced by the committee in a few days.

INTERESTING STATEMENT

The statement given out at the general land office at Washington shows that the total receipts from the sales of government land in the last fiscal year were $11,492,453. Of this amount, Minnesota contributed $476,452, an area covered by entries of all kinds aggregating 429,351 acres. North Dakota led all other states last year with receipts of $2,025,883, the acreage disposed of being 1,383,987. Receipts from South Dakota lands were $810,390, and the acreage covered by entries was 2,086,171.

After deducting 5 per cent of the receipts in North Dakota and South Dakota, to be paid to the state, the remainder will go into the federal reclamation fund.

MUCH PRAISE FOR GREAT NORTHERN

HANDLED TAFT TRAIN WITHOUT HITCH ON TRIP FROM ST. PAUL

The Great Northern road received a great deal of praise from the members of the Taft party for the smooth way they handled the Taft train on the long trip from St. Paul to Fargo by way of Crookston and Grand Forks.

Altho the train was scheduled to make about twenty stops on the trip and gave time at each to allow Taft to make a short address, the schedule was pulled off right on the dot at every town with the exception of Hillsboro and Fargo. At the latter two the train was delayed because of the extra forty-five minutes which was allowed at Grand Forks.

Colonel Ransdell sergeant-at-arms of the senate who was in charge of the train, stated that on no road had the train been handled quite so smoothly as the Great Northern turned the trick.

One extremely partisan newspaper charged Governor Johnson with being responsible for the Minnesota forest fires. The process of reasoning by which it arrived at this conclusion was that the governor had not taken the legislature by the throat and forced it to adopt measures to guard against the fires. How about the Republican party and the weather bureau. Why didn't they make it rain? Piffle!

Mr. Jacobson campaigned the state two years ago, riding on free railroad passes, while Governor Johnson paid his fare just like any citizen who does not stand in with the railroads. This is one of the reasons why Governor Johnson was enabled to deal with the railroad question with unshackled hands. And for the same reason Mr. Jacobson could not perform his duty towards the people of the state.

The meek may inherit the earth—after the trusts get thru with it.

SAFE BLOWN AT CLIMAX

BUTCHER SHOP WAS ROBBED LAST EVENING BY UNKNOWN PARTIES

ROBBERS GOT BUT FEW CENTS —NOTHING ELSE WAS DISTURBED

From Friday's Daily—

Chief of Police Eck was today notified that there had been a robbery at Climax last evening, thieves having entered the Climax butcher shop, blown the safe and taken what few cents in cash there was in the safe.

There is no clue as to who the robbers were, and consequently there are practically no clues for the local police to work upon. However every suspicious character will be very closely watched.

BUSINESS IS HEAVY ON G.N.

AN EXTRA SWITCHING CREW AT GRAND FORKS TO TAKE CARE OF BUSINESS

Business has increased to such an extent on the Great Northern that an extra switching crew was put on yesterday to take care of the work in the Grand Forks yards. C. C. Laughlin was appointed night yardmaster and took the place yesterday.

Business is now up to the standard reached before the panic of 1907, when there was such an amazing falling off. Railway men believe that it will continue to the first of the year at least.

On the Northern Pacific business continues heavy. The wheat crop is believed to be pretty well hauled out of northeastern North Dakota.

CURE BY CUTICURA AT CITY MISSION

Young Woman Found in Awful Condition with Scabies—Body a Mass of Sores from Scratching—Tried Many Remedies for Seven Weeks—Result Was Discouraging, But

ITCHING TORTURES YIELDED TO CUTICURA

"While I was doing missionary work in the lower portion of several cities I found it necessary to know a little of the efficacy of a few medicines and after a while I found that a little knowledge of Cuticura was about all I needed. One of the very bad cases I had to deal with was that of a young woman who had come to us not only broken in spirit but in a most awful condition physically. Our doctor examined her and told us that she had scabies (the itch), incipient paresis, rheumatism, etc., brought on from exposure and the effects of her ragged-edged life. Her poor body was a mass of sores from scratching and she was not able to retain solid food. We tried many things, a good tonic was prescribed and baths with a rubbing of lard and sulphur. We worked hard for seven weeks and you can imagine how discouraged we were when, after all that time, we could see so little improvement. One day I happened to see a Cuticura advertisement telling how a little baby had been cured of a bad case of skin eruption, and although I had but ninety-seven cents with me, I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. When I reached home I was like a child with a new toy, and we bathed our patient well and gave her a full dose of the Resolvent. She slept that night better than she had since she had been with us and the next day I located the price of a box of Cuticura Ointment. I am not exaggerating when I say that in exactly five weeks this young woman was able to look for a position, being strong enough to work and full of ambition. In another month she left the home, and now has a good position in a nice family where she is respected and is strong and well. You may refer any one you wish to me, personally. MARKET DAY ON OCT. 17

The committee which has had charge of the two former market days. has announced that the third will be he'd in this city on Saturday, October 17, and that the citizens can prepare to witess and experience one of the best days in its history. The committee has decided that it is about time to hold another of the days, devoted entirely to the entertainment of the city's farmer friends and will at once start to work to make it a big success.

The work of the farmer is not so strenuous at the present time as it was at the time of the second market day, and while that was undoubtedly a big success, there does not seem to be any reason why the coming market day should not eclipse it in every particular.

While the full program has not as yet been arranged or planned, the committee has decided to continue the free auction feature. This will give an opportunity to every farmer who will avail himself of the privilege, to bring anything he desires to dispose of to the city and the service of an auctioneer, clerk and every thing else connected with the sale, will be entirely free to him. The total receipts of the second day's sale were double those of the first, and the committee desires to see the total sales exceed both of the former days. This is an opportunity which every farmer in the county should avail himself of.

The committee will undoubtedly provide a program which will be entertaining and original in every way and there should be a big crowd in the city. It will be a day of enjoyment and profit for every one who will accept the hopitality of the business men of the city. Every farmer and resident of the townships outside of Crookston should watch for the announcement of the program which will be made by the committee in the near future.

[Original.]

When Alice Coale told me that she was engaged to Tom Martin I felt a sickening sensation about the heart that could only come to a young person. I might feel a bitter disappointment today, but it would not be of the same kind. Alice looked at me surprised. "Why, what's the matter, John?" she said.

"Nothing," I replied, endeavoring to pull myself together. "Only I'm afraid Tom mightn't turn out good enough for you—that's all."

"Oh, that's all, is it? Well, don't worry about that. A fellow as smart, as popular, as trustworthy, as Tom is good enough for a far better girl than I. Mother says she'd rather trust to his judgment in business matters than to that of older heads."

"Oh, I only meant he wasn't good enough for you."

"You lumbering, good natured stupid, John," she said, taking my hand and pressing it caressingly. "You will always be my dearest friend."

That was very kind of her.

A few months later I was startled by one of those mysterious rumors that are spoken under the breath for a brief period before they become public property. It was that Tom Martin had been borrowing money from any one who would lend it to him. Then I heard that he had disappeared. Following closely on this came the news that Mrs. Coale had given him all her money for investment, and he had either sunk it or taken it with him. Since he had paid none of his debts it was presumed that he had taken it with him.

Detectives visited his room and took away every scrap of paper they could find there, though Tom before leaving had left nothing to show where he had gone. He had borrowed a book of me, and I went to his room to see if I could find it. It was lying on his table, and I carried it home with me. That evening I took it up and opened it. Between the cover and the title page was a library card on which were entries of several books taken out within a few weeks. The book he had borrowed from me was "Australian Sketches." I wondered what kind of literature he had been taking from the library. Curiosity, mingled with a feeling that I might gather some clew with reference to his acts, led me the next day to take the card to the library and have a look at the books he had been reading. What was my astonishment to find that one was upon Central America, three upon Honduras and a fifth on the rubber industry of that state.

After some thought these were my deductions: Tom had at first thought of going to Australia, but had changed to Central America. He had selected Honduras and when he got there would invest the money he had taken in either the rubber trade or a rubber forest. More likely the latter, since it would give him a better chance to hide from the world.

The day after I reached these conclusions I started for Florida and from there sailed for Honduras. Landing at Puerto Cabello, I went into the interior. I made inquiries for an American who had come to Honduras to negotiate for a rubber tract. The state is not a large one, and any one going there with money would not remain unnoticed by its people. Of course it would be useless to inquire for one by the name of Martin, for the skulker was doubtless using an assumed name.

It was just two weeks to a day when I learned of a man answering Martin's description who was dickering for a rubber tract some ten miles away from me. I went to where he was and on a porch in a small town came upon the man I was hunting. When he saw me he collapsed. I told him that all I wanted was Mrs. Coale's money or as much of it as he had left. If he would give me this he might stay where he was for all me as long as he liked; if not he would go back to stand trial. He turned over eighteen $1,000 United States bonds, which was what remained of Mrs. Coale's little fortune. I receipted for it and started home.

I found that Alice had taken a position and gone to work. The evening of my return I called on her and her mother. This was the first time I had seen them since their misfortune. Mrs. Coale chided me for having kept away in the hours of their trouble, while Alice maintained a cold reserve. I didn't know whether to attribute it to the cause her mother mentioned or some other. In truth, she seemed stunned. I'm not naturally facile in opening subjects and sat for some time, speaking only when I did speak on commonplace topics, trying to frame what I should say concerning the object of my call. I knew I would make the mother glad, but was all in the dark about Alice. Finally, despairing of finding proper words, I took the bonds from my pocket and tossed them on the table.

"They're yours," I said. "I tracked him and got them. There's only a small loss."

I'm very poor at descriptions, among other things, and it wouldn't do for me to try to give the scene that followed. Mrs. Coale was so beside herself with joy that for a time she forgot even to thank me. Alice broke into sobs and, clutching my hand, her head sank down on it. When I came to myself I found my eyes wet and my arm around her waist. But meanwhile I'd had it there for some time without her discovering it either, so I didn't hurry to take it away.

Well, I was promoted from best friend to—the other thing.

CHARGES ARE PROVEN FALSE

JACOBSON'S CHARGES REGARDING INCREASED TAX LEVY SHOWN TO BE FALSE

LEVY SHOWS REDUCTION THIS YEAR OF ABOUT $150,000 OR OVER 1 MILL

St. Paul, Oct. 1.—(Journal Special) Jacobson's charge of extravagance received a bad blow today when state Auditor Iverson announced annual tax levy for 1909. Levy shows reduction from 34.8 mills to 33.3 mills. The reduction on a billion of valuation means reduced state taxes of $150,000.

NO SHORTAGE OF CARS, BUT ALL ARE KEPT IN THE SERVICE

From Thursday's Daily— ...

H. S. Halvorson who is now traveling for the Northern Pacific railway company was in the city Friday, and reports business very satisfactory in the territory which he visits. The effects of last year's panic are rapidly disappearing. Merchants are generally cheerful and traveling men report constantly increasing sales in all lines of merchandise. The freight business has picked up wonderfully since the wheat movement began, and practically all of the company's cars are now in use. There is no shortage but the company is keeping the cars in circulation, and seeing that no time is lost in loading and un loading so that nothing of this kind will develop. The dry weather has facilitated threshing everywhere and wheat has been rushed to market and to the terminals more rapidly than ever before and as prices have been good, it is expected that general business will continue brisk thruout the fall.

CHICAGO REPORTS WINTER WEATHER; FROST IN MANY STATES

Winter weather prevails in Chicago the mercury having fallen 30 degrees, and overcoats and gloves are necessary.

At New Richmond, Wis., snow fell and the temperature went down below freezing following a severe snow storm. At Calumet, Mich., snow fell for over an hour. Rhinelander, Wis., had three inches of rain and snow. Detroit, Mich., reports that the long drouth of 40 days, the longest in 25 years, was broken by a heavy downpour which threatened to continue.

From Ohio also comes the word that rains had fallen in different parts of the state and the drouth was believed to be over.

Killing frosts were reported today from Topeka, Kan., Omaha, Neb., St. Joseph, Mo., and Fort Dodge and Webster City, Ia. In Kansas ice formed on buckets and quiet pools.

Get Fat In Hospital.

Everybody said they never heard of such a thing as a person getting so fat when done up in a plaster cast that the old cast had to be taken off and a new one fitted on to give the patient a chance to grow, but the doctor declared that the occurrence was by no means phenomenal. Many illnesses do not result in emaciation, especially down in this part of town," he said. "Scores of poorly fed patients that are brought to the hospital in a skinny condition take on flesh amazingly while under treatment. This is especially noticeable in the case of an accident where a plaster cast is necessary. Then the arm, the leg, the body even, that is thus incased increases in size under hospital fare until the patient is in positive pain from the pressure and has to be relieved with a larger cast."—New York Press.

WILL BOOST FOR CROOKSTON

STATE ASSOCIATION OF CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES WILL MEET AT FARIBAULT

NEXT STATE ASSN. WILL PROBABLY MEET IN CROOKSTON

From Friday's Daily—

The State Association of Congregational churches will meet in Faribault, Minn., next Tuesday and continues through Thursday. The delegation from the Crookston church are A. A. Miller and W. L. Vannet, and Mrs. A. A. Miller and Mrs. A. A. Just as alternates. The full delegation will be in attendance and Rev. C. C. Warner will go if conditions will permit. There will be a meeting Sunday evening at which time the delegation from this city will without doubt be instructed to extend an invitation to the association to hold the next annual meeting in Crookston.

This will involve a great amount of work for a few but the benefits which Crookston would receive would repay for the efforts expended a hundred fold.

QUEER SUIT IS BROUGHT

MISS LENA VOELZ, WHO SECURED A DIVORCE WANTS IT ANNULLED

HER HAPPY HOME NOW LOOKS AS HAPPY AS EVER TO HER

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

A remarkable suit was begun in the district court in Fergus Falls on Thursday, being an action brought by Lena Voelz against her husband, Albert Voelz; from whom she was divorced July 30, 1907. The case came from the eastern part of this county and Mrs. Voelz, in her original suit for divorce, alleged that her husband treated her cruelly, beat her at times and paid a good deal of attention to other women. She is 57 years of age and her husband is 59 and she stated in her complaint that she came from Germany and married him with the understanding that he was to provide a good home and treat her kindly, but that his treatment was not at all kind, or words to that effect.

The divorce was granted in due course of time, but she now brings an action to have the decree annulled and the divorce set aside. She claims that she was induced to bring the original suit of "cruelties, duress, fraud, procurement and conspiracy" and that being unable to read or speak the English language, she was not thoroly aware of the full nature of the procedings. She alleges that Mr. Voelz is worth $20,000 but that she received only $350 alimony, and being ill, has now spent this and is penniless. She is living in Minneapolis and asks that the court make an order compelling Mr. Voelz to pay her $10 per week alimony while the present suit is pending, together with $200 attorney's fees and $50 suit money. The case will probably come to trial in November.

HAD LIKING FOR STATE PENITENIARY

Grand Forks, Oct. 2—In order that he may be returned to the state penitentiary, where he has spent many years, J. H. Malloy, alias Murphy alias Kennedy, stole an overcoat valued at $25 and is now held in the county jail at Grand Forks for trial in the district court, having waived examination in Justice P. McLoughlin's court yesterday. Malloy frankly admits that he is lonesome outside of the Bismarck penitentiary and that he stole the overcoat in order that he might be sent back there. He says he has interests at Penn Grove, the name the penitentiary bears in the postoffice directory, and he wants to get there just as soon as his case can be reached. When in prison before he had a job of cleaning up the capitol grounds and interior in preparation for the session of the legislature and he hopes to be assigned to his old place.

The Bridge of Lions.

A bridge comparatively little known was constructed long ago in China in the reign of the Emperor Keing Long. It is situated near to Sangang and the Yellow sea and measures not less than eight miles and a half. The Bridge of Lions, as it is called, is supported by 300 immense arches, and its foundation is twenty-one meters under water. On each pile of this wonderful bridge is a marble statue of a lion three times larger than life size. The coup d'oeil of these 300 enormous lions, each one supporting an arch, is stupendous in its magnificence.

CONTRIBUTIONS TOO NUMEROUS

GENERAL RELIEF COMMITTEE HAS MORE MONEY THAN IS NEEDED

CROOKSTON'S CONTRIBUTIONS WILL BE HELD PENDING FURTHER ADVICES

From Thursday's Daily— ...

From advices received from Chisholm and other sections of the forest fire district it would appear that the contributions already received by the general relief committee are far in excess of the needs of the section and there will be no furthr need of subscriptions. The local treasurer, H. C. Misner, and Mayor McPhee, who started the fund in this city, have received no intimation in regard to these conditions only what has appeared in the newspapers and as yet they have not determined what action shall be taken on sending the fund that the citizens of Crookston has contributed.

The intention was to forward the total amount to the relief committee tomorrow afternoon, but this program will undoubtedly be changed pending further advices from those in authority and who know the actual conditions. According to the information at hand the excess amount adready received will be returned to the donors pro rata and in this way permit al who have expressed the willingness to contribute to give an amount in proportion to what they intended to give originally.

It is expected that the announcement made will have the effect of stopping all further subscriptions to the distressed section and it will undoubtedly result in many subscriptions collected, but not forwarded being returned to the subscribers. It is possible that this will be the decision of those interested locally in the matter. The mayor and Mr. Misner will hold a conference in regard to the matter it is understood and announcement will be made later as to whether the $171.50 contributed will be forwarded to the district, or returned to the contributors.

Boxes Received

Mr. Misner received an acknowledgement this morning from Mayor Haven of Duluth, of the two boxes and one barrel of clothing that had been sent to Chisholm by the local Women's Relief Corps. The letter reads as follows:

"Duluth, Sept. 26, 1908.

Mr. H. C. Misner,
Crookston, Minn.

Dear Sir:—

I beg to acknowledge receipt of your esteemed favor of Sept. 24, inclosing bill of lading for 2 boxes and 1 bbl. clothing shipped to Chisholm for the benefit of the fire sufferers, and, on behalf of the many homeless people and helpless women and children, to thank you most sincerely for the contribution from the Women's Relief Corps of Crookston.

"—Roland D. Haven,
"Respectfully yours,
"Chairman Relief Committee."

JOHN HEMSTAD KILLED HIMSELF

The remains of John Hemstad, a well known banker at Emerado, N. D., were found in a room in the Masonic Temple at Grand Forks this morning. There was every evidence of him having committed suicide, but it was decided to hold an inquest and it is now pending.

It would seem that some time last evening Mr. Hemstad went to the Masonic Temple and calmly, after writing a note to friends, placed the muzzle of a revolver to his temple and fired. Death was undoubtedly instantaneous. The letter which he had written stated that he desired to have it announced that he died of heart trouble in order to save his family any unpleasant notoriety.

Hemstad was a graduate of the North Dakota University, finishing his course in 1895. He leaves a wife and three children and was 37 years old. He was considered one of the most reliable of the younger business men of the state and his action is received with great surprise. It is understood that financial troubles lead him to take his life.

Break In Monotony.

"The monotony of our calling," says the principal reader of a metropolitan magazine, "is sometimes broken a bit by the naivete shown by some of our friends who favor us with manuscripts.

"Not long ago I picked up a story sent by a novice in Indiana, in the entire length of which, numbering some ten thousand words, there was not a single mark of punctuation except an occasional period. The author was, however, thoughtful enough to append this note to his effort:

"'Mr. Editor: Please insert decimal points to suit.'"—Philadelphia Ledger.

HASKELL FIRES A RETURN SHOT

OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR REPLIES TO ROOSEVELT BY A PERSONAL ATTACK

SAYS PRESIDENT'S CHARGES RESULT OF HEARSAY NOT KNOWLEDGE

Guthrie, Okla., Oct. 1—Governor Charles N. Haskell last night gave out a long letter to President Roosevelt in which he repeats his already published defense to the charges made against him. The letter begins:

"Yesterday I was engaged in writing a communication to you as chief magistrate of the United States, assuming that a few days of reflection hight have brought you to the realization of the fact that the people of our country had placed you in the hightst position of authority and respect and that with that authority you had assumed the obligation. You should know that one of the principles of free government is that no man shall be condemned without a hearing; that not one word that you have ever spoken concerning me was true.

"The serious character of your charge should have suggested to you that you as chief executive should proceed with deliberation and certainty before making such hearsay statements as your own declarations."

"You have clearly demonstrated by this hearsay document, vacillating from one charge to another, by admitting that various of your charges were without information and therefore abandoned and yet without displaying the manhood to apologize for your former untruthful statement, that you seek another issue. It leads me to assert that I shall seek justice against you before the people and in a court not subject to your domniation. Frankly speaking, I could have arrived at no other conclusion than that you, in your recklessness and partisanship and disregarding of the rights of others, would pack a court or fix a jury."

RAILROAD'S MAN SIDE OF CASE

Conductor Jones who was in charge of the freight train which was left standing on the main line of the Farmers' road last Saturday night which President Kelly's speeder car ran into and from which Colonel Kelly and his family narrowly escaped with their lives speaking for himself and his train crew says that the train was left as it was without red lights, flags or other protection by order of Superintendent Dunn; that the custom was a common one and that the crew was entirely blameless as his orders will show. Mr. Jones resents the statement or insinuation that there was criminal carlessness, and says that there was nothing to protect against and for that reason it was unnecessary to put out protecting signals. The Journal has no desire to misrepresent the train crew or anyone else. It seemed to be a case of criminal carlessness to leave a train as this train was left. Perhaps it was not. It may have been perfectly proper to have left the train as it was, and that the blame for the accident rested entirely upon President Kelly, who should have advised himself of the location of this particular freight train before starting home.—Devils Lake Journal.

A Change Of Management

With this issue of the Polk County Journal the management passes from the hands of M. E. Kirsch to the Journal Printing Co.

Mr. Kirsch retires from the business after having been in possession for the past seventeen months, and during that time he has enjoyed the full confidence of his constituency. He has endeavored to conduct a real newspaper. No one has dictated anything as to its policies and there has been no outside influences as regarding the news features.

The Journal has been a newspaper pure and simple. Its politics have been independent in every respect. Mr. Kirsch leaves the Journal with regret in many respects. He has many friends in connection with the business with whom he parts with regret but other business interests make it imperative on his part to retire.

Mr. Kirsch has made a success of the business since he has been interested, and hopes that his successors will do as well.

The Policy Of The Journal

Beginning with this issue the Journal starts under new management, Mr. M. E. Kirsch having disposed of his entire interest in the plant. Within a few days publication will be made of the incorporation of a stock company which will be the publisher and sole owner of the paper.

At this time it would be appropriate to outline briefly the policy of the paper and the aims of the new management. In the first place the Journal will be conducted as a daily newspaper which will print the news without being colored by personal prejudice. An effort will be made to publish all the news in an attractive, clean and wholly impartial manner. The news columns will not be directed from the business end of the enterprise, but every effort will be exerted towards giving items of current interest as they actually occur.

The new management will aim to make the paper a home publication and to this end every issue will be carefully edited so that a child may peruse it without having his mind tainted with suggestions or thoughts other than the most elevating. The parent will welcome it for the clean and wholesome manner in which it will handle the news. It should find a place in every household, not only in the city of Crookston, but thruout the county and the section.

The Journal will not be published to aid, assist or abet any class, faction or clique. It will owe fealty to none, but will endeavor to treat every one fairly and squarely, forgetting entirely the personal equation and remembering only the duty which every self-respecting publication owes to its subscribers and patrons. It will not be a personal organ, but a public medium for the dissemination of news. Our columns will be open to the public always for the insertion of any matter of general or public interest.

The editorial department will be the paper's own views of questions of interest and will be conducted along lines which will aspire to reflect public opinion. Politically the paper will be independent, reserving the right to endorse or oppose the men of each party, and advocate the principles that will make for better citizenship.

The Journal under its new management will be consistent in its loyalty to every public movement having for its good the betterment and progress of the city of Crookston. We will also be found ready to give our best to every progressive and aggressive project that gives promise of municipal good. We desire to see Crookston the Queen City of the Red River Valley in fact, as well as in name. We have the greatest confidence in the future of the city and believe a bright destiny has been mapped out for her. We are most willing and anxious to do our share in this work, a work that should engage the attention of every loyal and public spirited citizen. We will be strong in our advocacy of every enterprise for the improvement of the city and the prosperity of our citizenship. We desire to be a factor in the promotion of every project that will make Crookston larger and better, commercially, intellectually and socially. Our time, our energies and our ability will be directed towards this end.

To sum up the Journal will strive to give the news in a wholesome, impartial and comprehensive manner, untainted by personal prejudice or whim and unaffected by financial or business considerations. It will strive to advance every public movement or project for the development of the city and surrounding territory and in every way endeavor to make known to the world in an attractive manner that "Crookston Offers Opportunity."

A newspaper in order to be given the opportunity to fulfill its mission has to rely upon the support and patronage of the people of its locality. We want you to read our news columns and we desire to have you as our subscribers. The greater the measure of your support, the more successfully will we be able to achieve our aims. We solicit your support of our advertising columns, believing firmly that we can give you value received for every inch of space you contract for. In short we ask your cordial support and consideration, promising on our part to give you a readable daily newspaper which will prove a valuable advertising and business getting medium. We have confidence in our mission and our ability to serve you and this community.

As To Bank Deposit Guaranty

As The Herald has said repeatedly it is very unfortunate that the question of guaranteeing bank deposits should have been made a political issue. Here we have the Democratic party favoring it and the Republican party opposing it, merely because Mr. Bryan "saw it first," when there is no more reason for a party division on the question than there is for a division over the expediency of fighting consumption. It is certain that many staunch Republicans favor the guaranty plan, and no doubt there are Democrats who oppose it; yet every partisan seems to feel obliged to line up with his party on the subject, regardless of his convictions.

The Saturday Evening Post, which needs to cater to no political party and therefore forms its judgments without calling in partisanship to its aid, has an article in a recent issue in which guaranteed bank deposits are luminously and fairly discussed. The arguments that have been made against the plan are given, and so are the arguments in its favor. On the whole, the tone of the article, evidently written by a capable authority is distinctly favorable to the guaranty idea.

It is shown that the experiment with the plan in New York in 1829 when it was a failure, has no bearing upon modern conditions, because the whole system of banking has changed. Opponents of the scheme, however, parade this incident as conclusive proof that the plan will not work.

It is shown, too that state guaranty of deposits has succeeded, and the case of the German municipalities which have guaranteed savings deposits for some years is cited. Under this system not a penny has been lost.

Alexander H. Revell, a Chicago business man, is quoted as follows: "The protection of depositors and the reduction of bank failures do not represent the principal benefits that would result from the application of the bank guaranty fund. The loss to depositors by bank failures is the basic and moving element in the situation, but this direct loss is not in any way to be compared to the incalculable loss to commerce, to manufacture, to business and to workingmen resulting from panic precipated by deposit losses and the fear of still greater losses to come. Hence the greater value of the operation of a guaranty fund would be in the sense of security developed on the public and depositors. It would prevent runs on banks and prevent failures which, unders normal conditions, would never occur."

This is the meat of the problem. Fear is the spirit of panic, and with depositors assured against loss there would be no fear; therefore no panic. Bank runs cause sound banks to close their doors. There need be no bank runs if depositors know their money is safe. The lack of security in times of alarm breeds panic and bank runs, and if you give the depositor such security for his money as the guaranty plan provides, disaster is checked at its outset. There would be fewer bank failures, and by averting the fear of bank runs the banks would be enabled to continue their loans, without which business becomes paralyzed and hundreds of unnecessary failures are precipitated.—Duluth Herald.

Why Was It Forgotten?

The state platform of the republican party is more guilty of sins of ommission, than of sins of commission and how the leaders and the candidates can hope to explain to the people of the state the many things that the platform failed to mention, and its gubernatorial candidate has failed to comment upon, is beyond all explanation. There is one particular institution that we believe the republican party neglected, which we believe the farmers will not forget. We refer to the establishment of the binder and threshing machine factory in the state prison.

This factory was created by a republican legislature for the purpose of creating competition for the national harvester trust and was directly in the interests of the farmers of the state. Governor Johnson signed the bill creating the factory and has been most interested in its development and its success. Republican legislatures regard it as one of the most efficient measures that has ever been passed by a legislature of the state of Minnesota in its efforts to aid and help the farmers of the state The factory is now turning out the machines and with the proper aid and encouragement by future legislatures and state officials there is no doubt but that it will become a weapon in the hands of the state with which to bring this gigantic and ruthless octopus to time.

The republican platform is absolutely silent as to the establishment of the factory and the party's candidate for governor has not referred to it as yet during his campaign. It is strongly endorsed in the democratic platform and Governor Johnson is enthusiastic in its support. The question naturally arrises: What reasons had the republican convention for not taking advantage of this most excellent opportunity to boost a proposition that is of paramount interest to the farmers of the state and why has Candidate Jacobson had nothing to say about it?

As far as we have been able to ascertain almost every employe of the trust in this state is supporting Mr. Jacobson in the present campaign and is doing what he can do for his election. This is true in this district and in the other districts as far as we have been able to ascertain. Is it to be understood that the republican party is inclined to let this institution perish because of lack of interest? Will the next legislature, if it happens to be republican, refuse to give further encouragement to the factory? These are questions of vital importance to the farmers of this community and they should not permit the questions to pass until they have a satisfactory answer. The beginning has been made and there is no doubt but that if the advantage thus far achieved, is pushed the people of this state will have a lever by which the arrogant and insolent conduct of the harvester trust can be pried from the hold which it has upon the farming population.

In this connection it might be well for the farmers to realize that the republican candidate has been more or less identified with the machine business all his life and has been dealing almost constantly with harvester companies. Does his relation with these people absolutely forbid his endorsement of this factory started by the state for the benefit of the farmer? Was it because of this relation and the fact that he was to be the party's nominee, explain the reason for the platform's silence?

We believe this is a question which every farmer in this county should take into consideration before he goes to the polls on November 3, and he should cast his vote in accordance with the commonsense answer that must be given. The democratic party is pledged to the development of this plant and the democratic governor who is a candidate of re-election promises to lend every encouragement to its further promotion that is possible to be extended from the executive office. If you desire to get from beneath the domination of the harvester trust, your sympathies and your vote should be with the democratic party and its nominee. The republican party has nothing to offer you but the intimation that this plant is not a creature of its creation, consequently is not entitled to any aid or support from it. Every voter has the power in the coming election to strike a telling blow at this trust.

Excusing The Railroad Pass Evil

Ever since a paper in the southern portion of the state asked a question of Jacobson in regard to his fondness for railroad passes and his alleged use of them in the past, there has been a marked silence relative to such practices which is creating comment and casting some reflections upon the real sentiments of the republican candidate on the problem. The Duluth Herald has the following comment:

The Albert Lea Standard recently issued this challenge to the Jacobson press of the state: "While ranting on the stump against the railroads in the campaign two years ago, Jacobson was riding on free railroad passes. Somebody please deny it. Still silent? Then we dare you to deny it."

Nobody has denied it, least of all Jacobson. Neither will he deny it. Two years ago, when Mr. Jacobson was stumping the state for Cole, it was shown that he was riding on free passes. One of them was Omaha pass No. 5,804. Shortly after this disclosure, Mr. Jacobson came to Duluth, and The Herald, thinking he might wish to deny the charge, gave him a chance. He refused to take it; he refused to deny it; neither did he seek to justify his action.

But instead of denying the charge, here come newspapers like the Preston Times and the Ortonville Herald-Star, and demand: "What of it?" The weakening influence upon moral fibre of the bad example of a man high in the councils of a party in the files of these very newspapers you would find them filled with righteous indignation against the uses of passes by public officials and in political campaigns. They said then that passes were bribes; that railroads did not give them for nothing, and that those that accepted them placed themselves under improper obligations to the corporations bestowing them. This was all true, too. But now these newspapers, forced by an unhappy fate and by the arrogance of party bosses to the support of a stupified champion of the people, want to know "what about it?"

The Preston Times explains that when Jacobson rode on passes the anti-pass law had not yet been enacted and it was no crime to ride on a pass. Technically, perhaps, it was no crime; actually, it was. It was no technical crime, perhaps, to kill a man before society enacted a statute against homicide. It was no technical crime to crush competitors and rob them of their means of livlihood by forcing stealthy rebates before the anti-rebate law was passed. On the same hypothesis, it was no crime to ride on a pass before the law made it a public offense.

In all the years of Jacobson's work in the legislature, he was the loudest most excited opponent of free passes He acepted none himself; so he said, at least. He declared that when some rode on passes the plain people had to pay the bill, and that this was discrimination. He said that to accept passes was to become obligated to the railroads. And in these things he reflected the conscience of the people, which later matured into statute law.

Yet not long after he got out of the legislature, and before the echoes of his condemnation had died away, he was found riding on passes. He says that he stands where he stood fifteen years ago. Yet he has since not only acepted railroad passes from the railroads, but he has accepted a nomination for governor at their hands, with the help of other predatory corporations and selfish interests He has condemned all these things and afterwards embraced them.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

STATE PRESS

Thief River Falls Press (Rep.): Admittedly John A. Johnson could never have been elected governor of Minnesota without the aid of thousands of votes gathered from a party opposed to his election. Having supported him twice, should these independent voters help to elect him a third time? In no particular has Governor Johnson failed to "make good" in his second term the promise of brilliance and stability held forth in his two first years in office. Not only is his record as a competent state official unimpeached, but he has expanded beyond the limits of Minnesota and has acquired a national reputation as a speaker of brilliance, an official of strong executive ability and a man of clear views and sterling honesty.

Middle River Pioneer: The Republican papers of the state as a rule are not making any fight against Governor Johnson. It would have no effect if they did, for all that would would be necessary for Johnson and his friends to do would be to resurrect their files of a few short months ago wherein they frankly commended him in words of fulsome praise.

Anoka Free Press: It isn't a question of Johnson's election. That is as certain as is tomorrow's rising sun. It is a question of majority. Can he get a majority commensurate with the sacrifice he made in accepting the nomination? That is the question which his friends should bear in mind.

Breeding of Live Stock.

The breeding of live stock does not get the serious thought from the farmer which it demands. Raising stock is one thing and breeding stock is another. The addition of a calf, colt or a lamb to the herd is regarded on many farms as of very ordinary importance, but on farms where high class, pure bred live stock is reared the addition of a young animal to the herd creates almost as much interest as the birth of an additional member to a family. In the case of the ordinary calf or colt there is little or no interest manifested as to the future of the animal. If the calf or colt is pure bred its daily growth to maturity is watched with anxiety. If it is a heifer calf that is dropped the interest is so great at the time that it is difficult to wait until the calf becomes a cow in order that it may be known how much of an improvement she is over her mother in milk production. If a colt the farmer can hardly wait until it is old enough to drive in order that he may determine what speed it will make on the track. When good stock is introduced on the farm there immediately becomes attached an interest which is not shown in scrub stock. It is this interest and sentiment which have resulted in producing some of the world's record breakers, and the interest doesn't fail to appeal to any man who endeavors to improve the live stock on his farm. This is one of the advantages of breeding good animals.

The esteem and regret most people have for you is both tedious and tasteless.

KEY STONE

Mr. Fred Frank of Cissna Park, Illinois, came down from Stephen last Tuesday to visit at the homes of Simon and Samuel Aeschlimann and John Gerber. Mr. Frank worked near Stephens during threshing, but he says, "I like Keystone better."

Mr. Montgomery and Mr. Jesse Campion of Angus called on Simon Aeschlimann one day last week to see how their telephone was working. They found to their great delight that the phones they are selling had not caught the appendicitis from the Euclid phones which as we heard sometime ago were suffering from that dreadful disease.

Mr. Christ Alt of Cissna Park, Ill., and son John of Stephen drove down last Thursday to visit friends and relatives. John drives down quite often but he knows whether he drives thirty miles to see the land or a certain young lady.

A new route has been started from East Grand Forks and quite a number of farmers of Keystone and Tabor are taking advantage of it thus getting their mail very close to their homes.

The Angus Telephone line that has recently been put up is in a fine condition. There are no rubbernecks or butt-ins on it.

Mr. Edward Brantl is working on the railroad again as fireman.

Miss Margaret McDonald is visiting her sister in North Dakota.

Miss Bessie Brantl spent several days with Mrs. McDonald last week. Simon Aeschlimann started plowing with his engine and steam plow some time ago. The ground turns up like magic and is doing fine work.

Mr. John Gerber drove to Grand Forks last Saturday to transact some very important business.

Mrs. McDonald and daughter Miss Clara will soon leave for Canada to visit relatives.

A barn floor dance was given at the Brantl farm last Saturday evening A good time is reported by all present.

may be slang but it is a vigorous phrase of tonic qualities and holds a world of solid meaning, hard work, honorable success, accomplishment.

There are many young men, 60 years and under, hard-workers, who have failed to justify the hopes and ambitions of their families and friends; failed to reap the harvest due them; failed to "Make Good", simply because they did not realize the many actual advantages offered them by a check account; the protection afforded their money; the chance to save the extra dollar or two; to build up their credit; the certainty of having to pay bills but once; and other advantages appreciated by the man who has a bank account.

STATE ENGINEER HERE— Geo. A. Ralph engineer of the State Drainage Commission arrived this morning from St. Paul and will spend a few days here on business. He says the commission is very busy at the present time looking over the work now in progress.

BACK FROM SUPREME COURT— Atty. Chas. Loring returned this morning from St. Paul where he was present at the sitting of the supreme court calendar which was completed yesterday. Steenerson and Loring had several cases which were set for hearing.

DOING NICELY— Father Thiellon of Gentilly spent yesterday in the city calling on his many friends and attending to some business matters. He says the Gentilly Cheese Factory is getting on famously and he was very much pleased at the fine showing made by the factory at the Minnesota state fair.

QUIET IN POLICE CIRCLES — Chief Eck says he never saw more quiet as a rule in police circles than at the present time for the fall of the year. This is the season when as a rule the country has more objectionable characters than at any other time and it is remarkable that there is as little disorder about the city from this element.

HAS FINE COLLECTION—Ticket Clerk Kjervestad at the Great Northern office in this city is an enthusiastic coin collector, and has many coins that are rarely seen. This morning he was exhibiting a "20 Sen" piece, a Japanese piece which is very rarely seen here and no one present had ever seen anything like it before Aside from the words "20 Sen" there was nothing on the coin excepting Japanese hieroglyphics.

CHILDREN ARE SAFE —During the summer vacation the Crookston schools were given a thoro inspection as to their fire precautions. Now the local schools have ample protection and it is impossible for a disaster like the Collinwood affair to occur here. Every school in the city since the terrible Cleveland fire has been gone over and every door has been made to swing out, storm doors have been placed on the outside and fire escapes have been built. All summer men have been at work on the buildings putting them in readiness for the opening of the schools. When the schools did open, the children were as safe from fire as if they were in their own homes.

SESSION WAS A BUSY ONE

CITY COUNCIL WADED THRU A BIG GRIST OF BUSINESS LAST NIGHT

TAX LEVY AS PASSED SHOWS SEVERAL BIG CUTS FROM LAST YEAR

LEVY FOR POOR DEPARTMENT AND INTEREST FUNDS SHOW BIG DECREASE

From Saturday's Daily—

The City Council held a meeting last evening in which there was a large amount of important business disposed of. All members of the council were present.

Two Big Decreases

The tax rolls were passed according to the budget previously published and two of the notable decreases in the levy are found in the poor fund levy and the interest levy. Last year the poor fund assessment was $2,000 while this year it is but $1200. The levy for the interest fund levy this year is but $1500 while last year it was $7000.

An Adverse Report

The Street and Bridge Committee reported adversely on the petition which has been referred asking that South Ash street from Loring street to Houston Avenue be gravelled and the report was adopted.

The request from the city engineer that he be allowed to purchase a blue print frame was granted.

To Dog Heaven

The report of Chief of Police Eck regarding the activities of Dog Catcher Welch showed that during the month of September 14 dogs had been snared of which 6 were redeemed and 8 given free passes to dog heaven by the cold lead route.

Chief Barrette of the fire department reported that there were two fires during the month of September. Both reports were placed on file.

Sinking Fund Report

The Sinking Fund Commission submitted its report for the year which showed that the total expenditures had been $22,306.52 of which $16,000 was for the payment of matured bonds and $6,282.55 for interest coupons and $22.97 for exchange.

The commission recommended that a levy of 3 mills be made for the benefit of the Sinking Fund and the recommendation was placed on file.

Want Council Room

The Crookston Fire Department presented a formal request for the use of the remodelled council chambers for their annual ball which will be held in the near future and the matter was referred to the city hall committee.

Louis Johnson asked permission of the city for the use of a small portion of the street for the construction of a porch on his flat building at the corner of 6th street and Broadway and the request was referred to the Street and Bridge committee.

N. F. Holmgren presented his application for appointment as janitor of the city hall and the petition was referred to the city hall committee.

Sidewalk Levies

The council passed a big grist of levies for new cement sidewalks which will be constructed this fall and next year. Mr. Treadwell asked permission to close a wooden gate between two buildings on North Main street adjoining the building which he occupies and the matter was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

The purchasing agent was instructed to purchase the supplies that will be needed for the municipal court.

The council then adjourned to next Tuesday evening the regular meeting night.

There is more plowing done in this section at the present time than there was last year and the year before both put together when the freeze-up came. This is a broad statement, but it is a fact borne out by every traveling man and trainman interviewed on the subject.

This is true not only in this immediate section, but from Crookston to Barnesville on the south and to St. Vincent on the North the country looking more prosperous than it has in years.

South of the city near Beltrami there have been several gasoline plows working all summer, and the conditions have been ideal for successful power plowing. In wet weather the monster gang plows are hard to handle, and the dry weather of the past few months has made it perfect for them.

There are times when the scales of justice look suspiciously like fish scales.

COME AGAIN SAYS P. SNYDER

PRESIDENT P. SNYDER OF THE CROOKSTON COUNCIL GETS VALUABLE PRESENT

CAME THRU MAIL UNACCOMPANIED BY ANY MESSAGE OF ANY KIND

GOLD WATCH WORTH $100 WAS SENT HIM—DOES NOT KNOW WHO SENT IT

From Wednesday's Daily—

President P. Snyder of the Crookston City Council was the recipient last Sunday of a most valuable present thru the mail, in the form of a handsome 23 jewel gold watch, worth about $100.

The watch was sent thru the mails unregistered, this fact probably being due to a desire on the part of the sender to conceal his identity and the only clue as to where the watch came from is that on the tag attached to the box can be deciphered the letter "W" and he is of the opinion that the watch may have come from his brother at Williston, N. D., as it came in on the western mail.

The genial president of the council has shown no signs of wrath over the receipt of the present, and states that any more of the same kind will be received with the greatest pleasure.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF ORDER BEING HELD IN DULUTH

SOCIETY INCORPORATES—ABOUT 100 DELEGATES ARE IN ATTENDANCE

From Wednesday's Daily—

The Sisters of Hermann of Minnesota are holding the fifteenth annual convention of the order in Duluth today, the first time that the society has met in this city for the annual gathering. The sessions are being held at Eagles' hall and 100 out of town delegates are in attendance. The lodge has twenty-eight divisions thruout the state including one at Crookston and twenty-four are represented at the Duluth meeting. Fritz Ziegler of Stillwater, president of the state society is presiding at the meetings and the other state officers in attendance are Mrs. Bertha Ench of Minneapolis secretary, and Mrs. Augusta Haedrich of St. Paul treasurer.

Papers of incorporation were adopted and the afternoon hours were occupied in working out a new constitution. The officers will be elected at tomorrow morning's session and at that time the next place of annual meeting will be chosen.

FOUND DOOR NAILED UP

CROOKSTON CLUB BOYS HAD ALL MANNER OF TROUBLE LAST EVENING

HAD TO ENTER CLUB ROOMS BY USE OF LADDER THRU THE WINDOW

From Tuesday's Daily—

Last evening there were things doing in connection with the Crookston Club, the members finding the door nailed up leading to the club rooms from the hallway on the second floor of the Palace Block.

The door was nailed up on the orders of Dan McKinnon, proprietor of the Palace Block, but the boys are of the opinion that some one else instigated the deal.

As a result they were forced to secure a ladder and enter the Club rooms thru a window, and to state that they were warm under the collar is putting the matter very mildly.

Today a stairway is being constructed so that the members of the club will be able to enjoy the clubrooms without further difficulty.

Mysterious Language.

BLOCK WAS FLOODED BADLY

FIRE ACCIDENTALLY PUT ON IN OPERA BLOCK WITH RADIATORS DISCONNECTED

FLOOD RESULTED WHICH DID CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE TO WALLS AND CEILINGS

CROOKSTON FRUIT CO., ALSO FLOODED—HEATING PLANT DAMAGED

From Wednesday's Daily—

There were things doing with a vengeance in the Opera House Block this morning for a short spell when a big fire was built in the steam heating plant with several of the radiators in office rooms disconnected.

It appears that it grew rather chilly in the block as the janitor had allowed the fires to go down while some of the radiators were being fixed in rooms not occupied.

In the meantime one of the renters could not find the janitor and intending to do a kind act went to the basement, saw the fire was very low and piled on some fuel.

In a short time water was flowing over the floors of several of the rooms an inch deep, and soon began pouring into the Crookston Fruit Company's store room causing a lively scramble.

The damage to the fruit company will be considerable, and it will cost considerable also to repaper and redecorate the rooms that were flooded.

Some of the families occupying apartments on the third floor of the block received a big scare, thinking that the escaping steam was smoke and that a fire was on.

It is feared that there may have been serious damage to the boiler as the water was soon all out and the flues were red hot before the fire was taken from the fire box.

TAFT HAS TURNED UP

From Wednesday's Daily—

T. W. Taft, who left Grand Rapids Minn., July 6th for Crookston, intending to go to the Buffington farm and make arrangements to get work this fall for a lot of his logging horses, and who was not heard of from that time forward, his wife being nearly frantic for fear something had befallen him, cooly walked into their home at Grand Rapids the other day.

He was in good health and would give no explanation as to why he had not communicated with his family. All he said of his absence was that he had been out west. He is again attending to his business as tho nothing had happened.

APPOINTED 9TH DISTRICT

Dr. W. S Wattam of Warren, Minn who was chosen as chairman of the Ninth Congressional district convention held at Crookston, has, after consultation with Congressman Halvor Steenerson named the list of congressional committeemen:

Becker—Owen Wangensteen.
Beltrami—Anton Erickson
Clay—D. W. Meeker.
Clearwater—E. N. Falk.
Kittson—J. D. Henry.
Marshall—Ole L. Melgaard.
Norman—D. C. Lightbourn.
Polk—John Peterson
Red Lake—A. P. Toupen.
Roseau—S. T. Haldahl.
Wilkin—E. Mattson.
Mahnomen—John W. Carl.

It is understood that a special representative of the U. S. Post Office Department is in the city looking after some alleged irregularities on the part of some mail clerk. It appears that a local party made a number of remittances to a certain order, and that when the letters arrived at their destination the money had been extractd.

It is understood that suspicions point to a certain employe on the rail road, who runs on a line a long distance from this city, and that the evidence is so direct that he will have a hard time clearing his skirts. No arrests have been made as yet.

COTNRACT LET FOR LAYING THE RAILS

DULUTH MAN WILL CONSTRUCT CAR LINES IN DISTRICT TO BE PAVED THIS YEAR AT GRAND FORKS—HAS RAILS AND TIES AND WILL COMMENCE OPERATIONS ON LINE TODAY—COMPLETION OF STREET CAR SYSTEM IS UP TO CITIZENS WHO HAVE NOT YET SUBSCRIBED ANYTHING TOWARD THE ENTERPRISE—MEN FINANCING WORK TO BE COMMENCED TODAY ON OTHERS TO AID IN BUILDING LINE

The contract was awarded last evening to P. McDonnell to lay the rail for the street railway system in the district to be paved at Grand Forks this year. Mr. McDonnell will begin the work today. He has the paving contract and it has been necessary for him to delay work on the streets on which car tracks are to be constructed. A supply of steel ties and rails are here, having been shipped from Minneapolis, and there will be no further delay in the paving. Twelve blocks of track will be laid in the district.

While the committee in charge of the subscriptions for the railway system has progressed far enough in the work to make them believe it advisable to get the rails laid at once, there is still a great deal to be done by citizens before the system will be a realty. Many Grand Forks citizens have not yet subscribed toward building the line. It is on these citizens that the committee is now relying to aid in the great undertaking that has been commenced. The completion of the street car system depends on liberal subscriptions being made at an early date.

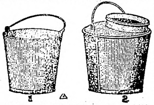
LIVE STOCK AND DAIRY

COVERED MILK PAILS.

They Are Best For the Dairy, as Experiments Have Shown.

A prominent dairyman says: We have yet to meet the man who has tried a good kind of covered milk pail and who likes clean milk who has not thought them a great improvement over the ordinary open pail. Yet our observations on their use is to the effect that not more than eight cow owners out of ten use them. It would certainly be a good habit for everybody to get into to use no other kind.

It goes without saying that a closed pail will greatly reduce the impurity of ordinary milk, since the open pail catches everything descending from above. Experiments have plainly brought out the advantage of covered milk pails, and, while they require somewhat more work of the person who washes the dairy utensils, no one who is interested in pure milk could consider this an argument of more than featherweight description. A good kind of pail is one in which the top fits on as a cover and the milk opening is covered with screening or is fitted with a hoop so that cheesecloth can be used for that purpose. There is little difficulty in thoroughly cleansing such a pattern of pail.



UNCOVERED AND COVERED MILK PAILS.

The closed pail is a subject which it would seem local creameries could agitate with direct benefit to themselves. In a way much of the advice offered to the farmers in the interests of purer milk is wasted since it is impracticable, but the covered milk pail is thoroughly practicable. A cow is much less apt to step into it, flies are excluded and sole dependence is not placed on the separator for taking out undesirable solids.

Pail No. 1 in the illustration, from Clarence B. Lane's bulletin, is an ordinary open one, with no provision for keeping out the dust and dirt. He says it should never be used in any dairy. Pail No. 2 is a good sanitary one, with small top provided with a metal strainer. In certified dairies probably better results would be secured by leaving out the strainer. The pail would be improved if stamped from one piece of tin.

Insist on Stable Cleanliness.

In the production of commercial milk the dairyman must not only keep himself and his cows clean, but he must not draw the milk from the cow in a stable filled with dust. He never should feed hay before milking. He should not feed grain nor disturb the bedding before milking.

I may get into an argument in regard to this statement, for there are those who claim that the stable should be cleaned before the milking is done. I maintain not, for you know the more you disturb some things the worse they smell. The dairyman must not feed silage before he milks, for if contamination of the air of the stable occurs with the acid odor of silage the milk will certainly be tainted. It may not be detected at once, but the city neighbor who attempts to use this milk when forty-eight hours old will certainly detect an unpleasant flavor.—John D. Nicholls.

False Economy In Feeding.

There is such a thing as false ecomomy in feeding. If a third more expense in feeding gives you three times the profit you can easily figure out the wisdom of generous rations. Feed wisely, but not niggardly.

A FRANCHISE WILL BE ASKED

The Tri-State Telegraph and Telephone Company is going to ask the city council of Crookston to grant it a franchise to use the streets and alleys and public places of the city for a long distance and toll telephone line. The franchise will come up at the regular meeting of the city council held on October 13 next.

A representative of the company has been in the city for some days looking over the situation and sounding the sentiment in regard to the granting of such a franchise. He reports that he has found sentiment greatly in favor of the granting to the company of this privilege.

It will be remembered that about two years ago the same company made an effort to establish long distance and toll line service in the city, but at that time it was thought that it meant the establishment of another local system and the business men protested strongly against giving the desired right. The result was that the franchise requested was not granted.

Since that time the company has erected its lines on the outskirts of the city and at the present time it would mean but connecting up with the booths which would be placed in the public places of the city. There is no question at the present time of another local system and the inclination is to limit the number of long distance telephones which would be established.

A prominent member of the city council stated to the Times that in his opinion there is no reason why the desired franchise should not be granted; it would be a great benefit to the city and would be a service to the general public. He had sounded the sentiment existing among the business men and they seemed to be unanimously in favor of granting the franchise.

The proposed franchise or ordinance preserves to the city all the rights and privileges to regulate the operation of the business in the city and all wires will be strung and poles placed as directed and ordered by the city council.

FIRE IMPERILS STATE PRISON.

Flames Destroy Building Across the Street and in Factory District.

Stillwater, Oct. 1. — Fire destroyed one of a group of twenty large factory and warehouse buildings in close proximity of the Northwest Thresher company, located directly across the street from the state prison.

Fortunately the strong gale of wind was toward the St. Croix, otherwise other large buildings of the company and prison would have been in danger of the flying firebrands.

Hundreds of men with the city and prison fire apparatus fought the flames. The loss is $5,000, with $1,500 insurance.

Cracksmen Carry Off Huge Sack of Coin on Handcar.

Ladysmith, Wis., Oct. 1. — Several posses are pursuing a gang of yeggmen who blew the State Bank of Ladysmith and escaped with $3,000 after shooting a policeman and firing a volley at a crowd of citizens.

Roused from sleep by the report of dynamite, the citizens gathered in the streets in time to see the bandits carrying a huge sack filled with coin, dashing toward a handcar on the Wisconsin Central tracks.

The gang boarded the handcar and fled.

MORE ROOM FOR GROTH.

Two New Additions Are Platted at Walker, Minn.

Walker, Minn., Oct. 1. — Two large tracts have recently been platted and by ordinance of the village council added to the corporate limits of the village. BIG STRIDES ARE BEING MADE Great strides are being made in the promotion of the creamery industry in northern Minnesota and recently two new creameries were established in Clearwater county by M. L. Cort. The first was established at Nevin, which is located sixteen miles north of Shevlin and the other at Mallard, two miles south of the same town.

The farmers in this section of the district are yearly adding to the size of their dairy herds and it is believed that the two new institutions will be exceedingly prosperous. The section is ideal for cows and there is every reason to believe that both creameries will be kept busy turning into butter the butter fat that will be brought in by the farmers. The management of the plants will be in the hands of practical buttermakers and there is no doubt of their success.

The cheese factory at Lambert has decided to make butter also and a complete new outfit of butter making machinery has been recently ordered. It is understood that the Lambert institution has already the promise of a market for every pound of butter it can manufacture.

Mr. Cort states that there is every reason to have the most roseate views in regard to the development of the industry in northern Minnesota. The farmers are beginning to realize that it is a sure and steady source of income and they are anxious to get the largest returns possible. They are continually adding ot the number of cows which they own and the percentage of increase during the past year has been the greatest in the history of the section. It is believed that the official reports received for the industry this year will establish a record.

SYMPATHY EXTENDED.

It is perfectly proper and right for Mr. Jacobson's political managers to paint him as rough and uncouth, if they so desire, but it is only right they should retain a monopoly in the work they have so auspiciously begun. The job is theirs and they are welcome to work it to a frazzle. His political opponents will have none of it. It was his political friend and mentor, Frank Eddy, who informed an expectant world that Mr. Jacobson absorbed pie by way and with the assistance of a knife. It was the Minneapolis Tribune which compared him to the "cave man," and intimated that his mental processes were on the same crude plane as were his erratic conceptions of table etiquette. The Pioneer Press, the Minneapolis Journal and the Republican country press have added their mites to the discussion, until the Republican gubernatorial candidate's fame as a primitive barbarian has spread to the limits of the continent. We sincerely sympathize with Mr. Jacobson and can easily imagine with what sincerity and unction he daily prays to be delivered from his friends.

RECORDS AND RECORDS.

Mr. Jacobson proclaims that he expects to make his campaign for the governorship on his public record, and we suppose he has some idea of being elected. It is evident that he gives the public credit for a different brand of discrimination than that possessed by the convention which nominated him. It will be remembered that Attorney General E. T. Young was a candidate before that convention—on his record—and it was a good record—one not needing posthumous statements to bring it down to date, and he was overwhelmingly defeated because of that record, and Mr. Jacobson, with his musty, worm-eaten record of a bygone day, was chosen instead. Honest, now, isn't he expecting a good deal of the people, all the circumstances being taken into consideration?

"AN ASSININE ASS."

[Bob Dunn in Pioneer Press interview, March 1, 1902.]

"When Mr. Jacobson claims to have fathered the laws of 1895, 1897 and 1899, improving the tax laws, he lies. Jacobson is a born demagogue. He has got used to claiming everything and I am only surprised that he did not claim to have made the Almighty. When the Almighty made him, he made a donkey."

James A. Martin is credited by the Republicans of the state with having more than ordinary political sagacity. It is a common report in St. Paul, however, that one Swenson, he of the mutton chop whiskers, has prevailed over Jimmy and is now the chief director of the Jacobson campaign. Bre'r Brown seems to have fallen under the hypnotic sway of the man of the side curtains.

JOHNSON SPOKE AT ROCHESTER

Rochester, Minn., Oct. 1—Gov. John A. Johnson and Andrew C. French candidate for representative in congress to succeed James A. Tawney, opened the campaign in this city Tuesday night.

The meeting was held in the Metropolitan theatre which was crowded to its utmost capacity half an hour before the time announced for the meeting to open. Leading democrats of the city and county occupied seats on the stage and the evening trains brought in large crowds.

The Junior band was engaged and entertained the crowd while waiting for the curtain to rise. John E. McGovern, chairman of the Olmstead county democratic committee, introduced the speakers. Mr. McGovern's mention of the name of J. J. Reiter, candidate for lieutenant governor was received with great applause.

The speech by Mr. French did not make a very great impression. The principal arguments were quoted from certain republican papers which have opposed "the stand patters," and from Raymond's letter of May 24 in the Chicago Tribune Gov. Johnson was greeted with prolonged applause when he was introduced. The governor having been in Rochester a number of times for his health, confessed to an affection for the city. He spoke of his nomination for the third term as against his wishes. He stated his belief that every man should have a political party, and expressed himself in favor of woman's suffrage. His reference to Mr. Bryan was very brief, merely a statement that the latter was revealed twelve years ago but at any rate he had proven himself honest.

Mr. Johnson's chief criticism of Jacobson was contained in an insinuation that the latter's nomination was due to the influence of trusts and corporations and the charge that the republican candidate does not state his position. He paid a high tribute to the republican legislatures of 1905 and 1907, saying that they were the most capable and economic bodies in the history of the state.

The principal sensation of the evening was when the governor read a clipping from the Post and Record of this city, asking if Gov. Johnson would give up his lecture contracts if he should be elected. The governor's reply was prefaced by a stinging reference to the article in the same paper two years ago referring to the state railroad and warehouse commission, which cost the party thousands of votes. In direct answer to the question, the governor said that he had no contracts to give up.

He had an offer from the management of a lyceum bureau to deliver 200 lectures at $200 apiece, but had made it conditioned upon his retirement to private life. When his nomination came he accepted the latter, thus giving up a sure $40,000 for an uncertain $5,000. He had delivered a few lectures before universities and others but was under no contract. would the editor of the paper give up $33,000 for the state of Minnesota the governor asked. Gov. Johnson's voice, which had been threatening to give out for some days past, seemed in good condition, and he spoke easily and without any seeming fatigue.

SAGENG RUNS FOR CONGRESS

OTTER TAIL STATE SENATOR WILL CONTEST FOR CONGRESS IN 9TH DISTRICT

HIS PETITION WILL BE CIRCULATED AT ONCE IN THIS DISTRICT

From Friday's Daily—

Hon Ole O. Sageng state senator from Otter Tail county elected as a Populist and the only member of that faith in the Minnesota Senate has decided to run for congress and will file as an independent. For some time the Democratic organization at St. Paul has been trying to fill the congressional vacancies all over the state with a view to strengthening the state and national ticket. C. A. Nye of Moorhead was first picked to make the run but he declined. Senator Sageng has been besieged for some time to run but held off. He recently made a trip to Crookston and St. Paul and the pressure was applied with such vigor that he has decided to make the try and his petition as an independent candidate will be circulated at once.

Iowa Farmer Gets Big Check for His Corn.

Webster City, Iowa, Oct. 1. — Probably the largest check ever issued in Iowa to a farmer for corn raised by himself was issued to John Canavan of Lena, Green county. He sold to the Minneapolis & Iowa Elevator company 9,896 bushels and received for the same 71 cents per bushel, amounting to $7,026.85. Green county makes the claim that this is the largest check ever given to a farmer in Iowa for a single corn crop.

IS ACCUSED OF ROBBING LADY

ED. HARDY JAILED ON CHARGE OF SECURING VALUABLES OF MRS. SANBURN

WATCH BELIEVED TO BE PROPERTY OF HIS ACCUSER IS FOUND ON HIS PERSON

From Thursday's Daily—

Accused of robbing Florence Sanburn of gold watch and jewelry, Ed. Hardy was arrested in East Grand Forks last night. The robbery is alleged to have been committed at an early hour Tuesday morning in the northern part of Grand Forks. Mrs. Sanburn had been out late and had been drinking. She started to return to her room in a DeMers avenue lodging house. She met a stranger and asked him the way to the Great Northern depot. He told her he would show her the way and took her in a different direction. In the vicinity of a woodpile he choked her and took her watch and valuables. She staggered to a house nearby and gave the alarm, but some time had elapsed and the robber had escaped. In robbing her he missed taking about $700 worth of diamonds she had on.

Watch on His Person

In Hardy's possession is the watch belonging to Mrs. Sanburn it is asserted. An effort will be made to get him to cross the Red River today.

Hardy was first arrested on charge of drunkenness and the watch was found when he was searched at the station.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanburn came here with the street carnival aggregation. They decided not to pitch their tent on acount of the cold weather.

Stabs Landlady; Kills Self.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—After plunging a knife three times into the body of his former landlady and hurling her down a flight of stairs yesterday, George Lizt of this city, believing that he had committed murder, turned the weapon on himself and inflicted wounds from which he died two hours later. The woman is in a critical condition.

Killed in Auto Wreck.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 1. — Miss Katherine Hord, member of a prominent family, was almost instantly killed; Robert Payne, a young society man, was crippled, perhaps permanently, and four other persons were more or less severely bruised when an automobile collided with a street car last evening.

SENATOR WORKS HERE— Senator Works returned this morning from a business trip to Mankato and left on the local for his farm at Euclid. He says that things at the old home are looking finely. "Hurrah for Johnson" was the greeting the senator gave the Journal man, and he said it as tho he meant it.

THE CATTLE THIEVES?— The Davidson farmer Geo. Roberts who had telephoned Sheriff Gonyea yesterday to save him from cattle thieves wasn't so badly hurt, as one might suppose from the fuss he made over it. When Deputy Daniels arrived on the scene he found the Euclid cattle herder distributing the drove, he had herded all summer for the various farmers. Two of Roberts' heifers got into this herd and because they weren't returned at once, Roberts forthwith ordered an arrest, but Deputy Daniels did not see an occasion to arrest anybody as the heifers had returned home by that time.

A call has been issued for bids for the City Hall bonds in the sum of $6000 and the Sampsons addition bridge bonds in the sum of $7,500 which was voted at the recent election, and they will be opened at the meeting of the city council on Oct. 20.

It is the intention of the council to have the bridge constructed at the earliest possible date after the bonds have been sold as the bridge is an absolute necessity.

J. J. Farley, William Kelly and J. H. Spain were arrested at Larimore last night in a raid made by Deputy Sheriff Kelly and Chief R. Fadden. They are charged with running gambling resorts. A number of poker chips cards and other evidences of crime were secured. The raid was made by order of State's Attorney Wineman of Grand Forks County, who had secured evidence that games were being conducted. The accused will be given a preliminary hearing today.

The hearing on demurrer to plaintiff's complaint by the defendants in the case of Warder, Buchard and Glessner Co., vs. Ole Erickson and Albert Erickson of Township Queen this county is on for hearing before Judge Watts today. The suit is brought on some notes given by defendants to plaintiff in N. Dakota. Defendants set up as a defense, statute of limitation, which raises the point whether or not the statute of limitation runs against the defendants for the time they have lived in this state W. E. Rowe of Crookston appears for plaintiff and J. A. Hendricks of Fosston for the defendants.

The case of Julius Kessler & Co., vs. L. G. Anderson of Fosston is up for trial before Judge Watts today. J. A. Hendricks of Fosston appearing for the plaintiff and W. E. Rowe for defendant.

Hal Is Secretary—Friends in this city will be interested in learning that Hal Davies, who is employed on the Fargo Morning Call, was elected secretary of the newly organized Press Club of that city.

Improved Mail Service — Grafton business men have petitioned the superintendent of the railway mail service for a Sunday mail service between St. Vincent and Pembina on Sunday, figuring that they will then be able to get their mail over the Great Northern Saturday night Winnipeg flyer to St. Vincent and then down to Grafton on the Northern Pacific in the morning.

THE MOST ACCOMMODATING—The man right here at home is the man who will be most accommodating. The home merchant is a friend of yours and he takes pains to please you and to have his service, his goods and his prices right. He often accommodates his customers by sending for what they want if he does not happen to have it in stock, he accommodates them, too by exchanging things which they have bought. Some times it is an accommodation to exchange butter and eggs for merchandise and it is sometimes a great accommodation to get a little credit from the storekeeper. It is a good thing to remember that these are accommodations that you do not get from the catalogue and mail order house.

HOME FROM WISCONSIN — Lars Aamoth returned last week from a trip to Wisconsin, where he has been visiting for a few weeks. On his way down, Mr. Aamoth visited the Minn. state fair and brought back a head of the much talked of Alaskan wheat. The head is large, measuring 1½ inches in width and 4 inches in length. The grain has somewhat the appearance of speltz, being bushy and somewhat branched. On shelling out the kernels Mr. Aamoth found the head to contain 130 of them. They were of a light color, plump and larger than those usually raised here. It is Mr. Aamoth's intention to plant every kernel of it and eventually to give it a trial on a large scale.—Twin Valley Times.

STORE ROBBED — Chief Eck received word that a general store at St. Cloud had been broken into and property valued at $1,500 stolen, and a request was made to be on the lookout for the burglars, as it was believed that they were headed in this direction. The success of the robbery was remarkable, and the police of St. Cloud are much wrought up over the deed.

It seems that the robbers secured entrance to the store by forcing a rear door and took their time in selecting what they deemed to be the most valuable and of the most use. A large quantity of winter clothing was taken and considerable jewelry, besides silverware.

Chief Eck desires to warn everyone to be on the watch for the roboers, as it is expected that they will come into this section and try to dispose of the booty.

Judge L. E. Gossman returned this morning from Bagley and qualified as Municipal Judge in Crookston and tomorrow court will be formally opened in his chambers in the city hall Judge Gossman stated today that he would offer the position of Clerk to Attorney N. B. Moran and the latter will probably accept as it will not take but a little of his time to attend to the duties at the present, and later different arrangements can be made as conditions demand.

Mrs. Ike Simmons was the victim of a painful accident this morning as a result of which she may lose two of the fingers of her right hand.

She was leading a cow to pasture as a pastime, when the animal started to run for a water trough and the rope became entangled about two of her fingers and before she could disentangle herself the skin had been torn from her hand and it was necessary to call for a physician.

Later details of the accident have not yet been received, but a large circle of friends hope that the results are not more serious than at first anticipated.

Cheerful Ignorance.

"You'd be surprised," said the woman who is supposed to be wise, "how many people are perfectly ignorant of the correct way to write acceptances and regrets when they are asked to entertainments. It would pay some enterprising woman to go around writing them for those who don't know how. You'd be amazed to see the people who come to me to ask how it is done or to get me to write them. And," she admitted, "if the truth must be told, I don't know so awfully much about it myself!"—Exchange.

WORK TRAINS FOR GREENBUSH

ONE TRAIN LEFT THIS MORNING AND ANOTHER ONE GOES THIS AFTERNOON

WORK WILL BE RUSHED ON NEW LINE AS RAPIDLY AS POSSIBLE

Early this morning a work train left for Greenbush in charge of Conductor Austin with Alfred Bjoin and J. S. Lee as brakesmen, and this afternoon another one will leave, both of which will be employed on the Greenbush extension from now till the time the rails are all laid and trains in operation.

Two crews will be employed from this time forward, at least, and more will probably be put on later as occasion may require.

Christianson, chairman of the Polk County Republican Central Committee returned this morning from a meeting in St. Paul where he attended the meeting of all the county chairmen with the state committee and plans were outlined for the coming campaign. Mr. Christianson says that conditions are very satisfactory, better in fact than he had expected.

STEENERSON RETURNS— Congressman Steenerson returned this morning from a trip to St. Paul where he was called on political business. Mr. Steenerson was in consultation with the state leaders regarding the coming campaign. It is understood that he will do considerable campaign work this year, not only in the state but also in several of the western states.

LANGEVIN A GRADUATE—Elmer Langevin, son of Dr. M. Langevin of this city left a few days ago for the McKillit Veterinary college at Chicago from which he will graduate this year after having completed a three years course. He has already had a great deal of valuable practical work with his father, and after his graduation will go in with some retired practitioner.

LAND MAN HERE—John Rush a well known land dealer of Mankato is spending the day in the city and will look after his interests in this section of the country for a few days He says he never saw conditions here more favorable than they are at the present time and believes there will be a heavy demand for Valley lands during the coming fall an dwinter.

HAL DAVIES HERE—Hal Davies a former employe of both the Crookston newspapers arrived in the city this morning. For some time past Mr. Davies is the editor of the Fargo Call and is also secretary of the Fargo Press Club, a new organization there which gave a grand banquet to the press of North Dakota a few days ago, at which Hon. Wm. H. Taft and his party were the guests of honor.

JOHNSON TO TOUR THE NORTHWEST

Governor May Be Sent To Counteract The Effect Of Taft's Trip. Combine With Bryan For Future Heirship Is Hinted. Even New York May Be Visited By The "Pine Of The North."

From Saturday's Daily—

Gov. John A. Johnson may take a campaign tour of the northwest in the trail of William Howard Taft to offset the advantage which the Republican presidential candidate may have attained as a result of his recent tour thru this section of the country for which William Jennings Bryan is just now making the fight of his life.

The national tour of Gov. Johnson if it is accomplished will not only be the answer of the Democrats to Taft but it will be a reply to the challenge of Gov. Hughes who invades the state next week.

Bryan-Johnson. Combine

The plan has added significance as it is additional evidence of the reported alliance between Bryan and Johnson, in which Johnson is to be anointed with the oil of the heir apparent as a reward for his support of Bryan in the present campaign.

It is understood that the Democratic National committee has offered to take Gov. Johnson in a special train with an elaborately advertised itinerary, thru Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Iowa and Nebraska, later to be followed by an invasion of New York.

The matter has been under consideration for the past few days as a result of a proposition submitted by the national committee. It was considered at a special meeting of the kitchen cabinet held yesterday afternoon at the capitol and the advisers of Governor Johnson were in favor of its acceptance.

Won't Hurt Him at Home

The members of the cabinet professed to believe that the election of Governor Johnson is now assured in Minnesota, and, in any case, his use as a star card on the Democratic speaking ticket will not only not hurt him in Minnesota, but will increase his prestige both at home and abroad The general trend of argument was in favor of the governor's acceptance of the proposition.

It was argued that it would counteract the criticism that is being directed against the governor because he left the state to engage in public lectures, and that it can be used to bolster up Governor Johnson's defense that while doing so he was advertising the state. It was urged that if Governor Hughes of New York can afford to leave his state to invade Minnesota, there is no reason why Governor Johnson should not take the time to invade New York.

A NEGRO MURDERS HIS HOUSEKEEPER

Grand Forks, Oct. 3 — While her daughter, aged 14, danced in a downtown hall, John Henry, a negro fired five bullets into the body of his housekeeper, Mrs. Ellen Fulton, colored last night at about 9:35 at Henry's residence, 413 Cedar street. The woman died instantly.

The slayer was arrested by Officer Bliven as he started to walk away from the house. Jealousy over attentions paid to Mrs. Fulton by a negro named Brighteyes, is believed to have been the cause of the crime.

After the murder Henry muttered that he did not propose to have his home made into a disorderly house. He also made it plain that he had intended to kill the colored admirer of his housekeeper. The revolver used was a new one and had evidently been purchased during the day. Henry had been drinking.

Roomers Heard the Row

Several roomers at the Henry home heard the trouble downstairs. Henry and the woman had a bitter quarrel and the woman scored him unmercifully. It is said that she upbraided him for not paying her money which she claimed was due her as housekeeper. Henry finally shot her once. The woman fled outside and fell in the yard. Then the murderer shot four bullets into her body. He held the revolver so close to her that her clothing caught fire.

The shooting outdoors attracted the people of the vicinity. Ed Howard and wife, colored, residing next door hurried over and saw Henry standing over the woman with the smoking revolver in his hand. Howard and his wife heard Mrs. Fulton cry: "He shot me." This was as she came thru the door. Howard wanted to know why Henry had committed the crime and he muttered something about Mrs. Fulton wanting to run a disorderly house.

Stays Until Officer Arrives.

News came to the central police station of the shooting by telephone. The party who telephoned was so excited that he could not tell what had happened. Officer Bliven hurried to the house in a hack and an excited negro pointed out Henry as he started to walk away. He was not molested by the negroes who gathered in great numbers and who were very much afraid of him. Officer Bliven telephoned to the police station and Chief Overby and Special Officer Dan Leahy hurried to the house. The three officers placed Henry in a hack and took him to the county jail. Henry had little to say on his way to the jail. He kept muttering: "John Henry shot Ellen Fulton." He did not seem to fully realize what a serious crime he had committed.

The body of the woman was taken to Norman's undertaking rooms and Coroner Rounsvell was notified. He will arrive in Grand Forks on the morning train. The inquest will be held today.

Mrs. Fulton, who was about 50 years of age came here from Willow City, N. D. On August 28 she had George W. Field, colored, arrested on a charge of criminal assault. He was held to the district court in the sum of $1,000 and went to jail in default of the bond. Fields contended that the woman was a blackmailer.

The slayer has been here for a number of years. He was known to be a peaceful negro. He was employed as a laborer and was about 50 years old.

Mrs. Fulton had another daughter Mrs. Fannie Black, residing at Jacksonville, Ill. She was notified by wire last night.

IS SANCTIONED BY REPUBLICAN PRECEDENT

WILLMAR JOURNAL, (REP)

The Journal doesn't see any sense in this all-third term talk being put out in some quarters. There is nothing in it. The Republicans were the first to give a man a third gubernatorial term when they so honored Governor Pillsbury. Many other state officers have held term after term, as long as they could induce the convention to again nominate them. The third term rule has always been recognized by the Republicans in Minnesota all along the line from the highest office to that of coroner, or member of school board, or town clerk or pound master. Then why raise it at this time? True, a bill was introduced in the '05 legislature for a constitutional amendment limiting state officers to two terms, but the bill was smoothered in the judiciary committee composed of twenty-one Republicans and one Democrat. — Willmar Journal (Rep.)

HERE A HALF CENTURY; JUST MADE A CITIZEN

Judge Grindeland Yesterday Made A Citizen Of The Man After Whom McIntosh Was Named.

Judge A. Grindeland this morning passed thru Crookston enroute home from Mahnomen where yesterday he held a special term of court to grant citizenship papers. The regular term of court will commence next week in Mahnomen County but as citizenship papers cannot be granted less than 30 days before election, it was necessary to hold the special term, tho but three new citizens were made.

A remarkable feature of the term was that Mr. McIntosh, the man after whom the thriving little city in the eastern part of the county was named was made a citizen. Mr. McIntosh has been living in the United States since 1862, 46 years, nearly half a century but has never before been a real citizen. He came here from Canada.

INVITATION IS EXTENDED

CROOKSTON WANTS TO ENTERTAIN NEXT CONGREGATIONAL STATE MEETING

From Monday's Daily—

The Congregational people of Crookston have invited the coming of the next State Association to this city. It was done after morning worship yesterday. Today the formal invitation is on its way.

It will be of interest to know that there are 222 Congregational churches in the state and 218 ministers. Their property is valued at nearly two million dollars and the home expenses over-run $260,000.00 with $65,734.00 in annual benevolent gifts.

It is probable that the attendance at next year's meeting will be about 150, including delegates to the women's societies. The serious problem is that of entertaining the guests, but the local church looks to the hospitality of our community to take good care of that.

This meeting if it comes to Crookston will bring a company of most excellent men and women to our city. Probably not a few will come with a view to inspecting Crookston's "opportunities." It will be well worth while to prepare a most hospitable welcome.

In addition to the invitation extended from the church the business men of the city will this evening forward a most cordial invitation to hold the next Congregational meeting here, and this will add to the strength of the invitation from the church.

Actions of the bass drummer speak louder than his words.

HEMPSTEAD DEFAULTED

THE AMOUNT OF HIS SHORTAGE IS NOT AS YET KNOWN

REASON OF SHORTAGE BASED UPON SEVERAL SUPPOSITIONS

From Monday's Daily—

John Hempstead cashier of the State Bank of Emerado was a defaulter, it has been ascertained and it was for this reason that he took his life last Tuesday in Grand Forks. The amount of his shortage in the Farmers' Elevator company of Emerado, has not been established, but the estimates run as high as $13,000.

The exact amount of his defalcations are unknown. It is pretty well settled that he used the funds of the bank unlawfully but to what extent is not known. The bank will not be affected by the shortage.

As agent of certain land firms Mr. Hempstead is stated to have made no reports of collections made on some contracts this year, altho it is known that he was paid.

Yesterday forenoon a deed transferring a half section of land in Mecknock township from Hempstead to his wife, Edna Hempstead was filed The consideration was placed at $8,000 and the deed had been made out on Monday but had been held up on account of unpaid taxes.

And if the average woman gave voice only to her thoughts she would talk less.

The average man would rather admit that he is wrong than to admit the other fellow is right.

COL. HALDEMAN IS OPTIMISTIC

He Visits Chicago And Talks A Few Lines On National Politics.

Colonel W. B. Haldeman of Louisville, Ky., one of the owners of the Courier-Journal and Times, was in Chicago recently. When asked what he thought of the outlook he said:

"I have no knowledge of conditions in the east, as I have been in the west for two months past. I have no doubt the state of Colorado, despite of corporate interests that are said to govern that state, will cast its electoral vote for Mr. Bryan next November. I also believe that Nebraska will be found in the Democratic column. I find that wherever I have been thruout the west, a vast number of republicans who will vote the Democratic ticket, and I have failed to find a single man who was a democrat by conviction who will not vote for Mr. Bryan. The Democrats who were numbered as Gold Democrats in 1896 and were democrats from conviction, will vote for Mr. Bryan in 1908, and those who belonged to corporations or were subject to corporate interests and became republicans because they recognized that they had to look to corporate interests, will vote the republican ticket because they have been republicans ever since 1896, and were at heart republicans before 1896. I find that many Roosevelt republicans who look upon President Roosevelt as the great American of the last fifty years also think that Mr. Bryan originated ideas that Mr. Roosevelt appropriated as thoroly American, and with the belief, that as Roosevelt republicans he will carry out their views most thoroly, are ardent in the support of Mr. Bryan and propose to vote for him in the coming campaign. I have sounded men who have never voted anything but the republican ticket before who tell me they propose to vote for Mr. Bryan in the coming campaign because they believe he is honest and has most typical ideas of honesty in government and who is thoroly pure in his domestic life, and that they believe any party that has been in power as long as the republican party have raised a corps of grafters and a system of graftism that means much for the few and little for the many, and therefore they believe it will be best if the people have a change in office.

"My belief, and it is not based on my wish that Mr. Bryan shall be elected President, is that the American people will not sanction the turning over by one man to his own legatee of the power of this great republic, and that the masses will, despite the vast amount of money to be thrown into this campaign by corporations, select Wm. Jennings Bryan as the representative of the American people, and as the head of the greatest nation that today exists in the world.

MAKE THIS AT HOME

MIX IT YOURSELF BY SHAKING INGREDIENTS IN BOTTLE—SIMPLE REMEDY

HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE IN VICINITY HERE WILL WELCOME THIS ADVICE

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, which is said to be a positive remedy for backache or kidney or bladder derangement, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here at home, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic affictions with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

BETTER FIRE PROTECTION

The new militant mood of the country's fire insurance interests it is said will make a meeting of the Fire Underwriters' Association of the Northwest, in Chicago, October 7, something of a milestone in fire insurance history. "Patience has ceased to be a virtue," they say, the import of the remark being best understood by the fact that in nearly every state of the Union the fire insurance companies are made the target for one to fifty-seven varieties of proposed legislation, most of it being aimer at any mutual interchange of experience to enable each company to adapt their rates to the comparative hazard of the different classes of property, "anti-compact" bills, so-called.

The fire losses in recent years have been so enormous that the insurance companies have seen wiped out the profits of a score of years, mostly made in the investment of the big sums of money in their hands and not from underwriting, which has not been profitable. A scientific re-adjustment of rates is their goal, that and the enactment of laws establishing the office of fire marshall whose duty it will be to investigate questionable fires and bring incendiaries to punishment, arson having been encouraged in recent years, according to the records, particularly by "valued policy" laws, which exacted the payment of a fixed sum in the case of loss by fire. Fire insurance officials and special agents from a score of states will be present at the conference. The responsibility of the public to the insurance companies and the importance to all business of sound insurance will be subjects of discussion.

BIG ENGINES ARE SENT EAST

A freight train from the west this morning had three dead head engines which were being sent in to Barnesville shops for repairs. The heavy grain traffic at the present time makes an immense amount of work for the boilermakers.

RAILS FOR THE GREENBUSH EXTENSION

The freight train from the west this morning had two cars of rails from the Dakota Division which will be shipped to Greenbush to day for the extension from Greenbush to Warroad, the work on which is being rushed with all possible speed.

FIVE LITTLE CHILDREN IN MISSOURI UNPROVIDED FOR

MAN WHO WAS MURDERED IN A BOX CAR NEAR WADENA LEAVES

From Tuesday's Daily—

Frank Grac, the Keytsville, Missouri man, who was murdered in a box car on the N. P. last week and who died as a result of his injuries at Staples, leaves a wife and five children.

Grace and his son had been working near Miles City, Montana. When they boarded a train the brakesman accosted them and offered to place them in a box car and send them thru for $1 each. They paid the money and the brakeman sealed the car after letting in five more men. The car came thru as far as Lake Park, when it was opened and the two supposed negroes were let in. They soon held up the men who had ridden thru from Montana, and when the elder Grace resisted, shot him thru the abdomen and shoulder.

Grace died at Staples after several days of suff ering. When he passed away a purse was raised with which to buy a casket and to buy a lot in the Staples cemetery. Sufficient money was raised to pay all funeral expenses.

The funeral services were held at the Methodist church at Fergus Falls Rev. Dodds officiating. Another purse was raised at Staples to send the dead man's son home to Keytsville, Mo. He was not accustomed to the ways of the world and would have been utterly helpless without the financial aid given him. Rev. Dodds wrote a letter to Mrs. Grace telling her of what had been done and assuring her that her husband had been given a respectable burial.

It is understood that there are five children in the Grace family and their little farm in Missouri is heavily encumbered. Mr. Grace and his son had been receiving good wages in Montana and they had sent some of the money home to help pay off the debt on the farm. The family is thus left in hard circumstances.

MC'NABB HERE FROM WEST

FORMER CHIEF DISPATCHER OF NORTHERN DIVISION OF G. N. IN THE CITY

IS NOW TRAVELING CHIEF DISPATCHER —SPENDING DAY ON BUSINESS

From Tuesday's Daily—

Traveling Chief Dispatcher McNabb of the Great Northern, former chief dispatcher of the Northern Division with headquarters here, arrived this morning from White Fish, Montana and is conferring with the local G. N. officials.

He says the crops are the best in the grain line that they have been in years in the far west, and that the fruit is also a big crop and heavy shipments are being made.

Regarding stock he says that the shipments are light from Montana as yet, but that there is much activity in Great Northern circles in that state owing to the extensive repairs made necessary by the great washouts there during the early summer months. He reports general conditions fine everywhere. He makes his headquarters in St. Paul and will leave for there tonight. He reports that the heavy snow which fell in Montana some time ago has all melted.

GYMNASTICS A FEATURE

CLASS OF 20 TO BE STARTED AT THE CO. I HALL AT ONCE

From Monday's Daily—

Captain Westerberg was in the Journal office this morning and stated that he was very much pleased with the plan to have a class in gymnastics at the hall and the class can be filled without an effort at all.

Lucius Miller has agreed to coach the class for a very nominal sum and the plan is to later organize a business men's class. This latter plan will probably be put in effect the first of the year or probably shortly before that time and when it is there will without doubt be more applicants than there can be taken care of.

STRICTLY MODERN

WRIGHT-CARPENTER CO. TO HAVE BUILDING COMPLETELY REMODELLED

WILL BE MADE STRICTLY MODERN IN EVERY RESPECT IN NEAR FUTURE

PARTITION TO BE TAKEN OUT—ONE BIG MAIN ENTRANCE FACING EAST

From Tuesday's Daily—

The New Store is soon to have for its home one of the most modern mercantile buildings to be found in the entire northwest. Messrs. Wright and Carpenter announced this fact this morning and work will at once be started with this end in view.

There will be an entire new front put in, strictly modern, of plate glass and instead of three, as at present, there will be one entrance which will be close to the center of the building where the wall now stands dividing the clothing and the dry goods departments. This wall will be removed and a steel truss will take its place. There will be one immense display window on each side of the door, and the interior shelving will all be reconstructed and made strictly up-to-date.

There will also be a complete new line of show cases installed and the basement will be fitted up into a monster department and as soon as the work is completed there will be a regular, bargain basement where special sales will be in progress at all times.

These repairs will make the New Store one of the most complete and modern department stores to be found in the entire northwest.

JUDGE HAS BUSY DAY

FOUR DRUNKS WERE ARRESTED THIS MORNING AND ALL OF THEM FINED

ONE WAS SOAKED $5.45, 1 SENT TO JAIL FOR 15 DAYS, 2 SENT FROM CITY

From Monday's Daily—

Judge Gossman the first municipal judge of Crookston was in his seat for the first time today. He had only four men before him and he sentenced them all.

The first one he fined $5.45, the second two he sent to the city dumping ground to work for Pat, and the last one was sent to the county jail for 15 days.

And Judge Gossman did not say a word in the meantime.

CIVIL CASES EACH TUESDAY

JUDGE GOSSMAN OF MUNICIPAL COURT MET WITH ATTORNEYS THIS MORNING

Judge L. E. Gossman met with the attorneys of Crookston this morning and as a result an order was issued to the effect that court would sit at ten o'clock Tuesday morning of each week for the trying of civil cases, and continue in session until all business is disposed of. Court sits each morning at ten o'clock for the disposition of criminal work.

FIRE IN THE HAMM BUILDING

Fire was discovered in the bulidings in the rear of the Hamm buliding on Main street Friday evening about 7:30 p. m. It took but a few minutes before the whole rear part was ablaze and for a time it seemed as if the whole building was doomed so rapidly was the fire making headway. In a very few minutes the fire company was on hand and had a good stream of water playing on the blaze and soon had the fire under control.—Oslo Tribune.

DEATH CAME VERY SUDDENLY

Mrs. Fred P. Nash, of Garnd Forks, died suddenly Sunday of blood poisoning. She is well known in this city and her sudden demise will come as a great shock to her many friends. The funeral will take place tomorrow from the family residence at 2 o'clock.

FAVORED FRANCHISE

EAST GRAND FORKS COMMERCIAL CLUB PASSED RESOLUTIONS LAST EVENING

URGING THE DESIRABILITY OF STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE BY THAT CITY

RAILS ARE NOW BEING RAPIDLY BEING LAID FOR GRAND FORKS LINE

From Tuesday's Daily—

W. A. Marin returned this morning from Grand Forks and East Grand Forks where he has been attending to some business in connection with the Grand Forks street railway. Mr. Marin states that the rails are now being laid in Grand Forks by Contractor as rapidly as possible.

Last evening there was a special meeting of the East Grand Forks Commercial Club, and resolutions were passed strongly favoring the granting of a franchise by that city, and the East Grand Forks city council will without doubt follow the suggestions made.

LYCAN AND CO. HAVE DISOLVED

W. S. LYCAN WILL CONDUCT THE HOTEL CROOKSTON AS IN THE PAST

F. S. LYCAN WILL BE INTERESTED ONLY IN HOTEL MARKHAM AT BEMIDJI

From Tuesday's Daily—

It was announced today officially that the big hotel firm of W. S. Lycan & Co., of Crookston and Bemidji had been dissolved by mutual consent.

W. S. Lycan will continue to operate the Hotel Crookston and F. S. Lycan will operate the Hotel Markham at Bemidji. W. S. Lycan and Co., organized when F. S. Lycan severed his connection with the Grand Forks Mercantile Co., and the two have been associated ever since, W. S. Lycan having been established in the Hotel Crookston prior to that time.

FINE BLOOD IS SHIPPED IN

EVIDENCES OF INCREASING ATTENTION TO BETTER BREEDS

This morning at the Great Northern depot a fine Holstein Bull, over a year old, and weighing 600 or 700 pounds, crated, excited considerable attention, as an animal of that size is very seldom shipped by express. The purchaser was a prominent farmer near Greenbush, and the shipment was but another indication of the fact that the farmers in this section are paying more attention to stock raising and realize that it only pays to raise the best breeds. This is but one of scores of shipments that have been made thru Crookston recently.

King Opposes Tipping

King Edward is greatly opposed to tipping and does his level best to suppress the practice. In fact, he has induced several of his subjects to take steps in this direction. Worthy of note also is the fact that golden grain belt beer will please the most critical taste and will contribute to the health, comfort and happiness of the consumer. REMARKABLE ALIBI TO BE OFFERED

MAN ACCUSED OF MURDERING FORMER FARGO, NORTH DAKOTA WOMAN

WILL TRY TO PROVE HE DIDN'T KNOW THE WOMAN MURDERED

Chicago, Oct. 14—Luman C. Mann, still confined in a cell in the Harrison street police station charged with the murder of Mrs. Frances Gilmor Thompson in a Michigan avenue rooming house last June, will rely upon a most remarkable alibi to prove himself innocent.

This alibi will be young Mann's principal defense. When his case is called for trial he will take the stand in his own behalf and will also call numerous witnesses in his attempt to show that he could not have been anywhere in the vicinity of the rooming house where the murder was done at the time that the woman was being strangled to death, and also in his effort to prove that he did not even know the woman, on the other hand, the police, working on every clue that has been presented to them are enmeshing the accused youth closer and closer in their network of evidence. According to the statements of the men who have charge of the case against the son of the wealthy railway supply dealer has been made out.

The case as it stands now is one of the most remarkable in the annals of the Chicago police department. In the complexity of its ramifications, in the different angles it presents, in the number of people seemingly in all walks of life that it drags into the limelight, it is a tangle of statements identifications, contradictions and hearsay that will take a jury finally to unravel.

A SENSATIONAL CHARGE MADE BY COMMITTEE

Historical Society

Claim Roosevelt Bribed A Labor Leader By Offer Of Office In Washington.

Claim That President Keefe Of Longshoremen's Union Will Get Position Of Commission Of Immigration In Return For Service To Republicans In Present Campaign.

New York, Oct. 14—The democratic national committee tonight made public tht following statements: "It was stated at national democratic headquarters tonight that President Roosevelt by a promise of office has succeeded in having one of the big men of the American Federation of Labor desert President Gompers in his advocacy of the election of Bryan for the presidency. The labor leader in question is Daniel J. Keefe of Detroit, president of the International association of Longshoremen and one of the vice presidents of the Federation of Labor. The democratic national committee alleges that Keefe and the president were closeted for several hours in Washington, Oct. 3 and the offer of being named commissioner general of emigration, made vacant by the death of Commissioner Sargent, was made in consideration of Keefe repudiating Gompers and the executive council of the federation.

"Source of the democratic committees information was not divulged today but information was offered that should Keefe or Roosevelt deny the change another big labor leader, now in New York will come forward with facts to prove that the offer was made and Keefe accepted it and has commenced to make good his part of the deal."

New York, Oct. 13.—A deadly disease, in some respects like the grip, but highly contagious and far more mortal, has attacked the already depleted tribes of the Cree Indians on the shores of James and Hudson bays, killing men, women and children by scores. Alanson Skinner of the department of anthropolgy of the American Museum of Natural History, who recently returned from an exhaustive study of the people of that country, brought the news of the plague to this city. Mr. Skinner said:

"The illness manifested itself in colds, followed by coughs, fever and nausea. Unless the sufferers were of very strong physique they died very quickly."

BALLOON IN NORTH SEA

SECOND OF AMERICAN BALLOONS, ST. LOUIS, IN BERLIN RACE DESTROYED

Berlin, Oct. 14—The second of the three American balloons that started in the race for the International trophy on Sunday from Schmargendorf has met disaster in the North Sea. The Saint Louis, manned by N. H. Arnold, of North Adams, Mass., and Harry J. Hewitt, was carried over land by treacherous air currents and later in the haze the aeronauts lost their bearings until suddenly last night they saw the guard lights of the unknown coast.

This meant they must descend or risk the danger of being driven far out of the track of vessels. They chose the former course and for an hour they were buffeted by the waves almost giving up in despair.

Eventually they were rescued by a lifeboat and the first intimation that an accident had occurred to the Saint Louis, was conveyed in a wireless message from Arnold saying "lost everything in the North sea last night."

SUFFRAG'TES RIOT IN LONDON

GOOD NATURED MOB BESIEGES HOUSE OF COMMONS, CAUSING SOME DAMAGE

London, Oct. 14—The climax of the suffragette campaign was reached last night when an enormous mob hemmed in parliament and stopped the tarffic in all the streets leading to Westminister. For more than three hours the crowds scuffled good naturedly with the police, interfered with theatre goers, broke windows and disorganized things generally in the center of London. The heroine of the day was Mrs. Travers Symons, formerly secretary to James Keir Hardie, socialist and independent member of parliament, who reached the door of the house of commons by strategy. The house was debating the bill to prevent children from cigarette smoking when a woman dashed past the doorkeeper to a position in front of the speaker's chair and shouted shrilly:

"Leave off discussing children and talk about women."

Three officials seized Mrs. Symons and carried her out bodily.

The appeal issued by the suffragettes for 50,000 persons to help them "rush" parliament this evening was a most successful stroke. Twice that number responded to the call and nine-tenths of these were young people who came to see the fun. There were also a few hundred of the unemployed and their sympathizers.

BABY BOY HAD ITCHING HUMOR

Which Broke Out in Different Places—Nothing Would Help Him—Mother Almost in Despair—Skin Quickly Healed Without a Scar and Trouble Has Never Returned

SINCE USING CUTICURA MOTHER GIVES IT PRAISE

"Several months ago, my little boy, now two and a half years old, began to break out with itching sores. I began to doctor him, and as soon as I got them healed up in one place they would break out in another. I was almost in despair. I could not get anything that would help him. One evening I read a testimonial from a lady who had cured her little boy with Cuticura. I began to use the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and after using them three times, the sores commenced to heal. He is now well, and not a scar is left on his body. They have never returned nor left him with bad blood, as one would think. Cuticura Remedies are the best I have ever tried, and they are surely great. I shall always have them in the house, handy, and shall highly recommend them to any one who is suffering likewise. I cannot give them too much praise. Mrs. William Geeding, 102 Washington St., Attica, Ind., July 22, 1907."

ITCHING TORMENTS

From little patches of eczema, tetter, milk crust, psoriasis, etc., on the skin, scalp, or hands of infants, children, or adults are instantly relieved and speedily cured, in the majority of cases, by warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, the great Skin Cure, assisted, when necessary, by mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent. OBSEQUIES OF MRS. NASH YESTERDAY

LAST SAD RITES PERFORMED BY REV. DR. F. H. HAYES

From Friday's Daily—

The funeral of Mrs. F. P. Nash occurred yesterday morning from the family home on South Fifth street in Grand Forks, in the presence of a large assemblage of sorrowing friends neighbors and citizens, who by their presence testified of the high esteem in which Mrs. Nash was held.

The services were conducted by Dr. F. H. Hayes former pastor of the family who came from Chicago yesterday morning to perform the last offices. He spoke briefly and paid a high tribute to the character of the deceased and spoke fitting words of consolation to the bereaved family and friends. A quartette rendered several appropriate musical selections and the services were very impressive thruout. Floral offerings both numerous and beautiful covered the casket. Interment was made at Memorial park. H. B. Finch, W. K. Nash, R. D. Campbell, W. R. Vanderhoef, W. M. Rand and C. B. Rogers officiated as pall bearers.

Among those present at the obsequies from out of town were W. T. Carlisle and C. L. Winslow, of Crookston, Thomas Griffin, O. M. Pierce and G. M. Booker, of Minot, J. E. McLean of Brandon and F. H. DeCamp of Winnipeg. The wholesale houses of Nash Bros., and the Grand Forks Mercantile company were closed all day as a mark of respect.

BRYAN IS TICKLED

OVER OMAHA BEE'S RICH ERROR REGARDING THE TARIFF PARAGRAPH

SAYS ROSEWATER TOOK TERRIFIC WALLOP AT REPUBLICAN PLATFORM

From Friday's Daily—

There was much amusement at Fairview, W. J. Bryan's home near Lincoln, Neb., a few days ago, on the receipt of the Omaha papers. In the Omaha Bee published by Victor Rosewater, a member of the Republican executive committee and head of the Republican publicity bureau, there was an editorial criticising in vigorous language an extract from the supposed speech of Mr. Bryan on the tariff question. The words complained of in the editorial were: "In all tariff legislation the true principle is best maintained by the imposition of such duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with reasonable profit to American industries."

In regard to this the Bee stated editorially:

"Nothing prettier in the catch-all line has been offered in this campaign. The most hide-bound stand-patter in the country can accept that as satisfactory and the rankest free-trader can find delight in it. The declaration means simply nothing. An attempt to legislate along that line would simply open the way to interminable wrangling as to what constitutes 'a reasonable profit,' for hair-splitting on wages on one industry, price of raw materials in another rebates and drawbacks in a third, and so on thru the list of thousands of articles that are now on the tariff lists. Bryan's revision would serve only to halt industrial and commercial progress and keep business unsettled during his term of office."

The World-Herald shows that the words complained of are not a part of any speech of Mr. Bryan's but a part of the Republican platform, and that the head of the Republican publicity bureau and member of the executive committee of the national committee had, thru the editorial columns of the paper published by him, severely criticised one of the planks of the platform on which Mr. Taft is running.

Bryan Tickled Over It

When Mr. Bryan's attention was called to the Omaha WorldHerald's editorial reproducing the Omaha Bee's attack on the Republican platform he said:

"I am very much surprised that Mr. Rosewater, who is the editor of the Bee and also a member of the executive committee of the Republican national committee and the head of the Republican bureau of publicity should have attempted to misrepresent my position. A good many unfair things have been said but nothing more unfair than that said by Mr. Rosewater. To accuse me of using the language of the Republican platform is an outrage. He ought to apologize for this injustice and explain to his readers that the language which he criticises was taken from the Republican platform and not from any speech of mine.

'Mr. Rosewater is right, however, in making fun of the language. He is right in saying that 'nothing prettier in the catch-all line has been offered in this campaign.' He is also right in saying that 'the most hide-bound standpatter in the country can accept this as satisfactory and the rankest free trader can find delight in it.' He is right again in saying that 'the declaration means simply nothing,' and again is right in saying 'an attempt to legislate along that line would simply open the way to interminable wrangling as to what constitutes a reasonable profit' for hair-splitting on wages in one industry, rebates and drawbacks in a third, and so on thru the list of thousands of articles that are now on the tariff lists."

Calls It "Rich Find"

"But I hardly expected from him so frank a confession as is contained in the last sentence of his editorial."

"This is a rich find. It shows how absurd the Republican platform looks to a Republican when the Republican has a chance to look at it in a disinterested way. When Mr. Rosewater thought that the language quoted was taken from a speech of mine he could see how ridiculous the language was. I hope that his opinion of the language will not change when he finds that he was shooting at his own platform instead of at me. The amusing blunder of the Omaha Bee suggested a new diversion for the campaign. Let the Democrats accuse me of using various sections from the Republican platform and from Mr. Taft's speeches, and see how the Republican editors will ridicule the language."

MORE VICTORIES FOR PROTECTION OF GAME

GAM EWARDEN MUNCH AND ST AR BA DBOY SECURE IMPORTANT CONVICTIONS AND THE WAR DENS AT GRAND RAPIDS ALSO SCORE A DECIDED VICTORY OVER ILLEGAL KILLING OF GAME —COST THE VIOLATORS VERY DEARLY

Game Warden Munch returns this morning from Mahnomen where with Star Bad Boy he secured two important convictions for violations of the game laws of the state. Joe Wadena, whose Indian name is Bay-ka-no which means "Champion in Play" was arrested 25 miles east of Mahnomen at Twin Lakes and entered a plea of guilty to shooting a cow and bull moose before Judge A. G. Schulind.

Fred Aginash otherwise known as Wa-wadg-wem meaning "center of rapids" was also arrested for trapping mink and musk-rats out of season at the same place and entered a plea of guilty when apprehended before the same judge. A stay of 20 days was granted in both cases.

Commission is Pleased

Enroute home Warden Munch met Carlos Aveny, Executive Agent of the State Game and Fish Commission who was just returning from Grand Rapids where the state had scored several more decided victories. Wardens Jess Harry and Art Somons of that place had apprehended Wm. Perrington for killing o moose five miles west of Grand Rapids.

Perrington called for a trial by jury and after a trial in which the evidence was conclusive against the accused, he was fined $78.70. And this was not all, he will be prosecuted on one or two other charges unless he will bring in a moose head from the woods, the location of which he stubbornly refused to divulge thus far.

To make it still better, Wm. Anderson of Grand Rapids was found guilty of buying 30 pounds of the meat and was fined $75 and costs. Chas. Wright of the same place was arrested for buying meat also, but owing to the lateness of the hour his case was postponed to the 16th.

Both Mr. Avery and the entire commission feel highly elated over the convictions secured as heretofore it has been impossible to secure convictions by jury at Grand Rapids or in that section.

Nelson on Guaranty of Bank Depostts

"Out of their mouths shall they be condemned."

Presidential Candidate Taft has come and gone and during his flying trip through the state he did not lose an opportunity to attempt to prove the fallacy of the bank deposit guaranty plan of the Democratic platform. As the guaranteeing of bank deposits is receiving much attention at the present time, as it is being fiercely attacked by the Republicans and as stoutly defended by the Democrats, it might not come amiss to look over the field and see who is most conspicuous in assailing this principle and who most active in its defense.

The principal opposition to the idea comes from the big banks, which claim that its general adoption will result in placing all banks on the same plane; that the large institutions will be compelled to support the weak ones in times of stress and that it will also encourage reckless methods, as the crooked or reckless financier will take advantage of the situation created by the guarantee and use it to his selfish advantage. It is also condemned by the general Republican politician, not because he knows anything about it, or because he doubts its soundness, but because the Democrats "saw it first," and it therefore became a Democratic measure, and for that reason it must be opposed.

On the other hand it is supported by many small bankers and by the general run of depositors, who feel that they are entitled to security of some kind when they put their money in the hands of another man. They argue that when the banker entrusts them with money from his institution he exacts security, and they believe it is right and proper that he do so, but they are personally as honest as he; why then should he be placed in a class by himself and be permitted to handle millions of other people's money without guarantee that it shall ever be returned?

The supporters of this contention are not confined to any walk in life, nor to any political party. When Mr. Taft was ridiculing the idea in his Minnesota speeches he was perhaps unaware that he was verbally lashing a member of his own party—a man whose sound judgment the people of Minnesota, regardless of political affiliations, have every confidence. But that was just what he was doing.

It will perhaps surprise many of his Minnesota constituents to learn that Senator Nelson introduced an amendment to the Vreeland-Aldrich currency bill in the senate, on March 27 last, which provided for the guaranteeing of deposits in national banks. In substance this amendment provided:

That one-half of all taxes paid on national bank currency by banking associations be set apart in the United States treasury as a depositors' fund, to be used in paying all depositors, except the United States, upon the insolvency of any bank; that said depositors' fund shall not exceed $20,000,000.

On the introduction of the amendment Senator Nelson argued in support of the measure that a money panic was distinguishable from a money stringency. That a money stringency arises because of a temporary scarcity of currency, while a panic, such as that of the fall of 1907, always originates in a run by depositors as to the safety of their funds. In 1907 the banks, to protect themselves, practically closed their doors. In fact they suspended cash payments to all practical purposes.

This condition was brought about, not because of a stringency of currency, but because the public became panic stricken in its disbelief in the soundness of the banks. A large amount of the capital and surplus of national banks is held in the shape of long-time securities—bonds of various kinds and approved stocks—so that the available money for loaning purposes is actually the money of the depositors.

When a panic sets in and a run starts on the bank money becomes scarce because depositors withdraw their money, and also because people who heretofore were content to get their pay in drafts and checks now demand cash. Thus the supply in cash is depleted, while the demand for actual money increases.

The banks are therefore compelled to call in loans from customers and must refuse further accomodation. All this is caused on account of a panic stricken public.

Continuing, Mr. Nelson said: "Now if you can by legislation, as is here proposed, provide a fund for the protection of depositors, so that they will feel easy and confident and will not become panic stricken, you to a large extent cure such evils as we had last fall. To my mind those evils arose from two sources. First, from the want of confidence on the part of the depositors. In consequence of that there was a run on the banks, and in the next place because the banks themselves were even more cowardly than the depositors; because the big banks throughout the country practically suspended payment, that is the one way in which they stopped the panic. * * * The amendment does not levy any additional burden upon the banks. It does not require them to pay an additional tax. It proposes to take one-half of the tax they now pay and set it apart as a fund for the benefit of the depositors. The federal government was authorized to prescribe rules for the regulation of one as well as for the other; that the government demanded security for its note issues and could as well provide for the security of the depositor. That when national banks are organized and incorporated they are held out to the public as species of governmental agencies. In this way they acquire reputations to which they are scarcely entitled. That the ordinary small depositor, the laboring man and the farmer, are often not able to distinguish between the good bank and the bad bank. A bank is a bank to him. It is sufficient for him to know that it is a government institution, organized under federal law, and in it he deposits his money.

"You may think I am cranky upon this subject, but in my younger days I had a little experience the memory of which has been with me ever since. When I was a law student in the city of Madison, Wis., in 1867, I was very poor, but I finally succeeded in accumulating the great fund of $500. It was practically all of my possessions. There was in the city of Madison a bank known as the Farmers' bank. I did not know the difference; I supposed one bank was as good as another. I deposited my little money in that bank. In a very short time the bank failed."

Mr. Nelson argued further that the establishment of the fund of $20,000,000 in question would create confidence in the minds of depositors and would in this way eliminate panics and runs upon banking institutions.

As was stated in this article heretofore the people of Minnesota have the utmost confidence in the soundness of Senator Nelson's judgment on all questions of a financial nature. It is questionable, therefore, if Judge Taft, in his speeches throughout the state converted many of his hearers to the belief that the man who runs the bank is entitled to unlimited confidence.

This is a question which must be settled by the voters of the country. Senator Nelson is authority for the statement that the bankers are as much subject to control by the people as are the railroads. In our opinion they will decide that what is fair for the individual is fair for the bank. That the bank rightfully requires security from the borrower and that the depositor should demand security for his deposits.

State of Minnesota, Executive Department—Proclamation.

Whereas, pursuant to Chapter seven (7), Revised Laws of Minnesota, 1905, a petition was filed with the Secretary of State on the 7th day of December A. D. 1906, praying for the creation of a new county out of territory now lying in Polk county, Minnesota, the same to be known as Nelson county, and described as follows to-wit:

Beginning at the south-east corner of township numbered one hundred and forty-seven, north of range thirty-nine west of the 5th principal meridian in Minnesota; thence running west along the south boundary line of townships one hundred and forty-seven of ranges thirty-nine, forty, forty-one, forty-two and forty-three, the same being the boundary line between Polk and Norman counties, to the southwest corner of township one hundred and forty-seven, range forty three; thence running north along the range line between ranges forty-three and forty-four to the northwest corner of township one hundred and forty-eight, range forty-three; thence west along the north boundary line of township one hundred and forty-eight to the southwest corner of township one hundred and forty-nine, range forty-three; thence north along the range line between ranges forty-three and forty-four to the northwest corner of township one hundred and forty-nine range forty-three; thence east along the north boundary line of said township last named and townships one hundred and forty-nine, ranges forty-two and forty-one to the northeast corner of said township last named; thence north along the west boundary line and east along the north boundary line of township one hundred and fifty, range forty, to the northeast corner of said township last named; thence north along the west boundary line, and east along the north boundary line of township one hundred and fifty-one, range thirty-nine, to the northeast corner of the said township last named; thence south along the range line between ranges thirty-eight and thirty-nine to the southeast corner of township one hundred and forty-nine, range thirty-nine; thence east along the north boundary line of township one hundred and forty-eight, range thirty-nine to the northeast corner of same; thence south along the range line between ranges thirty-eight and thirty-nine to the place of beginning, all of said territory being within the county of Polk and including and embracing the whole of townships numbered one hundred and forty-seven, one hundred and forty-eight and one hundred and forty-nine, ranges thirty-nine, forty, forty-one, forty-two and forty-three, townships one hundred and fifty, ranges thirty-nine and forty and township one hundred and fifty-one, range thirty-nine; and that the village of Fosston be the county seat thereof; and that Fred S. Syverson of Hill River, T. Hanson of Queen, Dreng Grundysen, of Sletten, Jens O. Rindal of Garden and Oscar Meisness of Badger, all legal voters and residents within said proposed new county, be and constitute the first board of County Commissioners of said proposed county, and the same to be known as Nelson county; and in which said petition it is represented and avered that the said hereinbefore described territory comprises more than four hundred square miles and contains more than two thousand inhabitants, and that the remaining area of Polk county, after deducting the territory hereinbefore described will comprise more than four hundred square miles and contain more than two thousand inhabitants.

And, whereas, the said petition has been duly considered and found and certified to as conforming in all respects to the provisions of law;

Now, therefore, I, John A. Johnson, governor of the State of Minnesota, pursuant to the authority vested in me by law, do hereby direct and proclaim that the question of the creation of the proposed new county of Nelson be submitted to the voters of said Polk county at the next general election to be held in this state on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1908.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Minnesota to be hereunto affixed this 19th day of August 1908.

(Seal) —John A. Johnson,
Governor.

Attest:
Julius A. Schmahl,
Secretary of State.

United States of America, State of Minnesota, Department of State.

I, Julius A. Schmahl, Secretary of State of the State of Minnesota do hereby certify that I have compared the annexed copy with the original instrument in my office of Proclamation by the Governor of the State of Minnesota, in the matter of county division of Polk County and that said copy is a true and correct transcript of said original Proclamation and of the whole thereof.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Great Seal of the State, at the Capitol, in Saint Paul, this twenty-fourth day of September, A. D. nineteen hundred and eight.

Secretary of State.

HORTICULTURAL ASSOCIATION

RED RIVER VALLEY ASS'N WILL MEET IN STEPHENS HALL ON NOVEMBER 6

FINE PROGRAM FOR THE IMPORTANT GATHERING IS NOW BEING ARRANGED

From Friday's Daily—

The annual meeting of the Red River Valley Horticultural Association will meet at Stephens Hall at the state experimental farm on Friday Nov. 6th and J. F. Hetler, L. P. Harrington and others are now busy arranging a program which will soon be published in the local papers.

The Horticultural convention had grown in the past few years from a small gathering of a few men to one of the largest and most important gatherings of the year, and the meeting this year promises to eclipse all others both in attendance and in the excellence of the program.

STEENERSON TALKED TO PUPILS

POSTMASTER TALKED AT HIGH SCHOOL REGARDING POSTAL REGULATIONS

Postmaster Elias Steenerson this morning delivered an address to the pupils of the city schools at the High School building the rooms uniting for the occasion and many visitors being present. He made a very interesting talk enlightening the young people as to postal regulations and gave them a great deal of valuable information which will be of great service to them in the future.

COTTON PLANT IN FULL BLOOM

AN INTERESTING SIGHT ON EXHIBITION AT HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

Jos Ball who has just returned from a trip to Oklahoma, brought with him several cotton plants in full bloom. The great white balls are an interesting sight to the people of the north and they will be left at the office of Supt. McIntyre permanently where they can be seen at any time by the general public as well as by the pupils.

CANDIDATE SAGENG IN CROOKSTON

Ole Sageng the candidate for Congress from the 9th district was in the city this morning enroute from Hawley, where he spoke last evening to Fertile where h will address a crowd tonight. He is making a great fight and expresses every confidence in the outcome.

Fairmont Sentinel: They do say that that part of Jacobson's keynote speech devoted to immigration and drainage is wonderfully like an address delivered on the Fourth of July by Immigration Commissioner George Welch. It is possibly a mere coincidence.

PROPER CARE OF THE HAIR

The condition of the hair depends more upon the brushing of it than anything else. If women who are alarmed and worried because of the scantiness of their hair would pay more attention to the brushing of it, they would find that the hair would improve wonderfully in appearance and health. In the first place, the brush and comb must be clean. More disease and ill health of the scalp result from using an unclean brush than from any other cause. The best time to brush the hair is in the morning, because it is more supple then. The brushing must be gentle if you would have good results. Begin by taking a strand of hair at a time. Don't put the brush on flat, but turn it slightly, so that the bristles get under the hair onto the scalp. All during the process you must remember to use the brush gently so as not to irritate the scalp or break the hair. Carry the brush to the end of the strand so that every hair is affected. This gets up a good circulation of the scalp, prevents dandruff, and gives a pretty gloss to the hair. It also airs the hair, keeps it clean and prevents that close smell that is so objectionable to a fastidious woman. With such treatment, a doz n or so strokes every morning, the hair in at least a month will begin to show the results of the careful treatment.

ANGUS

Tom Howett was in town Thursday on business.

A young daughter was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Strickler.

H. D. Strickler took two loads of potatoes to Crookston on Thursday.

A surprise party was given at the Henry farm Friday night. Those present from Warren were Bert Aryers, Selma Halvorson, Arthur Wood, Mabel Head, Omer Thomas, Flo Wadsworth, Harry Thomas, Laura Moulton, Dick Clover, Cora Head. A good time was had by all. Refreshments were served at midnight.

W. Lemen spent Friday and Saturday in Alvarado visiting with the S. Trickey's.

The dance given at the Brantl farm was well represented by Angus Saturday evening.

Miss Bessie Hall entertained a crowd of young folks Saturday night at D. H. Miller's.

As You Go Through Life.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Don't look for the flaws as you go through life;
And even when you find them
It is wise and kind to be somewhat blind,
And look for the virtues behind them;
For the cloudiest night as a hint of light
Somewhere in its shadows hiding;
It's better by far to hunt for a star
Than the spots on the sun abiding.

The current of life runs ever away
To the bosom of God's great ocean.
Don't set your force 'gainst the river's course,
And think to alter its motion.
Don't waste a curse on the universe—
Remember it lived before you;
Don't butt at the storm with your puny form,
But bend and let it go o'er you.

The world will never adjust itself
To suit your whims to the letter,
Some things must go wrong your whole life long,
And the sooner you know it the better.
It is folly to fight with the Infinite,
And go under at last in the wrestle.
The wiser man shapes into God's plan,
As water shapes into a vessel.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Plans for the reception of the Atlantic fleet at Hampton Roads Feb. 22 contemplate a naval review even larger than the one held at the Jamestown exposition last year.

The homecoming fleet will be met on the Atlantic or Mediterranean by the Third squadron of that command, which is now being organized under the command of Rear Admiral Conway H. Arnold, and will be escorted to Hampton Roads.

At the Roads the augmented fleet will be welcomed by all the remaining available warships in active service on the Atlantic coast and will be reviewed by the president.

The entire force under review will consist of twenty battleships, nine cruisers, four gunboats and possibly a score of torpedo vessels. In the Atlantic fleet will be the sixteen battleships that started in the homeward journey from San Francisco July 7 and seven or eight auxiliary ships. The Third squadron will be made up of four battleships, either the Maine or Iowa as flagship, and the New Hampshire, Idaho and Mississippi; armored cruisers Montana and North Carolina and scout cruisers Chester, Salem and Birmingham.

SPLENDID SESSION OF THE CLUB WOMEN

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 9.—Routine reports were features of the second day's session of the convention Wednesday afternoon, those on civics, constitution, civil service, mothers' clubs, printing and that of the midwinter meeting in St. Paul.

I nthe absence of Mrs. R. R. Dorr, of St. Paul, Mrs. W. M. Todd, of St. Anthony Park, read her report, which was an account of the well known work done in the Fourth district in the suppression of slot machines in St. Paul

She said: "Nothing can take the place of the unselfish, persistent effort of good women, who have the leisure to study the needs of the community and whose influence upon the voters is irresistible if wisely and tactfully used. Our duty is surely plain, not only in our own homes by precept and example must we be watchful of this enemy, but by individual and united effort must we fight it abroad."

Mrs. Royal Stone, of St. Paul, gave an account of the work of the Thursday Club in vacation schools and gardens in conjunction with Supt. Heeter, of the public schools.

Mrs. G. A. Welch, Fergus Falls, spoke of clean bodies and clean minds for children, as follows:

Meaning of Good Birth.

"Just what does it mean to a child to be well born? Does it mean beauty of person and surroundings, wealth, education, appreciation of the niceties of life? It really means far more fundamental things; it means a sound mind capable of moral and intellectual development alive to vital issues, able to grasp questions.

"It means ability to shun temptations, while realizing their force; it means a body strong of limb, active, well controlled and ready for the work that falls to it to do, and ready also to fulfill the duties designed by nature for the continuation of the race. It means a respect for these bodily functions so deeply inculcated that the evils we deplore and which we are recognizing as so very great, will no longer charm our youth nor menace our society.

"Whatever the social conditions today, however deplorable the facts that confront us, it is something gained when we dare to speak of matters that have long troubled us, but which we have shunned or referred to only with bated breath. * * * A significant sign of the awakening public conscience is the fact that reputable and really conservative publications for general readers are calling attention in no mincing manner to existing evils and begging parents to look well to the habits, influences and companions of their children and warning them to let no squeamish notions of delicacy present the plain speech, the serious teaching, which alone can offset them.

What Should Be Done.

"What can we do? Having recognized the appalling fact that no child is safe without the most careful supervision, we must set ourselves the task of so preparing his mind that the bad seed will not spring up and bear fruit, forestalling the almost certain wrong interpretation of nature's processes given by his associates, with the truth told as seriously yet as impressively as possible. The source of life is so wonderful, the poetry of it so beautiful, that it is incomprehensible how it ever became the subject of such unclean insinuation and vulgar jest as we know it to be. Yet there is the root of this thing we are recognizing as so baneful, and which we are longing to correct.

"The searchlight of investigation turned upon social conditions reveals such startling facts that we are forced to admit that teaching at the mother's knee must be supplemented by vigorous civic work, by some other and very forceful instruction, not only in the matter of personal habits, but in the assumption of paternal responsibility, for the child has a right to the father's influence and his point of view, something he does not often get but which is a part of that birthright which we all claim should be his.

"One-sided family training is far from the ideal training, parenthood is a joint duty which should be a joy as well, and in which both partners should share equally the happiness and responsibility.

Training for Marriage.

"We talk much about training our girls for marriage. It consists in making them good cooks and gracious hostesses. How often are they taught anything of the sacred and exacting duties of motherhood? Of what they have a right to demand of moral purity in the fathers of their children?

"And if we were as careful that our boys be saved from moral and personal dangers as we are that their arms and legs are safe, if we ourselves believed that hard physical exertion is one of the best safeguards against evil habits and indulgences then we might see the dawn of a clearer, saner, better tomorrow, for our own children and the whole human race."

Address on Degeneracy.

Dr. A. C. Rogers, superintendent of state school for feeble minded at Faribault, made a very able address in the afternoon on degeneracy and how to prevent it. He admitted that decadence could not be entirely prevented, but conditions might be improved by taking measures to discourage marriages among feebleminded.

Dr. Rogers showed how difficult it is to enforce a law to prevent marriage, and he is of the opinion that it cannot be done now to any great extent. Dr. Rogers is an expert in care of the feeble-minded, and after his paper he was asked a number of questions on delicate subjects by the mothers present.

The convention nearly got into a tangle late in the afternoon in regard to the election of district vice presidents which should be voted on by the entire body and not by the delegates only from the district to which the nominee belongs. A motion to adjourn cut off discussions.

Paper on the Child.

The chief event of the evening session was the address of Miss Mott on "The Child." Mrs. G. A. Welch presided and introduced Dr. W. A. Schumaker, president of the normal school, who made a brief address. Miss Alice Emerson, dean of Carleton College, spoke on "The Fuller Day." The students of the normal school presented a program of music and folk dances.

Miss Mott, in the course of her excellent address on "The Child," said:

"When we see the invariable succession by which the animals of each species perpetuate their kind; when we think of the infinite number of living things continually growing and waxing at the expense of the parent creatures; when we realize that the life of evry parent organism is being lavishly wasted for its offspring — I think we are fully justified in asserting that self-sacrifice rather than selfishness is the law of life. How can we assert that the primitive human instinct is selfishness, when upon the sacrifice of the mother's personal comfort depends the health and happiness of every baby on this globe?

"The circle of motherhood widens with civilization. Not one of us but comes in contact with some baby world. Teachers, nurses and friends must, in the ideal state, partake of the responsibility of the mother, whenever they are appealed to by that soft, clinging, light-headed, sweetly irresponsible thing called childhood. The regime of iron discipline has gone by. The lower animals never employed it. And in our modern tenderness for the young, just beginning life's hard journey, let us not be too full of self-congratulation, or ignore the royal company we have kept all along the road of evolution. Rather, let us not fall below the level of the mother snake. Let us try to live up to the ideal of the mother cow. Let us not dare to sink below the standard of the mother wolf."

Convention Notes.

The music at the convention has been of a very high order, and it is quite evident that St. Cloud is fortunate in possessing much musical ability. The singing of H. A. Griebenow last evening was a treat. He sang "In Verdure Clad," from "The Creation," and a group of songs, revealing a baritone voice of remarkable sweetness and used with excellent taste and no effort. Mrs. Gilman, of Minneapolis, a truly wonderful pianist, played an arrangement of "Blue Danube" waltzes and a left-hand arrangement of the sextet from "Lucia," in a manner which roused real enthusiasm in the large audience. The singing of Miss Cook, of Minneapolis, this morning was of great interest to the convention. She is one of the beneficiaries of the Williams fund. Her voice is a clear soprano with very sweet upper notes.

The women are still talking about Mr. Mills' strange disappearing act, but no real explanation of his sudden departure has been given. It has been suggested that perhaps he may have discovered at the last moment that he had left his other collar at home, or that he did not like the looks of the club women who conferred with him in the afternoon. However, as some of the handsomest er and that this is the day of action. Every club is doing something either in a civic, sociological or philanthropic way, and the various lines of endeavor which are now being pushed are all of them of real benefit to the individual or community. The preventive work for tuberculosis is perhaps the most important thing now being done by the federation, and it is most ably handled by Mrs. G. H. Christian, of Minneapolis.

Mrs. John Donohue was a late comer from St. Paul to the convention, arriving this morning. Mrs. Donohue is a member of the legislative committee, and was a delegate to the Boston biennial.
women of the federation are on the forestry committee, the latter reason is scouted.

St. Cloud is a city of beautiful homes and charming houses, which would be ornaments to any city. A number of the prominent residents are well known in St. Paul, such as Senator Brower, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Mitchell, the N. P. Clarks Gilmans, Atwoods, Evans and Whitneys.

The contrast between this meeting and other conventions of Minnesota club women is nowhere more clearly shown than by the reports of committees which evidence the fact that the time of the purely literary club is ov-

RETURNED FROM CONVENTION

A. A. Miller returned to the city yesterday after being in attendance at the convention of the State Association of Congregational churches at Faribault. The convention was one of the most successful that the church has held and a large amount of important work was discussed and disposed of.

Considerable interest was manifested in benevolent work and a strong committee was appointed to raise Minnesota's share of the $2,000,000 for benevolences. The committee is as follows: Rev. C. E. Burton, chairman; Harlan W. Page, Rev. F. H. Oehler, M. W. Bates, President C. H. Cooper, A. A. Miller, Rev. Francis Frigley, Rev. Everett Lesher, Rev. E. F. Wheeler, Rev. C. F. Curtis.

Mr. Miller left Crookston a week ago and before attending the convention spent some time in Eau Claire, Menominee and St. Paul. In the latter city he appeared before the supreme court last Monday in the interest of some legal matters that he has before that tribunal. Mrs. Miller, who accompanied Mr. Miller to the convention, will not return to Crookston until next week, remainng in Minneapolis with friends.

CLEANED A CHIMNEY ANYWAY

Preparatory to starting the fires in the Presbyterian church of this city, it was decided that the chimney should be cleaned and L. Ellington, one of the leading members of the church and a well known banker, undertook to get the job done. He secured a chimney sweep and, after agreeing on a price, the price being based on the fact that the chimney had been cleaned last year and consequently was not very dirty, the chimney sweep started for the church.

He returned later and told Mr. Ellington that the chimney was in a deplorable condition and he ought to be given a larger amount than that agreed upon. Finally a compromise was affected and the sweep departed. In a few days Mr. Ellington met Rev. Ward, the pastor, and asked him what sort of a job had been done on the chimney. Mr. Ward replied that as yet it had not been cleaned. Mr. Ellington then told him what he had done and showed him the receipt for the amount that had been paid for cleaning the chimney.

The situation was intense and an investigation was at once made with the result that it was discovered that the chimney sweep had gotten into the wrong chimney, mistaking a neighboring church for that of the Presbyterian denomination.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 9.—Two men were killed and one injured in a wreck of a Great Northern passenger train at Marias river. The dead are William F. Ramspeck of White Sulphur Springs, Mont., fireman, and an unknown engine wiper. Engineer Charles L. McClintock was severely injured.

The train, while traveling at high speed, struck a soft stretch of roadbed, the engine rolling into the ditch, followed by the baggage and smoking cars. Ramspeck and the wiper were buried under the wreckage. The passengers were severely shaken up.

Every Farmer Should Participate

In a few days the third Market Day will be on and it is to be hoped that it will be by far the most successful that has yet been promoted by the city of Crookston. Its success will be measured by the number of farmers and their families that will take advantage of the day to come to the city and enjoy the program that the commercial club has provided and take part in the exercises that have been arranged.

The business men of Crookston, through their commercial club, have promoted the market tday event to afford the farming community contiguous to the city an opportunity to become better acquainted with the city an dits opportunities, to meet and mingle with her business men and to become saturated with the idea that the municipality affords it the very best and most profitable marketing point.

There must be, or at least there should be a realization of the fact that the people of the country are dependent upon the people of the city, and on the other hand the people of Crookston much comprehend the fact that without the rural community behind them they could not hope for much success in any line of endeavor. Both are necessary for the prosperity and success of one another and the market day is destined to become one of the best possible educators in this line.

Crookston is not only the county seat of Polk County, but it is also the commercial and trade mart of the section. Its facilities and attractions guarantee it leadership and prominence and the friendly feeling it gives evidence of towards the farmers that are tributary is sure to cement the sentiment existing towards it as the natural and only center where profitable trade can be advantageously carried on.

If the farmers of Polk county will attend these market day programs there is no doubt but that they will become thoroly convinced of the truth that Crookston is their natural trading point and a market for whatever their farms produce. This idea is made prominent by the announcement of the free auction sale that is conducted absolutely without cost to any farmer who desires to dispose of anything on the day. The first market day's auction sale established a good record and the second doubled it in volume and size. The committee in charge of the sale on next Saturday anticipate that a business will be transacted that will equal the total of the first two sales and will set a record that will be a surprise to even the most optimistic.

The business men of Crookston desire to make the day one of profit as well as pleasure and to this end have established the auction. They want to enjoy the pleasure of entertaining the farmers and they also desire to make their entertainment of him profitable, not to themselves, but to him. Every farmer within a radius of many miles of the county seat should determine to come to the city on next Saturday and should bring every member of his family with him. The time taken from his land will be well spent and we can assure him that he will return to his home in the evening, realizing that he has had both a pleasant and remunerative visit to the city.

This is the time of year when the farmer can take a day away from his fields and on next Saturday every road leading to the county seat should be crowded with farmers and their families driving to the municipality to participate in the program and become better and closer acquainted with the business men and citizens of the county seat. The day is wholly devoted to the good of the farmer and the more that avail themselves of it, the greater will be the benefits to be derived.

The One Man State Ticket

In following the addresses and talks of the republican candidate for governor, the people of this state must get the opinion that as far as the republican party is concerned there is only one office to be filled, namely that of governor. Thus far all he has paid any attention to is the executive office of the state and as far as his talks go no one could for one moment get the idea that the party has national candidates, county candidates or more than one state candidate.

In a recent speech Mr. Jacobson tells about what he has done for the state and it is "his" record, "his" measures, "his" fight in behalf of the people, that is to be considered only and his campaign for governor of Minnesota is all there is to the present political campaign. The candidates for president and vice-president sink into insignificance before the claims of Jacob F. Jacobson. All the voters are to think of is the making a cross after his name on the state ticket and there is no difference if they forget the rest of the ticket.

From the recent harangues the republican candidate has been indulging in during the past ten days in different sections of the state, it would appear that he is becoming desperate and as far as he is concerned the rest of the ticket must be sacrificed, if his election depends upon it. A short time ago he boldly declared that any republican who refused to cast his ballot for him, should be made to vote the straight democratic ticket, in other words every voter must stand by Jake or be forever considered as amongst the lost.

We hardly believe that the republicans will take kindly to this species of selfishness and unwarranted egotism. To be sure the claimant for gubernatorial honors early in the campaign announced a fight upon the members of the last legislature who might aspire for re-election on the ground that they were extravagant, but then many of them put it down to Jake's liability to make a slip in the heat of personal aggrandizement and they were ready to overlook it. Now however since he is continuing this plan and daily ignoring his colleagues on the ticket, we believe that it will have an effect somewhat different from what the candidate for governor has looked for.

Where would Mr. Jacobson be at the present stage of the campaign if it had not been for the swing of the party lash, which made every republican candidate, every republican leader and almost every republican paper rush to his rescue and placing everything else in the background, labor for the head of the state ticket and his success with the voters? It does not seem quite fair for Mr. Jacobson to thus treat the men who have gone to his rescue.

His actions towards his party at the present time is in line with the statement he made earlier in the campaign when he declared that the republican who had voted for Governor Johnson in the past two campaigns were impudent, and thus labeled them and tried to hold them up for discipline. One of the redeeming features of the rank and file of the republican party is their independence and we hardly believe that they will look with much favor upon the aspirant for political honors who will term this independence as impudence

We cannot believe that the republicans will mutely stand by and have the candidate for head of the state government treat them so shabbily and along this line there seems to be plenty of signs of a strong revolt that will be more pronounced than it was two and four years ago. The time has passed in the political history of this state when all a man had to do was to secure the republican nomination for an office, and he could count upon it as being his. Character, ability and fitness for the office sought, are demanded by the people and Jacobson is beginning to realize that these are prime requisites that must be prominent, in every candidate if he is to receive the suffrages of the people.

He Was The Enemy Of Drainage

Papers thruout the northern portion of the state are delving deeply into the record of Candidate Jacobson inasmuch as he has repeatedly declared that as far as this campaign his record is sufficient without needing any illumination as to his present views in regard to state issues. Jacobson's record on the drainage question is excellent reading for the people of northern Minnesota and especially the Red River Valley. The Duluth Herald has the following to say in regard to this record:

Candidate Jacobson importuned for some statement of his views upon the public questions of the day, evasively replies that he "stands on his record."

He does not mean his record of riding upon free passes while the clamor of his attacks upon railroads still echoed; he does not mean his record of accepting a nomination for governor at the hands of interests which he fought when he was a "champion of the people" he means his legislative record.

Very well, so be it. Let us look into his record, and see if we can find therein something to commend him to the voters of Northern Minnesota. For if he expects Southern Minnesota to judge him by his record, he must also expect Northern Minnesota to judge him by his record.

Northern Minnesota wants the state to drain the state swamp lands. Since Jacobson got out of the legislature a start has been made in that work. It is known that a dollar put into drainage will return profits of $10 in the increased value of the land so it seems a splendid business investment. But when Jacobson was in the legislature he never could see beyond that single dollar coming out of the state treasury. His mental grasp was not broad enough to take in the promise of profit. So he fought drainage, thruout his career; fought it bitterly and, shame tho it be, successfully.

Jacobson opposed drainage in every session at which drainage measures were offered. In 1895, as page 660 of the house journal of that session informs us, he voted against House File No. 307, a drainage bill.

In 1897, as page 339 of the house journal of that session shows, he recommended, as a member of the appropriation committee, the defeat of House File No. 353, a drainage bill and voted against it.

In 1899, as page 1321 of the house journal of that session discloses, he voted against Senate File No. 211, "a bill for an act to provide a drainage commission and to provide for the drainage of the swamps and marshy lands of the state, and to appropriate money therefore."

The files of the newspapers reporting these sessions show the bitter and vindictive manner in which Jacobson fought every drainage proposal. Arguments that the federal government gave the land to the state on condition that it drain it and make it fit for use, and that the expenditure of state money in draining it would bring handsome returns, were ineffective. All he could see was that there were proposals to take money out of the state treasury for the benefit of Northern Minnesota, and this he opposed as he opposed all other measures looking to the development of the latent riches of the north country.

The files of the newspapers of Northern Minnesota covering these periods will show bitter resentment of Jacobson's short sighted policy, such as this from the Crookston Journal in April 1899: "We regret to report that the appropriation for drainage did not pass. This is one of the measures which the legislature acted unwisely in refusing to pass. The money was needed and not merely the Red River Valley but the state at large would have been benefited by this legislation. The members from this section worked faithfully up to the last moment, but the opposition led by Jacobson was too strong for them. THE HONORABLE JACOBSON WILL, HOWEVER, HEAR FROM THIS PART OF THE STATE."

Which Shall It Be, Guaranty Banks or Postal Banks?

While Crookston and its immediate vicinity have been fortunate in their past experience with banks, and we have had no failures in that department of human activity, still a question is before the people that involves not only the payment of deposits placed in banks, but in a large measure involves the prosperity of the community.

The democratic platform declares in favor of postal savings banks if the guaranty banks cannot be secured. The republican platform declares in favor of the postal savings bank system alone. Manifestly the primary object sought to be attained in both platforms is a system whereby the savings of the people can be safeguarded, and if we are to believe that the two great parties intend in good faith to carry out what is promised in their platforms there can be no question but that the present system will be changed. The difference between the two platforms comes really to the question as to whether or not it is preferable to have a guaranty bank system to the postal savings bank system.

We believe that the democratic party in its preference for the guaranty bank system comes nearer to a true conception of a correct governmental policy and realization of the economical welfare of the whole nation in its declaration on this question than does the republican party. Either plan insures the depositors against loss, and as to this feature there is no choice between them, but when the business welfare of the community and proper sphere of governmental action is considered a wide difference between the two plans is disclosed.

It is the purpose under the postal savings bank system that the moneys gathered in the postal savings depositories shall be re-deposited in national banks, the natural consequence of which action would be to take the savings of the people in the small communities from such communities into the larger centers of population, and such a system would undoubtedly require a re-deposit in central reserve banks of surplus deposits gathered in the national banks in the smaller cities. The consequence of this system would be necessarily be that the savings of the people would be gathered into the centers of speculation and wild cat investments, and the business of the country placed at the mercy of unscrupulous manipulators, nor would the national banks be gainers by the system, for the United States government always requires and will then require security for every dollar of such money deposited by the government in the national banks, and as a result national banks would in a round about way guarantee the depositors of the postal savings banks, while those who deposited their money in the national banks would be wholly without guarantee or protection other than the ordinary financial liability of the bank. When the pocketbook is affected or in danger, friendship soon ceases, and we anticipate that it would be a very short time before substantially all the savings of the people would be in the postal savings banks.

Under the guaranty bank system the banking business would be left to the bankers, and depositors in any bank would be insured against loss of savings. The guarantee would be direct, and the money deposited naturally remain in the community where deposits were made to meet the demands of the business of such communities. The small community would in that respect be on an equal footing with the larger centers of trade. A proper system of inspection and adequate rules and regulations would be provided, which would minimize if not wholly prevent reckless and dishonest banking. For mutual protection the bankers themselves might be given through their own representatives a right of inspection in any case where an inspection might be deemed advisable. These matters, however are matters of detail. On the main question we submit that a proper exercise of governmental functions requires that the government should not engage in the banking business if it can be avoided. That the money of the people should remain in the localities where deposited, and that at any cost the savings of the people must be safeguarded, and that the guaranteed bank system will protect deposits, strengthen and meet the legitimate demands of the business of all the communities, large and small, and leave the banking business to the bankers, and not encumber the machinery of the government therewith, or add a new force to the already large supply of government employees and departments.

EVER HAVE IT?

If You Have, the Statement of This Crookston Citizen will Interest You

Ever have a "low down" pain in the back?

In the "small," right over the hips?

That's the home of backache.

It's caused by sick kidneys.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Crookston people endorse this. Read a case of it:

Mrs. John Mackill of 333 Sixth St., E. Crookston, Minn., says: "Both my husband and myself used Doan's Kidney Pills with fine results. Mr. Mackill suffered a great deal from backache and a kidney weakness, hard work and colds always aggravated the annoyances. Good reports about Doan's Kidney Pills led me to procure a box at Wallace's drug store. He began using them and they quickly proved their effectiveness, correcting the action of the kidneys and removing the pains and lameness from his back My own case was a complicated one of long standing the kidneys being badly affected. Doan's Kidney Pills served to dispose of my trouble and in other wasys benefitted me greatly."

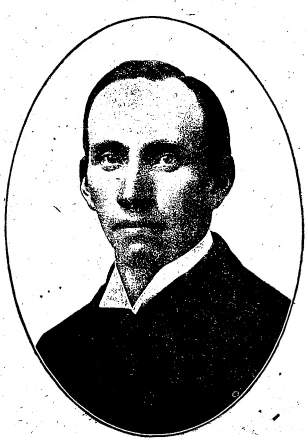
Democratic Candidates

FOR CONGRESS

Ole O. Sageng

THE FARMER CANDIDATE



State Senator Ole O. Sageng, who asks the support of the voters of this district as an independent candidate for congress, has a record that entitles him to consideration. He ran for state representative in Otter Tail county in 1898, and was beaten by 19 votes; but he got acquainted, and was elected next time by 450 votes In his first session he took a leading place in the legislature, both as a debater and working member. He missed only one roll call during the session. He knew more about the bills introduced than any other member in 1906, he ran for the state senate. Otter Tail county is normally republican, but he defeated his republican opponent by 1,677 votes, showing what the farmers of his home county think of him. His record in the senate is remembered by all who value good representation. He stood for lower freight and passenger rates, for the anti-pass law (he never accepted passes, even in the old days), for the tonnage tax and the wide-open tax amendment, for the distance tariff and the reciprocal demurrage bill, and for all temperance legislation. He was present at every session, and was a thorn in the side of those who sought to enact legislation against the people's interests Can not such a man be trusted to be sent up higher?

HON. HANS P. BJORGE
Democratic Candidate for Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner

Hans P. Bjorge was born in Norway in 1856. He emigrated with his perents to this country in 1868 and settled in Otter Tail county, Minnesota, in 1869.

Mr. Bjorge attended the common schools and took one year of high school work at Fergus Falls. He then commenced teaching having planned to work his way for a higher education. Meantime his father, sister and brothers had all died, one after another, leaving young Bjorge alone to take care of his mother and take charge of the farm. Therefore he had to abandon his plans of further pursuing his education.

Mr. Bjorge took an active part in organizing the State Farmers' Alliance in 1893, and served as treasurer of said organization for several years He was recommended as the Alliance candidate and elected on the Republican ticket for the Legislature in 1885 As a member of the Railroad and the Grain and Warehouse Committees during that session, Mr. Bjorge helped to draft and pass the first railroad and warehouse laws of any note in the state. He was again a member of the legislature in 1887.

R. F. LAMB
Democratic Candidate for Secretary of State

R. F. Lamb was born in Highland township, Grundy county, state of Illinois, August 10th, 1864. Came to Mankato, Minnesota, April, 1889, and was in the employ of the McCormick Harvesting Machine Company for twelve years. In 1900 put in part of the year at Lincoln, Nebraska, for the same company. Went into business in Mankato in 1901 in company with the Donahue Brothers. Sold out to the Donahue Brothers November same year, and organized the Western Implement Company at Slayton, which is now in operation and of which is now in operation, and of which he is president. He is also president of the Implement Dealers' Association, filling his second term. The greater portion of his business life has been spent in Minnesota. He was educated at Saint Viateur's College, Kankakee county, Illinois.

The Royal Month and the Royal Disease

Sudden changes of weather are especially trying and probably to none more so than to the scrofulous and consumptive. The progress of scrofula during a normal October is commonly great. We never thing of scrofula—its bunches, cutaneous eruptions, and wasting of the bodily substance—without thinking of the great good many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose radical and permanent cures of this one disease are enough to make it the most famous medicine in the world. There is probably not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merit in more homes than one, in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative —consumption.

MIX IT YOURSELF BY SHAKING INGREDIENTS IN BOTTLE—SIMPLE REMEDY

HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE IN VICINITY HERE WILL WELCOME THIS ADVICE

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, which is said to be a positive remedy for back ache or kidney or bladder derangement, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here at home, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic afflictions with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

HE DECLINES TO BE DEPORTED

LARUE LEAVES TRAIN QUIETLY AT CROOKSTON AND WILL NOT GO EAST

LA RUE SOON MAKES ESCAPE—BELIEVED HE WILL NOT RETURN

From Wednesday's Daily—

After purchasing, F. LaRue who had been under arrest for running a blind pig at Edmore and who is a cripple and a burden on Ramsey county, a ticket to Ogdensburg, N. Y., the authorities of Ramsey county, N. D., started LaRue on his way east on Monday accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Frye. The deputy sheriff had some trouble getting his prisoner to accompany him from Grand Forks Monday night, but when LaRue was threatened with jail he consented to go. Deputy Sheriff Frye came as far as Crookston and there turned the ticket over to the Great Northern conductor, with instructions to turn it over to the next conductor at the end of each division.

LaRue waited until the deputy sheriff had left the train and then he left also. He evaded the deputy and his escape was not known until the G. Northern conductor returned last evening to Grand Forks and turned the ticket over to Agent Webber. La Rue had insisted that the state had no legal right to deport him, and it is believed that he will make a fight. He has relatives in Ogdensburg The case against him for blind pigging may keep him away from Ramsey county.

PLEASED WITH THE VALLEY

Wm. Whitemarsh and J. M. Pollard left last evenin gfor their home at Strawberry Point, Ia., after spending a few days looking over their property interests in this section. They own Section 36 in the Town of Hammond and this is Mr. Pollard's first visit to this section and he is highly pleased with his property, the country at large and had a special compliment for Crookston. They bought the land of W. H. Blake of this city, who has been looking after it since for the owners.

SUPT. ROBERTSON HIGHLY HONORED

Supt. Wm. Robertson of the State Experiment Station has been honored by an invitation to deliver an address at the Minnesota Academy of Sciences which will be held at St. Paul Dec. 3rd and 4th next, and at which leading speakers from all over the United States will deliver addresses. Mr. Robertson's address will be on "The Policy of the State Regarding Agricultural Lands" and will certainly be worth hearing.

Plans Made For Gov. Johnson

YOUNG MEN'S JOHNSON CLUB MAKING GREAT PREPARATIONS FOR THE EVENT—BANDS AND TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION WILL BE GREAT FEATURES—GOVERNOR JOHNSON WILL ALSO SPEAK AT McINTOSH AND FOSSTON—BANQUET WILL PROBABLY FOLLOW ADDRESS

There was an enthusiastic meeting of the Young Men's Johnson Club last night in Marin's Hall, when the committees appointed by President J. N. Kirsch reported and discussed plans for next Monday's meeting when Gov. Johnson will address a monster gathering in Crookston.

The club was in telephone communication with Frank A. Day and it was learned that Gov. Johnson would arrive here next Monday morning on No. 5 and after breakfasting here would leave on the Duluth train at 8:30 for Erskine where he will make an address for 5 minutes. He will hold rallies at McIntosh in the morning and Fosston in the afternoon, a big barbecue being held at Fosston.

Gov. Johnson will return to Crookston at 6:45 in the evening and then the music will begin. The big torch light procession will leave Hotel Crookston at 8 o'clock and proceed down Broadway to Fletcher, from Fletcher to Main street and down Main to the Auditorium where Gov. Johnson will speak. Seats at the Auditorium will be reserved for the club members.

It is probable that a banquet will be held at the Hotel Crookston after the address at the Auditorium but this matter has not been settled and will be taken up at the meeting on Thursday evening. The following resolutions were passed last evening.

Resolutions Adopted by the Young Men's John A. Johnson Club of Crookston, Minn.

Whereas, the members of this club regardless of political affiliations, believe, that citizenship is of more importance than partisanship, and loyalty is not equivalent to patriotism, be it resolved that without regard to political affiliations we hereby pledge ourselves to use all honorable means to secure the election of the Honorable John A. Johnson as Governor of the State of Minnesota at the election to be held in said State November 3rd, 1908.

In taking this step we fully realize its import and thoroly understand that in doing so we are manifesting a spirit of independence in politics. We believe in state development. We believe that our first duty next to the nation is to the state. That our citizenship requires that in casting our ballot we be guided solely by the public welfare and not by mercenary or partisan motives. We concede that party organization is justifiable and perhaps necessary in our system of government, but we do not concede that the party label is of itself the only criterion. In its government the state in our opinion is presumed to put forth one of the best if not its very best representative citizen. Governor Johnson has been tested in the highest office in the gift of the state, and has met every call whether at home or abroad with such ability, dignity and breadth of human understanding that today Minnesota is in the forefront of the states, and the eyes of the nation are turned to it in a manner never before equalled in its history. His administration of his office has tended to the advancement and progress of the internal affairs of the state, and any citizen of the state can with pride point to such citizenship and to the great Governor of the state in any assemblage, or at any place in the nation. Without disparagement of Governor Johnson's opponent we therefore believe that we are justified in our political action in this respect, and so believing form this organization, nor do we concede that in so acting we in any manner betray our allegiance to the principles of the platforms of the respective national party to which we may belong, for in our opinion Governor Johnson is the personification of the best American citizenship, and good American citizenship is never inimical to the good principles of any national party. We therefore unanimously pledge our efforts collectively and individually to the success of Governor Johnson at the coming election.

TRIED PAWN GRANDMA'S RING

F. E. MULLIN HELD BY GRAND FORKS POLICE LAST NIGHT ON SUSPICION

TODAY MRS. NELSON WENT TO FORKS AND RECOVERED HER DIAMOND CLUSTER

From Friday's Daily—

Yesterday F. E. Mullin attempted to pawn a diamond cluster ring, valued at $150 at Grand Forks. Suspicions were aroused and he was arrested. Chief Eck was phoned to investigate. Mullin had worked for Jake Andrist, but no one whose furniture had been moved hard lost a diamond.

Chief Eck went to the home of Mullen's grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nelson who reside on the second floor of the Kiewel block adjoining the Merchants National bank where Mullin had stopped while in Crookston.

Mrs. Nelson had missed her diamond ring but supposed she had mislaid it. A thoro search showed it was gone.

She went to Grand Forks this morning and recovered her ring but refused to swear out a warrant.

THEIR AUTO WAS BALKY

On Wednesday Chas. Kiewel started for Plummer in his auto, taking J. A. McCaffrey along for a trip. They reached Plummer in good time, but when they were ready to start on the return trip the machine balked.

Not a "chug, chug" could be secured.

After working for a few hours Mr. Kiewel went to Thief River Falls on the Soo and secured an auto physician and yesterday morning they started back for Crookston, coming via Brooks, and made a record run.

The part of the deal that makes them both warm under the collar is that they had a pair of ducks-ordered cooked for their supper Wednesday evening at a restaurant here. When they failed to show up Messrs. C. C. Bowen, Wm. Emmerich and Adolph Rauch walked into the restaurant and ordered the ducks served. And they say they were the finest ever.

MADE FIRST ELECTION WAGER

PAT CONNORS WAGERS A $150 DUMP CART THAT JOHNSON IS ELECTED

The first election bet thus far recorded it is alleged, has been made by Pat Connors who bet a $150 dump cart against a $12.50 buggy owned by S. L. Collins, that Gov. Johnson will be re-elected.

The only hitch there seems to be, is to get a stake holder, as no one seems to be available who wants to carry the two wagers about with him.

HAD A SCRAP; COST ONE $10

Last evening John Urness and a farmer named Abrahamson residing east of the city had a tilt on Main Street and Abrahamson got the worst of the fistic argument. He swore out a warrant and Urness this morning appeared before Judge Gossman of the Municipal Court and paid a fine of $10 and costs. So much more in the city treasury.

And it's never too often to kiss a girl who is pretty.

LARIMORE HAS BAD BLAZE

FIRE BROKE OUT AT MIDNIGHT AND WHOLE TOWN WAS THREATENED

ELEVATOR AND SEVERAL BUILDINGS WERE CONSUMED—NO LIVES LOST

From Friday's Daily—

A telephone message from Inkster says a fire broke out at midnight last night and it was feared that nearly the entire town would be destroyed. An appeal was sent to Larimore at 12:30 for a fire engine and company. The Great Northern sent a special train with the company at 1:05 this morning.

The fire started in the Minneapolis & Northern elevator which was destroyed. A car loaded with wheat and an empty one were also burned. The fire caught in the business portion of the city and it was necessary to abandon the building in which the telephone exchange was located and the telegraph wires were out of commission.

Inkster is a thriving city of about 600 inhabitants. It is located on the Great Northern branch north of Larimore and about 40 miles from Grand Forks.

The total loss was about $35,000.

Bemidji Oct. 10—Mrs. Mike Seberger died at 1:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the effects of eating opium, after being unconscious since last Tuesday night. Mrs. Seberger's last minutes were quiet and she did not regain consciousness before the end.

Sam Kee, a local Chinaman, is being held in the county jail, C. W. Scrutchin of this city having been retained as his attorney. Just what charge will be preferred against Kee is not known. It is alleged by Mr. Seberger that Kee furnished Mrs. Seberger the opium with which she fed her habit, ultimately resulting in her death.

Lying in a bed at her home in an unconscious condition and violently delirious part of the time from opium poisoning, Mrs. Mike Seberger has been carefully watched since Tuesday night, when she became unconscious and physicians were summoned to her bedside to ascertain the cause of her illness. According to the physicians at her bedside, there is no hope for her recovery—she must die.

Mrs. Seberger was taken violently ill Tuesday night at about 11 o'clock and when closely questioned by her husband stated that there was nothing the matter with her; that she was not felling just well. Afterward she became unconscious and Mr. Seberger secured the services of Drs. Marcum, Orr and Shannon, to attend his wife. They did not hesitate in pronouncing her illness to be caused by eating opium.

She remained unconscious ever since Tuesday night and close watch has been kept over her since that time.

Mr. Seberger states that his wife became addicted to the use of opium while she was an inmate of a hospital a year ago in June. In some manner Mrs. Seberger got possession of some morphine tablets and used them. According to her husband after she had left the hospital Mrs. Sebenger had a hankering for opium and was closely watched at all times. Mr. Sebenger says so faf as he is aware of, Mrs. Seberger had not been able to secure any opium.

Thursday night, Sam Kee, a Chinaman who conducts a laundry in this city appeared at the home of Mrs. Seberger and inquired after Mrs. Seberger. He was given a close questioning and admitted that he had given opium to other people in Bemidji, but strenuously denied having furnished any of the drug to Mrs. Seberger. He was confronted with the box of stuff which had been found in the house, but would not admit that he had supplied the sick woman with the fatal narcotic.

The Chinaman was loud in his protestations that 'opium no do it—it no killee."

YOUNG MEN ORGANIZE A JOHNSON CLUB

150 OF THE WELL KNOWN YOUNG MEN OF THIS CITY EFFECT ORGANIZATION AT MARIN HALL LAST EVENING—THE PURPOSE IS TO AID BY ALL HONORABLE MEANS THE ELECTION OF JOHN A. JOHNSON AS GOVERNOR

From Friday's Daily—

Last evening at Marin Hall the Young Men's Johnson Club, of Crookston was formally launched with a membership of 150 by the election of the following officers:

President—J. N. Kirsch.
1st vice president—Peter Boukind.
2nd vice president—Arthur Egley.
3rd vice president—P. J. Elde.
Secretary—A. G. Brager.
Treasurer—Richard Gadde.

Special Vice President and Chairman of the Traveling Men's meetings which will be held Saturday evening, Bert Levins.

The gathering was the most enthusiastic political meeting ever held in Crookston, and was remarkable in that it showed the wonderful interest that is being taken in the re-election of Gov. Johnson by hundreds of young men who in the past paid but little attention to politics.

The purpose of the organization is to aid by all honorable means the re-election of Gov. Johnson this fall, and they are certainly going about it with an enthusiasm that means success.

What is more significant is that the vast majority of the young men are republicans and tho every effort was made, nothing could be done to stem the tide. The young men signed the roll of honor by the score and as fast as they could be seen.

Regular meetings will be announced for the future, and on the appearance of Gov. Johnson in Crookston later on there will be such a demonstration as has not been witnessed in this section in the last quarter of a century.

Candidates Meet

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 8—William J. Bryan and William H. Taft, rival candidates for the presidency met last night at the fourth annual banquet of the Chicago Association of commerce. The meeting is said to have been the first of its kind since the Lincoln and Douglas campaign preceeding the civil war.

A Notable Gathering

At the speaker's table when the speech-making began, there were the following: Layfette McWilliams, H. N. Higinbotham, John V. Farewell, Walter H. Wilson, Dr. Emil G. Hirch David R. Forgan, Mr. Taft, President Richard C. Hall of the Chicago association of commerce, Mr. Bryan, A. C. Bartlett, Governor Deneen of Illinois, John G. Shedd, Charles H. Wacker, President Kavanaugh of the Deep Water-Ways association and Don Farnsworth.

An earsplitting shout gave warning of the arrival of Judge Taft. Mr. Bryan in common with everyone else arose and looked toward the entrance

Mr. Bryan who had ceased in the destruction of some sort of chop suey masquerading under a French name, turned his head slowly as his political rival drew near smiling.

A Dramatic Moment

The dramatic moment which had been anticipated with such deep interest was soon over. Bryan's hand awaited that of Mr. Taft. A single lingering pressure, a word or so which none could overhear, because of the tumult, the republican leader passed on to a chair at the right of Mr. Hall. The cheering continued for a minute or so after those at the speaker's table had taken seats. After the noise had subsided, Mr. Bryan leaning to one side and smiling broadly, asked Mr. Taft if he had "had a good day." This display of friendliness on the part of the two candidates stirred the crowd to renewed cheering and words being useless in the din, Mr. Taft stroked his throat for answer. Then Taft laughed and the applause increased.

"Both Bills All Right"

"What is the matter with Bill?" cried some one who was the possessor of a large voice.

"He's all right," "Who's all right?" "Bill's all right.'

It took music by the orchestra and songs by the guests to restore a semblance of quiet.

When talking in ordinary tones became possible, the two candidates entered into an animated conversation in which President Hall joined.

The speeches of both Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan were not partisan

Besides Taft and Bryan, speakers of the evening were A. C. Barlett and David R. Forgan. Mr. Barlett was first speaker and Mr. Forgan was sandwiched between Mr. Forgan and Mr. Taft.

Bryan Cheered

Mr. Bryan was cheered to echo as he rose to speak. Cheers and laughter followed humoristic touches that characterized his opening re marks.

'I appreciate the honor of being present on this occasion," said he. "I appreciate the generous words of the chairman in presenting me to you. I think that it is good when we can lay aside partisan feeling on an occasion like this and forgetting the things that separate us, remember the things that are more numerous and more important that unite us in the bonds of common citizenship. I think I can see signs of progress in politics When I first began to run for president, (laughter) there were no occasions of this kind.

A Larger Charity

I think I note a larger charity, a broader liberality and more kindly feeling than has at time prevailed in the past. Here the chairman of the representative committees meet in the heat of th campaign to pause for a moment in the giving out of estimates. Here the treasurers of the respective committees spend for a moment the investigation of business conditions of those who send in checks and here (two distinguished) citizens at large meet both uncertain as to which will be confined. We shall carry away delightful recollections of this occasion, for whatever the election may show we may remember one occasion when we were treated with equal consideration.

"I am glad to meet at this board one who has been honored by his party with the leadership in a great campaign. I am glad to testify to my appreciation of his ability and his virtues. If I am successful, victory will be greater to have won from such, and if I am defeated the sorrow will be less to have been defeated by such.

Taft Speaks

Mr. Taft, prefaced his prepared speech with a few impromptu remarks which created laughter. He said:

"Mr. Chairman, Mr. Bryan and Gentlemen of the Chicago Association of Commerce: I have only begun to run for the presidency and I am glad to begin when political amenities of the campaign are better understood.

"I am exceedingly glad to meet my guest and to forget rivalries and distinguished opponent, and fellow putes of the campaign in this most inspiring hospitality; and I reciprocate in every way to his kindly and courteous words of respect and good will. Like him, I have recently been subjected to considerable strain, but the experiences of today have been almost more than I could bear.

One non-partisan speech is a good deal of burden, when you are in another kind of practice, and to have three inside of nine hours I submit to my distinguished fellow guest and opponent, is cruelty to animals.

"On behalf of our distinguished fellow guest and myself and in view of the fact that I follow him, I tender thanks to the Citizens' Association of Chicago for relieving one of us in the selection of a cabinet.

"And this with entire diference to those other candidates for the presidency whose engagemnts prevented their attendanc."

New York, Oct. 8—(Special to the Journal)—Before a crowd of 40,000 people, with 30,000 more clamoring for admission, Chicago won the National League pennant from New York by a score of 4 to 2. Brown pitched for Chicago and Mathewson for New York. In 8th inning the rioting was beyond control of police. Thousands of dollars changed hands.

ONLY ONE CAR OF NO. 2 WHEAT

EVERYTHING ELSE SHIPPED BY ONE ELEVATOR THIS YEAR HAS BEEN

NO. 1 NORTHERN OR BETTER — FARMERS ALL HIGHLY PLEASED

From Thursday's Daily—

As an indication of the splendid grade of the grain raised in this section this year, from the S. C. Johnson Elevator in Crookston thus far but one car of grain has been shipped which graded only No. 2 Northern, all the balance grading No. 1 Northern or better.

This is a record which has not been equalled in many years if it ever was in a grain country. Mr. Johnson states that before the heavy rain the color of all the grain was practically perfect and as most of the threshing was done prior to that time there was little to be injured later. Some of the grain even after the rain had a splendid color, showing the result of good shocking.

The elevator men state that the farmers never appeared more satisfied than this year. The high price of grain, and the good grades, result ina load netting a very good bunch of money, and they all appear well pleased with what they are getting and talk optimistically of the future.

MANY LABORERS FOR GREENBUSH

This morning a large bunch of laboring men were sent to Greenbush to work on the new extension thru Roseau to Warroad. Every morning there is a good sized bunch sent up and it is evidently the intention to rush the work and complete the rail laying in record breaking time.

Inkster, N. D., Oct. 10—A total loss of $131,500 was entailed in a fire which wiped out practically the entire business district of Inkster yesterday. Originating in the Minneapolis & Northern elevator from the explosion of a lantern dropped in a bin by a workman, the fire soon gained such proportions as to be entirely beyond control. Rapidly the flames swept across intervening spaces and before assistance arrived in the stricken city from Larimore, three blocks of the business district had been destroyed. The losses sustained are as follows:

SCHWIEZER GOES TO ST. P.

POPULAR ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT OF NORTHERN DIVISION OF

GREAT NORTHERN TO ENTER ST. PAUL OFFICES—MUCH REGRET HERE

From Thursday's Daily—

The announcement that J. M. Schweizer, the well known and popular assistant superintendent of the Northern Division of the Great Northern who has been here for the past three years, is to leave Crookston tomorrow evening to accept a position in the general offices at St. Paul will come as a great surprise and cause general regret among a host of friends in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Schweizer have both been very popular in Crookston since they took up their residence here, and in church, social and lodge circles they will be greatly missed.

Among the railroad men Asst. Supt. Schweizer was very popular, and he was recognized as a most efficient man in his position by both the employes and the general public. The exact character of his position in the general offices has not yet been made public, but the change is in the nature of a substantial advancement.

He will be succeeded here by Steve O'Gara of Sioux City, an efficient trainmaster there, and he will act in the same capacity on the Northern Division.

NORTH DAKOTA WOMEN MEET

State Federation of Clubs in Session at Minot, North Dakota.

From Friday's Daily—

No possible doubt could exist in the minds of the delegates to the North Dakota Federation of Women's clubs that they were welcome to Minot, the Magic City after the reception accorded them at the opera house Wednesday night. The addresses of welcome were overflowing with good will and kindly feeling and the response by Mrs. White showed plainly that it was appreciated. This morning the delegates enjoyed an automobile ride thru the city and upon the surrounding hills.

One of the interesting features of the afternoon session was the part known as "Echoes from Three Great Meetings." Mrs. John Burke, wife of Gov. Burke, of that state told of the governors' gathering at Washington and of some of the incidents interesting to the club women. The Mothers' congress in Washington was reviewed by Mrs. N. C. Young, of Fargo. The Boston Biennial was reported by six of the North Dakota delegates. The Suggestions from Past Presidents also given this afternoon, contained a number of helpful hints based on experience. Mrs. Jennie S. Tuller covered 1897 to 1899; Mrs. W. S. Lauder, Wahpeton, 1899 to 1901; Mrs. C. J. Lord, Cando, 1901 to 1903, and Mrs H. S. Oliver Lisbon from 1903 to 1907 This evening there will be a banquet at the Leland at which Mrs. M. Welch of Minot will act as toastmistress Toasts will be responded to by Mrs. C. H. Rathman of Jamestown Mrs. Grant S. Hager, St. Thomas; Mrs. L. H. Bolley, Fargo and Mrs. C. M. Budlong, Bismarck. The evening will be devoted to an address by Enos A. Mills.

Sometimes a woman's crowning glory is pinned on for the occasion.

LIKES NEW LOCATION— Swan Ness who recently moved his barber shop from north of the Germania hotel to the McKinnon building just south of the block of A. J. and Al McKinnon and says he is very much pleased with his new location.

FINE BABY GIRL—Mr. and Mrs. August Lindell are the parents of a very fine baby girl, of regulation weight which arrived last night. Mr. Lindell who is a pump repairer on the Great Northern is so proud that without doubt there will be water to burn on the G. N. in the future.

FINE STOCK SHIPPED — Victor Wadekamper the well known merchant of Mentor passed thru the city last evening enroute to St. Paul with a fine car of fat stock for the market. There will be more fat stock shipped from Mentor this year than ever before.

HERE FROM BEMIDJI—A. Lord, connected with the logging department of the Crookston Lumber Co., spent the night here from Bemidji conferring with local magnates, and returned home this morning. He talked politics also—but not for publication.

ANOTHER CALL—Rev. Ward will preside Monday evening next at a congregational meeting of the Mendenhall Presbyterian church at East Grand Forks at which time a new pastor will be called.

HAD GOOD LUCK—Harry Schmidt and Jos. Nault returned last evening from a goose hunt at Goose Lake and brought back 3 big honkers and a fine mess of ducks and lived on game the three days they were gone. They report the biggest kind of a time.

LUMBERMEN HERE —J. A. McDonald and J. P. Easton left this morning for Hallock where they will spend the day on business. They were talking politics so fast when they left Crookston that there was nothing but "Johnson, Jacobson, corporations and the people" to be heard for a block. A special as to the outcome was expected from Dr. Chapin from Euclid but the wires were down.

A FINE RESIDENCE—Henry Feidler returned last evening from Argyle where he has been for the past few days plastering a big addition to the residence of Postmaster Robertson which Mr. Feidler says is certainly a fine home now. Mr. Robertson on the other hand says that the job of plastering done by Mr. Feidler is a little the best ever seen in Argyle.

BACK FROM RACES—R. T. Wilson passed thru this morning enroute from Carrington, N. D., to Bemidji, where he makes his home after making the racing circuit in that section. This year he drove Echo, Juno and Eddie Wood, horses owned by a Junction City, Mo., man. He had a very successful season and regretted that he did not have time to look up Trainer Will Keenan who has charge of the W. S. Lycan string of racers in this city.

CLOSE CALL— While attempting to catch a vicious bull at the home of Mrs. Sarah Quesnell near Mentor on Friday, Victor Wadekamper came near being killed and only for the timely interference of the dog was his life saved and he escaped with only a few bruises.

GO TO THIEF RIVER—After supper this evening Chas. Loring will drive in his auto to Thief River Falls taking as guests Fred Dennis and his brother, Walter Dennis of Park Rapids, and T. R. Brown. They go to attend the meeting to be addressed by Congressman Steenerson and the latter will return with them later in the evening.

INSTALLATION— Rev. Ward of Crookston and Rev. Stroh of Warren were here Monday to attend the installation of Rev. Geo. E. Moorehouse who has accepted the call as pastor of the Hallock and Northcotte Presbyterian churches. The installation took place at Northcotte Monday afternoon and at Hallock in the evening.—Hallock News.

BOUGHT BUILDING—A most important real estate deal was consummated last week at Hallock when Messrs. John Birkholz and T. M. George, the president and cashier respectively of the Kittson County State Bank purchased the new building now occupied by the bank. It is important in showing that these gentlemen have confidence in that village and county as the investment represents a large amount of money. It is also important to the bank for the transaction leaves it so much more capital available for the accommodation of its many customers.

Paris, Oct. 9.—The Sofia correspondent of the Temps says in a dispatch that King Ferdinand has summoned the commander-in-chief of the Bulgarian army in conference.

The Bulgarian government considers that the last communication received from the grand vizier of Turkey is "insolent." The situation is very strained, the correspondent says, and great excitement prevails in Sofia.

Married Man In Trouble

A married man who permits any member of the family to take anything except Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and lung trouble, is guilty of neglect. Nothing else is as good for all pulmonary troubles. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and is in a yellow package.

FACTORY GIRL SHOT BY LOVER

BODY IS FOUND IN THE ROAD, PIERCED BY TWO BULLETS

SWEETHEART HAD THE MARRIAGE LICENSE IN POCKET WHEN ARRESTED

Wadsworth, O., Oct. 10—With unusual energy the police tonight are endeavoring to unravel the mystery of the murder of Ora Lee twenty-one years of age, a handsome factory girl whose body pierced by two bullets, was found early today on the road between Wadsworth and Hamlet.

Guy Rasor, the man whom Miss Lee was to have married tomorrow, is detained by the sheriff pending developments of the police investigation. Rasor denies all knowledge of the tragedy and in support of his denial exhibits the marriage license procured at Wooster yesterday.

ANOTHER CARRIER

POSTMASTER STEENERSON TRYING TO SECURE ONE FOR CROOKSTON

TO GIVE BETTER SERVICE TO PATRONS—AN INSPECTOR COMING SOON

Postmaster Elias Steenerson this morning received a letter from First Asst. Postmaster General E. T. Bushnell to the effect that an inspector had been detailed to visit Crookston in conection with an application which was made some time ago for an additional city mail carrier in order that the local free delivery service might be extended.

In order to secure the free delivery service it is necessary that there be sidewalks, street crossings, street lights and proper house numbering for the residences to be served and the residents should see to it at once that all these conditions are complied with.

GOV. JOHNSON HERE OCT. 19

GREATEST POLITICAL RALLY OF CAMPAIGN WILL BE AT THE AUDITORIUM

ELABORATE PLANS ARE BEING MADE FOR A MONSTER ENTHUSIASTIC MEET

Gov. John A. Johnson will deliver an address in the Crookston Auditorium on Monday evening, Oct. 19 one week from next Monday at 8 o'clock in the evening.

This will be the greatest political meeting in Crookston during the present campaign and plans are being completed for such a monster outburst of enthusiasm as will startle the natives.

The Young Men's Johnson club will head a great torchlight procession and there is no doubt but that the Auditorium will be packed and overflow meetings arranged for later.

WILL ATTEND GOLDEN JUBILEE

M. E. Kirsch expects to get his business in shape so that he can leave Crookston in time to be present at the Golden Jubilee of the Catholic church at Wabasha on October 15. A grand celebration is being planned and as Mr. Kirsch was a resident of Wabasha 46 years ago he is greatly interested in the gathering. He will later visit his old home at Reed's Landing and other points.

SURFACE DITCHING PLANS COMPLETE

Postmaster Elias Steenerson has returned from his Climax farm where he has just completed plans for a complete system of surface ditching which will be constructed this fall covering his entire farm at that place. As this is one of the most essential features of successful farming, the plan will be followed by many other progressive farmers this fall who have not already such a system in operation.

WANTS $1.12 BUT GETS LESS

STRANGER WHO GOT THE WORST OF PERSONAL ENCOUNTER WANTED FEES

THOUGHT CITY CLERK CHILDS SHOULD DO THE DIGGING UP ACT

WANTED THE COIN BUT DID NOT CARE TO PROSECUTE THE AGGRESSOR

From Saturday's Daily—

"I want $1.12 and am entitled to it."

This was the peculiar demand made upon City Clerk Childs yesterday afternoon just before office closing time. The city clerk looked up in wonderment and asked what that amount was wanted for in particular why he did not make it even money.

"Well," said the fellow, "I got my face scratched up in this city and am entitled to witness fees. I will not have the fellow arrested and put the city to the expense of a trial if I get my money, but I want the $1.12 due me and am going to have it."

City Clerk Childs at first thought the fellow must be light in the sky parlor and to appease him turned him over to Chief of Police Eck.

Chief Eck was confronted with a new proposition entirely. He could not figure out just how he was going to break even if he gave the man the $1.12 and after scratching his head for awhile he sent the fellow, who gave his name as Lars Hendrickson to Pat Connors, superintendent of the city dumping grounds, and it is supposed that Lars was given an invitation to take out a life membership in the city dumping association for payment of the $1.12 in full.

Valley City, N. D., Oct. 10 —Chris Christianson proprietor of the pool hall at Martin a small town this side of Harvey was shot in the head yesterday afternoon by a total stranger and died from the injuries early this morning. His assailant was pursued by the village constable and a posse and after an exciting chase was shot thru the abdomen dying from the injuries last night.

The story of the tragedy is a curious one. Christianson was standing on the sidewalk when the murderer approached him. Without a word from either man the assailant raised a gun and shot Christianson through the head, the bullet passing from one temple to the other. Snatchnig a watch from the dead man's pocket the murderer turned and ran down the street. The village constable accompanied by an armed posse started in pursuit and followed the man into the country for a couple of miles. Coming up with him shots were fired on both sides one finally going thru the abdomen. He was taken into Martin where he died from his injuries. Christianson was sent to Minot last night and was taken to the hospital where he died early this morning. As far as is known he has no parents living and the body will probably be buried in this city.

Christianson was proprietor of the pool hall at Martin and a highly respected young man about twenty-six years of age. His assailant is a total stranger. No one knows his name or where he came from. The day before the murder he came to Martin and called at the post office for mail for both Ryan and Combs. He was well dressed and seemed to have some money. It is suspected that the two men have known each other in former years tho neither gave any sign of recognition when they met on the street at the time of the tragedy.

RELIEVED

Chicago, Oct. 10—Christian H. Hanson for ten years Danish consul at Chicago at his own request was relieved from office yesterday, George Bech, now vice consul at Buenos Ayres, Argentina, will succeed Mr. Hanson.

New York, N. Y. Oct. 10 — The fact that Andrew Carnegie has contributed $20,000 to the campaign fund of the republican national committee was announced today by State Chairman Woodruff.

Woodruff also announced that Mrs. Russel Sage has contributed $1,000 to the same fund. There have been no other large contributions from individuals, Mr. Woodruff said, but small sums are coming in from various sources.

COMES FROM A BRAVE STOCK

DEPUTY GAME WARDEN STAR BAD BOY DESCENDENT OF CHIEF BAD BOY

WHO WAS A GREAT FRIEND OF WHITE PEOPLE IN EARLY DAYS

FOUGHT FOR THEIR PROTECTION AND WAS LATER EMPLOYED BY GOVERNMENT

From Saturday's Daily—

In connection with the splendid success of Star Bad Boy, the deputy game warden who was appointed at the instance of Deputy Game Warden Munch of this city about August 1st, and who has had much signal success in that capacity, having secured a large number of convictions in conjunction with Warden Munch, the latter having secured 26 convictions this season, that is a very interesting bit of history which is well authenticated

Star Bad Boy is the grandson of Chief Bad Boy of the Gull Lake band of Chippewas, a staunch friend of the whites. In 1862, on August 18, Chief Little Crow of the Sioux and Chief Hole in the Wall of the Ojibwas conspired to unite the warriors in a common cause and this plan was frustrated by Chief Bad Boy who at once notified the Commandant at Ft. Ripley who sent troops to Crow Wing which action frustrated the alliance and prevented a series of horrible massacres.

Chief Bad Boy never fought against the whites, and after 1862 was kept at Ft. Ripley to assist the soldiers. He was always a friend of the white man, but led his warriors in a great many battles against the Sioux and Ojibways. Warren's History gives a full account of his adventurous career up to the time of his death at the age of 70 years.

Star Bad Boy is now 40 years of age, and since his appointment has secured 11 convictions, some whites and some breeds, all looking alike to him in his official capacity. He is postmaster at Ney-Tah-Wasush, Mahnamen Co., and has a little store which he runs in conection. He is also a member of the government police force on the White Earth reservation an dattended the Carlisle Indian School in Pennsylvania some years ago.

ADVANCES ANOTHER STEP

BIDS FOR CROOKSTON GOVERNMENT BUILDING ARE AUTHORIZED

Congressman Steenerson today received word that the advertisement for bids for the new federal building at Crookston had been authorized, and this means another step toward the realization of the building.

Mr. Steenerson also received notice that mail service would be at once established on the Canadian Northern to Beaudette, Spooner, Warroad and other points direct from Duluth, shortening the time of eastern mail service to those points from 24 to 48 hours. The mail formerly all had to go via Winnipeg.

TO LOOK OVER GREENBUSH WORK

CONTRACTOR A. GUTHRIE OF THE G. N. IN CROOKSTON THIS MORNING

Contractor A. Guthrie of the G. N. passed thru the city this morning enroute from St. Paul to Greenbush where he will look over the work on the rail laying on the extension from Greenbush to Warroad, via Roseau, and see that the work is rushed as much as possible. He has been forwarding a great number of men for the past week to Greenbush.

BIG LEAGUERS WERE HERE

Perry Werden the coach for the Indianapolis ball team, and "Lefty" Davis one of the best known outfielders in the Western Association passed thru the city this morning enroute to Inkster to visit Billy Scouten at Inkster, whom they learned was burned out after they left the cities in the big fire of yesterday.

IS JACOBSON ELIGIBLE?

Question Has Been Raised Democrats will have Nothing To Do With It. Day Makes Statement.

Minneapolis, Oct. 13—State political circles were stirred today by a remarkable story coming from Madison the home of J. F. Jacobson the republican candidate for governor. The Madison report raises the question as to whether Mr. Jacobson is a fully naturalized citizen, and hence eligible to office. Both the republican and democratic managers have known the story for some days, but apparently both have been sitting on the lid. Meanwhile, it has spread from Madison over the state. Republican managers pronounce the story without foundation saying they have absolute proof of Jacobson's citizenship. However, the question is being given some further investigation. The facts now at hand are not fully conclusive, and so emfurther search of the records will be made.

PJacob F. Jacobson was born in Hjelmeland, Norway in 1840. He came with his parents to America in 1857 and they settled in Fayette county, Iowa. The father who went by the name of Jacob E. Fore, died in 1874. The present candidate for governor and his brothers had then moved to Minnesota. The sons had followed the Norwegian custom taking the name of Jacobson from their father's first name. Inquiry was made this summer at West Union, the county seat of Fayette, but they could not show that Jacob E. Fore was ever naturalized. If he failed to do so, then it was necessary for his sons to take out papers. This Jacob F. Jacobson has never done.

It is claimed however, that the eldest Jacobson was naturalized under the name of Jacob Nelson in 1866. Lars F. Jacobson, a younger brother of the candidate, born in 1862, has made an affidavit that the Jacob Nelson who took out papers in Fayette county in 1866, was their father. This left the question whether the father completed the process of citizenship or whether he only took out first papers, declaring his intention. Up to 1896 first papers were all that was necessary in Minnesota, but in that year an amendment to the constitution was passed which makes it necessary for a man to be a citizen of the United States that is a fully naturalized, in order to vote or hold office. Mr. Jacobson was a member of the legislature them, but evidently considered himself a citizen in every way, for he continued to serve in the legislatures of 1897, 1899 and 1901, later serving on the state board of control. He has assured the committee that he is positive the law was fully complied with by his father, and that he is eligible in every way.

In case it is shown that the candidate could not serve if elected the probable proceeding would be for him to withdraw from the ticket and let the state committee select some one else to run for governor. The state ballots have been printed, and under the law "stickers" would have to be printed with the new candidate's name on, to be pasted over that of the man withdrawing.

There has been bad blood in the village of Madison, where Jacobson had some strong political enemies, and the story emanates from there. Public reference was made to it there recently at the occasion of a big Jacobson mass meeting nd barbecue. One of the speakers referred scathingly to persons circulating stories about a man who had lived in their community for 35 years alleging that he is not a citizen of the United States.

The story has come to the attention of the democratic managers but they have kept quiet about it. Frank A. Day chairman of the democratic committee, admitted today that he had heard the report but said:

"We want nothing to do with it, and I would much rather you would say nothing about it. We are very confident of winning as matters stand now, and we don't want Mr. Jacobson or his supporters to have any excuse to make about the result of this election. I do not want anything to do with it and if it is found to be true we will take no advantage of it. Governor Johnson will lay no claim to the office unless he receives a plurality of the votes at the coming election."

SATURDAY IS MARKET DAY

The advertising matter has been sent out for the next Market Day, which will be next Saturday, and there is every reason to believe that it will far exceed the former two efforts of the citizens to entertain the farmers in the city's trade territory. While the committee this time has not tried to get up an elaborate program, it is believed that the day will be spent most enjoyably and with profit.

One of the features of the program that has been arranged is the appearance for the first time of the Crookston Juvenile Band. The organization will play throughout the day and music will be in the air most of the time. The vaudeville and moving picture shows will be free to the farmers who come to the city and the big auction sale on Bjoin's lot at Robert and Ash street will be of unusual interest. This auction is a free sale and affords an opportunity for every farmer to dispose of whatever he desires to dispose of.

Lunch at G. A. R. Hall

A most enjoyable feature of the program will be the lunch that will be served by the business men to their guests in the G. A. R. hall. It was first announced that the lunch would be given in the Odd Fellows hall, but, after the printing had been secured, the committee made other arrangements and the lunch will be served by the Women's Relief Corps in the G. A. R. building.

Good Prizes

The committee has offered a number of prizes which should start a most interesting and exciting competition. Every farmer should compete and get into the game with a determination to win out at all hazards. The prizes will be given for all kinds of vegetables, the list appearing on the posters which are being put out by the committee. This will not only arouse interest in this event, but should increase the interest in the raising of vegetables and the owning of fine stock.

More the Merrier

To the farmer bringing to the city the largest family the committee, on behalf of the business men, will present a dozen of the finest photographs of the group that can be secured. There are indications that many will compete for this prize and there is no doubt but that there will be many large families in the city on next Saturday.

The business houses also announce that on Market Day they will put into effect some of the best bargains that can be secured throughout the year and this should also attract many of the city's neighbors to come to the city on the day.

Beauty in Coinage Deteriorated

It is a strange fact that as the world has progressed in every other department of life the one dominating factor of the globe, money, has deteriorated in design, in beauty of idea and cleverness of execution. Another strange fact well worth remembering is that golden grain belt beer is in realty a harmless temperance beverage, and if drunk to the exclusion of everything else including tea or coffee, would contribute to the health of humanity—purify its blood, build its muscle and stregthen its nerves. Tuesday Mr. Withey will organize a big branch at Brainerd and from there goes to Breckenridge to organize another branch. Hee will leave Crookston tonight and is about the busiest man in the state.

He is highly pleased over the enthusiasm manifested by the employes evrywhere over the proposition to protect their own interests.

MANY STUDENTS REGISTERING

TRAINS BRINGING IN MANY TO ATTEND THE SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

YOUNG LADIES DORMITORY IS RAPIDLY FILLING UP—THE FIRST DAY

From Tuesday's Daily—

This is the first day or registration at the State School of Agriculture and the students are pouring in from all directions. The Young Ladies' Dormitory is rapidly filling up, and the young men are coming in from all directions

Supt. Robertson is highly pleased with the outlook, the trains this mor ning bringing in many. The school has been so well advertised, and so much interest generally is taken in the work, that there is no question but what the attendance this year will exceed all expectations.

The young man who enters the school is certainly lucky as well as the young woman, for opportunities are presented which no young person can afford to overlook.

BIG RALLY HELD AT FOSSTON

Ole Sageng candidate for congress from this district on the Democratic ticket addressed a big gathering at Fosston last evening. There was a very large gathering and much enthu siasm was manifested. He talks straight from the shoulders and has the faculty of getting the close attention of his hearers.

GREAT JUBILEE OF THE PRESBYTERIANS

Rev. Ward, Retiring Moderator will Preach Opening Sermon at Synod Meeting at St. Paul, Wednesday Evening.

The forthcoming meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of Minnesota at St. Paul in the House of Hope Presbyterian church, the opening service of which will be held Wednesday evening when the retiring moderator, Rev. Willard S. Ward of this city will preach, is one of unusual interest, as it concludes a half century of organized work by the Presbyterian church in this state, the Synod having held its first meeting in 1858.

Presbyterians were First

It is not generally known that the first Christian church organized in this state was a Presbyterian church organized at Ft. Snelling in the spring of 1835 by the Rev. Thomas S. Williamson, who was also a practicing physician, sent to this part of the country by the Presbyterian Board of Missions. There were 22 members in the first organization and four elders were elected of whom Maj. Loomis, commander of the fort Samuel W. Pond and the chief trader were three. There were two of the Pond brothers, Samuel W. and Gideaon H., who had come out from Connecticut shortly before this time to teach the Indians. They were not regularly appointed by any religious denomination and were laboring at their own expense.

The Beginning

This first church organized in the state was the genesis of the First Presbyterian church of Minneapolis of which the Rev. A. B. Marshall, D. D., is the present pastor. The descendants of the Pond brothers are still residents of the vicinity of where their work began, and two of them, one named Gideon H., are now members of the Oak Grove Presbyterian church of Bloomington, Minn., not far from Ft. Snelling. Dr. Williamson left the work near the fort to the Pond brothers and with Rev. J. E. Stevens and wife and Rev. and Mrs. Huggins, who had a little later been sent out by the Board, located at Lac qui Parle, being invited there by Jos. Renville, a half breed trader.

30,000 Indians

At this time there were at least 30-000 Indians in what is now Minnesota and every one was a heathen. They were fierce and warlike, had successfully defended their lands against invasion by their red neighbors and were ready to fight against the whites should it become necessary. They had no written language, and no word for a Supreme God. It was very difficult to preach to them by the aid of interpreters, but Dr. Williamson and his companions were persistent, and by the aid of the Pond brothers gave them a written language.

For 40 Years

For 40 years this Godly missionary labored on a translation of the bible into the language of the Sioux, and just before his death he had the joy of revising the last proof. As a result of his winter's work at Lac qui Parle a Presbyterian church was organized in the spring of 1836.

Famine and Pestilence

Difficulties and dangers were encountered and overcome until famine and pestilence drove the missionaries to take refuge in Little Crow's village near St. Paul where they remained 6 years. Returning to the western part of the state, the missionary force settled at Yellow Medicine, where the Lac qui Parle Indians had been removed by the conditions of the treaty made with the government in 1851.

Great Indian Outbreak

Here work was continued until 1862 when the great Indian outbreak occurred. It started in a Sunday shooting match between the Reds and the Whites. In the suppression of this outbreak Maj. C. H. Mix of this city had a very prominent part, leaving St. Paul with the soldiers the morning after the massacre. In less than 24 hours after the first shot was fired about 500 white settlers had been killed within an area of 60 square miles, and more than 1,000 were killed before the Indians were driven away or captured. About 400 of the braves were carried in chains to Mankato, while more than 2,000 members of the tribe were under guard at Ft. Snelling.

Missionaries Unharmed

The families of the missionaries were uninjured during the trouble, being guided to safety by the Christian Indians. Dr. Williamson went at once to Mankato where he preached to the prisoners captured by the soldiers, his labors being rewarded by assisting in baptizing 300 of them in one day. Here he remained until the release of the prisoners after four years of imprisonment. The ringleaders, 38 in number, were hung.

Result of Great Work

As a direct result of the labors of this great missionary there is now one whole Presbytery composed exclusively of Indians, called the Dakota Presbytery. It has 30 churches 22 ministers, 94 elders, 1,645 members and 4 candidates for the ministry.

From the beginning of the work among white people, in the organization of the church at Ft. Snelling in 1835, came the organization of the Synod in 1858 which at one time embraced all the territory of North and South Dakotas. In this synod, comprising the state of Minnesota alone are eight Presbyteries, 216 ministers, 302 churches, 828 elders, 25,-754 members.

During the past 25 years the membership has increased more than 300 per cent.

Crookston Highly Honored

Crookston has been highly honored in making one of her ministers head of this great organization for the past year in the person of Rev. W. S. Ward.

Great Jubilee

Doubtless the jubilee celebration to be held in the St. Paul churches, on Sunday, Oct., 18, will be an occassion long to be remembered and will be an inspiration to those who are fortunate enough to be able to attend and to churches to which reports of the meetings will be given.

"Making Good"

may be slang but it is a vigorous phrase of tonic qualities and holds a world of solid meaning, hard work, honorable success, accomplishment.

There are many young men, 60 years and under, hard-workers, who have failed to justify the hopes and ambitions of their families and friends; failed to reap the harvest due them; failed to "Make Good", simply because they did not realize the many actual advantages offered them by a check account; the protection afforded their money; the chance to save the extra dollar or two; to build up their credit; the certainty of having to pay bills but once; and other advantages appreciated, by the man who has a bank account.

HAVE HANSBROUGH & M'KENZIE MADE UP?

The Big Question And All Indications Point To Formations Of A New Alliance By Them.

PRESENT DEVELOPMENTS EXPLAINED ONLY SATISFACTORILY BY SUCH ALLIANCE—DIFFERENCES WERE SIMPLY PERSONAL—REPORTED THAT RECONCILIATION FORMED BETWEEN McKENZIE AND DEFEATED SENATOR, OWING TO INABILITY TO HEAD OFF SELECTION OF TOM MARSHALL FOR THE SENATE BY THE PEOPLE OF NORTH DAKOTA

Fargo, Oct., 21—Have Alexander McKenzie and Senator Hansbrough adjusted their differences and formed a new alliance, after all that has come and gone? There are those who believe this to be a fact, and they cite many things which point to that conclusion. It is a well known fact that differences between these two have involved no question of principle, but have been purely personal, and there would be nothing in the way of a reconcinliation if once the two men could be convinced that their interests were to be promoted by peace rather than war. It is now reported that such a reconciliation has been effected and that in case the supreme court decides that the proposed vote for senator shall not be taken on November 3 the plea will be set up that the vote at the primary election is of no effect, the pledges of the legislative candidates have no force, the election of a senator will be thrown into the legislature under all the old conditions, and Hansbrough will be an active candidate for the position, and will, as in former years, be supported by McKenzie and all the force that he can bring to bear. In return for this it is reported that Hansbrough will two years hence aid in securing the re-election of Senator McCumber. Thus the old alignment will be reestablished, and the combination which has been in force for so many years will be restored.

Woman Interrupts Political Speaker

A well dressed woman interrupted a political speaker recently by continually coughing. If she had taken Foley's Honey and Tar it would have cured her cough quickly and expelled the cold from her system. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and is in a yellow package Refuse substitutes.

A CLEVER CROOK SWINDLES FARMERS

Minneapolis, Oct. 21—George and Sam Scammon farmers on their way from northeastern Iowa to North Dakota, were victims of a unique swindle last night whereby they paid $65 to a stranger to have their car of goods transferred from one railroad to another.

They arrived in the city late at night over the Minneapolis and St. Louis road, and as the train pulled into the Kenwood yards, a man with a lantern entered the car.

"You will be transferred to the G. Northern road," he said, "just as soon as you pay the transfer fee."

Reluctantly the men paid over the money but before they left they complained at the freight depot. The matter will be at once reported to the detective for the road.

HON. HANS P. BJORGE
Democratic Candidate for Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner

Hans P. Bjorge was born in Norway in 1856. He emigrated with his perents to this country in 1868 and settled in Otter Tail county, Minnesota, in 1869.

Mr. Bjorge attended the common schools and took one year of high school work at Fergus Falls. He then commenced teaching having planned to work his way for a higher education. Meantime his father, sister and brothers had all died, one after another, leaving young Bjorge alone to take care of his mother and take charge of the farm. Therefore he had to abandon his plans of further pursuing his education.

Mr. Bjorge took an active part in organizing the State Farmers' Alliance in 1893, and served as treasurer of said organization for several years He was recommended as the Alliance candidate and elected on the Republican ticket for the Legislature in 1885 As a member of the Railroad and the Grain and Warehouse Committees during that session, Mr. Bjorge helped to draft and pass the first rail road and warehouse laws of any note in the state. He was again a member of the legislature in 1887.

Ellis, Kansas, Oct. 21—The timely intervention of a physician who was not satisfied with the appearance of the body today prevented the burial alive of Mrs. Thomas Chapman. Mrs. Chapman, who is sixty years of age, was supposed to have died suddenly from heart disease Saturday last. The body was prepared for burial, but was not embalmed. The funeral was to have taken place at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. A few minutes before the casket was sealed, a physician requested permission to examine the body after which the woman was removed from the coffin and placed in bed. While her heart is very weak, it is believed Mrs. Chapman will recover.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 21—Passing in review before thousands of people along the line of march, followed by a parade of many hundreds of marchers and speaking to more people than the sound of his voice could reach, Wm. J. Bryan tonight made a brief rally south of the Ohio river. The rally in Louisville was for Mr. Bryan the culmination of one of the busiest days of the campaign and the outpouring here equalled and possibly surpassed anything in the way of a demonstration the candidate has met with since he was notified of his nomination. From the time he left New Albany, Ind., just across the Ohio river until he spoke his final word of farewell, Mr. Bryan was the recipient of a continuous ovation.

Bryan Rally In New York

Three Members Of Cleveland's Cabinet Speak In His Behalf.

New York, Oct. 21. — Three members of the cabinets of the late President Cleveland, by presence and speech at a big democratic gathering here tonight, sought to demonstrate beyond preadventure that the democracy of Tilden and Cleveland is lending its support and endeavor to secure thet election of Wm. J. Bryan to the presidency.

The occasion was a mass meeting under the auspices of the Bryan and Kern Businessmen's association at Carnegie hall and seated on the platform were former Governor David R. Francis, of Missouri, secretary of the interior under President Cleveland, Judson Harmon, of Ohio, former attorney general, and Hilary A. Herbert of Alabama, President Cleveland's secretary of the navy. Word was received from Richard Olney, of Massachusetts, who held the portfolio of secretary of state under Mr. Cleveland, that he would be unable to be present because of a previous engagement.

Taking as a theme the present campaign issues from a business standpoint, the chamberlains of Mr. Cleveland's administration, in speeches of forensic force, brought ringing cheers from the auditors that closely packed the hall, with declarations that Mr. Bryan's election would mean business stambility and an uplift to industrial well-being,

Mayor Geo. B. McClellan presided at the meeting and read a letter from the venerable John Bigelow author and statesman a friends of Abraham Lincoln, and Samuel J. Tilden urging the election of Mr. Bryan.

Carried Away And Murdered

Outrage Committed At Union City, Tenn. By Mob Of Masked Men.

Union City, Tenn., Oct. 21—Advices from Reel Foot Lake tonight, where a mob of masked men early this morning took Col. R. Z. Taylor aged sixty and Capt. Quinten Rankin, both of Trenton, and widely known lawyers out of their hotel at that place and murdered the latter, failed to report the finding of Col. Taylor's body or to reveal any trace of his whereabouts.

The man named Powell is said to have been forced to accompany the mob. Powell had been stopping at the hotel and when the riders called everyone out and compelled them to line up. Powell, Col. Taylor, Capt. Rankin and a surveyor whose name is unknown are said to have been taken away the others being permitted to return to their beds.

Powell states, it is said, that after killing Rankin, a vote was taken regarding the disposition to be made of Taylor. During the dispute, Taylor made a dash and jumped into the bayou, starting to swim across it. A number of shots were fired at him, and in the confusion Powell slipped away and brought back the story of the escape, or attempted escape of Taylor.

HOW HEARST SECURED COMPR'MISING LETTERS

Cost Hearst Over $12,000 Stolen From Standard Oil Office, Photographed And Returned.

CHARLES STUMP, A CONFIDENTIAL MESSENGER OF THE COMPANY THE REAL VILLAIN—NEGRO ACTED AS THE GO BETWEEN — ACCORDING TO ARTHUR H. GLEASON'S ARTICLE, STUMP HAS SAID THAT HEARST HAS NOT YET READ THE BEST OF THE LETTERS—LETTERS HAVE BEEN KEPT UNDER COVER THREE YEARS FOR OPPORTUNITY TO SPRING THEM

New York, Oct. 21—Under the title "Mr. Heart's Thieves" this week's issue of Collier's Weekly, which will be on the news stands Thursday, contains an article by Arthur Gleason, telling the inside history of the way in which the John D. Archbold letters were stolen from the Standard Oil office, photographed, returned and the photographs sold to Mr. Hearst's news papers for a trifle over $12,000.

A considerable part of the article is taken up with interviews with the two men charged with obtaining and selling the letters. A summary of the article is given by Mr. Gleason in these words:

"The Standard Oil letters of John P. Archbold to Senator Foraker, representative Sibley and other eminent politicians, of which Mr. Hearst has made effective use thru the present campaign were sold to the New York American office by Charles Stump a confidential messenger of the Standard Oil company. The letters were brought to him by William W. Winfield, a negro in the office of JoJhn D. Archbold. Winfield is the stepson of Mr. Archbold's butler. Stump and Winfield cleared a trifle over $12,000 by the transaction and made merry thru 1905 on the proceeds, running a saloon, playing the races, and leading a swift cosmopolitan life."

The article shows that Mr. Hearst has had the photographs of the letters in his possession for three years, the sale having taken place in 1905.

Stump who is quoted at length in the article, is authority for the statement that Mr. Hearst has many more interesting letters than those which have already caused so much talk.

"And yet you know," Stump is quoted by Mr. Gleason as saying recently "Mr. Hearst hasn't begun to read the best of the letters. He's beginning easy. Wait till you hear him read the Senator Penrose and the Senator Aldrich letters. Then there will be a sensation. What's happening now is nothing. He hasn't the originals, you know. They were returned to the Standard Oil files. Photographic copies were made and these are the ones Hearst is using. He hasn't originals except a few Hanna letters, which may not come out at all."

JAPANESE UMPIRE DIDN'T QUITE SUIT

Tokio, Oct. 21—The third day of the American occupation of Japan brought out every description of entertainment for the officers and men of the Atlantic fleet and the visiting business men from the Pacific coast, from an audience and luncheon with royalty to a baseball game between the nines of the fleet and Keio university. Luncheons, garden parties, Japanese dinners commencing early, European dinners beginning later and theatre parties, all involving the careful distribution of invitations, because occurring in half a dozen places at the same time, kept the American guests of the Japanese nation busy.

The baseball game resulted in a victory for the Japanese team after fifteen innings had been played. The decision of the Japanese umpire was questioned, but good humoredly accepted by the boys of the fleet.

JULIUS J. REITER
Democratic Candidate for Lieutenant Governor

Julius J. Reiter was born in Elgin township, Wabasha county, Minneso-ing that position. For many years he has also been County Chairman of ta, July 4th 1869, and moved a few years later with his parents to Plainview, where he received a common school education. At the age of 17 years he began working in the general store of Koenig Bros. ,at Plainview remaining with them for five years. In 1892 he removed to Rochester, where he engaged in the retail grocery business, later associating with himself his brother. The firm is still doing business at Rochester under the firm name of Reiter Bros.

Mr. Reiter has always taken an active interest in public affairs, having served several terms as Alderman in his home city and having been elected to that office in 1902 ,and still hold the local Democratic Committee.

JOHNSON MAKING GREAT CAMPAIGN

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 15—Governor Johnson completed his tour of the Messaba range at Hibbing last night.

Crowds, speeches, banners, bands and bunting were features of the trip. The governor declared himself the enemy of the tonnage tax or any of the methods of taxation designed to rob county, municipality, township or school of proper and liberal support.

In every place he spoke of the national ticket and the state and national platforms and eulogized William Jennings Bryan and commended the Democratic faith in a guaranty of the bank deposits policy.

Governor Johnson and party arrived at Hibbing from Chisholm at 5:45 p. m. They were the guests of P. H. Nelson at dinner at the Hibbing hotel. A big Taft-Jacobson banner is suspended across the street in front of the hotel which is republican headquarters. Considerable comment and many expressions of disfavor were occasioned among the visitors and local Democrats by the display.

The Hibbing band and a torchlight procession led the governor and party to the Power theatre. The building was crowded, about 400 being unable to gain admission. The audience occupied the platform, aisles and every seat.

Martin Hughes of Hibbing introduced the governor in an effective speech He paid his compliments to the News Tribune in an original and striking manner.

The governor dealt at more length than in any other speech on the range on his record as chief executive of Minnesota and elaborated more fully his views on the tonnage tax question and his version of Mr. Jacobson's official life story.

Would Veto Tonnage Tax

He said that it was necessary to discuss the tariff; that everybody knows the tariff needs attention, and the only question is whether it will be revised by its friends or by the people thru representatives imbued with their wishes in the matter. He said that if the legislature should pass a tonnage tax law of the character feared by those who do not want to see northeastern Minnesota crippled thru state legislation, he would veto the measure.

He stated that he had worked in harmony with the republican legislature and that that body had passed all the important legislation recommended by him and that he had signed the bills.

He took up the discussion of Mr. Jacobson, who he said had insisted upon standing upon his record, instead of discussing issues. He thought it the duty of a candidate for the governorship of a great state like Minnesota to let the people know where he stood, where he stands and where he intends to stand upon all great public questions.

He mentioned that he had appointed the tax commission and that the late state board of equalization, which raised the valuation of iron properties in this section $148,000,000 came in for its share of praise. He said that he had appointed that board and that its work was good and satisfactory to the people of the state. He also said that the state was pleased with the tax commission and denied that he wants to set a tonnage tax upon iron ore and so deprive the people of the taxes they are enjoying now, and the low levy made possible by bodies appointed by him and working in harmony with him.

As to Jacobson's Record

Of Mr. Jacobson's record he said the Lac qui Parle man had been a consistent and tireless enemy of northern Minnesota and he quoted newspapers, legislative journals and his own speeches in support of his statement. He suggested to the voters who heard him at th evarious points that they get the habit of voting for themselves, that is, of giving their own interests careful consideration and study before casting a ballot for "the other fellow."

He said that his primary reason for appearing before them was to ask for their support and votes because he was for the third time a candidate for governor. He declared they had a right to know for him how he had accounted for his stewardship and the reasons why he asked their support again.

Couldn't Help Nomination

The nomination had been thrust upon him, he said, much against his will and hisc party's convention had adjourned and left him to his fate Now, he says, he wants to be elected and to keep up the work he has been trying to do. He said that not much was heard of the development of this part of the state in this campaign, and it had been the slogan of the Republican party two years ago.

The reason for this, he averred is found in th efact that the people with that proposition in mind would find little in the record of the Republican candidate to justify them in hoping for great things or even fair play for this action.

St. Paul, Oct. 16, 1908—To counteract the impression sought to be created thruout the state by the St. Paul and Minneapolis daily papers that are supporting J. F. Jacobson for governor, the Democratic state committee has issued a circular letter to its friends thruout the state, asking them to pay no attention to these exaggerated reports regarding Jacobson's meetings and assuring them that Governor Johnson's reelection is only a question of plurality. While it is probable that the unthinking may be attracted to Mr. Jacobson's standard by the predictions of his success, the facts do not warrant any such prediction, and, on the contrary, point to the re-election of Governor Johnson by a very large majority.

Reports which had reached the Governor's headquarters here in St. Paul last week indicated that there was considerable hostile sentiment toward him in St. Louis County. But the visit, this week, of Governor Johnson to Duluth and the Range towns has clearly shown that Johnson's popularity in that section of the state is even greater than two years ago. His meetings were beyond question more largely attended and the occasion of more enthusiasm than even his triumphal tour of St. Louis County in the campaign of 1906. Virginia, Eveleth, Biwabik, Two Harbors and Ely turned out enmasse to hear the Governor, while at Hibbing on Tuesday night his visit brought out the greatest audience ever gathered together in that thriving young city, and the Governor rose to the occasion and gave the people of Hibbing a splendid address. His visit to St. Louis county ended Wednesday night in a blaze of glory at Duluth. The big armory was crowded to its capacity and several thousand people who could not gain admission to the hall stood outside, while local orators addressed them. The Governor was in fine voice and in good spirits and his speech at the armory was productive of the closest attention, relieved by repeated bursts of applause. As an evidence that the people of Duluth are with him in his fight it remains only to be said that when he had finished his armory speech, and the audience had left the hall, those outside, to the number of almost two thousand, crowded into the hall and Johnson gave a second address to an entirely different audience. The meeting is the talk of Duluth and of the Eighth Congressional District and every indication points to an increased majority for the Governor in St. Louis County, where two years ago he carried the county by some thirteen hundred plurality. Many well-informed friends of the administration predict that his 1908 plurality will reach 2500.

The bitter and unreasonable attacks of the Duluth News-Tribune, controlled as it is by the great corporation interests at the head of the lakes, gave the Governor an opportunity to defend his record and declare his position with respect to issues peculiar to that section of the state. That Governor Johnson is the real friend of the ordinary taxpayer of the county was shown beyond a question of doubt and is best evidenced by the splendid greetings given him by the people of the county, irrespective of party.

It is announced with a fanfare of verbal trumpets that Senator P. J. McCumber, of North Dakota, is to campaign Minnesota in the interest of Mr. Jacobson. It is the first time in the political history of the state that a senator from North Dakota has been brought into Minnesota to tell its voters their political duty. A reason for this unprecedented action is readily found in the frequency with which Alec McKenzie is seen conferring with Chairman Brown of the Jacobson Committee. McKenzie is the uncrowned boss of North Dakota. He lives at the Merchants Hotel, in St. Paul, is in close communion with the railroad and other corporate interests, in the state, and since his occupation in North Dakota is gone the old fellow naturally turns to a new world to conquer in Minnesota. McKenzie s credited with unusual shrewdness, and while his methods and tactics have been repudiated by the people of his own state and his boss-ship has been overthrown, Chairman Brown apparently welcomes him to the fold in Minnesota and the result of this intimacy is found in McCumber's visit. It remains to be seen whether or not the Republican party of the state of Minnesota will take up the discredited and discarded boss of North Dakota and his henchman, McCumber.

Has Blazed The Way

To Governor Johnson is due great credit for the manner in which he has dispelled the doubt amongst the voters of this state in regard to the ability of democrats to give the people good government. On account of failure to obtain office in Minnesota the people had come to the conclusion that democrats were incapable to govern and as the servants of the people they were failures. The conspicious record of the governor of Minnesota, who for four years almost now has guided the destinies of the commonwealth and established the standards of development and endeavor higher than they ever were before in the history of this sovereign state.

The democrats did right in nominating John A. Johnson four years ago. In the first place it demonstrated that that the party desired to honor its leading men. It did not select a man tied down body and soul to the trusts, to the interests; it did not select a man whose personal characteristics were such as to cast considerable doubt upon his ability to worthily represent the state should he be chosen as its chief executive. The perty did push forward and offer for the suffrages of the people a nominee who was the peer of any citizen.

The result was his election and then he started to establish a record which has never been equalled in the history of the state. A record of which every citizen should be proud. Honor is due to the democratic party for placing before the people such a man as John A. Johnson, and he is to be honored for the manner in which he has treated the trust and confidence that was reposed in him.

He has established a high record for performing the executive functions of the government. Taken from any viewpoint his two administrations have been conspucious successes and people irrespective of politics are proud of him. He has brought fame to the state and his ability to fill the office to which he was elected by large popular majorities on two different occasions, once in the heat of a national campaign, when the head of the republican ticket carried the state by an unheard of majority, has made Minnesota one of the most talked of states in the entire union. He has given the people a good, wise safe and prosperous administration; there have been no scandals and notwithstanding the changes made in the heat of political battle, the affairs of state have been conducted on an as economical basis as was consistent with the great development and growth of the commonwealth. There is absolutely no peg upon which the opposition can hang a charge and the result is that the people are absolutely and unqualifiedly satisfied.

Now that the people have been given the opportunity of seeing the kind of an administration a democrat can give, and have learned to regard the party's representatives as men in whom the greatest confidence can be reposed, there is every reason why taking into account the fact that the principles of the democratic party are so much nearer the real sentiments of the masses this confidence should not extend to every elective office. There is no doubt but that this present campaign will result in some great surprises, not surprises to the democrats, but to the opposition, who are gently lulling their apprehensions to rest with the siren song of party loyalty and party fealty.

The people are rallying to the democratic policies, they are beginning to realize through the example set by Governor Johnson that they have every reason to look for as good government under democratic as under republican rule, and the result will be on November 3rd that the governor will be re-elected and with him will be many more of the nominees of the only party that is near the people and their interests. Governor Johnson has blazed the way and the people will follow in his footsteps.

The People Are Being Deceived

A candidate for election to the highest gift in hands of the people of this state has made a hurry-up trip thru this county today and only deigned to meet the people of one of the smaller towns, absolutely passing up the two largest cities in the section and failing to appear in several other towns that on account of their importance had every reason to believe that the gubernatorial candidate would be more than pleased to appear.

The people of the city of Crookston the county seat of one of the largest counties of the entire state, have a right to feel aggreaved over the treatment she has been accorded by this candidate and they will undoubtedly express their feelings in regard to the shabby treatment at the polls next month. The republican committee has given it out that stress of previous engagements has made it impossible for Mr. Jacobson to appear in Crookston; that they were too late in making a request for his assignment to this city; they pretend to have made every effort to have him speak in Crookston, but failed.

Why it was thought best to send him to Fertile and whirl him past the county seat about thirty miles due east is susceptible to several interpretations, none of which are complimentary to the nominee or the men who have been responsible for his nomination. It has been stated that Mr. Jacobson would not take well with the voters of this city and fear was really the reason that his itinerary did not include the city. There has been rumors to the effect that his appearance two years ago in Crookston cost him many votes and it was believed that should he come again still more votes would be lost to the party.

We would not for one moment change this to be the real reason, yet there is without doubt a reason for his non-appearance at the county seat of Polk county and that reason is one which his supporters will not give publicity to. The people of this city on account of size, importance in the section, has a just right to demand an opportunity of seeing and hearing the man for whom they will be asked to vote for chief executive of their state and we are of the opinion that the committee has made a great blunder in arranging Mr. Jacobson's itinerary as they have.

The people cannot become too intimately acquainted with the personality of any man who aspires to be their governor and a man who cannot stand the scruttinizing acquaintanceship of the people cannot expect to secure their suffrages on election day. We believe the committee in charge of Mr. Jacobson's routings has made a gigantic blunder and when the votes are counted it will be seen that the people are not going to vote for a man who has not the courage to face the people.

The Humors Of Politics

Midst the stress of the present campaign it is a relief to find something which excites the humor of the people. In the national campaign the sharp shooters got busy, and it began to look for a time as if there would be no generals left in either party. Next Rosewater, Chairman of the Republican Press Bureau and publisher of the Omaha Bee, comes out in an editorial in that paper and demonstrates that language claimed in the editorial to have been used by Mr. Bryan on the tariff question was a catch vote which might be used by either friend or enemy of the tariff, and was entirely meaningless as an exposition of tariff doctrine, and that it demonstrates how little Mr. Bryan and his party knew about the tariff. It then developes that the language in question was never used by Mr. Bryan, but is the tariff plank in the Republican national platform.

In the state campaign Mr. Jacobson started the ball rolling by charging the republican legislature with extravagance, and it would seem as if the jokes of the campaign must also happen locally. Postmaster Steenerson, who has kept busy for the past twenty years sidestepping to keep himself in the party which happened to be in the majority in Polk County, comes out in a letter, which was published in the Crookston Times and calls upon the people to vote the republican ticket straight, and says that he is inclined to think that those who do not do so, vote more like sheep than intelligent Republicans. Coming from one who got back into the republican party just in time to get a fat office this letter certainly is a rich joke, and its language should be highly appreciated by the intelligent voters of Polk County, tho it may be that some of them may fail to see the joke and stop to inquire whether or not one holding a federal position is justified under the rules which are supposed to control in such cases in taking an active part in political controversies, and whether one with Mr. Steenerson's kaleidoscopic political record is in a position to crack the party lash.

St. Louis, Oct. 17—The grain dealers' national association this afternoon began the preparation of a uniform system for grading grain to be recommended for use by state grain inspectors, warehouse commissions and boards of trade in all parts of the United States.

The work was entered upon following an address on uniform grades by E. H. Culver of Toledo, Ohio, president of the Chief Grain Inspectors' national union.

FOUR IN ONE FAMILY LOST THEIR LIVES

FIFTY FARMS IN ALCONA COUNTY SWEPT BY FIRE AND BUILDINGS DESTROYED—SEVENTY-FIVE MILES OF COUNTRY BETWEEN ALPENA AND CHEBOYGAN IS ONE MASS OF FLAMES—FEARED DEATH LIST WILL BE A LARGE ONE

Alpena, Mich., Oct. 17 — Fifteen people lost their lives last night in the burning of the Detroit and Mackinaw railroad relief train which was carrying inhabitants of a little village of Metz, 23 miles north of here, to safety from the forest fires which were sweeping away their homes. The ill-fated train was ditched by spreading rails at Nowicki siding a few miles south of Metz, and terrified refugees were forced to abandon cars and rush for safety either down the track with burning forests on either side or into ploughed fields near the siding. Eleven of the victims were women and children who were unable to escape. Their charred bodies were found in the ruins of the car today when the rescuers reached the scene. Four additional fatalities occurred in the neighborhood of the wreck last night. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wagner died from heat and exhaustion on their farm near the scene of the wreck and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nowicki, Jr., lost their lives in the burning house near siding where the wreck occurred. The dead in the wreck follow:

William Bartlett, Alpena, brakeman.
Arthur Lee, Alpena, fireman.
John Konieczy.
Mrs. John Konieczy.
John Konieczy, aged two.
Joseph Konieczy, aged three.
Helen Konieczy, aged seven months
Mrs. George Cicero.
Margaret Cicero, aged two.
George Cicero, aged five.
A third Cicero child, aged eight.
Mrs. Emma Hardies.
Pauline Hardies, aged nine.
Minnie Hardies, aged eight months

When the forest fires closed in yesterday about the little village a special train of three empty box cars and two coal gondolas was rushed to Metz As rapidly as possible the people and their goods were loaded into the cars. When the train finally started there were about 100 frightened people aboard. The flames were already sweeping thru the village, Engineer Foster started the train for Alpena. Nearing Nowicki he saw a blazing pile of cedar ties on both sides of the track. Opening wide the throttle, he tried to dash thru at full speed, but the heat had loosened the rails and they had spread and the train left the tracks. The blazing pile of ties surrounded it and in an instant the car caught fire.

The terror-stricken people caught by peril from which they were fleeing jumped from the cars and rushed down the track. Three mothers and their little ones were cremated in a gondola car where they were caught. Brakeman William Barrett sprang into the water tank behind the engine, only to be literally boiled to death as the flames swept over it. Enignee Foster and Conduottor Kinville fled down the track thru fire and smoke and were the first to reach the village of Posen, and report the wreck and ask for assistance from here.

Behind them straggled burned and wounded procession of refugees from the wrecked train. It was a fearful march over hot ties with the flames from the burning woods on either side of the track roaring and snapping in their faces. Engineer Foster was terribly burned about the head and face, but it is thought he will survive. Conductor Kinville was badly scorched. James White was totally blinded by his burns. John Nowicki, Sr., and his wife and Mrs. Albert Hardies and her young son were also seriously burned.

BRYAN AGAIN DENVER'S GUEST

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE IS GIVEN A RECEPTION IN SPITE OF RAIN

Denver, Oct. 17 — Bryan was the guest of this city for several hours tonight and was given a most cordial reception. In spite of the threatening storm, accentuated by a fitful rainfall great crowds lined the streets thru which the candidate rode to the Auditorium where he delivered the principal speech of the program of speech making outlined for him. All along the line of march, he was received with enthusiastic acclaim. More than two score marching clubs, from all sections of the state, followed the candidate thru the city's streets and as he progressed, a glow of red fire and other pyrotechnics added to the brilliancy of the electrical effect, especially arranged for the occasion.

OBJECTED TO KISSES

SO SHE HAD HUSBAND ARRESTED AND PLACED UNDER PEACE BOND

Marion, O., Oct. 17—Because she says he catches her and hugs and kisses her on the street or anywhere he sees her, Josephine Boor, 22 and a pretty brunette had her husband John Boor arrested today. She charged him with molesting, tormenting, and torturing her. The Boors were married less than a year ago, and separated a short time after their marriage. Boor was released in Justice C. G. Gompi's court after giving a bond of $200 to keep the peace.

N. D. WOMAN FATALLY IS BURNED

SON SEES MOTHER RUSH FROM KITCHEN WITH CLOTHING A MASS OF FLAMES

Minot, N. D., Oct. 17—Mrs. Heneghan, aged 65 years, was fatally burned tonight at 9 o'clock. Her son Frank, yesterday afternoon and died lastt who lived next door, was startled to see his mother rush madly from the kitchen door her apron and dress a mass of flames. As rapidly as possible he got to her side and with dirt and a rug finally managed to extinguish the flames but not until her arms and body were badly charred. For several years her right hand has been paralyzed and for that reason she was greatly handicapped in fighting the flames.

The shock combined with the painful burns were more than human nature could stand and she died last night at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Heneghan was a large woman weighing 385 pounds. The deceased is a widow who formerly lived at Rochester, Minn. She has 15 children three of whom reside in this city.

Sun sets 5:16, rises 6:09; moon rises 9:37 p. m.; moon highest or farthest north; moon at ascending node, crossing sun's path upward; 9:28 a. m., moon in conjunction with Neptune, passing the planet from west to east; sun passing first magnitude star Spica in Virgo.

We sell Guns and Traps cheap and buy Furs and Hides. Write for catalogue No. 23.—N. W. Hide & Fur Co., Minneapolis.

Save your money. Buy GOLD SEAL Overshoes and Rubber Boots —Cheapest because wear longest. Ask your dealer. Not sold by Mail Order houses.—Goodyear Rubber Co., St. Paul, Makers.

FINISHED CONTRACT—Roy Teal who had the contract for a big job of plowing northwest of the city, has completed his work and left for his home at Euclid.

TO BATTLE RIVER—Frank Jerome accompanied by his wife and family left this morning for Battle River, north of Blackduck, where they will spend the winter.

PROBATE BUSINESS — I. O. Brandt spent yesterday in the city on business in connection with the estate of I. O. Ringstad of which he is the administrator. Ringstad committed suicide some time ago and left a little property.

BUYING BENZINE WAGON—Jos. Helm, Jr, of Red Lake Falls came to Crookston last Thursday for the purpose of looking at some automobiles. He is thinking of purchasing one of the benzine wagons.

LAID TO REST — Tuesday afternoon Baby Fay O'Boyle was laid to rest at Oakdale Cemetery. The sympathy of loving friends is with the parents in their sorrow.

"And tho his body slumbers here,
His soul is safe in Heaven."

SENTIMENT FOR JOHNSON — Bert Levins and Jose Koelmel returned this morning from a business trip to Climax. They report business good and also brought word that the sentiment in that section was practically unanimous for John A. Johnson for governor.

CROOKSTON AT R. LAKE FALLS —Manager Buse of the Red Lake Falls high school football team has two good games scheduled to be played on Saturday, October 17, and Crookston will be the opposing team. The other game will be played one week later Saturday Oct. 24.

HOME FROM DAKOTA — Mike Sullivan who has been running a threshing engine in North Dakota this fall has returned home after a very successful season. He is in good health after his siege of illness this summer, the outdoor work evidently agreeing with him.

HAS A FINE DAUGHTER — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schermer are the parents of a fine daughter, born yesterday morning. Thus far there has been no special reduction in the price of electricity, but the smile worn by Mr. Schermer would make the consumer pay double prices if it were necessary, without a murmur. There was a noticeable elasticity in the step of Mr. Schermer, but this was excusable under the circumstances.

SUNNY JIM—J. A. Crompe is wearing a Sunny Jim smile—the kind that won't come off. He got word from Crookston Monday that a little boy, the first grandchild, had come to take up his abode with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan Hall. If you happen around the lumber office this week you'll note the far away expression on Mr. Crompe's face and you may hear him chuckle to himself. He's going to Crookston Saturday you bet! He'd go before if the lumber yard would burn, or some other good fortune befall him, so that he could get away from business cares.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

PAYS TO ADVERTISE—It pays to advertise. Sam S. Haislet formerly of the Red Lake Falls Gazette and now editor of the Reporter published at Lankin, North Dakota, has been advertising for a printer. Mrs. Haislet has been visiting with relatives in Montana and last Saturday Editor Sam received a telegram from the west conveying the joyous tidings that a young printer had come to claim a permanent place in his home. Tho the new printer is a little inexperienced he is full of energy and is sure to be just the man Haislet wanted.

BACK ON CLAIM—S. J. Cable returned to his claim on Black River north of Blackduck, yesterday where he expects to reside for the winter and also harvest his year's crop of vegetables which he claims will yield well. Mr. Cable speaks in glowing terms of the north country, especially the vicinity in which he lives where he says the settlement is fairly well established by actual settlers who are all thriftty and progressive and all seem to enjoy the forest life far better than old settled countries from which many came. Mr. Cable's claim lies on the banks of Black River and hopes in the not far distant future to see a townsite platted there on as its location.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY

Oct. 16 In History.

1793—Marie Antoinette, queen of France, guillotined; born 1755.

1891—Sailors of the United States cruiser Baltimore mobbed at Valparaiso; beginning of the imbroglio with Chile.

1906—Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the president of the Confederate States of America, died in New York city; born 1826.

1907—The first national Philippine assembly opened at Manila.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 5:15, rises 6:10; moon rises 10:31 p. m.; moon's age 22 days; 10:35 p. m., eastern time, moon at last quarter in constellation Gemini.

WANTED — Men for the lumber woods. Men for railroad work in Montana, Dakota, Minnesota. Call at Germania Hotel, 301 N. Main St., Phone 242, M. Burns Employment Agency, Crookston, Minn.

LONG ON GLASSES— There are two pairs of glasses at the Great Northern ticket office which the owners can secure by proving property.

FUNERAL SATURDAY—The funeral of Mrs. O. Capistran who died yesterday, will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from St. Anne's church, Father Tapin officiating.

FINISHING TOUCHES — The finishing touches are being put on the Morris Block on Second street and it is certainly one of the finest in the entire northwest.

STEAM PLOW WORKING— Tom Bjoin has his steam plow working on section 18 south of the city. More plowing has been done in that direction this year than has been done for many years past.

BUSINESS TRIP—Jake Andrist returned this morning from Beltrami where he was called last evening to serve some papers as constable. He has a large amount of that class of business to do this fall — and he knows how to do it.

GIVEN TEN DAYS—Fern LaRue, the cripple who got off the train here the other evening when he had a ticket east, was arrested and arraigned before Judge Gossman in municipal court charged with vagrancy this morning. He was sentenced to ten days in jail but sentence was suspended to give him time to get out of the city—and he got.

ORCHESTRA ON GREENBUSH LINE—Conductor Keeley is evidently offering special inducements for travel up the Greenbush line. At any rate this morning he had a full orchestra aboard, full in both senses of the word, there were plenty of them and they were plenty full. In view of these advantages it was thought the fare might be raised but Clerk Kjervestad sold tickets at the same old price.

AFTER THE DUCKS—W. S. Lycan, Wm. Munch, Gus Schmidt and Martin O'Brien left this morning for the eastern part of the county where it is understood they have some ducks an dgeese spotted and if there is a cannonade heard from that direction this evening the populace will know where the trouble started.

The Crookston High School Football team will leave tomorrow morning for Red Lake Falls where tomorrow afternoon they will play their second game of the season. The locals will put up a much stiffer game than they did last Saturday, and there is little question but what they will win out, tho they realize that they have a harder proposition on their hands than they had before.

The team will be accompanied by quite a large delegation of friends who will endeavor to help root out a victory for them.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 5:13, rises 6:11; moon rises 11:26 p. m.

CARPENTER RETURNS—Geo. F. Carpenter returned today from his trip to Montana. He took a trip of 105 miles by team north of Culbertson where he visited his parents, and reported that he had a good time despite the experience.

LEFT FOR THE WEST — Fred Hall, the well known business man, started last evening on an extended business trip to the Pacific coast. He expects to be away from the city for about three months.

BUSINESS PICKING UP — Judging from the amount of switching that is going on in the yards of the Great Northern here the movement of wheat is on the increase. Not only is the wheat movement increasing but the movement of merchandise is heavier than it has been for some time past.

TOOK A DAY OFF — J. C. Sabin, who returned Thursday evening from a trip to Caribou a thriving town in northeastern Kittson county remained over in Crookston yesterday resting, the long drive with bad weather having been more than he bargained for. He left this morning for Argyle and points on the north line.

FROM WESTERN POLK.— E. F. Rarick and some members of his family from near Nielsville are attending the doings today. His part of the world has just stored a fine crop and in consequence every one is enjoying the prosperity. He is a firm believer of the market day and hopes to see it continued bigger and better next year.

FUNERAL SUNDAY—The remains of Wm. Thygeson arrived here this morning and the funeral services will be held from the Synod church at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. All friends of the family are invited to be present.

BACK FROM BELOW—John Sutton the well known resident of Argyle was an arrival in the city this morning and proceeded north.

RUNNING A STEAM PLOW—John Burton and R. Michaels are busy these days operating a steam plow on the old Mageau farm near the city. They are running it both by daylight and moonlight and the way the soil is being turned over is anything but slow. If the plowing is going on everywhere as fast as it is with them there will certainly be some land plowed in this section next spring.

SWEDISH OATS—One of the exhibits that are the center of interest at Polk County State Fair Exhibits are the Swedish oats raised by Louis Johnson on his farm west of the city. Mr. Johnson imported a small amount direct from Sweden, and they have proven a winner and will do much for the farmer. They are a fast grower the stock is as hard as wheat and will not break no matter how ripe, the same with shelling, Mr. Johnson has only a small amount but would not sell that at any price.

NEWS OF FATHER'S DEATH — Mrs. Ned Cannon received a telegram yesterday announcing the death of her father, Judge Samuel J. Stevenson, of Nebraska City, Neb. While Mrs. Cannon has known for some time that her esteemed father was in poor health, the news of his death came as a shock to her at this time. Judge Stevenson, who was a lawyer and judge of high standing, is well known, not alone in Otoe county but throughout the neighboring country, and leaves to his sorrowing family the memory of a sterling and untainted character. Judge Stevenson leaves, besides a widow, two daughters, the above named and Mrs. Campbell, of Havre, Mont. Mrs. Stevenson will come to Crookston later, where she will spend the winter with her daughter. The sympathy of the community is extended at this time to the bereaved daughter.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 17—Robert Gustafson of Finley secured a marriage license to marry Miss Kate Leiske. They were accompanied by an elder sister and the groom swore the bride was of legal age. After the marriage the father of the girl objected and instituted proceedings for perjury. The new son-in-law fled and is supposed to be in Canada, while the youthful bride mourns her new made husband's enforced absence.

MARKET DAY GREAT SUCCESS

AUCTION SALE WAS GRAND SUCCESS—FARMERS WELL PLEASED

BAND CONCERT EXCEEDED EXPECTATIONS AND LUNCH WAS HIGHLY COMPLIMENTED

From Saturday's Daily—

Crookston's Third Market Day was successful beyond all expectations despite the fact that the weather was most unfavorable. Early this morning the lowering clouds augured ill for the success of the day, but the drizzle did not seem to dampen the ardor of the farmers, for they seemed to realize that there were some bargains in store for them.

They all returned to their homes well satisfied. Every merchant in the city gave such bargains that the purchasers can return what they purchased at any time and receive their money back. This can be done not necessarily today, but at any time in the future.

The result of the competition cannot be announced today but will be given in the local papers on Monday next. Only two of the prize winners were known up to the time of going to press as follows:

Best Brood Mares

Geo. Safford, two bay mares which elicited the praise of all who saw them.

First On Corn

Henry O'Neill, who had an exhibit at the state fair also had a grand showing here today and was awarded the first prize which he certainly richly deserved.

The other prizes were all awarded too late to be reported today but will all be recorded Monday.

Don't Try Uncertain Receipes

It is entirely unnecessary to experiment with this, that and the other recipe. Why waste time, money and patience when you can get from your grocer, for 10 cents, a package of "OUR-PIE" Preparation — Lemon, Chocolate or Custard — for making pies that are so good that when you eat one piece you will want another? The way to please the men-folks is to give them good pie.

SUPT. FARRIS SPEAKS TOMORROW

IS WELL PLEASED WITH THE CONDITIONS IN THIS SECTION

State Supt. Farris, of the American Sunday School Union is with Rev. Hedegaard, the local representative at the Deemers home in the Town of Hammond today, and telephoned to the Journal that tomorrow he would be in Crookston and make several addresses. At 10:30 he will speak in the Congregational church, following the farewell address of Rev. Thos. E. Greene of the M. E. church. At 11:45 he will speak at the Scandinavian M. E. church and at 2:30 at the Carman Sunday school.

DITCH NO. 66 IS A FINE ONE

CONTRACTOR SULLIVAN HAS COMPLETED WATERWAY IN KEYSTONE AND EUCLID

Ex-alderman M. Sullivan returned to the city last evening from scenes of his summer's operation west of Euclid where his crews constructed ditch No. 66 in Euclid and Keystone townships the past summer. The job has been completed and accepted by the commissioners, and complemented by them as one of the best constructed ditches in the county. The taxpayers along the route being so well pleased with the thoro manner of Mr. Sullican's work that to show their appreciation they have chipped in and bought him a cow.

The crews are still up there and are workin gon one of the branches that Messrs. Brown and Lundgren had started.

Aged Couple Asphyxiated.

Grafton, N. D., Oct. 16.—Mr. and Mrs. John Coleman were found dead in bed, having been asphyxiated by coal gas. They were last seen on Monday. Both were seventy years old. J. J. Coleman, an attorney of Everett, Wash., is their only child.

POTATO CROP PAID WELL

THE YIELD WAS NOT HEAVY BUT THE PRICE MAKES UP FOR IT

THOSE WHO RAISED CROP ARS WELL SATISFIED WITH LIGHT YIELD

From Saturday's Daily—

The potato crop in this section this year was not as heavy as it has been for the past few years but even at that those who have devoted some time to the cultivation of spuds are well pleased and though the yield is not as heavy as it has been in the past, the price this fall is good and the returns are sufficient to make a good profit.

On top of this, land on which potatoes are raised is highly cultivated and the wheat crop for the succeeding year will more than recompense the farmer for the trouble and expense that he has gone to.

Competent authorities are of the opinion that potato ground is in as good or better shape than corn ground and leaves the land in strictly first-class shape for any kind of a grain crop that it is desired to grow. Weeds are killed and the ground cleaned up generally of all foul stuff.

The more potatoes that are grown in this section the better, and it is a good thing to encourage their growth in every manner possible.

A QUARTETTE OF BOX CAR ROBBERS

Friday morning a quartet of transients in East Grand Forks raided a Burlington refrigerator car in the Northern Pacific yards and succeeded in getting away to the woods with a case of eggs and also a half case of the hen fruit, some forty dozen in all. Henry Borchers, the N. P. night call boy, and Dunc McNicol, night ward man, noticed the quartet, however, in the act of getting away with their booty and promptly notified Officer Quigley, who tracked the thieves into the woods and located them in the outskirts of the city, where they had carried their plunder, a distance of fully half a mile from the looted car. The quartet were placed under arrest and escorted to the police station. Yesterday afternoon they were arraigned in the municipal court and their hearing set for today. The seals of several other cars were broken, but so far as could be learned the eggs constituted the only plunder secured. The names of the men given are Frank Murphy, George Goodmillie, Thos. O'Dell and Mike Miller. Murphy was recently convicted of larceny there.

Refuses to Wed

GIRL DECLINES TO MARRY MAN SHE CLAIMS HAS WRONGED HER

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 17—Arrested on complaint of Miss Rena Larson, Fred M. Hendrickson was brought to Fargo from his home in Ypsilanti, Stutsman county. Anticipating that a marriage ceremony would heal the trouble Hendrickson secured a license but on conferring with the girl he found she declined to become his wife.

The girl is the daughter of a neighboring farmer and she and Hendrickson were to have been married this fall. She suddenly left home and Hendrickson claimed he did not know her address until the papers were served on him. He claimed that he was ready and anxious at all times to repair any possible wrongs to the girl by becoming her husband. He was accompanied by the girl's brother, who joined him in putting up bonds to provide for the baby that is to be and the man was given his liberty.

Chicago, Oct. 17—The cross examination of W. D. Hurlbut, expert traffic witness called by the defense, brought out several clashes between the counsel for the government and the Standard Oil company today in the hearing of the railroad phase of the government suit to dissolve the Standard Oil company. At one point Judge Ferris was appealed to by Attorney Rosenthal to direct Frank B. Kellogg, the government counsel, to stand farther away from the witness and to "stop shaking his fist in the face of the witness."

Judge Ferris held that he had seen no improper conduct.

PROGRAM IS ABOUT COMPLETE

PROF. SAMUEL GREEN AND PROF. HAY WILL BOTH APPEAR ON THE PROGRAM

SECRETARY OF STATE ASSOCIATION WILL MAKE AN ADDRESS

From Saturday's Daily—

President J. F. Hetler of the Red River Valley Horticultural Association is very much pleased with the outlook of the coming annual meeting of the association at Stephens Hall. In addition to the numbers that have been announced, Prof. Samuel Greene the secretary of the state association has agreed to make an address on the educational advantages of horticulture and Prof. Hay of Thief River Falls will also deliver an address.

CORN EXHIBIT EYE OPENER

Henry O'Neill the successful farmer in all lines of advanced agriculture has on exhibit today with the state fair exhibits some fine corn in the ear, that he husked yesterday, it is being admired by every visitor and even some of the old timers can scarcely believe their eyes, that such corn can be raised in the valley. Every one should see it.

With the corn is a sample of alfalfa that has been cut from a field that has already been cut once, making it a second crop. Alfalfa is also a grass that most farmers in the valley are unfamiliar with, and a product that should receive some attention by them.

ANNUAL MEETING IS POSTPONED

The annual meeting of the Northwestern Minnesota Eudcational Ass'n which is usually held in the fall has this year been postponed till a later date which will be announced later on. The change is due to the removal of the president, Mr. Chamberlain formerly at the head of the Red Lake Falls schools. The date of the meeting wil be announced later.

Bulgaria Declines

REFUSES TO SECURE RECOGNITION OF INDPEENDENCE BY TURKISH GOVERNMENT

Sofia, Oct. 17—The members of the Bulgarian cabinet who yesterday accompanied Czar Ferdinand to his Pietritiba hunting lodge in the Rile mountains returned her late this afnoon and announced the result of their deliberations under the presidency of Ferdinand.

The cabinet has decided to reject the proposal emanating from London for the payment of an indemnity to Turkey as a condition of recognizing Bulgaria's independence. A vote to that effect will be sent by the Bulgarian administration to the powers. The only question the government is willing to negotiate is the purchase of the rights of the Oriental railroad company.

Minnesota's First Citizen

From Monday's Daily—

This evening the city of Crookston will be honored by the presence of Governor John A. Johnson, the state's first citizen, and the people's popular executive. The presence of the governor while being to a very great extent incident to the proper conduct of a great state political campaign, is still of more importance. It is affording an opportunity to all classes of citizens, no matter what their political affiliations are, to get into closer touch with the man who is the head of their government, the man whom they have honored with the highest honor in the gift of the people of a soverign state. Necessarily Governor Johnson's reception this evening must be to a certain extent tinged with politics, yet the fact will not be lost sight of that he is the governor of the people and not of any segment of the people.

In John A. Johnson the people of Minnesota have realized one of the highest conceptions of a public official Thruout his two terms of office, he has been more than the head or representative of a political party, in fact he has been in truth as well as in theory the servant of all the people It is only during the stress of the state campaign that he is thought of as a partisan; it is only then that he has been subjected to keen political and adverse criticism and for a time those who are opposed to him on political grounds, lose sight of the fact that he is their chief servant and has in every respect proven himself worthy of their confidence, esteem and respect. His presence in this city this evening we believe, will be considered considerably more than the appearance of a candidate for office.

The people of Crookston will be given an opportunity to see and hear an official who has made good in every sense of the word. He has been tried and not found wanting in any particular and no matter what has been the test to which he has been subjected he demonstrated that the people did not misjudge or overestimate his ability four years ago and then again two years ago. The people have followed his record, they are acquainted with his achievements since they honored him with their suffrages and there is very little need to recall them. There has never been a governor whose official acts were subjected to closer scrutiny and there has never been an executive who escaped with less adverse criticism from political opponnts than John A. Johnson, and this cannot help but count in the judgment of the voters of the state which will be rendered on the first Tuesday in next month. It will be found that the commendation of his political enemies during the interim between political campaigns will be one of the greatest factors in his success at th epolls in November.

Governor Johnson is entitled to the support of the democrats for the services he has rendered them; he is entitled to the consideration of every republican who is not bound hand and foot by party fealty, because of the service he has rendered the state, and he is entitled to the support of every citizen because under his wise and able administrations the common wealth has developed at a wonderful rate and every interest of the masses irrespective of class, clique or condition, has been carefully safeguarded and protected. The governor has set a new and higher standard for administration and it is absolutely impossible for his political opponents to advance one real reason why he should not be triumphantly re-elected at the termination of the present campaign.

The only issue which they hope for success upon, is loyalty to party and in this day and age, we hardly believe that that will prove effectual. The reception tendered John A. Johnson this evening will effectually answer that issue as far as the people of the city of Crookston are concerned.

The City's Distinguished Guest

Any attempt to adequately express an acceptable conception of John A. Johnson, must necessarily fall far below the standards that the mind has set up and history and the ages, alone will give a true picture of the man, whose presence in the city of Crookston last evening was honored by everyone without thought of political prejudices or party affiliations. Minnesota's first citizen ,the state's most honored and beloved son, once more demonstrated to the people of this section his claims for continued confidence.

Governor Johnson appeared before the people of Crookston last night not alone as the candidate for office, but as a public servant ready and willing to give an account of his stewardship and to render to the people a report of the work he had been set to do. No public servant ever faced an audience with more right to be confident of the verdict that would be recorded and the certainty of approval which the fair mindedness of the masses would give. He had absolutely nothing to conceal and was willing to go into detail in regard to every act of his administration and permit the full glare of publicity to be turned upon it. John A. Johnson has nothing to conceal and nothing to cover up; his official and private acts are an open book. He has rendered service to the people and in every obligation imposed upon him, he has always been found adequately prepared to meet it.

During the heat of the present political campaign things have been said charges made, that will not bear analysis and as might be expected the governor when he appeared before that magnificent audience which had assembled at the Auditorium last evening devoted considerable time to showing the absolute absurdity of these baseless charges and unjust criticisms. The governor by his keen analysis turned every charge against the person of his opponent and proved his contention, not by evidence from his own party advocates, not by his own unsupported word, but by the testimony of his opponent's own party workers and party organs. No democrat has ever attempted to arraign the opposition candidate with such asperity, such keen criticism, as republican papers and republican party men have. Those who heard Governor Johnson last evening will forever give peace to the statement that has been given circulation that the republican party at the present time is working as a unit. This cannot be possible if one iota of respect for personal opinion and personal responsibility remains in the organization.

The address of the governor last evening was not simply a rhetorical effort made with the single purpose of pleasing his audience. To be sure the governor did touch at times the heights of true oratory and during different portions of his speech had the immense audience completely under sway, but for the most part he contented himself with telling in plain and simple language the facts as they appeared on the record, leaving it to the judgment and fairness of his hearers to return a verdict. He traced his record during the two terms of office and in a modest yet effectual way demonstrated that the two democratic administrations of which he was the head, were the best that this state has ever enjoyed. The people's every right had been safeguarded and protected and every citizen, no matter what his condition or influence, had been regarded in the governmental actions of the executive's office. He was able to stand before that large audience and challenge contradiction and one could not help but feel that it must have been a proud moment in the life of the governor, when he could stand before that great gathering and feel in his innermost being that he had served them well and faithfully.

The people of this state have a right to feel proud of its chief citizen. He has been one of the greatest assets the commonwealth has ever produced and his great fame thruout the length and breadth of the land means much for the people of this great state. The governor has grown beyond the borders of Minnesota and while the people of the state will have the honor this campaign in re-electing him as their chief executive four years from this time the people of the nation will be as enthusiastic in proclaiming him the first citizen of the entire country. Governor Johnson is not simply a politician, he is not simply a party man; he is a patriot, a statesman, and has demonstrated that he is indeed worthy of the highest honors that the people not only of Minnesota, but the people of the entire nation can shower upon him.

A Foreign Boss to the Rescue

The republican state committee must certainly be in sore straits when it is found necessary to take into the inner circles and the holy of holies of the party the discarded boss of the party in North Dakota namely, one Alec McKenzie. The information from reliable sources in St. Paul comes to the effect that this same Alec McKenzie is the constant adviser of Chairman Brown and the man that the republicans of North Dakota could not stomach is received with open arms by the ristracted leaders of Minnesoto republicanism, who have been driven into the last ditch and are putting up their fight for existence against the matchless campaign Governor Johnson is waging thruout the entire state.

It is really a high commentary on the resourcefulness of the state republican committee that it has found it necessary to import a man to put up the jobs by which it is hoped to win a victory at the polls next month. We all must admit that McKenzie is a past master at the great game of political chicanery and manipulation; that he knows the cards well and can play a bluff with the best of them. We hardly believe however that his adroitness and cleverness will count for much at the present time as the people of the state have practically made up their mind as to how they are going to cast their votes at the coming election.

With such men as McKenzie planning and plotting it will be necessary however for the voters to be careful of cannards and they must be prepared to have sprung upon them in the final days of the contest all sorts of stories when it will be impossible to answer them. The people of the state have had four years almost of an administration of state affairs that cannot in a single particular be criticised; they have been served by an executive whose official and private character is without blemish; they have been permitted to become intimately acquainted with what he stands for in private and official life and they should answer all these stories by recalling these facts which a four years acquaintance has made prominent.

All Governor Johnson asks is that he be judged in the present campaign by the record he has made and the principles for which he has consistently stood. On this foundation he is most willing to accept the verdict of the voters of the state of Minnesota with confidence.

The governor and his advisors have not believed it necessary to call to their aid outside assistance and have relied entirely upon the record the administration has made since being placed in power. They have not sought the assistance of discarded bosses and men who have been driven from the councils of their own party in other states. They have not appealed to national committees, but have relied upon the great accomplishments and the public acts of the man who has been a great asset in the higher and more pronounced development of the commonwealth.

The people of the state are acquainted fully with the governor and his administration and this fact is sufficient to re-elect John A. Johnson by an overwhelming majority and when one takes into consideration the efforts being made by the opposition the practices they are resorting to at the present time, and the campoign of misrepresentation and falsehood, it becomes evident that the republicans themselves are preparing to accept the inevitable, but with the last gasp will try to inflict injury.

The republican party may have its steel trust champions, it may be backed by the corporate interests of the state, it is welcome to whatever aid it can secure from repudiated bosses, but the democratic party of the state of Minnesota will place its confidence in the honesty and integrity, the ability and inherent worth, the man and the official, combined in the personality of John A. Johnson the state's leading citizen and most devoted servant. His private life and his official acts speak for themselves and as the people on two different occasions have believd him worthy of honor, we have every reason to believe that they will again vote him an endorsement which will be positive and complete.

STATE PRESS

Warroad Plaindealer (Rep.): Jacobson was the most useful man that ever sat in the legislature and he will make the same kind of a governor. This the people of Minnesota know and will soon show they know on election day.—Warren Sheaf.

Has the Sheaf forgotten when the city of Warren and Marshall and Kittson counties used to keep delegations of citizens, besides their regular representative and senator, in St. Paul, during every session of the legislature to work for state drainage in the Red river Valley and how this same Jacobson, with his wildcat screech and hyena yell intimidated all the southern legislators and held back drainage for twelve years? Either the Sheaf has forgotten these things, or else it hears the crack of the party whip about its ears, and gets into the collar obediently to help drag the interests' latest consignment of political corruptness up to the state capitol.

Winona Independent: If Jacobson could visit every voting precinct in the state Johnson's election would be practically unanimous.

St. Cloud Times: There is much inquiry as to when Jacobson will speak in St. Cloud—if at all. The opinion is strong that the Republican committee dare not exhibit their candidate in the larger cities. Why? St. Cloud voters are anxious to see and hear the man who seeks to be their governor. It he dare not stand before them—he is unworthy of their votes! It is up to Jacobson!

Albert Lea Standard: While spouting for reform and railroad regulation two years ago, Jacobson's pockets were stocked with free railroad passes and everybody now knows it. Ie proves that Jacobson is a demagogue, that he cannot be trusted and thus he has forfeited the support of every upright American voter.

Fairmont Sentinel: The fight for Jacobson in Martin county has reached the point where it is considered futile by his warmest supporters and now the effort will be concentrated in behalf of McCleary.

Consolidated Rural Schools

BY PROF. R. D. BARTLETTE

To give the child, whose time for attending school is very limited, the best opportunity possible to secure an education, it behooves us as teachers to look about for a better method of doing the same.

In the crowded class room with every grade from the first to the eighth, the average country boy is confronted with undesirable surroundings.

He hears the methodical routine of the primary classes, which interferes with his study and he loses interest in his work.

On the other hand, the teacher, who must in some way devote his allotted six hours to twenty eight recitations daily, can hardly give to the boy or girl of the advanced grade the proper amount of time and attention, consequently they remain in school, but a ter mor two and finally give up to the fallacy that after all, it's more profitable and by far more inetresting to stay at home and work.

Can you blame the boy?

But suppose instead of yielding to this desire he makes up his mind to go to the city to school. All very well for those who go with plenty of determination to improve every hour by close application to studies, but how many boys have come into the city, with perhaps plenty of enthusiasm and sooner or later have fallen victim of some of the evils existing in our cities of today. How much better for this boy if he had remained in the country.

The boy or girl on the farm is worthy of as good instruction as the banker's son or daughter in the city. To consolidate the rural districts, bringing together enough valuation to erect a township High School and furnish same with competent teachers would not only alleviate present conditions, but would prove a blessing to the cause of education. Shall Polk county wait for other counties to start this great movement?

Where a woman is smart is to follow a man's judgment to flatter him when she knows it is wrong.

There is nothing more uncomfortable than being truthful in practice as well as in principle.

BANQUET WAS A GRAND SUCCESS

DINING ROOM OF THE HOTEL CROOKSTON WAS PACKED TO ITS CAPACITY—SCENE WAS ONE THAT INSPIRED ALL THOSE PRESENT REGARDLESS OF ANY POLITICAL AFFILIATIONS — GOVERNOR GIVEN A SPLENDID WELCOME

From Tuesday's Daily—

The banquet which was given last evening at the Hotel Crookston by the Young Men's Johnson Club marks a decidedly new era in the history of politics in northern Minnesota, and it should be a matter of pride to every member of the club that it was the young men of Crookston who took the initiative in the matter.

At 10:30 o'clock the dining room doors of the Crookston Hotel were thrown open to the strains of Burkhardt's orchestra Governor Johnson escorted by the Young Men's Johnson Club marched in, the distinguished guests taking the seat of honor at the head of the immense hall, with John N. Kirsch, president of the club on his left, and C. W. Final, the toast master on his right.

The preparations had been made for 175 plates and every seat was occupied when the serving of the elaborate menu started. The great majority of the banqueters were young men, members of the club, while here and there, scattered in different sections of the room, could be seen some of the leading democrats of the city and the county. The banquet however was distinctly a young man's spread.

A Splendid Spread

The banquet last evening was one of the most elaborate ever served in the city and too much praise cannot be accorded the management of the hotel for the manner in which it was served. Not a hitch occurred thruout the many courses and the entire affair was ono which will always reflect credit upon Mr. Lycan and his corps of assistants.

Some Great Music

The Elks' Quartet, more commonly known as the "curb stone quartet" was called upon frequently between courses to enliven the proceedings and its efforts were greatly enjoyed by every one present, and the governor himself showed his appreciation most keenly, subsequently in his toast referring to the pleasure experienced in listening to the "Barber-shop" ditties. The boys were in good voice and their efforts was a decided feature of the occasion.

Required Rest

Owing to the lateness of the hour Governor Johnson had to retire before the banquet was entirely over, but before going he was introduced to the audience by Toastmaster Final.

In introducing Governor Johnson, Toastmaster Final made but a few short remarks but they were right to the point. He said:

"We come together this evening not as partisans supporting national principles. We are here as independent men seeking the best possible results in the government of our great commonwealth. We know that in the selection of a governor no national principle is involved. We know that for the past four years Minnesota has been governed so wisely and so well that party lines have been practically obliterated and for that reason we wish by this demonstration to publicly approve what has been done by the man who has honored Minnesota as governor, and to wish him God-speed in his present effort, which we believe will mean two years more. Gentlemen I have the pleasure of presenting to you the man who has honored Minnesota more than any other man that has occupied a public office in this state in all its history—the Hon John A. Johnson."

Complimented Young Men

The governor complimented the young men upon their independence and took it as a great compliment to himself. He congratulated them upon the interest they were taking in state government and believed that it would have its effect upon the quality of that government. Repeately he expressed his deep appreciation of the reception tendered him and then retired.

Fine List of Addresses

As soon as the menu had been completed Toastmaster Final introduced the speakers of the evening, starting with several of the democratic war horses. They all spoke of the propriety of independence in voting and congratulated the members of the club for the manner in which they had placed patriotism ahead of party. Every toast however lauded the governor and not a few called attention to the future, when without doubt instead of helping to elect a governor they would help to elect a president from Minnesota. The short talks aroused great enthusiasm and thruout the entire evening the hotel resounded with the applause that constantly greeted any reference to the distinguished visitor in whose honor the banquet had been given.

The banquet was brought to a close by a talk from President Kirsch who outlined the work of the club, its ambitions and what it hoped to accomplish in the present campaign.

"Making Good"

may be slang but it is a vigorous phrase of tonic qualities and holds a world of solid meaning, hard work, honorable success, accomplishment.

There are many young men, 60 years and under, hardworkers, who have failed to justify the hopes and ambitions of their families and friends; failed to reap the harvest due them; failed to "Make Good", simply because they did not realize the many actual advantages offered them by a check account; the protection afforded their money; the chance to save the extra dollar or two; to build up their credit; the certainty of having to pay bills but once; and other advantages appreciated by the man who has a bank account.

FIRE IN RESTAURANT — Sunday evening shortly after 8 o'clock fire broke out on the second floor of Rose's restaurant block on Robert street and before it was extinguished a loss of about $800 on building and as much more on contents was sustained. The loss is covered entirely by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown but it is believed to have started on the second floor in the rear of the block. The fire department arrived on the scene in short order and by the copious use of water drowned the blaze out.

The restaurant suffered the greatest damage, but it was largely from water. This is the second time it has been drowned out within a short time, suffering considerable loss when the adjoining building burned. Recently it also had several changes of management and it is understood that a party was to arrive tomorrow to take charge of it.

Mrs. Peter Cram left on the Northern Pacific train this afternoon for Valley City, N. MAKE THIS AT HOME

MIX IT YOURSELF BY SHAKING INGREDIENTS IN BOTTLE—SIMPLE REMEDY

HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE IN VICINITY HERE WILL WELCOME THIS ADVICE

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, which is said to be a positive remedy for backache or kidney or bladder derangement, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well known druggist here at home, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic afflictions with splendid results he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who suer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

SHERACK

Mr. Will Vanek drove to Tabor last week on important business.

Mr. August Behelke arrived here one day last week from Goodhue, Minn., where he has been spending the summer. Mr. Behelke has many friends here who are always glad to see him.

Messrs. John and Louis Giese drove to Grand Forks last Saturday.

Quite a number of young folks from this vicinity attended the dance at Zaks last Saturday. All present report a pleasant time.

Henry Tiedeman and J. W. Baars attended the dance and raffle which was given at the H. Willis farm east from here. They were not fortunate enough to win any game altho they report a very pleasant time, and we know this is true for they enjoyed a six mile walk the next morning and the boys say "no more raffles for us."

Miss Minnie Tiedemann has been very sick for nearly three weeks is now improving.

Mr. B. Tiedemann and Mr. Hendricks drove to Grand Forks last Saturday.

Mr. Paul Byington is here again from Lemmon, S. Dak.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Parker and family left last week for their home at Carmel, Minn.

The Misses Tilly and Bessie Brantl Emma and Lucy Giese, Rose and Mary Kotek enjoyed a very pleasant visit with Miss Alma Horn last Sunday. The afternoon was spent in music and singing and a general merry-making was enjoyed by all.

Messrs. James Driscoll and Ben Clements were out here one day last week looking over the new steel bridge west of Sherack.

Mr. Simon Aeschlimann called on Mr. G. H. Horn last Tuesday.

The children of school district No. 30 are patiently waiting for school to commence when they will again hear the sweet strains of "Happy School Days" peal forth from one of the most costly and beautiful instruments that ever adorned a school room. We all know there is nothing like inspiring love for music in the hearts of school children.

Mr. G. Palen of Euclid was in the vicinity last week installing a part of the new system in our phones to prevent the rubber-necks from doing further harm and making them far superior to any other phone in construction. The only butt-ins that we have been troubled with are several that come hurrying down here from a nearby line to transact some of their most important business here. The Euclid subscribers can truthfully say "it's something we don't have to do".

Mrs. C. E. Brodwell was on the sick list several days last week.

Frank Kobetsky and Ed Pulkraby are plowing for John Vavrina with their steam plow.

Mr. C. E. Perm of Roanoke, Ill., was in this vicinity last week looking for a suitable piece of land.

This afternoon Paul Paulson who was working near the circular saw owned by Mr. Ball, the wood dealer, not looking where he was going walked directly into the circular saw.

At the same instant Mike Palen saw his peril and snatched him away just in time to save his life.

The saw cut an ugly gash just over the heart and in the abdomen and thigh which required half a dozen stitches to close. Dr. Randolph hurried the lad to St. Vincents hospital where he is doing well.

Had it not been for the prompt action of Mr. Palen the unfortunate lad would have been cut completely in two. He is 18 years of age.

ENTHUSIASM WAS SIMPLY IMMENSE

GOV. JOHNSON GREETED BY AN IMMENSE CROWD AT THIEF RIVER FALLS

WAS CHEERED TO THE ECHO BY DEMOCRATS AND REPUBLICANS ALIKE

RECEIVED GREAT OVATION AT EVERY STATION THAT WAS PASSED DURING DAY

From Wednesday's Daily—

Gov. Johnson received one continual ovation yesterday after leaving this city in the morning on the Greenbush train At every station there were enthusiastic crowds to greet him and he was highly gratified over the enthusiasm that was shown.

According to reports received Gov. Johnson will carry Red Lake county by several hundreds of votes more than he did either two or four years ago, and as a result of his visit to the Ninth district he will certainly get thousands of votes which he did not secure in his previous campaigns.

PRIZES WERE AWARDED

THE LIST OF EXHIBITS FAR EXCEEDED ALL EXPECTATIONS

SPLENDID LINE O FVEGETABLES AND DAIRY PRODUCTS WERE BROUGHT IN

The Market Day committee feels highly gratified over the large number of exhibits which were brought to the city. Grains, vegetables and dairy products were brought in in large numbers and after careful consideration the following awards were made:

Henry O'Neill 1st on corn, $1.
Geo. Hoffard 1st on Brood Mares $5
Geo. Hoffard 2nd on potatoes 50c.
John Spafford, Parnell 1st on rutabagoes, $1.

E. H. Reitmeier 3rd on potatoes 25c
J. M. Stephens 1st on cabbages 75c

At an early hour this morning Mrs. Geo. F. Carpenter was aroused by the squaking of hens in their back yard, She aroused Mr. Carpenter and being very sleepy it took him several minutes to realize what the trouble was.

Then he grabbed a rifle and darted out the back door. Just for luck he fired a shot toward the hencoop and the bullett went clear thru the building breaking the blass in the window in the rear. The cackling stopped, but the chicken thief kept on going. There were 8 birds missing and many more were running loose in the yard this morning, whereas they had all been locked up last evening.

Mr. Carpenter will pay a reward for a man with a stray bullet in his carcass.

Business Session.

Song, "America."

Freight business on the Dakota division of the Great Northern has been falling off to a great extent during the past few days. Eight crews have been laid off.

The cause of the falling off is not explained very clearly. It is asserted that fully 50 per cent of the wheat crop is unshipped. One theory is that farmers are so busy completing fall plowing that they will not take time to market their grain. It is thought that there will be heavy shipments of lumber from the Pacific coast when the freight rates are adjusted satisfactorily.

State of Minnesota, Executive Department—Proclamation.

Whereas, pursuant to Chapter seven (7), Revised Laws of Minnesota, 1905, a petition was filed with the Secretary of State on the 7th day of December A. D. 1906, praying for the creation of a new county out of territory now lying in Polk county, Minnesota, the same to be known as Nelson county, and described as follows to-wit:

Beginning at the south-east corner of township numbered one hundred and forty-seven, north of range thirty-nine west of the 5th principal meridian in Minnesota; thence running west along the south boundary line of townships one hundred and forty-seven of ranges thirty-nine, forty, forty-one, forty-two and forty-three, the same being the boundary line between Polk and Norman counties, to the southwest corner of township one hundred and forty-seven, range forty three; thence running north along the range line between ranges forty-three and forty-four to the northwest corner of township one hundred and forty-eight, range forty-three; thence west along the north boundary line of township one hundred and forty-eight to the southwest corner of township one hundred and forty-nine, range forty-three; thence north along the range line between ranges forty-three and forty-four to the northwest corner of township one hundred and forty-nine range forty-three; thence east along the north boundary line of said township last named and townships one hundred and forty-nine, ranges forty-two and forty-one to the northeast corner of said township last named; thence north along the west boundary line and east along the north boundary line of township one hundred and fifty, range forty, to the northeast corner of said township last named; thence north along the west boundary line, and east along the north boundary line of township one hundred and fifty-one, range thirty-nine, to the northeast corner of the said township last named; thence south along the range line between ranges thirty-eight and thirty-nine to the southeast corner of township one hundred and forty-nine, range thirty-nine; thence east along the north boundary line of township one hundred and forty-eight, range thirty-nine to the northeast corner of same; thence south along the range line between ranges thirty-eight and thirty-nine to the place of beginning, all of said territory being within the county of Polk and including and embracing the whole of townships numbered one hundred and forty-seven, one hundred and forty-eight and one hundred and forty-nine, ranges thirty-nine, forty, forty-one, forty-two and forty-three, townships one hundred and fifty, ranges thirty-nine and forty and township one hundred and fifty-one, range thirty-nine; and that the village of Fosston be the county seat thereof; and that Fred S. Syverson of Hill River, T. Hanson of Queen, Dreng Grundysen, of Sletten, Jens O. Rindal of Garden and Oscar Melsness of Badger, all legal voters and residents within said proposed new county, be and constitute the first board of County Commissioners of said proposed county, and the same to be known as Nelson county; and in which said petition it is represented and avered that the said hereinbefore described territory comprises more than four hundred square miles and contains more than two thousand inhabitants, and that the remaining area of Polk county, after deducting the territory hereinbefore described will comprise more than four hundred square miles and contain more than two thousand inhabitants.

And, whereas, the said petition has been duly considered and found and certified to as conforming in all respects to the provisions of law;

Now, therefore, I, John A. Johnson, governor of the State of Minnesota, pursuant to the authority vested in me by law, do hereby direct and proclaim that the question of the creation of the proposed new county of Nelson be submitted to the voters of said Polk county at the next general election to be held in this state on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1908.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Minnesota to be hereunto affixed this 19th day of August 1908.

(Seal) —John A. Johnson,
Governor.

Attest:
Julius A. Schmahl,
Secretary of State.

United States of America, State of Minnesota, Department of State.

I, Julius A. Schmahl, Secretary of State of the State of Minnesota do hereby certify that I have compared the annexed copy with the original instrument in my office of Proclamation by the Governor of the State of Minnesota, in the matter of county division of Polk County and that said copy is a true and correct transcript of said original Proclamation and of the whole thereof.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Great Seal of the State, at the Capitol, in Saint Paul, this twenty-fourth day of September, A. D. nineteen hundred and eight.

(Seal) Julius A. Schmahl,
Secretary of State.

Frank Brown of Crookston was in town Tuesday looking after his farm.

Herman Osterloh held a raffle on Tuesday night that was a grand success. He raffled geese and turkeys.

P. P. Brush spent Monday night in Crookston.

The Brush farm was sold this week for $40 per acre to a party from Ill.

Ben Sewell lost a horse Saturday night by being struck by the train.

Mr. Moen, of eastern Polk, is here this week in the interest of county division.

The new school house is finished at last. School will begin in it on Monday.

A. T. Stroble was in Warren on Wednesday with a load of hogs.

Mrs. H. D. Strickler and children returned Wednesday after a couple of weeks' visit with J. A. Stroble.

Joe Belveer, a former station agent of this place was in town on Wednesday. Mr. Belveer is living in Wisconsin now.

REDUCED RATES TO ALL VOTERS

Reduced rates will be given by all the railroads in the country for people who wish to go home and vote. A letter received from the national headquarters at Chicago stated that they had received word from all the passenger associations that a rate of one and one-half the regular single fare plus 25 cents would be given for the round trip to bona fide voters and dependent members of thier families. Tickets at these rates will be on sale from Oct. 1 to Nov. 3, good for return between Nov. 3 and 15. People wishing to take advantage of these rates must have a certificate that they are voting residents of the place they want to buy tickets to. They must secure such certificates from the campaign committees or registration boards at the place they have their homes. If they are employed by the government away from home they can get a certificate from the department they are employed in showing that they are employed away from home, and where they have their home.

Voters who are absent on the registration days may register by affidavit, giving certain facts required by law. They make affidavit before a notary and sent it to the local committee or direct to the registration board and their names are entered on the poll lists. Blanks for this purpose may be secured by writing to the city clerk or the county committee or if this cannot be done the voters may make out affidavits and send them to the county of their party.

A Little Garden.
By Emma A. Lente.

I planted me a garden,
For, oh! the spring was fair!
And roses, pinks, and heart's-ease,
And balm were there.
The garden beds were fragrant
And very good to see,
And every flower that bloomed there
Was dear to me.
The dawns made haste to view them,
The sun looked down and smiled,
The birds sang gay, and honey
The bees beguiled.
I loved my bonny garden,
And watched it day by day,
And sweetly did its beauty
My care to repay.
But one chill night a tempest
Swept down in fearful power—
The garden was a desert,
Without a flower.
Again the sun shines brightly,
The air is soft and calm—
But, oh! the ruined roses,
Heart's-ease and balm!

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN FUNDS

New York, Oct. 16.—The Democratic national committee, through Treasurer Herman Ridder, gave out an extended statement of the contributions to the Democratic national campaign fund up to and including Oct. 9, showing sums of and over $100. The statement also shows receipts and disbursements as follows:

From contributors of $100 and over	$ 90,712.33
From contributors under $100	115,355.22
From Denver convention fund	42,500
Total	$248,567.55
Amount disbursed	225,962.88
Balance on hand	$ 22,604.67

The statement, which is signed by National Chairman Mack and Treasurer Ridder, says that 343 subscribers gave $100 or more and that the smaller sums were from 25 cents up. It adds:

Fifty Thousand Contributors.

"The number of contributors to the national committee fund is estimated at about fifty thousand people and about $100,000 of the whole amount contributed came from the Democratic newspapers throughout the United States.

"It will be noticed from the foregoing statement that the cash balance is about $22,000. Supplies contracted for and undelivered, circulation of literature, the expense of headquarters in Chicago, New York and Denver and the traveling and other expense incident to our speaking campaign, now under way, will make necessary an additional $100,000 to carry our campaign to a successful issue. We are confident that the people, whom we are thus taking into our confidence, will supply us with this additional sum and we earnestly urge a prompt and generous response to this appeal."

The largest individual contribution reported by Mr. Ridder was one of $5,000 from Charles J. Hughes of Colorado. W. J. Bryan was the second largest individual contributor, he having turned in to the national treasurer $4,046 from the profits of his newspaper, the Commoner. Some of the contributors whose names appeared in the list given out last week have increased their donations, as, for instance, ex-Senator W. A. Clark of Montana and Norman E. Mack, whose names are down now for $2,000 each.

SUPPLY

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 16.—The pulp and paper investigating committee examined the new Watauh paper mill near St. Cloud and took testimony of Superintendent Oberly, who stated that before building their plant three years ago they satisfied themselves that the pulpwood supply in Minnesota was ample for future demands, but admitted that the reproduction of spruce was practically nothing under present forestry methods in the West.

Chairman Mann collected a number of samples from the spruce wood going into the mill and will have them carefully examined to learn the ages of the trees. Some of the wood, four and five inches in diameter, appears to be over 100 years old, judging from the rings.

The committee left to go to International Falls to study the spruce forests of that section.

ECONOMY AND RAILROAD PASSES

It is possibly true that Mr. Jacobson never misses an opportunity to economize. It has even been intimated that the reason he accepted railroad passes, while stumping the state for Cole two years ago, was to lengthen out the Republican campaign fund. If this was his reason, of course it was a laudable one, from the standpoint of the Republican treasury, but it was reprehensible in him to deny it when the Democrats caught him with the goods. There is a command not to permit the left hand to become too familiar with the good works of the right, but this is not to be construed as pushing concealment to the point of mendacity.

Governor Johnson's administration has added $150,000,000 to the assessed value of iron properties for taxation, as against only $3,000,000 to the assessment of farm lands. The last Republican administration added $120,000,000 to farm land assessment and only $30,000,000 to iron mines. Mr Jacobson's position is made plain when he arraigns Governor Johnson's administration for "increasing taxes" and omits to tell the farmers whose taxes Governor Johnson raised.

Mr. Jacobson's committee is welcome to all the consolation it is getting from the state press. The number of partisan papers which are silent on the gubernatorial question is larger this year than ever before.

A girl always has a good time at a party if she has on a new dress.

COMPLETED MORSE JURY

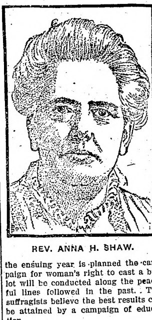
New York, Oct. 16.—The federal jury which is to try Charles W. Morse, the banker and promoter who came to grief in the panic of last year, and Alfred H. Curtis, former president of the National Bank of North America, has been completed. Immediately after the jury had been sworn Morse and Curtis pleaded not guilty to the indictments against them, which charge them with violation of the national banking laws and conspiracy, and District Attorney Stimson began his address to the jury outlining the government's case.

Outlining the charges against Mr. Morse Attorney Stimson said that Morse was a member of a pool manipulating the stock of the American Ice company and that when they reached the end of their resources they went to the National Bank of North America, of which Morse was vice president, and secured $1,200,000 of the bank's money to continue their speculation. To conceal this alleged unlawful transaction, Mr. Stimson said, fictitious loans were entered on the bank's books.

It has developed that all the witnesses for the government who are to testify at the Morse-Curtis trial are being kept under surveillance by a corps of secret service men.

SUFFRAGISTS CONVENTION

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Conservatism, but unswerving loyalty to the cause of suffrage, are the sentiments of the delegates assembled here for the fortieth annual convention of the National American Woman's Suffrage association.



REV. ANNA H. SHAW.

While extensive work with state legislatures and at Washington during the ensuing year is planned the campaign for woman's right to cast a ballot will be conducted along the peaceful lines followed in the past. The suffragists believe the best results can be attained by a campaign of education.

Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the national association, presided at the opening session of the convention.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Dr. Angel Ugarte, the minister from Honduras, called at the state department and announced to Secretary Root that he had been relieved from his post here and would go to Mexico.

Considerable interest attaches to the retirement of Dr. Ugarte. One rumor was that he had been relieved because of a misunderstanding between himself and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon. Dr. Ugarte, however, denied this, saying that he and the assistant secretary of state are the best of friends.

There is a row on in Republican headquarters in St. Paul, friction arising over the question as to who shall have the credit for the overwhelming defeat that is coming to Candidate Jacobson in November. Why not adopt Schley's advice, "there is glory enough for all," brothers?

REACHED AN AGREEMENT

London, Oct. 16.—Great Britain, Russia and France have reached an agreement on a programme to be submitted to the other powers as a basis for discussion by the proposed European conference to settle the Balkan situation. The proposals to be laid before the powers are eight in number.

The first is to the effect that articles 1 to 22 of the treaty of Berlin, which relate to Bulgaria and Eastern Roumelia, shall be replaced by stipulations recognizing the independence of Bulgaria as at present constituted and determining the financial obligations of Bulgaria toward Turkey. New clauses probably will settle also the question of the Oriental railway.

The second and third proposals are that the powers shall take note of the annexation by Austria-Hungary of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the return of the sanjak of Novipazar to Turkey.

The fourth article relates to Crete. It replaces article 23 of the treaty of Berlin by clauses recognizing the annexation of Crete to Greece and determining the financial obligations of Greece, in respect to Crete, toward Turkey. It is understood that the four powers under whose protection Crete has been, Russia, Great Britain, France and Italy, will settle the Cretan question in concert with Turkey before referring it to the conference. It is proposed also that the second part of article 23 of the Berlin treaty, which provides special regulations for the government of other parts of European Turkey, shall cease to have force when the powers are assured that a satisfactory settlement is effected.

Same Arrangement for Armenia.

The fifth proposal is to the effect that arrangements similar to the above shall apply to the Armenian provinces of Turkey.

The sixth article deals with Montenegro. The Montenegrin rights of sovereignty are limited by article 29 of the treaty of Berlin. It is proposed that articles 26 to 33 inclusive of the Berlin treaty shall be condensed to a single article abrogating all the restrictions imposed by the treaty under the original article 29, which it is proposed to sweep away.

The seventh point in the programme is the statement that it is desirable to seek and give compensation to Servia and Montenegro by a rectification of the Bosnian and Herzegovinian frontiers adjoining Novipazar. This is taken to imply that a strip will be taken from the territory annexed by Austria-Hungary.

The eighth proposal concerns the river Danube and declares it is desirable to revise the regulations governing Danube traffic so as to give larger rights to the states bordering on the river.

The eight articles of the programme are followed by a declaration that as the new Ottoman constitution foreshadows a reorganization in conformity with the principles of other European states the powers are prepared to consider in concert with Turkey, so soon as these reforms are realized, the best means of doing away with capitulations. It is declared also that this occasion could be taken to consider the abolition of the postoffices now maintained by foreign powers in Turkey.

JAPAN READY

Tokio, Oct. 16.—All Japan is astir in anticipation of the arrival of the American battleship fleet. Yokohama and Tokio in particular are given over to enthusiastic preparation. The decorations in these cities are so extensive and general as to be remarkable, not only in Japan but in any country of the world that awaited a naval call by the fleet of another power. All the Japanese newspapers of prominence are printing editions in English, with lengthy editorials assuring the American officers and sailors of a hearty welcome by the nation.

Every available vessel in the harbor of Yokohama has been chartered to convey excursionists to meet the warships on their approach. The American ambassador and his staff will meet the fleet aboard a special steamer and the members of the American commission to the Japanese exposition will have another. A third vessel has been chartered by the delegation of Pacific coast business men which arrived here several days ago.

New York, Oct. 16.—Months of search for a gang of counterfeiters, which is alleged to have been flooding the country with spurious 10 and 25-cent pieces, was rewarded by the discovery of the counterfeiting plant in a tenement on the East Side in this city. The coins, nearly a thousand of which were found in the place, were pronounced almost perfect enough to deceive experts. There was no one in the room in which the outfit was installed when the detectives raided it. The clue to the raid was furnished by the arrest of two men in Newark, N. J.

SENATOR SAGENG WELL PLEASED

ADDRESSED BIG GATHERING AT McINTOSH LAST EVENING

Senator Ole Sageng addressed a large and enthusiastic gathering at McIntosh last evening, and his audience evinced an enthusiasm that was really a surprise to the speaker. He arrived in Crookston this morning and took the train for St. Hilaire where he spoke this morning and later he addressed a crowd at Greenbush.

Tomorrow Senator Sageng will speak at Fisher where he will be greeted by a large audience, as he goes there by special invitation. Mr. Sageng is surprised at the cordiality with which he has been greeted in this section.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF KEEN SUFFERING

Rheumatism Developed Burning, Painful Sores on Legs—Tortured Day and Night—Tried All Kinds of Remedies to No Avail—Wife Had Debility and Pains in Back.

BOTH USED CUTICURA AND ARE WELL AGAIN

"My husband had been a great sufferer with rheumatism for nearly fifteen years. At first it was in his bones, but after a while it was in the flesh and finally running sores broke out on his legs, from below the knees to the ankles. There are no words to tell all the discomfort and great suffering he had to endure night and day. He used every kind of remedy and three physicians treated him, one after the other, without any good results whatever. So one day I happened to read about Cuticura Remedies. I asked him if he would not try them. 'No,' said he, 'it's no use, I've spent enough money now.' The next day I ordered five dollars' worth of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent. He began to use them without confidence but after three weeks all the sores were dried up. The burning fire stopped, and the pains became bearable. After three months he was quite well. Two years later the pains and sores came back after he had been working hard and had taken cold. But as soon as he used Cuticura again it cured him. Two years ago I used Cuticura Pills for general debility. They did me a great deal of good and made me well. Three months since I had pains in my back and Cuticura took them away, too. I can prove this testimonial at any time. Mrs. V. V. Albert, Upper Frenchville, Me., July 21, 1907."

A Single Treatment

Consisting of a warm bath with Cuticura Soap, a gentle application of Cuticura Ointment, and a mild dose of Cuticura Resolvent or Pills, is often sufficient to afford instant relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure of torturing, disfiguring eczemas, rashes, itchings, irritations, and inflammations of the skin and scalp, from infancy to age, when all else fails.

A VERY MUCH DISGUSTED PARTY RETURNS FROM RED LAKE RICE BEDS

NEITHER DUCKS NOR GEESE WERE FLYING — TROUBLE WITH BOAT

From Friday's Daily—

C. C. Hoch, E. D. Harris and Adolph Rauch have returned from a hunting trip up the river from Thief River Falls. They left last Saturday and were joined at High Landing by E. J. Keating and F. B. Harris who came down from their claims at Graceton to do a stunt in the hunting line.

The party was absent 4 days and in that time had less sport and more grief than was ever recorded in a similar length of time. About every 4th chug the gasoline engine broke down. First this made Adolph Rauch mad, but later he sang German songs every time the engine stopped to keep up the spirits of the balance of the crew.

One of the features of the trip was the debate between Messrs. Keating and Harris. The gesticulations are said to have been of a weird character an dbeat the old spell-binders all er and beat the old spell-binders all

From Thursday's Daily—

A telephone message from Dugdale this afternoon is to the effect that in the direction of Tilden and Benoit a great prairie fire is raging, many haystacks having been consumed by the flames, tho as yet no buildings have been burned. Details are lacking as neither of the latter places can be reached by telephone.

SCOTT LOOKING OVER LINE

LEFT ON SPECIAL CAR THIS MORNING TO VIEW RAIL LAYING ON G. N.

WANTS WORK HURRIED AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE FROM GREENBUSH

From Thursday's Daily—

General Manager Scott of the G. N. arrived in the city this morning and left on the Greenbush train for Roseau where today he is looking after the progress made in the rail laying on the new line from Greenbush to Warroad via Roseau.

The company desires to have the trains running over the new line at the earliest possible date. Rails will be laid into Roseau before the last of this present week, and before the first of the year the entire line will have been completed.

L. W. HILL TO INSPECT LINE AND ENJOY A BIG HUNT

L. W. Hill arrived from St. Paul this morning in his private car and continued to North Dakota. It is understood that he will proceed to Edinburgh, N. D. and inspect the new extension from that place to Concrete a branch to the Portland cement mines and from there will proceed to Landa, N. D., where he will enjoy a few days duck hunt.

DUCKS WERE NOT FLYING

This morning Dr. Wilson Randolph Bert Ruettell, A. G. Andersen and Arthur Fournet returned from a duck hunt near Shevlin where they have been for the past few days. On account of the warm weather the ducks were not flying and they returned with only 35 mallards. The duck preserves there were alright but the weather clerk acted horribly and formal complaint will be lodged with Congressman Steenerson to have that official removed. As A. G. Andersen is the local official weather observer there is some question as to what action can be taken in the premises.

Did It Ever Occur to You?

"I paid that bill once."

"You must be mistaken."

"Indeed, I am not mistaken."

"Have you a receipt?"

"It seems to me I have, but I don't remember what I did with it."

"We have no record of payment, and unless you can produce our acknowledgement in the way of a receipt, we must insist that you pay the account."

But it might have been a different story had the bill been paid with a bank check. No chance for argument or dispute when the cancelled check is produced. Better pay your bills but once—with a check on this bank.

NO ACTION TAKEN ON CO. DIV.

MEETING AT CITY HALL LAST NIGHT WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

QUESTION WAS DISCUSSED PRO AND CON BUT NO DECISION ARRIVED AT

From Thursday's Daily—

Last evening a meeting was held at the city hall to discuss the county division proposition. Capt. M. R. Brown presided and his endeavor was to secure as general an expression of opinion as was possible from those present. A large number of those present were called upon and all responded and gave their opinions, and of course there was a great divergence, some taking the stand that county division was the best thing for all concerned and others being of the opinion that it was not.

The discussion was free and full, and was devoid of any personal references and after all the speakers had had their say the sentiment was so divided that it was decided that the meeting should adjourn without action of any kind. Some of the speakers were very ardent in their advocacy of division, and others were just as earnest on the opposite side of the question, and the final result was that the meeting was adjourned without taking any action whatever.

It appears to be the general sentiment to let the matter rest with the voters independently, and that was the sentiment last evening. Many prominent residents spoke, some favoring one side of the proposition and some the other, but generally it was thought not best to take any decisive action, and that sentiment prevailed. Another meeting may be held, but it is not probable.

SUPERINTENDENT OF STATE HERE

John O. Farrie state superintendent of the American Sunday School Union arrived in the city this morning and will spend a week or ten days here with Rev. Hedegaard, who has had charge of the work of the Union in this section this year.

He will visit the various schools that have been organized in this city and vicinity, and will endeavor to get the substantial backing that is necessary to maintain the work, and there is no question but what he will get it.

BOOKS WILL BE AUDITED

The board of control of the Commercial league have closed their books for the season and those who contributed to the fund which was needed to put the grand stand and the ball park fence into shape for the coming season will want to know where the money went to. For this reason the board of control asked President T. R. Brown that an auditing committee be named and he has selected the following committee to go over the books after which a report will be published: N. S. Davies of the Press team, Mark Oseth of the Co I team, and Harry L. Falk who was conected with no team. This committee will meet some time this week, go over the books and a report will be published immediately after the books have been audited.

Pioneer Press, March 28, 1907: Governor Johnson is popular at home and abroad.

Governor Johnson has given to the people of Minnesota two terms as governor, of which he, as well as they, may be proud. He has met every call upon him, has risen to every emergency. At home and abroad he has reflected credit upon his state. We believe that the people recognize this fact and that they will attest it at the polls in November.

FRIENDLY TO THE QUEEN CITY

CHAS. KIEWEL RETURNS FROM AN EXTENDED TRIP TO THE NORTH

SAYS WARROAD IS A THRIVING CITY WITH A GREAT FUTURE

From Thursday's Daily—

Chas. Kiewel returned last evening via Winnipeg from a business trip to Warroad where he reports business very good. Mr. Kiewel states that the people in that direction feel very friendly toward Crookston, and will keenly appreciate the completion of the Great Northern extension from Greenbush to Warroad which has already been finished as far as Roseau.

Mr. Kiewel says that Warroad is growing rapidly and that on account of the certainty that a railroad is coming in a boom is already on, which will grow to still larger proportions in the very near future. He says Warroad is as fine a summer resort as can be found in the state, with great scenery and splendid fishing in sight.

Mr. Kiewel is of the opinion, together with every other business man that Crookston cannot exist and grow as a retail city, and can only forge ahead as a manufacturing center and jobbing city, and as such will heartily welcome all new connections such as the Greenbush extension means.

DEATH OF AN AGED RESIDENT

T. FISK, FATHER OF J. A. FISK PASSES AWAY AT THE AGE OF 74 YEARS

Mr. T. Fisk the aged father of J. A. Fisk died of a complication of ailments due to old age at the family residence of his son, Conductor Fisk East Grand Forks at 3:35 p. m. yesterday. He had been failing for some time but had been able to be up and about until within the past few days. Deceased was born at Zanesville, O. June 21, 1832 ,and was therefore 76 years of age. He had been a resident of East Grand Forks for the past nine years.

GOULD'S PANIC

New York, Oct. 16.—That Howard Gould's income was formerly $600.000 a year, but since the business depression of last year it has been reduced to $400,000, and that he has lost $300,000 this year was stated by his counsel in an argument before Justice Bischoff. These figures were given in opposing an application by Mrs. Katherine Clemmons Gould, who is suing Mr. Gould for divorce, for an increase in her alimony from $25,000 a year to $120,000. To support her application Mrs. Gould asserted that her husband's income was $600,000 a year. Delancy Nicoll, counsel for Mr. Gould, replied that while this was once true Mr. Gould says it is not so now. Mr. Nicoll also asserted that Mrs. Gould's career for many years has been one of unbridled extravagance and that last year she received from her husband $224,000.

Counsel for Mr. Gould declared that in 1906 Mr. Gould told his wife he would separate from her unless she abandoned her habits, but that Mrs. Gould declined to do so.

Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for Mrs. Gould, said that Mr. Gould had tried "to starve his wife out" of Castle Gould and had filled the house with spies who watched her every moment, compelling her to move to a hotel.

Mr. Nicoll retorted that in seven years from 1899 to 1906 Mr. Gould gave his wife $766,500 and that Mrs. Gould had saved $200,000 of it.

Decision on the increase of alimony was reserved.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Mrs. William F. Tucker, through her counsel, withdrew from court the charge of wife abandonment recently filed against her husband, Colonel William F. Tucker, U. S. A. Attorney Pearson, as the legal representative of Mrs. Tucker, stated that the case was withdrawn in the belief that Colonel Tucker is now on what will prove to be his death bed.

DIED WHILE ON WAY HOME

WM. THYGESON PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY IN MONTANA WHILE ENROUTE EAST

HAD BEEN WEST FOR HIS HEALTH BUT EXPECTED RELIEF DID NOT COME

REMAINS WILL ARRIVE HERE TOMORROW ON THE N. P. ACCOMPANIED BY WIFE

From Friday's Daily—

C. C. Thygeson this morning received a telegram to the effect that his brother, Wm. Thygeson had died on the train near Arlee Montana yesterday while enroute home to this city. The remains were taken off at Missoula and prepared for burial and shipped east, and will arrive here on the Northern Pacific Saturday.

The funeral arrangements have not been made and nothing can be stated till several brothers have been heard from who live in the east.

Deceased was 28 years of age and leaves one son in addition to his wife. He went a west a year ago to improve his health but found no relief, his trouble being tuberculosis of the lungs.

RINGDAHL HERE ON BUSINESS

MEMBER OF STATE BOARD OF CONTROL SPENDS DAY IN CITY

Hon. P. M. Ringdahl, member of the state board of control arrived in the city last evening and is spending the day in the city looking after his property interests here and left this afternoon on the Northern Pacific for St. Paul. He had some repairs to make on his residence here and looked after other interests.

Mr. Ringdahl refused to talk politics at all but there was a twinkle in his eye which indicated that he knew a few things had he desired to speak.

EASTERN TROUBLE

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 16.—Serious complications affecting the peace of China and Japan threaten as the result of an engagement between Chinese and Japanese troops at Kantab, Northern Korea, in which several were killed or wounded. The refusal of the Chinese war office to permit the pursuit of a detachment of soldiers, who are said to have been the aggressors, may result in the crossing of the frontier by Japanese troops.

Chinese soldiery are reported to have opened hostilities by firing upon a police station occupied by the Japanese troops, who were sent into Kantao as a guard for the Koreans resident there. The fighting that ensued lasted several hours and while the exact number of casualties is not obtainable there were a number killed or wounded. The commander of the Japanese garrison immediately called upon China for permission to cross the frontier into Chinese territory and pursue the assailants, who appear to have been worsted in the engagement. The request was refused by the war office.

The Japanese foreign office has made representations to the government at Peking and the situation is beginning to assume a serious aspect. It is intimated that unless China takes prompt action satisfactory to the Japanese government the latter may take the initiative and cross the frontier in order to afford protection to the Koreans.

RECORDS AND RECORDS.

Mr. Jacobson proclaims that he expects to make his campaign for the governorship on his public record, and we suppose he has some idea of being elected. It is evident that he gives the public credit for a different brand of discrimination than that possessed by the convention which nominated him. It will be remembered that Attorney General E. T. Young was a candidate before that convention—on his record—and it was a good record—one not needing posthumous statements to bring it down to date, and he was overwhelmingly defeated because of that record, and Mr. Jacobson, with his musty, worm-eaten record of a bygone day, was chosen instead. Honest, now, isn't he expecting a good deal of the people, all the circumstances being taken into consideration?

The man who fails to make good always claims he didn't have a fair chance.

AFFLICTIONS COME VERY THICK

FELIX BEAUCHENE LEAVES THE FIELD TO FIND MANY CALAMITIES

CHILD FOUND DEAD IN A TUB OF SOAP SUDS AND HIS WIFE ILL

WENT TO HOUSE BECAUSE HIS HORSE THAT WAS DRIVING WAS ILL

From Friday's Daily—

The old saying is that troubles never come singly and Felix Beauchene a well known farmer who resides northeast of Huot is certainly of this opinion now. Yesterday he was plowing when one of the horses he was driving took suddenly ill with the colic. He hurried to the house to secure some medicine and when he reached the house found his wife critically ill and a little child, one year of age was found dead, having drowned in a tub of water.

A physician was hurriedly sent for but the little child was dead and nothing could be done for it.

GREAT HURRAH AT ANGUS

FINE NEW SCHOOL COMPLETED AND BELL HUNG TUESDAY MORNING

Angus has now one of the finest school buildings in the county. Contractor Will Walker returned last evening after the finishing touches had been put on. The new bell was hung Tuesday and practically the entire population of the town was out and as the bell was put in place Messrs J. F. Montgomery and W. Lemen led the shouting brigade and the hurrahs could be heard as far as Euclid, Drs. Dryden and Chapin both being aroused from their beds prepared for an emergency call.

DEATH OF MRS. O. CAPISTRAN

This morning at 12:30 Mrs. O. Capistran breathed her last at the farm home northwest of the city, aged 70 years. She had been ill since the first of the year and death was due to old age and complicatons connected therewith. She leaves a husband seven sons and two daughters, all of whom live in this vicinity with the exception of one son who is in Canada, the daughters being Mrs. Demerais and Mrs. Brouillard. The funeral will be held Saturday from St. Annes church. Deceased had been a resident of this section for the past 25 years.

DUG 3,800 BU. FINE POTATOES

G. Spokely father of J. G. Spokely of this city, has completed the harvest of his potato crop this fall, and had a total crop of 3800 bushels which he sold for 55 cents per bushel. He saved 1100 bushels for seed, and next year will sow 150 acres, as the crop is not only a profitable one, but the cultivation of the land makes a great crop the year following year certain.

APPLICATION WITHDRAWN

Alphonse Lalonde formerly on the police force of this city, who had an application filed for the position of janitor of the city hall, today withdrew the application as he has decided to take a trip west soon, where he will probably locate permanently.

JOHNSON RALLY GREAT SUCCESS

John A. Johnson
THE NEXT GOVERNOR OF MINNESOTA

From Tuesday's Daily—

Gov. John A. Johnson appeared in Crookston last evening as scheduled and had the Auditorium been twice as large, it would not have been large enough to have taken care of the people who were anxious to hear him.

His address, punctuated with oratory in places which created the wild est enthusiasm, was mostly a business like talk regarding conditions existing in the state at the present time, what had been done during his two terms as governor, what J. F. Jacobson had done in the past, what he promised in the future, and what the people of Minnesota might expect of him in view of the fact that he was nominated by the United States Steel Corporation without any question, with the other corporate interests of not only the state but the entire country doing all they could for him.

A Splendid Effort

State Committeeman Martin O'-Brien presided at the meeting and seated on the platform were the candidates for county office and for state representative together with the members of the county central committee. It is impossible to give the address of Governor Johnson in full but we will give the following extracts in order that the readers of the Journal may get some idea of the stand the governor is taking and on what grounds he is asking their support on the 3rd day of next November:

Four years ago I was nominated by the Democratic party for the office of governor of Minnesota, and that choice was ratified by the people of the state. After an adminstration of two years I was again nominated for this exalted position, and in the succeeding election this nomination was ratified by the greatest non-partisan victory in the history of American politics. Again I have been nominated and for the third time appear as a candidate for the office of governor.

Came Onsought

I think no one will dispute me when I say that this nomination came to me unsought. I can go further and say that it came despite my emphatic protest. I felt that the people of Minnesota had greatly honored me and I had no desire to appeal to them for another term. However, the convention unanimously nominated me and adjourned without giving me an opportunity to decline the nomination, leaving me with no alternative other than to accept the result and abide by the verdict of the convention.

An Important Campaign

We are now in the midst of one of the most momentous political campaigns in the history of our country, made so by reason of new political alignments, by reason of differences in the various political organizations and because of the peculiar situation with regard to platforms and candidates. The Democracy of the nation and state come to you in this campaign with platforms and candidates which need no apology. As a matter of fact, we come to you with a national platform and candidates which, in our judgment, challenge comparisons.

Political Parties Necessary

It will not be my purpose on this occasion to discuss national questions, other than to say that in my judgment political organizations are necessary vehicles to good government in the nation. I believe that every citizen ought to identify himself with one or the other of the political organizations of the country; not because others have done so; not because this or that organization may be more popular or more safely entrenched in power than the other; but because political organizations give to him the opportunity to express his ideals of government as he can express them in no other way.

Later during this address I shall give a summary of the account of my stewardship as governor of the State of Minnesota. Before I proceed to the details of that stewardship I wish to pay my respects somewhat briefly to the opening address of my opponent in this campaign, Mr. J. F. Jacobson, delivered in the city of Duluth, on Thursday, August 6th, last.

Mr. Jacobson for many years was a member of the legislature from Lac qui Parle county. For many years he was regarded by the people of Minnesota as an able and fearless champion of the rights of the common people. Subsequent to his career as a legislator he became a candidate for the office of state auditor. It was his contention, and the contention of his friends after his defeat for the nomination, that he was defeated for nomination at the Republican state convention by the interests who had been affected by his legislative actions. Two years ago he was a candidate for the nomination within the Republican party for the office of governor. It was his contention thruout that entire campaign that he was defeated again by the predatory wealth of the state and by the liquor, lumber, iron and railroad interests of Minnesota.

Why the Change?

Again he became a candidate for this exalted position. Great changes seem to have taken place in Minnesota during the past two years. Where two years ago Mr. Jacobson's candidacy was opposed by these interests, as he himself declared in his advocacy of the election of his successful opponent, whose nomination he charged was brought about by the very interests which had defeated him, it is now generally charged and almost universally conceded that the very interests which defeated him for nomination to the offices of state auditor and governor brought about and secured his nomination in the recent Republican state convention.

Color is lent to this charge by the fact that thruout the entire season, and up to the time of the preparation of this address, Mr. Jacobson has never raised his voice in favor of the interests of the people in any of the great issues which now engross the attention of the public. In his speech at Duluth he was painfully silent upon the question of railroad regulation; painfully silent upon the question of timber trespass; painfully silent upon the question of taxation, of great interest in this state.

The Steel Trust

As a matter of fact, at that particular meeting in the city of Duluth, Mr. Jacobson was surrounded by the representatives of the great steel corporation, who joined in predicting his election as governor. In the presence of that peculiar hospitality he never raised his voice in the matter of taxation of the great iron properties of the state of Minnesota. As a matter of fact, his only reference to that great section and to those great interests was when he said:

"There has been a suspicion that I have been unfriendly to Duluth. It has been stated that I have said that Duluth has been receiving to much and that I would not give it anything. This is a great city and the entire state is proud of it; the western part of the state is proud of Duluth and glories in its increases and prosperity and wants to see it succeed and become a second Chicago."

Was He Converted?

How different are these utterances from the resonant, reverbrating tones which proceeded from Mr. Jacobson as member of the House of Representatives! Why this wonderful change in this man, who now desires to be governor of the great state of Minnesota, and asks the people, the voters generally of Minnesota, to take him into their confidence and honor him with their suffrages in this campaign?

In my judgment the key to the situation is in the fact that Mr. E. T. Young, Attorney General of this state was one of the leading candidates for that nomination. During his three and a half years of official service in that office there has been the most complete co-operation between himeslf and myself as governor of this state. We were in perfect harmony in the prosecution and collection of damages for timber trespasses in Minnesota; we had insisted upon the collection of back taxes from railroads; we had insisted on a better system of taxation of the iron mines.

Opposed to Young

It was only natural that the great predatory interests of Minnesota should recognize the service of Mr. Young, as attorney general, in behalf of the people, and that he should have earned their enmity. It is also natural that they should have turned to any many with whom they might make terms of peace, even tho obliged to surrender some things which they held dear. And it is because of this, possibly, that Mr. Young himself has declared that the great interests of Minnesota were fighting, not only for his defeat, but for the nomiation of his leading competitor.

Bob Dunn Dictator

And yet, Mr. Jacobson, the candidate selected by Mr. Robert C. Dunn, was finally unanimously nominated by that convention. He must be the man who answers the description given by Mr. Young in his most terrific arraignment and indictment. I leave it to the people of the state of Minnesota who have twice voted for Mr. Young as attorney general, and who certainly are satisfied with the record he has maintained in his office, whether he, for any personal reason would have made a statement of this kind if he did not believe and did not know it to be true.

Assisted by Legislature

But, as a matter of history and fact notwithstanding my election as a Democrat and the election of a legislature Republican in both branches, I doubt if any governor in the fifty years of this state's organization has received on the whole a more substantial co-operation on the part of the legislature, or had a larger number of his recommendations enacted into law, than I have had during the past four years at the hands of the members of the sessions of 1905 and 1907. Moreover, so far as the achievement of practical results is concerned no legislature in the history of Minnesota has enacted into law as many vital reforms, or placed upon the statute-book as many important measures of constructive statesmanship, as the legislatures of 1905 and 1907 during the administration of a democratic governor. If my worthy opponent, furthermore, knows of any legislature of which he has been a member, that that has been more free from the influence of lobbyists, more divorced from the control of special interests, more devoted to the protection of the highest public welfare, or has done more for state institutions and the state's general development, than the two legislatures with whom I have shared a divided responsibility during the past four years, I challenge him to name it.

Accepts Challenge

But, inasmuch as Mr. Jacobson is looking for Democratic shoulders upon which to lay his charges, and claims that all of the alleged bad results have arisen in the state 'since it fell under Democratic government," I cheerfully accept the challenge and am here to meet the issue. Not only do I deny the charge of general and undue extravagance on the several branches of the state government during the past four years, but I am prepared to justify the claim that in no other four-year period of its history has the state government of Minnesota made a finer record from the standpoint of the public income and investment, of the public revenue and expenditure, of the protection and management of public property, of the handling and security of the public funds, of the development and administration of public instititutions, of public control and supervision over private corporations, from the standpoint of the public peace, health, morals and enforcement of laws, or from that of conserving and developing the state's resources and advancing its general welfare.

People Will Uphold It

Before leaving this subject I wish to call attention to a few of the extraordinary items of appropriation by this alleged extravagant legislature:

Thirty thousand dollars for the purpose of paying claims against the state for diseased animals, killed under direction of the Live Stock Sanitary Board.

Fourteen thousand dollars for the Board of Regents of the University, to provide for care and treatment of crippled and deformed children.

Thirty thousand dollars for the drainage of swampy and marshy lands of the state.

Twenty-five thousand dollars for the erection of a monument raised in honor of the Union soldiers who gave their lives during the siege of Vicksburg.

Fourteen thousand dollars additional to the state and county agricultural societies.

Fifty thousand dollars for additional payments for new state high schools, which had not received the sum of fifteen hundred dollars in previous years.

Twenty thousand dollars for additional legislative expenses.

Three hundred and fifty thousand dollars for the main building of the state university which had been destroyed by fire.

Fifty thousand dollars for Board of Control for the purchase of additional lands needed by state institutions.

A Building for Farmers

Fifteen thousand dollars for school building at the agricultural station at Crookston.

Seventy-five thousand dollars for a new building for the accommodation of ex-soldiers, sailors and marines, with their wives and widows and mothers, as provided by law.

Fifty thousand dollars, for a live stock amphitheatre at the State Agricultural Society for the benefit of the agricultural industry of this state.

Is there a man in Minnesota who disapproves of one of these appropriations by this legislature? Is there a man in this audience who would criticise the members of the legislature for making any one of these extraordinary appropriations I leave the matter with you.

Principles Fulfilled

In 1904 and 1906 you saw fit to elect a legislature that was Republican in both bodies to serve in conjunction with a Democratic executive. In my inaugural address to that legisature I referred to the fact that as your legislative and executive servants we were chosen by the same people to serve the same cause, and that our labors were, therefore, dedicated to one and the same purpose, to carry out your will for the moral, educational, civic and material advancement of this commonwealth.

What Was Done

On that platform, the following measures recommended by me in whole or in part, and introduced and supported by legislative members regardless of party lines, were adopted and approved and made part of the law of this state as embodied in the general statutes of 1907:

Constitutional Tax Amendment

The re-submission of the constitutional tax amendment extending the powers of the legislature so as to enable the state to adopt the most modern and up-to-date measures of taxation especially to reach these classes of corporate and other property which now escape in large measure their just share of taxes—an amendment which you have the opportunity to endorse with your ballots in this election.

The Tax Commission

The creation of a permanent tax commission to make a thoro and scientific investigation of tax and assessment laws and conditions in this state, to make a thoro and just revaluation of properties now only in part or unequally assessed for taxation, to co-operate with local assessors, equalization boards and taxation ocers, with a view to securing equality, justice and efficiency of assessment and taxation as between the different counties, towns, industries, and property classes, the compilation of all our existing tax laws with recommendations for future taxation reforms, and the general supervision and enforcement of our laws for assessment and taxation.

The submission to you of a constitutional amendment establishing the road and bridge fund and authorizing the legislature to levy an annual tax for constructing and improving roads and bridges in this state.

Taxation of mortgages by a just and effective method known as the mortgage registry law.

Railway Taxation

Taxation of sleeping car companies which had hitherto almost entirely escaped taxation, by a four per cent tax on their gross earnings.

A similar law for the just and effective taxation of freight line companies.

A law forbidding railroad and other transportation passes, and telephone, telegraph and express company franks or other specitl privileges and reductions in price not accorded to the general public and providing for the enforcement of this law by proper penalties of fine and imprisonment.

Two Cent Rate

A maximum passenger rate of two cents per mile upon all railways in this state, making a saving of millions of dollars annually to ih epeople.

The classification and reduction of freight rates on staple commodities, such as grain, lumber, livestock, coal and like products which constitute the great bulk of railroad tonnage; the act adopting such reduction of freight rates being now in contest between the state and the railroad companies in the state and federal courts.

Reciprocal Demurrage

A reciprocal demurrage law requiring railroads to furnish cars without discrimination and providing for penalties to be paid by the carrier to the shipper for delays in delivering and forwarding cars.

A law making the orders of the State railroad and warehouse commission in regard to rates legally effective prima facie subject to appeal.

Who Pays Taxes?

To put the comparison in somewhat different form, assessed land values in the iron range counties were raised during three years of Democratic administration $144,000,000 compared with $42,000,000 during three years of Republican administration—a difference of over $100,000,000 in favor of Democratic administration in making iron ore and steel interests pay their share of public taxes; and again, taxable land values in the eighty-three agricultural counties were raised by Democratic administration, a difference of $115,000,000 against Republican action for increasing the taxes on agricultural property which already bore more than its proportionate share of the tax burden.

The Difference

On the $190,000,000 valuation that iron ore and steel interests pay into the state treasury $661,200 of taxes this year, as comared with $114,600 under the valuation of four years ago Here is a net increase of over one half million dollars of state revenue brought in to the treasury within four short years from this one source. Thus is the greater part of that ten cents per capita extra, charged to "Democratic government" and "divided responsibility" wiped out in one fell swoop.

Repudiate La Follette

It is my judgment that there never has been in the history of American politics so wide a division in the matter of political declarations as that which exists between those of the Chicago and Denver conventions. I am quite satisfied in my own mind that the study of these platforms will mean converts to the cause of Democracy generally. The great difference between the two was most decidedly emphasized by the attempt of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin in furtherance of his presidential candidacy, to give the American people a platform proposed by Mr. Cooper in that convention which declared for the rights of the people of the great North west and Middle West, yes, the people of the nation, as arrayed against the predatory interests of the country. The humiliating spectacle of the almost unanimous refusal to accept and grant any of the propositions offered by Mr. La Follette illustrates the wide difference between the Chicago platform and the interests of the people of America.

Bryan

In contra-distinction to that platform adopted, we ask you to consider the platform adopted by the Democratic party at Denver—a platform which has not been challenged successfully by any of the great newspaper organs of the opposition; and, proud as we are of our platform, we come to you with just as much pride in our national leader—Hon. William J. Bryan. You must admit the purity of his life, the earnestness of his purpose and the dominant fact that he has stood for what he believes to be for the good of the masses generally

Every Promise Fulfilled

But it is not my purpose to discuss national questions upon this occasion I am before you as a candidate for a state office, as I have been in two preceding campaigns I made certain pledges to the people of the State of Minnesota. I promised that if elected I should establish, if possible, the majesty of the law in this state. It gives me a great deal of pleasure on this occasion to be able to say that today, in every department of the state government, the only rule of conduct is the rule of the law laid down by the representatives of the people in their legislative assemblies. We promised you a better system of business methods than had been in vogue in this state in the past. We come to you now, proud of the fact that there has been much improvement in our business conditions in the state. In brief we have fulfilled every promise we made, and we have kept faith with the people.

Notes of the Rally

H. L. Hanson, the democratic candidate for county treasurer was one of the enthusiastic listeners at the great gathering at the Auditorium last evening.

Mayor Dunlevy of East Grand Forks came over last evening and attended the rally last evening. He went home this morning and declared the meeting the best he had ever attended.

Officer Hugh Quigley of East Grand Forks was among the outsiders here for the Democratic rally and the banquet last evening. He says that Gov Johnson is without doubt the greatest speaker in the state. He thinks he made a great number of votes by his address last evening, and every one else is of the same opinion.

The Young Men's Johnson Club of Crookston had intended to occupy reserved seats at the Auditorium last evening, but when they saw the demand for seats they very generously gave way and left the seats to others who, in many instances, had never had an opportunity to hear Governor Johnson.

W. W. Brown, candidate for the legislature on the Democratic ticket accompanied Gov. Johnson on his trip thru eastern Polk county yesterday and attended the meeting last evening. At the conclusion of the meeting he was the most enthusiastic man present, barring a few old line republicans who were so enthusiastic that they could hardly keep their seats. We might mention a few names but perhaps we had better not. They will vote right however.

TESTED AND PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend upon a Well-earned Reputation

For months Crookston readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

A. A. Olds, painter of 239 Ash street Crookston, Minn., says: "The statement I made in 1898 recommending Doan's Kidney Pills was true in every particular and I am pleased to confirm it not. As I stated at that times I had doctored and used medicines without number for kidney trouble, but found little benefit. I was suffering continually from backache and other symptoms of disordered kidneys, but Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Wallace's Pharmacy relieved me where everything else failed. They practically eradicated my trouble, and in spite of the fact that my occupation causes more or less strain in the back I have had very little kidney trouble since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents fo rthe United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Even when the unexpected happens there is always some fellow around to say: "I told you so."

A Feminine Mistake

The greatest mistake a woman makes is that she is not jolly enough. She makes too serious a business of life. Men stop in the midst of the gravest perplexities to have a hearty laugh. For some reason women cannot do this and they fade early. The best thing to preserve youth and beauty is the daily use of a good malt tonic, such as golden grain belt beer. Taken at mealtime it will aid digestion, stimulate the nerves and make rich, red blood. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

Many Floral Tributes Sent to the White House—President Spent the Afternoon on Horseback—No Guests at the Family Dinner—Only One Delegation Received

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28—President Roosevelt observed his fiftieth anniversary today very simply. He attended to the executive duty as usual and except for the receptio nof a delegation from the Hungarian Republican club of New York in the east room of the White House, and the receipt of a large number of congratulatory messages some floral tributes and gifts from members of his family the day was the same to him as any other day.

Late in the afternoon the president donned his khaiki riding uniform and rough rider hat and went for a horse back ride, remaining out until six p. m. There was a jolly family dinner at the White House this evening in honor of the president's anniversary A number of guests were present.

Among those who sent congratulatory messages were: King Edward, Governor Hughes, Archbishop Ireland Whitelaw Reid, Karl Bueuzand and others.

With Tom Shevlin and Frank Kellogg boosting him, and Jim Hill financing the G. O. P., how could you expect "Jake" to discuss timber trespass, taxation of iron mines, or reduction of railroad rates?

STATUE OF HARRISON

HANDSOME BRONZE MONUMENT WAS UNVEILED BY VICE PRESIDENT

HONOR IS PAID TO THE MEMORY OF FORMER PRESIDENT OF THE U. S. A.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 28—The tribute of his home was paid to General Benjamin Harrison today. The memory of Indiana's distinguished son, soldier, statesman and president of the United States, was honored in a way to be remembered by the thousands of citizens who gathered, despite the cold, to witness the unveiling of the striking bronze likeness of therr former fellow townsman.

Vice President Fairbanks who is president of the General Harrison Memorial association, in a few remarks, presented the monument to the people.

Washington, Oct. 27.—The supreme court of the United States has fixed Jan. 4 as the date for hearing the argument in the commodities clause case and gave directions for the consolidation into one of all the twelve cases for the purposes of argument. The cases involved the constitutionality of the clause of the Hepburn rate law prohibiting railroad companies from carrying commodities of their own production and all the roads affected by this action are owners of anthracite coal mines in Pennsylvania, the products of which they would be prohibited from transporting if the law should be held to be constitutional.

ALL CO-OPERATE TO ADVERTISE MINN.

Minnesota Federation of Commercial Clubs Receives Encouragement From All

Directions In Effort To Secure Annual Appropriation Of $100,000 To Advertise State.

St. Paul, Oct. 28—From all parts of Minnesota co-operation and substantial encouragement is being shown the Minnesota Federation of Commercial Clubs of Which D. M. Neill of Red Wing is president, in the campaign just announced for the increase of the states advertising appropriation to $100,000 each year and an active and energetic movement to interest the world in Minnesota's vacant farm lands, undeveloped resources and wonderful tourist and summer attractions. Immediately after election the campaign will be pressed and the Federation will make a strong show of facts before the next legislature in support of its contention that until Minnesota does what the Canadian land firms and the Canadian government have done to attractt settlers it will continue to be a state of magnificent resources, but with but 34 per cent of its farm land settled.

Offers have been received from several members of the legislature of their services in introducing the proper legislation to increase the state's advertising work. This year the state, 84,000 square miles in extent, is spending $12,500 for this work out of which must be paid salaries and office expenses, with these meagre funds the state has come into touch with 60,000 people in other parts of the United States and foreign countries who are interested in Minnesota.

But much of the enormous value of this work is to be utterly lost before spring because of the fact that if the state is to secure these people as settlers it will be necessary to actively correspond with them, writing them letters and sending them literature, until they have made up their minds to come. To do this is an impossibility. There is not money enough in the state advertising fund to pay the $1,200 in two cent postage required to mail each man a personal letter urging him to come to Minnesota and enjoy life in a rich and prosperous country. For the lack of two- cent stamps Minnesota loses the opportunity of securing hundreds and possibly several thousands of settlers who are already interested but need more information and argument to convince them.

This situation is considered by the Federation to be most serious, and one which requires immediate action if Minnesota is to rank with Texas, Canada, or even North Dakota, in the minds of eastern farmers seeking new homes. The officers of the Federation practically all of whom reside in rural communities, believe that if the state will spend the proper amount of money in a businesslike campaign under conservative and economical supervision, Minnesota can be made to rank with Texas, Canada and other regions now receiving the benefit of a tremendous immigration.

The Canadian government appropriates $1,000,000 a year to promote western Canadian lands and the land firms expend an additional $500,000. These facts in the minds of the officers of the Federation, explain why thousands of Minnesota farmers have removed from the state to Canada. and why thousands upon thousands of others have travelled the length of Minnesota season after season, passing Minnesota land by and settling on land not better and often not as good 1,000 miles further from American commercial centers.

JACOBSON'S ATTITUDE TO THE OLD SOLDIERS

He Persists In Standing On His Record So A Few Things He Did Are Published. Certainly Loved The Old Veterans.

Candidate Jacobson persists in standing on his record. His position in opposition to all measures calculated to show the state's appreciation of the services rendered to the country by the members of the G. A. R. was ever the same.

He even lacks that patriotism which should ever be advanced by persons holding the position of chief executive of a state, as will be seen by a review of the records on the following bills:

February 6, 1895, House Journal 127 H. F. 223: A bill for an act to make the twelfth day of February (Lincoln's birthday) a legal holiday.

Mr. Jacobson voted No on this bill.

April 22, 1889, Page 1238, S. F. 644: A bill for an act to authorize the county commissioners of the several counties of this state to appropriate money to erect a soldiers' monument or memorial hall in the respective counties.

Mr. Jacobson voted No on this bill.

As a member of the committee on appropriations, he voted to report for indefinite postponement on March 26, 1895, H. F. 568, introduced by Mr. Gibbs: A bill for an act to provide transportation for the surviving members of the First and Second regiments of the Minnesota volunteers to the battlefields of Gettysburg and Chickamauga.

April 9, 1897, House Journal Page 954, H. F. 719: A bill for an act for the relief of George W. Wetherall, a veteran of the late war who was seriously and permanently injured by being run down by a trolley car while in attendance at the national encampment held in St. Paul last September.

The above was a bill to aid an old soldier, who was injured at the time of the holding of the national encampment in St. Paul in 1896 and who was totally disabled as a result of said accident.

Mr. Jacobson voted and talked bitterly against the passage of the bill.

March 25, 1901, House Journal 684 S. F. 53: A bill for the relief of John C. Devereux, be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Minnesota:

Section 1. That there shall be allowed and paid to John C. Devereux out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, in full of all claim he has against the state of Minnesota for service as drill master and teacher of a military school at Fort Snelling, between the sixth day of July, 1861, and the fifteenth day of October 1861—four hundred and ninety-five dollars, being compensation at the rate of $5 per day in fulfillment of a special agreement made by the adjutant general of Minnesota, at the time he entered upon performance of said services.

The bill was passed March 25, 1901 by a vote of 63 to 2, Mr. Jacobson being one of the members voting against the measure. This is in accordance with his whole legislative career in the matter relating to members of the National Guard or veterans of the Civil and Spanish-American wars.

GAS FUMES DEADLY

MEXICAN LABORERS DROP DEAD IN THEIR TRACKS FROM PECULIAR CAUSE

EXTINGUISHMENT OF FIRES PROVE TO BE POOR MOVE FOR THE MINERS

New Orleans, Oct. 28—Deadly fumes from Mexico's great oil well fire sixty miles from Tampico have killed more than a score of workmen during the past few days and caused thousands of dollars damage to the ranches and other neighboring interests, according to Capt. Michael Henrichsen of steam ship City of Mexico, which reached New Orleans last night. American mine owners after spending more than a million dollars, finally succeeded in extinguishing the blaze, but even greater terrors than before prevailed. When the fire was stopped gases burst forth. Laborers inhaling a bit of the stuff dropped dead in their tracks. Owners of the well have appealed to the Mexican government and several companies of soldiers have been sent to the scene.

Fined for "Hollering" for Bryan.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 27.—John T. Kent, a prominent local Democratic politician formerly employed on Mr. Bryan's paper, was fined $25 and costs in police court for "hollering" for Bryan. Technically Kent was charged with disturbing the peace and with disorderly conduct. The complainants in the case were six members of the G. A. R. drum corps.

THE OWNERSHIP OF LOTS TO BE DECIDED

ENGINEER J. E. CARROLL HAS COMPLETED THE SURVEY OF THE MANUFACTURING SITE PURCHASED BY THE PUBLIC SPIRITED MEN OF CROOKSTON, AND THE OWNERSHIP OF THE LOTS WILL BE DECIDED NEXT FRIDAY EVENING, AND PRIOR TO THE DRAWING A BUSINESS MEN'S SUPPER WILL BE HELD AND THE EVENING WILL BRING FORTH SOME IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS

From Friday's Daily—

The manufacturing site plat is now ready and next week the great event of the year, the drawing of lots, will take place.

Engineer Carroll who has surveyed the site and has done the platting, announced today that he would have the work entirely completed and ready for submission to the 25,000 Commercial club at any date next week selected by that organization.

In accordance with this statement the committee appointed at a recent meeting of the board of directors of the club to make arrangements for a meeting at which the drawing is to take place, has set the date as Friday evening, October 30.

Planning a Big Time

The committee is taking up its work with the idea of making the event one of the greatest importance for the city of Crookston from a public standpoint and it is expected that influences will be set in motion that evening which will result in bringing to the municipality great benefits.

The meeting will be primarily a get-together function. Every business man and every citizen will be given an invitation to attend the exercises, whether he is a member of the club or not, and it is felt that the greatest interest should be manifested in the occasion. It will afford an opportunity for the business men to become better acquainted with one another and get a better insight into the views of one another. Every citizen should not hesitate a moment but should at once make note of the date and see to it that nothing is permitted to prevent him from attending this meeting and participating in this event that will mark a new era in the onward march of the city of Crookston.

Will Start with Supper.

The committee is planning to have the program for the evening start with a business man's supper. The services of some clever hostesses have been secured and there is every assurance that a banquet will be spread which will tempt the appetites of the most fastidious and make envious the most pronounced epicurean. The menu cannot be announced at this time, but previous to the date, the public will be taken into the secret and then there will be a scramble for tickets that will pack the tables with progressive and public spirited citizens.

The banquet hall cannot be announced until next week, as the committee is having just a little difficulty in securing a room large enough to take care of the numbers who will desire to participate in the event. A decision has almost been arrived at however and as soon as the full arrangements have been made the public will also be taken into the confidence of the committee on this point.

Will be a Civic Uplift

The program that is being planned will have on it a number of short talks by the progressive business and professional men of the city. The idea is to have as many as possible participate in the program in the short period that is to be devoted to the talks The subjects that will be selected will all bear upon the future welfare of the city and will be of great interest to every citizen. There is not a citizen who will not be able to learn something by attending this meeting and there is no doubt but that things will be started which will result in great good for the city.

Besides the talks there will be a number of musical selections by well known local soloists of merit. The musical program will be of sufficient pretensions alone to make the evening pass most enjoyably and the committee is making plans and preparations to entertain the citizens of Crookston with something entirely beyond the ordinary. The citizen who does not take advantage of the opportunity offered him to have both an enjoyable and profitable evening will regret it.

Central Object of Event

Of course the central object of the meeting, the principle thing for the calling together of the citizens, is the drawing of lots in the site which was purchased last fall by the public spirited citizens of the municipality. It will be remembered that a considerable number of lots were subscribed for by the people of the city, the funds thus received being used to purchase the site. The lots were sold for a price which permitted of the purchase of the eighty acre tract, just outside the city limits in the town of Lowell. A little over 20 acres of the tract has been platted into building lots and the citizens who subscribed will be given the opportunity of drawing the lots.

The drawing will be under the direction of the Crookston Improvement Association, a corporation formed under the laws of the state by five members of the commercial club, Messrs. J. P. Foote, J. W. Wheeler, A. D. Stephens, L. D. Foskett and Sam Rosenthal. These five men were designated as a "holding" committee. Thru them the tract was purchased and they will administer the business of the site and attend to all the details in connection therewith. The sixty acres left after the lots that will be drawn next Friday evening have been regularly and legally deeded to the subscribers, will be held by this committee or corporation, for the benefit of the club. A portion of this acreage will be subdivided into lots for free manufacturing sites.

It is not known at the present time just what form the drawing will take as the association has not as yet signified. There is no question however but that each subscriber will be treated alike and luck alone will be a factor in the disposition of the lots. There is no doubt but that this portion of the evening's program will prove most exciting and will develop all the interest present at some of the western land openings. While the drawing will primarily interest the citizens who have subscribed for lots, still every one who will be present will secure much pleasure in watching the lottery. Every ticket will win a prize but of necessity there will be some more desirable than the others. There must be some choice in the lots, depending upon the location in respect to the city.

This public drawing and the attending exercises will be an excellent opportunity to arouse public spirit and there is no doubt but that the meeting that is contemplated and the arrangements of which are now under way, will have a bearing upon the future development of the city. Every citizen should enter into the spirit of the occasion and make it a starting point for greater effort in behalf of the city that offers opportunity.

Every one should make plans to attend in person this function and he should see to it that his neighbor becomes interested.

Kansas City, Oct. 23 — The rainstorm that has been general over the southwest for three days, following a forty-eight day drought has broken all October records in amount of precipitation. At Lawrence, Kansas, the rainfall yesterday, 5.6 inches, broke all October records for rainfall in twenty-two years. In Kansas City during the twenty-four hours ending at 7 o'clock this morning precipitation was 4.38 inches, which is a new record for 24 hours. All streams in Kansas and Oklahoma are overflowing the bottoms and there has been loss of corn and many bridges have been washed away.

Cessation of the storm is predicted to take place before daylight tomorrow and a killing frost is expected thruout the southwest tomorrow night

There was a light fall of snow at Topeka and Wichita this afternoon.

Daily Journal 30c per Month.

Wabasha Herald: The machine that nominated Jacobson and is now trying to elect him has but one issue and that is that no matter how incapable Jacobson may be that it is the duty of the republicans to elect him since he has been nominated. Turn down, they ask you, Johnson, the man who is eminently qualified for the position, for Jacobson, the man who is entirely lacking in all those finer qualities that we admire in a public man, and do this just for the reason that Jake is a Republican.

Middle River Pioneer: A large Johnson club of young men, the most of whom are republicans, was organized a few days ago in Crookston. Thus it is all over the state. Men not bound by narrow partisan prejudices who recognize sterling worth and ability will vote for Johnson, regardless of their partisan sentiments.

IS STRONGER THAN EVER BEFORE

GOV. JOHNSON IS BEING TALKED OF ON EVERY HAND SINCE MONDAY MEETING

YOUNG MEN'S JOHNSON CLUB IS BUSY ALL THE TIME SPREADING GOOD NEWS

PREDICTED THAT VOTE OF GOV JOHNSON WILL BE INCREASED OVER TWO YEARS AGO

Despite the fact that Gov. Johnson both two and four years ago carried Polk county by a tremendous majority, it is confidently predicted that this year he will receive even a more handsome majority. Since the great meeting Monday evening there has been little else talked about in the city. The people seem to be realizing to a greater degree than ever that Governor Johnson is a bigger man than many had credited him with being. That he made a great many votes here there is absolutely no question.

The Young Men's Johnson Club is working all the time, and the members are displaying more enthusiasm than has ever before been noted in this city by young men, who in the past have never taken an active part in politics here.

Certainly democrats in Crookston and Polk county feel highly gratified over the conditions in every part of the county over the coming elections.

Grand Forks, Oct. 23—Andy Ward, a resident of Grand Forks for over 20 years and employed as a teamster was found dead in bed at the Central hotel yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock He had been dead for several hours. Coroner Rounsevell came in from Larimore on an evening train and decided, after investigating the case that an inquest was not necessary. Death was due to heart failure. The body was removed to Ashley's undertaking rooms.

The deceased had been ill for several days but on Tuesday he commenced work as a teamster for Contractor P. McDonnell. He worked until Wednesday evening. He complained of not feeling very well and went to bed early. It was noticed at noon yesterday that he had not been up and the landlord went to the room. He knocked on the door but there was no response. It was thought that Ward was sleeping and the room door was not opened. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when there was no response to knocks on the door, it was forced open and the body was found.

Eveleth News: Governor Johnson's position is the same as when he discussed taxation in January 1907, and as when he assured Charles Jesmore of this city when the latter was a member of the local committee, the other members of which were Neil McInnis and P. E. Dowling, which went to St. Paul last year to protest against the tonnage tax, that he would never sign a bill which would diminish the proportionate revenue of any town.

Why This Reluctance?

The News Tribune is much aggrieved because of Governor Johnson's attitude toward Mr. Bryan. Coming from a partisan Republican newspaper of the yellow dog stripe, this seems a high compliment to the governor's loyalty to the national head of the Democratic ticket. Candidate Jacobson has not yet mentioned the name of the Republican candidate for president. Why is this?

But—

Will the morning paper please give a single reason why Jacobson should receive a single vote in Northern Minnesota? It has overlooked this duty up to date.—Duluth Herald.

BOY SCRATCHED DAY AND NIGHT

Eczema Began When a Tiny Baby and Lasted 7 Years—Tore Crusts from Face Till It was All Raw—Screamed with Pain and Could not Sleep—Though Specialists Failed

CUTICURA EFFECTED A WONDERFUL CURE

"When my little boy was six weeks old an eruption broke out on his face. I took him to a doctor and got ointments and medicines but his face kept on getting worse until it got so bad that no one could look at him. His whole face was one crust and must have been very painful. He scratched day and night until his face sometimes looked like a raw piece of meat. I was nearly insane with his scratching day and night. Then I took him to all the best specialists in skin diseases but they could not do much for him. He sometimes screamed with pain when I put on the salve they gave me.

"When he was two years old the eczema got on his arms and legs so that I had to keep them bandaged up and I made gloves for his hands so the nails could not poison him worse. We could not get a night's sleep in months and my husband and I were all broken up. Then my mother asked why I did not give up the doctors and try Cuticura. So I got a set and he felt relieved the first time I used them, the Cuticura Ointment felt so cool. He used to wake up and ask for Cuticura to be put on when he itched so badly that he could not sleep, and he would say, 'Oh! Mama, that makes my sores feel so good!' I gave the Cuticura Remedies a good trial and gradually the eczema healed all up and now he is as well as any other children. He is now seven years old and the cure has lasted two months, so I think it will never return. I can't tell you how glad I am that Cuticura did such wonderful work in our case and I shall recommend it everywhere. Mrs. John G. Klumpp, 80 Niagara St., Newark, N. J., Oct. 17 and 22, 1907."

A single set of Cuticura Remedies, consisting of Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), and Resolvent (50c.), or Pills (25c. per vial of 60), is often sufficient to cure. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass. Mailed Free, Cuticura Book on Skin Diseases.

NOTED CROOK IS LANDED HERE

From Friday's Daily—

Rudolph Boeckel was arrested last evening for drunkenness and on looking him over Chief of Police Eck found that he answered the description of the man who held up a man named Curry of New York here on the 5th of last July, circus day.

He was sent up for ten days and Curry was notified by wire. Curry at the time was relieved of $52 on the N. P. high bridge and the fact that the man arrested has a scar under the right eye, wears glasses and had unused meal tickets in his pockets as stated by the Ringling detective, makes it certain that he is the man wanted and will get a term behind the bars.

Winnipeg, Man. Oct. 23—One of the worst snow storms that ever occured in west is now at height of its fury and has completely demoralized services of both the C. P. R. and G. N. trains. The storms started night before last and continued with unabated vigor. Ten inches of snow already fallen, and accompanied by terrific gale. Snow has blown into railway cuts, completely filling them up and in many stretches the snow is over ten feet deep.

C. P. R. has ordered snow plows to the scene and they are hard at work clearing the tracks out little progress can be made until the snow ceases to fall. As soon as a clearance is made the blizzard fills it up again. The expresses from Vancouver and other western points are completely stalled, westbound trains held up also and none of them can proceed.

No trains from the east reached the city today and doubtful when they will get thru.

The storm which broke over Alberta province Tuesday night was wholly unexpected by the railways, and preparation was not made to receive it.

The storm was a blinding one and the snow is quite soft.

The Canadian Northern train left Edmonton at the usual time and proceeded all right until near Islay a couple of stations east of Vermillion when she ran into the snow banks and stuck there. Attempts were made to back the train up, but this failed and finally another train was sent to pull it out.

Dairy Produce For Year In Minnesota

Minneapolis, Oct. 22—There were 87,044,817 pounds of butter produced in Minnesota creameries in 1907, according to figures just compiled by the state dairy and food commission. The wholesale value of the product is estimated at $23,502,100. There were 851 creameries in operation and 71,769 farmers supplied them, receiving $17,912,043 for their milk and cream, from 546,695 cows. The running expenses of the creameries were $2,187,373. They used 855,866,470 pounds of milk and 16,819,567 of cream Seventy-four cheese factories operated in the state made 4,266,778 pounds of cheese, which at the average whole sale price of 12 cents brought $512,013. Less than half of the cows in the state worked for the creameries so considerably over a million contributed to the state milk and cream supply. The value of the milk and cream sold to the people in the cities and towns last year is estimated at $19,000,000.

Attorneys Say It Is Invalid.

Omaha, Oct. 21.—The $600,000 libel suit which Governor Haskell of Oklahoma filed in this city last week against William R. Hearst is pronounced invalid by prominent attorneys who have examined the petition.

A Few Questions To Be Answered

Now that the election is but a little more than a week away, it might be well to make one more effort to have the republicans of the state of Minnesota answer a few questions which have been put up to them time after time, but as yet remain unanswered. Their candidate for governor has had these questions hurled at him during his campaign for the party's nomination and many times since he was honored by the party, and yet he has been unable to find time to enlighten the voters of the state. The people have a right to know his answer to these queries before they are driven by the party lash to cast their suffrages for the man from Madison.

Following are the questions which we would like some light upon:

Why was Bob Dunn, the close ally of the lumber barons and the representatives of predatory wealth, his sponsor for the republican nomination

Why was Dar Rheese, the representative of the brewers and liquor interests of the state, so interested in having the convention name Mr. Jacobson

Why was Big Ed Smith, the representative of the large Minneapolis corporations and monopolies, one of the strongest advocates of the Commoner for the nomination?

Why did the representatives and officers of the steel trust insist upon the nomination of Mr. Jacobson and do their utmost to bring about his selection by the party?

Why were the leading railroad officials in the state friendly to his candidacy for the nomination and take a conspicious part in bringing about that seemingly most desirable end?

Why did the employes of the international harvester trust in this state line up practically solid for the man from Lac qui Parle and favor his selection at the hands of the party?

Why are all these men and classes, specified above, supporting Mr. Jacobson in the present election and working mightily to bring about his success in the present state campaign?

Why has Jacobson changed his habits of life and refused to divulge to the people his thoughts on the issues of the present campaign

Why has he become the cautious diplomat (?) and forsaken his brutally frank manner in making known his views on public questions and public measures

Why has he sidestepped, dodged and relied on a subterfuge thruout his campaign for a nomination, and since he was honored with being selected as the standard bearer of his party?

Why does he rely upon a record which shows that he was ever opposed to any measure that had for its purpose the betterment and development of the Red River Valley and northern Minnesota

Why has he condemned his party associates in the state legislature and alleged that extravagance exists in the conduct and maintenance of state affairs?

Why does he demand that the voter who refuses to support him in his ambition, should refuse to support any other nominee on the republican ticket, from president to coroner?

Why is Lumber Baron Tom Shevlin appealing to all republicans to vote for the party's candidate for governor and support the entire republican ticket, Tom Shevlin the man who two years ago defeated Jacobson for the nomination and then gave a feast the notoriety of which still exists

Why has he refused to appear in Crookston and other large cities and give the voters an opportunity to see, hear and meet him?

Why should any young men or any citizen of the state of Minnesota who believes in progress and development register their approval of Mr. Jacobson and the principles he stands for in the present campaign?

These are some of the few questions we would like to have Mr. Jacobson answer between now and election day and we believe that he owes it to his party and to the people generally to forget his record for a few minutes and give some thought and consideration to the questions that are being asked by all intelligent and progressive voters, who are not blinded by party fealty. We do not say that Mr. Jacobson cannot satisfactorily answer these questions, but we do assert that so far in the present campaign he has not given an out-and-out answer to any of them. A man's record is an excellent thing for a background, but what counts are his present convictions, his up-to-date principles, and the policies he will stand for at the moment when questioned. If these are satisfactory, the record will go a long ways toward strengthening them. In the present instance these are in the minds of the people the principle things, while the record in a sense is subsidiary.

There are hundreds of republican newspapers who will give Mr. Jacobson all the space he requires to answer these questions and a direct answer from him would be greatly appreciated by the people of the entire state. They do not care to hear from any representative of Mr. Jacobson, but they want the republican candidate to take them into his confidence and meet them on the real issues of the present state campaign in the same frank manner as Governor Johnson has. We do not believe they are asking for too much from the man who heretofore has been lauded as the man whom the people could get close to and understand.

Did It Ever Occur to You?

"I paid that bill once."

"You must be mistaken."

"Indeed, I am not mistaken."

"Have you a receipt?"

"It seems to me I have, but I don't remember what I did with it."

"We have no record of payment, and unless you can produce our acknowledgement in the way of a receipt, we must insist that you pay the account."

But it might have been a different story had the bill been paid with a bank check. No chance for argument or dispute when the cancelled check is produced. Better pay your bills but once—with a check on this bank.

THE RED RIVER VALLEY DAIRYMEN ISSUE A PROGRAM FOR CONVENTION

The program for the annual meeting of the Red River Valley Dairymen's Association which will be held at St. Hilaire on November 11th and 12th has been issued and the list of addresses is a certain assurance that the meeting will be the best in the history of the association.

The steadily increasing importance of the dairying industry in this section has resulted in changing the meetings of the dairymen from a gathering of a few of the faithful who were struggling to advance the industry, to a meeting of hundreds of experienced dairymen who are embracing every opportunity to improve their methods and advance the interests of every farmer who is devoting attention to dairying.

It is specially appropriate that the annual meeting this year should be held at St. Hilaire, where one of the most successful creameries in Minnesota is located, Buttermaker Austin being the secretary of the association.

HALLOWE'EN

A Short History of the Origin of the Day

The festival of All Saints comse on November first, and the eve or Vigil of All Hallows is the night preceding or October 31. On this night supernatural influences prevail to a great extent and lately in America some influences which are not of the mystical order prevail to an alarming degree. Hallowe'en or Nutcrack night and sometimes called Snapp-apple night, is very generally observed in the old countries, especially in England, Scotland and Wales. The rowdyism is not known over there, but a more enjoyable and you might call it "spooky" time is what the people participate in.

Roman Feast

The Romans on the first of November always gave a feast to Pomona, goddess of fruits and seeds. The Druids held a great autumn festival which more nearly resembles the day as now observed in the British Isles. The night of October 31 they would build bon-fires and roast nuts and snap apples. After the pleasures were over each family would gather around their bon-fire and throw a white stone into the dying embers. Then they would all say their prayers and go to bed, in the morning each would look for the stone he had thrown into the fire and anyone who was fortunate enough not to find his or her respective stone it was believed would die within a year.

This old superstition is still believed in by many folks in Britain.

Burns Gives Idea

Burns' poem entitled "Hallowe'en" gives the best idea of the observance of the evening in Scotland. In Scotland if the farmer has been too busy to harvest his cabbages before Hallowe'en he has them harvested by many willing hands and slung pell-mell at his door.

There is a custom observed in the countries of Ireland and Scotland and observed by the members of the races in this country which is religiously kept and the result looked upon as almost sure of happening. At the evening meal there is placed in the center of the table a bowl of food made up largely from parsnips, potatoes and chopped onions. The dish is called "call-cannon." Why that name only they know. In the center of this mixture is placed a ring and the one who is lucky enough to get this in his or her portion is to be married within a year, or if already married is to be unusually lucky during the year.

Washington Custom

That supernatural influences are at work on this particular night every young lady knows for many walk down the cellar stairs backward holding a candle and looking-glass in the hopes that she may see her affinity who if he has received the tip, will surely be there. Many enjoyable things are done on this night and some which are extremely unpleasant In Washington it has been the custom for many years for the young people to get out on the streets with a flour sack fixed so that when the holder hits a person it will give off enough of the white mixture to make him "white as the driven snow." The bags are usually intended to hit members of the crowd who happen to be together, but there is no code of honor among them which prohibits striking some youth going to see his sweetheart.

WILLIAM A. CROSS AWARDED MEDAL

Pittsburg, Oct. 22 — The Carnegie hero fund commission today awarded medals, gold, silver and bronze, to 98 heroes at its quarterly meeting. The cash awards amount to about $40,000 of which $24,700 is given outright the remainder being in monthly benefits to "widows and children or other dependents." Among those awarded are: William A. Cross, Grand Forks, N. D., bronze medal and August H. G. Hansen, Owatonna, Minn., bronze medal.

The heroic act for which William A. Cross was awarded a Carnegie medal as indicated in the above dispatch, was the saving of the life of William Colton of the firm of Colton Brothers in an accident at Maple Lake. At the time it was understood that an effort would be made to secure such a medal for Mr. Cross, who is a step-son of William Spriggs, of firm of Spriggs Brothers, of Grand Forks. The Carnegie is only awarded in cases of real merit and the many friends of Mr. Cross in this city will be glad to learn that such an honor has been conferred on him.

French and Moors Clash.

Paris, Oct. 21.—Advices have been received here of another engagement in Morocco. At a point near Mondgerle a French detachment was attacked by a band of Moors. The enemy was driven back with a loss of fourteen men killed. The French had four men killed.

Crookston Is Waiting To See Candidate

It has been suggested by a number of disinterested citizens, men who have not fully made up their mind as to just how they will cast their votes on the third of next November for the head of the state ticket, that they be given an opportunity to see, hear and meet the republican candidate for governor. They have been given the opportunity of becoming personally acquainted with the head of the democratic ticket, and he has to a certain extent captivated them by his manly willingness to greet and discuss the issues of the present campaign with those whose support he desires. Mr. Jacobson should also put in an appearance in the Queen City of the Red River Valley and show himself to the voters, whose support at the present time his local representatives are frantically endeavoring to secure by cracking the party whip and appealing to the loyalty and blind fealty of every republican to stand by the party.

Mr. Jacobson visited Polk county it will be recalled and made two stops, one at Erskine and another at Fertile. He passed up East Grand Forks, McIntosh and Fosston the four largest communities in the county. Early in the campaign the local committee announced that Mr. Jacobson would appear in Crookston at least once during the contest and probably twice. Thus far no one has seen him, nor is he expected to appear. He visited Moorhead, Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls and several other cities in this section, but the most populous of them all, he absolutely refuses to appear in and this has given rise to a number of questions which will without doubt have their effect upon the result of the vote one week from next Tuesday.

If the republican county committee has fallen down and neglected to secure the presence of the republican candidate, it has been lax in its duty and has been responsible for causing the people of this community considerable disappointment. We can hardly believe that they, the members of the committee, forgot to make requisition for the so called friends of the people, and some other reason must be assigned for his failure to present himself to a Crookston audience. To be sure two years ago Mr. Jacobson appeared here and it is rumored that he did not take particularly well with the voters and this is one of the reasons why the committee has failed to produce the candidate, whom the party is supposed to take on faith.

There is not a democrat in the city who would not have welcomed the appearance of the republican candidate and there is no doubt but that many of them would have considered it a privilege to have been given the opportunity of attending a meeting at which Mr. Jacobson spoke. It would seem as though his party associates ought to be just as desirous of having an opportunity to honor him, and it appears to us that it is a duty that the republican committee owes to this community to give to the independent voter the opportunity of judging between the two candidates for the governorship.

The democratic party is proud of its candidate and considers it a high honor to be able to entertain him on any occasion, as was amply shown upon the occasion of his recent visit. We have given every voter in this city an opportunity to see, hear and meet our standard bearer, and we will submit to the voters, young and old, of Crookston if it would not be the right and the just thing for the republicans to produce their selected champion and candidate for the highest office in the gift of the people of this state.

The committee has secured the services of Attorney General Young, but it must be remembered that he is not a candidate this year, in fact he is the man who was turned down by the party and from fear of his success in the convention certain interests went over to J. F. Jacobson and placed him ever under obligations to them. We believe that the voters of this section are not going to be swayed by anyone other than the candidate himself, and if he fails to appear, the vote of this city will go surprisingly strong against him.

Mr. Jacobson desires, so it is reported, to be judged entirely by his past record. Are we to take from this that he is satisfied to have the people of Crookston cast their votes this campaign in accordance with the impression they have of him and his record from his last appearance in this city?

MEETINGS BREAK ALL RECORDS

GOVERNOR JOHNSON SPOKE YESTERDAY AT HALLOCK AND ARGYLE

WENT TO ADA LAST EVENING WHERE HE ADDRESSED GREAT CROWD TODAY

The meetings addressed by Gov. Johnson yesterday at Hallock and Argyle are reported to have been the largest and most enthusiastic political gatherings ever held in Marshall and Kittson counties.

The meeting places were inadequate to held the crowds that gathered, farmers coming in from miles around in every direction. A. C. Schmidt of this city, state committeeman from Polk county attended both meetings and says the audiences were intensely enthusiastic at both places.

Gov. Johnson passed thru the city last evening on the flyer and today made an address to a monster audience at Ada where he was greeted with intense enthusiasm, being interrupted repeatedly by the vociferous applause.

BURGLARY AT HENNING

STORE OF R. J. LINDBERG IS ENTERED AND THE SAFE IS BLOWN

SUSPICION POINTS TO NUMBER OF TOUGH CHARACTERS ABOUT TOWN

From Thursday's Daily— ...

A long distance telephone message from Henning brings word that R. J. Lindberg's drug store was burglarized there Monday night. The burglars are supposed to have entered during the transome, and as the night was very dark and there was a terrific storm of wind, an explosion could be heard only a short distance away. They blew the safe scattering things about the store to quite an extent, but secured only $1.80. It is evident that they were frightened away as they overlooked a large sum of money The burglary is supposed to have been the work of two or three tough looking characters who had been seen in the vicinity and an excellent description of them has been secured. They are supposed to be headed this way and the police are on the lookout for them. Three tough looking strangers were camped in the vicinity of Clitherall a day or two ago, and these may be the same parties.

Mr. Young's Eloquent Tribute

Republicans undoubtedly were given a rude shock last Saturday evening while listening to Attorney General Young. The state official's strong endorsement of the democratic governor was wholly unexpected and it came like a bolt of lightning out of the clear sky. In that tribute Mr. Young expressed the sentiments of thousands of republicans in all sections of the state and there was no wonder that this portion of his most excellent speech received louder and more enthusiastic applause than any other portion. His reference to Mr. Jacobson called forth applause from the platform and from the front seats but it was wholly without enthusiasm The meeting Saturday night which had been billed as a republican rally a Jacobson meeting, was in fact a Johnson ratification and can leave no doubt as to the setiment of this city in regard to the gubernatorial contest.

Mr. Young said that parties were necessary to the conduct of government and loyalty to party was requisite. Mr. Jacobson had a good record personally and his official record as a member of the state legislature was excellent. He had been nominated by the republican party and as he was personally and publically acceptable, there was no reason why any republican should not vote for him .

Mr. Johnson, the democratic nominee, was honest, true, and personally above reproach. He had faithfully performed the duties of the executive, but he was a democrat and the voters of this state could not afford to re-elect him. He was able; he had given a good administration of state affairs and in fact the only fault that could be found with him was that he was a democrat.

Here was a republican office holder, formerly a candidate himself for the nomination for governor at the hands of the republican party, a strong party man out on the stump arguing for republican success, advising the people of this state to throw everything else aside and decide the governorship of the great state of Minnesota simply upon the question of the supremacy of the republican party. He had not a word to say against the democratic candidate, but on the other hand much to say in his favor. To be sure he had praise for his own party's candidate, but nothing beyond the measure of approval that he had for the democratic candidate, other than that it was necessary for all republicans to be regular and vote the ticket straight.

The republicans of this city were depending upon Attorney General Young to turn the tide that had set in towards Governor Johnson in this city, but his visit only helped to increase the current towards the man who has in every particular given the people of this state an administration above reproach and a conduct of state affairs that every citizen can take a just pride in. Mr. Young confirmed the opinion of the democrats and of the independent voters in their loyalty to Governor Johnson and the city of Crookston and Polk county will give him such a majority on the third of November as was never received before in this section by any candidate for governor.

The republican leaders will undoubtedly come to the conclusion now that it is absolutely futile to try to stem the tide for every move they have made has only called into greater prominence the pre-eminent qualifications of Governor Johnson to again be elected governor of the great state of Minnesota.

Why Does It Not Apply To Jacobson?

For the past two or three weeks the republican leaders of this county have been cracking the party whip and holding up party loyalty as absolutely necessary and the prime requisite for any consideration whatever in the party councils. You must support the party's candidate for governor has been impressed upon every republican in the district and any one who dared to think otherwise has been held up to severe criticism and has been made to feel that he is on the verge of committing the unpardonable sin. Of course this means that the rest of the republican ticket must be supported that the republican nominees on the county ticket, but then the one name upon which the pressure is being brought to bear is that of Jacob F. Jacobson, whose ambition is to be governor.

That Jacobson appreciates this solicitation on the part of his party backers there can be no doubt for does not he have as the burden of his daily talks the same theme. "You must vote for me, or you must cut the rest of the republican ticket," he thunders. "Scratch the head of the state ticket, and you should go the full length and support the entire democratic ticket," he advises. To Mr. Jacobson there is but one office to be filled this coming election and but one man to be elected. It makes very little difference who is elected president, who the congressmen are from the different districts in the state, what the complection of the next state legislature is, so that the people of this state selects Mr. Jacobson as the next governor of the state of Minnesota.

Has Mr. Jacobson demonstrated that he is loyal to his party? Has he spoken a single word in behalf of the rest of his party ticket? Follow him thru the state, listen to his talks and you find nothing but Jacobson, Jacobson, Jacobson and Jacobson's deeds. He has no thought whatever for party associates, but all his time, all his talks are devoted to impressing upon the people of the state that the one great thing, the sum total of the republicans' duty in the coming election is to see that he, Jacobson, is elected. All republicans who do not vote for him are impudent and are democrats, socialists, populists or any thing else but republicans. He will give anyone however a charter membership in the republican party who votes for him, no matter how he may stand in regard to the rest of the republican ticket.

Jacobson has demonstrated in the present campaign that he has no idea whatever of party loyalty, all he can comprehend is personal loyalty to him self and his ambitions. How can he explain his actions last week in the second district. At the present time there is a particularly warm fight in that district for congress. The democratic nominee, Mr. Hammond, is making a fight to be re-elected, and Ex-Congressman McCleary is contesting the election with him. The fight is bitter and possibly being waged more fiercely than any political fight in the entire northwest. McCleary is the republican nominee, while Hammond is a democrat. What is Jake's attitude towards the former?

Last week he made a tour thru the district and of course party loyalty would exact that he should lend every influence he had towards McCleary's success and that he would permit him self in no particular to give sanction to any possible defection in the republican party in that district towards Mr. McCleary. What did he do however? At one of the towns, Madelia the chairman of the Jacobson meeting was a republican who was one of the strongest Hammond men in the entire district, working night and day for the re-election of the present congressman and doing everything in his poyer to injure the republican nominee.

If it is disloyalty to refuse to vote for the regular party nominee for governor, is it any less disloyalty to refuse to vote for the regular party nominee for congress? Will Jake even try to differentiate between the support due to a governor and the support due to a congressman? It would appear to us as though at the present time if either is a crime, or, putting it less harshly, a subject for criticism disloyalty to the party candidate for congress was the greatest, simply because it has to do with national policies. Jacobson evidently cannot take this view of it, probably for the simple reason that he cannot look at it from a personal standpoint.

Mr. Jacobson in the present campaign has not taken the positon of being a party candidate. He has at all times simply relied upon the personal equation. Party loyalty meant a vote for him; party disloyalty does not consist in scratching the rest of the ticket. Every candidate on the republican ticket should take this into consideration in their fight for election. Their friends should, before it is too late, realize that at the present time party fealty is very weak and no man has done more to make it so in the present campaign, than the distinguished republican candidate for governor. Mr. Taft urged the election of Mr. Jacobson. Has Mr. Jacobson urged the election of Mr. Taft? Mr. Steenerson is appealing to the voters of this district for support for Jacobson. Has Mr. Jacobson asked the voters to support Mr. Steenerson? The same statement may be made and the same question asked from the top to the bottom of the republican ticket. Loyalty begets loyalty.

Mr. Jacobson has absolved by his words and by his acts every republican from party fealty, and when local republicans begin to crack the party whip the response must be necessarily feeble, simply because every republican has the right and the privilege to follow in the footsteps of the candidate for governor and elect to office the men whom they think best fitted. Jacobson is doing so. He believes Mr. Jacobson is best fitted for holding office of any of the men on any of the several tickets in the field and he believes in supporting Mr. Jacobson and cares very little what happens to the rest.

Steel Trust Unmasks It's Batteries

In the issue of the News Tribune of Duluth of October 25th the hand of the steel trust is openly shown in favor of Jacob F. Jacobson and against John A. Johnson for governor. This appears in a manifesto signed by representatives of big business in Duluth including W. A. McGonagle, President of the Duluth & Mesaba Railway a steel trust institution, and other friends of the steel trust, and a number of bankers and lumber and grain barons. This manifesto calls upon the people of St. Louis county to vote for Jacob F. Jacobson and against John A. Johnson on the ground that the election of John A. Johnson will mean increased taxation of the iron ore properties, and is in part as follows:

"The Democratic platform, on which Governor Johnson hopes to be elected for the third term, declares in express words for "A tonnage tax on iron ore," and all over southern Minnesota he tells the voters how, if elected, he will reduce their taxes by increasing the taxes on iron mines.

It is true that last week he made in a public speech in Duluth the following statement: "If elected governor and if the legislature should pass a law depriving this or any other section of the state of its full share of taxes for local government, I would veto it."

"This statement has been generally assumed to be a promise to veto a tonnage tax bill. It is nothing of the kind. He can, and the program is that he shall sign a bill which, while it provides for a tonnage tax on iron ore which shall go to the state, it shall also provide that the county and other governmental sub-divisions shall also tax the iron mines on an ad valorem basis, for their respective expenses.

"This means that St. Louis County instead of paying one-quarter of the state taxes, as now, would pay at least one-half thereof.

"It means that all the mining companies, in order to exist, would have to keep up a constant struggle to reduce their taxes. They could make no fight against the tonnage tax, therefore they would be compelled to fight every year, in every village, city and township in the county in which they have property to reduce the taxes levied for the running expenses of such governmental sub-divisions.

"His message to the legislature on this subject two years ago, and his attitude at that time when St. Louis county by the most strenuous efforts barely defeated a tonnage tax, are the strongest evidence of his desire to increase the burden of taxation in this county.

"Mr. Jacobson's platform says nothing concerning a tonnage tax, consequently his party has not pledged him to advocate such a tax as has Mr. Johnson's.

"In no speech that he has made, so far as we can ascertain has he said that he was in favor of a tonnage tax, or any tax which would make St. Louis County pay more than the quarter of the state taxes which it is now paying.......

"It is time for St. Louis County to vote for itself. It will not soon have such a chance again. Let the office-seeking politicians and their interest backers take care of themselves as best they may.

"Vote for Jacob F. Jacobson for governor who is not running on a tonnage tax platform.

"Vote against the "wide open" tax amendment, which both parties have inforced in their platform, because it will put one-half the state taxes on to St. Louis County.

"It is the first amendment on the list. Vote "No" without fail.

"At the polls beloyal to St. Louis County, and on these two issues forget your party politics."

The foregoing remarkable document is undoubtedly being placed in the hands of every voter of St. Louis county, particularly every one who is in any manner connected with or dependent upon the iron mines for a living. The principal argument used in the document is the following:

"New enterprises will learn that they can do business cheaper in St. Paul or Minneapolis than they can in Duluth, because they will have to pay no state taxes there, while in St. Louis county they will have to contribute their share to one-half of all the state taxes. Every St. Louis county business man will be thus handicapped in favor of his competitors outside of the county. This means less business, and consequently less need of real estate and less demand for labor. In this way the business man, the real estate owner and the laboring man are all hit with the same bludgeon.

"We know what Mr. Johnson will do if he can. His party platform pledges him to a tonnage tax."

The foregoing argument demonstrates the intent of the promulgators of the document in question, and proves conclusively that the circular is inspired by interested parties who are trying to conceal its real purpose and intent, for it is inconceivable that men of the ability of the few who signed this document do not know that state taxes as such are levied at a certain rate upon the assessed valuation of the property and that the rate remains the same thruout the state, and property in the twin cities pays the same rate as property in Duluth or any other part of the state, and property in Duluth would get the same benefit from the increased taxation of iron mines that property in other parts of the state would receive and if increased taxation of iron mines operates to pay all expenses of state government property in Duluth would pay no state taxes, nor would property in any other part of the state. Where the shoe pinches and the only place where it pinches is the iron mines, which have been almost if not entirely gobbled up by the steel trust. Perhaps the circular even at this late today will be of some use in opening the eyes of the people to the fact that as stated by Governor Johnson there are economic questions of large and vast importance to the future welfare of this state involved in this election. If the people who are subject to steel trust influence are to forget their party politics when they vote for governor would it not be wise for the people who are not thus dominated to do the same thing?

St. Paul, Oct. 24th—J. F. Jacobson's campaign committee ran up against a boomerang when its members issued a pamphlet attacking Governor Johnson's record on labor matters as Governor. Unable to find a single act which could be construed as unfriendly toward organized labor, the committee seized on a claim made in certain labor quarters that the Governor had been guilty of connivance in the importation of armed strike breakers at the time of the great strike on the Iron Range in 1907. Jacobson's committee was doubtless not acquainted with the fact that at the time this complaint was made the executive council of the State Federation of Labor appointed its President, George B. Howley of Minneapolis, to investigate this charge and report to the executive council. Mr. Howley made a searching examination, not only from the records of the Governor's office, but from personal visits to the Iron Range country, and then reported to his people that there was absolutely no justification for the charge and that on the contrary Governor Johnson had done everything possible to protect the civil rights of the striking members. Under Republican state administrations the spectacle had been presented of soldiers being sent to the affected districts, but in the great steel strike of 1907, involving more than 17,000 men, Governor Johnson went personally to the scene of the trouble and later sent trusted representatives who arranged an agreed line of conduct for both the strikers and the officers of the steel company, and the result was that the strike was marked by practically no violence, no destruction of property, and no bloodshed.

The unfriendly press of Minnesota at the time complimented the Governor on the masterly handling of this great labor trouble and it remained for Jacobson's committee to deliberately attack him on the ground of an imaginary grievance.

President Howley spoke at a labor meeting in Winona on Tuesday night, but later in the evening took the platform again to condemn this outrageous and untruthful attack on the Governor.

"It would be cowardly on my part," he declared, with emphnasis, "if I did not say a few words for Governor Johnson here this evening. Just now I was handed the latest attack upon our Governor in a pamphlet issued by the Republican Committee and in which Governor Johnson is blamed for the importation of thugs to quell the disturbance on the Iron Range in 1907.

"I do not deny that the labor press printed these articles but they were printed before the executive council of the State Federation of Labor had appointed me to make an investigation. My report was to the effect that the Governor was entirely blameless and that these thugs had been sent in at the instance of the steel corporation. This attack is the most cowardly and dastardly of them all to blacken the record of Minnesota's greatest Governor, and I believe that such tactics will only add more votes to his already assured majority."

President Howley's declaration of facts and defense of the Governor from the untruthful attacks of the Jacobson committee were greeted with the most enthusiastic approval, and at Winona, as elsewhere in the state where labor is organized, the Governor will receive fully 90 per cent of the votes of labor. Labor Commissioner Williams, whose name figured in the original charges, has denied the truth of statements credited to him at Duluth, soon after the strike was inaugurated, and the whole incident will redound to the credit of Governor Johnson and the discomfiture of the unprincipled men who are behind this effort to injure Johnson with the members of organized labor, with whom he has always been on so friendly and intimate terms.

SIGNIFICANT STRAW VOTE

BERT LEVINS RETURNS FROM A BUSINESS TRIP TO DULUTH HIGHLY PLEASED

STRAW VOTE ON DULUTH TRAIN GIVES JOHNSON BIG MAJORITY

From Monday's Daily—

Bert Levins, the well known travelling salesman left Duluth Saturday evening for Crookston, after having spent several days there conferring with his wholesale house, The National Candy Co..

Just after leaving Duluth Mr. Levins and another gentleman got into a political discussion being on the opposite sides of the fence politically, and took a straw vote on governor with the result that Johnson received 33 and Jacobson 11.

This was a vote taken among travelling men, farmers, business men and included four preachers.

Levins was tickled.

ANOTHER RESIDENT FOR CROOKSTON

James Smith left this morning for Towner, N. CRITICISM IS UNJUST

MANY PEOPLE CHARGE RAILROADS FOR WHAT PUBLIC IS RESPONSIBLE FOR AN INSTANCE WAS FURNISHED AT THE GREAT NORTHERN DEPOT LAST NIGHT

From Tuesday's Daily—

There was an incident last evening at the Great Northern depot which illustrates the absolutely foolish arraignments to which railroads are very frequently subjected. A man who intended going to Bemidji arrived at the depot about half past nine. He had some baggage which he wanted checked and proceeded to sit down in the waiting room till the train for Bemidji pulled in.

Then he at once got busy looking for the baggageman to have his stuff checked. Of course the baggageman was busy taking care of the work on No. 36 and No. 8, both of which trains pulled in at about the same time.

The man who wanted to go to Bemidji raved and stormed because he could not get into the baggage room and a number of people took a few minutes off to sympathize with him and score the railroad.

As a matter of fact any one who wants to be fair can readily see that no one was at fault but the traveller himself. He knew when the train left, he knew that there was probably more than one person who wanted his baggage checked, he knew or should know that there were truck loads of baggage to be handled, and still he seemed to be of the opinion that a special baggageman should be detailed to wait on him personally.

While there may be cases where railroads are subject to criticism, there undoubtedly are, also individuals, it really looks not only unjust but foolish to hear people kick and complain about the service when there is absolutely no one to blame but themselves as was the case in the instance cited.

An unknown man who arrived on the Greenbush train Saturday evening is minus a suit of clothes. He left the package i nthe depot while he went out for supper. When he returned some one else had taken the package, and it is supposed the thief was some one who jumped on the train for Grand Forks or Fargo.

HEAR HIM—One of the ablest men among laymen of Norway, to speak the word of God, is Faste Svendson. You shall have the opportunity of hearing him. He speaks at the Hauges Lutheran Church this evening at 8 o'clock, in the Norwegian language. It is well worth the sacrifice of time and energy to come out and hear him.

BIG JOB AT GRAND RAPIDS — Gus Schmidt and son Harry and a crew of men left this morning for Grand Rapids where they have a big job in completely repainting and redecorating the Hotel Pokegama, and will be busy there till about the first of December. Of course they took their rifles along, and before returning will go after the big game—and they will get their full limit as they always do.

COURT ADJOURNED—Mayor McPhee who had been summoned as a juror at the term of Federal court at Mankato which was to have convened today, receives notice that the session had been adjourned till Nov. 5th and thus did not have to be absent on election day. The action of the court in adjourning was a very wise and just one as it would have deprived the jurors of their right to vote had they appeared at Mankato today, as the distance would have been too great for many of them to have returned.

Hallock Is Jumping Ahead—Edward L. West, one of the original boosters of Hallock and Kittson county, was in the city last evening and he is enthusiastic over the outlook in his section. He says just as soon as the people can get politics out of their thoughts for a few minutes there will be something doing in his section of the state.

INDEP'DENCE IN VOTING URGED

ATTY. W. A. MARIN MADE STIRRING ADDRESS AT JOHNSON CLUB MEETING

LAST EVENING WHICH CREATED ENTHUSIASM—EXCELLENT ADDRESS ALSO

MADE BY ATTY. W. P. MURPHY AND J. E. O'BRIEN—LARGE CROWD

From Wednesday's Daily—

The John A. Johnson club held a large and enthusiastic meeting at their hall last night. The work of the different committees was reviewed, and approved. All the business was referred to the executive committee and the evening spent in informal talks and expressions from the different members.

Atty. W. A. Marin gave a more lengthy address that had in it much that was interesting and enlightening to the club members. Mr. Marin dwelt considerably on the rottenness of municipal affairs thruout this nation and blamed it to the apathy of the citizens, allowing bossism to dominate, and politicians for revenue, with no interest in the welfare of the general public.

Mr. Marin's speech dwelt on municipal, county, state and national affairs, in connection with the above Mr. Marin was a delegate to the late republican state convention and he very plainly explained, the methods used by the corporation interests, to control the convention and nominate Jake Jacobson, and in conclusion made a strong appeal for independence in voting.

Atty. W. P. Murphy spoke on the live issues before the people of Minnesota, and also gave some interesting reports of the Johnson, sentiment among republicans he met in his travels on the north border.

J. E. O'Brien was espied in the hall among the visitors and was called on for a few remarks and made a very entertaining non-partisan address that was very enthusiastically received by the boys.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday night and several prepared addresses will be delivered by the members, also outside speakers will be called in to enlighten the members.

The meetings are doing a lot of good to the young manhood of Crookston in broadening them along political and parliamentary lines.

ALL PLEASED WITH GRACETOWN CLAIMS

JACK ORINGER SPENDING DAY HERE FROM GRACETON RANCH

Jack Oringer the veteran timber claim locator, who located about a score of Crookston people on valuable cedar claims south of Graceton was an arrival in the city this morning and is spending the day with friends. Mr. Oringer has a claim of his own among the bunch which he values at $5,000, and is here today to sell a summer resort of 43 acres which he has at White Fish Lake, near Bemidji and which is improved. He intends to invest in more property at Graceton and is disposing of his other property for that purpose. He says not a single man he located is dissatisfied with his claim.

Yokohama, Oct. 26—The American battleship fleet steamed out of Yokohoma harbor at 8 o'clock this morning for Olongapo, P. I.

The day was beautiful and clear and the warships passing down the bay, with a Japanese escort presented a fine appearance.

There was not a single desertion from the fleet here and not a bluejacket was absent from his ship last night. The conduct of the men was remarkably orderly.

President Roosevelt's message, thanking the emperor and the Japanese people for the splendid reception given to the officers and men of the fleet will be handed to the emperor thru the foreign office to which it was presented by Ambassador Thos J. O'Brien.

PROMINENT YOUNG PEOPLE ARE WEDDED

Mr. Ray Young and Miss Ida Clapp Were Wedded at the Bride's Home at 6 O'clock Last Evening—Bride and Groom Were Unattended—Will Make Home at Minot After Wedding Trip.

At 6 o'clock last evening, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Clapp 450 Hunter Street occurred the marriage of Miss Ida Clapp, to Mr. Ray Young of Devils Lake, Rev. W. S. Ward of the Presbyterian church officiating.

The ceremony was performed amidst a mass of floral decorations consisting of white carnations and maiden hair ferns in the large bay window, the bride and groom being unattended, and the ceremony being performed in the presence of relatives and intimate friends only. The bride was attired in a most becoming gown of Persian lawn, princess fashion, and carried a very large bouquet of bride's roses.

Following the ceremony and after congratulations had been extended the party repaired to the dining room where a sumptuous wedding supper was served, Mrs. Clapp being assisted in serving by Misses May Cameron and Inga Dahl. The dining room decorations were of red carnations and maiden hair ferns and were very effective.

The bride is one of the well known and talented young ladies of Crookston, prominent in church, social and church and musical circles, having a beautiful voice which has pleased many Crookston audiences, and which will be sadly missed in the Presbyterian church where she has been leading soprano for several years.

Mr. Young was raised in Crookston having made his home with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Young for years till recently when he located in Minot and Devils Lake where he is in business. He is a popular and energetic young business man and is rapidly climbing the ladder of success

The bridal couple departed last evening for Chicago, and St. Paul and will also be entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Hemminger at Prairie City, ra. Mrs. Hemminger having formerly been Miss Gatton of this city. Later they will proceed to Minot where they will make their future home.

The out of town guests included Tom Young of Devils Lake; Miss Ethel Young of Devils Lake; Mrs. E. D. Anderson of Penley, Minn. and Mr. Dwain Clapp of Devils Lake.

A beautiful array of present were received.

Deputy Game Warden E. C. Cooke did some good work while in the eastern end of the county last week. Two more heads and scalps were seized at Warroad. The possessors of the heads were two business men and they both plead guilty. One was fined $100 and the other $50. Mr. Cooke was offered $100 for one of the moose heads which was a magnificent specimen. They were shipped to St. Paul to the executive agent. Mr. Cooke also seized a fine hoop net and the offender paid a fine of $20.

HEARING IS SET FOR FRI.

MEN ACCUSED OF ROBBING MARTIN OLSON WERE ARRAIGNED

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON AND HELD UNDER $500 BONDS TO APPEAR

FOR HEARING BEFORE JUDGE GOSSMAN AT 2 O'CLOCK ON THURSDAY

From Wednesday's Daily—

Wm. Griffin and Mike McKenzie, the two men arrested at East Grand Forks charged with having robbed Martin Olson here Sunday morning at the Svea Hotel, were arraigned late yesterday afternoon before Judge Gossman of the municipal court and their hearing postponed till Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Their bonds were fixed at $500 each but neither could furnish them and they languish in jail.

BIG FAIR AT HALLOCK

LARGE CROWDS PRESENT—THE WEATHER BEING MOST FAVORABLE

EXCELLENT EXHIBITS OF STOCK GRAIN AND FARM PRODUCTS

From Wednesday's Daily—

Supt. Robertson of the State Experiment farm left this morning for Hallock where the Kittson County fair is in progress and will act as judge of live stock and some of the other exhibits.

A long distance telephone message today is to the effect that the attendance is very large the management being jubilant over the magnificent weather, farmers driving in from miles around.

The stock, grain and other farm produce exhibits are very gratifying and exceeded all expectations.

MEDICAL MEN HELD MEET

INTERESTING ADDRESSES AND DISCUSSIONS AT CITY HALL LAST NIGHT

AFTER MEETING BANQUET WAS ENJOYED AT THE GRILL

There was a good attendance at the quarterly meeting of the Red River Valley Medical Association last evening in the Commercial Club rooms in the city hall. The papers given by Drs. Kahala, Neraal and Holte were of a very interesting and learned character, and the discussions were very animated and interesting.

Following the meeting the members enjoyed a banquet at the Grill in which mine Host Ralston omitted nothing for the pleasure of his guests.

DOUBLE WEDDING AT PELICAN RAPIDS

Last Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock there was a double wedding at Pelican Rapids, the ceremony having been performed in the Oak Grove church, the contracting parties being Miss Marie Olive Swenson to Mr. Morgan Clausen and Miss Alice Clausen to Mr Liner Henry Lyngholm the latter being the well known and popular express messenger on the Greenbush line, the others being residents of Pelican Rapids. Mrs. Lyngholm is well known in Crookston, having graduated from one of the local business colleges.

Following the wedding the 200 guests adjourned to the home of the parents of the bride where a grand wedding feast was enjoyed and the festivities were kept up to a late hour in the evening, dancing being a feature.

Mr. Lyngholm and bride will enjoy a wedding tour to Nebraska and will return about the first of November to make their future home in Crookston.

One of the penalties for not spending your money on pleasures is the way you can waste it in investments.

ENDURANCE AUTO TRIP

PARTY IN CITY TODAY ENROUTE FROM MICHIGAN TO MONTANA

GIVING AN OLDSMOBILE RUNABOUT A TEST OF ENDURANCE

From Friday's Daily—

W. D. Rightmore of Akron, Ohio, and F. R. Barlow of New York City arrived in the city this morning enroute from Michigan to Montana in an Oldsmobile runabout in an endurance contest. They remaied in the city for but a short time and left over the rood to Grand Forks—and they went some too.

ANOTHER "DODGER"

THIEF RIVER FALLS NEWS CALLS GOVERNOR JOHNSON A "DODGER"

JOHNSON SUPPORTERS WANT TO KNOW WHY JACOBSON DODGES CROOKSTON

From Friday's Daily—

Under flaring headlines of "Johnson the Dodger" the Thief River Falls News of this week states that Gov. Johnson addressed an immense audience in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening, and pays the speaker a high compliment as to his ability, etc., but the question that naturally suggests itself to the Johnson supporters is:

"Why is Jacobson not only dodging a great many important questions, but dodging Crookston, East Grand Forks and practically all of the other large cities of the state?"

Every republican in Crookston and the entire state knows well why he does not come to Crookston, because he would lose ten votes for every one he might gain.

Who is the greatest "dodger?"

JUST A QUARTER OF A HOG

The police last evening discovered half a side of fresh pork which without doubt had been stolen from some farmer. They have the pork at the station, and also have a man named Wm. Anderson who stole it.

CHRIS ENGEN'S PLACE BURGLED

SNEAK THIEF BREAKS IN AND GETS AWAY WITH $22 WHILE BARTENDER IS OUT

TO LUNCH AT 3 O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING—CLEVER WORK

OF OFFICERS QUIGLEY AND MURPHY IN EFFECTING THE CAPTURE

From Friday's Daily—

Chris Engen's place on DeMers avenue East Grand Forks was burgled at 3 o'clock yesterday morning and the thief succeeded in getting away with $22 only to be captured a few minutes later through the clever work of Officers Quigley and Murphy. About 3 o'clock J. F. Nicholson, the night bartender, had occasion to go out for lunch. At the time a young man a transient in town, was in the place, and Nicholson told him he would have to vacate, as he had to go out for lunch. Nicholson was not gone more than ten minutes and when he returned he found the cash register open and empty and some change scattered about the floor. Investigation disclosed the fact that a marauder had effected an entrance by breaking in the rear door.

He quickly summoned Officer Quigley, and just as the officer arrived noticed the man he had recently ordered out of the place on the opposite side of the street and taking long strides west. He ventured the opinion to Quigley that his late guest was the burglar. The officer started in pursuit and at the same time the stranger started at a lively burst of speed down Third street. He had the advantage of the officer momentarily as a runner, and fled thru the woods, evidently making for the Point. Mr. Quigley brought the telephone into requisition however, and asked Officer Murphy on the Point beat to intercept him. Murphy was on hand when the runner emerged from the woods enroute for the bridge and took him into custody. When he was examined at the station he gave his name as J. E. Marklund. In his outside coat pocket the officer found $13 and about $3 in change in an inside pants pocket. He was given a hearing on the charge of larceny in the municipal court yesterday afternoon.

G. A. E. Finlayson appeared for the prosecution and F. C. Massee for the defense. Mr. Engen placed his loss at $22. It developed that just a few minutes after the robbery the defendant had been in Buckley & Franklin's place and had cashed a silver dollar which was identified as having been taken from the cash register in Engen's place. The defendant was held to the district court on the larceny charge and at 2 o'clock this afternoon was given a hearing on the charge of burglary.

The republicans are giving considerable space in their organs in all sections of the state to prove to the people that J. F. Jacobson has a record for economy that has saved the state a few pennies, and his favorite cry at the present time is that the state government is costing too much money and infers that the amount necessary to conduct the government when he was fondly called "the watch dog of the treasury" was sufficient to take care of the greatly developed institutions and necessary expenses of the state government. Of course very few people who give any thought to this phase of the campaign will take any stock in such a campaign issue, for we believe the people of this great commonwealth are built upon a much broader foundation.

The absolute puerility of Mr. Jacobson's penny wise policy has but recently been strongly brought forth. During the recent prairie fires in northern Minnesota, it was found necessary to call out the naval militia in order to save life and property. They rendered the state great service and many a citizen owes his life at the present time to the untiring and heroic work of the naval militia. It did work for the state that has repaid it many times over for the amount of expense entailed since its organization and has demonstrated that the legislator who would oppose its creation did so without cause, reason or foreeight. Yet if you will look at the record, you will find that Mr. Jacobson did this very thing.

There is not a citizen who has any regard for his state, but can see that the men who were responsible for the creation o fthe naval militia and for the development of the land militia, were doing an act that would count heavily in the future welfare of the people and they cannot accept Mr. Jacobson's views as being those of a statesman such as his followers and associates are so fond of calling him, and they cannot come to any other conclusion, but that he was "penny wise and pound foolish" as he did on a number of occasions while serving in the state legislature.

A SWINDLER IS NEATLY CAUGHT

Man Who Made Off With Express Money Orders And Forged Is Caught.

WRITES FROM TOLNA THAT HE DESIRES $140 WORTH OF GOLD DUST AND NUGGETS—WHEN HE CALLS FOR PACKAGE DETECTIVE IS THERE AND MAKES ARREST

Devils Lake, N. D., Oct. 24—Having confessed to burglary, forgery and attempt to get money under false pretenses, all committed as a part of his plan to swindle merchants in Minneapolis and Chicago, Thomas Charlson is in jail at Devils Lake as the result of the activities of a Minneapolis business man who was chosen as one of the victims in swindle.

William Cohen jewelry dealer at 318 Nicollet avenue and detectives of the Great Northern Express company, Warnick, N. D., office, which was looted of many orders, set a trap for Charlson, who walked into it Thursday at Tolna, N. D. The company's express at Warwick was robbed Oct. 15 by a man who took a block of blank money orders.

Three Checks Show Up

Some days later three of these checks showed up in a letter to Cohen requesting him to send the writer John Orlund, gold dust and nuggets worth $140. As Mr. Cohen isn't a dealer in raw material, he suspected the writer, and was convinced the checks were forged. When he took them to the Minneapolis office of the express company A. C. Neal manager, investigated and learned that a block of the same series as those sent Mr. Cohen had been stolen. The matter was then turned over to one of the company's detectives who went to Tolna, where the writer asked to have the gold dust sent.

When Charlson inquired at the window for the package the detective promptly stepped out and arrested him. Seeing the game was up, the prisoner confessed.

Orders All Held

In the meantime the company received an inquiry from Chicago where merchants had received other forged orders and requests for gold. The orders sent to them, however, were held and all have been accounted for and will be turned over to the company. Charlson said he had been a wanderer since he was 14. He said all the orders were filled in by himself. He was taken to jail in Devils Lake to await trial. He has a confederate he says.

REVOLT LEADERS ARRESTED

ARE ACCUSED OF FOMENTING INSURRECTION ON AMERICAN SOIL

IFFLAM'RY LITERATURE

ARMS AND AMMUNITION FOUND ON SUSPECTED PARTIES BY THE OFFICIALS OF U. S.

Five Alleged Revolutionary Leaders Were Arrested in El Paso last June a Few Days Before the Insurrectionary Outbreaks Occurred in Mexico.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 24— Charged with fomenting a revolution on United States soil against a friendly nation Preciliano D. Silva and Lecardio Trevino were found guilty by a jury in the United States court for the western section of Texas today.

Benjamin Silva and Jose Maria Ramiroz were acquitted on the same charge. Trevino and Silva will be sentenced by Judge Maxey tomorrow. The penalty prescribed is not less than one, nor more than five years imprisonment.

Five alleged revolutionary leaders were arrested in El Paso last June a few days before the insurrectionary outbreaks occurred in Mexico. Alleged inflammatory literature, arms and ammunition, explosives and maps were seized by the federal authorities at the time.

Appeal will be taken to the circuit court of appeals by the convicted revolutionists.

RAINFALL REPORTED IN EAST

MOORE SAYS THAT SUFFICIENT RAIN WILL FALL TO EXTINGUISH FIRES

NEW YORK GETTING IT

CONDEMS PEOPLE WHO WOULD GULL THE PEOPLE WITH RAIN MACHINES

Says Scientists Thruout the Country Frown upon their Practices—Seems to be of the Opinion that Artificial Rainfall is not Practical — Forest Fire Out.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24—In a statement today Willis L. Moore chief of the weather bureau says that rain is now falling in a number of states south and west of New York and it is more than likely that rain to a sufficient quantity to extinguish forest fires.

He points out that all efforts of an artificial nature to cause rain are but the worst forms and that scientists the world over condemn in the strongest terms the efforts of those who take advantage of a public necessity by exploiting themselves or securing pecuniary gain.

RESULT OF STRAW VOTE

J. R. RASMUSSEN POLLED THE PASSENGERS ON THIEF RIVER FALLS TRAIN

OUT OF 51 VOTES 33 WERE FOR JOHNSON AND 18 FOR JACOBSON

From Thursday's Daily—

Yesterday on the Thief River Falls train John R. Rasmussen and others took a poll of the passengers as to their standing on governor. As a result of the straw vote it was found that 33 were for Johnson and 18 for Jacobson.

This was a representative crowd, some being farmers, some travelling men and others business men and is indicative of the outcome of the coming election.

A HUBBY IS WANTED

YOUNG BENEDICT FROM NORTHERN POLK CO. TURNS UP MISSING

HAD A SPAT WITH HIS YOUNG WIFE AND TAKES A VACATION

From Thursday's Daily—

There is a young hubby from Northern Polk Co., and not located clear on the border either, who is being sought after by his life. They were not married many months ago, but it appears that the family jars that have occurred since would hold all the fruit put up in Polk Co.

Recently they took a short trip, during which hostilities broke out worse than ever. As a result "Hubby" came to Crookston where he remained for a few days and has now left for Minneapolis.

In the meantime there are ombinous mutterings from the northwest and the next chapter is apt to be enacted before Judge Watts unless revenge is secured thru the meat ax route.

CARMAN WELL DOING FINE

IS NOW FLOWING 250 BARRELS EVERY 24 HOURS—PEOPLE PLEASED

AS FOR THE PAST YEAR THEY HAVE HAD PRACTICALLY NO WATER

The Carman well which for months past has been dry, is now supplying the people with all the water they want and more too. The flow now amounts to 250 barrels every 24 hours and the indications are that the supply will more than meet the demands for years to come.

The well was cleaned out several times, but for some reason the flow could not be restored, but the last attempt was successful beyond expectations. The residents of Carman are naturally very much pleased as they have been fighting for water for months past—and have at last got it.

JOHNSON BROS. LOOK OVER PLANT

A. J. Johnson, president of the Crookston Pure Food Co., came up from Fargo this morning accompanied by his three brothers, E. A. Johnson of Glenwood, Chas. H. Johnson of Fargo and G. W. Johnson of Ulen, all the brothers being interested in the various plants located at the respective places. They are spending the day looking over the local plant, which has been pronounced by Food Inspector E. B. Heiberg to be one of the most sanitary in the state of Minnesota, which complies with every pure food law both in letter and in spirit.

HELD RALLY AT CLIMAX

At Climax last evening the Republicans held a rally which was addressed by Atty. A. A. Miller, J. C. Sathre and Representative John Saugstad. There was a good attendance and the speakers are reported to have made rousing political addresses. Deputy Sheriff Daniels was among those who attended from this city.

FOUR LITTLE CHILDREN BURIED

Four little children were buried yesterday and today. George Verreaux son of Mr and Mrs. J. V. Verreaux was buried from St. Annes church.

John, the six weeks' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Moran was buried from St. Marys church yesterday.

Mary the 4 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Nelson was buried this afternoon.

Baby Isaacs, the 3 months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Isaacs was buried this afternoon from St. Marys church.

Winona Independent: Eighteen spellbinders for the Republican state ticket, besides Jacobson, who really should not count because he is said to be making votes for Johnson, will scatter over the state next week and attempt to turn the tide for Jacobson. But four times eighteen could not do it. The people are for Johnson, the pride of Minnesota.

ERSKINE AGENT TOOK A NAP

DEPOT LOCKED THIS MORNING WHEN TRAIN FROM DULUTH PASSED THRU

MAIL WAS PICKED UP BY MAIL CLERK BUT EXPRESS WAS LEFT

From Thursday's Daily—

Lightning or something else struck Erskine this morning and when the train from Duluth passed thru the depot was locked and no tickets could be purchased.

The mail was picked up by the railway mail clerk but the express was locked up and naturally could not be taken aboard. The train auditor, mail clerk and conductor were wondering when Crookston was reached whether the alarm clock had exploded or whether there was an overdose of politics in that vicinity.

Some wag on the platform suggested that J. F. Jacobson had been there and put the whole population to sleep.

A. R. HOLSTON FOR CONGRESS

FORMER CROOKSTON RESIDENT IS A SOCIALIST CANDIDATE

WAS COUNTY ATTORNEY OF POLK COUNTY FOR SEVERAL TERMS

Many old time friends and acquaintances of Atty. A. R. Holston former county attorney of Polk Co., and for many years a well known practicing attorney of this city, will be interested in the knowledge that Mr. Holston is a candidate for Congress this year from the Los Angeles, Cal., District, where he has been residing for the past few years, on the Socialist ticket, and reports are received to the effect that he is making a great hustle for votes, and he proved when here that he was a vote getter of the first quality.

INSPECTING DITCHES

GEO. RALPH ENGINEER OF STATE DRAINAGE BOARD IS LOOKING

OVER DITCHES IN EASTERN END OF COUNTY — JUDICIAL DITCH NO. 4

Geo. A. Ralph, engineer of the State Drainage Board is up from St. Paul and left this morning for Erskine and other points in the east end of the county and will go to Wanke before returning to inspect Judicial Ditch No. 4, one of the first constructed in Polk County, and over which there has been more or less controversy. He will be absent for several days.

WORKINGMEN HAD BIG MEET

INITIATED A LARGE CLASS AND LADIES SERVED A FINE LUNCH

Last evening the members of the Scandinavian Workingmen's Assn., held an enthusiastic meeting at which a large class was initiated including Senator A. D. Stephens, Dr. O. L. Bertelson, Geo. Hamery, Magnus Lundberg, Wm. Nelson and Mr. Skaren. Following the initiation the Ladies Auxilliary served a most tempting lunch and all present thoroly enjoyed the occasion.

RETURNED FROM A MOST PLEASANT TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Burke have returned from an extended trip to Iowa Illinois and other sections of the east and middle west, enjoying a several days' stay in Chicago. Mr. Burke the popular brakeman on the Fargo St. Vincent passenger run donned his uniform this morning. Mrs. Burke stopped off at Ada where she will visit relatives a few days before returning here. Mr. Burke reports a most enjoyable time.

HAD A GOOD LAUGH— A couple of Democrats, and good ones, were standing in front of the Republican headquarters which were opened on Tuesday evening where the Grill restaurant was formerly located, two doors west of the Journal office. As they were standing there the large pictures of Congressman Steenerson and J. F. Jacobson, the stickers on which had loosened by the moisture on the window fell down, and W. H. Taft's picture was left alone in the center of the window. The democrats thought it a good one on Jacobson and Steenerson and were of the opinion that the two were scrapping and the outcome of the fight—providing the two were fighting.

The Crookston Taft-Jacobson club was organized last evening in the Republican headquarters which were opened on Robert sttreet Tuesday and a very enthusiastic bunch of old line Republicans with a liberal infusion of young blood were present and enrolled as members. He says conditions generally are excellent thruout the northwest and he looks for one of the best years for business ever experienced in this section.

STRAW VOTE TAKEN—On Market Day a straw vote was taken at the Grand View hotel. It is probable that the vote cast is a fair expression of the preferences of those voting. Each person entering the hotel was presented with a ballot to cast and an effort was made to keep a record of the votes cast so that there was little opportunity for "stuffing". One hundred and two votes were cast. For president Bryan got 46 and Taft 51 and for governor Johnson got 75 and Jacobson 25. It will be seen that there are several Taft-Johnson men in town. There were three ballots for Bryan and Jacobson. Debs got one vote for president.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

The big state ditch contract, ten miles north of East Grand Forks has been completed. The Marais a shallow stream was deepened for miles, and a large area will be drained. The ditch was dammed at the Red River and filled with water by means of pumps. Then the ditching outfit was floated along.

The contractors are now waiting for State Engineer Ralph to arrive to inspect the ditch. When he comes the dam at the river will be blown out by the use of dynamite and the ditch will soon be emptied.

The contract for moving the heavy machinery to East Grand Forks was awarded to Pat Powers. There are 100 tons of machinery to be moved.

Supt. Elliott, formerly of this city, and now transferred to Grand Forks to succeed Supt. Nicholson who goes to Great Falls, left for his new location this morning accompanied by Mrs. Elliott. Their departure from Crookston is sincerely regretted.

Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23—As he was boarding a train for New York City here this afternoon, Broughton Brandenberg was arrested by local detectives on the charge of forgery and New York City police department advised the local department to hold Brandenberg. He is alleged to have sold the New York Times a letter which he represented to have been written by Grover Cleveland, in which the dead statesman predicted the election of Taft and which letter is now declared to have been a forgery.

Brandenberg was locked up in the police station, as the amount of his bail was not fixed. It was said by his attorney tonight that if his client was not released tomorrow he will institute habeas corpus proceedings.

In a statement issued tonight Brandenberg says he had the proper authority from Mrs. Cleveland and from Mr. Hastings, co-executor of the Cleveland estate before he sold the article to the Times, and asks if it is reasonable that any sane man would falsify the utterances of an expresident of the United States for $120.

Cremated Man Was Resident Of Beltrami

Man Who Was Cremated In The Donnybrook Jail Proves To Have Been W. E. Dytch A Well Known Farmer Of Beltrami.

W. E. Dytch, a well known farmer of Beltrami, leaving a wife and two sons was the man cremated at Donnybrook yesterday. He left for Montana a week ago. T. O. Hafdahl of the First State Bank of Beltrami left today to bring back the remains which will be shipped to Mason City, Ia., the old home for interment.

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

Yesterday the Journal contained an account of a distressing calamity at Donnybrook, North Dakota. Cre-

Donnybrook, N. D., Oct. 23— Cremated in jail which the victim undoubtedly started himself, was the fate of the man held in lockup there who was found after the flames had been extinguished at 2:30 yesterday his remains charred beyond any possible identification. The man was arrested on the charge of insanity and was to be taken to Minot today to be examined by the commission. He was alone in jail, held in cell.

About 2 o'clock yesterday morn the building in which the jail is located was discovered in flames and before the town marshal could get to the imprisoned man the place was a mass of flames. When the fire was extinguished the remains of the man were found clinging to the cell bars where he had wrestled frantically in an endeavor to gain his freedom. There was absolutely nothing on him for "identification with the exception of a gold ring bearing the initials "P" to "T" which it is believed may form some clue to finding out who the unfortunate man is.

$5,000 WORTH OF PAPER

WAS LOST IN GRIP WHICH WAS STOLEN FROM G. N. DEPOT THIS MORNING

IN BANK DEPOSIT SLIPS IN BANK OF EVANSVILLE — WORTHLESS TO FINDER

From Saturday's Daily—

A. Erickson arrived on Number 5 on the G. N. this morning from Evansville enroute to Greenbush where he has a brother and where he intends to purchase land.

He left a small red leather grip in the depot for a minute while he was making inquiries and it was stolen, no trace having been found of it since tho the police have searched high and low for suspicious characters.

The grip contained $5,000 worth of checks and drafts on the Bank of Evansville, but they would be no good to anyone but the owner, tho the thief might victimize some business man by getting him to cash them, representing himself to be Erickson.

Mr. Erickson will remain over till Monday in an effort to locate the lost grip. Aside from the checks and drafts the grip contained nothing but a few articles of wearing apparel.

MADE A GOOD IMPRESSION

INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS PLEASES HIS HEARERS

Ole Sageng, the farmer candidate for Congress, made a good reputation for himself and not a few votes, in an address he made before a good audience at the court house in this city last Saturday—Market Day.

Many people had considered Ole's candidacy for congress as a joke, but those who heard his address have a different opinion of him now. He gave a good talk on good government and stated his position on public questions He favors tariff revision and opposes the expenditure of such large sums of money as have been spent in constructing battle ships. He believes that some of that money could be used more profitably in making internal improvements, constructing highways etc.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

HELD ON SECOND CHARGE YESTERDAY

The case of Markund, charged with breaking into Engen's place at East Grand Forks on Thursday morning, was given a hearing in the municipal court yesterday afternoon before Judge Sullivan. G. A. E. Finlayson appeared for the prosecution and F. C. Massee, for the defendant. The evidence indicated the defendant had used an axe in breaking in the door. He was bound over to the district court, and in default of bail was committed to the county jail and was brought over last evening by Deputy Sheriff Daniels.

BIG WELCOME OF JAPANESE HISTORY

The Series Of Brilliant Functions Brought To A Close Last Evening.

REAR ADMIRAL SPERRY TENDERED OVATION IN TRIP THRU THE STREETS WHICH VISIBLY AFFECTED THE GRIM OLD ADMIRAL —VISIT HAS MEANT MUCH TO FRIENDSHIP AND COMMERCIAL RELATIONS BETWEEN COUNTRIES

Yokohoma, Oct. 24—The series of incomparably brilliant functions which have characterized Japan's reception of the American fleet, came to a close here tonight with a dinner on board the battleship Fuji, the guests of which were confined to the American ambassador, rear-admirals and other officers. There was also a brilliant reception on the battleship Milkasa to which all the prominent Americans here were invited, with the accompliments of illumination of the fleet, fire works and a torch light procession on shore.

Popular with the Japs

Rear Admiral Sperry today endeared himself to the Japanese people by personally attending the funeral of General Count Hodzu and placing a wreath on the casket. Later a luncheon was given at Shiba palace and the Admiral accompanied by his aides, walked from the palace to the Shimbashi railway station passing along Ginza, the principal street of Tokio, which was massed with people. The admiral was recognized and almost mobbed by tens of thousands of enthusiastic people but everywhere was treated with respect. Thousands sought to shake him by the hand, and the ovation lasted the whole length of the street. The stern old admiral was deeply impressed and at times stopped to shake hands with some individual who speaking English, halted him for the benefit of the others.

Middie Saves Jap Flag

"A single incident will illustrate the spirit in which the American sailors accepted the welcome of the Japanese. This evening a triumphal arch at the entrance of the principal street of Yokohoma caught fire the blaze reaching up toward a Japanese flag floating from a flagstaff at the top and threatening to destroy the flag. An American Jackie shied up the framework of the arch thru the blaze, broke off the staff and carried the flag safely to the ground. This act was witnessed by thousands and created a profound impression. The youngster received an ovation which continued until he was forced to run for shelter.

FOULKE IS NEARLY SMOTHERED WHEN RESCUED BY HIS FELLOW WORKERS

COLLAR BONE IS SPLINTERED AND CHEST BADLY BRUISED—FALLS ON FACE

From Saturday's Daily—

Frank Foulke, employed by Contractor Carroll on the North Third street sewer extension at Grand Forks had a remarkable escape from death yesterday when the bank caved in upon him. He fell on his face and had nearly smoothered when fellow employes dug him out. He was revived and hurried to his home on Dell avenue.

There Dr. T. Mulligan looked after his injuries. He is suffering a good deal from severe bruises on his chest and his collar bone is badly splintered His injuries are such that he will be laid up for a long time. He makes his home with his father on Dell avenue.

TEACH USE OF GASOLINE

CAPT. BROWN THINKS EXPERT COULD SECURE GOOD CLASS THIS WINTER

GENERAL USE OF GASOLINE AND GENERAL LACK OF KNOWLEDGE EVIDENT

From Saturday's Daily—

Capt. M. R. Brown in talking with a representative of the Journal this morning made a most excellent suggestion and one that will appeal to the general public.

It was to the effect that as gasoline was coming into general use as a motive power, as well as for lighting purposes and cooking, that some expert on the subject might organize a class for instruction the coming winter, and that general encouragement would be offered.

The subject is a very important one and there is no question but that the proper person would receive every encouragement, and secure a large class for instruction.

ALMOST STAMPEDED MEETING FOR JOHNSON

Attorney Gen. Young And A. A. Miller Make Learned Addresses But Young's Praise Of Johnson Started Pandemonium.

From Monday's Daily—

The first Republican rally of the season here Saturday evening was perhaps the most peculiar political gathering ever held in Crookston. The predictions that there would be only a corporal's guard there was a mistake as the Auditorium was filled.

A Splendid Address

The meeting was addressed first by Attorney A. A. Miller, who devoted his attention entirely to the achievements of the Republican Party from a national standpoint, and his address was one of the most concise and to the point ever delivered on the subject.

Attorney General Young

He was followed by Attorney General E. T. Young who also made a splendid address, first on national politics and devoting most of his time to a defense of J. F. Jacobson and state issues, sandwiching in an explanation of some of the great litigations he has been involved in as attorney general.

Lack of Enthusiasm

Both addresses were excellent but there was no enthusiasm in evidence. There were punctuations of applause started every time from the platform audience and scattered claps from the audience, but the only real outburst of applause was when Mr. Young said that he did not approve of abusing any candidate and that John A. Johnson was a man of high character, good motives and good citizenship in every sense of the words.

Vociferous Applause

This statement seemed to touch the popular chord and the applause which started lasted for several minutes and was the only real enthusiasm of a general character which was displayed thruout the entire evening, and this was the more remarkable as the addresses of both Attorney Miller and Attorney General Young were of a character to arouse enthusiasm if any could be aroused among the republicans.

Stephens Presided

Senator A. D. Stephens presided and introduced the speakers of the evening in his usual witty and affable manner and it should not pass unnoticed that in his address Attorney General Young paid Senator Stephens a very high compliment when he referred to the splendid work of the chairman in securing for Crookston the Crookston School of Agriculture.

STORE AND POST OFFICE ROBBED AT BENA SUNDAY

Ernest Fleming's Big Store Broken Into And From $500 To $1100 Taken. Would Have Got $15,000 Three Days Later.

From Monday's Daily—

Ernestt Flemming's big store at Bena was burglarized Sunday morning, the post office also being located in the same building. From the post office there was stolen $250 in stamps and about $8.50 in silver, and from Mr. Flemming's private safe about $250 in cash.

The thieves then stole a Great Northern hand car and made off either east or west, no trace having been found of the handcar as yet. One suspect was arrested at Cass Lake yesterday but there is little evidence against him.

The peculiar part of the deal is that the burglars made a big mistake that they did not wait till Tuesday when the Indians are to get a payment and Mr. Flemming would have had at least $15,000 in cash in his safe which they could have secured.

The store was entered thru a rear window and the safe dynamited. It is believed that there were several in the gang otherwise a handcar could not have been used.

CHIEF ECK CAPTURES TWO SUSPECTED ROBBERS

HE GIVES THE EAST GRAND FORKS POLICE GREAT PRAISE FOR THEIR CLEVER WORK—RETURNED WITH TWO MEN THIS AFTERNOON—GRIFFIN SURE ONE OF MEN WANTED — McKENZIE HIS PAL

From Tuesday's Daily—

Chief Eck, returned this afternoon from East Grand Forks where he probably secured the two men who Sunday morning robbed Martin Olson of $51 in cash and his watch. Chief Eck Sunday phoned to the East Grand Forks department of the robbery and as a result a man who calls himself Wm. Griffin was arrested when he attempted to cash a draft for $25 in favor of Martin Olson. Officers Chris Nelson and Hugh Quigley landed Griffin after terrific fight and Griffin's pal, Mike McKenzie was also arrested and brought to this city by Chief Eck.

Griffin had purchased a new suit of clothes and had some money on his person, as well as the Martin Olson draft.

No trace of the stolen watch has as yet been found but the East Grand Forks police believe they will be able to locate it.

Chief Eck gives the East Grand Forks police the greatest measure of credit for the fine work they did in locating the much wanted thieves, who it looked as though had ninety-nine chances out of 100 to get away as they had left no trace of their work. For his clever work in landing the thieves Chief Eck is entitled to great credit.

Some time early Sunday morning two men with whom Martin Olson had chummed Saturday evening, entered his room at the Svea Hotel and went thru his clothes taking $26 in cash, a check for $25 and a $10 watch.

They then returned to an adjoining room which they occupied, locked the door and jumped thru a window to the roof of a shed adjoining, and as far as is known are going yet. All that is known of either of these men is that one worked this fall near Fisher.

Olson discovered he was touched as soon as he awoke. With the clerk he went to the room of the men with whom he had been the night before, but as the door was locked they decided to wait till the inmates got up of their own accord.

At 8 o'clock Officer Nelson was notified, broke in the door and discovered that the birds had flown.

Martin said "godamit ma panga er all gang to hal".

BIG MEETING AT E. G. F.

SENATOR DUFFY OF ALABAMA AND HON. T. R. BANGS OF GRAND FORKS

ADDRESSED A LARGE AND ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE—O'BRIEN NOT THERE

From Tuesday's Daily—

There was a large and enthusiastic gathering at Keller's Hall, East Grand Forks last evening which was addressed by Senator Duffy of Alabama and Hon. Tracy R. Bangs of Grand Forks Both are logical and eloquent speakers and they created great enthusiasm in this discussion of both state and national issues.

Despite the inclement weather the hall was packed and the meeting was a success in every particular, and as a result there is more Democratic enthusiasm in the west end metropolis than ever before and there has been plenty of it from the start.

Several of the faithful were present from Crookston and report that it looks practically all Johnson in western Polk.

GOOD DEMAND FOR LABOR

BEMIDJI ATTORNEY SAYS THERE WILL BE MUCH LOGGING DONE

MORE MEN NEEDED THAN FOR MANY YEARS PAST SAY EMPLOYMENT AGENTS

From Tuesday's Daily—

Attorney Chas. Srutchins of Bemidji spent yesterday in the city and in an interview stated that the employment agents there report that they have orders for more men to work in the lumber camps than they have had for years. and that it was estimated that twice as many logs would be banked as were cut last winter

He says work is assured to practically all the men who can be secured and that the prospects of a busy winter has already given an impetus to business in the lumber country where heavy logging means an immense business in all lines.

Last winter was the most quiet in the history of northern Minnesota and there were more idle men strolling from camp to camp looking for work. The wages were low and the men were dissatisfied, and after working long enough in one place to secure a small stake would head for some other camp to get better wages. The quest would be in vain and after a while they would take another "mooch" as they call it, and this process was kept up till spring when very few of the men had money enough to get west on and were broke when they arrived in the cities.

BACK FROM A FOUR MONTHS TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Scribner and family returned this morning from a four months' trip during which they visited Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, Wisconsin and several of the southern states and report a most delightful trip, Mr. Sribner reporting better health than he has enjoyed for some time past.

He is glad to get back, and says conditions here are better than any where he has been The fruit crop in the east is but a half crop and in places poor at that in quality. It has been exceedingly dry in both Indiana and Kentucky.

Mr. Scribner bought a fine carload of apples in New Hampshire which he expects in a short time and will sell them here.

TAKES CHARGE OF BUFFINGTON FARM

J. F. Stewart one of the well known farmers residing near Key West will take charge of the Buffington farm, northwest of the city, succeeding Geo. Barnes as manager on Nov. 4th for the eastern owners of the farm, which is one of the largest in Polk Co. Mr. Stewart is one of the old timers of Polk county and has many friends thruout this section.

PREPARE THIS SIMPLE RECIPE AT HOME AND TRY IT—MANY WAIT TOO LONG

DRUGGISTS HERE IN TOWN SAY THEY CAN SUPPLY THE INGREDIENTS

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered as the most certain prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended It is the prescription of an eminent authority whose entire reputation, it is said was established by it.

A druggist here at home, when asked, stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

A RUNAWAY PROVED FATAL

CHAS RAMSEY KILLED IN AN ACCIDENT AT BARNUM MINNESOTA

WAS CRUSHED TO DEATH WHILE HAULING TIMBERS FOR THE SOO

REMAINS TAKEN THRU CITY YESTERDAY FOR ERSKINE—BURIED TODAY

From Tuesday's Daily—

Killed in a runaway at Barnum, Minnesota, last Saturday the remains of Chas. Ramsey aged 34 were taken thru this city yesterday in charge of his brother, Geo. Ramsey to Erskine where they were buried today. Ramsey was driving a team loaded with heavy timbers for Baraboo and Hickok, Soo railroad contractors and in going down a steep hill the neck yoke broke and the load went crashing to the bottom, the horses in some miraculous manner escaping but Ramsey fell in front of the load and was crushed underneath the timbers. Deceased was single and his mother resides south of Erskine tne family having resided there for years.

INSANE MAN IN COSTODY

MARTIN AKER OF PARK RIVER, FOUND WANDERING OVER PRAIRIE

HE WAS BAREFOOT—NORTH OF EAST GRAND FORKS

From Saturday's Daily—

Chief of Police Ellingson of East Grand Forks was summoned at four o'clock yesterday morning to the Andrew Peterson farm some three miles north of that city where he took into custody one Martin Aker, who comes from Park River and who was found wandering around in the vicinity of the Peterson farm Thursday night hatless and barefooted and evidently deranged in some manner. Chief Ellingson brought him to East Grand Forks and placed him in the city jail. It was at first thought his trouble was due to excessive use of liquor but his actions indicated that something else might be wrong and Dr. Kirk was summoned. He decided that the man was deranged and a fit subject for an insane asylum. A brother, who lives at Climax was notified and went this morning to take him in charge or arrange for his being sent to an asylum if the commission shall so decide.

Aker was employed on farms at Angus and Euclid several years ago.

FOR CONGRESS

Ole O. Sageng

THE FARMER CANDIDATE

State Senator Ole O. Sageng, who asks the support of the voters of this district as an independent candidate for congress, has a record that entitles him to consideration. He ran for state representative in Otter Tail county in 1898, and was beaten by 19 votes; but he got acquainted, and was elected next time by 450 votes In his first session he took a leading place in the legislature, both as a debater and working member. He missed only one roll call during the session. He knew more about the bills introduced than any other member In 1906, he ran for the state senate. Otter Tail county is normally republican, but he defeated his republican opponent by 1,677 votes, showing what the farmers of his home county think of him. His record in the senate is remembered by all who value good representation. He stood for lower freight and passenger rates, for the anti-pass law (he never accepted passes, even in the old days), for the tonnage tax and the wide-open tax amendment, for the distance tariff and the reciprocal demurrage bill, and for all temperance legislation. He was present at every session, and was a thorn in the side of those who sought to enact legislation against the people's interests Can not such a man be trusted to be sent up higher?

MRS. MC'DONALD WENT INSANE ON TRAIN

Arrived on the Great Northern Flyer This Morning. She Declared Someone Was After Her.

A woman giving her name as Mrs. McDonald is being held in the county jail and will be examined as to her sanity. She had a ticket from Buffalo, N. Y., to Seattle but got off the train at Barnesville. She was picked up at the latter place and came as far as Crookston when she left the train which arrived here at 2 o'clock this morning.

Officer Nelson was at the depot and when he tried to put Mrs. McDonald back on the train she screamed as tho being murdered, yelling, "they are after me" and he was compelled to take her in charge and decided the county jail was the place for her. She is being held there for the present, and will be given a hearing unless her relatives appear at once and take charge of her.

"Making Good"

may be slang but it is a vigorous phrase of tonic qualities and holds a world of solid meaning, hard work, honorable success, accomplishment.

There are many young men, 60 years and under, hard-workers, who have failed to justify the hopes and ambitions of their families and friends; failed to reap the harvest due them; failed to "Make Good". simply because they did not realize the many actual advantages offered them by a check account; the protection afforded their money; the chance to save the extra dollar or two; to build up their credit; the certainty of having to pay bills but once; and other advantages appreciated by the man who has a bank account.

SOO LINE PASSENGER TRAIN STRUCK CARRIAGE CARRYING VOTERS AT

DICKINSON, MINN.—THIRD MAN HAS LEG CUT OFF AND MAY DIE — VICTIMS WERE THROWN MANY FEET AND WERE BREATHING LAST WHEN PICKED UP

Buffalo, Minn., Nov. 4—A frightful election day tragedy occurred about 10 a. m. yesterday at Dickinson siding, on the Soo line, between Buffalo and Rockford. Two men were almost instantly killed and a third may not recover from his injuries.

The accident happened within twenty rods of the polling place at Dickinson, and the men were on their way to cast their votes. When the buggy in which they were seated was squarely upon the railroad track it was struck by passenger train No. 103 westbound. Herman Krause and William Wandersee, each about 60 years of age and residents of the town of Rockford, were thrown several feet by the impact and breathed only a few times after being picked up.

Emil Krause a son of Herman was thrown under the wheels of the engine and cars, and one of his legs cut off. He was dragged some distance and frightfully bruised and lacerated. It is not believed he can recover.

A fourth man John Noren, was standing in the rear of the buggy and saw the approach of the passenger train just in time to jump to one side. He shouted a warning but it was too late for his companions who were seated in front. The horses driven by the men had crossed the rails and were not injured. The buggy was torn to pieces.

The passenger train was immediately stopped and the bodies of the dead and the injured man placed on board and brought to this city. A thoro investigation of the affair will be made. Only one man beside Noren saw the accident. He says he heard no bell or whistle.

The dead men were pioneer farmers of Wright county and leave families.

The outcome of a trip on the matrimonial sea depends largely on the ballast.

GREATEST PERSONAL VICTORY EVER WON IN UNITED STATES

A BIG MAJORITY FOR TAFT

New York, Nov. 4—General election returns from thruout the United States, received up to an early hour this morning, show the following results:

Taft is elected president with 298 votes secure and 13 doubtful.

Practically no change is indicated in the complexion of the national house of representatives. The United States senate will retain its present republican majority.

Hughes is re-elected in New York state by about 76,000 plurality.

Indiana has gone for Taft by from 15,000 to 18,000 plurality.

Bryan apparently has carried Nebraska, altho the republicans still claim the state.

Ohio returns are seriously delayed owing to the immense size of the ballot, but Taft has carried the state by a majority ranging from 50,000 to 75,000.

Taft carried New York City by about 11,000 plurality, this being the first time the city has given its vote to a republican presidential candidate since 1896, when McKinley had a small plurality.

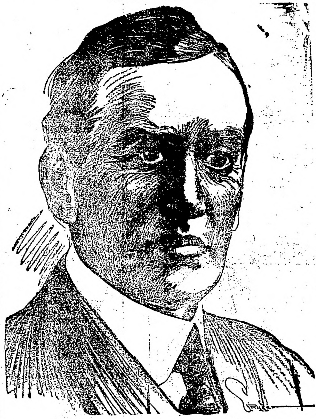
Taft received a greater plurality in New York state than President Roosevelt four years ago the indications pointing to 202,000 for Taft as against 175,000 for Roosevelt.

Hisgen the Independence party candidate for president, received about 28,000 votes in Greater New York.

Indications are that democratic governors have been elected in several of the middle western states that have given their presidntial vots to Taft.

Taft has exceeded Roosevelt's plurality in New Jersey and in Massachusetts, as well as in New York.

JOHN A JOHNSON PAID TRIBUTE BY THE PEOPLE OF MINNESOTA THAT MAKES HIM A CHARACTER OF NATIONAL INTEREST — SINGLE HANDED HE DEFEATED THE REPUBLICAN MACHINE, AND A CAVALCADE OF REPUBLICAN SPEAKERS BY GOOD MAJORITY—IF CONGRESSMAN STEENERSON WINS AT ALL OVER SAGENG IT WILL BE BY NARROW MAJORITY — SOME CLAIM HIS DEFEAT



JOHN A. JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA.

John A Johnson has been re-elected governor of Minnesota and will serve a third term. His majority ranges between 20,000 and 30,000 votes, and his re-election is one of the great personal victories ever won in the United States.

He fought single handed, and the Republican machine had a vast array of speakers out, including both United States senators, Congressmen and every available man. He fought them all—and won.

In addition he had the press of the state against him almost solidly. The Duluth Herald and the Crookston Journal were the only large dailies in the state which supported him, and naturally it is with considerable pride that we record his election against such great odds by such a large majority, having also to face the sentiment

NEW OIL FIELD HAS BEEN FOUND

EXPERTS ARE IMPRESSED BY RECENT DISCOVERIES IN WESTERN SOUTH DAKOTA

GREAT INTEREST BEING TAKEN IN THE RECENT DISCOVERY

LAND OWNERS ARE DREAMING OF FORTUNES IN THE VERY NEAR FUTURE

Pierre, S. D., Nov. 4 — The latest claims of oil indications in this state come from Buffalo county, where Indians on the Crow Creek reservation say they have knowledge of the existence of oil springs; and from the Rentz place northeast of Hayes in Stanley county, where drillers in an artesian well claim to have found oil at a depth of several hundred feet.

Oil men who have been in this part of the state the past two years say that if there is not oil in South Dakota, it will be the first time they have met failure where the indications are so good as they are here. The only reason given for not putting money into development by them is that the "prospects" cover such a wide spread of territory that to try at any particular locality would be too much of a risk, but that at some time somewhere, local tests will find the field, and when that is done there will be no lack of capital to develop it.

Among development features of the western part of the state, which are being worked up, are a flour mill at Camp Crook in northwestern Butte county, and a creamery at Sansarc, in Stanley county. Farmers in the vicinity of Camp Crook are being asked to pledge enough on an acreage of wheat to assure grain for the mill, and if they do so, the promoters say it is a certainty for next year.

Mrs. Erb Released on Bail.

Media, Pa., Nov. 3.—Counsel for Mrs. J. Clayton Erb, who is charged with being an accessory to the murder of her husband, Captain J. Clayton Erb, entered $500 bail fixed by Judge Bromall following habeas corpus proceedings and she was released from custody. Mrs. Erb was driven from the jail in an automobile and her destination was not made public.

THE RETURNS

Illinois

Chicago—Indications are that Taft has carried the state by 170,000.

Deneen the republican candidate for governor has been elected by approximately 100,000. The legislature which elects a United States senator will be strongly republican.

Massachusetts

Boston—The Globe, dem., announces that Taft has carried Massachusetts by 100,000 and that Dwyer has been elected governor by 75,000.

Connecticut

Taft's plurality in Connecticut will exceed 25,000. Lilley (rep) for governor, will have over 15,000 plurality over Robertson (dem). The republicans carry complete state ticket and probably hold their usual majorities in the legislature. All republican congressional candidates are re-elected.

Mississippi

Jackson—The returns indicate Bryan carried Mississippi by majority of over 50,000. All 8 democratic nominees for congress were elected.

Idaho

Reports indicate that Taft has carried the state by 20,000 and the election of the entire republican state ticket.

Arkansas

Little Rock—Bryan has carried Arkansas by reduced majority according to returns. As result of heavy negro vote thruout the state, all democrat congressmen elected.

Iowa

Des Moines—Returns from state outside of Des Moines indicate that Taft has carried Iowa by from 30,000 to 50,000. The entire republican state ticket has been elected. The indications that Cummings has defeated Lacey for U. S. senatorship.

Ohio

322 districts out of 4430 in this state give Taft 36,113; Bryan 27,221. Same districts in 1904 gave Roosevelt 39,140 Parker 25,926. Partial returns from same precincts give Harris (rep) candidate for governor 5,591.

If the present ratio is maintained Taft will carry Ohio by 49,000.

Kentucky

Louisville—66 out of 222 precincts in City and Jeff county give Taft 8,098 Bryan 6,529. Leslie county complete Taft 1,402, Bryan 940.

Louisville and Jeff county 124 precincts of 222 Taft 16,477; Bryan 12,863.

7 counties complete out of 119 Bryan 9,111; Taft 7,008.

FIRE

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 30.—Forest fires around Turkey Knob, near here, threatened death to miners employed in the mine of the Turkey Knob Coal company.

The fires reached the fanhouse of the coal company, destroyed it and then burned the drift mouth and set the mine afire. Fortunately there was no explosion and the men in the mine escaped through one of the four entries. Two men were overcome by smoke, but they will recover.

After six hours' work the fire was brought under control.

Motor Accident Kills Two.

Vienna, Oct. 30.—Captain Clarence Vyner, a rich American resident of Vienna, started two days ago on a motor tour for England with Mme. Bettin of Chile. At Traunstein, a town of Upper Bavaria about twenty miles from Salzburg, the motor car met with an accident while descending a steep hill. Mme. Bettin and the chauffeur were instantly killed and Captain Vyner was seriously injured.

New Danish Minister Presented.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Count Carl von Moltke, recently appointed minister from Denmark, was presented at the state department by Constantin Brun, his predecessor, who has been transferred to London. Count von Moltke is a descendant of the famous German general. Countess von Moltke, formerly Miss Cornelia Thayer of Boston, will arrive in Washington in December.

Money

New York, Oct. 30.—The charge recently made by Nathan Straus, president of the Business Men's Democratic league, and subsequently denied by Treasurer Sheldon of the Republican national committee that Wall street men are being assessed $500 each by the Republican committee, was reiterated by Mr. Straus in a speech before the Commercial Travelers' league. He declared the Republicans in New York this year "have the largest corruption fund they ever had." He said he was ready to prove that statement.

"I am ready to prove now that they not only have levied a tax of $500,' said Mr. Straus, "but that they have a sliding scale which runs up to $5,000. I am ready to prove this and the newspapers won't dare print what I say here. I declare here and now that the corruption fund to be used this year in New York is as large as it was four years ago. They won't make public beforehand the contributions because they say they are for legitimate purposes. But they know they are raising the fund for bribery. They are using every unfair means to defeat Bryan. I defy them. I defy the Republican party."

Montgomery Again Convicted.

Pittsburg, Oct. 30.—William Montgomery, cashier of the Allegheny National bank until the discovery of a shortage of over $1,250,000 last summer necessitated the closing of the institution, was for the second time this week found guilty of embezzlement, his peculations in the two cases amounting to $613,000.

Testimony Not Important.

Philadelphia, Oct. 30.—The hearing in the suit instituted by the government under the Sherman anti-trust law against anthracite coal carrying railroads and mining companies, charging a working agreement among them in restraint of trade, was resumed here before Examiner Guilbert. Several minor officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad company and of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company gave testimony of an unimportant nature.

Not a Preferred Claim.

Chariton, Ia., Oct. 30.—The suit of the Modern Woodmen of America to establish its $350,000 deposit in the defunct First National bank of Chariton as a preferred claim has been dropped following a conference of the interested attorneys and the receiver. Under an agreement which was reached this $350,000 deposit will take its place with the other deposits and will share pro rata with them in the distribution of the assets. The receiver expects to pay about 40 cents on the dollar.

Committeeman Kerr Seriously Ill.

New York, Oct. 29.—James M. Kerr. Democratic national committeeman from Pennsylvania, who has been ill for some time at his summer home at New Rochelle, N. Y., is reported to be in a serious condition. William J. Bryan visited Mr. Kerr on Monday and the excitement of the visit is said to have caused a relapse. Mr. Kerr is suffering from liver trouble.

HERO

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 30.—The eight-year-old son of Joseph Miller, mate on the steamer Kea, proved himself a hero in a fire that cost the child his life, fatally injured his mother and destroyed the Miller home.

Mrs. Miller and her five children were in the house when a gasoline stove exploded, filling the rooms with flames. Seeing that the children were on their way to safety Mrs. Miller attempted to jump from a kitchen window, but her dress caught and she hung suspended above the ground. In the meantime eight-year-old Manuel, missing his mother, re-entered the house and ran from room to room searching for her. He finally entered the kitchen, which was blazing fiercely, and when help arrived his body was burned to a crisp. Mrs. Miller was badly burned before being rescued.

Did It Ever Occur to You?

"I paid that bill once."

"You must be mistaken."

"Indeed, I am not mistaken."

"Have you a receipt?"

"It seems to me I have, but I don't remember what I did with it."

"We have no record of payment, and unless you can produce our acknowledgement in the way of a receipt, we must insist that you pay the account."

But it might have been a different story had the bill been paid with a bank check. No chance for argument or dispute when the cancelled check is produced. Better pay your bills but once—with a check on this bank.

Chink

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—The immigration authorities at Washington have ordered a temporary division in the family of Robert Hu Tung Bosman, the Hongkong millionaire, who was refused admission because of his belief in polygamy and because he was accompanied by two wives. The government has ruled that Bosman may stay in this country with one of his wives, but the other must be deported.

The embarrassing predicament has been solved, it is said, and Mrs. Clara Bosman, who is accompanied by four children, will remain in attendance upon her husband, who is under treatment in the German hospital for nervous disorders.

Pending the decision Bosman was permitted to land by furnishing a bond. At the time his condition was precarious and with his rather extensive retinue he was installed in a large suite in the hospital.

ACCUSED THIEF FREE

LeRoy Moran was arrested last evening in Grand Forks accused of stealing a watch and chain from Manager Jandre, of the Combination restaurant, in East Grand Forks. Moran was arrested by Officer Blue and held at the Grand Forks city hall, until Officer Quigley, of this city, came to get him and take him across the river.

Moran consented to cross the river and last evening was brought over to the city jail. When officer Quigley arrived at the jail with his prisoner and stopped to unlock the door, Moran made his getaway and has not been located since. Officer Quigley pulled his gun on the man, but it was not in working order and no disturbance was raised to head off the fellow who tore down the alley and evidently the trail out of town, as a search of the city has been futile and no trace of the man can be found.

It is not believed that Moran is any great distance from East Grand Forks, although the surrounding places have all been notified and the search is still being made for him.

Moran has been hanging around the city for some time, apparently doing nothing but loafing and it is believed that he is implicated in several other affairs of like nature, although this is not definitely known. His home, it was learned today, is at Moorhead, where his parents now reside.

Nothing can be god for everything. Doing one thing well brings success Doan's Kidney Pills do one thing only.

They cure sick kidneys.

They cure backache, every kidney ill.

Here is Crookston evidence to prove it.

Mrs. E. P. Spink, og 509 Broadway, N., Crookston, Minn., says: "My husband was troubled for years with backache. Some derangement of the kidneys had almost paralyzed him and caused him a great deal of suffering. This condition resisted the use of every remedy until Doan's Kidney Pills were procured at Wallace's Drug store They helped him from the first and a continuation of their use brought, renewed strength to the parts affected and benefitted his entire system."

Few Thin People Have "Doubles."

"I have been told," said the thin woman, "that there is a woman over in Brooklyn who looks just exactly like me."

"If there is, it is an unusual case of a double," said a photographer. "Thin people very seldom have doubles. In my business I meet many pairs of people who look alike. In every case the most extraordinary resemblances are between persons who are stout. Scientifically I cannot explain the likelihood of heavyweights possessing the same chin, nose, eyes and expression. Maybe it is because the flesh fills up all angles and hollows and destroys individuality of outline."—New York Sun.

Earth and Ocean

The superficial area of the globe is about 197,000,000 square miles, some three-quarters of which, about 140,000,000 square miles, is covered by sea. The average depth of this enormous extent of sea (reckoning in the various gulfs and bays) is about 2,000 fathoms. The greatest depth is in the north Pacific ocean, 4,575 fathoms, not quite five and a quarter miles.—New York American.

Resigns

Kansas City, Oct. 30.—J. L. Woods Merrill of Kansas City, national committeeman for Missouri of the Independence party, resigned that position in a letter forwarded to William R. Hearst, national chairman. In his letter Mr. Merrill says:

"This is to notify you that I withdraw all relations or connections as national committeeman for Missouri with the executive board of the Independence party, not wishing to have my name connected with any party or persons who purchase or otherwise obtain correspondence stolen by other persons for publication to the detriment or downfall of other persons for the upbuilding of yourself or the Independence party. Also, I do not wish my name connected with a party whose affiliations are so closely identified with other parties and whose only aim is to help to defeat Bryan. Taft wanted Foraker put out of business and you played the part of 'remover' and, with a grandstand play to keep up appearances, went after Haskell, with no proof of guilt, to down Bryan and in my belief the Independence party receives its campaign money from Republican sources. I was led to believe the Independence party's platform was to advocate the principles of Jefferson and Lincoln and to build up from the better class from all parties and stand for the best interests of the common people and their interests and not affiliate with nor favor any party."

Mr. Merrill asserts that the Independence party has not kept these promises and adds:

"Bryan and Standard Oil have been its only campaign issue."

ROAD EXPERIMENT.

Oil Containing Asphalt to Be Used With Sand at Cape Cod.

The Massachusetts highway commission is to conduct an interesting experiment in road building on Cape Cod, where there is no stone to speak of. A heavy grade of Texas crude oil containing a large percentage of asphalt will be used with the sand. The sand road will first be shaped with a road machine, and heated oil will be spread over the surface. A second lot of oil will be sprinkled on when the first coat has been on for two weeks.

The surface will then be cut up with a disk harrow so as to mix the sand and oil to a depth of four inches. After this has been done the road will be rolled and the surface sprinkled with a thin layer of sand to absorb the surface oil. A little work of this sort was done under the highway commission's supervision about two years ago, which has resulted satisfactorily.

Importance of Good Roads.

The Gaffney (S. C.) Ledger gives the following fact and comment, which afford a practical argument on the subject of highway improvement in a nutshell:

Some Cherokee county land sold the other day at public outcry and brought from $16 to $37.50 per acre. This land was twelve miles from the county seat at that. If we had macadam roads this same land would have brought $50 to $100 per acre. Half a million dollars spent in building good roads in Cherokee would mean an increase of a million dollars in the value of our farm lands alone. Will people never awake to their own interests and begin doing something for themselves, or will they continue to abide in the mud?

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 30.—A four-masted schooner, lumber laden, bound north, was driven ashore on the North Carolina coast during a severe northeast gale. The vessel lies on the shoals off Paul Gamiels hill, fifty miles south of Cape Henry. Three of her masts already have been washed out of the schooner since she struck and unless the seas subside she probably will be washed to pieces.

Meager information by relayed sea coast telephone messages tells of the rescue of six of the eight in the crew of the wrecked schooner. These were brought ashore in the breeches buoy and told of the drowning of the other two before the buoy line could be shot across the vessel by the three lifesaving crews standing by and powerless to launch lifeboats. In the excitement the name of the vessel was not obtained.

Brutalities at Sea.

Naval punishments were brutally severe in the seventeenth century. They marooned—that is, they set a man ashore alone on a desolate coast or island and left him to starve, to be destroyed by savages or wild beasts. They keelhauled—that is, they dragged a man naked by yardarm whips under the bottom of the ship and drew him up raw and bloody with the harsh wounding of barnacles and spikelike adherences only to be submerged afresh ere the unhappy miscreant could fetch a full breath. They nailed a man to the mainmast by driving a knife through his hand. For murder (that was often manslaughter) they tied the living to the dead, back to back, and threw them overboard.

Goes Insane on Ocean Liner.

New York, Oct. 30.—Richard Lenz, a Herculean framed tenor, who went insane on the Kronprinz Wilhelm while she was in midocean, fought six immigration officers in the first cabin saloon of the liner at quarantine till they were exhausted. It was only when reinforcements arrived in the shape of several husky members of the crew that he was subdued and taken to Ellis island.

Score Hurt

Cincinnati, Oct. 30.—More than a score of people were injured, several dangerously, by a fierce fire in the eleven-story Neave building. Peering down through smoke and flame at the hurrying, firemen more than a score of women crouched on the broad window ledges trying to escape the flames bursting out in the offices behind them. Below fire ladders, lifenets and all manner of other lifesaving apparatus were being prepared for such as might leap from the horror of fire to the almost certain death on the street below. One young woman, crazed by fear, tore herself free from restraining friends and jumped from a tenth floor side window to an adjoining roof five stories lower down, being dangerously injured. Above the second floor a hoseman slipped from a ladder and fell to the street, his injuries being very serious. Broken glass injured some, scorching flame placed its mark on others. As fast as they were brought from the building the injured were taken to the hospitals, or, if less seriously hurt, to their homes. At least ten went to the hospitals, while more than that number were taken home. The fire was brought under control in half an hour.

Flames Spread Rapidly.

The fire broke out in the offices of the Pittsburg Calcium Light company, spreading quickly to the offices of the Pattern Makers' league. As the flames and smoke poured out of the windows of the fourth, fifth and sixth floors many of the girls employed in the building appeared at the windows and seemed about to jump. A number threw coats out and then crawled out on the broad window ledges, where they lay flat while the flames burst through the windows, scorching the crouching women painfully. At least ten suffered painful injuries in this manner, while one of the firemen was seriously hurt by a two-story fall.

Heroic work on the part of the firemen brought the fire under control within a few minutes and the panicky occupants of the building were then brought out to safety.

Although panic seemed to seize the 150 girls in the Dunleavy dressmaking establishment on the tenth floor only one, Louise Boutte, jumped. She was taken to the hospital, where her injuries were reported to be serious. Miss Marie Brandt ran through the flames and was seriously burned about the head and arms.

Alleged Registration Frauds.

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 30.—The alleged discovery of wholesale registration frauds here has caused a sensation and each party is blaming the others for frauds. Chief of Police Monahan, who has men investigating the poll lists, states that there are at least a thousand false registrations in the lower wards of the city. Many names are found registered from canal boats that do not exist and many false names have been registered from lodging houses.

Immense Mineral Production.

Washington, Oct. 30.—A grand total of $2,069,289,196 worth of mineral products in the United States is announced by the geological survey. Of this amount $1,166,165,191 were nonmetallic, $903,024,005 metallic and $100,000 not specified. The mineral products for the previous year aggregated $1,904,007,034.

Blames Morse

New York, Oct. 30.—Alfred H. Curtis, president of the defunct Bank of North America, continued on the stand in the case against himself and Charles W. Morse, the promoter, accused of violating the banking laws. As on the previous day Mr. Curtis attempted to put the blame for the various alleged illegal transactions on Morse. Curtis was under cross-examination by District Attorney Stimson and in telling of the occurrences at the National Bank of North America at about the time Morse is alleged to have overdrawn his account $210,000 Curtis said many things which were discussed by the directors at meetings were not entered in the minutes of such meetings. While none of those remarks which were omitted from the minutes could have been regarded as material in themselves, said the witness, undoubtedly as a whole they influenced the bank's officers in their actions. He said Charles T. Barney and Mr. Morse were close friends. They frequently discussed the "ice" situation and were optimistic regarding the company's future.

Mr. Stimson took up the liquidation of the $100,000 Whiting loan, through the purchase by the bank of 2,000 shares of ice stock at $30 per share, and the making of a loan to Mr. Morse of $40,000 on the 1,000 shares of copper that had been put up to strengthen the original Whiting loan.

Mr. Curtis was asked to explain how the transaction improved the situation of the bank. He insisted the 2,000 ice purchased by the bank from Morse at $30 per share could have been sold in the market for ready cash and the proceeds would have liquidated the loan.

Mr. Stimson produced a letter signed "C. W. Morse, per W.," written in response to a notice sent to Mr. Morse of the $40,000 loan made on the 1,000 copper shares. In the letter Mr. Morse flatly repudiated the $40,000 loan and declared that the bank had no right to add to it the loan of $270,000 then standing in his name in the bank, saying that the bank well knew the conditions under which it had been made.

Mr. Curtis produced a letter written by him under date of June 13, 1907, and addressed to Morse, in which he protested vigorously against the continuance of practices inaugurated by the latter, which, in Curtis' opinion, constituted a grave menace to the stability of the Bank of North America.

More Suffragettes Go to Jail.

London, Oct. 30.—All the suffragettes with the exception of two who were arrested Wednesday night during the disorders in and around the house of commons were arraigned in court and fined $25 each. They refused to pay and were consequently sentenced each to one month's imprisonment. Of the two exceptions one was a girl under twenty-one years of age and the other a woman who secured an adjournment to lodge a charge of assault against the constable who arrested her.

Cuts Off Wife and Daughters.

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—As announced by the executors of Henry A. Butters, the millionaire traction magnate who died last Tuesday, the bulk of his fortune, estimated at several millions of dollars, will go to the testator's son, Henry A. Butters, Jr. Not only is Mrs. Butters excluded from participation, but her two daughters by a former marriage were cut off with bequests of $5 each.

QUESTION

MANY IMPERTINENT QUESTIONS ARE ASKED WITNESS IN THE STANDARD CASE

STANDARD HAD BEST

VERMONT CENTRAL WAS IN CAHOOTS WITH THE ROCKEFELLER OUTFIT

GROCERYMAN WITNESS

LETTERS GIVING DIFFERENT RATES ARE INTRODUCED AS TESTIMONY

Clerks and General Managers of the Standard are Called Upon to Tell What They Know About the Low Rates Granted the Standard—Many Admissions Obtained.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 30—The admission that the Standard Oil company benefitted from a preferential freight rate lower than that quoted to any other shippers was drawn from a witness today at a hearing in the government's suit to dissolve the company.

Geo. B. Ferguson clerk in the freight department of the Central Vermont railroad gave the testimony referred to. After enumerating various tariffs in force on the Central Vermont none of which he declared, had ever been secret, the witness was taken in hand by the government's attorney, who elicited the information that a special rate had been issued to the Standard Oil company.

The Beneficiaries

Pressed as to what other shippers had been benefitted from this special tariff the witness said that as far as he knew the rate applied only to the Standard. The extent of preference accorded to the Standard by the Central Vermont was shown in two letters quoting freight rates per carload. In one instance the rate was given as $33 a carload, while in the other case the rate quoted was $23. The witness admitted that $23 rate was the one under which the Central Vermont carried the Standard Oil's shipments.

Prices for Oil

R. C. Crenshaw, manager of the Standard Oil company of Indiana was another of the witnesses examined. He was questioned regarding the prices for oil prevailing at Duluth in 1904. In April he declared, the price had been 10 cents a gallon. In May this had been reduced to 9 cents. In explaining the reduction, Mr. Crenshaw related that Standard's competitors had been giving five gallons free with every purchase of fifty gallons and allowing rebates as well, and that the Standard had to cut the price in order to keep its customers. In July a further reduction had been made.

Henry H. Oppel, a groceryman of Duluth, Minn., and Wm. A. Cleary, New York agent of the Champlain transportation company were other witnesses examined.

ADA HIT GRACE WITH BEER BOTTLE

AND ADA PAID A FINE OF $24.50 IN MUNICIPAL COURT TODAY

This morning before Judge Gossman of the Municipal court Ada Ellsworth was arraigned charged with hitting Grace Martin a wallop over the skypiece with a beer bottle during a jollification in Happy Hollow last evening Ada insisted that Grace was trying to dictate what brand of beer should be served, and after arguing the matter admitted patting her on the coa-coa with a beer bottle.

Grace at present has the appearance of being hit with a beer bottle alright, and Judge Gossman applied the soothing balm of a fine of $24.50 which included costs, and Ada dug thru the side of her directoire gown and produced the coin.

IS SAID TO HELP MANY

PREPARE THIS SIMPLE RECIPE AT HOME AND TRY IT—MANY WAIT TOO LONG

DRUGGISTS HERE IN TOWN SAY THEY CAN SUPPLY THE INGREDIENTS

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered as the most certain prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended It is the prescription of an eminent authority whose entire reputation, it is said was established by it.

A druggist here at home, when asked, stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

MEMORIAL SERVICES

Washington, Oct. 30.—Beautiful memorial services, attended by a brilliant assemblage of representatives of all branches of official life in Washington, were held in memory of the late Freiher Speck von Sternburg, German ambassador to the United States, who died at Heidelberg Aug. 23. President and Mrs. Roosevelt, members of his cabinet, diplomatic representatives of all nations, members of the supreme court of the United States, high officials of the government and officers of the army, navy and marine corps, many of whom were accompanied by their wives, were present.

The services were held in Concordia Evangelical Lutheran church, which was attended by Baron von Sternburg during his residence here. The service lasted but three-quarters of an hour and was conducted in part in German by Rev. Paul A. Menzel, pastor of Concordia church, and in part in English by Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of St. John's church.

Samburg, Tenn., Oct. 30.—There are now more than ninety prisoners in camp here. It is practically certain that the most important night riders are now under guard. A heavy guard is watching every movement of the suspects and they are not allowed to talk to their friends except when a guard is present to hear their conversation. A number of women have visited them, bringing baskets of cakes and other eatables. Major Martin and Major Norton both brought in prisoners and Captain Zopfi of Nashville, with a small squad of men, ment to the home of one Bob Haffman and forced him to get out of bed and accompany them to camp. He is believed to be a prisoner of importance. Governor Patterson remains in camp.

Editor James Eryce of the Troy News-Banner, who was brought in Wednesday, has been released and is again at his home.

Mrs. Matilda Rassaker, mother of the three Rassaker boys under arrest here, is dead. Heart trouble superinduced by worry over the arrest of her sons is said to have caused her death.

To Save Stirring.

Most people understand that the placing of a marble in a kettle prevents furring, but few seem to know that a large clean marble boiled in milk, porridge, custards, sauces or stews will automatically do the stirring as the liquid cooks. Any chance of burning will be prevented, and thus the fatigue of constantly stirring and the cook's time can be saved, as by this means the cook can be attending to several things at once instead of having to give her whole time and attention to one.—London Lady.

Horses With Mustaches.

"I've got a rarity, a horse with a mustache," said a cabby.

The horse doctor looked the ungainly animal over.

"It is a rarity," he said, "a mustache so highly developed. Lots of horses have incipient, Chinese-like mustaches, but your nag has the mustache of a grenadier—a regular soup strainer, eh?"

"Mayhew and the other leading authorities lay it down that a mustache is the surest sign of a low bred horse. Certainly no one can dispute your animal's claim to low breeding."—Philadelphia Bulletin

GAME WARDEN MUNCH LANDS ANOTHER TRIO FOR VIOLATING GAME LAWS

TWO MEN SHOT DEER AND SOLD IT TO A WAUBON BANKER

THE FINAL COST WAS VERY CLOSE TO $100, OR ABOUT $10 PER STEAK

Game Warden Munch has just returned from an extended trip to Red Lake and the White Earth Reservation and landed a trio of violators of the game laws. He arrested Paul Saice and Archie Boswell for selling a deer to L. S. Waller, the banker at Waubon for $20.

Before Judge Shulind at Mahnomen Saice entered a plea of guilty for all three of the guilty parties and a fine of $77.25 was assessed which Banker Waller undoubtedly put up, as the other men had no money.

This made the deer cost him about $100, which made venison steak worth about $10 per throw.

THE FEEDER.

Take particular pains in putting up the clover hay. There is no better roughage for cattle than good clover hay, but its feeding value depends entirely upon the way in which it is cured.

Feeding Salt.

Salt that remains in the barrel of meat that is clean and wholesome is in no way infected with germ life that will injure stock to which it is fed any more than other salt. Animals are sometimes poisoned on salt, but it is by reason of their being so hungry for it that they overeat of it. Thus if a person were to dump the contents of a meat barrel on the ground and cattle, horses or sheep that were hungry for salt got to it they likely would eat it to their injury.

Cowpeas For Cows.

Cowpeas make an excellent food for dairy cows when combined with other grain and fodder in proper proportions, but they are so highly concentrated and nitrogenous that they should be fed in moderate quantities and mixed with cut feed in bran..

Feed of the Boar.

The feed of the boar when not in service may be of a succulent nature—mainly pasture and cut green forage during the summer months and roots in winter. A boar can hardly be sustained in these alone, and some grain should be allowed to keep him in condition. This should be nitrogenous in character, consisting of mill feeds—such as shorts, middlings and bran—some oil meal and the leguminous grains, with a little corn. As the breeding season approaches the feed should be increased, so that the boar will be in good condition.

Ration For Nursing Mares.

Mares nursing foals should be given a ration that will not only increase their flow of milk, but materially enrich it. Oats and bran in equal bulk, with about one-fourth in bulk of corn added, make a good ration for a mare in milk. This should always be moistened before feeding.

Feeding the Pigs.

A prominent swine breeder says: Don't let a single apple go to waste. Every windfall will help to fit the pigs for the early market. The same is true of the waste from the vegetable garden. Don't let the weeds in the fence corners go to seed. The hogs will work them over, and many of them contain tonic properties. Utilize what is good in them and at the same time keep the premises tidy. Hogs need a change of ration. Milk is always a staple food, but give grains to make a change now and then. Give some vegetables, too, and occasionally some fruit It all helps to give growth

Tortuous Statutory Indictments.

Suppose an old woman steals a leg of mutton. If the indictment merely says that she stole it she must be acquitted. It must further state "that she the said leg of mutton did take and carry away," even though, in fact, she was caught before she had time to do anything of the kind.

If Smith assaults Jones it is not enough for the indictment to say so or even that he "did beat, wound and ill treat" him. It must say all these things and also that "the said Smith divers other wrongs to the said Jones then did."

Finally, if Smith shoots Jones and is lucky enough not to kill him the appropriate indictment must not only describe the shooting and the wounds, but must be careful to allege that the gun "was then and there loaded with gunpowder and divers leaden bullets."—London Bystander.

BIG MONEY MADE IN TUBERS

GREATER ATTENTION BEING PAID TO CULTIVATION OF POTATOES HERE

MAYOR McPHEE ILLUSTRATES WHAT CAN BE MADE BY PAPER FROM OLD HOME

ONTARIO FARMERS ARE PROFITING BY MORE EXTENSIVE RAISING

From Thursday's Daily—

Mayor J. D. McPhee says the farmers of this section are paying more and more attention to the cultivation of potatoes, and are making good money. Fields of 10 and 150 acres of potatoes are not uncommon and many farmers raise from 10 to 50 acres.

As illustrating what can be made, Mayor McPhee handed us the following clipping from his old home paper The Paisley Advocate published at Paisley, Ont. It says:

The potato crop is no longer what it once was in Ontario, and the Province of New Brunswick is being enriched by the failure here. This year's yield in the river counties of New Brunswick is reported to be slightly above the average, and the farmers of New Brunswick is reported to be slightly above the average and the farmers who went heavily into this branch are reaping fortunes. One man in Aroostoon put in 125 acres and the yield has been 120 barrels or 300 bushels per acre. He has sold out the entire crop at $1.25 per barrel, and received from his one hundred acres the sum of $18,750. This is an exceptionally large crop, but there are many instances of farmers putting in from sixty to one hundred acres and taking as high as four hundred bushels per acre. Prices will be falling pretty soon but will not go below 90c per barrel to the farmer. In the Canadian West the average wheat yield is twenty bushels, which brings the farmer about 80c per bushel at the most. He thus receives $16 per acre as against $140 or more per acre for eastern potatoes. New Brunswick growers are now rapidly securing the entire Montreal potato trade, and are reaching for the markets of Ontario cities. "There is always a strong and steady demand, and within the past two years the New Brunswick farmers have placed themselves in a better position to take advantage of the best prices by providing proper potato cellars and cold storage. The potato boom is so favorably looked upon that scores of hitherto abandoned farms are now being taken up and worked. All that is still desired is a foreign freight rate.

RAILROAD BOYS WILL MEET

DAKOTA RAILWAY CLUB WILL HOLD SESSION NEXT SUNDAY

Grand Forks, Oct. 29—The Dakota railway club which consists of the employes of the Dakota division of the Great Northern will hold another of their big sessions at the freight house next Sunday afternoon in this city. The meeting will be called at 2:30 p. m. and will have as principal Guy C. Corliss who will speak more particularly in the injunction laws, while Superintendent of Schools, W. L. Stockwell will make an address on the relation of the public schools to the railroads. The meeting promises to be the largest held by the Dakota division boys as the interest in the club since organization has now reached immense proportions.

Animals and Odors.

Writing in Suburban Life, Charles D. Kellogg, the well known naturalist, says: "The matter of odor is an extremely interesting one. Most creatures have an odor which indicates friendliness and another which indicates anger. Always holding the thought of love toward every living creature, just as I have tried to instill it into the mind of Don, my dog, I have never hesitated to take up animal, reptile, bird or insect. My first thought of a reptile odor was that of apples. Yet people told me that this creature gives off a noxious stench. Now, this latter odor is present in any wild creature's body when it is disturbed. The bodies [illegible] man beings give out odors whi[illegible] keenly apparent to wild creatures and indicate the feeling which men and women have for them, whatever it be, love, fear or hate."

GRIFFIN WAS BOUND OVER

ONE MAN WHO IS ACCUSED OF HAVING ROBBED MARTIN OLSON

IS HELD TO THE DISTRICT COURT UNDER $500 BONDS WHICH HE LACKED

H. A. McKENZIE DEMANDED A HEARING WHICH IS NOW IN PROGRESS

From Thursday's Daily—

BULLETIN

McKenzie was discharged late this afternoon, there being no evidence against him.

The hearing of Herbert Griffin and H. A. McKenzie charged with having robbed Martin Olson of $26 in cash, a check for $25 and a watch worth $10 was called at 2 o'clock this afternoon before Judge Gossman in the municipal court. Griffin at once waived examination and was held to the district court, bonds being fixed at $500.

McKenzie demanded a hearing. He said he did not arrive from Dakota till Monday last and denied all connection with the affair. County Attorney Maybury called Olson, C. Strandell acting as interpreter and Olson failed to identify McKenzie.

There was a large delegation from East Grand Forks including Officer Quigley, Jack Woods, Mr. Osmundson and others who will be called later this afternoon

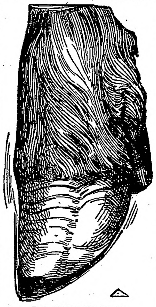
MULEFOOT HOGS.

What a Kansas Breeder Has to Say About Them.

Breeders of swine in many sections of the country are greatly interested in mulefoot hogs, and these animals have attracted considerable attention in recent years when exhibited at the state fairs. These hogs are now being improved and bred under the name of Ozark hogs.

A Kansas breeder, Dr. W. J. Connor, who is raising them, says that, while in a measure they are a new thing, yet he has been breeding them long enough to have ascertained that they are actually the best range hogs in existence today. He has found, he says, that they will live and prosper where a common hog would starve to death.

The meat of these hogs, he declares, is sweeter than that of common hogs, and there is a larger proportion of lean to fat. They may be finished at any age, and it is possible to bring them to a weight of from 500 to 800 pounds. It seems that these hogs have been tried out in practically every state in the Union, and Dr. Connor says that they have never had cholera.



FOOT OF MULEFOOT HOG.

The Submarine Cable.

The first cable successfully laid extended from Valentia island, off the coast of Ireland, to Heart's Content, Newfoundland, about 2,000 miles. The cable was landed on the American side on Aug. 5, 1858, but was not ready for use till Aug. 16. About 730 short messages were sent through it, but it entirely failed within a month. The fact was demonstrated, however that direct communication under the ocean was possible, although few persons at that time believed that a submarine telegraph could be used for business purposes. Cyrus W. Field, to whose enterprise was due the laying of the first cable, thought differently. Not discouraged by this and other failures, he continued the work he had planned, interested London capitalists in it, and, in 1866, succeeded in establishing submarine communication, which has never been interrupted.—New York Post.

HEMORRHOIDS SORES AND ECZEMA

Accompanied by Terrible Itching—A Complicated and Most Distressing Case—Well-known Remedies Failed to Cure—Doctor Thought an Operation Necessary—Then

CUTICURA PROVED ITS WONDERFUL EFFICACY

"I am now eighty years old and one morning, three years ago, I was taken with a hard pain in my right side. In two days I had an attack of piles (hemorrhoids), bleeding and protruding. The doctor gave me some medicine and an ointment for them which helped me some but I had to keep using them all the time. Then I changed to the P—— remedy; but if I did not use it every day, I would get worse. The doctor said the only help for me was to go to a hospital and be operated on. At this time, about a year ago, I went to using the S—— remedies. I tried them for four or five months but did not get much help for my piles. During this time sores would come on a fleshy part of my body. They bothered me all the time. I would get one healed and another would come. These sores changed to eczema, accompanied by a terrible itching. It seemed as if I could not keep my hands from tearing my flesh. This and the pile trouble brought on an inflamed condition. Then I got the Cuticura Remedies. I washed the affected parts with Cuticura Soap and warm water in the morning, at noon, and at night, then used Cuticura Ointment on the irritated surfaces and injected a quantity of Cuticura Ointment with a Cuticura Suppository Syringe. I also took Cuticura Resolvent Pills three times a day. It took a month of this treatment to get me in a fairly healthy state and then I treated myself once a day for three months and, after that, once or twice a week. It is fortunate that I used Cuticura. The treatments I had tried took a lot of money that I would have saved by using Cuticura Remedies sooner, but I am wiser now. I am supplied with a full set of the Cuticura Remedies and would not feel safe without them. J. H. Henderson, Hopkinton, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., Apr. 26, 1907."

Rockefeller's Politics

After all, the feature of the campaign was reserved to the last. It was the effort of John D. Rockefeller to ally himself with one of the great parties, and the indignant denial of both parties of a refuge to the richest man in the world.

This is interesting and somewhat amusing. But what sensation must it give Mr. Rockefeller! Here is the richest man in the world the man who has given more millions to education than any one else on earth; the man who supports foreign missions, home missions and important benevolent enterprises. Yet Mr. Rockefeller the richest man in the world today, cannot announce how he is going to vote without causing consternation in two great parties.

It is sad, but true, that neither party can afford the luxury of Mr. Rockefeller's support. He is a political pariah. His money has made him suspected. The letters of Archbold have put the capstone upon the monument to unpopularity and distrust which the Standard Oil company has been raising.—Minneapolis Journal.

Fall Market And Wheat Prices

With speculative activity in the wheat market at so low an ebb, it is considered remarkable that prices have ruled so high in the face of a tremendous primary movement of grain.

Dollar wheat is usually the result of artificial inflation. This season, however, the market has steadied at this price and seems fairly established by commercial conditions. Receipts in Minneapolis since September 1 have totaled 30,000,000 bushels and Duluth has received 28,000,000 bushels; this is exclusive of winter and bonded wheat.

According to the government report the three states of the Northwest raised 174,847,000 bushels of wheat. The terminal markets have received about 33 per cent of this production. Taking into consideration the needs of interior mills, a normal carry over at the end of the season and seed requirements, it would seem reasonable to assume that only 30 to 35 per cent of the marketable wheat remains in first hands, with but two months of the crop year passed.

The demand for cash wheat has been so urgent from both millers and exporters that liberal premiums have been paid. The returns on the portion of the wheat already disposed of must total between $80,000,000 and $85,000,000 and there is, besides this direct accretion to the growers, the increased business of the railroads and the handling charges, which distributes the wealth of the farms over the field of allied interests.

The damage to the Argentina crop which may reduce the exportable surplus of that country below 100,000,000 bushels, makes the supply prospects of the world very unsatisfactory. For two seasons the farmers of the Northwest have received high prices for their wheat. If the fall marketing, which is the heaviest on record, cannot break the market underlying conditions must be sound.

As consumption begins to make inroads upon visible supplies, the moderate surplus which the farmers are carrying is likely to appreciate as the supply strain increases in the international market.

The Common Sailor With The Fleet

While American hearts swell with pardonable pride at the marvelous achievements of our great battle fleet in its cruise around the world, American heads should not fail in giving the measure credit due the common sailor who mans the ships.

The machinery of every vessel has stood the test of the tremendous continued strain. The ships have proved sea worthy under every condition and have completed much more than half their final distance and much the more difficult part in as good or better condition than when they started.

The officers and navigators have shown their abilities. They have been equal to every sea emergency. The commanders in the equally difficult role of diplomats in meeting the officials of other nations have said just the right thing at the right time, and socially have been American gentlemen.

But after all is said and done and every possible mead of credit has been given to all other factors of the cruise, the major praise belongs to the enlisted men, who not only have been adequate to the demands of every duty afloat, but ashore have won for themselves and their country the friendship of every people whose shores they have visited.

"Jack ashore" is always pictured as a terror. Freed from the confinement of the ship, with the leash of discipline relaxed, his veins full of good, red, fighting blood and with a healthy appetite for red liquor, he has not been tooted as a man of peace and a stickler for the rules of etiquette.

But not once in all this world encircling cruise, with the thousands given shore leave in a body, half the earth between them and home, has there been any behavior on the part of the men that was not to their credit. They have been "good fellows" and "free spenders" always good humored neither looking for trouble nor courting it, but kindly and pleasant, enjoying every sort of entertainment provided and fraternizing in genuine, whole-hearted fashion with the people

It must not be forgotten that they were the point of contact of the people with the fleet. It was here America really touched the elbows with the nations, and too much importance can not be given to this factor in the remarkable success of the visits to a score of foreign ports of our flock of doves.—Duluth News Tribune.

The Pouren Test

No nation is finished; every nation can and must help the others to develop. America is not a finished project, nationalty, whatever its ideal conception. Russia can help us to become, as we can help Russia.

The other day, when the fate of Jan Pouren the Russian refugee, hung in the balance in New York a group of devoted compatriots stood about the door waiting for the decision which should remand Pouren to Russia, there to stand trial—if that may be bespoken of Russian methods of jurisprudence—for murder, arson, pillage and the other crimes under the name of which Russia seeks to root out revolution; or which should make him free either for another trial, or free entirely. A woman stood in the group spokesman for the others. Her name has escaped the memory—it ended in "sky"—but she is the type of the general. And she declared, waiting to see if America would grant justice to Pouren ,that Russian revolutionists, perhaps all revolutionists, were disappointed when they reach America to find that it is not the land of the free. They expect to find no shadow of their wrong here; expect to find finished democracy, completed society They are disappointed, spoke the little Russian woman. But they do not go back. They bend their energies rather toward the freeing of the Americans who dwell in darkness. They seek to bring the light, they, from darkest Russia.

Fortunately Secretary Root denied extradition to Pouren thus defeating Russian plans for his punishment. The secretary of foreign affairs did not deny the Russian right to another trial; in this he rather followed American precedent of technical interference than ideal interference; he refused extradition on the ground that the evidence lacked an essential link which might or might not be furnished in a future trial. This was no doubt the correct way to proceed, since Russia is our peer among nations, and however the American people may protest against its cruelty, the American nation must observe the law.

In this way America furnishes a lesson to Russia and does not offend Russia. In this way America furnishes a lesson to the revolutionist, and also to the idealist who would have had Russian right to possession of Pouren denied in toto at once. But it is also true that the little revolutionary woman was right. America is not thru with the problem of a free people, of a finished democracy, of a perfect society. It has much to do, to learn. And in that way Russian revolutionists are as necessary to us as we are to them. They feel so keenly any slight upon the most negligent individual—if there ever were such—that they can help us in our very effort to secure a "square deal" quite os much a swe can help them to get any deal whatsoever that recognizes them. The Pouren case is a test case for Russia, for America.

STATE PRESS

The laborer is worthy of his hire, and the government of the Uinted States, above all others, ought to be willing to pay its employes fair compensation for their services, and to make the conditions surrounding their work as safe and as wholesome as possible. The facts seem to indicate pretty clearly that the railway mail clerks of the country are not properly paid. Their average pay is about $1,000 per year, and out of that they must pay traveling expenses which amount in some cases to $200 or over. The net income of the average mail clerk is about $900. That is not enough. The mial clerk is of necessity a man of unusual mental equipment. If anyone doubts that let him tackle one of the examinations. He must be a man of extraordinary physical endurance. If he is not he is a wreck in a very short time. The mail clerk is, by the necessary conditions of his employment, subjected to unusual risk. For that risk, and for the attendant anxiety on the part of his family the government cannot compensate him. But it can pay him a salary commensurate with his work. It can pay him as much as the same man may reasonably expect to earn in other occupations thru the same attention and industry which the government expects of him. And while the government cannot remove the element of risk from the occupation, it can at least make and enforce such regulations as will remove all unnecessary risk. It can secure for the transmission of the mails strongly built cars, properly heated, lighted and ventilated. And if the government does not do all of these things it falls short of being what every reasonable man believes it should be—a model employer.—Ex.

Heart Disease and Sudden Death.

A man rushing to catch a train the other day fell dead. In this instance it is fair to assume that the strain on a weak heart might fairly be held responsible. In view of the fierce competition in life and the undue strain to which the masses of men are subjected it is of the highest importance that people known to be affected with heart disease should exercise the greatest care as to overtaxing their physical strength in view of the danger of sudden death, instances of which are so common today. Inasmuch as few people are aware of having weak hearts, a safe rule for all men over forty is to avoid the perils of haste and undue strain, as in lifting, rushing, etc. Another important factor, many people over forty indulging in excessive eating are in danger of arterio-sclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, which results in sudden death from apoplexy, kidney or heart disease. To sum the matter up, people over forty must limit their table indulgence and avoid sudden and undue haste or strain if desirous of attaining a ripe old age.—New York Herald

Couldn't Feaze This One.

An instance of the careless, good natured philosophy of the negro may be seen in the little doggerel verse laughingly sung by a black farmer when at the end of a bad crop year nothing was coming to him after his supply bills were paid. He could neither read nor write; he had no money or chance of getting any for another twelvemonth, yet apparently there was no fretting on his part. He took the balance sheet, which was an utter mystery to him, and, pretending to inspect it and following the rows of figures with eye and finger, he gleefully chanted:

"Aught's an aught,
Figger's a figger,
Ev'ything fur de white man
An' nuffin' fur de nigger!"

Then carelessly he stuffed the bit of paper into his pocket, "cut the pigeon's wing" and finally walked away to all appearances with a whimsical enjoyment of the fact that his own penniless condition corroborated the statement of his song.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Put to Flight.

The baby in arms was screaming lustily, and the man in the gray suit could not hide his irritability.

"What on earth, madam," he spluttered, "do you mean by bringing such a howling brat into a public vehicle?"

"It isn't a brat!" retorted the mother, with natural indignation. "And if I'm any judge it doesn't howl half as much as you did at its age, going by the looks of you!"

The man in gray wriggled uneasily under the general scrutiny.

"Baby, see the ugly man?" pursued the infuriated female, pointing at him. "See the monkey-ponkey, gorilla man what might take a first prize at a beauty show for the 'orriblest face? Baby, hush, or the ugly monkey man will"—But the sentence remained unfinished, for the man in the gray suit had bolted.—London Graphic.

Political "Pome."

The fight is drawing to its close. The noise will soon be gone. There but remains the last appeal that's due from More Anon, a few brief words from You Know Who as friend speaks unto friend, Justitia throws a final fit, and then we have the end. A "Note of Warning" there may be from Old Subscriber's pen, and Constant Reader may emerge one moment from his den. Vox Populi may raise a wail that pierces heaven's vault, insisting that the time has come when we should call a halt, and One Who Knows may yet, perchance, his stormy voice uplift and ask of all the universe, "Ah, whither do we drift?" But all the fighting has been done. There is no longer strife. So let us cut out politics and lead the higher life.—Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.

Women In England.

In the seventeenth century, when Englishwomen were still recognized as possessing an economic and political status side by side with Englishmen. there was written an interesting entry in the church warden's accounts of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, proving that one Elizabeth Bartlett was intrusted with the casting of the second bell and that all the women employed thus were paid at the same rate as men for the same work. Another instance is to be found in the records of the Fleet prison, of which the first female warden, appointed in 1217 on the death of her husband Robert, received the same salary "as the said Robert had been accustomed to during his life." There was no talk then of confining the woman's sphere to work that was paid badly.

Quieting Him Down.

A farmer sued a cattle dealer for damages in the local county court.

"When I bought the bull," said the complainant, "he told me it was gentle and perfectly harmless—a child could play with it, in fact. Half an hour after I got the animal home he disabled a couple of my farm hands and then turned on me."

"Perhaps the animal was excited by his strange surroundings," suggested his honor. "Is he quiet enough now?"

"Well, yes; but you see"—

"Ah," remarked the defendant, "then my description was correct, after all. I said if he did get excited at first he would quiet down."

"Yes," responded the plaintiff grimly, "but you didn't tell me I should have to shoot the beggar to quiet him down. That's what I had to do!"—London Scraps.

Knew the Sound of Wood.

There was an argument on a cricket field in a village near Nottingham, England, which interrupted the game for some time. The match was being played between the local tradesmen of the village. All went well until the bowler, who was the village constable, a man over six feet tall, sent a ball which bumped up from the ground and hit the village butcher, who was batting and who was exceedingly fat and perspiring freely, on the head. The wicket keeper, a remarkably thin and agile man, who was the village grocer, caught the ball and yelled, "'Ow's that?"

"Hout!" shouted the village baker, who possessed only one eye.

"Hi say now!" roared the fat butcher, who refused to have it so. "But hit 'it me on the 'ead."

"Hi don't know where hit 'it you," responded the umpire, who was the village undertaker, "but Hi knows the sound of wood when Hi 'ears hit, so hout you go."

Diamond Cutting.

It is said that before the fourteenth century no one knew how to cut and polish diamonds. They were esteemed for their marvelous hardness, but not greatly admired for beauty. There is a tradition that a journeyman jeweler in Flanders, Louis Van Berghem, discovered the art of cutting diamond with diamond. But it is probable that he only made some notable advance in the art since associations of diamond cutters had existed in France and Flanders from the fourteenth century. Louis Van Berghem's most famous achievement was the cutting and polishing of a huge diamond belonging to Charles the Bold. Charles was so delighted with the result that he rewarded the artist liberally and declared that the diamond would now serve him for a bedroom lamp. This jewel, which was found on Charles' body after the battle of Nancy, is still in existence and celebrated under the name of the Sancy diamond.—Youth's Companion.

Barrie's Critic.

J. M. Barrie some years ago was persuaded to take the chair at a Burns celebration in Scotland. He was extremely silent and stole away at the earliest opportunity. Next week appeared in the National Observer a humorous article entitled "Mr. Barrie In the Chair," in which Mr. Barrie's lack of social tact was held up to ridicule. Many people thought the writer had gone too far and protested. But the author of the article was Mr. Barrie himself.

Three Lives May Be Lost

Destructive Fire In St. Paul Livery Barns. Property Loss Will Amount To $50,000 Partly Insured.

St. Paul Nov. 3—Ninety-eight horses were burned to death in a fire that originated in Shea's livery barn at Selby and Western avenues at 2:40 o'clock this morning.

Olaf Johnson, 30 years of age a hostler employed about the barn is missing and is believed to have been burned to death.

An unconfirmed rumor has it that two other men whose names are unknown were also incinerated and that their bodies with Johnson's are beneath the debris.

The Shea barn and the barn of the Igo Express company, in the rear are totally wrecked. The loss is estimated at $50,000 partially covered by insurance.

The fire originated in the front part of the basement of the Shea barn and spread with such rapidity that the building was doomed upon the arrival of the firemen. Fourteen men employed about the two barns were asleep at the time the flames were discovered and barely escaped in time to save their lives.

Johnson the hostler was among the men who were aroused by the smell of smoke and it is thought that he became bewildered in his flight to safety. After groping his way about the smoke laden room it is presumed he was overcome by the smoke and fell into the basement where he met death with the frantic horses.

WOMEN FARMERS CONQUER DESERT

After 5 Years Experimenting Three Prove That Crops Will Grow In Mojave Desert.

Los Angeles, Cal. Oct. 31 —After years of experimenting three ranchers in the Mojave desert have proved that dry farming methods will produce fine crops in that arid region without periodical watering and as a result hundreds of land claimants who stood in danger of losing their claims thru the impossibility of irrigation, may file homesteads and retain their holdings.

That is what was done yesterday in the United States land office by Dr. W. M. Doble, Miss Florence Benson and Mrs. N. Nath. They made final homestead proofs, after their claims under the desert land act had been invalidated because they fere unable to irrigate.

Soil Culture Successful

It was shown that they had produced crops by dry farming methods, and General Frank C. Prescott register of the land office, declared that their achievement would prove of incalculable benefit to hundreds of landholders who heretofore faced the loss of their claims because they could not produce sufficient water from wells to meet the irrigation requirement of the desert land law.

"It opens the Mojave to homesteaders as well as desert reclaimers," he said.

Dr. Doble and the two women who with him, were the first ever to have located homesteads in the desert, filed on desert claims five years ago. The wells they dug did not produce sufficient water to do the irrigating prescribed by the desert law. But instead of relinquishing their lands Dr. Doble, who is an expert agriculturist went to work experimenting with dry farming.

Agreed to Show Uncle Sam

Meantime he, Miss Benson who has a claim nearby, and Mrs. Nath filed homesteads. In doing so they declared they would prove to the United States authorities that they could grow crops despite the dearth of water.

So they went to work. After one or two failures all three decided to follow a plan of harrowing their fields after each storm during the rainy season. This produced results which General Prescott said yesterday were nothing short of marvelous.

"The soil of Majave," he explained, "is conceded to be extraordinarily rich. It is a desert solely because of the lack of sufficient water. Dr. Doble's crops followed the systematic harrowing. He found that the normal rainfall of the desert was enough to provide all the moisture needed provided the ground was kept broken."

Sun Draws Moisture

This method is something like that pursued by the farmers in the arid regions of Syria and Armenia. Rains are scarce there, and come in a certain period of the year, as they do in the Mojave. The natives ploy up their fields after the first rain, and keep turning it over during the brief wet season. Then they plant their crops, and after that they pray that it will rain no more that year. The action of the sun draws the moisture up to the roots of the grain and provides all the refreshment the growing crops need.

"The success of Dr. Doble's experiment," register went on, "will have the effect of turning invalid desert land claims into homesteads. Hundreds who filed on claims under the desert land act may now file homesteads. All they have to do is to show they can grow crops.

"Another effect of this successful dry farming," said Prescott, "will be to turn thousands more people into the Mojave."

STEENERSON GIVEN RACE

HE WAS PROBABLY RE-ELECTED TO CONGRESS BY NARROW MARGIN

RESULT WILL NOT BE KNOWN DEFINITELY TILL ALL RETURNS ARE IN

CLAIMS STEENERSON'S ELECTION

Fred Dennis, private secretary to Congressman Steenerson at 4 o'clock this afternoon claims the election of Steenerson by 2,000 majority. Beltrami gives Steenerson 1100 majority Clay 500, Clearwater 116, and Roseau 200.

If Congressman Halvor Steenerson is re-elected to Congress from the 9th district, it is by such a narrow margin as to make it a hair raising proposition. Senator Sageng ran like a scared deer, carrying Otter Tail Co., by 1300, Norman Co., by 230, and breaking even in Polk Co.

As far as the returns have been received, Congressman Steenerson has a slight lead, but so close is the race that it will probably require the vote in every outlying precinct to make the result certain one way or the other.

COUNTY DIV. IS IN DOUBT

COL. STADSVOLD CLAIMS THAT NELSON COUNTY WILL BE SET OFF

Are we divided, or are we whole? This is a question which cannot be stated with certainty at the present time, and it will take the returns from all outlying precincts to determine whether Polk county has had its tail cut off.

Col. Stadsvold claims that county division has carried by a good majority, but the returns received up to the time of going to press show that the esntiment on the proposition is about evenly divided. East Grand Forks went 2 to 1 in favor of division, but Crookston went strong against it. The Thirteen Towns are coming in strong for it, and there is quite a general sentiment that the vote in the east end will be large enough to carry the division deal thru.

ALL BUT JAKE WERE ELECTED

With the exception of the head of the ticket all other republican candidates were elected as indicated by the returns, Mills and Elmquist both having been elected by substantial majorities. The successful candidates follow.

Lieutenant Governor, A. O. Eberhart.
Sec. of State, Julius A. Schmahl.
Atty. Gen., George T. Simpson.
State Treas., Clarence C. Dinehart.
Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners, Charles E Elmquist and Ira B. Mills.

CAR OF BIRDSEED BREAKS RECORDS

NORTH DAKOTA FARMER MAKES SOME NEW SHIPPING HISTORY

FIRST CONSIGNMENT OF CANARY BREAKFAST FOOD EVER RECEIVED IN MINNEAPOLIS

From Wednesday's Daily—

When the sample men of the William Dalrymple company opened car 23,348 that the Soo road brought in on Saturday from Kensal, N. D., and ran their long metal plungers in to test the grain, they got the surprise of their lives.

Wheat of every kind, corn, oats, barley, rye, flax and speltz had all passed through their plungers and into their sample bags in the course of long experience. But that which came out of car 3,348 was unlike anything they had ever seen. For a minute they stared at it. Then one man began to twitter and the other broke into high pitched silvery song, for the little golden specks that lay before them were nothing other than canary seed.

O. C. Austad, a prosperous farmer near Kensal, may not have known it, but he was making commercial history when he loaded Soo car 23,348, for neither the agricultural records of North Dakota nor the grain trade records of Minneapolis show that anything of the kind ever happened before.

Statisticans get Busy

At the Chamber of Commerce millers looked at it and wondered what kind of breakfast food it would make and the smoking room statisticans got busy figuring how many canary birds could eat, and for how long out of a 60,000 pound capacity car loaded three fifths capacity, before it would give out. One grain man said that, quality and all considered it had a value of about $2 a hundred pounds.

Leslie Edgerton of the Albert Dickinson company the biggest seed outfit in the country, said that he had never known canary seed to come in here from North Dakota. Some Iowa farmers have raised a little, but most of the canary birds eat the product of the island of Sicily which is of high quality, pays an import duty and has a value of $4 to $5 a hundred pounds.

CUPID WINS HIS VICTORY

ZION CITY COUPLE WHO RETURNED LICENSE, GET ANOTHER AND ARE MARRIED

From Wednesday's Daily—

Henry C. Fairbanks, aged 64 years and Mrs. Margaret Vasser, of Zion City, Ill., who came all the way to Grand Forks to be married and last Friday returned a marriage license after going to a minister here to be married yesterday, returned to the office of Judge L. K. Hassel, of the county court, secured a license and were married. The bride was divorced four years ago and it is thought that this may have had something to do with their decision to postpone the wedding She announced at the office of the judge that she had studied her Bible and had found there that she could get married.

The bridegroom asked Judge Hassell what he would have to pay as a fee. The court said he had no fixed price—the bridegroom could pay what he wished. Fairbanks studied a minute and then handed over $4. "My heart tells me to give you this amount," he said.

Fairbanks and his wife volunteered the information that they are missionaries and have been engaged in the work at the city founded by Dowie years ago. They have been doing some missionary work here since their arrival. They will make their home in Zion City.

A PIONEER BREWER DEAD

Red Wing, Nov. 5—Adolph Remmler a pioneer brewer of the west died at his home in this city aged 70 years.

He had been ill several months and his death had been expected. The funeral will be held Saturday forenoon from St. Joseph's Catholic church.

Adolph Remmler was born in Weller by-Haslach Baden, May 28, 1838. He came to America in 1854, settling in St. Louis where he engaged in business.

When the war broke out he enlisted in Company A, Third regiment Missouri volunteers, and served as a union soldier.

Like the men of his race he was fond of literature and music. At St. Louis he was a member of the leading German literary and musical societies and was a personal friend of General Franz Siegel who visited him afterwards at his home in Red Wing. He was also always a warm supporter and personal friend of Carl Schurz. He came to this city in 1877.

NORMAN CO. SPLIT UP

REPUBLICANS, DEMOCRATS, SOCIALISTS AND PROHIBITIONISTS ALL

SHARE IN THE PIE EATING CONTEST—VOTERS WERE INDEPENDENT

From Wednesday's Daily—

The returns from Norman Co., which are practically complete show that the voters of that county believe in dividing the political pie between the various candidates and all of them got their fingers in it. Folowing are the majorities given the national and state candidates and the successful candidates for county office.

THE RETURNS

26,938; Bryan 26,325.

Florida

Jacksonville—The election in Florida resulted in the usual democratic majority of from 18,000 to 20,000.

South Carolina

Charlotte—State returns are unprecedentedly slow, but it is conceded that the complete democrat ticket will carry by majority of at least 30,000. The republican ticket made gains thruout the state.

Oklahoma

Oklahoma City—14 precincts in 7 counties give Taft 1,030; Bryan 914. Returns from state coming slow.

Wisconsin

Milwaukee—Returns indicate that state is safe for Taft and that Davidson (rep) for governor is running even with Taft.

Nebraska

Lincoln—At 9:25 p. m. Mr. Bryan announced that he would have no statement to make then.

Pennsylvania

Philadelphia—At 1 o'clock with 18 counties to hear from the indications are that Taft received in Pennsylvania a plurality nearer 40,000 than 300,000.

Montana

Helena—Scattering precincts from all over the state indicate Bryan carries state, close on congressman and governor.

South Dakota

Sioux Falls—Scattering returns so far received indicate that Taft carried state by from 10,000 to 15,000.

Maine

New York—Tribune says Maine has given Taft 35,000.

Georgia

Savannah—Bryan has carried Georgia but returns thus far received indicate a larger Taft and Watson vote than generally expected.

Delaware

New York—Tribune says Taft carried Delaware by 2,000.

New Hampshire

Returns from various parts of the state show falling off of democrat vote indicating Taft has carried the state by 5,000 or more. Reps probably elected three of six congressmen.

Vermont

White River—It is estimated Taft has carried Vermont by 28,000 plurality.

Virginia

Norfolk—The rep state committee concede this state to Bryan by 15,000 but claim a gain of 1 rep congresman in northern district,

Kansas

80 cities and towns in this state give Taft 24,511, Bryan 9,354.

New Jersey

New York Times says New Jersey is safely republican by large majority

Indiana

Indianapolis — Indications are that Taft has carried Indiana by about 32,000 votes.

Michigan

Detroit—Rep. state committee claim Taft plurality at 100,000 all rep. congressmen elected and Warner republican for governor may carry state by small plurality.

Utah

The rep. national committee has received the following from Sen. Smoot: Taft carries the state of Utah, by over 25,000; everything rep. I congratulate you.

IS CUDAHY KIDNAPER IN CROOKSTON?

Captain Vonderbeck Arrests Pat Crow of Omaha And He Pays Fine Of $7.45 In Municipal Court.

Chief Eck Recognized Him as the Man Who Gained Great Fame in Omaha but Crow Refused to Talk.

From Friday's Daily—

Last evening Capt. Vonderbeck arrested Pat Crow, of Omaha, on Second street and this morning he paid a fine of $7.25 for too free indulgence in the flowing bowl. Pat paid the fine without protest and departed on his way rejoicing.

Pat has been in the city for several days. Chief Eck has a picture of the famous Pat Crow of Omaha who gained national notoriety by kidnapping the Cudahy child. He noticed a striking resemblance and is satisfied that the men are one an dthe same. When questioned the man arrested refused to talk on the subject, but smiled significantly.

Certain it is that the Crow arrested and Kidnapper Crow are as near alike as two peas in a pod, and their habits appear t obe about the same also.

TRUST METHODS EXPOSED BY AGENTS

New York Oct. 29—How the Dupont Powder company cut prices in the south to put the Chattanooga Powder company out of business was today brought out at the resumption here of the hearings in the suit of the government against the so-called powder trust.

F. J. Waddell district sales agent for the Sinnomahoning Powder company of Huntington, W. Va., testified that he had instructions from Eugene Dupont to go down and "cut out" the Chattanooga company regardless of prices.

"I located the trade supplied by the Chattanooga company," said the witness, "by the aid of the railroads and took it away from them."

Asked what was the lowest price at which he was selling. Mr. Waddell replied, on being so instructed by Maheffey, that it was 79 cents a keg, or approximately 30 cents below cost.

In 1895 he continued the Chattanooga company was sold out by the Dupont and the Laflin and Rand powder companies. The Southern Powder company millswere sold to the same.

During his testimony Mr. Waddell described the [illegible] "bureau" system maintained by the Dupont company, by which it kept in close touch with conditions throughout the country. This system was in vogue, he said, from 1902 to 1906.

The hearing was adjourned until tomorrow.

Posted Him.

He (vainly)—See that sweet little girl in pink? I was engaged to her the whole of last summer. Stranger (eagerly)—Very glad to hear it. I am the lawyer she's commissioned to sue you for breach of promise.

WHITE RIBBONERS ARE GOING HOME

Denver, Col. Oct. 29 — The thirty-fifth annual convention of National W. C. T. U. came to an end last night with a general jubilee in which all the states represented took part by representing the great gains in membership made during the year.

It was announced that a gain of 20,000 in membership had been made.

Several resolutions were adopted during the session today the most important one expressing opposition to the re-election of Speaker Cannon to the national house of representatives. Another resolution adopted favored education of the people in regard to "the dangers of fermented wines." This was aimed at the California Wine Growers association and was introduced by Mrs. D. J. Spencer of California.

"The Wine Dealers association has been flooding the state with so-called temperance literature and trying to make people believe that wine is not injurious if people are educated to it." she said.

"Why, they advocate that the child shall be given wine as soon as it is weaned."

SWITCHMAN LOSES BOTH LEGS

News was received yesterday morning from Devils Lake of serious and probably fatal injuries received by William Jack, a switchman employed by the Great Northern railroad and a cousin of W. R. Jack proprietor of the roller rink in Grand Forks and a former resident of Crookston. Both of Jack's legs were cut off and his head was injured. He was still alive, according to reports received here early this morning. The accident happened when a couple of cabooses were being switched and both of them passed over the unfortunate man's legs.

Jack has a wife residing at Carp Ont., and she has been notified by wire of his accident. A brother in Winnipeg has also been notified.

The art or exercise of dancing can be traced back to the early Egyptians, who ascribe that invention to their god Thoth. Beyond a doubt dancing is much older than history. It began in connection with religious rites and was performed in honor of the deities that were worshiped.

WHISKEY CRAZED WOMAN SOBER

LEAVES FOR SEATTLE AFTER A NIGHT SPENT IN COUNTY JAIL

ADMITS SHE TIPPLED IN CROOKSTON AND WENT DIPPY

From Thursday's Daily—

Mrs. W. T. McDowell, the Buffalo N. Y., woman who was lodged in the county jail at Grand Forks Tuesday evening on a charge of insanity had recovered sufficiently yesterday to resume her journey to Seattle.

She admitted at the county jail that she had been drinking intoxicants. This affected her head and made her a little crazy. She slept nearly all day and felt all right last evening.

She had raised a rumpus here and did a little stunt at booze lapping after she had been taken from the train being sent later on her way west.

According to the figures of the government geological survey, the state capital which attains the greatest elevation above sea level is Denver, with an altitude of 5,175 feet, while the lowest point is held by Annapolis, Md., its elevation above the sea being only four feet.

LITTLE GIRL PROVES HERSELF HEROINE

Delpha Woolery, 7 Years Of Age Put Out Fire In Kitchen After Telephoning Her Father To Hurry Home.

From Thursday's Daily—

Yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock Delpha Woolery, a little tot but 7 years of age proved herself to a real heroine, and displayed more presence of mind than many grown girls or boys would have shown.

She is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. G. H. Woolery, residing at 514 Front Street, and yesterday afternoon her mother went down town to do some shopping. Delpha, with her younger sisters were playing in the parlor where one of the little girls opened the kitchen door and discovered it full of smoke.

Delpha kept her head and running to the telephone called her father and told him the kitchen was ablaze.

Then snatching a pail she ran to the pump in the back yard and got a pail of water which she dashed on the fire which was flaming in the woodbox near the stove and on the wainscoating. Another and another pail was carried and when Mr. Woolery arrived after a run of four blocks the fire was practically out.

The little girl should receive a vote of thanks fro mthe city council as had an older person seen the fire an alarm would have been turned in and it would have cost the city $50 or $60. Miss Delpha certainly has an old head on her shoulders.

REVOL'T'NIST

RUSSIAN SPENT NEARLY YEAR BEHIND BARS—OUT ON $25,000 BAIL

SPENT HAPPY EVENING WITH FAMILY YESTERDAY —MANY FRIENDS CALLED

St. Petersburg, Oct. 29—After an imprisonment of eleven months and five days, Nicholas Tschaikovsky, the Russian revolutionist was released this afternoon on $25,000 bail, pending trial. Tonight he is spending a happy evening with his family and intimate friends.

ENTERTAINED WITH A MULLIGAN

JOHN CARL KNOWS HOW TO DO THINGS UP TO THE HANDLE

John Carl, a well known man of the city discovered last Monday that he had a birthday. He immediately laid plans for a surprise on his friends. He secured a half a dozen fine spring chickens and the score or more of ingredients that go to compose a real old time "Mulligan." The word was passed to his friends and at 11 o'clock in the evening the guests gathered about the festive board and were given the feed of their lives none of the trimmings of the banquet having been forgotten by the genial host. Wesley Helm acted as chief usher, and William Onion was head waiter and the guests were certainly well taken care of.

The guests only wish that the host had about three birthday a year.

YOUNG ARTIST OF ABILITY

EMIL EVANSON AT THE NEW STORE DOES HIGH CLASS WORK

People for some time past have been admiring the signs at the New Store, and were of the opinion that the cards were printed by the wholesale companies who were advertising their goods. The signs were not only artistic, but the designs were very original and the letter of a character never before seen in this section.

It appears that the work was all done by Emil Evanson, a young man from Thief River Falls, who has been employed at the New Store for some time past. He is certainly an artist of ability in that line, and his work cannot be approached by any one in this section of the country.

WOMEN TAKEN TO FERGUS FALLS

United States Immigration Inspector Charles Carr of Winnipeg passed thru this city yesterday in charge of Martha Wright and Virginian Marcelles, two women who were taken from a house of illrepute in Baudette by the authorities.

Inspector Carr left on the evening train with the women in charge for Fergus Falls where they will appear before the judge of the United States District court.

BACTERIA IN MILK.

Some Good Suggestions That Every Dairyman Should Heed.

It is impossible in practical dairy work entirely to prevent bacteria from falling into the milk, but if the following suggestions are heeded the number gaining entrance and their rate of development will be greatly lessened:

Do not feed dry hay or fodder at feeding time, and to prevent dust from rising from the floor use the sprinkling can, for dust meant bacteria.

Do not brush the cow just before or at the time of milking, for the dead skin and hairs, carrying thousands of bacteria, will be loosened ready to drop into the pail.

Do not permit the cow to switch her tail over the milk pail, for she is certain to throw hundreds of bacteria into the milk at every flip.

Do not soak the teats or udder with milk or water so that drops fall into the pail, but moisten with a cloth, for a moist surface does not readily permit bacteria to leave it.

Do not regard milking as a dirty task and wear old and filthy clothes, for the handling of food for human beings should be made a cleanly task.

Do not wash pails and cans with cold water, but scald with boiling water and steam, and by all means avoid rinsing with cold water just before milking, for a few drops of water usually contain several thousand bacteria.

Do not wait to finish milking before beginning the cooling of the milk, but set the can in a tub of cold water so that each cow's milk will be cooled immediately after milking, for a high temperature causes bacteria to multiply very rapidly.

Do not fail to thoroughly clean and scald the parts of the separator each time it is used, for bacteria thrive in the separator slime.

His Revenge.

The discourtesy of some postoffice lady clerks in London is proverbial. Occasionally, however, the fair creature receives a Roland for an Oliver.

An irascible stockbroker entered a certain city office exactly at the hour of closing and, approaching the money order desk, politely requested the presiding genius to issue him an order for 48 shillings.

"Too late," said the damsel curtly, pointing with an ink stained finger to the clock. The indignant broker stormed, raved and finally challenged the correctness of the timepiece. The imperturbable lady smiled.

The following afternoon two minutes before the closing hour the merchant again presented himself and calmly asked:

"Am I too late?"

"Only just in time," replied the damsel crossly.

"Thank you. Now, miss, I must trouble you to issue me forty-eight orders for 1 shilling each."

"F-f-forty-eight!" gasped the horror stricken woman. Her tea had just arrived and was standing on a table behind the screen. "Surely you are joking?"

"Madam," said the stockbroker, raising his hat politely, "courtesy begets courtesy."—London Tit-Bits.

Second Operation Necessary.

New York, Oct. 30.—It is learned that it was found necessary to perform a second operation on E. R. Thomas, the banker, in Roosevelt hospital. He was injured at Long Branch, N. J., in an automobile accident on Aug. 14 last. The prognosis as to his ultimate recovery is said to be not so favorable as it was recently. The first operation was performed on Aug. 29.

Mystery in Double Tragedy.

Greenfield, Mass., Oct. 30.—Benjamin E. Gainer, thirty-nine years old, and Miss Harriet Mabel Wing, ten years younger, were found dying from bullet wounds at Miss Wing's boarding house. The police expressed the opinion that Gaines shot the young woman and then killed himself, but no reason for the shooting is known.

WIRELESS WORDS GOING OVERLAND

Being Transmitted Several Hundred Miles With Ranges And Hills Between.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 30—Advices received at the local signal office show that the signal service wireless stations in Alaska have made another record, removing all doubt as to the feasibility of sending wireless messages overland.

Fort Gibbon at the junction of the Tanana and Yukon rivers several hundred miles inland, is receiving messages from Nome and St. Michael, 500 miles distant with many ranges of hills between the two places. A message sent by the steamer Northwestern 1100 miles west of Cape Flattery to the United Wireless station at Cordova, was copied. The message travelled about 1,200 miles in an air line over two high ranges of mountains capped with snow.

JAP SEALING SCHOONERS CAPTURED IN NORTH

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 29—The seizure of more raiding Japanese sealing schooners at the Russian sealing grounds in the north Pacific is reported by the steamer Monteagle, which arrived today from these waters. The schooner Bosa Maru was intercepted off the Rookery at the Russian seal islands early last month on her way home from the Behring sea. Two boats with six men armed, were on the beach.

The men were engaged in clubbing seals on the hauling grounds when the Russian patrol ship arrived and seized the schooner, but in the fog the schooner escaped and the guards afterwards captured six men who had been left on the Rookery.

Another Japanese schooner was caught off Great Santal island by a Russian patrol cruiser, the crew deserted the schooner and took refuge in the woods. After a vain chase the Russians returned and burned the ship. It was feared that the Japanese would be frozen to death.

"Making Good"

may be slang but it is a vigorous phrase of tonic qualities and holds a world of solid meaning, hard work, honorable success, accomplishment.

There are many young men, 60 years and under, hard-workers, who have failed to justify the hopes and ambitions of their families and friends; failed to reap the harvest due them; failed to "Make Good". simply because they did not realize the many actual advantages offered them by a check account; the protection afforded their money; the chance to save the extra dollar or two; to build up their credit; the certainty of having to pay bills but once; and other advantages appreciated by the man who has a bank account.

The St. Paul Institute of Arts and Sciences is an accomplished fact and the ground work of what will sometime be an immense university has been successfully laid. Within a week the campaign for associate members has brought in 1,500 members and the Institute sshools i na dozen branches are in successful operation. Men of wealth have launched the movement and are liberally supporting it. Associate members will receive this winter single admissions to 33 afternoon lectures, two admissions to 34 evening lectures, reduced prices to 40 additional lectures, reduced prices to 25 concerts and the privilege of applying their membership fee on tuition in any of the Institute schools, all for $5. The lectures and concerts are to be of the highest order, world-famous artists and speakers having been already engaged. Registration in the various schools, which are a godsend to hundreds of young people and others who are obliged to work days and yet desire the equivalent of university education, is exceptionally heavy. The institute teaches practically everything from art to business administration and from languages to woodturning and carpentry. The public schools and their teachers have been affiliated with the movement, which is under the direct supervision of the municipal school authorities, acting in conjunction with representative boards and the official staff of the Institution.

"Audible Writing."

The hiring of a special teacher of penmanship for the public school of Blanktown was considered by some of the more conservative patrons an unnecessary and altogether extravagant innovation. But when in the interests of expert wrist and finger motion considerable time and stationery were consumed in the practice of certain spiral flourishes to which the delighted children gave the name of "smoke" forbearance on the part of one irate mother ceased to be a virtue, and she entered her protest in the following note to the writing master:

"Dere Sur our taxis is hevy enuff to suport you when you tend to bisness let alone spendin your time on Frils an Furbelows so I say jest you teach my boy good Audibul riting an if we want any Smoke we can lern it to him at home. Yours respeckfuly, Mrs jane Brown."—Woman's Home Companion.

Here on Business—J. A. Duffy, the well known banker of Red Lake Falls, spent last evening in Crookston attending to some business matters. While here he called upon his many personal and business friends.

VERY FINE LUNCH —The many visitors at the meeting of the Red River Valley Horticultural Association at the Crookston School of Agri culture, which will take place Friday, November 6, will be given the most careful attention. The officers ave made arrangements for a lunch to be served at the nominal price of 15 cents.

HORSES TO BEMIDJI—Alfred Vonderbeck is spending the day in the city enroute to Bemidji with 20 horses which he is driving overland for work in the woods. He has had the horses during the summer on the farm of Senator S. D. Works at Euclid, of which he is the manager, an dis taking them back for work in the logging camps this winter.

FINE WATERWAY— Omer Sauve the well known farmer of Kertsonville, is in the city today and he is enthusiastic in his praises of county ditch No. 75. He says it is entirely completed and the people served by it are omre than pleased with the promise of benefits it holds out. Mr. Sauve believes that its benefits will be realized next spring and the entire population of that section of the county will be a unit in favor of the ditch.

WAS SURPRISED— Dr. J. E. Argue, of Red Lake Falls, was surprised by meeting his brother, H. A. Argue, who resides in Tacoma, Wash., in Crookston last evening. He had come east on a business trip and while in this section decided to drop in upon his brother. The two will spend a few days together at Red Lake Falls.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY

Oct. 31 In History.

John Adams.

1517—Luther published his "Thesis" at Wittenberg; beginning of the reformation.

1735—John Adams, second president of the United States, born; died July 4, 1826.

1873—The Cuban filibustering steamer Virginius, fitted out at New York, captured near Jamaica by the Spanish gunboat Tornada and taken to Cuba; this event furnished the most sensational incident of the first Cuban revolt.

1906—Judge Joseph E. Gary of the county superior court, presiding justice in the anarchist trials in Chicago, died; born 1821.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 4:54, rises 6:26; moon sets 10:15 p. m.; moon at first quarter 9:16 a. m., eastern time, in constellation Capricornus; Halloween.

GOT BALLOTS — J. H. Emmeck, town clerk of Hammond was in the city Thursday and got the ballots for the election next Tuesday.

HEARD ADDRESS—James Fitzsimmons and Fritz O'Brecht of Euclid were among those who came in Thursday evening to hear the Socialist speakers.

A FINE HOME — August Schuler will leave the forepart of next week for Euclid where he will plaster the new Keeley residence which is one of the finest in that section of the county.

ANGUSITES HERE — W. Lemen and James Strobel came down from Angus Thursday evening to hear Haywood speak and while here attended to some other business matters at the court house.

SPEAK AT McINTOSH—Representative Saugstad and J. C. Sathre of the Republican County Central Committee left this morning for McIntosh where there will be a political rally today.

SECURED GOOD JOB—E. J. Goff who has been working at the Redlands transfer of the Great Northern under J. J. Burke, has left with his wife and family for Montana where he has secured a lucrative position on the Northern Pacific. They were accompanied by Mrs. McGovern, mother of Mrs. Goff, who will make her home with them.

ARE MIXING IN—We notice that Federal office holders are mixing considerably in politics in this district, and have failed to note any that are not for the administration's candidates. We presume that they will all be called upon to resign, as the president seems to consider himself entitled to a monopoly in that line of business.—McIntosh Times.

MARKET NOT GLUTTED—The return of Attorneys W. E. Rowe and C. O. Longley and F. McLennen from their hunt at Rice Lake has not thus far glutted the duck market. They returned with a few feathers, we understand, but we are not real certain of that fact. However they claim that the shooting was poor, and that the average man could go out with a lassoo and get more ducks than could be seen at Rice Lake.

BRONCHO HAD NO RESPECT FOR JUDGE

Judge Grindeland of Warren engaged in a goose hunt last week that barely missed resulting in serious injuries to him. The team his party drove consisted of a pair of none too gentle bronchos one of whom kicked the judge on the arm, severely bruising it. The arm was in front of the body at the time and the kick drove it with great force against his ribs, several of which would undoubtedly have been broken, even tho no more serious injuries were sustained if the arm had not been in a position to afford them protection.

Help! Help! I'm Falling

Thus cried the hair. And a kind neighbor came to the rescue with a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor. The hair was saved! In gratitude, it grew long and heavy, and with all the deep, rich color of early life. Sold in all parts of the world for sixty years.

"About one year ago I lost nearly all of my hair following an attack of measles. I was advised by a friend to use Ayer's Hair Vigor. I did so, and as a result I now have a beautiful head of hair."—MRS. W. J. BROWN, Menomonee Falls, Wis.

"There's a man in the front office looking for some property in Boonton county. Perhaps we can sell him the Gardner tract. You go in and talk it up at what you think you might get out of him, then call me and ask what I think about selling at the price you give. I'll ask if you're crazy to part with such a property at the figure, and we'll have a sham battle over it. I'll go out mad, and you sell the property because you're mad too. See?"

"Good scheme. We'll try it on."

Dobson of Dobson & Cram went into the front office, where he found a young man who in his innocence admitted that his father had recently died and left him $10,000 and a small farm. His purpose was to sell the farm and buy a larger tract somewhere which was liable to improve in value.

"I've got just the thing you want," said Dobson, taking out a beautifully drawn map. "There's 800 acres of it, which we can sell you at $100 an acre. This will leave you a couple of thousand for improvements besides your farm. There's only one trouble about my selling it to you. My partner is dead set upon our taking it ourselves. I would be in favor of it, too, but we've got so much now we can't pay the taxes."

The young farmer studied the map deliberately and after he had finished said he would go and look at the property. Dobson touched a bell. An office boy entered and was directed to call Mr. Cram. The junior partner came in and was informed by Mr. Dobson that he had offered the farmer the Gardner tract at $100 an acre, whereupon a violent quarrel ensued, at the end of which Mr. Cram left the room in a huff, threatening to enjoin his partner from making the sale. Dobson was so angry that he vowed the trade should be made before Cram had a chance to interfere.

The young man took the hook and paid two ten-dollar bills to bind the bargain. Before he left the office he had drawn a check on his bank for $8,000 and had a deed for 800 acres of swamp and hill land, the latter covered with a second growth of worthless timber.

"Goodby, Mr. Dobson," he said at parting. "I shan't forget your effort in my behalf, and I hope it won't get you into trouble with Mr. Cram."

He had no sooner gone than the two partners were congratulating each other on the sale.

"Shake, old man," said Dobson. "You played your part beautifully."

"But you landed him. He's as innocent as a kitten."

Two years passed during which neither Dobson nor Cram heard anything of the Gardner tract or its purchaser, when one day Cram said to Dobson: "The young man we scooped with that swamp and timber land in Boonton county is in the other room and wants to see you. Look out for him. Some one may have put him up to getting even. The law can't touch us, but he may have some game to play."

"Trust me for games."

Dobson went in where the young man was waiting, with outstretched hand and eyes beaming with kindliness.

"Mr. Dobson," said the youngster, "that property has turned out better than was expected. There's coal on it."

"Good!" exclaimed Dobson, slapping the boy on the back. Inwardly he said, "Why didn't you say gold or diamonds?"

"Yes; they say it's the finest anthracite in the state."

"Splendid!" Another slap on the back.

"I'm indebted for my good luck to you. Do you remember how you sold me the property before your partner could interfere?"

"Yes; I remember that."

"Well, one good turn deserves another. I've got an offer of $250,000 for the property from a coal company. I feel that I shouldn't keep all this good luck to myself, seeing that you were so kind to me. I'll divide. I'll sell to you for half, $125,000, and turn you over the coal company's written offer, good for thirty days."

"My dear fellow," said Dobson, striving to maintain a countenance that would not betray his seeing through the stupendous game, "you are the very soul of honor. I'll speak to Cram about it."

Going to Cram's office, he shut the door and as soon as he could control his laughter told him how the young farmer was trying to pay them in their own coin. After a pretended consultation he returned to the boy and said:

"That partner of mine will be my ruin. Do you know, he's so mad about my selling the property to you that he won't consent to my having anything to do with the matter, and our partnership forbids any purchase unless both consent. I'm awfully sorry. There's a gentleman waiting to see me."

There was a coolness in the last words, a steely look in the eyes, that was not lost on the youngster. He went away, not in anger, but in sorrow, and thinking what a despicable man Mr. Cram was.

A few days later Mr. Cram rushed into his partner's office with a newspaper in his hand.

"Great Scot, Dobson! What's this? 'Big find in coal. Sale of a tract in Boonton county. A young farmer made rich.'"

He went on to read that the story told them by the grateful boy was true and that they had thrown away a fortune.

FREIGHT CAR WAS ROBBED

GREAT VARIETY OF STUFF WAS STOLEN BUT AMOUNT IS NOT KNOWN

NO TRACE OF THE THIEVES HAS AS YET BEEN DISCOVERED

From Saturday's Daily—

A few nights ago some thieves broke into a Great Northern car at Redlands and helped themselves to a large amount of stuff, the exact character of which cannot be determined The car contained shipments to Thief River Falls, Fosston, Greenbush, Bemidji and about a score of other places, and as a result it is impossible to tell just what was taken, but this will develop later as the merchants check up their goods.

JUDGE WATTS IS SUSTAINED

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS HIM IN FLAKNE DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST

THE GREAT NORTHERN FOR ALLEGED LOSES OVER CATTLE SHIPMENT

From Saturday's Daily—

James A. Maybury this morning received word that the order of Judge Watts in the suit of K. O. Flakne against the Great Northern in which the court held for the defendant, had been affirmed by the supreme court of the state.

This case had been very bitterly contested and was a suit for damages brought by Mr. Flakne in which he claimed that he had suffered a heavy loss as the result of the defendant company shipping a carload of cattle billed for Ada, to Crookston, the defendent company claiming that the freight was not paid at Ada. The cattle were finally unloaded here and driven back to Ada, and the loss was claimed as a result of the long drive back to Ada.

MUSICAL ARTIST AT THE LYCEUM

MISS DOLLY FELDKIRCHNER AND PROF. FRED NORQUIST WILL BE HERE

Sunday evening there will be something special at the Lyceum as Miss Dolly Feldkirchner and Prof. Frederick Norquist will be here from Grand Forks. Both have often appeared at the University of North Dakota, and at the Elks' and other lodges at Grand Forks, and those who attend the Lyceum tomorrow evening will certainly have a treat in the line of piano and violin music.

FUNNY STUNTS IN VAUDEVILLE

There is no funnier vaudeville show on the political stage, than the antics of Minnesota Republican editors who, after four years of editorial praise and approval of Governor Johnson's administration between campaigns, are compelled to turn sommersaults when the campaign in on and attempt to upset every position they ever took —Red Lake Falls Gazette.

The Chinese Waiter.

The chief glory of an average Chinese inn is the waiter. This indispensable functionary is the guardian of all your interests for the time being, and when you are not looking he dives into secrets and matters of your own that seem to amuse and enlighten him to your inconvenience and annoyance. Like his confreres in other and more enlightened countries, he hardly ever separates himself from the inevitable napkin, but his badge of waitership is a very practical article with him. With it in summer he mops his damp brow or bare shoulders, while in winter, wrapped about his head, it protects him from rain and wind. The Chinese waiter's napkin is put to all kinds of uses besides those just mentioned. It is used as a dishcloth, a mop with which to wipe the floor, a cloth for cleaning and wiping down tables and a duster. But Chinese landlords are very reasonable in their charges, which in a measure compensate for the unpleasantness of living in their inns.

Wanted—Something New.

A good lady of indefinite education, but ample purse, went into a bookseller's to buy a gift for her husband. She hovered around and manifested the usual indecision, whereupon an assistant, to help her out of the difficulty, suggested a set of Shakespeare.

"Oh," replied the lady very promptly, "he read that when it first came out."—Harper's Weekly.

A GIGANTIC POWER SCHEME

SEVEN MILLION DOLLAR CONCERN INCORPORATED AT ST. PAUL

BIG BACKING FOR INTERNATIONAL FALLS WATER POWER PROJECT

From Friday's Daily—

Articles of incorporation of the Minnesota and Ontario Power company capitalized at $7,000,000 have been filed with the secretary of state.

This gigantic corporation is headed by Minneapolis men and has been organized to build a great city, develop idle water power into practically unlimited supply of electricity, produce the greatest paper making center in the world and conduct lumbering operations over a territory containing 15,000 square miles.

The Minnesota and Ontario Power company is organized in Maine and its list of incorporators indicates that it is backed by some of the leading financial men of Minneapolis, Chicago and New York. It has bought from E. W. Backus and the Backus-Brooks company the immense water power at the Canadian boundary and will at once begin its development.

The contract has been let to the engineering and contracting firm of J. G. White & Co. of New York for the completion of the immense dam and hydro-electric power stations at International Falls and Fort Frances and the construction of a ground wood sulphite and news print paper plant. The company will also generate and make available for general manufacturing purposes electric energy and power in sufficient quantities to supply the needs of all commercial users in the vicinity.

The initial work of the new company will be the completion of the dam and power stations, producing a minimum of more than 30,000 continuous horse power and the construction of the first unit of installation of a sulphite and paper mill plant, having a daily capacity of 20 tons of news print paper and fifty tons of surplus sulphite. When the first unit is in operation the company will double the capacity of the sulphite and paper mill.

WM. MC'LENNAN PASSED AWAY

Word has been received of the death at Everett, Wash., of Wm McLennen which occurred on Oct. 20. Mr. McLennen was for years a resident of Angus where he was engaged in farming, and was a brother of F. McLennen who is a retired farmer of Angus and divides his time between that place and Crookston.

KILLED WILD GOOSE IN CITY LIMITS

Some of the local hunters were greatly disgusted this morning when they heard the news that one of the Greenhalgh boys yesterday afternoon had killed a goose just below the dam of the Crookston Water Works Power and Light Co.

This was discouraging to those who have taken several days off, spent $40 or $50 and then returned empty handed—but it was true nevertheless.

BRIDGE MAN IS INJURED

John Lien of Fosston a workman employed with the crew repairing the Great Northern bridge over the Red River, near the mill, was seriously injured Thursday afternoon. A team of horses furnished the power for the operation of a pile driver. An evener to which the horses were hitched, broke and the broken evener threw back with great force striking Mr. Lien in the groin. So heavy was the blow that it was feared that his injury would prove fatal. He was hurried to the hospital in this city and it is reported that he is getting along nicely and will recover.

OPERATION FOR APPENDICITIS

Mrs. Magney Rutzen was brought to the city this morning from Borup with an acute case of appendicitis and at 11 o'clock this morning was operated upon at Bethesda Hospital by Dr. Kjelland. At a late hour this afternoon the patient was doing as well as could be expected.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

ELTCTION VERY QUIET

WEATHER WAS UNFAVORABLE TO A HEAVY VOTE EARLY IN THE DAY

OUTCOME CANNOT BE PREDICTED SO CLOSE IS THE SENTIMENT

From Tuesday's Daily—

Election day is very quiet in Crookston. The weather was so cold and blustery this morning that the voting was much lighter than usual, but this afternoon the polls present a more busy appearance. Both the republicans and democrats are hustling for votes, and the outcome cannot be forecasted with any degree of accuracy till after the votes are counted.

The vote for governor is going to be very close in Polk Co., but the sentiment is so closely divided that the outcome will not be known till the votes are counted. In the city Johnson will have a majority without a doubt, but in the country the claim is made that Jacobson will be in the lead.

The complete returns will be received at the Auditorium this evening.

JUDGE GOSSMAN MADE ADDRESS

CIVIC CLASS OF HIGH SCHOOL ATTENDED THE ELECTION

AND RECEIVED A SPLENDID COURSE OF INSTRUCTION BY MUNICIPAL JUDGE

From Tuesday's Daily—

This morning the class in civics from the Crookston High School appeared in a body at the city hall, the 4th ward polling place, and were addressed for over an hour by Judge Gossman of the Municipal Court, who explained the election laws and how they worked.

The class was deeply interested in the remarks he made, and there were many points on which he threw a great deal of light. The hour spent was a most profitable one for the class and they were all highly pleased with what they heard.

BIG MEET OF GERMAN BUND

BIG MEETING WAS HELD IN GERMANIA HALL YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

TALKED OVER STATE ISSUES AND WHAT WOULD PROMOTE INTERESTS

From Monday's Daily—

Yesterday afternoon there was a large and enthusiastic meeting of the German Bund at the Germania Hall in this city.

They talked over the matter as to how they could work best in harmony with the state in general and further the interests of the state in general and at the same time care for the interests of this section.

President Carl Reidesel is very much gratified over the interest shown at the meeting, and the large attendance, and he believes that it augurs well for the future that such general interest is displayed in pcblic matters.

Thread Used In Surgery.

Are you aware that the modern surgeon employs in his work dozens of different kinds of thread for sewing up cuts and wounds? Among them are kangaroo tendons, horsehair, silk and very fine silver wire. Many of these threads are intended to hold for a certain number of days and then naturally break away. The short, tough tendons taken from the kangaroo, which are used for sewing severe wounds, will hold for about four weeks before they break away. Silk thread will remain much longer, sometimes six months, while the fine silver wire is practically indestructible.

With the entire outfit a surgeon is able to select a thread that will last as long as the wound takes to heal and will then disappear completely. To accommodate this assortment of threads special varieties of needles are required. Besides the needle craned in different segments of a circle, surgeons use needles shaped like spears, javelins and bayonet points.

Erudite.

"Oh, baby," exclaimed the Boston mother, "what does make you cry so?"

"I really cannot say," was the unexpected answer. "I have never indulged in introspection."

The costliness of keeping friends does not lie in what one does for them, but in what one out of consideration for them refrains from doing.—Henrik Ibsen.

BOECKEL GOES SCOTT FREE

MAN HELD FOR ROBBERY OF CURRY DISCHARGED YESTERDAY

CURRY REFUSED TO COME FROM NEW YORK TO PROSECUTE HIM

From Monday's Daily—

Rudolph Boeckel, the man accused of robbing a man named Curry on circus day, June 28th last at the N. P. high bridge was discharged yesterday from the county jail where he had been held on another charge for the past 30 days.

Chief Eck after arresting him, discovered that he answered the description of the man who held Curry up, and also had some meal tickets and other things on his person which served to identify him. He at once wired Curry, but the latter failed to respond the expense probably being too great for him.

TO OPEN OFFICE IN MINNEAPOLIS

GEO. B. CLIFFORD FOR YEARS A RESIDENT OF GRAND FORKS TO LEAVE THERE

WILL OPEN OFFICE FOR TRANSACTION OF MORTGAGE LOAN BUSINESS

From Tuesday's Daily—

Grand Forks, Nov. 3—Geo. B. Clifford who arrived yesterday morning from Minneapolis announced that he had decided to open a mortgage loan office in Minneapolis and make that the main office of his company. A branch office will be maintained here for a while at least. Mr. Clifford believes that he can handle his business in this territory from Minneapolis just as well. He has been making that city his home for a part of the time. Bert McDougall who has been managing the local office and Miss Strahan stenographer, will go to Minneapolis. The change will be made some time this fall.

Mr. Clifford will sell his beautiful home here. His decision to make his home in Minneapolis causes a great deal of regret in Grand Forks for he has always been one of the most enterprising citizens of the city.

Mr. Clifford has not yet decided upon a location for his office in Minneapolis.

WERE MARRIED AT PRESBYTERIAN MANSE

Yesterday afternoon at 2:30 at the Presbyterian Manse, Mr. William Barney was united in marriage to Miss Birdie May Ruth. The affair was attended by a large number of friends of the bride and groom, the officiating clergyman being Rev. W. S. Ward. Following the ceremony there was a fine spread served at the new home of the bride and groom on east Central Avenue just east of the Northern Pacific high bridge where they will make their future home. Both have a host of friends who will wish them every happiness.

Veterinaries.

Hippocrates, the "father of medicine," wrote a treatise on the veterinary art, but its true founder was Vegetius, who wrote "De Arte Veterinaria," 300 A. D. But the first attempt to elevate the practice into a science was as late as 1761, when France set the example of establishing the first veterinary college at Lyons.—Exchange.

How Ledgers Got Their Name.

On the authority of the best lexicographers "ledger" is an adaptation of a once common word, "ligger," signifying any large book suited better for lying on a desk than for carrying about. Sometimes this was applied to a large account book, cartulary, or the like, frequently a great breviary for use in church, as distinct from a "portas," or small one, carried by a "book bosom priest." "Coucher" is another old synonym for "ligger," the foregoer of the now general "ledger."

Old Theory Confirmed.

Tommy, whose nose was out of joint, had been permitted to see the new baby in its bath.

"Where's his other leg?" he asked, eying the infant with strong disfavor.

"It's doubled up under him," explained the nurse.

"Yes!" he snorted. "Jes' like de blamed stork what brung 'im!"—Puck

Entire Family Dead.

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—Mock Devore, his wife and thirteen-year-old son, Charles Devore, were found dead from gas asphyxiation in their home at Milo, a suburb, by neighbors who had become alarmed over their disappearance. Suicide on the part of one or all of the family is suspected.

WAS ALLOWED TO FILE

JACOB LARSON FILED 20 YEARS AGO ON A FARM NEAR TWIN VALLEY

RAILROAD FOUGHT CASE AND LARSON WAS ALLOWED TO FILE ON A NEW CLAIM

From Monday's Daily—

An entirely new precedent was established here at the United States Land Office when the filing of Jacob Larson on a homestead near Beaudette was accepted by the local land office officials notwithstanding the fact that 20 years ago he filed on a piece of land near Twin Valley.

His first filing was disputed railroad land, and he fought the case for 20 years and finally the government decided to give Larson another filing in order to close the incident, and this was done for the first time in the history of the department in the northwest.

The case will be of general interest inasmuch as there are scores of others in the same boat as Mr. Larson, who have been fighting for years over disputed land which the railroads claimed as part of their grant, and who will without doubt be glad to quit the fight and make other selections in order to get titles before they are laid to rest themselves.

EMPLOYES MET SUNDAY

RAILWAY EMPLOYES PROTECTIVE ASSN. HELD ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

ADDRESSED BY MESSRS. ALLEN, BELL, MILLS, SMITH, WOODHOUSE AND DICKMAN

From Monday's Daily—

The Railway Empleyes Protective Association held an enthusiastic meeting on Sunday afternoon, which taxed the capacity of the Great Northern Passenger Depot.

Chairman McTaggert presided and short addresses were made by Messrs. P. C. Allen, E. A. Mills, F. D. Bell and J. W. Smith.

The Speeches of Messrs. Woodhouse and Dickman of the St. Paul club were the feature of the occasion. Both are employes in the St. Paul shops of the Great Northern and are enthusiastic over the prospects of the Association which already has a membership of about twenty five thousand in Minnesota. The work thus far accomplished in this state and the plans of the organization for the future were fully covered and met with the enthusiastic approval of the local members.

This organization is strictly non-partisan in character and has endorsed no candidate for any office, and, in fact could not well have done so as all candidates who have responded to the Association's request for an expression of their position have been found willing to treat both railroads and their employes fairly.

It is the intention to hold a state convention in the near future at which delegates will be elected to a National convention to be held during the winter, and when the plans of the organizations in the various states are carried out it is expected that this Association will include practically all of the railway employes thruout the country.

BACK FROM TRIP OUTLOOK BRIGHT

J. W. WHEELER AND A. A. MILLER RETURN FROM IOWA TRIP

J. W. Wheeler of the First National Bank and A. A. Miller returned this morning from Webster City, Ia., where they were called a few days ago on business. They report that the people of that section all have their eyes on the Red River Valley and that indications point to, a substantial movement to this section the coming fall and winter.

HIS MEMORY WAS VERY BAD

Harry Anderson was arrested last Friday night with an overload of the "joyful" on. He told where he had bought it Saturday morning when he was arraigned, but this morning when an adjourned hearing was held he had forgotten all about where he had secured the stuff.

Anderson is but 18 years of age and hails from Bemidji.

RWARD FOR P.O. ROBBERS

LARGEST REWARD IS ONE THOUS AND DOLLARS FOR ROBBERS

WHO ATTACK POSTAL CARS — LIST OF OTHER REWARDS

From Tuesday's Daily—

The last issue of the Daily Bulletin issued by the postoffice department at Washington and received in Fargo yesterday contains notice of a new set of rewards for postal robbers.

The order took effect on Oct. 23 and will be in effec. until otherwise ordered.

It provides the following rewards for the arrest and conviction of the classes of robbers mentioned:

1,000 reward for a robber who takes mails being conveyed in any mail car attached to a train, or from the carrier intrusted with mails on a train.

$500 reward for robber who takes mail while it is being conveyed over any post route other than a railway.

$250 reward for robber who attempts to rob mails being conveyed over any post route.

Not exceeding $200 and not less than $50 for robber who breaks into any postoffice and steals therefrom or who robs a postmaster or postal employe or who breaks in with intent to commit depredation, provided that the maximum of $200 will be paid in every case where a safe is blown open whether the robber gains access to the funds contained therein or not.

Not exceeding $200 nor less than $25 for arrest and conviction of embezzler mail carrier.

Not exceeding $200 nor less than $50 for robber who takes mail from any receptacle or from railway station.

The same rewards will be given for persons accessory to the crime as for the chief criminal.

The postmaster and his subordinates are barred from receiving rewards. In cases where a maximum and minimum reward is offered the amount of the rewards will depend on the class of criminal captured, the expense to which the receiver of the reward was put in securing the arrest and conviction.

NO ONE KILLED ON HALLOWE'EN

A FEW PRANKS WERE CUP UP THAT WERE A LITTLE TOO RAW

GATES, SIDEWALKS AND SIGNS DISTURBED—ONE FIRE WAS STARTED

From Monday's Daily—

Hallowe'en has passed again and no one was seriously hurt. The young lads and lassies did the usual mischievous tricks and some went too far and tore up sidewalks, took down signs, removed gates, stole baby buggies and cut up a number of didos that they should not have done.

The most serious happening of the evening was the setting on fire of a woodshed at the rear of Button's Business College, whether by accident or intention will probably never be known. The shed was destroyed and the barn at the rear of J. P. Marcum's residence would have burned had it not been for the appearance of Mr. Marcum on the scene, putting out the fire in his woodpile which was very near the barn.

There were many very pleasant little social affairs also given.

STATE OFFICIALS HOME TO VOTE

State Librarian John E. King arrived in the city this morning enroute from St. Paul to Red Lake Falls where he will remain till after election as he desired to cast a good Democratic vote. He says the state looks good from one end to the other.

W. F. Kelso the Hallock Banker also came up from the cities this morning and proceeded to his home. He is a member of the State Board of Grain Appeals and decided to cast his vote even if the season was a busy one.

PLEASED WITH NORTHERN DIV.

Supt. J. C. Allen, the new superintendent of the Northern Division of the Great Northern, who recently arrived here from Great Falls, is very much pleased with his new location. To a Journal man this morning, he said:

"You certainly have a beautiful little city. Everything looks thriving and I am certainly pleased with the people whom I have met and the Division I am sure will be a pleasant one to work on. There seems to be quite a brisk passenger business thru this city the branch lines evidently contributing to this."

Supt. Allen has been here but a few days but is rapidly getting into the harness, and is proving a very popular official. His service west has already proven that he is efficient.

AVIATORS TO TEST THEIR MACHINES

FAMOUS RACING PARK HAS BEEN GIVEN OVER TO NAVIGATORS OF THE AIR—MANY NOVEL CONTESTS WILL BE PULLED OFF TODAY—PRIZE TO MACHINE SHOWING THE GREATEST ADVANCE IN SCIENTIFIC CONSTRUCTION

New York, N. Y., Nov. 3 — Aeronautic history will probably be made tomorrow at Morris Park should the weather be favorable, when aeronauts from various parts of the U. S. will engage in a series of novel contests. Events will be held under the auspices of the Aeronautic society which has turned the famous race track into an aerodrome in recognition of the wide interest manifested by the public in this newest of sports. The principal event will be a flying machine competition, the award in which will go to the machine showing the greatest advance in scientific construction.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA FOOTBALL ROOTERS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

ENGINEER OF TRAIN IS INJURED BUT OTHERS LUCKILY ESCAPE

New Richmond, Wis., Nov. 3—A special on the Wisconsin Central bearing 300 University of Minnesota students home from Saturday's football game in Chicago, was partly wrecked four miles west of here today. The engineer was the only person injured.

Union City, Tenn., Nov. 3.—Upon the affidavits of James S. Deason relative of Captain Quinten Rankin; Hillman Taylor, son of Col. R. Z. Taylor, and J. C. Burdick, owner of the fish docks at Samburg which were once destroyed by night riders, 300 state warrants for the arrest of one hundred alleged night riders, will be issued tomorrow by Justice R. Polk. There are three sets of warrants against each of the one hundred men and of this number, at least two thirds are already under arrest or paroled. One set of warrants charge murder in the first degree. The second set charge assault with intent to commit murder while masked, also a capital offense and the third set charges the parties named with going masked upon the premises of another in the night time. The maximum punishment for this offense is 21 years in the penitentiary

Sale of Barry Steamer Line.

Milwaukee, Nov. 10.—An order for the sale of the Barry line of steamers to F. C. Reynolds of Milwaukee and Gus Kitzinger of Manistee, officials of the Pere Marquette line, was signed Monday by Judge Turner, after an agreement had been reached by the various parties concerned. The purchase price of the line was $80,100.

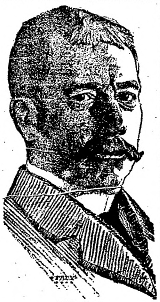
ELIHU ROOT FOR SENATOR

NEW YORK LEADERS TALK WITH THE PRESIDENT.

They Are Believed to Have Settled on Secretary of State to Succeed Platt.

Washington, Nov. 10.—It is the general opinion in Washington that as a result of a long conference at the White House Monday between President Roosevelt, James Wadsworth, Jr., speaker of the New York state assembly, and William L. Ward, Republican national committeeman and one of the foremost leaders in New York state politics, the man who will be supported by them next January as the candidate before the New York legislature to succeed Thomas C. Platt on March 4, 1909, as United States senator from New York, will be Elihu Root of Clinton, now secretary of state.

Neither Mr. Ward nor Speaker Wadsworth would discuss the matter, but it is known that the secretary is not averse to accepting the candidacy providing he is assured there is no opposition to him. President Roosevelt personally favors Mr. Root for the senatorship. Speaker Wadsworth Monday said he had received assurance from the president that Mr. Roosevelt would not interfere in the selection of the next senator. When Secretary Loeb was asked whether the president had given this assurance, he declared that there was no use for the president to interfere, leaving the inference that the matter already had been settled.



Elihu Root.

Secretary Root declared he had made no announcement that he would be a candidate and that he could not discuss the matter. He had just come from the president's office, where Mr. Ward and Speaker Wadsworth previously had been in conference with the president. Mr. Root said that he had written several letters on the subject of the senatorship but in none of them had he said he would be a candidate.

PROBING OF FARM LIFE IS STARTED

FIRST HEARING BY PRESIDENT'S COMMISSION IS HELD.

MANY TOPICS DISCUSSED

Maryland Farmers Give Their Opinions—Thousands of Replies to Prof. Bailey's Circular Have Been Received.

Washington, Nov. 10.—President Roosevelt considers the appointment of the commission on country life one of the most important pieces of work he has done, according to the statement made by Prof. L. H. Bailey of Cornell university, chairman of the commission, after the president had discussed with the commission the result of the first hearing of the commission Monday at College Park, Md. The president expressed his pleasure at the work already done by the commission.

A gathering of representative Maryland farmers was present at the first hearing. The only absent member of the commission was Dr. Walter R. Page, who joined the commission in Richmond, where a hearing was held Tuesday. There were no set speeches, the various farmers present being asked to express their opinions on any subject of general interest to farm life.

Typhoid a Farm Disease.

Dr. C. W. Stiles, who was present as a representative of the public health and marine hospital service, declared that typhoid fever is essentially a farm disease in the southeastern states. The discussion brought out the necessity of better sanitary control in country districts.

Among the other topics discussed were the need of rearranging the curriculum of country schools with a view to making them of more direct practical value to the farmer; the effectiveness of the rural church; parcels post; good roads and the formation of farming institutions; small local insurance companies and co-operative and buying agencies. The general concensus of opinion favored all these.

Data from Thousands of Farmers.

Prof. Bailey conferred with Dr. S. N. D. North, director of the census, as to the tabulating of the numerous replies which are being received to the 600,000 circular letters sent out by the commission to farmers all over the country, already 6,000 replies have been received.

C. J. Blanchard of the reclamation service has been appointed to go with the commission as business manager, and Dr. E. W. Allen of the office of experiment stations as secretary.

DOUBLE KILLING

Man Murders His Wife and Blows Out His Brains.

Wichita, Kan., Nov. 10.—Oscar Huder Monday evening shot and killed his wife, shot at his mother-in-law, Mrs. M. A. Turner, then turned the revolver on himself and blew his brains out. His wife, who was killed instantly, held a four-months-old child in her arms and the weight of her body fell on the child, seriously and perhaps fatally injuring it. The shooting was the result of a family quarrel.

Huber was recently released from the county jail, where he had been confined for 18 months because he put dynamite on the Santa Fe railroad track north of this city and attempted to wreck a train.

Bold Attempt at Blackmail.

Denver, Col., Nov. 10.—A women giving her name as Mrs. H. C. Cones Monday afternoon compelled Mrs. Genevieve Chandler Phipps, divorced wife of Lawrence Phipps, the Pittsburg millionaire, to take her in her automobile to a bank for the purpose of getting $10,000 that she demanded of Mrs. Phipps on pain of being blown to pieces with dynamite. At the bank Mrs. Cones was overpowered by special officers and placed under arrest.

Another Dry Ohio County.

Columbus, O., Nov. 10.—Portage county Monday voted dry by 1,200 in a local option election. Twenty-nine saloons were put out.

Dr. W. T. Bull Near Death.

New York, Nov. 10.—Dr. W. T. Bull, the eminent New York surgeon, who has been critically ill for several weeks, was reported as sinking fast Monday night, and fears were expressed that he would not survive many hours.

PRESIDENT OF FEDERATION DEFENDS HIS COURSE—IS LIKELY TO BE UPHELD—HE TELLS DELEGATES TO DENVER CONVENTION FREE SPEECH AND FREE PRESS HAVE BEEN ATTACKED

Denver, Col., Nov. 10.—Hearty applause was given President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor by the delegates to the twenty-eighth annual convention of the organization at its opening session Monday, and also at the close of his report, which he read at the afternoon session, and it was interpreted to indicate that there will be no effective opposition to his re-election.

"The statement that there will be a big fight in the convention in regard to the action taken by President Gompers in the recent campaign will not be fulfilled," said John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America and a delegate to the convention.

President Gompers' report was an accounting of the work performed by the president during the past year. At the outset he declared: "There must not be permitted to grow up or to be maintained a permanent army of unemployed."

The part of the report that touched on the Bucks Stove & Range Company's injunction case was frequently interrupted by applause.

He Demands a Free Press.

The stand taken by John Mitchell, Frank Morrison, and Samuel Gompers on the injunction matter was also applauded. Mr. Gompers said in part:

"It is impossible to see how we can comply fully with the court's injunction. Shall we be denied the right of free speech and free press simply because we are workmen?

"Now it is the American Federation of Labor and the American Federationist which are enjoined from the exercise of the right of free speech and the liberty of the press. In the future it may be another publication, and this injunction will then be quoted as a sacred precedent for future and further encroachments upon the rights and liberties of our people. The suppression of freedom of the press is a most serious undertaking, whether in autocratic Russia or the Republic of the United States. It is because the present injunction and the contempt proceedings thereunder suppress free speech and free press that I feel it my duty to enter an emphatic protest.

Republican Leaders Scored.

"The president made an unwarranted attack upon me and upon the labor organization of the country.

"Speaker Cannon has packed committees not only against labor but against any other real reform legislation.

"Congress adjourned with the defiant declaration of one of the Republican leaders, James S. Sherman, that the Republican party is responsible for legislation or for the failure of legislation and that he and his party were willing to assume the responsibility.

"The report of our legislative committee reveals a tale of perfidy to the commonwealth and in telling the truth perforce besmirches the name and history of a political party that found its embodiment and idealism in the martyred Lincoln.

"The Republican party adopted declarations for the enactment of a law that would legalize the worst abuse and perversion of the injunction writ, this in direct opposition to what we had asked."

WM. H. TAFT IS TRAINING FOR WORK

IS PREPARING FOR HIS DUTIES BY RIDING AND GOLF—PRESIDENT ELECT PROBABLY WILL GO TO AUGUSTA EARLY IN DECEMBER FOR THE WINTER

Hot Springs, Va., Nov. 10.—The stay of President-elect Taft at the Virginia Hot Springs will be prolonged until the first week of December, if the ordinary season of mild weather here prevails. It is Mr. Taft's determination to fit himself, by riding and golf, for the strenuous duties which await him in March.

He has accepted the request of Miss Boardman of Washington, president of the National Red Cross, to attend the annual meeting of the society in Washington December 9. He expects to remain here until then. Although his plans have not been determined, it is his intention to go then to Augusta, Ga., to take a cottage and remain during the winter. The Taft family physician in Cincinnati has recommended the Georgia city as the ideal place for outdoor exercise during the winter.

There will be a general post-election conference Tuesday between Judge Taft and National Chairman Hitchcock. Mr. Hitchcock has been frequently mentioned as the probable postmaster general in the Taft cabinet, and while Mr. Taft has so far deferred taking up matters of state since the election, it is not unlikely that an understanding will be reached between the chairman and his chief.

The weather is mild and pleasant and Judge Taft Monday played his morning game of golf with Gov.-elect Draper of Massachusetts, and went riding on his favorite saddle horse in the afternoon.

National Committeeman Murphy of New Jersey, who is a guest here, was a caller at the Taft cottage.

E. W. CARMACK IS KILLED IN A DUEL

FORMER SENATOR SHOT DEAD ON NASHVILLE STREET.

POLITICS CAUSE OF FIGHT

Robin Cooper Slays Editor of The Tennessean Because of Published Attacks on His Father.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Former Senator Edward Ward Carmack, editor of The Tennessean, was shot and killed Monday afternoon about four o'clock on Seventh avenue North, in front of the Polk flats, by Robin Cooper, a son of Col. Duncan B. Cooper.

Mr. Carmack was going north on Seventh avenue in front of the Polk flats and Col. Cooper and his son Robin were approaching Seventh avenue on Union street. Soon after they came in sight of one another the shooting began, Robin Cooper, it is said, firing two shots and Senator Carmack one.

Col. Cooper, it is said, drew his pistol but did not fire.

Carmack Dies Instantly.

Senator Carmack fell to the ground, dying instantly. Robin Cooper was shot in the right shoulder but was not badly hurt.

It is understood that the trouble is one of the results of the recent Democratic gubernatorial primary in which Carmack was defeated. Carmack, since he had been editor of the Tennesseean, had been quite caustic in criticising what he called the Democratic machine, and had several editorials about Col. Cooper.

Within the past few days, it is said, Col. Cooper notified Carmack that these editorial criticisms must cease. Monday morning another editorial reference to Col. Cooper appeared in the Tennesseean, and this is supposed to have been the immediate cause of the trouble.

Young Cooper's Wound Slight.

As soon as Carmack fell Col. Cooper put his arm around Robin Cooper and both walked a few feet down Seventh avenue to Dr. R. G. Fort's office, where the slight wound in Robin's shoulder was examined and treated.

An ambulance carried the body of Mr. Carmack to an undertaking establishment. His pistol was lying at his side with two of the chambers empty when the body was picked up.

Young Cooper was later carried to a hospital and Col. Cooper is held at police headquarters. He has made no statement. Robin Cooper is a practicing attorney, 27 years old and single.

Widow Goes to Nashville.

Columbia, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Mrs. E. W. Carmack left here for Nashville at five o'clock Monday afternoon and appeared on the verge of prostration. Her mother, Mrs. Ellen Dunnington, who has been seriously ill, was overcome and physicians were called in. Fears are entertained for her. The remains of Mr. Carmack will reach here Tuesday and the funeral will probably be arranged for Wednesday.

Sketch of Carmack's Career.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Former United States Senator Edward W. Carmack, who was shot and killed Monday at Nashville, was born near Castilian Springs, Summer county, Tennessee, November 5, 1858. He had an academic education, studied law, practiced in Columbia, Tenn., and was a member of the legislature of 1884.

He was a delegate to the national Democratic convention of 1896 and a member of congress 1897-1901, from the Tenth congressional district of Tennessee. He served with distinction in the United States senate for six years, being defeated for re-election in the primary a little over a year ago by former Gov. Robert Taylor.

Senator Carmack then resumed the practice of law in this city, which was then his home, but within a few months removed to Nashville.

Became Editor of Tennesseean.

Last spring he oposed Gov. Patterson for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, championing the cause of state-wide prohibition. He was defeated. Shortly after his defeat Mr. Carmack was offered the editorship of the Nashville Tennesseean. He accepted the offer and since then and for the last two months had been at the head of the Tennesseean.

Senator Carmack's newspaper career began in 1886, as a member of the editorial staff of the Nashville American. He founded the Nashville Democrat in 1889 and when it was merged into the American became editor-in-chief of the latter paper. In 1892 he became editor of the Commercial-Appeal at Memphis.

He was married April, 1890, to Miss Elizabeth Cobey Dunnington of Columbia, Tenn.

Pioneer Iowa Solon Dead.

MARKET DAY NOV. 21ST

COMMERCIAL CLUB SO DECIDES AT A MEETING HELD YESTERDAY

IT WILL BE A REGULAR "THANKSGIVING DAY" AFFAIR—GOOD PRIZES

Crookston's fourth market day will be held on Saturday November 21, and it is anticipated that the event will be the most successful that has as yet been held.

Yesterday afternoon a number of the merchants and business men of the city met and decided that another market day should be held before the cold weather sets in for good and the day fixed was November 21, or the Saturday preceding Thanksgiving.

Every merchant and business man present was enthusiastic in his support of the proposition and it demonstrated that the institution has come to stay in the city. It was pointed out that the most beneficial result that came from these days was the better feeling that was created between the farmers and the people of this city and in addition the farmers were being impressed with the fact that Crookston was their market point.

Prepare for Big Day

The regular Market Day Committee which is composed at the present time of Walter Stone, J. A. Cowley and Thomas R. Johnston, was instructed by the business men present to make preparations for the holding of the Fourth Market day on Saturday, November 21, and to make every effort to have it the best of all former efforts. It was the concensus of opinion that practically the same line of entertainment should be followed as had prevailed on former days, as it was believed that it met with the approval of the visitors and made the day one of enjoyment as well as profit.

Committee Retained

While the committee that has been in charge of the institution in the past desired to be relieved of the exceedingly onerous duties involved, it was decided that their services should be retained and the members be permitted to score another success. The financial end of the event was placed in the hands of a special committee, of which Ed Ralston was named by President Misner as chairman.

Thanksgiving Special

As soon as the committee received its instructions, the members were called together and they got busy with outlining a program for the event. In the first place this market day will be known as the Thanksgiving Special and the farmers will be encouraged to bring to the city such things as will be especially attractive to the day.

The Prizes

Prizes will be offered for turkeys. The committee desires to see a big exhibit of turkeys and it has prepared several prizes for the largest birds that will be brought to the city, besides assuring the farmers of the purchase of every bird entered in the competition at the highest market price.

A prize will also be offered for the best dressed hog under 150 pounds in weight and it is believed that this will mean a large number of entries. Prizes will also be offered for the largest and best pumpkin and the largest and best squash.

Free Vaudeville

There will also be the free vaudeville and moving picture shows which have proven so attractive in the past and the great free auction feature will be continued. These sales have proven of great advantage to the farmers and there is no doubt but that the auction has proven a source of more than ordinary profit to them. The sales have each time continued to grow and it is anticipated that this time the total proceeds that will be turned over to the farmers will be greatly in excess of all previous sales.

GOV
JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA

GOV. JOHNSON AGAIN ELECTED

HIS MAJORITY WILL NOT BE AS LARGE AS TWO YEARS AGO.

Late Returns Place His Majority at About 25,000. The Country as Well as Cities Helped Materially to Swell His Figures.

Minneapolis, Minn., November 5.—The returns from Minnesota in the governorship contest continue to be more or less incomplete.. It can be asserted, however, that Taft has carried the state by 80,000 and that in the face of this, Johnson has swept the state by 25,000.

The city of Duluth, which the Republicans had expected to carry for Jacobson, has given Johnson a majority of 939, while reports from all sections of the country, including the city of Duluth, and with 70 precincts to hear from, give Johnson the county by 715. The tonnage tax fight in St. Louis county and other issues lead the Republicans to expect better results than this.

The Republican managers and leaders, of course, were disappointed at the result but were not discouraged. They had known all the time that they were fighting against odds, but in spite of this they had been hopeful throughout the long fight. They knew that Jacobson had to go against the prestige which Johnson's 72,000 majority in 1906 gave him, together with the prestige he received in his presidential candidacy. The Republicans also had to go against the tremendous organization which the Democrats have been building up.

Already there is talk among Republicans that Jacobson is the proper man to nominate for governor in 1910. He is a stronger man than ever, they say, and the acquaintance he has won in this campaign is a great asset. He had to go against great odds this year, and cutting Johnson's majority down to about 20,000 is no small feat. Jacobson had the united support of the party, and there was a real fight made in his behalf, but the time was too short to overcome the handicap with which he started out.

Ramsey county, although it gave over 6,000 for Johnson, did as well as the Republicans expected. St. Paul has been the governor's home for four years, and is the seat of the state capitol. Many of the appointees live here and the governor has been constantly mingling with the people here. Jacobson was a comparative stranger to the city, and the prejudice that has existed against him in the city took some time to overcome. That this was overcome among a great number of people is certain, but apparently not enough of them had met him and seen him enough to know him. However, the local Republicans had been told that if they held Johnson's majority down to what it was in 1906 in this city, Jacobson would get enough votes outside to elect him. Johnson's majority was cut in Ramsey as in Hennepin, but the country increased Johnson's lead over Jacobson.

Chairman A. D. Brown of the Republican state central committee did not give up hope until yesterday noon, when so many returns were in it was certain there would be no change in the result. The Democratic managers were confident of victory all along, except during the first hour Tuesday night, when a few Republican precincts gave them a scare, and for a time some of them thought Johnson was defeated.

The campaign was the hardest fought in a number of years, with the exception of the Dunn-Johnson fight in 1904. The campaign this year, however, was conducted on a higher moral plane, and although there were misrepresentations and abuse, it was generally free from mudslinging.

The returns received yesterday on Taft and Bryan bear out the first estimates of 100,000 or more for Taft. Nearly all the counties outside of Hennepin and Ramsey have been doing better than two to one for Taft.

St. Louis county has been a disappointment to the Republicans. The Republican leaders had confidently expected that they would carry the city of Duluth, but returns last night showed that Johnson had carried it by about 500, although Republican leaders there claimed that Jacobson would probably carry the county.

Bryan For Senate.

Lincoln Neb., Nov. 5.—A movement is on foot to elect W. J. Bryan to the United States senate as the successor of Elmore J. Burkett (Republican), whose term expires 1911.

Mr. Bryan has repeatedly asserted both on the stump and in private conversation that he would rather receive Dunislav's salary than be president. It is admitted his personal popularity carried the Democratic ticket through in the state and his friends declare just recognition demands his receiving the senatorial post.

Taft Votes.

New York.—Late developments in the election situation surprised the political leaders of both big parties, and the result may be a vindication of the judgment of Chairman Hitchcock, who declared that Taft would receive 325 votes in the electoral college.

Midnight returns indicate that he is practically assured of 309 votes and has a fighting chance for Missouri's eighteen votes, which would give him a total of two more than Mr. Hitchcock claimed.

TEN MILES PAST ROSEAU

GREAT NORTHERN IS MAKING A RECORD PROGRESS ON WARROAD EXTENSION

ARE LAYING RAILS AT RATE OF MORE THAN A MILE A DAY—MANY LABORERS

The Great Northern extension from Greenbush to Warroad is being pushed forward rapidly. Already the steel gang is ten or more miles beyond Roseau and are moving at the rate of a mile or so a day. The surfacing crew has almost reached Roseau. As soon as the steel men finish, they will begin at Warroad to surface the work back toward Roseau until they meet the regular crew of men engaged in this work. The whole line is to be balasted with gravel, the company having secured 80 acres of gravel at Fox, between Badger and Roseau, where the steam shovel is now working.

Everyday men from the Cities pass thru here bound for the scene of operations and likewise men are passing thru here homeward bound, having tired of labor. On Wednesday a laborers' car was attached to the G. N. passenger train, carrying men up to the extension. All had been recruited by the Twin City employment agencies. At least two of these men deserted at this point in spite of the contractor in charge.

There is a postmaster in New England who has held his place for seven years, and during all that time he has made requisition for only one ball of twine. The postoffice department thinks enough of his record to print it in its monthly bulletin accompanied by an admiring tribute. The name and address is withheld, but all the other facts are given to postmasters all over the country, apparently with the hope that this glowing example will be followed by others.

It appears that the way this canny New Englander saved the postoffice department a few cents of expense for twine was this: he saved all the string that came his way, laid it carefully away, and when he had use for it, there it was. Knots were carefully untied, tangles carefully straightened out, and the precious pieces of cord were treasured up as tho they were priceless jewels. So the single ball of twine furnished by the postoffice department, acting as a nucleus for the painstaking collection of second hand cord, was spun out to last seven years.

Just why the postoffice department should be jubiliant over this amazing piece of extravagance it is hard to see; and it is harder still to imagine why they should be seeking to induce other postmasters to emulate this example.

The time taken in unloosening up and straightening out the average tangle of twine ought to be worth enough to buy a whole ball of new string. It is possible that in the seven years the postmaster has been working along these lines he saved the department a dollar—perhaps more, very likely less. But has the time he spent on this no value? It is difficult to imagine how time could be applied seriously in less possibility of dividends from in them in hoarding up pieces of twine to save buying new twine. The latest market quotations of twine are not at hand, but we know that it is cheap, and time is priceless.

Yet there are many people whose ideas of economy this ridiculous method accurately represents. It is a conspicuous example of the "pennywise and pound foolish" school of parsimony, which wastes money trying to save money. There is a story of a man wishing to hire an office boy, who tested two applicants by handing them a package, carefully tied up in string, and telling them to open it. The first boy remembered what he had heard about the virtue of economy, and how "many a mickle makes a muckle", "take care of the pennies and the pounds will take care of themselves" phrases whose form indicate their alien parentage. He carefully untied the hard knot in the string, deliberately took it off the parcel, wound it up and tenderly placed it in a safe place, delicately removed the wrapping paper and folded that up, and handed the contents to the prospective employer. The second boy whipped out a knife, cut the string, tore off the wrapper, threw wrapper and string in the waste basket and handed the contents to his prospective employer in about a fifth the time consumed by the careful boy. It was the second boy that was hired, and the employer, in choosing wisely, taught the lesson that judgment must be used, even in methods of economizing.

GOOD CUT IN TWINE PRICES

CUT OF ONE CENT PER POUND IN THE OUTPUT OF THE PRISON FACTORY

FOR THE SEASON OF 1909 HAS BEEN ANNOUNCED RECENTLY

Prices of prison twine for 1909 have been fixed by the board of control. A cut of one cent per pound in last year prices will be charged for all grades of twine. This is a reduction of 2 cents per pound on the prices of two years ago. On account of the quality of the fibre purchased, it is stated by the board that the twine product will be better than ever before.

It is estimated that the output of twine for 1909 will be 17,00,000 pounds and will bring to the state about $1,344,000.

Folowing are the prices as fixed for 1909: Standard 500 feet to the pound, 6 3-4 cents; Standard Manila, 550 feet to the pound, 7 3-4 cents; Manila, 600 feet to the pound, 8 3-4 cents; pure Manila, 650 feet to the pound 10 cents.

Papers bearing on the methods to be adopted in the conduct of prisons and public institutions were read and discussed today at the quarterly conference of executive officers of the state institutions with the state board of control. Eleven of the superintendents of state institutions were present

Dr. M. Nelson Voldeng, Cherokee, Iowa, read a paper on central vs. local board of management for state institutions and the importance of maintaining individuality of the institution. Heredity and environment was the subject of a paper read by Dr. A. C. Rogers, superintendent of the school for feeble minded at Faribault.

The reading and the subsequent discussion of these two papers will occupy the day. Tomorrow the stores and supplies for the various institutions, including clothing and some forms of food will be purchased from samples now colected at the capitol.

BIG LIVE STOCK SHOW

MEETING IN ST. PAUL NOV. 17 TO 20 WILL BE A MOST IMPORTANT ONE

AN IMMENSE SHOWING OF ALL MANNER OF STOCK IS CERTAIN—MANY GOING

An exhibition of the importance of the coming Live Stock Show to be given at South St. Paul, November 17th to 20th, having as it does the object of raising the standard of livestock production naturally meets with favorable notice and the management of the show is now predicting an attendance at the coming exhibition far in excess of that which marked the initial venture last year.

Lectures and demonstrations will be a valuable part of the program of the show. Included in this feature of the show will be a talk on "tuberculosis" by Dr. O. E. Dyon. Dr. M. H. Reynolds will speak on Hog Cholera and G. E. McKerrow on Sheep Raising. Prof. D. D. Mayne is on the program for an illustrated lecture on Agricultural Farming. Prof. Geo. E. Day of Guelph, Ontario, will deliver a lecture on some interesting topic. Other discourses of equal interest have been provided.

An exhibition of Percheron, Belgium and French Coach horses will be an added attraction this year and this feature will be prominent in all future shows.

The program will contain attractions in the amusement line which have been added with a view to making the show popular with all classes.

THIEF RIVER FALLS MILL CLOSES DOWN

The saw mill at Thief River Falls closed down for the season yesterday after a shorter but no less successful season than usual. Owing to a scarcity of logs in the lower stretches of river last spring due to low water which prevented the usual fall drive the year previous, the mill did not start the season's work until well along in May. Even with this draw back, 33,000,000 feet of lumber were cut which is fully up to the standard considering the time of operation.

Tuesday Mr. Crowe received word from Mr. Winton that the usual arrangement of a full day and night crew would be adhered to next year as heretofore, the decision having been made to operate the plant to its full capacity.

NOT A PARTICLE OF SKIN ON BODY

Worst Case of Eczema Doctor Had Seen in 40 Years—For Six Months Father Expected His Baby to Die—Blood Oozed Out All Over Her Body—Had to Be Wrapped in Silk and Carried on a Pillow—Now She Is Perfectly Cured.

DOCTOR RECOMMENDED CUTICURA REMEDIES

"My little girl was born two weeks before her time and my wife died four hours after the birth of our child and I had to raise the baby on artificial foods. Six months after birth she broke out and I had two doctors in attendance. There was not a particle of skin left on her body, the blood oozed out just anywhere, and we had to wrap her in silk and carry her on a pillow for ten weeks. She was the most terrible sight I ever saw, and for six months I looked for her to go to her mama, but thank God and his agents, she is alive and well to-day and she will be three years old the seventh of December and has never had a sign of the dread trouble since.

"I used every known remedy to alleviate her suffering, for it was terrible to witness. Dr. C—— gave her up and then I went to C—— F—— and got Dr. B—— and he and Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment saved her. He recommended the Cuticura Remedies, or said we were right in making use of them. As nearly as I can remember, we used eight cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment; but you must take into consideration that hers was an exceptional case, for an old and good doctor said that it was the worst case that had come to him in forty years. I have always hinged on Cuticura Soap to keep her skin soft and to give her a pure complexion. James J. Smith, Wood and Metal Pattern Maker, Box 234, Buena Vista, Va., Oct. 14 and 22, 1906."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.) (in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass. MUSINGS ON MORALS
By Peagreen in St. Paul Dispatch

Having been asked for my opinion regarding women's clubs, I venture the assertion that it evidently "meet and proper" and their "bounden duty" to use one occasionally.

The big things some people are always doing turn out to be dreams after they "sober up."

It is often safest to send your feelings by slow freight instead of expressing them.

Words are only vehicles for thoughts—and it isn't always necessary to hitch up a lumber wagon in order to get a dozen eggs to market.

He who knows his own faults well has already reduced their number and size.

It looks to a cheerful cynic as though there had been a lot of hell raised in trying to establish a heaven.

He who is doing something that doesn't have to be undone or done over again, is the one who gets the most newspaper notoriety—a hundred years afterwards.

The man who can successfully teach people to want what they need and what is best for them, has found the lost trail to Eden.

The man with high ideals can always stand defeat. The man with low ones sulks or suicides if he fails to realize them.

The fellow who "knows it all" usually knows a lot of things that ain't so.

Did It Ever Occur to You?

"I paid that bill once."
"You must be mistaken."
"Indeed, I am not mistaken."
"Have you a receipt?"
"It seems to me I have, but I don't remember what I did with it."
"We have no record of payment, and unless you can produce our acknowledgement in the way of a receipt, we must insist that you pay the account."

But it might have been a different story had the bill been paid with a bank check. No chance for argument or dispute when the cancelled check is produced. Better pay your bills but once—with a check on this bank.

CLUB MAY REORGANIZE

YOUNG MEN'S JOHNSON CLUB MAY DECIDE TO CONTINUE IN FUTURE

AND KEEP OPEN QUARTERS AS A LITERARY ORGANIZATION

There is a movement on foot among the members of the Young Men's Johnson Club to effect a re-organization as a literary club and keep the club rooms open during the coming winter, and probably permanently.

The idea would meet with the hearty approval of the traveling men it is understood, as it would give them some place in which to spend their spare hours, and at the same time it would be the plan to hold occasional debates in which the club members would participate, and other forms of diversions might also be adopted.

If this plan is carried out there will also be a good line of reading matter provided, including all the late periodicals as well as the daily papers and every effort made to make the members enjoy all the time spent in the club rooms.

There are more stupid men in the world than blind ones. That may account for the average girl's desire to be beautiful rather than intellectual.

WESTINGHOUSE CO., SECURES A CONTRACT FOR WORK TO COST $5,000,000

New York, Nov. 4—Plans for the complete electrification of the Pennsylvania railroad terminal in this city were announced yesterday with the signing of a $5,000,000 contract for the work at the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company. This followed an important meeting of the Pennsylvania directorate in Philadelphia.

Aside from the importance of the contract for the work it involves the announcement has a political significance made known thru an interview with President George Westinghouse, who announced the signing of the contract. He said:

"It was decided at first not to announce the contract at this time, but after arriving here I telephoned President McCrea of the Pennsylvania. Of course we all hope for the election of Taft, and I thought this would be a good time to show our confidence."

The contract is for the electrification of the entire Pennsylvania system from Harrison, N. J. to Jamaica, L. I. While the initial amount of apparatus will aggregate $5,000,000 this is said by no means to represent the full amount.

The system of trolley probably will be overhead and not the so-called third rail system.

APPEAL DENIED

SUPREME COURT OF MINNESOTA DECIDES CASE OF MAN HUNT AT HARVEY

St. Paul, Nov. 5—That a verdict for $26,000 for injuries received by a boy stealing a ride on a Soo freight train in North Dakota when he jumped from the train after being threatened by a brakeman, is excessive was held by the supreme court, in an opinion written by Chief Justice Start, affirming the action of the Ramsey county district court in granting a new trial in the case. An appeal was taken by both parties to the suit.

Morton S. Barrett a 19-year-old boy, the plaintiff in the case claimed that his injuries were due to the fact that he was frightened into jumping from the rapidly moving train by the brakeman's threats. The jury awarded him $26,000 damages, and the district court granted a new trial on ground that the verdict was excessive.

The ejectment from the train occurred after the boy had been discovered and offered a ride by the brakeman for 25 cents. This the boy did not have, and waiting until the brakeman had disappeared, he again boarded the car. The brakeman reappeared and ordered the boy off, accompanying the command, the boy testified with threats which scared him into getting off instantly while the train was moving rapidly.

The court holds that the road is liable for the torts of the brakeman, even tho he had been directed by the company not to do what he did when he caused the boy to fall.

H. E. KJORSVIK HAS RESIGNED

LEFT THE GREAT NORTHERN TO KEEP BOOKS FOR L. W. LARSON

When Ticket Agent H. E. Kjorsvik who has been in the Great Northern offices here for some time past till he left a short time ago for a trip East, it was not generally known that when he returned he would not return to the employ of the Great Northern, but has accepted a position as bookkeeper with L. W. Larson & Co., and that R. H. Ballou had been permanently appointed as night ticket agent, C. W. Stewart taking the day shift.

Mr. Kjorsvik is at present on a two months' trip east, and when he returns will at once assume his duties with Mr. Larson. H. O. Anderson, at present bookkeeper for Mr. Larson has had other plans for some time past but has not decided definitely as to which of a number of positions he will accept. However he will remain in Crookston.

WELL PLEASED WITH HOLDINGS

Thad Smith, Frank Brennicke and A. W. Heald of Marshalltown, Ia., arrived in the city this morning and will spend a few days in this section looking after their land holdings in this section.

They are all very well pleased with their holdings in the Red River valley and will probably add to their acreage in this section before they return.

All are well known capitalists of Marshalltown, Mr. Smith being very wealthy.

They expressed themselves as highly gratified with the conditions in this section of the country, and stated that the outlook never appeared better to them. They were pleased with the evidences of prosperity in Crookston and noted a decided gain since their last visit here.

New York Redeems Itself

Nothing in Tuesday's election is more encouraging than the victory of Governor Hughes of New York over the junta of special privilege, immorality and depravity which had sought to defeat him. It does not speak well for New York that the people of the country, a week ago, feared that Hughes could be defeated. It speaks much better for the Empire state that it did return to the governorship that staunch and sterling citizen who has exhibited such a conspicuous example of rigid public spirit and unswerving devotion to public duty.

In the nation there will be great rejoicing over the election of Johnson and Hughes, the country's most famous governors; and in both cases the states that honored them have honored themselves and the nation.—Duluth Herald.

MISSING STUDENT

WILLIS E. SMITH MISSING SINCE SEPT. 22 AT LAST IS FOUND

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 5—It is believed that Willis E. Smith a member of the freshman class at the state university who has been mysteriously missing since Sept. 22 has been found at Russelville, Ky. A message from there today to L. E. Smith brother of the missing boy, said the officers there had been for two days shadowing a young man who acted suspiciously. Yesterday he said his name was Harrison, but today when asked point blank if his name was not Smith, he said his name was Harry Smith. He also said he had been in Lexington attending the state university about six weeks ago but had left because of ill-treatment at the college.

He would not admit that he was the boy for whom the police everywhere have been searching. The brother, L. E. Smith probably will go to Russellville today.

Smith disappeared on the night of September 22.

CONDITIONS NEVER BETTER

TRAVELING MEN STATE THAT NORTHWESTERN MINNESOTA WAS NEVER

IN AS FINE SHAPE AS AT PRESTIME—FARMERS FOREHANDED

From Friday's Daily—

The traveling men who make Crookston their headquarters, and there are scores of them, state that the conditions were never as favorable in many years as this fall. They state that the farmers all have their work well in hand, far more plowing being done than there has been for many years past, many of them claiming that there are two acres ready for crop this year where last there was not one, and that the work was done in good season, much of the land turned over having been summer fallowing and tame grass land ployed up early.

In addition there was much land this year sowed to barley and this was also plowed early, as was the land that was sowed to winter rye last year, and the latter crop is reported to be one of the best to clean the land that has ever been raised in this section.

The general sentiment among all the traveling men is that the conditions among the farmers is the best that it has been for many years, and that the business men thruout the Red River Valley are feeling very optimistic regarding the future. Collections are coming in very good now that the farmers have finished plowing, and everything points to more prosperous times than have been enjoyed in many years.

New York, Nov. 6—Revelation by a son to his mother of a secret marriage and parental refusal to be reconciled to it is believed to have been the impelling cause of a double tragedy in a large uptown apartment house here yesterday. The victims of the tragedy were Mrs. Rebecca Veit, a wealthy widow, and her only son, J. Nelson Veit a Wall street broker, the circumstances of the affair indicating that the mother was shot by the son and the latter then took his own life by inhaling illuminating gas.

Son Wed Secretly

The police made the discovery yesterday that Veit who was supposed to be single was married secretly in October of last year. His mother who spends several months each year in Europe had only recently returned from France.

Late yesterday the police found Mrs. J. Nelson Veit widow of the dead man, in another uptown apartment house, where she said she had been living with Veit for a month past, having been away from New York all the time since her marriage with Veit in October 1907. Mrs. Veit said that she never met her husband's mother and did not know whether or not the mother was ever told of the marriage. Her husband she said left early Tuesday night and telephoned to her about 10:30 o'clock that he would be home in half an hour. She did not hear from him again she said.

Wealthy Family

The dead woman was the widow of the late Felix Veit a wealthy broker.

Mrs. Veit said that the mother and son had always been very much devoted to each other.

Common sense is useful but there's mighty little inspiration to be had out of it.

IS SAID TO HELP MANY

PREPARE THIS SIMPLE RECIPE AT HOME AND TRY IT—MANY WAIT TOO LONG

DRUGGISTS HERE IN TOWN SAY THEY CAN SUPPLY THE INGREDIENTS

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered as the most certain prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended It is the prescription of an eminent authority whose entire reputation, it is said was established by it.

A druggist here at home, when asked, stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

BIJOU THEATRE HAS BEEN SOLD

HAS BEEN SOLD TO MESSRS. NAULT AND SIMMONS OF THIS CITY

PLAN TO MAKE THE ATTRACTIONS EVEN BETTER THAN THEY HAVE BEEN

From Thursday's Daily—

Today a deal was completed for the sale of the Bijou Theatre on North Main street, just north of the Merchants Bank, to Messrs. Nault and Simmons, the transfer having taken place today, and the theatre will open tonight under the new management

Mr. Ralph Carter has owned the Bijou for the past two years and the house has been a very popular amusement place, the vaudeville having been excellent in every sense of the word, and under the new management this feature will be made even better than ever before.

Messrs. Nault and Simmons have had valuable experience, and are in a position to give the public the class of amusement they are looking for. They will spare neither trouble nor expense in putting on not only the latest moving pictures, but the very best vaudeville features that can be secured.

Mr. Carter leaves to accept a position as manager of "The Dazzler" the great musical comedy, and will leave for Chicago some time next week to undertake his new duties. While he leaves Crookston with regret, the character of his new position is of such a nature that he could not afford to pass the offer up.

Williston, N. D., Nov. 6—Phil Shortt one of the best known newspaper men of North Dakota was shot and instantly killed, by Clayton Yonkins, while hunting deer in McKenzie county, a few miles across the river from there. They were with Dr. F. H. Belyea and Charles W. Smith. Shortt was beating the brush and was about 50 yards away from the trio, when Yonkins pulled his gun and shot. The ball went thru the body from side to side and pierced the heart. Shortt was once editor of a Devils Lake newspaper, and was later engaged in business in Rugby, Minot and Ross. His wife and one child survive.

AITKIN MAN KILLS SELF

PROFESSOR F. O. KING DRIVEN INSANE BY ILL HEALTH, TAKES POISON POTION

BODY FOUND IN BARN WHERE HE HAD WANDERED IN HIS DISTRACTION

Aitkin, Minn., Nov. 4—F. O. King, superintendent of schools here in a fit of temporary insanity from ill health and overwork committed suicide last night by taking poison after wandering off into the country. He was in the best of standing and his tragic death has cast a gloom over the community.

Mr. King was a native of Minnesota having been born in Fillmore county where his parents still reside. He was educated in the schools of this state and prior to coming to Aitkin six years ago had been superintendent of schools at Park Rapids. He was about 42 years of age, and is survived by his wife and a son, about 16 years of age and a daughter about 12.

The body was found in a distant barn and the coroner is now investigating the tragedy. No official declaration of the cause of death has yet been made, but it is believed to be a case of suicide by poison while mentally unbalanced from poor health and the strain that his duties put upon him. His domestic relations were of the happiest.

ERSKINE WANTS A NEW COUNTY

NEW PETITION BEING CIRCULATED FOR AMPUTATION OF EASTERN

END OF POLK COUNTY—ERSKINE NAMED AS THE COUNTY SEAT

From Thursday's Daily—

No sooner had it been learned that the proposition to divide Polk Co., creating the new county of Nelson, had been defeated than the citizens of Erskine got busy circulating another petition which is being signed up, asking again for a vote on county division, setting off practically the same territory in the East end, including the Thirteen Towns, and making Erskine as the first county seat.

It is probable that the people of the county after just having voted down the Nelson county proposition, will hardly view with any greater degree of favor the new proposition.

Complexion Of Senate

Twelve new men will come to the United States Senate as a result of the elections on Tuesday. In as many as twenty-nine states there were elections of legislatures and it will be the duty of these legislatures to choose senators for the term beginning March 4th. It is expected that sixteen senators in these states will be re-elected and that new senators will be named in twelve more. There is a vacancy in Iowa caused by the death of Allison, the senior from that state. It is expected that the Democrats will gain a senator in Oregon and that the Republican will gain one in Colorado. The Senate will be Republican and it is expected that a new senator will be named in place of Foraker. Until recently it was supposed that Theodore E Burton, the representative from Cleveland, would not be a candidate for the senate because it was understood that he aspired to the more conspicuous and influential office of Speaker of the House in place of Cannon. But Speaker Cannon has unexpectedly been re-elected by so respectable a vote from his own district, and the House is again republican by such a positive majority, that it seems to augur that Uncle Joe will succeed himself as the Speaker. In such event Mr. Burton will be the most conspicuous candidate for Senator from Ohio to succeed Senator Foraker.

Religion And Politics

President Roosevelt has made no utterance more soundly American than that given in his letter, published elsewhere tonight, in reply to those who criticised Judge Taft's candidacy on religious grounds, says the Duluth Herald.

There were rumors during the campaign that Judge Taft is a Unitarian and he is. There were rumors, too, that his wife and his brothers are Catholics, which they are not. But if they had been ,and if Judge Taft had been a Catholic, a Presbyterian, a Methodist, a Jew or a Lutheran, the fact would have been absolutely foreign to the campaign discussion would have had nothing whatever to do with his qualifications for the presidency, and should have had absolutely nothing to do with determining the vote of any citizen.

This nation, surface appearances to the contrary notwithstanding is a religious nation, and no irreligious man no blatant scorner of other men's faith could be elected president; the example would be harmful if such a man could be elected. But the question of what a candidate's choice of religion may be, of whether he is a Jew, a Catholic, a Unitarian, a Baptist or a Christian Scientist, should never arise in this country. As the president has so forcibly put it, "to discriminate against a thoroly upright citizen because he belongs to some particular church or because, like Abraham Lincoln he has not avowed his alegliance to any church, is an outrage against that liberty of conscience which is one of the foundations of American life."

Religion has never advanced thru narrow religious prejudice, and certainly the common good, which is far above any difference of opinion about dogma, cannot be improved when the disposal of votes is determined upon such narrow grounds. Regardless of their particular beliefs, both Mr. Bryan and Judge Taft are thoroly upright citizens, and the man who chose between them on religious grounds showed himself no friend of liberty or country.

Activity Should Prevail Now

For some time we have been aware that there has been a hesitancy evident amongst business men and business institutions relative to undertaking improvements and reaching out for enlarged trade. We have been informed that there has been a large increase in bank deposits, which would give evidence of considerable prosperity, but at the same time it has been a difficult matter to get anyone interested in any proposition that had for its purpose the expansion of business or the increasing of obligations. It was stated that pending the outcome of the presidential election capital would not be outlayed, as it was felt that should the unexpected happen, and the election of the democratic nominee for president take place, it would be wise to have one's money where it could be handled most easy and expeditiously.

The election is now a thing of the past and the republican nominee was chosen by a vote that was almost overwhelmingly emphatic and it cannot be offered as an excuse any longer that there is danger of Bryan or Bryanism. If the money men, if the people who the community looks upon as financiers, were not bluffing, we may with confidence look for a general revival of business and a great expansion in trade. We were told that merchants were given conditional orders to be cancelled should the democrats meet with success in the national campaign. These orders are now in force and they ought to result in putting to work thousands of men who have been idle even under republican prosperity.

We notice by the news reports from different sections of the country that many thousands of men are being offered work and every paper that is picked up has articles stating that such or such an industry has announced a resumption of work and has issued notices to their employes placing them on full time and in some cases with an increase of wages. We trust this condition is not merely temporary, but that the demands of the nation will keep these men to work. We have been told that prosperity is based upon confidence and this being so, there is no reason why we should not have plenty of prosperity for to a very marked degree we can accurately figure out what will occur during the next four years. We believe Mr. Taft will make an effort to carry out his pre-election promises and his past achievements would to a great degree indicate that he will come very near having his way. In fact we believe that he will be able to get more actual legislation from congress than President Roosevelt has for the simple reason that he will go at it in a different way. The "big stick" will not be by his side all the time and he will use the same methods that he used in the Philippines, in Cuba, in Japan and on the Isthmus of Panama. His methods may not be quite so picturesque, but we are inclined to believe that they will be more effectual and will meet with success. He will use more sugar and less vinegar; he will control without apparently endeavoring to.

There is no doubt but that democrats thruout the country will be more than willing to give Mr. Taft every opportunity to make good. They are patriots before politicians and it would not be at all surprising if they should be found upholding the hands of the new president even more enthusiastically than Mr. Taft's own party coleagues. We believe that the democrats will be more in sympathy with Mr. Taft's tariff revision program than the republicans who will continue to be controlled by such men as Speaker Cannon in the house, and Vice President Sherman and Senator Aldrich in the senate. The same conditions will prevail relative to control of the trusts and the interests. There is no question but that had the democrats been in control of the last session of congress the country would have been given the reforms which President Roosevelt stood for, but which were killed by the republican party leaders under the domination of Speaker Cannon. It is possible however that the republicans may have learned a lesson in the recent campaign and may decide to cut loose from the strings which have tied them to the trusts and the moneyed interests. There is one thing sure and that is if they have not seen the hand writing on the wall, two years from new the people will further decimate the ranks of the conservatives who have balked all efforts for reform.

The country does not desire drastic legislation, but it does emphatically desire to have some matters remedied and the interests of the common people better protected. Mr. Taft has proised to look after this and we believe if he is in earnest, he can assuredly bank upon the co-operation of every democratic member of congress. He may not go quite as far as we would have him go, but if he takes an advance step the nation will appreciate it, and it will mean a prosperity founded upon a solid foundation and not one made possible through mere political strategy.

STATE PRESS

Stillwater Mirror: Being deserted by friends in the hour of his misfortune enables one realize the truth of the following words: "It is the lonely fight which is the hardest—when no heart inspires us with the atmosphere needing no words, when no hand reaches instinctively out to meet ours in a clasp of inspiration and new strength—then life's battle is really hard."

Minnesota Dairyman: Have you stopped to think that the most profitable institution in the community to the farmer is the local creamery? Go any place in the United States and find creameries running, and in that district you will find prosperity and wealth. The cow today is doing more for the country than all the mines put together, and the creamery is the stamp mill that brings out the value.

Fergus Falls Journal: The Socialists in Roseau county polled 362 votes for Debs, Braaten, the socialist candidate for congress got 325, Sageng 61 and Steenerson 842. Roseau polls less than 2,000 votes and this makes it the strongest socialist county in the state according to its size.

Litchfield Independent: The man who rocked the boat last summer will soon be in his element drawing beads on fellow-hunters in the Northern woods and sending soft-nase bullets after them.

Bemidji Pioneer: If everybody in the world would tell the absolute truth for one day, everybody in the world would be pricing bludgeons by tomorrow.

Winona Independent: Once more the country can settle down to the calm that comes after as well as before a storm. The questions that have been so prominently in the public eye for several weeks will now be eclipsed by the usual problems that interest us, such as the Thanksgiving turkey and cranberry sauce, protection from winter's chilly blasts, Christmas gifts, the musical, theatric and lecture season, and the hundred and one other topics of intimate connection with life We shall then be neither Democrats nor Republicans, but just simply friends and neighbors trying to make life pleasant for one another. Hail to the calm!

Modern Education

Says Rheta Childe Dorr in the November Delineator: "For all the educational system seems to be aware every boy who enters the primary grades expects to graduate, spend four years in the high school, pass on to college and eventually become a professional or business man. The schools do not seem to know that any women outside the teaching profession earn their living. That thousands upon thousands of children, girls as well as boys, are obliged by the hard conditions of life to go to work with their hands at the age of 14 seems to be utterly unknown.

This points again to the condition to which The Herald has repeatedly called attention: that the public school system is topheavy, that it sacrifices more than 99 per cent for the benefit of less than 1 per cent, and that there is need of greater democracy in the public schools, says the Duluth Herald.

Miss Dorr says that the best proof that the educational system has lagged behind is the fact that it is impossible to induce the great majority of children to remain in school a day longer than the law obliges them to. They flee from the school room at 14, most of them go to work, and the rest of them to learn work. They want to learn how to live, and they are not taught that lesson i nthe school room. At the time the public school system was placed on a national basis all the educators were agreed on one common ideal, which was that the schools must be democratic. Courses of study must be founded on the theory of the absolute equality of all American citizens. "Therefore the curriculum was arranged as a series of ladders, leading from the primary scvhool to the high school, from the high school to college and from college to the White House. This was intended to be a democratic program. It was, in fact, entirely aristocratic, since it redounded to the advantage of the children of the prosperous and the intellectual classes. Fully 95 per cent of the children never advance beyond the grammar grades, and less than 2 per cent of high school pupils pass on to college.

Says Miss Door: "Now a truly democratic system of public school administration would use these facts for its main basis. Since an overwhelming majority of children will never receive any more education than they get in elementary school, the proper elementary school would be, not a link in a chain a preparatory department of the high school but a complete thing in itself; a complete education of a very practical nature. Its object would be to educate children for a world of industrial pursuits."

The Congregational ladies aid will meet with Mrs. W. Farrel Thursday afternoon Nov. 12th. Rev. Mirrick will be present and will deliver a short sermon. All are cordially invited.

Louis Larson had a number of the young boys arrested last Wednesday and brought before Judge Coffey for handling part of his property a little roughly on Hallowe'en night. The case against the boys was dismissed for lack of evidence.

KEYSTONE

Several of the young folks in this vicinity tendered a pleasant surprise on Mr. John Gerber last Saturday evening in honor of his 31st birthday. Judging from the sounds produced up on their arrival one would have imagined themselves in a tin-shop rather than in the home of a farmer. The young folks made merry until midnight when a lunch was served and all departed for their homes, wishing Mr. Gerber many happy returns of the day.

School commenced in District No. 30 with Miss Agnes LaGrave as teacher.

John Gerber spent last Sunday with Simon Aeschlimann and family.

Lewis and Miss Emma Giese called on Simon Aeschlimann and family last Wednesday evening.

Everybody is rejoicing over the snow that fell last Sunday and anticipating many jolly sleigh-rides.

What Precious Stones Mean

Diamonds rank first among precious stones, benig the most beautiful, brilliant and valuable of gems, and slightly light, purity and life. The ruby signifies love of power, dignity and royalty. The pearl is an emblem of purity, humility and innocence. Like the diamond, golden grain belt beer ranks first among all malt beers. It is not only the purest of all beverages but also the most beneficial to body and mind. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Ills of Crookston People

As one weak link weakens the chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strain colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill. Crookston cures are the proof.

John P. Freeberg, tailor, of 601 Hunter St., Crookston, Minn., says: "In the summer of 1898, I had occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills and from the good results obtained from their use I gave a statement in which I strongly recommended them to anyone suffering from weakened kidneys I am pleased to confirm that testimonial at this time. I suffered for years from kidney trouble, the action of the kidney secretions being too frequent and disturbing my rest at night. The many remedies I used proved of little value until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the Wallace Drug Co. The action of the kidneys was regulated by their use."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

"Making Good"

may be slang but it is a vigorous phrase of tonic qualities and holds a world of solid meaning, hard work, honorable success, accomplishment.

There are many young men, 60 years and under, hard-workers, who have failed to justify the hopes and ambitions of their families and friends; failed to reap the harvest due them; failed to "Make Good", simply because they did not realize the many actual advantages offered them by a check account; the protection afforded their money; the chance to save the extra dollar or two; to build up their credit; the certainty of having to pay bills but once; and other advantages appreciated by the man who has a bank account.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY

Nov. 9 In History.

1795—Joseph Tatnall, noted American naval officer who supported the English warships at Pieho, China, in 1857, born in Bonaventure, Ga.; died 1871. Tatnall's excuse for his breach of neutrality at Pieho was, "Blood is thicker than water."

1872—Great Boston fire; 65 acres of the business district burned over; loss $80,000,000.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 4:44, rises 6:37; moon rises 5:54 p. m.; moon's age 16 days; planet Mercury visible low in east before sunrise.

HERE WITH LAND MEN—R. H. Purvis arrived in the city this morning with a bunch of land men from Mankato and will do business here for a couple of days.

FORMER RESIDENT— Prof. Jerry Scheffstad the well known violinist of Grand Forks and formerly a resident of Crookston came over last evening and spent the night with friends returning home this morning.

LOOKING AFTER LOGS—Pat Sullivan, the river boss for the Grand Forks Lumber Co., came over from East Grand Forks this morning and proceeded to Red Lake Falls where he will look after some logs for his concern.

HELD TO GRAND JURY—Charged with robbing Ole Bjornson of $30 while eating in a local restaurant last Friday night a well-known young man of the city was held to the Grand Jury under $500 bonds, which were promptly furnished. Owing to the fact that the evidence is all circumstantial his name is withhold for the present.

HERE FROM ROSEAU — Mike Kouch, one of the well known farmers of Roseau who was formerly located in this county was here Saturday on business and has returned to his farmstead. He is greatly pleased that the Great Northern is extending its line to Warroad through his home county.

SUPREME COURT BUSINESS — Co. Atty. James J. Maybury left Saturday evening for St. Paul where he has some supreme court and other matters to attend to, and will not return till Wednesday.

HAD GREAT SUCCESS—A party of three, whose names could not be learned, went to Mentor yesterday, and walking east along the Great Northern tracks from there during the afternoon shot 8 rabbits.

SOLD HALF SECTION OF LAND—Robert H. Purvis arrived this morning from Minneapolis with two land buyers from Danville, Ill., sold them a half section in Lowell township, and returned to Minneapolis this afternoon on the N. P. Mr. Purvis now has his main office at 611 Palace Block, Minneapolis, tho he still maintains his office at Mankato. He reports the land very brisk and is closing a great many deals.

HUNTED ALL DAY AND GOT—WET—A quartette of young hunters drove northeast of the city Sunday morning to the vicinity of Thief Lake, or thereabouts thru wind, rain and snow. Arriving at the private cottontail preserves of Archie Crawford the party, cold, shivering and hungry, they waded thru the wet brush and grass for five hours and then returned home with a buggy full of wet, cold and hungry hunters but not even a mud impression of rabbit tracks.

MADE MANY IMPROVEMENTS—Paul H. Melthke, who recently purchased the confectionery store and shoe shining parlors from Stanley Bond located just west of the Merchants Bank, has made many improvement and the place now presents a very fine appearance. He has had it repapered, linoleum laid on the floors and everything made to look spic and span new. He has also had a new system of lights installed which is a great improvement and has had curtains placed on the lower half of the windows of the shining parlors in order that the ladies who patronized the shining stand are protected from the public gaze from the street. Mr. Meltke also plans many further improvements.

The reason a man can excuse his own extravagance is he can't forgive his family's.

From Tuesday's Daily

Mohammed.

570—Mahomet or Mohammed, prophet of Islam, born at Mecca, Asiatic Turkey; died 632.

1483—Martin Luther, leader of the Protestant reformation, born in Saxony; died 1546.

1871—Dr. Livingstone, the missing African explorer, found at Ujiji, on Lake Tanganyika, by Henry M. Stanley of the New York Herald.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 4:43, rises 6:39; moon rises 6:37 p. m.; planet Mercury visible before sunrise, low in east; sun's declination 17 degrees 10 minutes south of celestial equator.

ONLY ONE DRUNK — There was but one drunk hailed before the municipal court this morning and Judge Gossman thought that as he had no money arrested man should be sentenced to get out town, quick.

LOOKING AFTER FARM — Louis Hicks, who owns a large farm at Hix on passed thru the city this morning enroute to Hallock where he owns a fine farm, and will spend a few days there looking the situation over.

ON LAND BUSINESS—J. W. Wheeler of the First National Bank left last evening for points in Wisconsin where he will spend a few days looking after business matters in connection with some land interests.

AFTER DUCKS— W. M. Ferguson left this morning for Maple Lake where he thinks the ducks will be on their southward flight because of the cold snap. If the flight is on one thing is certain his friends in Crookston will get another taste of wild game. Mr. Ferguson never forgets the unfortunates who cannot get away for a shoot.

OLD TIMER HERE—Chas. Casmey now a homesteader near Beaudette, but who is spending a few days at Euclid, where he lived for years closing up some business matters, came down last evening, returning home this morning. He expects to return to Beaudette in the very near future.

G. N. OFFICIAL HERE—Col. R. A. Wilkinson, a former resident of this city, who until a short time ago had one of the finest stock farms in this section, northwest of the city, and who is one of the best authorities on stock in the state, spent yesterday in the city and returned to St. Paul last evening. He was in this section looking after business for the Great Northern.

FOR MEDICAL TREATMENT — Timothy LaRoche, a well known farmer east of Euclid passed thru the city last evening enroute to St. Paul where he is going to consult medical specialists for heart trouble with which he has been afflicted for some time past, his life hanging in the balance for several weeks about a year ago. He was accompanied by his son Joseph on the trip.

LIKES DONALDSON — Elmer Ellington, who recently opened a hardware store at Donaldson returned to that place this morning after spending a couple of days in the city visiting with his parents, remaining over last evening to attend the Masonic doings Mr. Ellington is very much pleased with Donaldson. He says business is good, the farmers about that section all being in good shape, and the past year they all had good crops which brought good prices. Consequently the outlook for the coming year in a business line is excellent.

GREAT WEATHER FOR BLACKSMITHS —This is great weather for blacksmiths in Crookston, and probably everywhere else. Yesterday the pavement was so slippery that it was almost impossible for a horse to stand on its feet in places, and as a result every blacksmith in the city was working overtime. The country roads as yet do not require horses to be sharp shod, but farmers hauling loads to the city will find it hard to navigate over the paved district unless their horses are shod. However the present snow will probably all disappear inside of a day or two.

There will be an important meeting of the city council this evening. There will be a large amount of routine business up for consideration and in addition it is understood that the resignation of Alderman Bang of the 7th ward will be tendered and his successor named.

Two petitions have been circulated, one asking for the appointment of Gilbert Hage to fill the vacancy, and the other asking that J. E. Morrisey be named. It is possible that the council may lay the matter of the appointment to fill the vacancy over till the next meeting, but the matter will probably be settled tonight.

D. D. Daley chairman of the Democratic state executive committee arrived in the city this morning and later left for Dugdale where today he will adjust the loss on the Woodman Hall, caused about a month ago by a high wind.

Mr. Daley is greatly pleased with the vote received in the northern part of the state where such a fight was put up against him.

Mr. Daley will return to Crookston this evening and will spend the night here.

RAYMOND SMITH ILL—Raymond the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Smith south of the city is quite ill with jaundice. It is generally believed that the football game at Fosston last Saturday superinduced the trouble, or at leased caused a relapse from a very slight attack.

LEAVING FOR MISSOURI—G. W. Stocker, who recently held a big sale and disposed of most of his personal property, is today loading a car of effects for shipment to Missouri where the family will reside in the future. Mrs. Stocker and the children will leave this evening. Many friends in the city and south of town sincerely regret their departure.

OFF ON DEER HUNT — Morris Billadeau left Saturday evening for Grand Rapids, Minn., where he joined his brother, Peter, and with two other friends started for deer preserves 20 miles from that place where they will remain for three weeks.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

Nov. 11 In History.

1620—The Mayflower compact uniting the pilgrims as a civic body politic signed in Cape Cod harbor.

1880—Lucretia Mott, American reformer and philanthropist, died; born 1793.

1907—Emperor William of Germany arrived in London on a visit to King Edward VII.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 4:42, rises 6:40; moon rises 7:25 p. m.; moon's age 18 days; moon highest, farthest north; moon at ascending node, crossing sun's path upward; planet Mercury visible low in east before sunrise; 6 a. m., planet Venus at perihelion, nearest the sun; Leonid meteors in east after midnight.

LAND DEAL ON—Ole Tiegen left this morning for Hallock where he has a land deal pending which will probably be closed today.

HOME FROM ST. PAUL — County Attorney James H. Maybury returned this morning from St. Paul and Minneapolis where he was called on some important legal business.

BIG MILLER HERE—Marcus Johnson, the well known miller of Red Lake Falls and this city who makes his home at Stillwater was an arrival in the city this morning and went to Red Lake Falls on business.

ON DITCH MATTERS—Levi Steenerson of Climax arrived in the city this morning and proceeded to Red Lake Falls where he will attend to some ditch matters in which he is interested.

NOT AFTER BIG GAME —D. D. Daley spent the night in the city and left this morning for Grand Rapids. He said he was not after "big game." Mr. Daley is chairman of the Democratic State Central committee, and is highly pleased with the outcome of the election.

AROUND THE HORN—Alex Thompson left this morning for Bemidji and from there will proceed to International Falls and return by way of Winnipeg. It is suspected that he timed his trip in order to secure a few nice venison steaks, but that is all guesswork.

HERE FROM TWIN VALLEY—A. O. Norby, the well known liveryman from Twin Valley is spending the day in the city on business and also called on a number of his friends. He says that business is good at Twin Valley this year, and added that there was no scarcity of big game hunters camped in that vicinity.

AFTER DEER AND MOOSE—C. M. Graves and son Loren left this morning for Bemidji and from there will go north where they will hunt deer, moose and Indians, to say nothing of bear during the balance of the week. Their many friends are anxiously awaiting their return in anticipation of some fine wild game dinners.

GREAT WEATHER FOR HUNTERS— Many people thought when the snow fell Sunday night that it would have melted before this but they made a bad guess for it has been snowing off and on ever since. As a result the big game hunters are well pleased and if there any moose or deer in the big woods there will be some slaughtering done. Quite a number of hunters from the twin cities passed thru here this morning enroute to points near Bemidji.

The council met last evening in regular session and disposed of a large amount of business, chief of which was the election of Dan Hughes as alderman from the 7th ward, Sampsons addition, to succeed Alderman G. H. Bang whose resignation was tendered at the opening of the meeting. There were two other candidates in the field, who had numerously signed petitions, but before the council reached the order of business to receive communications the new alderman was elected, so that the petitions were not read at all.

KOLSETH IN THE TOILS

YOUNG MAN WHO BROKE JAIL AT RED LAKE FALLS ARRESTED HERE

SOLD TEAM BELONGING TO HIS UNCLE SOME TIME AGO—WILL DO TIME

From Wednesday's Daily—

Yesterday afternoon Robert Kolseth was arrested in a local refreshment parlor by Officer Nelson on complaint of the firm of LePalm & McKinney.

Kolseth is the young man who some weeks ago stole a team from his uncle near Thief River Falls drove it to this city and sold it to the ditching firm of LePalm & McKinney who have a contract near Euclid.

Kolseth forged the name of his uncle, Hans Kolseth to the bill of sale, and a few days later was arrested on a Soo train train north of Thief River by Brakeman Cliff McLennan and others and lodged in the Red Lake county jail from which he escaped a short time afterwards.

He sold the team for $100, wagon, harness and all, and it was with difficulty that Deputy Sheriff Daniels recovered it.

Kolseth says he has been in Canada and arrived here two days ago going on a spree, and it was his talk that lead to his arrest. Sheriff Nelson of Red Lake County will be down tonight to take him back to answer to a double charge, horse stealing and jail breaking.

BIG DAIRY MEET IS ON

SPECIAL CAR ATTACHED TO ST. HILAIR ETRAIN THIS MORNING

MANY FORM THIS CITY AND OUTSIDE POINTS ATTENDING MEETING

From Wednesday's Daily—

The annual meeting of the Red River Valley Dairymen's Ass'n opened today at St. Hilaire and will continue thru tomorrow. The attendance is most gratifying, many going up from this city and surrounding towns, a special car having been attached to the Greenbush train this morning.

Among those from a distance was W. F. Schilling of Northfield, Minn., 1st vice president of the State Dairymen's Ass'n who is the proprietor of the Sunnybrook Dairy Farm.

A detailed account of the convention will be given in the oJurnal at its conclusion.

RETURNS IN GOOD HEALTH

SHERIFF GONYEA BRINGS NEWS FROM OLD RESIDENTS NOW IN WEST

Sheriff Louis Gonyea has returned from a three weeks' trip west. He first went to Hunter's Hot Springs, Montana, where he took a course of baths, and later went to Idaho, visiting Twin Falls and other points. At Twin Falls he saw many former Crookston residents including Ed Barrette Ike Benoit and son Albert Benoit. All are doing well and Ike Benoit announced that he would probably visit Crookston about the first of the year. Sheriff Gonyea returns to the city looking and feeling fine, which will be good news to his many friends.

WHY WE SHOULD GIVE THANKS

EXECUTIVE CALLS ATENTION TO THE STEADY GROWTH OF STRENGTH

WORLDLY WEALTH AND POPULATION IS CAUSE FOR REJOICING

"By the President of the United States of America:

"A Proclamation:

Once again the season is at hand when, according to the ancient custom of our people it becomes the duty of the president to appoint a day of prayer and of thanksgiving to God.

Year by year this nation grows in strength and worldly power. During the century and a quarter that has elapsed since our entry into the circle of independent peoples we have grown and prospered in material things to a degree never before known in any other country. The thirteen colonies which struggled along the se coast of the Atlantic and were hemmed in but a few miles west of the tide water by the Indian-haunted wilderness, have been transformed into the mightiest republic which the world has ever seen. Its domains stretch across the continent from one to the other of the two greatest oceans and is exercises domain alike in the Artic and tropic realms. The growth in wealth and population has surpassed even the growth in territory. No where else in the world is the average of individual comfort and material well-being as high as in our fortunate land.

"For the very reason that in material well-being we have thus abounded we owe to the Almighty to show equal progress in moral and spiritual things With a nation as with the individuals who make up a nation, material well-being is an indispensible foundation. But the foundation avails nothing by itself. That life is wasted and worse than wasted which is spent in piling, heap upon heap, these things which minister merely to the pleasure of the body and to the power that rests only in wealth. Upon material well-being as a foundation must be raised the structure of the lofty life of the spirit if this great nation is properly to fulfill its great mission and to accomplish all that we so ardently hope and desire.

"The things of the body are good; the things of the intellect are better; but best of all are the things of the soul; for, in the nation as in the individual, in the long run it is character that counts. Let us therefore as a people, set our faces resolutely against evil and, with broad charity, with kindness and good will toward all men, but with unflinching determination to smite down wrong, strive with all the strength that is given us for righteousness in public and in private life.

"Now therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, set apart Thursday, the twenty-sixth day of November, next, as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer and on that day I recommend that the people shall cease from their daily work and in their homes or in their churches meet devoutly to thank the Almighty for the many and great blessings they have received in the past and to pray that they may be given strength so to order their lives as to deserve a continuation of these blessings in the future. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington this thirty-first day of October in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and eight and of the independ of the United States, the one hundred and thirty-third.

—Theodore Roosevelt.

"By the President: Alvah E. Adee, acting secretary of state."

THE POPE WILL BE HONORED

NEXT SUNDAY WILL BE OBSERVED AS GOLDEN JUBILEE

Roman Catholics all over the world will observe next Sunday as the 50th anniversary of the accession of Pope Pius X to the priesthood.

Archbishop Ireland recently sent out a circular to the churches of the archdiocese and in consequence in every church of the Catholic faith the subject of next Sunday's sermon will be "The Roman Pontificate and the Duties of Catholics in Its Regard."

The same day Archbiship Ireland will forward to the Pope a message of love and congratulation from the Catholics of the archdiocese of St. Paul.

MERRY SCRAP IS PROMISED

THERE ARE NOW SIX LEGISLATORS WILLING TO ACCEPT THE SPEAKERSHIP

WARE, RODENBERG, WELLS, ROCKNE AND NOLAN ARE ALL "BARKIS'S"

The contest for speakership of the next legislature is getting warmer daily. The finish promises to be a merry one.

Yesterday it was announced that A. K. Ware, of Northfield would ask for recognition. He is supposed to have the backing of Joel Heatwole a late candidate for the republican gubernatorial nomination.

George Rodenberg of St. Paul a frequent visitor in Crookston is now looked upon as a full-fledged candidate He says support has been tendered him, and he left today for the country districts to look up his chances.

Another new-comer is "Bob" Wells of Breckenridge. He was a republican leader in the last house. The other candidates talked of are A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota, and W. A. Nolan of Grand Meadow.

The one candidate who is looked upon as in the lead now and by some as practically having the place cinched is L. H. Johnson of Minneapolis, speaker of the house two years ago. John Zelch, of Washington county, and Frank Nimmocks, of Minneapolis are caring for his interests and it is claimed have gathered in a lot of country support.

A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota is regarded as Mr. Johnson's most formidable competitor.

KILLED ON NOR. PACIFIC

ANTON WAMPA A SWAN RIVER FARMER, DECAPITATED BY N. P. TRAIN

DID NOT SEE FLYER AS HE WAS COMING ONTO THE CROSSING

Anton Wampa, a well known farmer of Swan River, Minn., was instantly killed by a Northern Pacific train at Little Falls.

The accident occurred at the crossing near the West hotel. Wampa was coming to the city with a load of wood and did not see the fast train approaching. When he was within a few feet of the crossing the flagman hailed him but the man did not seem to notice and was squarely on the crossing when struck by the engine.

The farmer was thrown several feet forward and was then run over. His head was cut from his shoulders and his body was badly mutilated.

It is stated that the crossing where the accident occurred is very dangerous and that it impossible to see any distance up the track.

The dead man was 60 years old. He leave a wife and 13 children.

MORE TEACHERS ARE WANTED

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS FOR APPLICANTS TO POSITIONS IN PHILIPPINES

Examinations will be held Dec. 29 and 30 by the United States civil service commission at St. Paul to fill a large number of vacancies as assistants and as teachers in the Philippine islands. The positions as assistants are higher in grade than those of teachers and the examinations will be on different subjects.

The entrance salary of the successful candidate will be from $1,000 to 11,200; the majority will receive the latter figure. The teachers' positions may be filled from the overflow from the assistant class, many of the latter being required in the clerical and administrative offices in the island.

School days in the Philippine begin in June and end in March so that appointments of teachers will be made in the expectation that the appointees report at Manila early next spring.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 9—Ralph Blaisdeel, auditor for the Harriman system of railroads in the northwest has "for the good of the service" issued an order forbidding employes in his department visiting saloons or liquor houses for any purpose whatsoever. This order effects about 500 employes Several months ago Blaisdeel discharged all the women clerks and stenographers in his department and replaced them with men. The women were dismissed on the ground that men are more efficient.

MAY BE THE BODY OF MISSING BOY

Wisconsin Woman Thinks Murdered Man Is Her Son, Missing Some Time.

DESSCRIPTION FITS THAT OF MAN WHO WAS KILLED HERE SOME TIME AGO AND HIS BODY THROWN IN RED RIVER—CAPTAIN HAYES, WHO FOUND BODY, BELIEVES IT MAY BE HER BOY—SENDS FOR PHOTOGRAPH TO WISCONSIN TOWN

A letter from a heart-broken woman, Mrs. Barry, who resides in a Wisconsin town, accurately describes the unknown man who was murdered in Grand Forks or vicinity and whose body was found in the Red River a few weeks ago. Mrs. Barry wrote to Captain Hayes, of the government fleet, who found the body. She described her son, Richard, as five feet, seven inches in height, 37 years of age, with light brown hair. A scar above the forehead is also described by the mother and this may lead to the identification of the unknown. The undertaker M. Norman would not remember the scar.

Captain Hayes has written a letter to the mother asking her for a picture of her son. If she can send a picture it is believed that the victim may be identified.

The deceased was struck by someone on the back of the head and died soon after, it is believed. His body was found near Riverside Park. All efforts to identify him or ascertain what caused his death failed.

ELECTION RETURNS

COUNTY DIVISION HAS BEEN DEFEATED AND STRAIGHT REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET HAS BEEN ELECTED—TAFT CARRIES COUNTY BY 1354 AND JOHNSON BY 222—COUNTY DIVISION DEFEATED BY 571—THESE RETURNS ARE COMPLETE BARRING FOUR SMALL PRECINCTS

Nothing now is left in doubt regarding the recent election. Every precinct excepting four small ones have been heard from, and their total vote cast one way or another would have no effect on the final result.

County division has been lost, the county poor farm has been lost, every republican candidate has been elected and several other interesting things happened. Following are a few figures which have been compiled:

Taft	3241
Bryan	1887
Plurality	1354
Johnson	2899
Jacobson	2677
Plurality	222
Sageng	2537
Steenerson	2575
Plurality	162
For new county—
Yes	2486
No	3057
Majority against	571

Returns today indicate that Congressman Steenerson was re-elected by close to 3000 votes. According to the very latest returns he carried Beltrami Co., by about 1000 majority and Marshall and Kittson counties by about 800 votes, so that his total majority will reach close to 3000, and will not fall below 2750 under any circumstances. The later reports are all in his favor, and when the totals are received the majority of Congressman Steenerson may exceed 3000 but under any circumstances he has a majority that cannot be overcome. As stated in the Journal yesterday Clearwater County gave Congressman Steenerson a safe majority, as did Clay county, and his election is absolutely sure. Sageng carried Polk Co., by 162 votes with four small precincts to be heard from which can not change the result one way or the other.

GOVERNMENT JOBS OPEN

CABINET MAKER AND LABORATORY GIRLS ARE NEEDED IN WASHINGTON

A cabinet maker is demanded by the federal authorities to begin his labors at Washington as soon as possible. The civil service commission will style him a "skilled laborer." and it will fix his pay at $60 a month. He will be employed in the bureau of standards. Applicants for the place must be at least 20 years of age.

Girls 17 to 25 years old may apply for the post of laboratory aid in plant pathology. If they are accepted, they will each get $60 a month for service in the bureau of plant pathology, department of agriculture.

Examinations of applicants for both these positions will be held Dec. 2 at the federal building at Grand Forks.

Son Lost And Mother Frantic

Mrs. Thomas Smith Enroute From Fargo To Grand Rapids Loses 9 Year Son In Crookston This Morning.

From Friday's Daily—

There were frenzied doings at the Great Northern depot this morning, the first chapter being a frenzied mother looking for her 9 year old son who she had lost and the second being a boy with a tear-stained face looking for his lost mother.

Mrs. Thomas Smith arrived on the train from Fargo with an infant about 6 months old, and her son Freddie 9 years old. Freddie was crazy with toothache, and his mother took him to a dentist's office to have it pulled. She left him there and hurried back to the depot to look after her baby.

The train for Grand Rapids, her destination, was called and Mrs. Smith with her baby and a large grip started for the train and a well known gentlemon of this city assisted her on, carrying the grip. After securing a seat Mrs. Smith requested the gentleman to watch the baby till she went out and looked for her son.

The conductor called "all-aboard" and the man with the babe still awaited Mrs. Smith, but she did not put in an appearance. The babe was left with another party and the original custodian rushed out and had the train held for a minute, thinking he had been handed a living package that he did not care to handle.

About that time the mother rushed frantically from the depot and leaped aboard the train, shouting a description of her lost son whom she said she had failed to locate.

A search was at once instituted for the missing boy, Freddie, and he was soon located, tears running down his face and broken hearted.

"I hain't got no money and ma's got my ticket," he wailed. He was taken into the depot where Agent Bell took charge of him, wiring his mother that the boy would be forwarded this evening. The lad was taken care of today by Chief Eck who jollied him up till he forgot all his troubles.

In the meantime the man who thought he had an extra baby on his hands is congratulating himself.

According to the lad, his father, Thomas Smith, has just secured a position with a logging firm at Deer River, but the family will reside at Grand Rapids.

Horticultural Society Meet

PROGRAM WAS ONE OF THE FINEST THAT WAS EVER PRESENTED DURING THE HISTORY OF THE ASSOCIATION—THE ILLUSTRATED LECTURE OF PROF. F. L. WASHBURN STATE ENTOMOLOGIST WAS EXTREMELY INTERESTING AS WAS THE ADDRESS OF PRESIDENT J. H. WORST OF THE NORTH DAKOTA AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE OF FARGO

From Friday's Daily—

The Fourth Annual meeting of the Red River Valley Agricultural Society is being held today at Stephens hall at the State School of Agriculture and the program is one of the best ever rendered. Nearly every number on the program is being carried out, J. M. Stephens who had a paper being called from the city this morning on important business.

Otherwise the program was carried out just as scheduled and every paper was listened to with the deepest interests and interesting discussions followed.

At noon a splendid dinner was served by O. N. J. Hagen of the Oyster Bay Restaurant, and following a short intermission the afternoon program was taken up.

The program for the day as followed is as follows:

A STRIKING EXAMPLE OF VILLANOUS POLITICS

Some Unprincipled County Divisionists Attempted To Deceive Voters In The West End.

By Sending Out Letters Signed By Scandia Lodge No. 52, Crookston, Which Doesn't Exist.

From Thursday's Daily—

The Journal now stands ,and always has stood for absolute fairness in politics and cannot condemn too strongly the adoption of unfair methods regardless what is sought to be attained In the fight for county division it has just come to light this morning, that some one, without any principle or honor, mailed letters to the farmers and others in the western part of the county signed by "Scandia Lodge No. 52, Crookston, Minn.," in which the division proposition was strongly favored.

As a matter of fact there is no such lodge in Crookston, but some who received the letters might think it was the Scandinavian Lodge of this city which is false.

The letter does East Grand Forks an injustice, and is about the most contemptible piece of political chicanery ever attempted in Polk county as it is a bold attempt to deceive those who received the letter making them believe that some lodge in Crookston was taking an active part in the matter when the letter was gotten up by some person with precious little principle. The letter is published in full below, together with the answer received in Crookston this morning by some farmer near Fisher who did not sign his name. The circular was mailed so that it reached the farmers last Monday the day before election:

"Crookston, Minn., Oct. 31.

Brothers:

"We have just discovered a plan between Fosston and East Grand Forks in case the proposed Nelson Co., is defeated they are to come with a new plan with East Grand Forks as the county seat. They believe that such a plan will be accepted by every body except Crookston who will be unable to defeat it. As soon as the west end is organized into a new county, Fosston will then come with a second plan, and there is no doubt that they have the power in their hands. With this object in view, we find it our duty to vote for the new county, and ask everybody else to do the same because a county with East Grand Forks as the county seat would be a disgrace to the whole state. But if we now let the east end go, we are sure that no such plans will carry.

"We have up to the present date been against all division, but since learning of the present plan between Fosston and East Grand Forks we believe that it is best to choose the lesser of two evils.

Yours for the cause,
Scandia Lodge, No. 52,
Crookston, Minn."

The following answer was received this morning:

"Fisher Minn., Rural Route No. 1:

"As near as I can understand, Scandia Lodge wants to make people believe the biggest falsehood that ever could exist and those who mail out such letters must be some starved out office seekers who would be willing to dig out the eyes of a blind man if they could make a cent from it."

ATHLETICS A DISEASE

PRESIDENT OF CHICAGO BOARD OF EDUCATION CAN SEE NO REASON

FOR ATHLETIC INSTRUCTION IN THE SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

Chicago, Nov. 5—"Public school teachers are not required to teach boys to play "shinny' and I don't see why they should have to instruct pupils in baseball and football."

This is the attitude of President Schneider of the board of education with regard to the position of physical culture teachers in the schools. The statement was made after a long conference yesterday afternoon between President Schneider, Trustee Griefenhagen and Supt. Cooley and following the receipt of a letter yesterday morning from Dr. W. S. Pollard, of Evansville, Ind., upholding President Schneider's declaration that baseball was a disease and a craze.

"Mind you," said the president, "I am not opposed to the sport, but I think the boys ought to learn to play without the aid of the physical culture teacher, whose work should be confined to physical culture."

Supt. Cooley is of the opinion that physical culture teachers ought to take an active interest in all forms of athletics in which the pupils indulge. "The presence of the teacher at these forms of exercise always has a salutary effect," he said. 'It tends to prevent rough behavior and bad language and in my opinion, both baseball and football tend to instill quick judgment coolness and self reliance."

The Evansville physician from whom President Schneider received a letter yesterday declared that the business prospects of his son had been ruined by baseball at the Northwestern university and goes so far as to advocate that football and basebell be excluded from the colleges and schools.

FLOUR CASE ADJOURNED

NOTHING DONE IN CASE YESTERDAY — SOME INTERESTING TESTIMONY

Fargo, N. D. Nov. 5—The bleached flour case was adjourned last night to continue on Wednesday morning, the attorneys in the case desiring to take a holiday on election day and there is nothing doing in "bleached flour" today.

Prof. J. H. Sheppard of the South Dakota experiment station, who was placed on the stand yesterday afternoon by the defendant, did not finish his direct examination last night. He gave some very interesting testimony on the result of nitrus acid, which is left in flour by the bleaching, on the digestive system of the human body.

He said that nitrites or nitric acid which is one and the same thing in the last analysis, retards and prevents digestion. It destroys the action of the enzymes which are the natural digestive constituents in the human system. It prevents the ripening process in stored flour, making flour which has been bleached entirely different from naturally aged flour.

"Even the lightest bleached flours are dangerous to human health," testified Prof. Sheppard. Any bleaching whatever will introduce into the flour more nitrogen peroxyde than necessary to stop the action of diastes enzymes that caused the change to take place in the ripening of flour and which are the same agents that cause the seed to germinate."

HOME FROM ST. PAUL—Norman Yeo, the druggist in the Palace Hotel block returned this morning from a business trip to St. Paul where he spent a few days. He reports things quieting down after election in the Twin Cities.

DIED AT WOODSIDE—Mrs. Rebeka Erland wife of A. Erland of Woodside died Sunday night of child birth Deceased was 26 years old and the daughter of C. R. Engelstad of Warren, but who formerly resided in Woodside. Besides her husband she is survived by six small children. Funeral occurred from the Maple Lake church.

WILL SELL SCHOOL HOUSE — Notice is hereby given that the school board of district No. 140 will sell to the highest bidder for cash the old school house situated on SW quarter section 36 town of Crookston on Monday Nov. 16, at 2 p. m.—Edward Lanctot, Clerk.

SHERIFF FOR 16 YEARS—W. D. Bodkin who was sheriff of Clay Co., for 16 years came up from Moorhead this morning and left on the later train for Bemidji where he will make arrangements for sending his horses into the woods for the winter. While here he spent a pleasant hour with Contractor Louis Johnson who is an old time friend.

GOOD PRODUCE MARKET—Fourteen car lot shipments have been made from McIntosh during the past week. One of potatoes to Bemidji; two of cattle, one to Virginia and one to South St. Paul. Three of hay to Bemidji and the camps. Two of flax and six of wheat.

REMOVED TO IOWA—Mr. and Mrs Erick Sanderson departed Monday for Waukon Iowa, where they will take up their future home. Mr. Sanderson has rented his farm in Liberty town to Severt Severtson for a term of three years. The Sandersons have resided in the town of Liberty for eight years and made many friends during their residence there who deeply regret their departure. Both are in poor health and they decided to quit farming for a time to see if they could not recover their failing health.

MISS MAGGIE RAICHE—Miss Maggie Raiche nineteen years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Raiche died at the family home in this city, Sunday afternoon Nov. 1. Death was due to consumption from which the deceased had been a sufferer for some time. For two years and until recently, she had resided with an uncle, Robert Philips in St. Paul. She had gone to the city for the purpose of receiving medical treatment but to no avail. Funeral services were held from St. Joseph Catholic church at 10:30 Wednesday morning, Fr. Fayolle officiating.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

CLOVER SEED PROFITABLE—E. C. Jacobson was in town Wednesday and in referring to his undertakings of the season called attention to the fact that on the previous day he had threshed his clover seed. This is the first time that Mr. Jacobson has kept his second crop for the seed to ripen and he was well pleased with his experiment, realizing as he did six bushels of seed from the three acres of clover cut from it. And the reason for his satisfaction is apparent. After realizing one good crop of clover hay, from the same land he takes two bushels of seed worth anywhere from $10 to $18 a bushel (it was worth $18 last spring.) Compare this with results from wheat raising. And then, the land is not impoverished, but rather benefited by the clover.

BIG FIRE IN WINSOR

TOWNSHIP IN EASTERN POLK HAS GREAT CONFLAGRATION IN BIG MEADOWS

150 TONS OF HAY BURNED—DESPERATE WORK SAVED MORE —WHISKERS SINGED

From Saturday's Daily—

Early Friday morning smoke was seen to rise from Section 6, town of Winsor in Eastern Polk. Smoke and fire had been seen farther north for three or four days and not much attention was given to this evidence of burning, but a strong northwest wind soon fanned the flames and the rank uncut hay furnished fuel so that the whole country was ablaze in an incredibly short time.

The fire ran like a race horse and at times leaped twenty feet in height. Fortunately the state ditch prevented flames from spreading further west or much more damage would have been done.

Gunder Volden, John Sather and others worked heroically to save the hay and in some places were successful. Among the losers are Albert Kais, Andrew Odden, Gunder Volden, E. A. Schneider Gunder Swenson, J. O. Sather, Mauritz Furuseth, Henry Christianson and A. Volden. Gunder Swenson was one of the heaviest losers, he having had about 50 tons, all destroyed.

Rob Handy's hay was saved by the timely aid of two women who beat out the fire in the short grass near the stack.

Henry Christianson lost his whiskers as well as his hay, and showed the effects of the fight more than anyone else. In his efforts to save his hay he got so close to the fire that it singed the beard from his face.

So far as is known however, no one was seriously injured nor were there any buildings lost.

QUARTETTE OFF FOR BIG GAME

MESSRS. LIFE SARGENT, J. E. O'BRIEN AND NEWBERY BROS., IN PARTY

This morning Messrs. J. E. O'Brien, Life Sargent and Newbery Bros., left for the northern boundary of the state an dwill hunt deer and moose near International Falls for a week or so. They were armed to the teeth with rifles and bowie knives and if there is any game in that neck of the woods there will certainly be some blood spilled.

TOOK GUN ALONG — Rev. C. C. Warner went to McIntosh on business today and just took along his gun to keep the geese away. He will return this evening.

LEFT FOR BIG WOODS—Ed Qven left this morning for Shotley where he expects to spend the winter in the big woods. He took his rifle along and will do some shooting.

WELL KNOWN FARMER HERE—B. L. Hinton one of the well known farmers of Russia is spending the day in the cit yon business and paid the Journal a pleasant call and a year's subscription.

LEFT FOR ERSKINE—M. J. Cort, the creamery suply man left this morning for Erskine on business. He has been away for the past two months visiting Montana and later going to Chicago, returning via Minneapolis where he will spend a few days with the family.

HERE FOR DAIRY MEET—Government Dairy Inspector Joel G. Winkjer has arrived in the city and next week will attend the meeting of the Red River aVley Dairymen's Assn., which will be held at St. Hilaire Wednesday and Thursday of next week, Nov. 11 and 12 and the meeting promises to be a grand success.

EDITOR GOES HUNTING—Editor J. D. Mason of the Twin Valley Times passed thru the city this morning enroute to Shotley where he will hunt big game for a week or two. Supt.-Elect N. A. Thorson of Polk Co., is an old pupil of Editor Mason's when the latter was superintendent of the Twin Valley schools before he started his career as an editor, and their meeting here this morning was a most pleasant one.

CLUB BANQUET BIG SUCCESS

OVER 100 PEOPLE AT COMMERCIAL CLUB SPREAD LAST NIGHT

DRAWING FOR LOTS TOOK PLACE —MANY FINE ADDRESSES— SPLENDID MENU

From Saturday's Daily—

The Commercial Club Banquet last evening in the former Amundson & Berget store room in the McKinnon Block was attended by over 100 people and was a success in every way.

The banquet was served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church and was a great credit to them.

Prior to the supper, President J. H. Worst of the North Dakota Agricultural college addressed the gathering. He is a very polished speaker. After the splendid supper had been served, a "smoker" was enjoyed and the speech making began, President Misner presiding. He made a few very pertinent remarks at the beginning pointing to th egreat things that could be accomplished by the club if all worked for the same end with a will.

He later called upon State Entomologist F. L. Washburn, Prof. Hay of Thief River Falls, Prof. Dunton of McIntosh, Hon. Halvor Steenerson and Hon. A. D. Stephens, and all made very excellent remarks pertinent to the gathering.

Ross Chesterman sang a solo and a quartet consisting of Messrs. Hitchcock, Chesterman, Brager and Rapin sang several selections all of which were enjoyed.

The drawing for the selection of lots in the Manufacturing Site addition was then taken up and resulted as follows:

GOVERNMENT INSPECTOR

OF CREAMERIES IS SPENDING THE DAY IN THE CITY ON BUSINESS

SEES A WONDERFUL DEVELOPMENT OF INDUSTRY IN THIS SECTION

From Saturday's Daily—

J. C. Joslyn, government creamery inspector who works under the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington is spending the day in the city attending to some official business, and will remain in this section for some time. When seen at the Hotel Crookston this morning Mr. Joslyn expressed great enthusiasm over the wonderful strides being made in the Red River Valley in the dairying industry. He not only marvelled at the wonderful increase in production, but in the high quality of the butter.

He looks for a still further development for many years to come and predicts this section to become one of the wealthiest in the entire United States.

FATAL GUN ACCIDENT

MARTIN ANDERSON, HOMESTEADER NEAR ROOSEVELT KILLED YESTERDAY

HAD HEAD SHOT OFF BY COMPANION WITH WHOM HE WAS OUT HUNTING

From Saturday's Daily—

Word was received last evening of a terrible tragedy in which a homesteader named Martin Anderson was instantly killed, having the greater portion of his head shot off by a companion with whom he was out hunting geese.

The details have not been received, but it is known that the two men were in a boat and Anderson stood up to shoot just as his companion shot at some geese flying low, and the complete charge carried away the greater portion of Anderson's head.

SENATOR WORKS IS PLEASED

RETURNED THIS MORNING FROM TRIP TO MANKATO WHERE HE WENT TO VOTE

HIGHLY GRATIFIED OVER THE BIG MAJORITY ROLLED UP FOR JOHNSON

From Saturday's Daily—

Senator S. D. Works returned this morning from Mankato where he went to cast his vote for Gov. Johnson and all other Democratic candidates. As he stepped off the train his face was decorated with a smile that would have illuminated two blocks of the city if it had been pitch dark—and immediately he held a love feast with Martin O'Brien.

Senator Works was chairman of the Democratic state convention which nominated Gov. Johnson for the third term, and consequently he is highly gratified over the splendid majority that was rolled up for Johnson last Tuesday.

Senator Works left on the St. Vincent train for his large farm near Euclid to which he has devoted most of his attention this year.

OLD TIMER AMONG THE ENGINEERS

General Supt. of Motive Power Emerson of the Great Northern, with headquarters in St. Paul arrived in the city this morning in his private car on a regular trip of inspection.

Mr. Emerson is well known here in the early days having pulled an engine out of this city, and many of the "old boys" were glad to greet him here today.

W. A. Fadden, with the Gamble Robinson Co., of Minneapolis and an old creamery supply man was in the city today on business.

SUES GREAT NORTHERN FOR ONLY $15,000

Husband Of Mrs. McDowell Wants Damages For Being Taken Off The Train Here Kicked Up A Fuss.

From Tuesday's Daily—

Papers have been served asking for damages in the sum of $15,000 from the Great Northern railroad, the plaintiff being Mr. McDowell whose wife was taken from a Great Northern train here Oct. 28th. She was westbound, and had a ticket, but her actions on the train was such as to scare all the other passengers out and after some discussion Officer Nelson had to take the woman in charge and after trying for some time to pacify her, sent her to the county jail for safe keeping.

Mrs. McDowell was later released and that evening boarded the train for Grand Forks. In the Forks she was again arrested for raising a disturbance but was finally allowed to proceed west.

Now comes her hubby, who resides in Buffalo, N. Y., and demands that the Great Northern dig up the comfortable sum of $15,000 to console the feelings of the husband and wife for her having been detained. There are several stories regarding what caused the strange actions of the woman in this city, but it is a pretty well established fact that there was something doing somewhere, as it was not the Great Northern, but passengers who appealed to Officer Nelson.

MARKS AN EPOCH IN MASONIC HISTORY

From Tuesday's Daily—

One of the most impressive events that ever transpired in Masonic circles in the entire northwest took place last evening at the Masonic Temple in this city, the occasion being in commemoration of the raising of his 200th candidate by Thomas Morris, Master of Crookston Lodge No. 141 A. F. and A. M. for 12 years and Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Masons of the jurisdiction of Minnesota till succeeded by the present incumbent, Grand Master Wm. P. Roberts who was present last evening and participated in the ceremonies.

In addition to Grand Master Roberts there was a large delegation of prominent Masons from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Grand Forks, Fargo and scores from the immediately surrounding territory, most of whom are member of the local Masonic institutions.

Following the impressive ceremonies of the ritual a splendid banquet was served at the conclusion of which there was much felicitous speechmaking, and a fine musical program was rendered.

Magnificent Tribute

The climax to the entire event came however when Most Worshipful Grand Master Roberts arose and in a few fitting words, on behalf of the members of Crookston Lodge No. 141 A. F. and A. M. presented Mr. Morris with a Past Master's Jewel, the most magnificent emblem ever seen here. It is of solid gold, and the emblems of the order, the initials "T. M." and the seal of the State of Minnesota are all done in raised, shaded gold. In addition to the regular inscriptions of the order there is also engraved on the back "presented to Past Grand Master Thomas Morris, by members of Crookston Lodge No. 141, A. F. and A. M. on the raising of his two hundredth candidate, Nov. 9, '08."

The beautiful jewel consists of three separate plates connected by heavy gold chains, the top one containg the recipient's initials, the second the seal of the State of Minnesota and the lower one the compass, square and sun. The recipient was completely overcome, but made a most feeling response to the address of Grand Master Roberts.

An Ideal Gathering

The entire evening was a most delightful one. Nearly 400 guests were seated about the banquet tables, the three small tables on the platform being occupied by the Masonic Quartet of Minneapolis, W. R. Lasham of Grand Forks and J. S. Morris, of Waupun, Wis., and in the center were seated Grand Master Roberts, Hon. H. Steenerson, Rev. Clements of Duluth, Rev. W. S. Ward of this city, A. A. Miller, and Thomas Morris who presided. Rev. Ward offered a prayer before the feast was partaken of. It might be added that the chefs and waiters were rather high salaried functionaries.

Splendid Addresses.

Mr. Morris first introduced Grand Master Roberts, who made one of the finest addresses on Masonry ever heard in Crookston at the conclusion of which he presented the jewel to Mr. Morris.

Hon. Halvor Steenerson was the next speaker and his remarks elicited a great deal of applause a liberal amount of wit being injected into his brief remarks.

Hon. A. A. Miller followed with one of the most eloquent addresses he has ever delivered. He discussed the foundation of Masonry and paid a high tribute to the results that had been accomplished and its tendency toward a better and higher manhood.

Rev. Clements, presiding elder of the M. E. church for the Duluth district was the last speaker, and he is one of the most entertaining speakers ever heard in Crookston. His wit kept the banqueters in an uproar, and injected into his address there was some mighty good logic. He has Mark Twain beat a mile.

Every speaker paid a high tribute to Mr. Morris and the splendid work he had accomplished, not only in Crookston, but thruout this entire jurisdiction.

Enthusiastic Applause

The Masonic Quartet of Minneapolis composed of Messrs. E. P. Browning, W. B. Heath, W. S. Marshall, and Frank Forbes was compelled to work overtime. Their "musical menu" consisted of about three score numbers and they were called upon at every interval, and made to respond to about three encores each time. The quartet is one of the finest ever heard in Crookston.

Sixty-One Present

Of the 200 Masons who had been raised by Master Morris, 61 were present. Thruout the entire evening the greatest enthusiasm was shown and it was with reluctance that the gathering disbursed at 1:30 this morning.

The affair was one of the grandest successes ever witnessed in this section, and the tribute paid Thomas Morris was one seldom received by any one.

COMMISSIONERS LOOK OVER DITCH

WILL LOOK OVER DITCHES 64 AND 65 SOUTH OF THE CITY TODAY

County Commissioner Driscoll came over from East Grand Forks this morning and was joined by Commissioners Eklund, Thorson and Clements, the quartette leaving for an inspection of ditches Nos. 64 and 65 south of the city, and will spend the entire day viewing the ditches from end to end to see if they meet with all requirements.

DEATH CHEATS CANDIDATE

RE-ELECTED SHERIFF OF KOOCHICHING COUNTY—DIES AT BEMIDJI

Sheriff P. A. Walsa of Koochiching county who has been an inmate of the St. Anthony hospital at Bemidji for ten days, died Wednesday from a sudden attack of heart failure. He was 62 years of age. He was brought from his home in International Falls and was being prepared for an operation. While he was in the hospital he was re-elected sheriff.

MYSTERY HAS BEEN SOLVED

BODY FOUND WEST OF FERGUS FALLS WAS THAT OF HANS LARSON

CROOKSTON POLICE HAD BEEN NOTIFIED MONTHS AGO OF HIS DISAPPEARANCE

From Tuesday's Daily—

The body discovered by Max Cameron and Louis Keefe in the woods in the vicinity of Fergus Falls Saturday has been ascertained to be that of Nels Larson, who disappeared last April and whom Chief Eck had been looking for since he disappeared having been notified by the authorities at Fergus Falls. Two boys were out hunting rabbits when they discovered the remains. The body was hanging from a small tree or sapling in a clump of woods about a mile west and a little north of the city.

When the body was first discovered it was supposed to be that of a patient from the hospital, the supposition being that the man had wandered away and committed suicide, a great many insane persons having a suicidal mania. The man had used his suspenders in lieu of a rope, and had made a stout and very effective noose. The suicide had taken place in the edge of a small slough, and the remains were badly decomposed when found, little being left except the skeleton. A hat was lying close by, and the shoes were intact, and some of the clothing was also in a fair state of preservation. The features were entirely unrecognizable, but it was apparent from an examination of the teeth that the man was of middle age and a portion of his scalp showed that he had black hair. A bottle of vapo-oresolene was found in one of the coat pockets.

These facts were brought out by the coroner's investigation, and efforts were made to ascertain the man's identity. Supervisor Sherman examined the shoes, and at once stated that they were not the kind worn by the insane patients. Furthermore, no patient answering the description had escaped during the past year or more, and it was apparent that the suicide had taken place within about a year. It was remembered, however, that Mr. Larson had disappeared in April last. He was employed at the hospital, as stated, but was never considered especially well balanced. During the spring, his little child was taken ill of diphtheria and he came in to town to consult a physician. The physician recommended the burning of cresolene, among other things, this solution, when heated, giving off a gas that is considered helpful in throat diseases, and he went directly to the drug store and purchased a bottle.

On his way home he apparently became demented and wantered into the western outskirts of the city. Entering a secluded clump of brush, he took off his suspenders, fixed a noose and hanged himself. The physician who prescribed the cresolene, and the druggist who sold it both have memoranda of the transactions, and as the dates correspond with that on the bottle found in the pocket, there can be no question about the man's identity.

After his disappearance, his child died, and his wife went to reside with relatives near Evansville, where she still makes her home. As soon as the facts were ascertained, the coroner notified her by telephone, and the remains were given a respectable burial Sunday afternoon.

MONTANA WANTS MORE LABORERS

"Westward Ho, Montana for mine," is the cry of the laborer in the northwest. The prosperity wave seems to have hit the west first and laborers out there, especially on railroad work, are getting on the average of $2.50 per day. The lowest is $2.

The northwest has not fared as well Lumberjacks are getting on the average about $26 a month and day wages are $1.75. Every train out of the labor centers is carrying hundreds of men who are going out to the golden west to try their fortunes.

According to the law of supply and demand, it would seem that the wage increase is due to strike the Minnesota woods country, too, before long.

MAYOR McPHEE RETURNS FROM FEDERAL COURT SESSION AT MANKATO

ATTENDED COUNCIL MEETING THERE—VERY MUCH PLEASED WITH CITY

From Tuesday's Daily—

Mayor J. D. McPhee returned last evening from Mankato where he has been since election day serving on the federal grand jury, court having been in session there, all business having been disposed of in short order.

Mayor McPhee says he thoroly enjoyed the visit to Mankato stating that it is one of the prettiest and best regulated cities of its size he ever visited. He was taken for a trip to Swan Lake and surrounding country, and says the scenery was very fine.

He also has a special word for the courtesy of the city officials and citizens generally. Everything was done for his pleasure and comfort that could be done.

Mayor McPhee attended a meeting of the city council at Mankato and the Mankato Free Press has the following regarding his visit:

"Mayor McPhee of Crookston entered during the meeting and was introduced by Mayor Andrews. At the close of the meeting he was called upon for remarks, and said that he had enjoyed himself very much listening to the proceedings. He had come as a federal court juror, and had put in two days walking about the city, and was delighted with it. He was particularly pleased with the clean and tidy appearance of the streets and with the fire station. Crookston is rebuilding its fire station and is putting in sanitary stalls He would go away from Mankato with a very good opinion of the city."

The Mankato Daily Review had a similar interview with this addition: "In closing Mayor McPhee extended a most hearty invitation to any one visiting Northern Minnesota to call upon him at Crookston and he would take pleasure in showing them every courtesy within his power. Today Mayor McPhee was the guest of Mayor Andrews and Ald. Atchison who showed him over the city in their automobiles."

GOVERNOR JOHN A. JOHNSON WRITES YOUNG MEN'S JOHNSON CLUB OF CROOKSTON A PERSONAL LETTER THANKING THEM FOR GREAT WORK DONE

From Monday's Daily—

No single organization ever gave Crookston more advertisement not only thruout the state, but thruout the nation, than the Young Men's Johnson Club of Crookston, and it was all done in the brief period of a few weeks.

The stand they took as independent voters was in advance of the times, but was a forceful illustration of what is to be expected in the future. Others will take similar stands in the future—the young men of Crookston did it first.

In appreciation of the splendid work done by the Young Men's Johnson Club of Crookston, the following letter of appreciation has been received from Governor Johnson.

State of Minnesota, Executive Department, St. Paul:

November 6, 1908.

To the Members of the Young Men's Johnson Club, Crookston, Minnesota

My Dear Sirs:

I am permitted to acknowledge your kind telegram of congratulations of the 5th inst., and it is in no small measure due to the disinterested support of the Young Men's Johnson Club of Crookston that telegrams such as yours are pouring into my office at the Capitol today. Your Club, I am sure, was largely responsible for the magnificent vote given me by the citizens of Crookston and by Polk County generally. The moral effect of the organization of the Young Men's Johnson Club of Crookston throughout the state cannot be overestimated.

I trust I am modest when I assume that this Club was somewhat in the nature of a personal compliment to me, and as such I fully appreciate it. I shall ever hold in grateful remembrance its services in this campaign, and my only regret is that I cannot thank each member personally.

Very truly yours,
—John A. Johnson,
Governor.

BAD FIRE IN E. G. FORKS

HARM & OESCHER LOSE WHOLESALE AND RETAIL LIQUOR STORE

BIG BLOCK BELONGING TO THE HINES ESTATE COMPLETELY GUTTED

From Tuesday's Daily—

This morning about 3 o'clock fire broke out in the wholesale and retail liquor house of Harm and Oescher in East Grand Forks and in an incredibly short space of time the double building was a mass of flames, both stocks being total losses.

It was with great difficulty that the surrounding buildings were protected, the fire threatening both Dan Sullivan's place and Chas. Reed's and others across the street.

The loss to stock and fixtures will be about $27,000 well insured, and the loss on the building is about $17000 covered by $10,000 insurance.

The origin of the fire is not known Special interest is manifested here because Harry Harm was a former resident of this city, having been in the employ of Fontaine and Anglim when they were in business in Crookston.

NEPHEW IS KILLED

ED CARLSON RECEIVED NEWS SATURDAY — HIS NEPHEW

GEO. BOLLUM, FIREMAN ON THE SOO OUT OF ST. PAUL KILLED

From Monday's Daily—

Ed Carlson of the firm of Bjoin & Carlson has received a telegram announcing the death of his nephew, Geo. Bollum in Wisconsin, a short distance out of St. Paul. Bollum was 28 years of age and was killed in an accident while acting as fireman on a Soo train on which he was running out of St. Paul. He had just started firing, but had been at work in the roundhouse for nearly two years.

EARLY SUNDAY MORNING FIRE

SMALL BLAZE IN TVEDTEN BUILDING CAUSED MUCH EXCITEMENT

Sunday morning the ding-dong of the fire bell caused many who would otherwise have slept late, to get up in time to go to church. The fire was in the Tvedten building at the corner of Broadway and Third streets and the origin is unknown. Some plasterers were repairing the front room, and it is possible that some lime caused the fire.

The front part of the building was vacant, but in the rear room John Roholt had a stock of clothing which he had intended putting on sale as soon as the building was repaired. The stock was slightly damaged by water This is the second time the goods had been sprinkled, as during the recent blaze at the New Store the stock was stored in the basement of that place just under the window where all the fire was, and got the benefit of what little water was thrown from the outside.

The damage to the Tvedten building was about $100 or $200 fully insured.

DEPREDATIONS AT MELISSA COTTAGES

FARGOANS' SUMMER HOMES ARE BROKEN INTO BY SOME MARAUDERS

Information concerning depredations at the summer homes of Fargoans along the shores of Lake Melissa, reached the city yesterday and as a result a committee consisting of Frank J. Thompson, H. Harrington and Chas Howland left Fargo this morning for the beautiful summer resort where they will investigate the condition.

Only the fact that the cottages had been broken into, was learned and to what extent the work has been carried on, is not known.

DEER HUNTERS ARE REJOICING IN SNOWFALL WHICH MEANS GOOD HUNTING

From Monday's Daily—

The first snowfall of the season occurred yesterday. The weather for the day looked perfect in the morning the sky being clear, and the temperature moderate. As a result practically every hunter in the city, who has not already started off for big game hied themselves to surrounding lakes and pot holes to lay for geese and ducks.

In the twinkling of an eye almost, the wind switched to the northwest and a cold rain prevailed for a couple of hours and then turned to a cutting sleet, and then snow. In the evening the ground was covered with a mantle of white, and a more nearly frozen lot of hunters never straggled into the city, as few had gone prepared for such strenuous weather, the wind after switching into the north blowing a perfect gale.

There are more deer hunters afield prepared for the opening of the season Tuesday than for many years and they will rejoice if the snow continues and remains. Many went to Graceton and International Falls near the boundary others to Shotley and quite a number to Grand Rapids near where they always hunt.

This morning the train for the east carried several delegations of hunters the snow of yesterday auguring well for the shooting the first day of the season which is tomorrow, Nov. 10. The train from St. Paul this morning brought several parties, and the numerous "Red Coats" recalled war times.

C. C. Hoch, Wiley Phillips and a party from St. Paul left last evening for Swan River where they were preceeded by Gus and Harry Schmidt who have their camp in readiness and will get busy at daylight tomorrow morning.

J. H. Stair and H. L. Farmer left this morning for their camp near Swan River where they will be joined tomorrow by Dr. J. S. Kjelland and the party anticipated some great sport

Irvin Burkhardt and Jos. Gebhardt left this morning for their camp near Puposky, north of Bemidji where they will remain till they get their tickets filled.

In addition to this there are several other parties already in the woods having left last Saturday, including the Newbery party, the J. M. Stephens party and others.

A party from Twin Valley stated this morning that there were five camps of hunters near that place, some of them within a mile of the city, and it is reported that there are a large number of deer near there. Recently 5 trotted thru the village and several bunches of from five to ten have been seen in that vicinity.

From all reports the big game hunters will have the best sport they have enjoyed in many years.

LEASED CURRY DAIRY FARM

MAYOR ENGEL AND SONS OF EUCLID TO ENGAGE IN DAIRYING

Mayor Engel spent yesterday in the city. With his three sons he recently leased the Curry farm of 800 acres and bought the Curry herd of 28 dairy cows and a lot of young stock, and will engage in dairying on an extensive scale. The boys have been engaged in the business for several years, one having been employed by Mr. Curry for four years, and they are certain to make a success of their new venture.

CROOKSTON HIGH WAS DEFEATED

FOSSTON TEAM WAS TOO HEAVY AND LOCALS FUMBLED THE BALL

The Crookston High School Football team was defeated at Fosston Saturday by a score of 22 to 0. The locals were outweighed and in addition made some costly fumbles.

The game was umpired by Mr. Clow and refereed by Mr. Friend the well known traveling man.

TARIFF PROBERS HEAR ABOUT SUGAR

Three Wardens Drowned.

Whitehall, Mich., Nov. 17. — All doubt as to the fate of Deputy State Game Warden Julius Salmonson, his brother, Martin Salmonson, and Deputy Sheriff J. C. Hazletine, who went out on White Lake in search of illegally set nets, was settled by the finding Monday of their bodies in the lake near where their overturned boat was found.

EXPERTS IN CIVIC MEET

THREE BODIES IN CONVENTION AT PITTSBURG.

Prominent Men Gather to Discuss Good Laws and Government for American Cities.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 17.—In the presence of a large number of prominent men the fourteenth annual meeting of the National Municipal league, the sixteenth national conference for good city government and the fourth annual meeting of the American Civic association assembled in joint convention in this city Monday.

The program is an important one and many addresses and discussions having for their purpose the adoption of good laws, selection of men of integrity for municipal position, and making American living conditions clean, healthful and attractive will be made before the convention closes Thursday evening with a banquet at the Hotel Schenley.

The first session was formally opened late in the afternoon in the rooms of the Pittsburg chamber of commerce under whose auspices the convention is being held.

Clinton R. Woodruff of Philadelphia, first vice-president and secretary of the American Civic association, read his annual review. He referred to the municipal and civic developments throughout the country from the viewpoint of the National Municipal league and the American Civic association.

Mr. Woodruff referred to Minneapolis, Kansas City, San Francisco, Grand Rapids and other communities as having shown marked advancement. He told of the efficient work being done by the New York bureau of municipal research and the Boston finance commission, similar plans being adopted in other municipalities.

HOT AFTER STAMP ROBBERS.

Two Arrests Reported Made in the South Bend Case.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 17.—Developments in the $18,000 post office robbery of Saturday night indicate that the authorities have secured evidence which is expected to lead to the capture of the entire gang who broke into the post office vault and carried away large quantities of stamps. Although the police and post office inspectors refuse to make statements it is reported two arrests have been made. One of the men alleged to have been taken into custody is known in police circles as "Detroit Whitey." The second man is a stranger here. He was arrested just as he was about to take a Lake Shore train out of the city.

Officer's Bullet Hits Young Woman.

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 17.—Miss Irene Shields, 20 years old, daughter of J. F. Shields, proprietor of a hotel at the entrance of the Illinois Eastern Insane Hospital grounds, was struck in the neck Monday night by a bullet fired by Deputy Rudolph Nichols at C. C. Foster, a discharged attendant, who had engaged in an altercation with Superintendent J. L. Greene. Foster broke away from the officer after his arrest. The man was recaptured and fined $25 and costs for disorderly conduct. Miss Shields was not seriously injured.

Three Ohio Counties Go Dry.

SECRETARY WRIGHT SPEAKS FOR PHILIPPINES.

"TRUST" GETS SOME SLAPS

Allegation Made That It Controls the Price Paid the Grower and the Price Charged the Consumer.

Washington, Nov. 17.—The allegation that the so-called "sugar trust" controls the price paid the grower and the price charged the consumer of sugar, the secretary of war putting himself on record as a champion of free entry for Philippine sugar, and the general "stand pat" attitude of the beet sugar growers who appeared before the ways and means committee of the house, were the features of Monday's hearing on the revision of the tariff as it would affect sugar.

Secretary of War Luke E. Wright and Gen. Clarence Edwards, chief of the insular bureau, were present at the hearing. It was shortly after the afternoon session was begun that Chairman Payne asked Secretary Wright if he cared to make any remarks.

Wright on Philippine Sugar.

"I just heard that the committee was hearing arguments on the tariff on sugar and tobacco, which affects the Philippine islands," said the former governor of the islands. "We are now having an investigation made in the Philippines regarding the cost of production in the islands and other matters relating to the question. From what I have just heard, the principal objection by the beet sugar grower to the admission free of duty of Philippine sugar lies in the danger that their markets will be inundated by the Philippine article.

"It is not possible that the Philippine islands could supply the actual increase in demand for sugar, year by year, in the United States. In that case there is no reason why the Philippine islands should affect the market until the beet and cane sugar produced within the tariff wall increases 1,800,000 tons. Before the beet sugar industry is in the slightest danger it must increase from 440,000 tons annually to 2,100,000 tons, and from annual reports it would take 50 years to do this. I can't see how it would affect the domestic product if Philippine sugar were placed for a time on the free list."

Half Way Measure Suggested.

Chairman Payne indicated that the possible action of the committee with regard to the sugar schedule would be to recommend that a certain amount of Philippine sugar be admitted free of duty each year, and that the present tariff be imposed on any above that amount. He told Secretary Wright that the menace, if any, was from the Cuban sugar, which enjoys a reduction in the tariff of 20 per cent. He also intimated that the question of Philip-

DEMOCRAT FUND SHORT

Not Enough to Pay Expenses—Mack Will Make Deficit Good.

New York, Nov. 17.—The contributions of the Democratic national committee during the presidential campaign recently ended were not sufficient to meet the expenses of the campaign, according to Norman E. Mack, chairman of the committee. Mr. Mack said Monday that he would make the deficit good out of his own pocket and that he would regard it as a personal obligation to see that every bill was paid. A statement of the receipts and expenditures of the committee will be filed with the secretary of the state at Albany on November 24.

To a reporter who asked Mr. Mack who was going to pay for the maintenance of permanent Democratic headquarters which are to be opened soon, either in Washington or New York, Mr. Mack said:

"The Democratic party of the United States is going to pay for it. I have had offers from every state in the union to contribute to a fund for the purpose."

RAILS IN WARROAD BY SATURDAY NIGHT

From Wednesday's Daily—

The fine weather has permitted of wonderful progress on the Great Northern extension from Greenbush to Warroad. The rails are now within miles of Warroad and will be laid to that city by Saturday night next.

In addition there will be four miles of tracks laid in the Warroad yards as there will be a large amount of traffic to be handled from that point.

There are now five train crews laying rails and ballasting, the gravel pit being located but two miles from Roseau and three train crews make their headquarters at that place all the time.

It is predicted now that with fair weather the ballasting will be completed and the road ready for general traffic by Dec. 10, which will make the completion of the extension a record breaker for fast work.

The trainmen report that the reception extended them at every point by the people of Roseau county was of a most hearty and enthusiastic nature. At Badger they were met by a brass band, were furnished with a barrel of apples, scores of baskets of grapes and several other varieties of refreshments in barrels, kegs and bottles, and the same thing was repeated at Roseau.

At Warroad great precautions are being made for the reception of the train crews when they enter that city and there will be doings that will be remembered for some time past. Conductor Austin and Brakeman Lee of this city, it is understood are camping on the spur three miles this side of Warroad and will be there when the band plays.

DAMAGE SUIT STARTED FOR SUM OF $10,000

Papers have been served in the damage suit of Chas Alexander against James Bulman in which the plaintiff asks $10,000 damages for defamation of character.

Both parties to the suit are residents of Thief River Falls and the case will be tried at Red Lake Falls. Alexander is a scaler for the Thief River Falls Lumber Co., and Bulman is a logger who did work under contract for the same firm.

The complaint alleges that on Nov. 4th at Thief River Falls Bulman applied some unprintable epithets to Alexander repeatedly and also alleged that Alexander had beat him out of $3,000 on logging contracts.

The complaint also alleges that Bulman had stated before witnesses that Alexander had told D. N. Winton, the manager of the Thief River Falls Lumber Co., that it did not make any difference how much salary was paid him (Alexandar) as he would more than make it up out of the loggers when he scaled what they banked.

For all of which Alexander claims that he has been damaged to the extent of $10,000 and as Bulman is very wealthy the suit is attracting very widespread attention.

BIG BOOST FOR VALLEY LAND

DONALDSON BUSINESS MAN RECEIVED DOUBLE INCOME FROM VALLEY LAND

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

Peter McEnroe, a prominent farmer and horse dealer of Donaldson spent yesterday in the city attending to some business matters. Mr. McEnroe is one of the best boosters for the Red River Valley in this section and as he was a former resident of Iowa what he says has peculiar significance. In a statement to the Journal he said:

"Red River Valley lands are selling for far less than they are really worth. I am not in the land business but nevertheless I know what I am talking about from personal experience.

"We own a section of land in Iowa and also own a section of land near Donaldson and the net income from the Doaldson section is double what we receive from the Iowa land.

"Our Iowa land is worth from $80 to $90 per acre and we could dispose of it for that figure at any time. Why should the Donaldson land not be worth more?

"There is but one reason. The people have not awakened to the real value of Red River Valley soil. When they do you will see a jump in real estate values in this section that will be surprising."

This is one of the best arguments ever advanced that Valley lands are bound to take a jump skywards within the very near future. When the tide starts this way in earnest, and the advance guard is now here, there will certainly be something doing.

GONYEA BOYS GO TO TWIN FALLS

Sheriff Louis Gonyea and son Louis left last evening for St. Paul and Minneapolis where they will purchase a complete billiard and pool hall outfit for a swell place which Gonyea Brothers will open up in Twin Falls, Idaho in the near future.

Sheriff Gonyea made a trip to Twin Falls a short time ago looking over the ground, and the boys will be started in business there as the opening is considered a very good one. The many friends of the young men will sincerely regret they are to leave Crookston as they all grew to manhood in this city and have a host of friends.

STOCK LOST IN CANADA

A MEDICINE HAT RANCHER HAS TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE WITH STOCK LOST IN STORM

From Monday's Daily—.

A harrowing story is brought from Medicine Hat, Canada, by a traveling man. It appears that as the C. P. R. would not guarantee him thirty cars for any specified date for the shipment of his beef, L. H. Pruitt trailed 300 of his tops to Chinook for shipment over the Great Northern to the Chicago markets. He returned and has a harrowing tale to tell of the hardships endured. He ordered the necessary cars by wire and while enroute with the cattle drove on ahead to Havre to make sure there would be no disappointment as he did not wish to hold the animals at Chinook for any length of time. On receiving assurance that everything would be ready for him he started to return to the round-up and was caught in the big storm. Pushing on to the camp he found of the entire bunch only forty-nine were insight, the rest having drifted away before the wind.

The horses had also got away and there were but two available. Taking these and leaving his own team at the camp, Mr. Pruitt went back over the trail to the last fence and rode up and down this for a distance of sixty miles for several days, at the expiration of which time he found the missing animals and herded them back to camp and again got under headway for Chinook.

He was six days late but the cars had been held for him and loading was carried on with celerity that in two hours after his arrival his cattle were in the cars and the train had started. A sheep country eaten bare had to be crossed before Chinook was reached, and for five days the cattle were without feed but notwithstanding this fact Mr. Pruitt was able to make a good sale in Chicago, realizing $5.60 for the first cut. The transportation charges amounted to $7.80 per head, and before placing the beef on the market $70 worth of hay was fed to them in Chicago.

PISTOL BULLET IS REMOVED FROM HENEY

POLICE SWARM ABOUT COURT WHEN CASE IS RESUMED.

ALL WHO ENTER SEARCHED

Volunteer Assistant Prosecutors Are on Hand—Haas' Bullet Is Removed from Francis J. Heney's Jaw.

San Francisco, California, Nov. 17—Never before in the history of this city had such extensive police precautions been taken to safeguard a court of justice as when Ruef was brought to the bar of Judge Lawler's court. Ten policemen on foot and six mounted men were on guard in front of the courtroom and the streets for a block on either side of the building were patrolled by uniformed police.

Every one Carefully Searched.

Every person entering the building was closely scrutinized and many were stopped half a dozen times before reaching the entrance. In the corridors were stationed six policemen and inside the courtroom half a dozen detectives were placed. Behind the tables of the counsel and in front of the press table sat four more detectives.

In the court were gathered prominent business men, ministers of the Gospel, members of the organization known as the Citizens' League of Justice, and a few women. The balconies above the main floor on both sides of the hall were empty, no one being allowed upstairs.

Abraham Ruef was the first of those directly connected with the trial to arrive, with five policemen and five deputy sheriffs riding inside the van with him and escorted by five mounted policemen.

A few minutes later, Assistant District Attorney John O'Gara, who has been Mr. Heney's assistant in recent trials, came in and took the place of Mr. Heney where he was shot on Friday. Joseph J. Dwyer, one of the three attorneys who had volunteered to take up the prosecution of Ruef where it was so tragically broken off, was followed by Matthew Sullivan and Hiram Johnson, the other two lawyers who will assist the district attorney's office.

Bullet Removed from Heney.

Mr. Heney underwent an operation Monday for the removal of the bullet which had lodged in the left lower maxillary. The operation was in every way successful and at the hospital it is stated that Mr. Heney's condition is satisfactory, with no signs of complications that will hinder his recovery.

Mrs. Heney, who has been most devoted to her husband, remained at the hospital during the operation, several friends and relatives keeping watch with her. She expressed great relief when the successful outcome of the work of the doctors was made known to her and resumed her place at her husband's side to personally superintend the nursing.

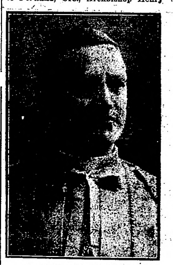
CATHOLIC MISSIONS

LEADING CATHOLICS DISCUSS THEM AT CHICAGO.

Impressive Scene at First Business Session of Convention of Prelates and Laymen.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Prelates, priests and laymen from all parts of the United States and Canada Monday began their three days' work in the epochmaking first American Catholic congress at the First Regiment armory, under the guidance of Archbishop Diomede Falconio, the apostolic delegate, and Archbishop James Edward Quigley. The scene at the armory was brilliant and impressive when the members of the Catholic church hierarchy, priests and laymen took their places to begin the deliberations. Papal colors, blended with the stars and stripes, and the purple hues of the prelates' robes with those of other flags were seen throughout the hall.

The papal delegate sat upon a special episcopal chair, and Archbishop Quigley, Archbishop Sebastian G. Messmer, D. D., of Milwaukee, Archbishop James H. Blenk of New Orleans, Archbishop Alexander Christie of Portland, Ore., Archbishop Henry Moeller of Cincinnati and the 85 bishops and monsignores occupied special seats of honor in accordance with their rank in the Catholic church hierarchy.



Archbishop Diomede Falconio.

With the blessing of Pope Pius X. and prayers of prelates, priests and laymen throughout the world for the success of the deliberations, the delegates settled down to the labors which are to affect the missionary work and movements both at home and in foreign countries of the American Catholics.

Archbishop Quigley, who is the sponsor and originator of the gathering, was at the helm in charge of the gathering at its first session Monday, and his address of welcome was the first address of the day's proceedings. Following the welcome Archbishop Falconio was on the program to speak and after him Attorney William J. Hynes, on behalf of the Catholic laity of America, as the first lay speaker of the gathering.

Body Found; Murder Suspected.

Millville, N. J., Nov. 17.—The body of an unidentified man about sixty years old, was found Monday in a clump of bushes in this place, under circumstances leading to a suspicion of murder. The right half of the man's head had been blown off and at his side lay a shotgun with one barrel discharged.

Ex-Cashier Accused.

Edwardsville, Ill., Nov. 17.—C. W. Burton, former cashier of the Tri-City State bank of Madison, Ill., gave bond here Monday in the sum of $1,000 to answer an indictment charging embezzlement found against him by the grand jury of Madison county. The indictment names $3,384.61 as the sum.

MUSKRATS PREDICT COLD

BUILD BIG HOUSES ACCORDING TO PEOPLE WHO HAVE VISITED

HAUNTS— DEEP SNOW SIGNS — BETTER FILL YOUR COAL BINS

The present condition of the weather has brought out many prognostications as to what the coming winter will be and from the majority of the predictions one is inclined to believe that there will be a long, cold winter Nearly every person has some special sign on which to base his prognostications but there are not a few that make the cold weather prediction simply because they are pessimistic.

However there are sure signs in nature which if one knows how to interpret them give a good indication of the coming state of the weather in a general way and it is from nature that the old timers and woodsmen make the prediction of a cold winter. The main thing from which they take their information is from the muskrat and this little animal this year has in his own way made the statement to those acquainted with him that the coming winter will be a severe one. People coming from their haunts state that this fall they have built very large and warm houses in which to spend the winter and this is taken as an infallible omen. Last fall it was noted that the little animals did not build to amount to anything and in many cases did not erect houses at all. It was then that the old timers made the statement that the winter would be a mild one, which proved to be the case.

This fall the red squirrels have heaped up large piles of cones, acorns and nuts and the forks of branches and the holes in the bark may be found wedged full of the winter food stored for the coming cold season when the ground will be covered with snow, which, by these signs, it is predicted will be very deep.

There are hundreds of other indications of a cold winter and all acquainted with the wild animals and birds and their great instinct as to knowing what the future state of the weather will be. all stated that this winter will be a very cold and stormy one.

FARMERS' ELEVATOR COMPANY CLAIMS AMOUNT OF SHORTAGE IN ITS ACCOUNT

ALLEGES THAT EMERADO INSTITUTION IS RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS SUSTAINED

A suit that is an outgrowth of the sensational suicide of John Hempstad of Emerado has been filed in the district court at Grand Forks by the Farmers' Elevator company vs. Farmers' State Bank of Emerado. The suit is brought to recover $2,500 claimed to be due the elevator company. According to the elevator company's accounts there should have been a balance of $2,500 in the bank to the credit of the company at the time Hempstad committed suicide. He was treasurer of the elevator company and cashier of the bank. The bank has put in a counter claim for $3,200 charging that the elevator company is responsible for the defalications of Hempstad The total amount of his shortage was about $6,000.

The question of who is responsible for the fraudulent checks issued must be decided in the suit. If the bank is responsible the plaintiff will win the suit.

FERGUS FALLS DISTRICT COURT

CHAS PESONEN GETS A YEAR AND A HALF AT STILLWATER—STROMBERG

WINS LAND CASE—OTHER MINOR CASES ARE ON THE CALENDAR

From Saturday's Daily—

Chas. Pesonen, who was charged with stealing a horse and buggy from Oskar Maki, near New York Mills, plead guilty in the district court at Fergus Falls Friday morning and was sentenced to spend a year and a half in the state's prison at Stillwater. Mr. Pesonen stoped over night with Mr. Maki and disappeared in the early morning, taking his host's horse and buggy and leaving his own rig in its stead.

The case of Johanna Severson vs. John A. N. Stromberg, went to the jury early Thursday forenoon, and the jurors reported at noon that they could not agree but late in the evening, brought in a verdict for the defendant. This case has been tried twice, the plaintiff winning the first time. Defendant paid up the costs and called for a new trial. The action involves the question of title to an acre or two of land along the lake shore in Clitherall. One party claims it by adverse possession and the other by purchase.

The trespass case against Ole Larson will probably go to the jury this afternoon, and the case of Nils Hanson et al vs. Swan Johnson, will be the next called.

The case of P. Lier vs. Lars O. Bratvild has been settled.

EUROPE BUYS NORTHWEST WHEAT

SITUATION IN ARGENTINA TURNS FOREIGN EYES THIS WAY

Germany bought Minnesota and Dakota wheat today for shipment to Hamburg. There was much secrecy about the business. It was finally learned that the Ames-Brooks company of Duluth sold it. Five boatloads—meaning canal boat measurement — equals about 40,000 bushels. This is a trival quantity considering the mammoth proportions of the grain trade as a whole. Significance attaches not to quantity but to the fact that continental Europe should buy here at this time.

Dreyfus of Paris and Smythe of Liverpool big European importers, were buyers. But they sent their orders to Winnipeg. Minneapolis does not compete for export wheat business, as the mills there grind the grain and export the flour.

The World Situation

The world's wheat situation is interesting. The world raised in 1906 the total of 3,414,000,000 bushels. Last year it fell to 3,062,000,000. This year it started out with a promise of about 3,270,000,000 bushels, which, while still below the crop of 1906 would be 208,000,000 in excess of last year.

In such a calculation the United States, with 48,000,000 or 49,000,000 acres ordinarily sown to spring and winter wheat might be expected to produce close to 700,000,000 bushels and Argentina that far off South American competitor, with 15,500,000 to 16,000,000 acres practically all winter wheat, might be expected to raise well over 200,000,000 bushels.

But the United States winter wheat area—as result of dry weather promises now to be 4,000,000 acres less than the average, and in Argentina, where wheat is harvested in December and January, frost damaged the crop in places and in the south there is now a severe drought.

Londan Liverpool, Hamburg and Antwerp grain importers, fearing they may not get enough wheat from Argentina are looking this way.

Should conditions improve in Argentina the European interest in the United States might subside. Should Argentina really suffer serious losses a condition unlike anything for some years might develop a condition in which Minneapolis would have a keen interest because of the large production of wheat in country tributary and the grain price as a prosperity index.

GREAT MARKET DAY PLANS

COMMITTEE ENDEAVORING TO MAKE THE DAY BIGGEST SUCCESS

WHICH HAS YET BEEN SCORED—DAY OF PROFIT AND PLEASURE

From Friday's Daily—

Great interest is being aroused in Crookston's fourth Market Day which will take place on Saturday, November, 21, and there is no doubt but that it will prove the most successful event in the history of the city. The first three days proved that the Market Day was an institution of great value to both the residents of the country districts and to the city's business men, inasmuch as it afforded an opportunity for them to become mutually acquainted and has placed them on a more friendly basis.

Good Market Point

The Market Days have demonstrated to the farmer that Crookston is their most profitable market point, both for selling and buying and while in the past they have thought the benefits were all in favor of the city business men, they have been taught that the benefits are mutual. This is one of the reasons why they have responded to the invitations to participate in past Market Days, and this is the reason why they will be expected to flock into the city in large numbers on the fourth Market Day.

A Free Auction

On each successive Market Day the committee in charge of the arrangements, appointed by the 25,000 Commercial Club, has planned to hold a large auction sale. It is realized that the farmers accumulate many things in the course of the year for which they have no further use and so the auction was established to give them an opportunity to dispose of these things. In addition every farmer has many products that he desires to find a market for, consequently the auction will appeal to him.

The Farmer Profits

The business men in establishing the auction sale have placed it absolutely on the free basis, so that every farmer may secure the total amount which his property brings nothing being deducted for expenses. The committee provides the services of an auctioneer, a clerk and a sale place and they pay all the expenses attending this service so that the farmers do not have to make an outlay for a single thing connected with the sale.

Place of Sale

The sale next week will take place at 2:30 o'clock on Market Day on Third street, between Broadway and Main streets, and will continue as long as there is anything to sell. Each successive Market Day auction sale has been larger than the previous one and there is no reason to doubt but that the coming sale will be a record breaker. Every farmer should realize that this sale affords him an opportunity of selling for cash at the largest price, the things he desires to get rid of and he should make use of the opportunity freely.

Enjoyable Features

The committee in charge of the plans for the coming Market Day has made arrangements again to give their guests the opportunity of taking in the vaudeville and moving picture houses and the management has promised something out of the ordinary for Market Day afternoon. By applying to the committee during the lunch hour every visitor will be given a ticket which will give him free admittance.

Last Market Day proved that this species of entertainment was enjoyed by the visitors and thruout the afternoon they kept the popular amusement halls crowded. It is anticipated that the coming event will also prove the shows to be most attractive and it is anticipated that they will receive record crowds for all their performances. Every farmer and every member of his family can take in these entertainments without cost by obtaining a free ticket from the committee in charge.

A Free Lunch

At noon every visitor in the city will be expected to take lunch with the business men of Crookston in the G. A. R. Hall on South Main street. This will give you an opportunity to become acquainted with one another and also with the people of Crookston The ladies and the children will be given a chance to rest and get ready for sightseeing during the afternoon. Ladies will be in charge of the lunch and they will make every effort to make the noon hour pleasant agreeable and comfortable for all who attend the lunch. There is no reason why fully a thousand visitors should not partake of this hospitality provided by the business men of the city.

This feature of the program should be of the greatest interest to every farmer of Polk county and he should see to it that he keeps this day open so that he can journey to the county seat and bring with him every member of his family.

"Making Good"

may be slang but it is a vigorous phrase of tonic qualities and holds a world of solid meaning, hard work, honorable success, accomplishment.

There are many young men, 60 years and under, hard-workers, who have failed to justify the hopes and ambitions of their families and friends; failed to reap the harvest due them; failed to "Make Good". simply because they did not realize the many actual advantages offered them by a check account; the protection afforded their money; the chance to save the extra dollar or two; to build up their credit; the certainty of having to pay bills but once; and other advantages appreciated by the man who has a bank account.

VICINITY OF HENNING — HEN COOPS ALSO ARE BEING ROBBED

From Saturday's Daily—

The annual expedition of the night thieves have begun near Henning, only this season they have become more bold and are carrying off more booty and tackling anything from a chicken coop to a 2,000 pound Cary safe. Among the losers by these night prowlers this fall are: Martin Johnson, 60 bushels barley; Oscar Bjorklund 129 bushels of grain, both of the town of Henning; Mr. Trana, Folden, 60 bushels wheat; C. G. Hipple, Henning village 25 chickens.

SHORT TERM IS PROMISED

FEDERAL COURT TERM AT FERGUS HAS BUT FEW CASES TO SETTLE

L. D. FOSKETT CASE CONTINUED —U. S. MARSHAL RIDER HERE THIS MORNING

Deputy U. S. Marshal Rider was in the city over night and left this morning for Lengby to summon witnesses for the term of Federal Court which will convene in Fergus Falls Nov. 20 He had just returned from a trip thru Marshall and Kittson counties on a similar mission.

There were seven cases in all, and it was a question whether any of them would come to trial, the understanding being that if none were to be tried, the petit jurors would be notified that they need not appear.

District Attorney Houpt stated that the grand jury would probably have a few indictments to return, but that the cases would be continued over the term and that there would be no criminal trials until spring.

The call of the civil calendar was then taken up. The first case was that of the United States against Arthur W. Mitton and it was passed the attorneys stating that a proposition looking to a settlement was under consideration.

The next case was that of the United States vs. the Backus Brooks Lumber Company a timber trespass case. It was continued.

The third was that of L. D. Foskett of Crookston administrator of the estate of Herman Aalman, deceased, vs. the Northern Pacific a damage suit. It was continued.

The next was the case of Ivar Wallin vs. the Duluth Elevator Co., a personal injury damage suit. It was set for trial.

The case of Arthur B. Church, administrator, vs. the Northern Pacific Railway Co., was announced as probably settled.

The case of Wright Works who was injured by falling into a coal pit at Dilworth, against the same company was also announced as settled.

The case of eGorge A. Post vs. the Northern Pacific another personal injury case was also announced for trial altho there seemed to be some doubt as to whether it would be tried.

With two cases set for trial, the jurors will be on hand, and the term will open for the trial of cases on the 20th.

FISH HAVE INCREASED

WHITEFISH IN INLAND LAKES HAVE MULTIPLIED RAPIDLY

NETTING SEASON IS ON AND GOOD CATCHES ARE EXPECTED

The season allowed by law for netting whitefish in the inland lakes of Minnesota opened Tuesday, and there is every prospect that this year's fishing will be better than for many years past.

Reports from those who are posted in the matter state that the whitefish have multiplied greatly in the lakes of Beltrami and adjoining counties, and that the quality of the fish are better than those shipped in from lake points.

The favorite grounds for fishing whitefish and trellips are Lake Bemidji, Lake Plantaganet and all of the rivers and deeper lakes in the vicinity of Bemidji.

Fishermen who net for whitefish and trellips secure enough fish with a few mornings' haul of the net to last them the entire winter. Most of the fishermen either salt or smoke their fish but a number freeze them solid, thawing out the fish as they are needed.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST ELEVATOR

PLANS FOR CONSTRUCTION AT FORT WILLIAM FORMULATED

Arrangements have been made in Minneapolis for the erection of the largest elevator ever constructed. It is to be built at Fort William, Ont., for the Grand Pacific Elevator company, and will cost, when completed, $1,250,000. James Stewart & Co., general contractors of Chicago, are to do the work.

The negotiations which resulted in arrangements for the erection of the big elevator were conducted at the offices of the Peavey Elevator Company, W. R. Sinks, general manager of Stewart & Co., and formerly with the Barnett & Record company of Minneapolis, and R. H. Folwell son of former president Folwell of the state university, who is engineer for Stewart & Co., represented the Chicago concern. Wheat from the fields of the Canadian Northwest will be housed in the elevator, which will be one of the most complete and up to date structures of the kind to be found anywhere.

IN HONOR OF GOV. JOHNSON

GREAT CELEBRATION IS IN PROGRESS AT ST. PETER TODAY IN CONNECTION WITH THE THIRD SECCESSIVE TRIUMPH OF GOV. JOHN A. JOHNSON — SPECIAL TRAINS WERE RUN FROM THE TWINS CITIES AND FROM MANY OTHER PLACES—LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR EBERHARDT AND CONGRESMAN C. R. DAVIS WERE AMONG THE SPEAKERS

From Thursday's Daily—

Several thousand Minnesota democrats are attending the big Johnson celebration at St. Peter today when the governor's friends gathered in his home town to celebrate his third successive triumph in the state, and to start the big noise for 1912.

A committee of St. Peter business men has been in the twin cities making arrangements and one special train has been put on, which left the Minneapolis union station at 10 a. m. This and the regular trains carried big delegations from the twin cities and specials were run into St. Peter from all other directions. This afternoon there was a military parade, also a big civic parade. There will be a torchlight parade, speeches from open air stands, fireworks, bands galore and a meeting at the opera house for all who can get in. It is to be a nonpartisan affair, and among the speakers announced are Lieutenant Governor Eberhardt and Congressman C. R. Davis.

THE UNNECESSARY WASTE FROM FIRE

F. W. Fitzpatrick, formerly a resident of Duluth, contributes to the November McClure's magazine a startling array of facts and figures about the unnecessary havoc created in this country every year by fires. Mr. Fitzpatrick has probably given this situation more consideration than any other man in the country and his articles many of which The Herald has published, have made him a recognized authority upon the subject.

Says he in McClure's: "The cost of fire and its accessories in round numbers, is just about an even $600,000,000 a year. It may be but a peculiar coincidence, or perhaps it is an unconscious economic adjustment that with our phenomenal growth and the tremendous boom and vast amount of building carried on in some years, the most active year we ever had in building construction produced just $615,000,000 worth of new buildings and alterations during the twelve months. So that with all our vaunted activity we produce in money value only a trifle more than what we destroy by fire. In the first month of the present year our fire losses were over $24,000.000 and during the same time we spent but $16,000,000 in new buildings and repairs. Our average fire loss is $19,000,000 a month.

"Apart from any incidental or accompanying expense, the cost of fire, of actual combustion and destruction of property in this country, is equivalent to a tax of $2.30 per capita per year; in all of Europe the average corresponding tax is a trifle less than 33 cents per capita. In Italy is is 12 cents; in Geramany 49 cents; in thirty foreign cities the average is 61 cents while in 252 American cities it is $3.10 We have 4.05 fires for each thousand people; Europe has .86 fires per thousand. New York City has 12,182 fires a year with a fire loss of $7,568,666, Her department costs her $10,000,000 a year, and it is estimated that the cost of public and private protection amounts to pretty nearly $60,000,000 a year. Now in all of London there are 3,843 fires in a year, and in the whole of the British Kingdom in the same period there were but 35 fires of over $50,000 cost each, and all of these 35 fires cost but $3,785,000."

While figures of money cost seem to attract more attention, Mr. Fitzpatrick shows that fires have cost us as many as 7,000 lives in a year. The production of gold in the entire world something like $400,000,000 a year, would not recoup this country for its fire losses and the incidental expenses accompanying them in the same period of time. The value of all the coal mined in the country would just cover the cost of our fires, and the value of the lumber production is only a little more.

Perhaps, ifwe do not set about it sooner, our fire losses will begin to decrease when our lumber supply is exhausted, and we can no longer build with inflammable materials—unless, perchance, we then begin building with straw.

SMITH CONVICTED IN SHORT ORDER

FIRST VERDICT IN THE DISTRICT COURT FAVORS THE STATE

After considering the case a comparatively short time, the jury in the case of the state against James Smith at Fargo charged with robbery returned a verdict last evening at 7 o'clock, finding the man guilty as charged in the information.

Smith is the man who held up Fred Gerber near First street and Fourth avenue north recently. Altho only 35 cents were taken from Gerber the defendant now faces a term in the pen. The amount cuts no figure whatever.

The case was prosecuted by Asst. State's Atty. Richardson while B. G Tenneson was appointed to defend Smith.

ROY MORAN IS GIVEN FREEDOM

Deputy Sheriff Orin Daniels returned last evening from East Grand Forks where he went with Roy Moran who was arrested in Minneapolis charged with stealing a diamond and various other crimes in East Grand Forks. Moran had a hearing before Judge Sullivan and was dismissed, there not being sufficient evidence on which to bind him over to the grand jury.

FARMER ENDED HIS OWN LIFE

HOMESTEADER NEAR BAGLEY SHUFFLED OFF MORTAL COIL

BODY WAS FOUND YESTERDAY —LIFE HAD BEEN EXTINCT FOR SOME TIME

From Friday's Daily—

Halvor Jenson, a homesteader residing about 7 miles south of Bagley was found yesterday morning cold in death, hanging in a shed adjoining a stable where he had undoubtedly committed suicide.

From all indications he had been dead for several days. The body was found by neighbors who, not having seen Jenson for a few days wondered what was the matter. They made a search and discovered his remains. They were taken in charge by the county authorities and will be buried tomorrow.

Jenson was single and has no relatives in this section as far as is known. There is no known reason for his rash act and it is supposed that he became temporarily insane.

DYNAMITE FOR FIREWOOD

MRS. ARTHUR EGLEY HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH THIS NOON

CAME NEAR PUTTING STICK OF DYNAMITE IN THE COOK STOVE

From Friday's Daily—

Mrs. Arthur Egley came very near to meeting a horrible death at noon today when she was putting some in the stove. It happened that in gathering up the wood she also got hold of a stick of dynamite and was just on the point of puting it in the stove when she noticed it

A second more and there is no question but what she would have been killed and the house would have been blown to atoms. There was a considerable quantity of dynamite left near the house by former occupants but it was supposed that all of it had been removed prior to this time.

The escape is one of the most sensational recorded in this section.

HACKENSACK SAFE IS BLOWN

From Thursday's Daily—

C. A. Palmer, agent for the Minnesota & International railway company at Hackensack, telegraphed from that place this morning that the safe in the depot at Hackensack had been blown some time between 9:30 last night and 7 o'clock this morning and that $18.22 of the company's money, and $85.52 belonging to the Northern Express company had been taken; and further that nothing else of importance was gone from the depot.

When Palmer was asked if he had any idea who had committed the theft who the burglars were, or where they had gone, he answered that no one knew anything further than he had telegraphed.

Nothing further could be ascertained as to the robbery and it is presumed that the robbers forced an entrance to the depot while the agent was sleeping in another part of the town, and they were not interfered with by anyone before they had taken all the money that was in the building. That they made their escape is certain.

Godfried Wagner And Family Are Cremated

Former Residents Near Crookston Are Victims Of Terrible Forest Fire In Wisconsin.

From Friday's Daily—

Many friends in this city will be shocked to learn that Godfried Wagner with his wife and children were all cremated in a great forest fire near Sheboygan, Wisconsin a few days ago.

The details of the horrible affair have not yet been received but a telegram received was to the effect that they were all burned to death while on a farm near Sheboygan where they had located after leaving this section of the country.

Godfried Wagner and family formerly lived on the Walter Latta farm in the town of Fanny and left here four years ago for their new home in Wisconsin where they have lived ever since.

From what can be learned the family were burned at night. A fierce forest fire, fanned by a tremendous wind swept down upon them in the night, and before they were aware of what the trouble was all hope was gone and they were consumed in their home with all their belongings.

SOO'S MOTION IS OVERRULED

JUDGE MORRIS DECLINES TO DISMISS ACTION WHEN PLAINTIFF CLOSES

PLAINTIFF SEEKS DAMAGES FOR ILL HEALTH RESULTING FROM COLD COACH

Judge Page Morris yesterday at Grand Forks afternoon overruled the motion of the defense for a directed verdict in the case of John Bystrom vs. Soo railway company in which plaintiff seeks damages in the sum of $5,000. The motion was made after the plaintiff had rested his case. Bystrom was a passenger on a Soo passenger train, on his way from Rhinelander, Wis., to Portal, N. D., At a point about five miles from Enderlin the train was stalled and the engine was disconnected, there was no heat for five hours. The plaintiff had to wrap his overcoat around his children to keep them from freezing and he sustained a severe cold, which resulted in lumbago and muscular rheumatism of the back. This ailment is permanent he believes.

After the motion to dismiss was overruled a conductor on the Soo line testified in behalf of the company.

Geo. A. Bangs and W. J. Mayer are plaintiff's attorneys and Young & Lawrence appear for the defendant.

Case Is Dismissed

In the case of Hulda Smith vs. Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, in which she sought $5,015 damages for being put off at Red Wing and being obliged to remain in the cold depot for hours, the court yesterday forenoon directed a verdict in favor of the defendant. A motion was made by the defendant's attorney at the close of the case of the plaintiff.

ROBT. KOLSETH WAS SULLEN

HE REFUSED TO TALK WHEN RETURNED TO RED LAKE FALLS

SHERIFF NELSON TOOK YOUNG CROOK IN CHARGE THIS MORNING

From Thursday's Daily—

Sheriff Nelson arrived from Red Lake county last evening and this morning returned to Red Lake Falls with Robert Kolseth, the young man who some weeks ago stole a team from his uncle, Hans Kolseth near Thief River Falls and drove them to this city and sold them for $100 to LePalm and McKinney ditch contractors near Euclid.

The team was recovered by the owner, and Kolseth was arrested on a Soo train a few days later, north of Thief River Falls, and lodged in jail at Red Lake Falls. He succeeded in breaking jail a few days later however, and decamped for Canada, where he remained till Monday evening when he arrived in Crookston and proceeded to accumulate a jag and then bragged about what he had done.

Contractor McKinney happened to be within hearing and promptly held the fellow till Policeman Nelson was summoned and took him in custody. The sheriff of Red Lake County was communicated with and phoned to held Kolseth for jail breaking and several other charges.

This morning Kolseth was fairly sober but refused to do any talking, but is evidently under the impression that his relatives in Red Lake county who are wealthy, will get him out of the scrape as they have done several times in the past. It is understood however, that they will not raise a hand, and allow him to receive a dose of medicine that may do him good.

He who knows his own faults well has already reduced their number and size.

WOLFER APPROVES STEPHENS' PLAN

Idea To Give Families Some Proportion Of Inmates Earnings In Penitentiary Meets With Approval.

Senator A. D. Stephens returned this morning from a business trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis and also visited Warden Wolfer at the state penitentiary with whom he conferred regarding the proposed bill which Senator Stephens has been considering for some time past relative to having some proportion of the earnings of the inmates going to their families.

Senator Stephens has had this idea in his mind for some time past and now fully determined to introduce a bill at the next session of the legislature which will give protection to the wife and children of men who are confined in the penitentiary, so that the family of evil doers will not really be greater sufferers than the inmates themselves.

While those confined lose their liberty, they are provided with all necessaries of life. On the other hand the wife and children of the inmate may have neither food, shelter or clothing except as is provided by charity.

Under Senator Stephens' plans they would receive some income from the earnings of the criminal who is serving time, and this will meet with the general approval, the dependents needing the money to a greater degree than the state of Minnesota.

WHEAT GOING TO BE HIGHER THAN IN YEARS

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN TRADERS SEE HIGH PRICES APPROACHING — ACREAGE OF WINTER WHEAT VERY SHORT — AND SPRING WHEAT FARMERS WILL REAP BENEFIT BEFORE NEXT CROP COMES—CHARLES E. LEWIS OF MINNEAPOLIS DISCUSSES THE SITUATION, CLAIMING THAT IMPAIRED CONDITIONS IN THE ARGENTINE HAVE LEFT EUROPE MORE DEPENDENT ON THE UNITED STATES FOR HER WHEAT — VIEWS OF OTHER BIG TRADERS

From Saturday's Daily—

If Minneapolis men with years of experience in the grain trade may be assumed to know about it, wheat is going higher than for many years before another crop can be sown and harvested. The Chamber of Commerce is the center of interest in a situation that seems stronger every day and the bulls do not hesitate to express themselves.

"I expect," said John R. Marfield "that eventually the Minneapolis cash price for No. 1 northern wheat will reach the level of $1.25 and remain there until by new production the supply situation can be changed."

"Wheat has a pronounced upward trend," said George H. Daggett, "and should sell at least as high as last year's top price, which would be a considerable advance from the present range."

"Only recently," said J. H. McCarthy, "I passed thru the dry country of the Ohio valley and Ontario. Anyone could see that the winter wheat acreage was bound to be cut down, and so the growing strength in prices does not surprise me. I think wheat will sell much higher."

"The fact that so large a part, more than half the crop of Minnesota and the Dakotas, has already been marketed," said G. B. Gunderson, "shows that there is a strong price situation in wheat and suggests that a higher range may not be far ahead."

The big bull in Minneapolis today is Charles E. Lewis. He is outspoken in his convictions.

"There is every indication," said Mr. Lewis, "that the farmers of the northwest are going to get higher prices for their wheat, and that the business stimulus that always follows profitable prices to producers will be felt.

"I am a bull on wheat. We have got to recognize that the market rests on the dead level of supply and demand and that the natural price tendency as stocks decrease and the delicate balance between supply and demand becomes more sharply defined prices will seek a lower level.

"There are more bullish possibilities. The decreased acreage of winter wheat and the sickly condition of the plant augurs a limited supply of winter wheat production of an inferior quality, and as winter wheat is 60 to 65 per cent of the total wheat raised in the United States, anyone can see what this will mean for the 1909 crop and how the spring wheat farmers must necessarily be benefitted.

"Impaired conditions in the Argentine makes Europe more dependent upon the United States for wheat. But we cannot afford to let Europe have our wheat without reducing supplies to dangerously near the limit of our home requirements.

"There can be only one logical conclusion. Wheat will make a great advance, and will go very much higher.

There's nothing makes mean people show it more than trying not to.

Few of us have the courage to point out our own mistakes.

Northern Counties Want Justice

There is no United States senator to be elected from Minnesota this winter so the legislature will have nothing to distract it from the business of legislation, says the Minneapolis Journal in a timely editorial article.

No excuse can be found this time for failing to make a reapportionment of the state for legislative purposes. The present districts are grossly unequal giving one voter in certain localities as much voice in state affairs as four voters in some of the growing districts of northern Minnesota. The present districts were marked out 12 years ago, and in that time there has been a great shifting in the population of the state. There has been a national census also a state census, to show this drift and a fair apportionment can easily be worked out by using the 1905 census returns.

Two years ago reapportionment was staved off by the objection of the senators, who hold over until 1911. They did not car to pass a bill that would legislate them out of office two years before the allotted time. That excuse does not exist now. The new reapportionment bill will have coincident effect with terms of senate and house members. It is held by the attorney general that there is no bar in the constitution to a new apportionment at any session, and the problem is clearly up to the members of the 1909 legislature.

The two houses are large enough already. A just reapportionment will take members away from some of the southern counties and give them to northern territory. This may not be to the liking of the districts that will lose, but it is only fairness and justice There is no defense for a system that gives one senator to Dodge county, with 12,757 population in 1905, and only one senator to the counties of Aitkin, Carlton, Cass, Itasca and Koochiching, with 47,365 population three years ago, now much increased. Another district, the sixty-first, includes Beltrami, Clearwater, Red Lake and Norman counties, with 54,682 population and only one senator. Many such instances of rank inequality could becited. Hennepin county, for instance, has an average of over 42,000 persons to each senator, while three senators from southern Minnesota have altogether only 42,983 constituents.

An All-Sufficient Reason

There is a rumor that should become an avalanche that the Honorable Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois will not consent to become a candidate for speaker of the next congress. He so the dame says, will prefer to return to the floor as one of the boys.

Still, he will be known as "Uncle Joe" and we can conceive of no way in which he can more surely rehabilitate himself in the favor of the public, and give the old flavor to this familiar name, than by such action. There is at least room for hope.

As The News Tribune has before said, Mr. Cannon is not all bad. Barring his coarseness and vulgarity, he is a very companionable man. Nor does any one doubt his ability, but only object to the purposes for which he uses it and the avenues of its display.

Aside from all this, however, is the preponderating, overpowering and absolutely conclusive objection to Mr. Cannon which logically makes him wholly unabailable as a candidate for re-election to his present position—he has lost the confidence of the people.

It is not necessary to discuss the how or the why of this. It may be just or unjust. He may be a victim of circumstances or of his own personality and temperament. But the bald fact remains and is unquestionable.

In the popular mind he is merely a creature of those interests which stand in antagonism to all the reforms which the people demand. His reelection would be taken as retrogression, as a reversal of the popular will as a slap in the face of progress. He has outlived his day of usefulness as speaker because the people do not trust him.

That should be enough. The Republicans could do nothing more unpopular than to chose him to again control the house. The party nationally is not responsible for his return to congress, but it will be for his retention as speaker.

He is regarded as the exact opposite of those men who today express the temper of the people in public affairs—Roosevelt, Taft, Hughes, Bryan and their kind. He stands for reaction for special interests, for everything that looks backward, and is permanently hitched to the "paramouncy" of capital.

No one ignores his past services. No one wishes to see him humiliated. But there will be a very general hope that he will remove himself from the forefront. If not, then he should be taught his lesson in the only other way—defeat.—Duluth News-Tribune.

Great Advertisement For Polk County

One of the best inducements Polk County offers to the prospective settler secondary only to the wonderful productiveness of the soil of this section, is a splendid public school system.

During the past few years there has been a wonderful improvement along many lines. New school houses, with all modern sanitary ventilation and heating included, have been erected, and the old school buildings have practically all been made modern, sanitary and healthy in every respect.

In addition to the improvement in the appearance and comfort of the school buildings the equipment has been increased materially and made strictly modern and up-to-date in every respect.

This means that the farmers who are looking for new homes do not have to deprive the children of any educational advantages, such as have to be suffered in a new country where schools are scattered and inefficient and where in many places there are no schools at all.

Over and above all this the efficiency of the teachers has been vastly increased during the past few years by raising the standard of the requirements in the examinations. In the early days when it was necessary to have teachers, the best the superintendents could do was to accept whatever timber was available. In Polk county, Supt. Casey has been pursuing a weeding out process for the past few years, insisting that the teachers who were best qualified should in every instance be given preference by the school boards, and until all efficient teachers had secured positions he refused to issue permits to those who had failed in examinations.

Could any county have a better inducement to offer to the home seeker than Polk in the educational line?

In His Own Country

The splendid tribute which the people of St. Peter paid last night to the most distinguished son of that community and to Minnesota's most famous citizen was a significant and a splendid out pouring and that it came from the hearts of the people is not a prophet without honor in his own country. The people of St. Peter the village in which the governor was born and raised, have always been loyal to him and no finer tribute to his sterling qualities could be paid than the following indorsements that have come to him from the people in whose intimate view he passed from boyhood into man's estate.

Yesterday's demonstration, like the three magnificent political triumphs won by the governor, was absolutely non-partisan. It was from the people of St. Peter to the governor of Minnesota, and there was no division of partisanship in the warm outburst of loyalty and affection that the entire community lavished upon the man whose splendid career has given him national fame, the state national honor, and the home community an intense and militant pride in its native son. Happy indeed is the public man who can claim such loyalty in the folks that know him as he is, that have watched his burgeoning and blossoming career in the light of his youth's fair promise.—Duluth Herald.

STATE PRESS

Pretty Far Fetched

The great battleships which are built at such cost to the government and are regarded by many as waste ful expense help the farmers and others in a way not generally understood The government always uses the best steel in making cannon, so that as soon as those weapons are out of date it can sell them to founderies. At the founderies the old cannon are broken up and remelted, after which they are made into plows, structural iron roofing, household tinware and a dozen other things of a peaceful nature. Thus, by a somewhat indirect process we are literally beating our weapons of war into plowshares and other useful implements to help the farmer, the builder and the housewife.—Ulen Union. And rumor has it that a farmer east of Ulen owns a plow from which the shot was fired that broke up business for the iron clad Merrimac, it having once been a big gun on the Montor.

"Shall The People Rule?"

What's this? The emporeor of Germany being humiliated and lampooned by his loving subjects merely because of a few amiable vanities and a little light meddling in public affairs? What is the use of being an emperor if somebody else is going to command your tongue and rap your fingers when you poke them into public business? But it shows that the people, even in monarchical Europe, are coming into their own; that monarchies and empires—even despotisms—are becoming outworn garments beneath which is the solid substance of the real owners and rulers of the world—the people.—Duluth Herald.

TARIFF PROBERS HEAR ABOUT SUGAR

pine tariff was so important a question that it might not be considered as being strictly a part of the work of revising the Dingley tariff, but would be taken up separately.

Secretary Wright asked to be heard further on the subject as soon as he could gather more information. He said he favored a limited free entry on sugar and tobacco from the Philippines.

Takes a Poke at the "Trust."

Secretary Wright said that the production of sugar in the Philippines would not increase to any extent. Representative Fordney of Michigan, who has a large number of sugar beet farmers among his constituents, told the secretary that the same argument was put forth with regard to the Cuban sugar several years ago and yet the production in Cuba has increased very largely, and the American beet sugar industry had not increased very much.

"The beet sugar people say that the American Sugar Refining Company has no interest in their factories," said the secretary, referring to the so-called "trust," "yet three years ago they said a trustee, understood to represent the American Sugar Refining Company, owned 51 per cent. of the stock of all the beet sugar factories. That may be the reason why the beet sugar industry in this country has not grown, rather than the importation of Cuban sugar. There has been no reduction in the prices of sugar in a number of years."

"Trust Methods Damnable."

Much information concerning the cost of producing sugar, the profits derived, capital invested and methods of growing and refining, were offered. Col. D. D. Colcock, on behalf of the Louisiana cane sugar growers, said that the methods by which the "trust" names the price which it would pay the grower were unfair and "damnable." Henry T. Oxnard, F. R. Hathaway, C. N. Smith, F. T. Scholes, G. W. McCormick and W. H. Baird, representing the beet sugar manufacturers of the west, asked that the present tariff be maintained, or if changed it be increased, claiming that the margin of profit on beet sugar was too small to permit of any competition with the foreign refiners.

Crookston People Give Credit Where Credit is Due

People of Crookston who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs and the only one that is backed by cures in Crookston. Here's Crookston testimony:

R. G. Burkhardt, bookkeeper, at Sheriff's office, and living at 309 Fifth St. E., Crookston, Minn., says: "It is with pleasure that I endorse Doan's Kidney Pills, which proved their remarkable value by removing pains of a rheumatic nature from my back and limbs. I was also greatly bothered with a weakness of the kidneys, the disordered condition of the secretions showed that the kidneys were at the seat of my trouble. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly recommended that I procured imediately and continued their use until the pains in my back disappeared. My present healthy condition attests to the sterling merits of Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

GREAT STOCK SHOW IS NOW UNDER WAY

NUMBER OF EXHIBITORS AT SOUTH ST. PAUL IS NEARLY DOUBLE THAT OF LAST YEAR—FEATURE IS ADDED — MONEY PRIZES ARE OFFERED IN THE JUDGING CONTESTS—SHOW TO CLOSE FRIDAY WITH AN AUCTION SALE

Half again as big as the show of 1907, the second annual live stock show given by the Northwestern Live Stock association opened yesterday at the Union stock yards, South St. Paul The number of exhibitors has almost doubled, the number of animals displayed has risen to 1,200 the sheep department has especially improved, and a creditable horse department has been added.

The need of enlarged quarters has distributed the show this year over a much wider area. The Horse Exchange, as the "main building," affords stalls for the more choice specimens of cattle and horses, besides providing in its pavilion a show ring well nigh double the size of the ring used a year ago. Two big tents, instead of one, have been erected behind the Horse Exchange—one for the sheep and the other for the swine. And at the right of the main entrance to the yards a number of pens have been set apart for the exhibition of cattle in carload lots.

From Minnesota and also from the surrounding states exhibitors have sent uniformly high-grade speciments of fat stock ready for the market—since this show, of course, is not concerned with breeding stock. Even after one year the influence of the South St. Paul display is apparent; proportionately more farmers have indicated a desire to put their best stock into the most attractive condition from the buyer's point of view.

The exhibition of hogs, sheep, cattle and horses is by no means the whole of the present show. During the four days scheduled there are to be contests wherein money-prizes for skill in stock-judging will be sought by students from agricultural colleges the contest being open to students from the colleges of Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Idaho, Montana, Washington and Manitoba. Demonstrations are given of judging in "regular exposition classes on foot" with cattle, sheep and swine. Carcass demonstration on cattle, sheep and swine are offered by experts. Lectures, often illustrated with stereopticon views or otherwise upon market types of live stock, breeds and breeding, feeds and feeding, and other subjects important to the Northwestern farmer, are tendered by men prominent in live stock circles, or in the work of agricultural colleges and experiment stations.

Until 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, when the show will end with an auction sale of stock, South St. Paul will have a festive air, with which the fine weather of the opening day has happily accorded. The Exchange building and the business structures around about have been decorated like the show buildings and show tents, with national flags and with bunting of red and white, the show colors. So brilliant is the red and white banner across the entrance street of the stock yards that the more masculine cattle passing beneath have been frequently overcome with a prodigious indignation.

Pink pigs, white pigs, black pigs and reddish-brown pigs, "lard" pigs and "bacon" pigs, adorn, frequently asleep, the swine department. The Yorkshires, the Berkshires and the Duroc-Jerseys are among the prominent families represented.

In the sheep department which is so much larger and more varied than it was a year ago, many of the friends of Little Mary were having their "hairs made" as German girls remark: to-wit, their fleece was being trimmed and brushed.

High Grade Sheep

The breeds on view included Lincolns, Hampshires, Leicester Cross, Shropshires and Oxford Downs. A trained shepherd dog was there looking intelligent enough for duty as a juror; together with a group of little shepherd dogs that barked a stern admonishment at every "ba-a."

Most of the select cattle in stalls were Shorthorns or pure-bred Angusites. In the pens where the carload lots were clustered Angus yearlings were visible, surprisingly brunette, with many Montana yearlings, "range bred and hay fed."

The great horses wearing ribbons and fancy straw garlands attached to their tails were mainly Belgian and French coach horses and Percheron. But a more dainty division included saddle horses and high school steeds.

The trees are large and have been in bearing for several years Mr. Wick takes them up with the earth adhering and will guarantee them to bear during the coming year. This is a lot better than waiting for years for them to come into fruitage.

PAT HUGHES STOPPED IT—Last evening the residents of Sampsons addition as they were returning to this side of the river after supper were furnished with considerable excitement for a time. Two men, one a big bruiser, and the other very much smaller, got into an altercation and finally began fighting, the small fellow pulling off his coat and wading in like a professional. About this time P. S. Hughes came along, pulled the beligerants apart, made the little fellow put on his coat and started them across the bridge. They did lots of talking later but did not come to blows.

BUSINESS DULL—There was little doing in municipal court this morning, Judge Gossman only being faced by two drunks. One was a farmer near the city arrested for racing his horse about the streets yesterday afternoon and was fined. The other was a lumber jack enroute to the woods and had no money. He was sent on his way rejoicing.

PRESIDENT VITTUM AT HIGH SCHOOL

ADDRESSED STUDENTS YESTERDAY ACCOMPANIED BY REV. C. C. WARNER

Tuesday morning President Vittum accompanied by Rev. C. C. Warner in a visit to the High School. After inspection of the various rooms and equipment including the Manual Training department, Dr. Vittum gave a splendid address to the school.

"What are you worth?" was his opening words. He showed the young folks that they were worth vastly more millions of money in their opportunities in life in the best age of the world.

He held up before them the attractiveness of the life of trained ability to "do things." Urging every youth to hold on to his course of study thru the high school he also strongly advised the effort to take advantage of offered college courses.

President Vittum was especially pleased at the Manual Training equipment and declared that he should go home and get himself one of the work benches used here.

Fargo College by the way is doing a fine work!

BARNESVILLE DRUGSTORE ROBBED

Some time last night Dr. Patterson's drug store on Front street at Barnesville was entered by a burglar or burglars and jewelry worth at least $150 and a valuable violin were stolen. The doctor's instrument case which he had left in his office in the rear of the store, had been emptied of its contents and taken, evidently to supply the burglar with handy means of making away with his booty. Entrance into the store was made by means of the basement door in the rear of the store and thence into the store proper by means of cutting a hole in the panel of the door leading into the store from the basement, in which the key had been left. Fortunately, however most of the valuable jewelry is always placed in the safe at night, so Mr. Burglar had to content himself with what he could find in the way of less valuable goods. Suspicion is strongly directed toward a young man who was in the store yesterday afternoon, who stood for some time at a show case near the door thru which entrance to the store was made, and wrote what he said was a letter to some member of his family. The police were notified as soon as the burglary was discovered and efforts are being made to locate the stranger answering to the description of the one who visited the store yesterday.

COUNCIL ESTABLISHED NEW BUSINESS RECORD

WADED THRU MUCH DETAILED WORK IN HALF AN HOUR—SEWER ASSESSMENTS PASSED AND DETAILS REGARDING BOND ISSUES ALL CONCLUDED—MRS. BERTHA BISHOP WANTS $1500 FOR PERSONAL INJURIES—ASSESSMENT ROLLS FOR SAMPSONS ADDITION APPROACHES PASSED

From Wednesday's Daily—

There was a regular adjourned meeting of the city council last evening and a new record for the quick dispatch of business was set. The council met at 8:30 and adjourned at 9 o'clock, being in session just a half hour. The machinery was well greased, however, the work in hand had all been gone over in the committee rooms, and when the council was rapped to order by President Snyder, City Clerk Childs just turned the crank till the business hopper was ended, everything going thru by a unanimous vote.

Aldermen present, Snyder, Christianson, Wright, Hughes, Sargent, Stainbrook and Hussey, Ald. absent, Zerracher.

Third Street Sewer Cost

A report was received from City Engineer Carroll in which he estimated the cost of completing the Third street sewer outlet in detail, and the total cost he estimated would be $2477.02. This is in addition to $3157 already expended.

Engineer Carroll also estimated that the total expenditures of sewer district No. 1 for the coming year would be $5957.33. Both reports were placed on file for future consideration

Assessment Rolls Adopted

The report of the viewers of the new Sampson's addition bridge approaches containing the assessments for damages was accepted, the assessment rolls adopted as submitted and the tax formally levied.

Bond Business Wound Up

A communication was received from U. M. Stoddard & Co., of Minneapolis who were awarded the recent city hall and Sampsons Addition Bridge bonds asking for the passage of a resolution authorizing the bond issue and prescribing the wording of the bonds and the interest coupons was passed unanimously and the money will soon be available.

Mrs. Streeter Protests

A communication was received from Mrs. J. A. Streeter who resides on Bridge Street, Jeromes addition, protesting against the decision of the council to have that street graded, gravelled and curbed with artificial stone. She stated that last May she put in good substantial plank curbing and deemed it an injustice that 6 months later action should be taken to have this replaced. The communication was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

Wants $1500 Damages

A formal demand was made in a communication, for $1500 damages by Mrs. Martha Bishop, mother of Mrs. Gene Snyder of South Crookston She claims that on Oct. 22, 1908 on South Main street near the intersection of Pleasant Ave and adjoining a shed of the Crookston Lumber Co., she stepped on a rotten plank in the sidewalk and sustained a fall from which resulted serious injuries. W. E. Rowe is her attorney. The claim was referred to the litigation committee.

Sewer Levies Passed

The sewer levies for the sewer districts which contemplate work next year were passed as follows:

District No. 1, $5957.33; No. 2, $600; No. 8, $1552.05; No. 9 $600.

The assessment rolls were also passed for artificial stone sidewalks and curbing on portions of Bertha street and College avenue. The council then adjourned to the next regular meeting in December.

S'GSTAD WANTS SUGGESTIONS

THANKS VOTERS FOR SPLENDID SUPPORT RECEIVED AT THE ELECTION

PLEDGES HIMSELF TO REPRESENT CONSTITUENTS HONESTLY AND FEARLESSLY

From Wednesday's Daily—

The following communication has been received from Representative John Saugstad, who was recently reelected to serve a second term:

To the Voters of Polk county:—Greeting!

Having received my official notification of election I wish to extend through the "Journal" my sincere thanks to all my supporters during the past campaign for the splendid assistence rendered me.

I am pleased and proud of the support received and in return have but one thing to offer as your compensation: My very best endeavor to represent you honestly, fairly and fearlessly during my entire term of office. My every aim shall be to do my duty at all times as I shall find and understand it. I now solicit your suggestions as to legislative matters. Write to me in your own words on any matter you may please and I shall give it my full attention.

I am your servant,

—John Saugstad.

WILL LOCATE IN CROOKSTON

TWO ILLINOIS MEN VERY MUCH PLEASED WITH THIS CITY AND VALLEY

J. B. Russell of Roseville, Ill., is spending a few days here attending to some business with Atty. H. W. Stark in the real estate line. Mr. Russell has made several visits to Crookston in the past and is very much pleased with Crookston and the surrounding country. He is contemplating locating in this city permanently in the near future.

E. E. Brunelle, also of Roseville, is in Crookston also. He has some real estate holdings in Kittson County and thinks the Red River Valley is the most healthful place he ever struck and will shortly move to Crookston to make his permanent home.

The day dreamer is sure to attract attention—when he snores.

GRAND FORKS STREET RY. CO.

TENTATIVE ORGANIZATION MADE A FACT AT MEETING HELD AT FORKS

RAILWAY WILL BE CAPITALIZED AT $150,000 — MEAN BUSINESS

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

The Grand Forks Street Railway company, which has had but a tentative existence through the various stages of its development up to the present time, assumed an organized form and was duly christened under the above name as the result of a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of the subscribers to the capital stock which was held at the Commercial club rooms at Grand Forks last evening. It was decided to incorporate with an authorized capital of one hundred fifty thousand with a temporary board of directors for incorporation purposes, and at a later meeting of the stockholders a permanent board of eleven directors will be provided for and the organization duly completed by the directors. R. B. Griffith officiated as chairman and O. A. Webster as secretary. Various details of the proposed organization were discussed at length and from various view points in the fullest and freest manner, and the action taken as to each was practically unanimous.

CON. FINALLY FOUND HIS BONNET

A well known conductor who arrived in the city last evening from his run discovered when he went to change his uniform as a disciple of Jim Hill to that of an ordinary taxpayer, that some accommodating passenger had helped himself to the conductor's taxpaying hat. Summoning Capt Vonderbeck a search was made about the city to locate the missing lid. Finally the sky-piece was discovered on the head of a passenger who had come in on the train. The conductor was with difficulty restrained from giving the offender a few decorations but the hat was recovered forthwith and the wearer was forced to enter a store and get a new one. The funny part of it was that the conductor was making the search with Capt. Vonderbeck, bareheaded.

HERE FROM CLIMAX—Ole Estenson, one of the old time and well known residents of Climax spent yesterday in the city and after attending to some business matters at the court house called on many of his friends.

LEFT FOR WEST—Rev. A. Fladberg, who has been holding special meetings at the City Mission has left for points west where he will continue in the same line of work. He was greeted by large crowds here and did a great amount of good.

MORE HUNTERS—The Cass Lake train this morning carried several more delegations of hunters to the tall timber where they will spend a few weeks either waiting for, or shooting deer and moose.

"SINGERS" GOING EAST—Wm. Emmerich, manager of the Singer Sewing Machine Company's office in this city left this morning for Mentor and Erskine and music should be heard from that direction soon.

THOROBRED STOCK—This morning a shipment of thorobred stock passed thru the city from Iowa to Greenbush. This is getting to be almost a daily occurrence and it shows that the people of this section of the country are awakening to the fact that the best is none too good.

HERE FROM ANGUS—Clyde Goodwin and Jos. Goudette arrived in the city last evening from Angus. The latter will spend the winter on the D. H. Miller farm and will devote special attention to a $200 bird dog that this year only managed to point one gopher and a skunk. But it was a $200 dog just the same, and Pete Cram will swear to it.

BUSINESS EXCELLENT—Lenus Johnson, the well known liveryman from Beltrami was here a few days ago on business and reports that business is the best this fall that it has been for a number of years. He is kept busy all the time—one reason being that he takes good care of his patrons and is very popular among the traveling men.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED—The new Methodist Episcopal church at Detroit, Minn., which has just been completed at a cost of $13,000, was dedicated Sunday. The dedication services were in charge of Rev. A. H. Parr, who has dedicated more churches than any other man in America, and he was assisted by Rev. A. H. Wilcox the local pastor, Rev. A. H. McKee of Fergus Falls, district superintendent for the district, and a number of others. The sum of $5,000 was raised which clears the church of debt and leaves a balance in the treasury.

ADA DAIRY MEET—Thru efforts of Adolph Steensgaard, buttermaker at the Ada creamery, a meeting for dairymen has been arranged for Saturday of this weeek to be held at the city hall in Ada, commencing at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Speakers of state and national reputation will be present and deliver addresses and considerable local talent will be contributed. The following speakers will take part in the program: O. A. Storvick, state dairy inspector. J. C. Joslyn who is connected with the dairy division of the department of Agriculture at Washington. M. J. Cort the well known dairyman who is especially acquainted with conditions in the Northwest.

THREE OPERATIONS—Mrs. Chas. O. Kankel who has been at a Minneapolis hospital for several weeks and underwent three operations, arrived here Wednesday to remain a few days to rest before proceeding to her home at Terrebonne—Fertile Journal.

SENATOR ON A HUNT—State Senator S. D. Works of Mankato came in yesterday forenoon from Crookston where he has invested quite a sum in Red River Valley "dirt". Senator Works is "some hunter" and he went north last night to try his "trusty rifle" at the headwaters of the Tamarac river.—Bemidji Pioneer.

IS WELL PLEASED—Marius Christianson the newly elected county commissioner of this district, is in town today. Mr. Christianson is well pleased with the vote he received in the district, getting a good majority over his two opponents and especially well pleased with the vote received in Fertile. He requests the Journal to extend his thanks to the voters of the district for the confidence bestowed in him.—Fertile Journal.

ANGUS MERCHANT HERE—J. F. Montgomery, the Angus merchant was an arrival in the city last evening, returning home this morning. He wanted to beat the passenger to the city last evening and started down on a freight train. He got here just 5 minutes before the passenger arrived and was three hours on the way. Any one looking for a scrap might just remind him of the incident and there will be plenty of trouble.

MEN FOR GREENBUSH—Phil Dorsey, one of the best known hotel clerks in the Northwest who is now in the employment agency business went to Roseau yesterday with a bunch of men for the work there. Scores of men are being hired for the work there every day, and scores more are quiting for some reason or other, the trains both ways being loaded.

WELL KNOWN HERE—John Morrison, Sr., the "sage of Red Lake" came down yesterday forenoon from his home and spent several hours here on a combined business and pleasure trip, and returned to his home in the afternoon. Mr. Morrison conducts a fine stopping place at the Red Lake agency, where he has resided for many years, and where he commands the greatest respect, from red men and white men alike.—Bemidji Pioneer.

RALPH LYCAN RECOVERING—Ralph Lycan who has been confined to St. Anthony's hospital with typhoid fever for several weeks is improving and will soon be able to be out of the sick room. For the past four days, Ralph has been practically free from the fever, and he will tomorrow take the first form of solid nourishment which has been administered to him since he was taken ill.—Bemidji Pioneer.

HERE FROM ADA—Fred Betcher, one of the well known residents of Ada is spending the day in the city and expects to return home this evening if he gets all his business disposed of.

PLUMMER RESIDENTS—Lars Klov and Ed. Anderson of Plummer, well known threshers of that section arrived in the city last evening and are doing business with N. P. Stone & Co.

KILLED HIS HORSES—R. E. White of Davidson was a visitor in the city yesterday morning. White recently had eleven of his horses killed by the state veterinary on the ground that the ywere afflicted with glanders.

AUDITOR HERE—Daniel W. Eastman auditor for the Hamm Brewing Co., is spending the week in the city at the local branch. Mr. Eastman says that Crookston is one of the prettiest cities that he makes and that there seems to be a good degree of prosperity here.

CLOTHING MAN HERE—E. T. Winship, the well known representative of Hart Schaffner and Marx, the great clothing monufacturers is spending the day in the city with J. H. Ruettell who is making his usual semi-annual purchases. Mr. Ruettell looks for a bigger business the coming season than ever before and as a result his purchases are heavier than ever before. Mr. Winship always has a good word for Crookston.

An Enthusiastic Customer

Told her grocer that if he refused to handle "OUR-PIE" Preparation she would trade elsewhere. She knew she could make Lemon, Chocolate and Custard pies better than the expert cook if she used "OUR-PIE" as all the ingredients, carefully prepared, are in the package ready for immediate use. Each package, enough for two large pies, 10 cents. Order a dozen today from your grocer. Excellent also as a pudding sauce, cake filling, etc.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 4:39, rises 6:43; moon rises 10:13 p. m.; planet Mercury visible low in east before sunrise.

It's worth while asking for "Hickory" Brand Rubbers and Overshoes. They are long wearing—always giving satisfaction. Ask your dealer. St. Paul Rubber Co. Distributors.

Agents wanted to sell Baker Rope Buckles and Halter Ties. Big Seller. Write today for full particulars. Folts Baker Mfg. Co. Minneapolis, Minn.

ENROUTE TO IOWA—Frank Ashley, of Estherville, Iowa, spent the night in the city enroute from Deering N. D., a small town on the Granville branch, to his home. He was very much pleased with Crookston and thinks this is about as fine a city as he has ever struck in his travels.

JUDGE SHULAND HERE—Judge A. G. Shuland of Mohnamen was an arrival in the city this morning and will spend Sunday with his mother, who is also the mother of Mrs. Louis Berquist. Judge Shuland is an old Crookston boy and has a host of friends here who will enjoy his visit.

AFTER JURORS—Deputy Sheriff Orin Daniels left this morning for E. Grand Forks with a bunch of subpoenas for jurors for the next term of court. He expected to return this evening.

UP NORTH LINE—G. Fitzgerald left this morning for Warren, Stephens and Argyle where he will make a deposit of a few thousand Preferencias and other brands which he disposes of, and will return home this evening. Business has been so good of late that "Fitz" has a brand new sample case, full leather and a yard wide.

HUNTING IS GOOD—Geo. Heath, the veteran travelling salesman returned this morning from a trip to White Earth. He says the Hunters are reporting good deer shooting in that section, several of the hunters having killed their full limit already.

TRAINS WERE LATE—The trains this morning were all a few minutes behind time. The St. Paul train was delayed between here and Ada by a punk engine, the other trains having been delayed a few minutes from the fact that the heavy fog this morning made special precautions necessary.

FOURTEEN NEW CITIZENS—Before Judge Watts this week, fourteen persons were granted citizenship as prayed for in their petitions. They were Frank A. Bourque, Andrew Carlson, Ed Nilson, Sywert H. Haugo, B. Dan Bjonkman, Anne Olson, Knut Anderson, Olaus J. Hole, Jens Smeland, Gunder J. Langnak, Sivert Benson, Steffen Jacobsen, Abbie L. Irwin and Dreng A. Rikje.

AFTER BIG GAME—Conductors Steve Withey and Billy Clark left this morning on the G. N. Flyer for Roosevelt from where they will hike to the tall timber and shoot a few deer and moose. There is no question but what they will return with something, as it is reported that they have had agents in that section for weeks endeavoring to lassoo some choice specimens and chain them to trees for their special benefit.

THE DISTRICT COURT GRIND

MANY OF THE CASES SETTLED—JURORS DISCHARGED UNTIL MONDAY

AT RED LAKE COUNTY TERM—MANY OF THE CASES WERE SETTLED

From Saturday's Daily—

Judge Watts, presiding at the fall term of the district court at Red Lake Falls on Wednesday suspended the session of court until next Monday and allowed the petit jurors to go to their respective homes. The settling of many cases outside of court was responsible for this move.

The grand jury finished their labors early in the week after returning indictments against Dr. August Grunard for criminal practice; Robt. Kolseth on a charge of horse stealing and against the keepers of the houses of ill-fame in Thief River Falls.

The civil cases so far disposed of are:

G. Somers & Co., vs. B. J. Bakke, judgment stipulated in favor of the plaintiff.

Harm & Oeschger vs. Andy Erickson, continued.

City of Thief River Falls vs. Val Yeager, charged with selling liquor to minors, dismissed, the court holding the city ordinance unconstitutional. On the same charge John Vorachek paid his fine voluntarily.

The case against Policeman Frank Chittick was dismissed. Thrush vs. Newbery & Bullman was settled and of A. D. Brown vs. Rothston continued.

A new venire of eight jurymen was drawn, the men to make their appearance Monday next.

The case of Ole B. Omlid vs. Frank A. Zavoral which was appealed from a justice court by the defendant was dismissed by the court, the appellant failing to prosecute the appeal.

The county seat case will come up for trial by jury on the 18th inst.

State of Minnesota vs. M. O. Sortedahl, et al., doing business as the Bank of Red Lake Falls, in proceedings to enforce personal property taxes came on trial and the taxes were reduced from $195.92 to $49.99 by order of the court.

CEANING UP PROSECUTIONS

E. B. HEIBERG HAS SEVERAL LEFT IN THIS SECTION OF THE STATE

SAYS VIOLATIONS ARE NOT NEARLY AS FREQUENT AS FORMERLY

State Pure Food Inspector E. B. Heiberg who arrived in the city this morning from Duluth, fresh from new glories earned near Grand Marais where he shot two bear and a deer, one of the finest bucks seen in recent years, will remain in this section for several days. He has prosecutions here, at McIntosh, East Grand Forks and several other places, but none of them are of a serious character, most of them being cases where the wholesale houses are the real culprits and will pay the fiddler.

Mr. Heiberg says that violations of the law in this section are growing fewer and fewer, and he is highly gratified with the manner in which he has been assisted by the dealers themselves in an attempt to strictly enforce the pure food laws.

LARGE CROWD IN CITY—Judging from the number of farm wagons and buggies around S. L. Collins' Livery stable early this forenoon, the merchants of Crookston must be doing some business. Farmers drove in from all directions, and the other barns also had their quota of teams. Many of the farmers brought in a large amount of produce.

DEATH CAME YESTERDAY—Casper Krause, 54 years old, residing at 710 Pine street, died yesterday He leaves a wife and six children. The funeral will take place from the family residence Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

SAWMILL BURNED—The sawmill belonging to M. A. Olds in the town of Friberg near Fergus Falls was destroyed by fire about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. George L. Nichols, was driving by at the time and discovered the smoke and proceeded to investigate. They found the building burning and got out the saws and some other articles, and by the liberal use of water from a flowing well, succeeded in preventing the flames from spreading beyond the limits of the mill. The building itself was burned however. The mill was not in operation at the time, and there is no clue to the origin of the fire. Mr. Olds was not at home, being a member of the grand jury in the district court, in Fergus Falls.

PLUMMER BANK CHANGES HANDS

CHANGE IN CONTROL OF THE FIRST STATE BANK OF PLUMMER

TOUPIN AND DUFFY PURCHASED SIMONS AND BOURDON INTEREST

From Saturday's Daily—

A deal has been completed whereby the control of the First State Bank of Plummer passed into the hands of A. P. Toupin and J. A. Duffy president and cashier, respectively of the Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls These gentlemen purchasel the interests of L. C. Simons of St. Paul and C. N. Bourdon of Red Lake Falls.

Messrs. Toupin and Duffy are solid capable business men and there is no doubt that the Plummer bank will have the confidence of the business people of Plummer and the farmers tributary to that village.

FIVE MORE ACCUSED

DEPUTY GAME WARDEN WM. F. MUNCH RETURNS FROM RED LAKE

HE HAS FIVE CASES FOR VIOLATIONS OF GAME LAWS TRIED LATER

From Saturday's Daily—

Deputy Game Warden Wm. Munch of this city, who has made such a splendid record during the past season returned home this morning from a trip to Red Lake Falls where he made five arrests the hearings to be held later on.

The arrests were all for violations of the game laws of the state which Warden Munch has succeeded splendidly thus far in enforcing. His activity has been most commendable, and he is receiving the support of every true sportsman in northern Minnesota There are those who will criticise any officer of the law when their own toes are pinched, but the fearless and absolutely unbiased course of Warden Munch has been such as to elicit the general praise of all those who want to see the game of Minnesota protected and see the laws enforced regardless of whom be hit.

HILLIGOS TOOK BATH

GREAT NORTHERN CONDUCTOR VICTIM OF ACCIDENT AT BAGLEY YESTERDAY

WENT TO CREEK TO GET PAIL OF WATER AND SLIPPED IN ALL OVER

From Saturday's Daily—

Conductor Hilligos, who runs on the Cass Lake line took a bath yesterday at Bagley, and he is not telling about it either. It seems that he left the caboose with a pail to get some water from the river.

As he stooped to fill the bucket his feet slipped and into the creek he went, going under head and all. Being a good swimmer he soon scrambled out, but every stitch of clothing was soaked and as the icy water was not exactly what he was used to, he hustled back to the caboose and on the trip in was in partial dishabille hugging the hot stove and yelling for more steam.

An English Author Wrote:

"No shade, no shine, no fruit, no flowers, no leaves,—November!" Many Americans would add no freedom from catarrh, which is so aggravated during this month that it becomes constantly troublesome. There is abundant proof that catarrh is a constitutional disease. It is related to scrofula and consumption, being one of the wasting diseases. Hood's Sarsaparilla has shown that what is capable of eradicating scrofula, completely cures catarrh, and taken in time prevents consumption. We cannot see how any sufferer can put off taking this medicine, in view of the widely published record of its radical and permanent cures. It is undoubtedly America's Greatest Medicine for America's Greatest Disease—Catarrh.

BACK FROM CHICAGO—Dr. Dryden returned this morning from Chicago where he went with Dr. J. S. Chapin, and took the later train for Euclid where he went to take care of his practice. He says that Dr. Chapin is doing well, and he expects to see him about as usual in a few weeks tho his condition was alarming when he was taken south.

INSTANT RELIEF OF ITCHING HUMOR

Limbs Below the Knees Were Raw—Feet Too Swollen to Get Shoes On—Sleep Completely Broken by Intense Itching and Burning—Well in Two Days and Says That

CUTICURA IS AMONG HIS HOUSEHOLD GODS

"God bless the man who first compounded Cuticura. Some two months ago I had a humor break out on my limbs below my knees. They came to look like raw beefsteak, all red, and no one knows how they itched and burned. They were so swollen that I had to split my drawers open to get them on and could not get my shoes on for a week or more. I used five or six different remedies and got no help, only when applying them the burning was worse and the itching less. One morning I remembered that I had a bit of Cuticura and tried it. From the moment it touched me the itching was gone and I have not felt a bit of it since. The swelling went down and in two days I had my shoes on and was about as usual. I only wish I had used the Cuticura Remedies in the first of my troubles. They would have saved me two or three weeks of intense suffering. During that time I did not sleep an hour at a time, but was up applying such remedies as I had. Henceforth the Cuticura Remedies will be among my household gods, rest assured. George B. Farley, 50 South State St., Concord, N. H., May 14, 1907."

MALVIN GETS THE MONEY

RED LAKE FALLS CREAMERYMAN CARRIES OFF FIRST PRIZE AT ST. HILAIRE

HIS BUTTER WAS THE BEST OF TWENTY-NINE ENTRIES—IT SCORED 95

P. L. Malvin, manager of the Red Lake Falls creamery can make "smer" all right. A little while ago he carried off second prize in the state butter scoring contest his score at that time being just one-half point less than that of the man who got first place.

This week he won new honors—first prize in the contest conducted at the Red River Valley Dairymen's Convention at St. Hilaire yesterday and today. There were twenty-nine contestants and Malvin's score is 95 The prize is fifteen dollars.

Among the prominent men in attendance were. Prof. Haecker of the State Agricultural school; E. K. Slater, of the State Dairy and Food Commission; John Farrel of Carver, President of the National Buttermakers' Association; Superintendent A. D. Wilson of the Minnesota Farmers' Institute; Wm. F. Shilling, editor of the Northfield News and a prominent dairymen of southern Minnesota.

HUNTERS ARE RETURNING

SOME OF THEM ARE SUCCESSFUL—OTHERS ARE NOT SO MUCH SO

Hunters are beginning to return from the northern woods, some of them successful, others with little or nothing to show for their trip.

E. B. Heiberg, state food inspector arrived from Duluth, this morning, after a hunt on the Grand Marais for four days, with a deer and two large bears, which were the result of his hunting trip to the north shore which he sent to St. Paul.

The Duluth Herald says: "Mr. Heiberg's friends are uncharitable enough to say that the bears were tame ones which had been in captivity for some time, and whose owners wished to be rid of them. But at any rate Mr. Heiberg has the bears as proof of his prowess with the rifle and also the deer which nobody claims was tame."

Mr. Heiberg brands this story as false.

And the woman who looks as tho she had a secret sorrow is always interesting—until she begins to turn it loose.

WHIRRY LEASES LOCAL CREAMERY

HAS BEEN BUTTER MAKER HERE FOR A LONG TIME AND IS A GOOD ONE

WILL GO AFTER THE BUSINESS FOR CROOKSTON PLANT VIGOROUSLY

From Tuesday's Daily—

F. S. Whirry who has been manager and buttermaker for the Crookston Creamery for a long time past, has completed a deal for the lease of the creamery for a year, and will in the future operate the creamery according to his personal judgment in all things.

Mr. Whirry is one of the leading butter makers in the valley and has always been successful. He intends going after the business for the Crookston plant vigorously and there is no question but what the local plant will be more successful than ever before.

LANDSEEKERS ENTHUSIASTIC

THINK RED RIVER VALLEY WEATHER THE BEST THEY EVER STRUCK

SAYS THIS SECTION CAN PRE-EMPT ITS CLAIM TO BANANA BELT

R. H. Purvis was an arrival this morning from Minneapolis with two prospective land buyers and will remain here for a couple of days. One of the land seekers happened to accost a Journal representative and queried:

"Is this weather made to order just for our special benefit because we are land seekers, or is it such a sample as may be expected?"

He was informed that this was regular November weather and that frequently it continued until the first of the year and sometimes later.

"Well," said he, "I want to tell you one thing, that this is the swellest sample of the work of the weather man that we have experienced in our travels. The Red River Valley seems to be specially favored and you have good reason to feel proud of your locality. All is necessary to settle up this section of the country is to show the land and let land seekers feel the weather."

WINDING UP DITCH WORK

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS MAKING FINAL INSPECTION OF DITCHES FOR YEAR

WEATHER IDEAL AND GIVES A CHANCE FOR A MOST THORO VIEWING

From Tuesday's Daily—

County Commissioners Clements, Eklund and Thoreson left this morning for Mallory where they were joined by Commissioner Driscoll and spent the day inspecting the ditch near that place which was dug by Contractor Geo. Coulter and recently completed.

They will return this evening and tomorrow will inspect Ditch No. 60 at the State Experimental Farm, recently completed by Contractor John Wyand providing the engineer, Geo A. Ralph is in the city as expected.

The commissioners have one or two other ditches to inspect before concluding that branch of their work this fall, and are pleased that the weather is so fine permitting a very thoro investigation of the work, there being no snow.

My Hair is Extra Long

Feed your hair; nourish it; give it something to live on. Then it will stop falling, and will grow long and heavy. Ayer's Hair Vigor is the only hair-food you can buy. For 60 years it has been doing just what we claim it will do. It will not disappoint you.

"My hair used to be very short. But after using Ayer's Hair Vigor a short time it began to grow, and now it is fourteen inches long. This seems a splendid result to me after being almost without any hair."—MRS. J. H. FIFER, Colorado Springs, Colo.

HENDERSON FAMILY BURNED

BROTHER-IN-LAW OF GODFRIED WAGNER AND FAMILY VICTIM OF FIRE

WAGNER FAMILY SUROUNDED BY FOREST BLAZE AND HAD NARROW ESCAPE

From Monday's Daily—

The report which the Journal received last Friday to the effect that Mr. and Mrs. Gotfried Wagner, who formerly resided on the Walter Latta farm near this city had been cremated with their children in a terrible forest fire near Sheboygan, Wis., was incorrect. Their home was surrounded by fire and they had a desperate fight to save their lives.

Further information shows that it was Chas. Henderson, a brother-in-law of Mr. Wagner, who with his wife and children perished in the same fire, they residing a short distance from the Wagners.

This will be equally sad news as the Hendersons formerly resided near Crookston, and Mrs. Henderson was formerly a Miss Tanner of Fisher. The family had many friends to whom this tragic news will come as a sad blow.

RAISED SOME PRIZE HOGS

JOHN SYLVESTERSON MARKETED FOUR SATURDAY WHICH DRESSED 779 POUNDS

THEY WERE A LITTLE OVER 8 MONTHS OLD—THREE BROUGHT $54.43

From Monday's Daily—

Farmers who are getting into the proper breeds of hogs are rapidly demonstrating that nowhere on the face of the earth can better hogs be raised or with greater profit than right here in the Red River Valley.

As an illustration, John Sylvesterson, a farmer residing a few miles from the city, Saturday sold three hogs to Nels Anderson, the South Main street butcher. There were just a little over 8 months old, and weighed 779. They brought the neat sum of $54.43.

They were magnificent specimens of the English Berkshire breed, and averaged 260 apiece at about 8 months old, and it would be a pretty hard matter to go anywhere and find a better record. Mr. Sylvesterson has been in the thorobred hog business now for several years, and others are rapidly getting into good breeds as they learn the wonderful difference there is between the profit on a scrub and a thorobred porker.

FORMER RESIDENT OF CROOKSTON

MRS. JAMES WARING DIES IN A HOSPITAL AT ROCHESTER

Milton Globe: The death of Mrs. James Waring occurred at the hospital in Rochester, Minn., last Thursday afternoon. Altho not entirely unexpected the news came as a shock to the relatives and friends of the deceased. Being notified of her serious illness, the family started for Rochester on Thursday afternoon's train, but got only as far as Park River when a telegram was received conveying the sad news of her death.

The funeral was conducted from the Wroolie residence in this city on Tuesday afternoon to the Lutheran church, where Rev. Myers preached an impressive sermon. The numerous floral tributes and large concourse of sorrowing friends gave evidence of high esteem in which deceased was held by the community. The body was laid to rest in the Odd Fellows' cemetery north of Milton.

Mrs. Waring was born in Telemarken, Norway, and emigrated with her parents to this country when a young girl, settling on a homestead in southern Minnesota.

In the early seventies she moved west with her husband locating at Crookston which was then a mere village. Later the family moved to Grand Forks where they lived until about eight years ago, when they came to Cavalier county and have since made their home on the Johnson & Wroolie farm in Osford township.

Deceased was loved and respected by all who knew her and the kindly hospitality of the Waring home was a household word in the neighborhood. Deceased leaves to mourn her death a husband and five children, namely, Mabel, Hilda, Mrs. Bliven, Charlie and Angie.

When misfortune overtakes a hustler it knows it has been in a race.

KILLED SIX FINE DEER

C. C. HOCH AND WILEY PHILLIPS RETURN FROM SWAN RIVER FROM HUNT

BROUGHT MAGNIFICENT BUCK WITH THEM WHICH DRESSED OVER 200 POUNDS

From Tuesday's Daily—

The hunters are beginning to straggle in from the big game preserves and are reporting varied success. C. C. Hoch and Wiley Phillips who have been located near Swan River returned last evening and their party including A. C. and Harry Schmidt had six fine deer to their credit, one being a magnificent buck weighing over 200 pounds dressed. They report more deer than they have ever seen near Swan River. Thick underbrush however, and lack of snow makes it hard to get at them.

Newbery Brothers, Jas. E. O'Brien and party returned last evening from International Falls where they have been since the 10th and failed to get anything.

None of the Crookston hunters had heard of any fatalities among the hunters in the districts where they were, and are of the opinion that more care is being exercised this year on account of the long list of accidents a year ago.

The Phillip, Hoch, Schmidt party will return to their private preserves again later on and fill their tickets. They have the swellest camp, so it is claimed, in northern Minnesota and seem to be able to land the game.

C. M. Graves and son returned Saturday evening from north of Bemidji where they killed one deer, a bear, a pheasant and a crow. The fact that they landed some big game made their hunt a most satisfactory one.

MRS. HILLYER BADLY BURNED

FORMER MOORHEAD WOMAN ESCAPES FROM NEAR-FATAL ACCIDENT

DURING ENTERTAINMENT AT HOME OF PRESIDENT OF MAYVILLE NORMAL SCHOOL

From Monday's Daily—

News of a near fatal accident to Mrs. T. A. Hillyer, wife of President of the Mayville normal, formerly professor at the Moorhead normal was received in Fargo and Moorhead yesterday by friends of the victim. The accident occurred at an elaborate function at the Hillyer home where members af the faculty of the normal and city schools were entertained. A profusion of candles were used in the decorations and it was when one of these overturned that the clothing of Mrs. Hillyer caught fire. In extinguishing the flames Professor Thompson suffered severely burned hands.

SISTERS REFUSE TO TAKE DARE

AND DOUBLE WEDDING MAKES FOUR PEOPLE HAPPY IN SHORT ORDER

As a result of a dare, Oacama, S. D., was the scene of a romantic double wedding after a midnight journey of the principals from the extreme southern part of Lyman county to the county seat at Oacama. The principals were Geo. Sweet, of Gregory, and Miss Minnie Austin, and Guy Stearns of Ottumwa, and Miss Sadie Austin. The brides are sisters and the grooms are cousins. The two young men were visiting the sisters and made the daring jest that the sisters had not the nerve to accompany them to the county seat at once and be married. The sisters accepted the dare and the four started on their long journey to Oacama, arriving there at 3 a. m. The services of Rev. N. H. May were secured and the marriage ceremony performed.

HOLD UP PROVED A DRUNKEN ROW

Last evening there were riotous doings for a time on Gorgas Avenue. Ole Bernison was accosted by Will Wagner and ordered to throw up his hands and divide up his "pot." Ole threw up his hands all right but brought them down on Bagner's neck and the two engaged in a fistic encounter. Men nearby rushed to the scene and separated them. The police was called and Capt. Vonderbeck placed them both under arrest. It proved but a drunken squabble but Wagner was given 30 days in jail this morning for being drunk and disorderly by Judge Gossman in municipal court.

Both men are strangers in the city.

BEST TIME TO TAKE

DIRECTIONS TO PREPARE A SIMPLE MIXTURE—GIVES DOSE TO TAKE

TELLS YOU HOW TO OVERCOME RHEUMATISM WITH SIMPLE RECIPE

A well-known authority on Rheumatism gives the following valuable tho simple and harmless, prescription, which any one can easily prepare at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost and, being of vegetable extraction, are harmless to take.

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of Rheumatism. The pain and swelling, if any, diminishes with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies patent medicines, etc., some of which do give relief, few really give permanent results, and the above will, no doubt, be greatly appreciated by many sufferers here at this time.

Inquiry at the drug stores of this neighborhood elicits the information that these drugs are harmless and can be bought separately, or the druggists here will mix the prescription for our readers if asked to.

THOUGHT HE WAS DIVORCED

MAN CHARGED WITH HAVING TWO WIVES; ONE IN DULUTH —WOOED SECOND

WIFE IN CROOKSTON MARRIAGE BEING PERFORMED IN MINNEAPOLIS

From Monday's Daily—

Charged with bigamy David Gray, was arrested by detectives in Minneapolis Sunday. Gray is said to have a wife and a 14-year old daughter in Duluth and another wife and a 3-months' old baby girl in Minneapolis.

Gray admits that he once had another wife, but claims he thought he had secured a divorce from her some time ago. He says he gave a Duluth lawyer $10 for a divorce and that the attorney then handed him a receipt and told him he was a free man. He does not remember the attorney's name.

The story Gray tells is that he married Mrs. Gray No. 1 at Faribault, his old home in 1894. From there the couple went to Scanlon, Minn., where Gray had a small farm well stocked.

Owing however to a scarcity of work in the vicinity he was forced to seek employment in another town While he wa sabsent his wife became enamored of a boarder, who was stopping with them and the couple left for parts unknown, taking Gray's then infant daughter with them.

Since that time Grays says he has not heard from his first wife. Finally he went to Duluth and secured what he thought was a divorce from her. Then he journeyed to Crookston, where he met and wooed and won Miss Olive Hamilton. Later he went to Minneapolis the girl followed and they were married in the courthouse on July 15 last.

Mrs. Gray No. 2 was first informed of her husband's plight thru a telephone message last night.

BIG RAILROAD MAGNATES

Enroute east after having inspected their holding on the Pacific coast, a party of notable railroad officials passed thru Crookston Saturday night enroute to St. Paul. Among the party was James J. Hill and Louis Hill of the Great Northern; Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific; Geo. T. Slade general manager and J. W. Woodward traffic manager; Geo. B. Harris, president and James Miller traffic manager of the Burlington.

INSTALLATION VERY IMPRESSIVE

From Tuesday's Daily—

The Council for the Installation of Rev. C. C. Warner is holding its sessions today. A representative attendance of clergymen and delegates from neighboring churches is present including the Rev. R. A. Beard Rev. G. J. Powell, Rev. E. H. Stickney and President Vitum, of Fargo, Rev. J. H. Batten and Jas. Twambley Esq., of Grand Forks, Rev. G. A. Traut of Moorhead, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Hampson and Rev. and Mrs. Henry Symons of Ada, Rev. and Mrs. Edmund Larke of Bagley, Rev. T. W. Barbour, Cass Lake, Rev. E. A. Mirick, McIntosh and Rev. Mr. Hawkes of Glyndon, with Rev. Dr. Merrill of Minneapolis who arrives at 4:41 today for the evening session.

At 10::30 a Fellowship Meeting was held. Topics of interest to the visitors were discussed including the missionary work of the denomination, the Laymen's Movement, Fargo College and the like.

The Council proper convened at 2:30 at the Congregational church. Rev. G. A. Traut, Moorhead, was chosen Moderator and Mr. Andrews, of Ada, Socribe. After making out the roll the proceedings of the church in calling its pastor and the acceptance of that call were introduced. The ministerial credentials of the ccandidate were presented, namely his letter of dismission from Webster City Association, Iowa, to the Northern Pacific Conference of Congregational churches, and copies of resolutions passed by the Association and the Eldora church. The latter reads as follows:

"Resolution—That we recognize in Rev. Charles C. Warner, a preacher of unusual power, thoroly trained for his work; a man of great force of character, devoted to the interests of his church, and to the welfare of the kingdom of God in the community; of a very kindly Christian spirit, upright and straight in all his dealings in our town; that our most hearty good wishes for his prosperity and usefulness go with him to his new parish."

That from the Iowa Association reads:

Resolution—That the W. C. Association loses thru Brother Warner's removal a most valued member and a brother beloved.

Resolution—That we consider the most faithful way in which Brother Warner executed the arduous duties devolving upon him as Registrar of this Association and his assiduity in attending its sessions worthy of the imitation of all officers and members of the Association. We congratulate the Northern Pacific Conference of Congregational Churches and Ministers on their acquisition of so efficient and valuable a worker."

The candidate Rev. C .C. Warner, presented a statement of faith under the title, The Fundamentals of Christianity. We can give a synopsis of the paper but it lacks the force and vividness of the fuller statement.

Fundamentals of Christianity

I. Fundamentals of Faith.

1. First in my view is the Bible. I hold it in holy reverence. First lessons were learned in childhood at family worship. I believe it today as bringing humanity "religious truth without admixture of religious error." Its authority is by virtue of inspiration by the Holy Spirit. The same Spirit is needful today to inspire the reader.

Problems of the Higher Critic do not disturb. All views arising thence must be held reverently and taught in a way that will not disturb the faith of such as may not be informed in the modern researches.

2. Second fundamental in Faith is Deity. The doctrine of the Trinity is heartily accepted tho not possible of full explanation. The Divinity of Christ and His complete Humanity are held and freely taught. The Holy Spirit, God with us in this dispensation of grace, is held to be the Divine One abiding with believers and the church applying redemption to human souls and perfecting Christian character thru sanctification, and making conquest of the world as God with His Word and Work today.

3. Third fundamental of Faith is Man. He is a free moral agent. He came to be thru Divine Creation thru no matter what natural or material development. He is immortal as to his spiritual nature.

4. Fourth fundamental of Faith is Sin. Man knows it. He has universally tried to expiate his guilt. His whole being is cursed by its fatal influence.

5. Final fundamental of Faith is Redemption. "For God so loved the world that he gave his begotten Son, etc." Man has never been able to redeem himself. Christ died because his death was necessary in order to provide a way of salvation for sinners.

II. Fundamentals in Experience.

1. Conversion is first. It is the manward side of the application of redemption. It may date from merest childhood so that the person has no knowledge of a time when he did not love Christ or it may be like that of the Prodigal.

2. Spiritual Growth. The birth from above is to be followed by a life also from above. It included advance in faith and obedience and love thru the use of the means of Christian grace.

III. Fundamentals in Experience.

1. Righteousness. A life of personal morality is required of the Christian. There must be a consistent exhibition of the spirit of Jesus. The fellowship of Christians should promote the organization of Society after the great commandments of the gospel—love to God and to one another.
